START

Microfilmed By:

NORTHEAST DOCUMENT CONSERVATION CENTER
Andover, MA 01810

July 1994

Camera Operator:
John Sullivan

MASTER NEGATIVE NUMBER: BSO-56-058

MICROFILMED
August 1993 - April 1994

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA SCRAPBOOK MICROFILMING PROJECT

Funded in part by

THE NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES

Grant No. PS-20709-93

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA MICROFILMING PROJECT

A Cooperative Project Between the Boston Symphony Orchestra Archives and the Boston Public Library (August 1993 - April 1994)

The Microfilming Project incorporates two collections of scrapbooks housed in two separate repositories. The first set of scrapbooks (80 volumes) resides within the Allen A. Brown Collection of the Boston Public Library (BPL) Music Department. Their call number is M.125.5. The second set of scrapbooks (132 volumes) resides within the Press Clippings collection of the Boston Symphony Orchestra (BSO) Archives. They have the designation Pres 56.

The BPL scrapbooks begin with the founding of the BSO in 1881 and continue, through 79 seasons, to 1960. Articles consist mainly of reviews and feature stories from Boston and New York newspapers. Occasionally, magazine articles and press releases are also included. The scrapbooks cover most aspects of the BSO.

The BSO scrapbooks run from 1889, the Orchestra's 9th season, to 1973. In addition to local reviews and features, the volumes contain articles culled from national and international publications. The scrapbooks document, in detail, all aspects of the BSO: The Symphony Orchestra (including subscription concerts, tours, and trips), the Boston Pops, the Tanglewood Festival, the Tanglewood Music Center, and Symphony Hall.

The two sets of scrapbooks have been filmed as two separate entities. Researchers wanting to look at specific seasons or subjects must examine both sets of films to ensure full coverage.

The scrapbooks do not represent the complete holdings of either location on the subject of the BSO.

Requests for positive microfilm copies of individual rolls, or of film sets, should be directed to the respective repository:

Music Department
Boston Public Library
Post Office Box 286
Boston, MA 02117

Boston Symphony Orchestra Archives
Symphony Hall
Boston, MA 02115

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA SCRAPBOOKS

1889 - 1973

132 VOLUMES

Source: Boston Symphony Orchestra Archives

FINDING AID

Boston Symphony Orchestra Scrapbooks (Series 56, Sub-Series 1)

Source: Press Office (Office of the Public Relations Director)

The BSO scrapbooks comprise part of one series in the BSO Archives. Series 56, Press Clippings, is divided by format into 3 sub-series: 1) Scrapbooks, 1889-1973 (132 volumes); 2) Loose Clippings, 1931-1991 (9 record cartons); and 3) Oversize Newspapers and Journals, 1919-1979 (1 oversize box). Each sub-series is arranged chronologically.

The scrapbooks contain concert notices and reviews, record reviews, and feature articles. Early scrapbooks may also contain programs, tickets, and subscription orders. Materials are organized by concert season into the following categories: BSO (including tours); Kneisel Quartet (and later Boston Symphony Chamber Players); Boston Pops (referred to in early years as Promenade concerts); and Tanglewood (including the Tanglewood Music Center, the Tanglewood Festival, Tanglewood-on-Parade, and the Fromm Festival of Contemporary Music).

Reviews and articles cover a wide range of subjects: Founder H.L. Higginson; BSO conductors, players, trustees, and other personnel; guest artists and composers; BSO and Pops performances and recordings; U.S. and overseas tours; BSO/Cecilia Society joint performances; open rehearsals; and special events connected to anniversary celebrations and fundraising.

Feature stories document changes in the size, composition, and location of the orchestra. Topics include the hiring of women and minorities; the unionization of players; controversies (such as the internment of conductor Karl Muck during World War II); the sale of the old Music Hall; and the construction of Symphony Hall and other structures (such as the Koussevitsky Music Shed at Tanglewood).

Reproductions of the materials in the collection may not be made without permission from the Boston Symphony Orchestra Archives.

GUIDE TO CONTENTS

Institution: BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Series Name: PRESS CLIPPINGS
Series Number: 56
Series Dates: 1889-1991

Sub-series Name: SCRAPBOOKS
Sub-series Number: 1
Sub-series Dates: 1889-1973

VOLUME LISTING

VOL	TITLE	DATES
1	BSO	1889-1890
2	BSO Kneisel Quartet	1890-1891
3	BSO	1891-1892
4	Promenade (Pops)	1892
5	BSO Kneisel Quartet	1892-1893
6	BSO Kneisel Quartet	1893-1894
7	BSO Kneisel Quartet	1894-1895
8	BSO	1895-1896
9	Promenade (Pops)	1895-1896
10	BSO	1896-1897
11	BSO	1897-1898
12	Promenade (Pops)	1897-1898
13	BSO	1898-1899
14	BSO	1899-1900
15	Pops	1899-1900
16	BSO	1900-1901
17	BSO	1901-1902
18	Pops	1901-1903
19	BSO	1902-1903
20	BSO	1903-1904
21	BSO	1904-1905
22	Pops	1904-1905
23	BSO	1905-1906
24	BSO	1906-1907
25	BSO	1907-1908
26	BSO	1908-1909
27	BSO Pops	1909-1910
28	BSO Pops	1910-1911
29	BSO Advertisements	1910-1911
30	BSO Pops	1911-1912
31	BSO Pops	1912-1913
32	BSO Pops	1913-1914
33	BSO Pops	1914-1915
34	BSO Pops	1915-1916
35	BSO Pops	1916-1917
36	BSO Pops	1917-1918
37	Karl Muck	1918
38	BSO Pops	1918-1919
39	BSO Pops	1919-1920
40	BSO Advertisements	1919-1920
41	BSO Pops	1920-1921
42	BSO Pops	1921-1922
43	BSO BSO Advertisements Pops Advertisements	1922-1923
44	BSO Pops	1922-1924
45	BSO Pops	1924
46	BSO BSO Advertisements Pops Advertisements	1924-1926
47	BSO Pops	1925-1926
48	BSO Advertisements Pops Advertisements	1926-1927
49	BSO Pops	1926-1928
50	BSO	1928
51	BSO Pops	1928-1929
52	BSO Pops U.S. Tour	1929-1930
53	BSO	1930-1931
54	BSO Pops	1931-1932
55	BSO Pops	1932-1933
56	BSO	1933-1934
57	BSO	1934-1935
58	BSO	1935-1936
59	BSO	1936-1937

VOL	TITLE	DATES
60	Pops
	Tanglewood	1936-1937
61	BSO	1937
62	BSO	1937-1938
63	Pops
	Tanglewood	1938
64	BSO	1938-1939
65	Pops
	Tanglewood	1939
66	BSO	1939-1940
67	Tanglewood	1939-1941
68	BSO
	Pops	1940
69	BSO	1940-1941
70	Tanglewood	1940-1944
71	BSO	1941-1942
72	BSO	1942-1943
73	BSO	1943-1944
74	BSO
	Pops
	Tanglewood	1944-1945
75	BSO
	Pops
	Tanglewood	1945-1946
76	BSO
	Pops
	Tanglewood	1946-1947
77	Tanglewood	1947-1948
78	BSO	1947-1949
79	Tanglewood	1949-1950
80	BSO	1949-1951
81	Tanglewood	1950-1951
82	BSO
	Pops	1951-1952
83	BSO
	Pops	1952-1953
84	Tanglewood	1952-1953
85	BSO	1953-1955
86	Tanglewood	1953-1954
87	Tanglewood	1954-1955
88	BSO
	Pops	1955-1956
89	Tanglewood	1955-1956
90	Tanglewood	1955-1956
91	European Tour	1956
92	European Tour	1956-1957
93	BSO
	Pops	1956-1957
94	Tanglewood	1957
95	BSO	1957-1958
96	BSO
	Pops	1958-1959
97	BSO	1958-1959
98	Tanglewood	1958-1959
99	Tanglewood	1959
100	BSO
	Pops	1959-1960
101	Tanglewood	1959-1960
102	Far Eastern Tour	1959-1960
103	BSO
	Pops	1960-1961
104	Tanglewood	1961
105	BSO
	Pops	1961-1962
106	Tanglewood	1962
107	BSO
	Pops	1962-1963
108	Tanglewood	1963
109	BSO
	Pops	1963-1964
110	Tanglewood	1963-1964
111	BSO
	Pops	1964-1966
112	Tanglewood	1965
113	BSO 85th Anniversary	1965
114	BSO
	Pops	1965-1966
115	Tanglewood	1966
116	BSO
	Pops	1966-1967
117	Tanglewood	1967
118	BSO
	Pops	1967-1968
119	Tanglewood	1968-1969
120	BSO
	Pops	1968-1969
121	Tanglewood	1969
122	BSO
	Pops	1969-1970
123	Tanglewood	1970
124	BSO
	Pops	1970-1971
125	Tanglewood	1971
126	BSO
	Pops	1971-1972
127	European Tour	1970-1971
128	European Tour	1971
129	Tanglewood	1972
130	BSO
	Pops	1972-1973
131	Tanglewood	1973
132	BSO
	Pops	1973-1974

MATERIALS NOT FILMED

SUB-SERIES NUMBER	SUB-SERIES NAME	SUB-SERIES DATES
2	Loose Clippings	1931-1991
3	Oversize Newspapers and Journals	1919-1979

COPYRIGHT STATEMENT

The copyright law of the Unites States - Title 17, United States Code - concerns the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or other reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copy order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of the copy-right law.

TECHNICAL DATA

IMAGE PLACEMENT: (IA) IB IIA IIB

REDUCTION RATIO: 14X

FILM STOCK:

REEL 58

Volume 94

Tanglewood

1957

PM-MGP 13″x18″
METRIC GENERAL PURPOSE TARGET
PHOTOGRAPHIC

200 mm

150 mm

100 mm

A3

A4

A5

1.0 mm

1.5 mm

2.0 mm

2.5 mm

1.0

1.1

1.25

1.4

1.6

1.8

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

PRECISION℠ RESOLUTION TARGETS

Century

A&P

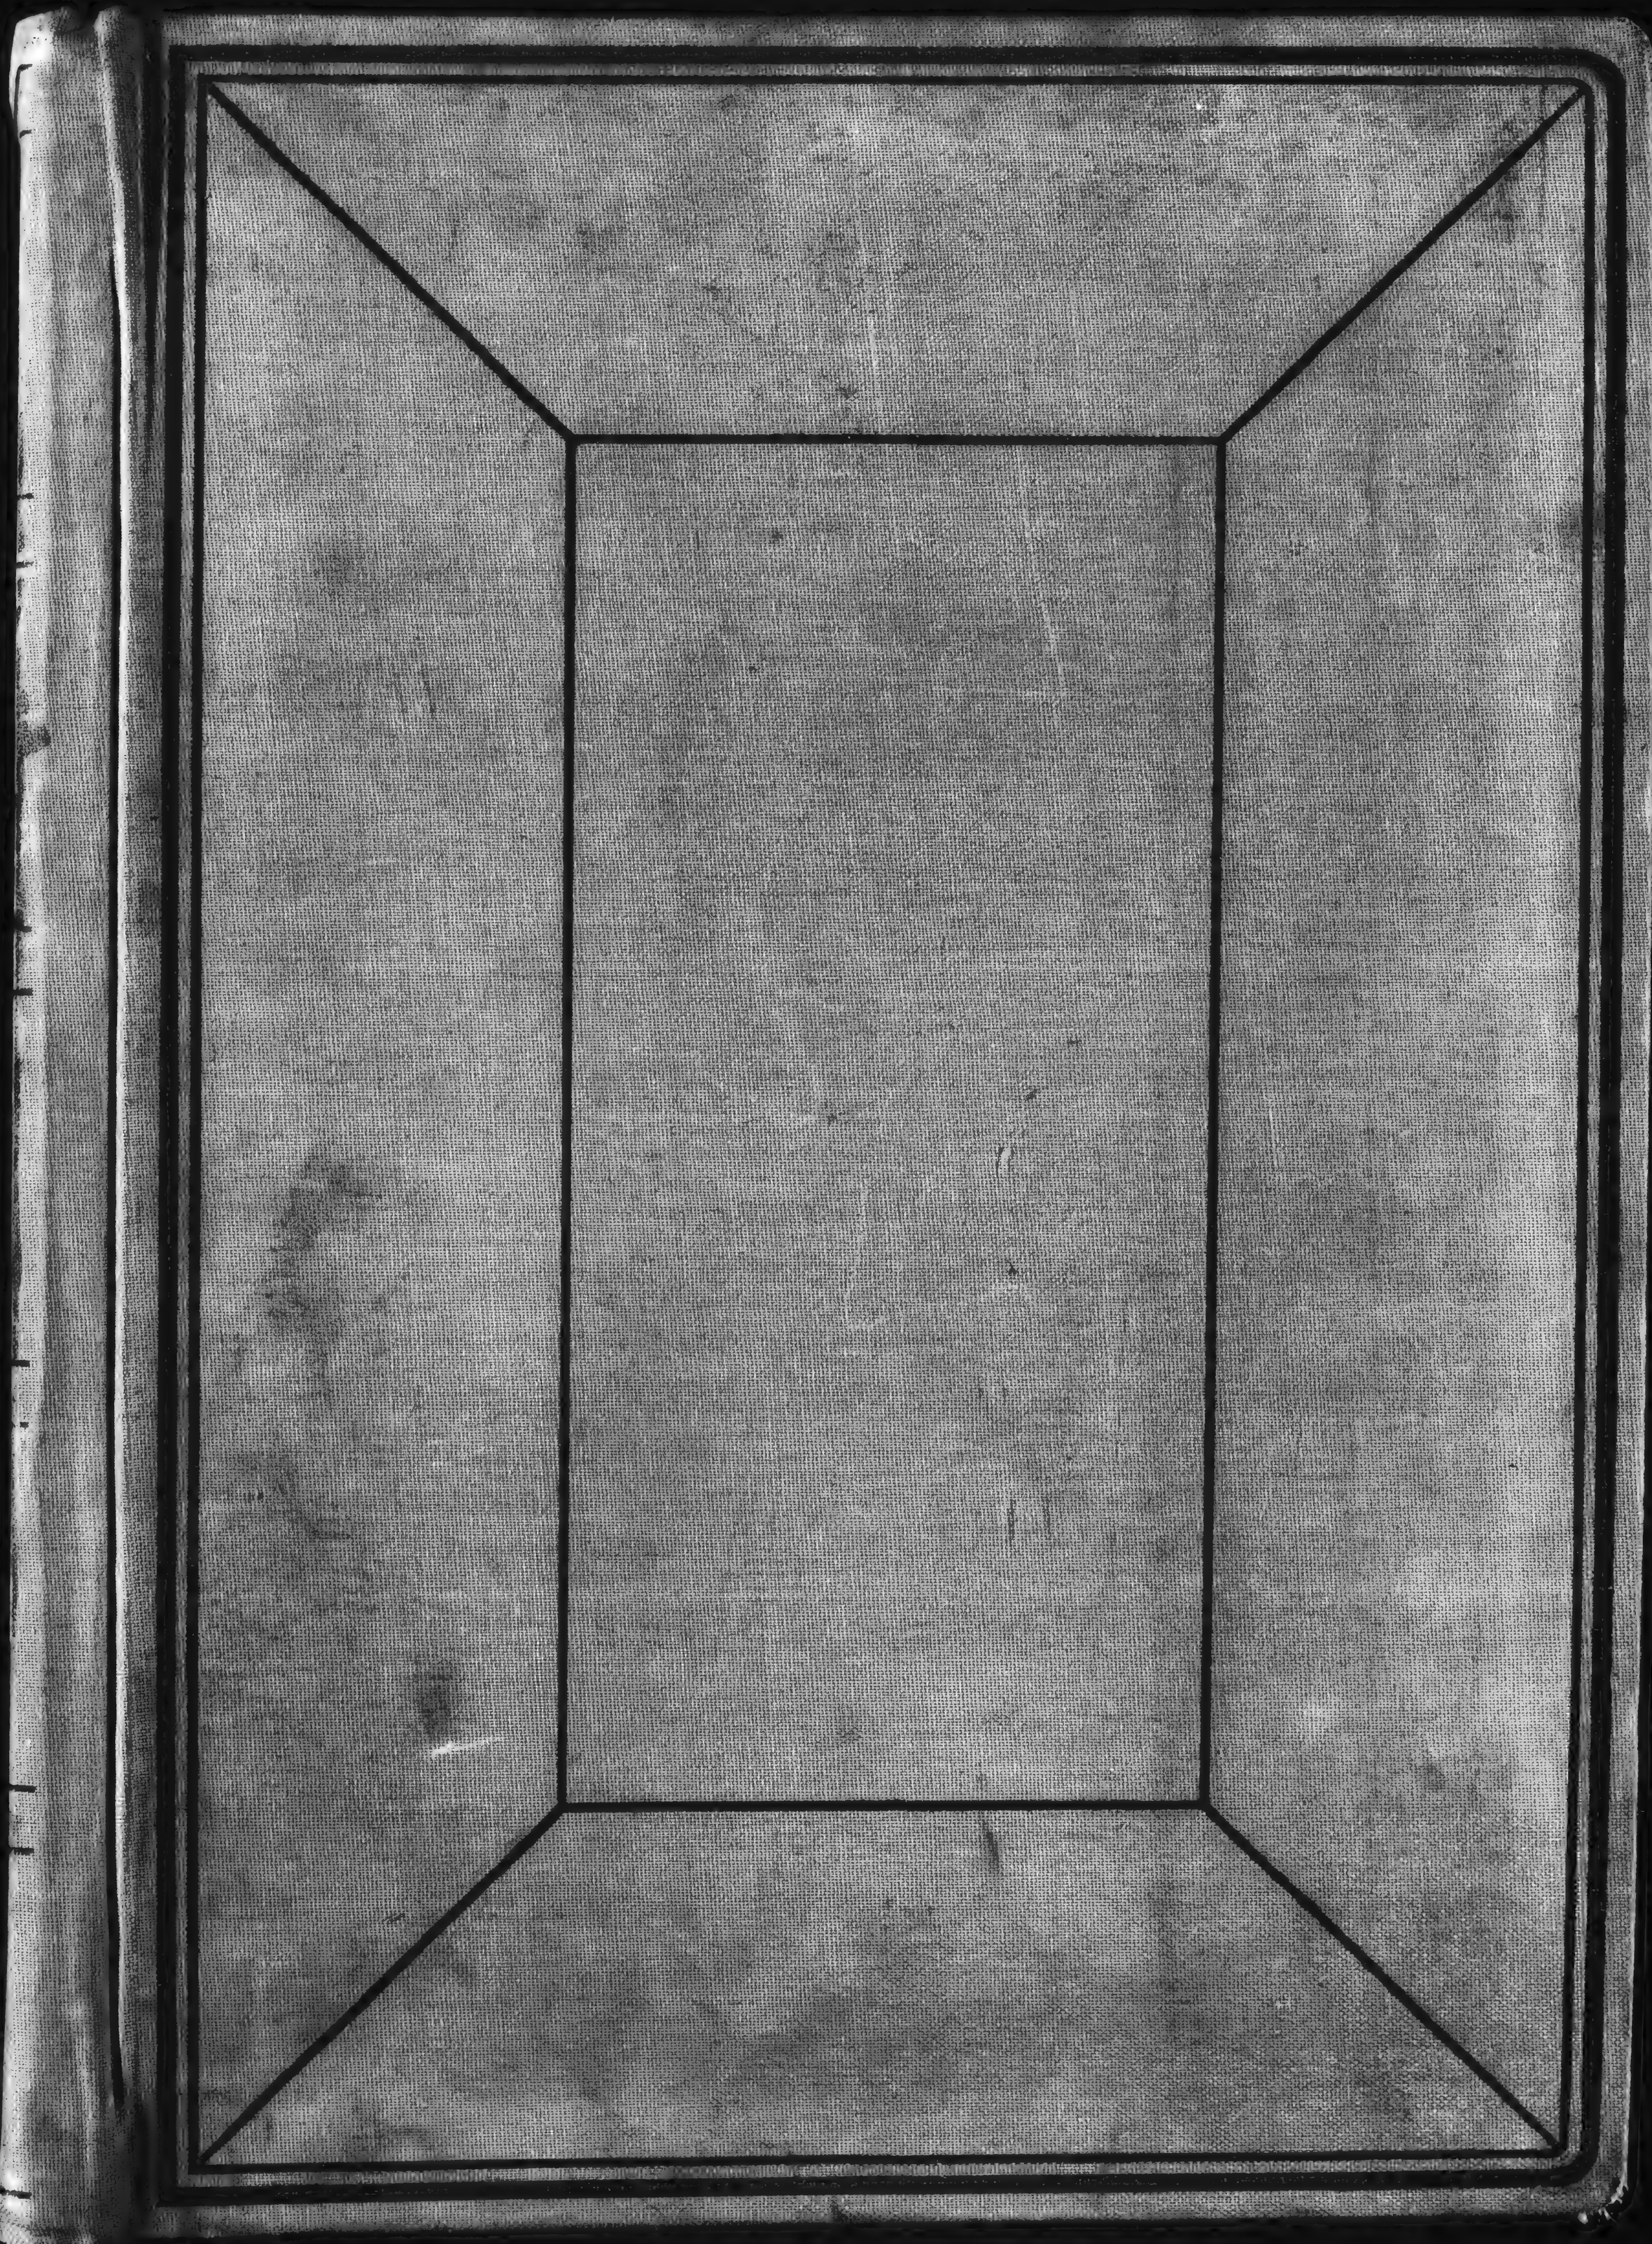
1303 Geneva Avenue
St. Paul, MN 55119

MULTIPLE EXPOSURES DUE TO COLOR VARIATIONS AND OVERLAPPING MATERIAL

VOLUME 94

Tanglewood

1957



BLANK PAGE

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 12,928

FEB 18 1957

Berkshire Festival Plans Announced

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend — Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature — the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7 - July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

FEB 23 1957

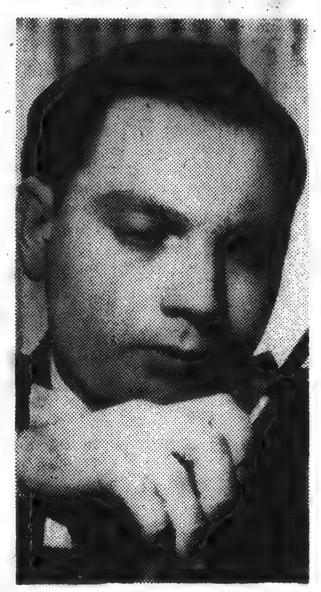
Stern To Perform With BSO In Three Tanglewood Concerts

Berkshire Festival Opens July 3 for Six Weeks—Dr. Munch To Feature Works Of Great Composers Each Weekend

BOSTON—Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announced plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival season at Tanglewood which will include the appearance at three concerts of Isaac Stern, the American violinist, who will be heard in performances of works by Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

The concerts will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with performances each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Munch this season will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend: Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. He will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends.



Isaac Stern

Schuricht, Monteux Coming

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two Bach-Mozart weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductors next summer, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The first two weekend concerts —July 5, 6 and 7 and July 12, 13 and 14—will be given by the small orchestra in the Theatre Concert Hall. The first weekend will be all Bach and the second all Mozart. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4); and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11.)

A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 and Aug. 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer each of the Festival weekends will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts, Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suits and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor and C major "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and guest conductor Mr. Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The weekend of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern.

Ninth Symphony

Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven weekend. The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Dr. Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Dr. Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Guest Conductors

Mr. Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts, spans a generation of the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Dr. Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Mr. Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on Aug. 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Mr. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 253,604

FEB 24 1957

Plans for Summer Berkshire Festival

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week ends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature —the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7—July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2 3 4), and Beethoven (August 9 10 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

[2]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 93,908

FEB 23 1957

1957 SEASON PROGRAM FOR TANGLEWOOD

Isaac Stern, Pierre Monteux to Have Featured Roles

Boston, Feb. 23 — Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each week end, Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week ends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

PIERRE MONTEUX

Festival Dates

The 20th season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the theater-concert hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the theater-concert hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings, July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, Aug. 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival week ends will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Bradenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The week end of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms, two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven week end (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

Violin Concertos by Isaac Stern

Charles Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics, the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Guest Conductors

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second week ends of Shed concerts, July 20 and 28, spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on Aug. 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Mr. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 104,780

FEB 24 1957

Music

Special Programs Planned For Berkshire Festival

By RAYMOND MORIN,
Telegram Music Critic

Programs for the 1957 Berkshire Festival indicate that an effort has been made to appease and oblige last summer's unfriendly New York press.

Chief criticisms were that too much familiar music was played—that there were too many repetitions —of the previous winter concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra—and there were too many works that could have been heard at home on phonograph recordings.

That would eliminate a large part of the repertory with box-office value.

In announcing plans for the fourth coming festival, Charles Munch, conducter of the Boston Symphony, emphasizes three things.

Special Prominence

He will give special prominence to the music of one great composer each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Munch will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends. He has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

The 20th season of the Berkshire at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

Small Orchestra

Concerts for small orchestra will be in the Theater-Concert Hall the first two weekends (July 5, 6, 7—July 12, 13, 14) consisting of all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

Concerts by the full orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on Six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, and August 7.

Guest conducters will be Pierre Monteux (July 20 and 28), and Carl Schuricht, touring conducter of the Vienna Philharmonic (Aug. 4 and 10).

Youth Orchestra

The Worcester Youth Orchestra, Harry Levenson, conductor, will present the second annual Holen Music Festival at Wachusett Regional High School, Friday evening, March 15, at 8 p. m.

Sponsor is the Chaffins Parent-Teacher Association, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Jollin as co-chairmen.

Included on the program is the first movement of Haydn's C major Symphony, Prelude and Fugue in D minor by Bach, themes from "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Korsakoff, "Acceleration Waltz" by Strauss, and "Ballet Egyptien" by Luigini. The orchestra will repeat this program at its annual Worcester concert, Monday evening, March 18th, in the Little Theater.

Rapt Attention

Much is written about teenagers' antics at "rock 'n' roll" concerts. None of its could hold a candle to the reaction of three young people at Dame Myra Hess' recital last Sunday in Symphony Hall, Boston.

One little girl about 10 years old had a stage seat which she didn't use. She stood and stared at the pianist during the entire program . . . appeared to be completely "sent."

A young fellow in his teens had his eyes closed through most of it. You might have thought that he was asleep it he didn't nearly jump out of his skin when a wrong note was played.

Another young fellow, very studious looking in horn-rimmed glasses, was just the opposite. He was the demonstrative type.

During a Bach Suite he kept his hands clenched. In Beethoven's "Appassionata Sonata, he flexed his fingers, hummed melodies, and wiped away a couple of tears. The routine for Schumann's "Symphonic Studies" was to count out loud, conduct, lean forward, and applaud as if the home team had just won the deciding game.

Boston Festival

Details will be given later, but it's announced that the sixth annual Boston Arts Festival will blossom among the flowerbeds of the Public Garden from June 14 to 29.

Last year, over 600,000 came to digest the spectacle. The program is two-fold: exhibitions open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., daily, and stage performances nightly at 8:30. Include will be drama, dance, poetry opera, and concerts, featurin nationally known figures.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

New York Times
Sun. Feb 24, 1957

THE

LENOX FETE LISTS MUSIC PROGRAMS

20th Season of the Boston Orchestra at Tanglewood Set for July 3 to Aug. 11

Charles Munch will lead the Boston Symphony Orchestra in its twentieth season of Berkshire Festival Concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox Mass., between July 3 and Aug. 11.

Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors for the festival, each leading two concerts.

Isaac Stern, violinist, will make an extended visit to Tanglewood and will appear as soloist with Dr. Munch and the orchestra at three concerts.

The six festival week-ends will feature in turn the music of Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. All-Bach and all-Mozart programs will be played on the week-ends of July 5-7 and July 12-14 by a small orchestra under Dr. Munch's direction. Other programs will be played by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Monteux will lead one concert during the Tchaikovsky week-end, July 19-21, and another during the Berlioz week-end, July 26-28.

Mr. Schuricht will lead one of the Brahms programs, Aug. 2-4, and one concert of the final Beethoven week-end, Aug. 9-11.

A series of chamber music concerts will be presented in the Theatre-Concert Hall on six Wednesday evenings, July 3 through Aug. 7.

Mr. Monteux, conductor of the Boston Symphony from 1919 to 1924, and a frequent guest conductor since then, will be making his sixth visit to Tanglewood. Mr. Schuricht earlier this season toured the United States as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,372
FEB 24 1957

Extended Tanglewood Visit Arranged for Isaac Stern

Noted Violinist to Appear in Three Concertos Next Summer; Contemporary Music On Shed Programs; Carl Schuricht, Guest Conductor

Boston, Feb. 23 — Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each week end—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week ends.

Stern Soloist

Also, he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature, the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

ISAAC STERN

The 20th season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart, respectively.

The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings, July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, Aug. 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the festival week ends will give festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed.

The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross. Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist.

Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet."

Brahms Week End

The week end of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the variations on a theme of Haydn, the "Tragic" overture and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven week end (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

The festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Dr. Munch of Beethoven's ninth symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Stern will be soloist in the violin concerto.

Schuricht is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. He has conducted the chief orchestras in many European countries and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the festival office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 184,978
FEB 28 1957

Plans for Berkshire Festival

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, places emphasis on three things.

He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend . . . Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature . . . the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Pawtuxet Valley
Times (e)
W. WARWICK, R. I.
Non-Partisan
Circ. 7,655
FEB 26 1957

Boston Symphony Will Perform at Tanglewood

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Bershire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend —Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct al the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Festival Dates

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berliocz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2,3,4), and Beethoven (August 9, 19, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,357
FEB 27 1957

1957 Tanglewood Festival To Follow Familiar Pattern

The 1957 Berkshire Music festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, will follow the pattern established in recent years, of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons of six successive weekends, plus a series of chamber music concerts on six Wednesday evenings.

Opens July 3

The season will open with a chamber music concert on Wednesday, July 3, and will end on Aug. 11. The first and second week-end series, on July 5, 6 and 7 and July 12, 13 and 14, will be given by small orchestras in the theater-concert hall. The other four series of week-end concerts will be presented by the full Boston Symphony orchestra in the vast Tanglewood music shed.

Isaac Stern, American violinist, will be guest soloist at three of the concerts. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, will be assisted by two guest conductors, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

With Dr. Munch conducting, the first series of week-end concerts, starting July 5, will be devoted to the works of Bach, and the second to Mozart's music. In the music shed concerts the following week-ends, special prominence will be given to the works of Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz and Brahms, but music of contemporary interest will be performed each week-end. Mr. Monteux and Mr. Schuricht will each conduct two of the concerts in the larger series while Dr. Munch will conduct eight of them.

Important Works

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the festival week-ends will give festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers.

During his all-Bach concerts, Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Mathew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the music shed. The Mozart concerts will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor and C major "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the music shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Tchaikovsky Music

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and guest conductor Mr. Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the "Fantastic" symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The week-end of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern.

Beethoven Series

Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven week-end. The festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Dr. Munch of Beethoven's Ninth symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the violin concerto.

Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the orchestra at the Edinburgh festival in August, 1955, when he played the Beethoven concerto with Dr. Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4206
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
FEB 28 1957

Music Festival Set for July 3-Aug. 11

Marks 20th Anniversary of Tanglewood Concerts

Director Charles Munch Will Feature Work of Different Composers on Each of Six Week-ends.—Contemporary Music Will Get Attention.—Isaac Stern Is Guest.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each week-end—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Brahms, Berlioz and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week-ends. He has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week-ends, and two concerts in each of the following week-ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week-ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall, July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14, will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky July 19, 20, and 21, Berlioz July 26, 27, and 28, Brahms August 2, 3, and 4, and Beethoven August 9, 10, and 11. A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings, July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, and August 7.

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival week-ends will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts, July 5, 6 and 7, Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suits and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed.

The Mozart concerts, July 12, 14, and 14, will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July

Festival Turn to fifth page

Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,372

FEB 24 1957

Extended Tanglewood Visit Arranged for Isaac Stern

Noted Violinist to Appear in Three Concertos Next Summer; Contemporary Music On Shed Programs; Carl Schuricht, Guest Conductor

Boston, Feb. 23 — Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each week end—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week ends.

Stern Soloist

Also, he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature, the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

ISAAC STERN

The 20th season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart, respectively.

The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings, July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, Aug. 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the festival week ends will give festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed.

The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross. Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist.

Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet."

Brahms Week End

The week end of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the variations on a theme of Haydn, the "Tragic" overture and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven week end (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

The festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Dr. Munch of Beethoven's ninth symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Stern will be soloist in the violin concerto.

Schuricht is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. He has conducted the chief orchestras in many European countries and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the festival office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 184,978

FEB 28 1957

Plans for Be

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, places emphasis on three things.

He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend . . . Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature w ary interest o four weekends;
American violi

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,357

FEB 27 1957

1957 Tanglewood Festival To Follow Familiar Pattern

The 1957 Berkshire Music festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, will follow the pattern established in recent years, of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons of six successive weekends, plus a series of chamber music concerts on six Wednesday evenings.

Opens July 3

The season will open with a chamber music concert on Wednesday, July 3, and will end on Aug. 11. The first and second week-end series, on July 5, 6 and 7 and July 12, 13 and 14, will be given by small orchestras in the theater-concert hall. The other four series of week-end concerts will be presented by the full Boston Symphony orchestra in the vast Tanglewood music shed.

Isaac Stern, American violinist, will be guest soloist at three of the concerts. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, will be assisted by two guest conductors, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

With Dr. Munch conducting, the first series of week-end concerts, starting July 5, will be devoted to the works of Bach, and the second to Mozart's music. In the music shed concerts the following weekends, special prominence will be given to the works of Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz and Brahms, but music of contemporary interest will be performed each week-end. Mr. Monteux and Mr. Schuricht will each conduct two of the concerts in the larger series while Dr. Munch will conduct eight of them.

Important Works

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the festival week-ends will give festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers.

During his all-Bach concerts, Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the music shed. The Mozart concerts will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor and C major "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the music shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Tchaikovsky Music

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and guest conductor Mr. Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the "Fantastic" symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The week-end of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern.

Beethoven Series

Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven week-end. The festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Dr. Munch of Beethoven's Ninth symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the violin concerto.

Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the orchestra at the Edinburgh festival in August, 1955, when he played the Beethoven concerto with Dr. Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Pawtuxet Valley
Times (e)
W. WARWICK, R. I.
Non-Partisan
Circ. 7,655

FEB 26 1957

Boston Symphony Will Perform at Tanglewood

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Bershire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend —Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct al the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Festival Dates

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berliocz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2,3,4), and Beethoven (August 9, 19, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

Festival

(Continued from first page)

19, 20, and 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series, July 26, 27, and 28, with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz.

On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The week-end of August 2, 3, and 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven week-end, August 9, 10, and 11. The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

Mr. Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second week-ends of Shed concerts, July 20 and 28, spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on August 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Mr. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

[4]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 874,544

FEB 24 1957

Berkshire Festival

Twentieth Season Begins July 3

Charles Munch, Music Directo of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two con certs in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

FESTIVAL DATES

The 20th season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21) Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 10, 17, 24, 31, Aug. 7.

FESTIVAL PROGRAMS

Dr. Munch plan to emphasize a special con ser on each of the Festival wee ds will give Festival audience an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz.

On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the "Fantastic Symphony," "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The weekend of Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one in the final Beethoven weekend (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. An other Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern, will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

VIOLIN CONCERTOS

Charles Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming Summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the Orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch.

GUEST CONDUCTORS

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts—July 20 and 28—spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming Summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concert on Aug. 4 and 10, is known t American music lovers throug his recordings and his tour in th country earlier in the season a conductor of the Vienna Philha monic. Mr. Schuricht has condu ted the chief orchestras in near every European country and many of the foremost festivals Europe.

Ticket information for all co certs of the Berkshire Festival Tanglewood is available from t Festival Office, Symphony Ha Boston 15, Mass.

THURSDAY

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 18
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREA
165 Church Street - New Y

MUSICAL AMERICA
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MAR 1957

Berkshire Festival Announces Plans

Boston.—Plans for the 20th season of concerts at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., and for the 15th season of the school at the Berkshire Music Center, have been announced.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, stated that special emphasis will be placed on the music of Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms, and Beethoven, with contemporary works to be played on each of the last four week-ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, and the violinist Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. The concert season will cover the six weeks from July 3 to Aug. 11.

Faculty Members

The Berkshire Music Center, which is under the direction of Mr. Munch and Aaron Copland — chairman of the faculty—will stress new developments in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky will again head the opera department, which will present this summer a four-week course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors, and stage directors, a turn from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Mr. Copland, will include, in addition to individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

Other faculty members will include Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony; William Kroll, founder of the Kroll Quartet; Hugh Ross, head of the choral department and choral [illegible] Ludwig Zirner, who will be in charge of the

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Journal
PROVIDENCE, R. I.
Independent
Circ. 181,704

MAR 3 1957

Pilgrim Male Chorus to E

SPONSORED by the Young Republican Group of Lincoln the Pilgrim Male Chorus of Warwick will give a program titled "Musical Moods" in Lincoln Junior High School Thursday at 8 p.m. The chorus has 30 members and is under the direction of Charles W. Eggert, a former student of Fred Waring.

George H. Low, head of the Gorton High School music department, is accompanist. Miss Lois E. Allen, soprano, of Woonsocket, will be soloist. The selections will include college, novelty and secular songs, Fred Waring arrangements of old favorites, English madrigals and a barbershop quartet.

A PROGRAM of contemporary music will be presented by the Mathewson Choir next Sunday at 7:30 p.m., in Fellowship Hall, 134 Mathewson St., under the direction of Beatrice Ward.

Assisting guest artists will be Luigi Vellucci, tenor of the N.B.C. Opera Company; Earl Hedberg, violist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Victor Buba, flutist of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra.

Also taking part will be the Mathewson Quartet, whose members are Mildred Lawton Coleman, soprano; Florence Cauldwell, contralto; James Fletcher, tenor, and Ray Gardiner, bass. Miss Shirley Wilkinson will be accompanist.

The program will include the Ernest Bloch awards by Herbert Fromm, compositions by Hugo Kauder, R. Vaughan Williams, Lukas Foss and Randall Thompson.

THE UNIVERSITY String Quartet will give a concert next Sunday at 8:30 p.m., in Alumnae Hall. It will be open to the public without charge.

Members of the quartet are Arlan R. Coolidge and Charles Dickerson, violins; Martin Fischer, viola, and Otto van Koppenhagen, cello. They will be assisted by William Dinneen, piano, and Edward McCabe, double bass, in a program of works by Haydn, Piston and Dvorak.

FAURE'S "The Requiem" will be sung by the Grace Church Choristers in Grace Church, next Sunday evening.

THE NEW ENGLAND Conservatory Chorus, a picked group of students at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, will make its first Rhode Island appearance at a concert of sacred music in the auditorium of the Congregational Church the evening of April 2.

Lorna Cooke de Varon, the conductor, is the daughter of the late Vernon W. Cooke, former minister of the Pawtucket Congregational Church for about 20 years.

She established the chorus in its present form in 1950.

The following year it was invited by Charles Munch to sing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in a performance of Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe." Since then it has sung with the symphony at least once each season, as well as its own Jordan Hall concerts and in tours of New England.

THE CHAPEL CHOIRS of Brown University and Pembroke College and the newly formed Choir Chorale of 50 mixed Brown and Pembroke voices will take part in the Ministry of Music Service at the Riverside Church, Riverside Drive, New York City, today at 5 p.m. Music at the service will be under the direction of William Dinneen, director of chapel music at Brown; Miss Joan Reinthaler, director of the Pembroke choir, and George Butler, Pembroke College organist.

FOR THE BERKSHIRE Festival's 20th season at Tanglewood (July 3 through Aug. 11), representative works of a single great composer will be given special prominence at each of the weekend concerts, according to plans announced by Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Starting off will be Bach concerts, July 5, 6, 7; Mozart, July 12, 13, 14; Tschaikowski, July 19, 20, 21; Berlioz, July 26, 27, 28; Brahms, Aug. 2, 3, 4; Beethoven, Aug. 9, 10, 11.

Isaac Stern has been invited to perform three classics of violin literature — the concertos of Tschaikowski, Brahms and Beethoven.

On the last four weekends there will be works of contemporary interest.

The Bach and Mozart programs, which are for small orchestra, will be held in the Theater-Concert Hall. The others, for full orchestra, will be in the Music Shed. In addition to the weekend series, chamber music concerts will be presented in the Theater-Concert Hall on six Wednesday evenings.

Assisting Munch will be Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht as guest conductors. Monteux will conduct on July 20 and 28, Schuricht on Aug. 4 and 10.

Ticket information for all concerts may be obtained from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

Burrel
ESTABLI
BArclay
PRESS CLIPPING B
165 Church Street - N

BALTIMORE, MD.
SUN (Evening)
Circ. D. 200,797

MAR 13 1957

Boston Symphony Summer Activities Are Varied

Each summer the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which comes to the Lyric on March 21, plays host to 130,000 visitors from the United States and foreign countries who attend the six-week Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood.

Located on a 200-acre estate in Western Massachusetts, the Festival features a combination of beautiful countryside and symphonic music in the semi-open Music Shed, which seats 6,000, as well as in the smaller Theater-Concert Hall.

The Festival was started by Serge Koussevitsky, who then directed the Boston Symphony and who four years later instituted the Berkshire Music Center.

400 Musicians Aided

During sessions held concurrently with the Festival, 400 young musicians each year work with members of the orchestra in orchestral, choral, operatic, and chamber phases of performance.

Another summer activity of the orchestra is its Pop Concerts which, under the direction of Arthur Fiedler, are held in Boston's Symphony Hall in May and June after the close of the regular concert season.

Toured Europe

Mr. Fiedler also conducts members of the orchestra in the Charles River Esplanade concerts during two weeks of July.

Following the symphony's summer season in Massachusetts last year, it made a six-week tour of Europe which included performances in Ireland, Scotland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, France and England.

Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony's concert here March 21 includes:

Symphony No. 4 ..... Beethoven
Daphnis et Chloe, Suite No. 2 .. Ravel
Intermission
Symphony No. 1 ..... Brahms

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 874,544
FEB 24 1957

Berkshire Festival

Twentieth Season Begins July 3

Charles Munch, Music Directo of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

FESTIVAL DATES

The 20th season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21) Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 10, 17, 24, 31, Aug. 7, 14.

FESTIVAL PROGRAMS

Dr. Munch plans to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival weekends. This will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz.

On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance [illegible] with chorus and soloists. Other programs will include the "Fantastic Symphony," "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The Brahms, Aug. 2, 3, 4, will contain the greatest works [illegible] symphonies, the [illegible] Theme of Haydn, [illegible]re and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl [illegible]nduct one concert [illegible]s well as one [illegible] weekend.

The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern, will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

VIOLIN CONCERTOS

Charles Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming Summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the Orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch.

GUEST CONDUCTORS

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts—July 20 and 28—spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming Summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concert on Aug. 4 and 10, is known t American music lovers throug his recordings and his tour in th country earlier in the season conductor of the Vienna Philha monic. Mr. Schuricht has conduc ted the chief orchestras in near every European country and many of the foremost festivals Europe.

Ticket information for all co certs of the Berkshire Festival Tanglewood is available from t Festival Office, Symphony Ha Boston 15, Mass.

Buxrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
MUSICAL AMERICA
NEW YORK, N. Y.
MAR 1957

Berkshire Festival Announces Plans

Boston.—Plans for the 20th season of concerts at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., and for the 15th season of the school at the Berkshire Music Center, have been announced.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, stated that special emphasis will be placed on the music of Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms, and Beethoven, with contemporary works to be played on each of the last four week-ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, and the violinist Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. The concert season will cover the six weeks from July 3 to Aug. 11.

Faculty Members

The Berkshire Music Center, which is under the direction of Mr. Munch and Aaron Copland — chairman of the faculty—will stress new developments in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky will again head the opera department, which will present this summer a four-week course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors, and stage directors, a turn from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Mr. Copland, will include, in addition to individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

Other faculty members will include Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony; William Kroll, founder of the Kroll Quartet; Hugh Ross, head of the choral department [illegible] Ludwig Zir[illegible], who [illegible] in charge of the

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Journal
PROVIDENCE, R. I.
Independent
Circ. 181,704
MAR 3 1957

Pilgrim Male Chorus to E

SPONSORED by the Young Republican Group of Lincoln the Pilgrim Male Chorus of Warwick will give a program titled "Musical Moods" in Lincoln Junior High School Thursday at 8 p.m. The chorus has 30 members and is under the direction of Charles W. Eggert, a former student of Fred Waring.

George H. Low, head of the Gorton High School music department, is accompanist. Miss Lois E. Allen, soprano, of Woonsocket, will be soloist. The selections will include college, novelty and secular songs, Fred Waring arrangements of old favorites, English madrigals and a barbershop quartet.

A PROGRAM of contemporary music will be presented by the Mathewson Choir next Sunday at 7:30 p.m., in Fellowship Hall, 134 Mathewson St., under the direction of Beatrice Ward.

Assisting guest artists will be Luigi Vellucci, tenor of the N.B.C. Opera Company; Earl Hedberg, violist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Victor Buba, flutist of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra.

Also taking part will be the Mathewson Quartet, whose members are Mildred Lawton Coleman, soprano; Florence Cauldwell, contralto; James Fletcher, tenor, and Ray Gardiner, bass. Miss Shirley Wilkinson will be accompanist.

The program will include the Ernest Bloch awards by [illegible] compositions

FAURE'S "The Requiem" will be sung by the Grace Church Choristers in Grace Church, next Sunday evening.

THE NEW ENGLAND Conservatory Chorus, a picked group of students at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, will make its first Rhode Island appearance at a concert of sacred music in the auditorium of the Congregational Church the evening of April 2.

Lorna Cooke de Varon, the conductor, is the daughter of the late Vernon W. Cooke, former minister of the Pawtucket Congregational Church for about 20 years.

She established the chorus in its present form in 1950.

The following year it was invited by Charles Munch to sing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in a performance of Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe." Since then it has sung with the symphony at least once each season, as well as its own Jordan Hall concerts and in tours of New England.

THE CHAPEL CHOIRS of Brown University and Pembroke College and the newly formed Choir Chorale of 50 mixed Brown and Pembroke voices will take part in the Ministry of Music Service at the Riverside Church, Riverside Drive, New York City, today at 5 p.m. Music at the service will be under the direction of William Dinneen, di[illegible]tor of chapel music at [illegible]n; Miss Joan Reinthaler, [illegible]tor of the Pembroke [illegible] and George Butler, [illegible]broke College organist.

[illegible]OR THE BERKSHIRE [illegible]ival's 20th season at [illegible]glewood (July 3 through [illegible]. 11), representative works [illegible] single great composer will [illegible] given special prominence [illegible] each of the weekend con[illegible]rts, according to plans an[illegible]unced by Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Starting off will be Bach concerts, July 5, 6, 7; Mozart, July 12, 13, 14; Tschaikowski, July 19, 20, 21; Berlioz, July 26, 27, 28; Brahms, Aug. 2, 3, 4; Beethoven, Aug. 9, 10, 11.

Isaac Stern has been invited to perform three classics of violin literature — the concertos of Tschaikowski, Brahms and Beethoven.

On the last four weekends there will be works of contemporary interest.

The Bach and Mozart programs, which are for small orchestra, will be held in the Theater-Concert Hall. The others, for full orchestra, will be in the Music Shed. In addition to the weekend series, chamber music concerts will be presented in the Theater-Concert Hall on six Wednesday evenings.

Assisting Munch will be Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht as guest conductors. Monteux will conduct on July 20 and 28, Schuricht on Aug. 4 and 10.

Ticket information for all concerts may be obtained from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

Buxrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
BALTIMORE, MD.
SUN (Evening)
Circ. D. 200,797
MAR 13 1957

Boston Symphony Summer Activities Are Varied

Each summer the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which comes to the Lyric on March 21, plays host to 130,000 visitors from the United States and foreign countries who attend the six-week Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood.

Located on a 200-acre estate in Western Massachusetts, the Festival features a combination of beautiful countryside and symphonic music in the semi-open Music Shed which seats 6,000, as well as in the smaller Theater-Concert Hall.

The Festival was started by Serge Koussevitsky, who then directed the Boston Symphony and who four years later instituted the Berkshire Music Center.

400 Musicians Aided

During sessions held concurrently with the Festival, 400 young musicians each year work with members of the orchestra in orchestral, choral, operatic, and chamber phases of performance.

Another summer activity of the orchestra is its Pop Concerts which, under the direction of Arthur Fiedler, are held in Boston's Symphony Hall in May and June after the close of the regular concert season.

Toured Europe

Mr. Fiedler also conducts members of the orchestra in the Charles River Esplanade concerts during two weeks of July.

Following the Symphony's summer season in Massachusetts last year, it made a six-week tour of Europe which included performances in Ireland, Scotland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, France and England.

Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony's concert here March 21 includes:

Symphony No. [illegible] ..... Beethoven
Daphnis et Chloé, Suite No. 2 ..... Ravel
Intermission
Symphony No. 1 ..... Brahms

DIVIDEND CHECKS for a
"SECOND INCOME" through INVESTMENTS

Chas. W. Scranton & Co.

Members New York Stock Exchange

209 CHURCH STREET
NEW HAVEN
MAin 4-0171

Bridgeport
Danbury
Waterbury
New London

Distinctive WEDDING GIFTS from EUROPE

- VENETIAN GLASSWARE
- ITALIAN LINENS
- SWEDISH CRYSTAL

IMPORTS EXCLUSIVE

233 Orange St. (near Elm)
MAin 4-4937

BLOSSOM SHOP
1080 CHAPEL STREET
Opp. Yale Art Gallery

WOOLSEY HALL PROGRAM
March 1957

BOSTON SYMPHONY
BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL
AT TANGLEWOOD

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend — Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature — the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Festival Dates

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7 - July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival weekends will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross. Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Con-

(Continued on Page 10)

. . The twentieth season ot Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood (the Boston Symphony's summer home) will take place from July 3 through Aug. 11. At the same time, the Berkshire Music Center will have its 15th session this summer, from July 1 to Aug. 11. Charles Munch will direct most of the Festival Concerts during the six week-ends, with Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht as guest conductors. The Music Center, consisting of five major departments, features department heads Boris Goldovsky, Aaron Copland, Hugh Ross, Ludwig Zirner, and the School's Director, Dr. Munch.

The Cleveland Orchestra visited New York, Feb. 12. Under the baton of George Szell, its regular conductor, the ensemble displayed a brilliance that must class it among the foremost orchestral groups today. The group was precise, alert and produced a warm, full sound. The program included Schumann's Symphony No. 2, Brahms' Violin Concerto with Henryk Szeryng as soloist, and the New York premiere of Martinu's "Three Frescoes after Piero della Francesca." Mr. Szell conducted the program with meticulous attention to detail, and it was a triumph for him, the orchestra and Cleveland.

NITES 'TIL 9
VE MORE on the BEST
Hi-Fidelity
mponents

(Continued from Page 8)

certo with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The weekend of August 2, 3, 4 will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms — two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven weekend (August 9, 10, 11). The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

Three Great Violin Concertos Performed by Isaac Stern

Charles Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics — the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the Orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Guest Conductors

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts — July 20 and 28 — spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on August 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recordings and tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Mr. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

The Home of

Hickey-Freeman Clothes

is one of the features of the

"JOHNSON LOOK"

. . The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood (the Boston Symphony's summer home) will take place from July 3 through Aug. 11. At the same time, the Berkshire Music Center will have its 15th session this summer, from July 1 to Aug. 11. Charles Munch will direct most of the Festival Concerts during the six week-ends, with Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht as guest conductors. The Music Center, consisting of five major departments, features department heads Boris Goldovsky, Aaron Copland, Hugh Ross, Ludwig Zirner, and the School's Director, Dr. Munch.

The Cleveland Orchestra visited New York, Feb. 12. Under the baton of George Szell, its regular conductor, the ensemble displayed a brilliance that must class it among the foremost orchestral groups today. The group was precise, alert and produced a warm, full sound. The program included Schumann's Symphony No. 2, Brahms' Violin Concerto with Henryk Szeryng as soloist, and the New York premiere of Martinu's "Three Frescoes after Piero della Francesca." Mr. Szell conducted the program with meticulous attention to detail, and it was a triumph for him, the orchestra and Cleveland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Christian Science
Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675

MAR 5 - 1957

[6]

Preparations for Tanglewood

Twentieth Berkshire Festival to Open July 3

In announcing the plans for the 20th Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, places emphasis on three things.

He will give special prominence to music of a great composer on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms, and Beethoven. He will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends. He has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms, and Beethoven.

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach - Mozart" weekends, and two concerts on each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The Berkshire Festival will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7, and July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

♪ ♪ ♪

The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, and Aug. 7.

During his Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites, and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed.

The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

♪ ♪ ♪

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and Violin Concerto.

Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the "Fantastic" Symphony, "Harold in Italy," and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet."

The weekend of Aug. 2, 3, 4 will contain works by Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the "Tragic" Overture, and the Violin Concerto. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven weekend (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

The festival will close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with Dr. Munch conducting a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the festival office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

BALTIMORE, MD.
NEWS-POST
Circ. D. 227,679

APR 22 1957

ART IN U. S. AND ABROAD

Season Marked by Music Festivals

By HELEN A. F. PENNIMAN

Taking advantage of a momentary lull in local events, we're seizing the chance to remind our customers of a few of the many music-drama-art festivals available, at home and abroad.

Nearest at hand is the program featuring the Jamestown - Yorktown - Williamsburg area, in connection with the 350th anniversary of the Jamestown colony, which began on April I, and will continue through November 30, with a most varied series of events. By the way, the English-Speaking Union will hold its National Council meeting next fall, in Williamsburg, and a large group of E-S U. notables will be on hand.

Many of our musical friends enjoy taking their holiday at the Berkshire Festival, a six-week event which runs from July 1 to mid-August, and for which early reservations are advisable. This project of the Boston Symphony is run in conjunction with the Berkshire School of Music, at Tanglewood, which has an impressive list of faculty members, and offers a superb group of prizes.

Of these, the largest is the famous Heifetz Prize of $1,000. While another goodly award is that offered by Mrs. Albert Spalding in memory of her husband—the Piatigorsky prize for a cellist—the Koussevitsky award for a promising conductor, and also the Gertrude Robinson Smith prize for similar work.

There are likewise prizes for composers in many styles, and scholarships, sponsored by many groups and federations.

AMONG THE earliest of the European festivals is the Norwegian, to run from May 24 to June 7, in Bergen, and, aside from the interesting and lovely country-side, features the work of its two patron saints in music and drama, Edward Grieg and Henrik Ibsen.

The fascinating land of Spain is inviting musical visitors this year, for its sixth international festival, to be held from June 24 to July 4, in Granada, and the locale transferred to the seaside resort of Santander, for July 27 to August 11.

Such Spanish notables as Jose Iturbi, Victoria de los Angeles and Andres Segovia will be heard in the gardens of the Alhambra.

The Santander programs will feature famous orchestras, including that founded by Eugene Ansermet, chamber music and ballet; the Barcelona ballet festival is running from April 26 till May 23; San Sebastian and Bilbao, on the north coast, will be active from August 11 till the 25th; with Seville carrying the banner from September 21 to October 7.

Throughout the summer, there will be weekly Chopin concerts on the island of Majorca, played from barges drifting across an underground lake!

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Citizen (e)
WINSTED, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 3,340

MAY 14 1957

Boston Symphony Summer Festival At Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, will open the orchestra's 1957 summer festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a weekend of Bach. There will be an all Bach concert by chamber orchestra Friday evening, July 5. Another the next evening, and a singing of the St. Matthew Passion Sunday afternoon.

The following weekend will be given over to concerts by the full Boston Symphony will be that of July 19, and it will feature works of two Russians, Peter Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Register
NEW HAVEN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 99,506

APR 28 1957

Berkshire Festival Plans Announced For 20th Season

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood Lenox, Mass., places emphasis on three things.

He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" week ends, and two concerts in each of the following week ends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Festival Dates

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7- July 12,13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahams (August 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival week ends will give Festival audiences an oportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet."

The week end of August 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Bethoven week end (August 9, 10, 11). The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

Three Violin Concertos

Charles Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second week ends of Shed concerts—July 20 and 28—spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on August 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

MAY 23 1957

Last Chance

All those who would like to sign up for the "Berkshire Nights' 'series of Friday night concerts at Tanglewood, are reminded that June 1 is the deadline for applications. The series runs for four consecutive Friday evenings beginning July 19. Checks should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc., and sent before June 1 to Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr. The Berkshire Nights, P. O. Box 1, Pittsfield, Massachusetts. For any further information anyone interested may call Mrs. Scoville Firuski in Lakeville.

the Rainbow Room overlooking Niagara, sight-seeing in the morning, noon train (through the Mohawk Valley, the Catskill Mountains and along the Hudson) to New York City, dinner in the diner, night at the air-conditioned Biltmore: (3) sight-seeing through upper and lower New York City and a cruise around Manhattan; (4) time for shopping, tickets to the Empire State Building observation roof, matinee performance of No Time for Sergeants, then to the Latin Quarter for dinner, dancing and entertainment: (5) early show at Radio City Music Hall, free afternoon and evening: (6) morning train to Philadelphia in time for the train to Washington, night at the Statler Hotel: (7) to Alexandria, Arlington, Mount Vernon, the White House and the Capitol, evening train and (8) back to Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis or wherever you began your tour.

A similar tour of 9 days' duration adds Fredericksburg, Richmond, Williamsburg, Hyde Park, West Point and Buffalo at slight additional cost.

New York City, 5 days, $51.50—American Express. Characteristic of many "city" packages, this one includes accommodation (Taft Hotel), several night-club dinners (Latin Quarter, Copacabana, Village Barn), Radio City Music Hall, a wide choice of sight-seeing and excursions. Add cost of transportation to and from New York, most of your meals.

The Covered Wagon, 36 days, $390—SITA. Here is an opportunity to see a big, beautiful segment of America for very little money and at the same time do your bit toward international understanding and good will. The tour is designed for foreign students residing or recently arrived in this country, but there are openings for a limited number of American college students between the ages of 19 and 25, who may serve as interpreters. The group travels by chartered bus and station wagon, stays in small hotels and Y's in cities, camps out in the West (Grand Teton, Yellowstone national parks; the Columbia River Gorge and Mount Hood; Sequoia; Zion, Bryce and Grand Canyon parks; the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest). You will also see with your foreign friends Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Flagstaff and other Western cities. With more time and money (49 days, $495) you can begin your trip in New York and see much of the East as well. [Continued on page 177]

It's fairs, folksings, square dances, rodeos, Indian ceremonials, flower fetes, commemorative pageants. It's international music and drama festivals (with Shakespeare the coast-to-coast star). It's dance festivals. It's Festival Summer U.S.A. from late April to late September. Puerto Rico hosts 80-year-old Pablo Casals with a Pablo Casals Festival, Apr. 22—May 8, specially devoted to Mozart, Schubert, Bach. About Shakespeare: at least 5 bardic festivals. Oldest: The Oregon Shakespearean Festival Assoc.'s 17th season, August, Ashland, Oregon. Shakespeare on an Elizabethan stage done with Elizabethan gusto. Most extensive repertoire: Shakespeare-under-the-Stars, Antioch Area Theatre, Yellow Springs, Ohio: Toledo Zoo Amphitheatre (late June to early September). In 5 years director Lithgow's produced all of Shakespeare's plays! Up in Ontario's Stratford (Canada): Siobhan McKenna's Viola; Christopher Plummer's Hamlet: the English Opera Group's Turn of the Screw (London's album magnificent): jazz, symphony concerts. Over in Conn.'s Stratford: American Shakespeare Festival (June 22—Aug. 4): Much Ado (Katharine Hepburn), Hamlet (Fritz Weaver), Othello (Earl Hyman, Alfred Drake). Also: Pro Musica Antiqua (Col. LP): an Elizabethan garden show: a Hamlet exhibit. Up in the Garden Theatre, Camden, Maine, it's Shakespeare for the 11th season (August). Tip: Most useful—A Shakespeare Companion (Funk and Wagnalls). Most famous U.S. music festival: the Berkshire—July to August, Tanglewood, Mass. Headman: Charles Munch, with his Boston Symphony Orchestra (RCA Victor). For Bach-lovers: Bach Festival, Bethlehem, Pa., May; Bach Festival, Carmel, Calif., July. Also in July, in Calif.: Laguna Beach Festival of Arts—tableaux vivants of great paintings. (If you can't go, stock up with Abrams' art books—especially Italian Miniatures, most beautiful art book.) Aaron Copland's conducting at Ojai, Calif., May 24—26. Jennie Tourel's featured at Aspen, Colo., late June—September. (Hear her, Col.) Glittering opera, theatre at Central City, Colo., late June—July. Stokowski is at the Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N.Y., starts Jul. 4, runs 5 weeks. Boston Arts Festival, Jul. 14—29, is bountifully free—no gift horse this but a genuine golden cornucopia of the arts. For dance buffs: Jacob's Pillow (Mass.) Silver Jubilee: American Dance Festival, New London, Conn. Latter's for moderns, former's for anyone dance-minded. Very, very special: New York is a Summer Festival. Lagniappe: In the Museum of Modern Art, a French Film Festival all summer long. Way into July the N.Y. City Ballet will be at the N.Y. City Center.... For detailed comprehensive on Festivals U.S.A.—Robert Meyer, Jr.'s indefatigable report, Festivals U.S.A. (Washburn). Best basic music companion: Tovey's The forms of Music (Meridian, $1.35). Hear: History of Music in Sound (RCA Victor).—L. L.

MADEMOISELLE April, 1957 145

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y.
TIMES-HERALD
Circ, D. 10,258

MAY 20 1957

Tanglewood Music Highlights Listed

If you are a lover of Bach or Mozart and don't mind driving more than a hundred miles or so to hear them played by a top-flight orchestra, the month of July will be a boon for you.

Charles Munch, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is opening the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., with a Bach weekend July 5, 6, and 7, and will follow with three days of Mozart the next weekend.

The musical ensemble for the two weekends will be a chamber orchestra to play a selected group from the two masters. To be featured in the Bach concert are such choices as the Brandenburg Concertos, and a part of the St. Matthew Passion.

Among the Mozart pieces will be the "Haffner" symphony, the composer's three great symphonies (E-flat, G minor and C major), and the Sinfonia Concerto.

Scheduled for the rest of the festival, which runs through August 11, is a program including works from Tchaikovsky, Stravinsky, Berlioz, Hindemith, Brahms and Beethoven.

During the course of the summer festival the podium will be shared by Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht, appearing as guest conductors.

Isaac Stern will be guest artist on August third under the baton of Mr. Munch.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Journal
WINDSOR LOCKS,
Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,650

MAY 23 1957

IN THE WORLD OF MUSIC

The school year is drawing to a close, and once again the traditional Memorial Day parade is approaching. The majorettes and school bands are looking forward to good weather and a fine performance. Usually the serious thoughts of the holiday are left to adults.

In regard to the young musicians, many of whom complain that during the winter season there is "too much to do, so I cannot practice," there is a good suggestion in regard to the summer time. Instead of asking mother or father what they can do to pass the time, the player or the singer should utilize the vacation for reviewing and advancing in his or her music studies. Many schools, such as those in West Hartford, combine a program of recreation with a summer music school. Perhaps in the near future such a venture in Windsor Locks may be looked forward to.

The Hartford School of Music announces competitive scolarship auditions for voice and advanced instrumentalists, to be held on Monday, June 10th, and Tuesday, June 11th. Applications may be made before Monday June 3rd.

In addition, children who have studied in the public or private school instrumental programs may audition for scholarship grants on Saturday, June 8th.

Everyone is invited to the Newport Jazz Festival over the Fourth of July holidays. Commencing on Thursday, July 4th, the programs will continue until July 7th. The following will be heard: Stan Kenton and band, Erro Garner trio, Louis Armstrong, Ella Fitzgerald, Dave Brubeck, Count Bassie and band, Roy Eldridge, Lionel Hampton, Dizzy Gillespie, Stan Getz, George Shearing, Jack Teagarden, Teddy Wilson and many other performers. This Festival is

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

News
WEST HARTFORD,
Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000

MAY 29 1957

Tanglewood Season Will Begin July 3; Programs Listed

This year's Tanglewood season, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will feature symphonic series of work by Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Along with Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Berkshire Festival music director, will be guest conductors Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux.

Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, playing the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 4, and Isaac Stern, doing the Beethoven Violin Concerto at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

The Festival Chorus and orchestra will do the Beethoven 9th Symphony at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Chamber music concerts will be held each Wednesday night.

The Bach series will be July 5-7; Mozart, July 12-14; Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, July 19-21; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven Aug. 9-11.

Tickets and information are available at Berkshire Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Phone Lenox 600.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Gazette
EAST HARTFORD
Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 4,725

MAY 30 1957

Tanglewood Season Will Begin July 3; Programs Listed

This year's Tanglewood season, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will feature symphonic series of work by Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Along with Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Berkshire Festival music director, will be guest conductors Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux.

Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, playing the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 4, and Isaac Stern, doing the Beethoven Violin Concerto at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

The Festival Chorus and orchestra will do the Beethoven 9th Symphony at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Chamber music concerts will be held each Wednesday night.

The Bach series will be July 5-7; Mozart, July 12-14; Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, July 19-21; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven Aug. 9-11.

Tickets and information are available at Berkshire Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Phone Lenox 600.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Herald (e)
NEW BRITAIN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 27,830

MAY 2[illegible] 1957

Tanglewood Program

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, will open the orchestra's 1957 summer festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a week end of Bach. There will be an all Bach concert by chamber orchestra Friday evening, July 5, another the next evening, and a singing of the St. Matthew Passion Sunday afternoon.

The following week end which will be given over to concerts by the full Boston Symphony will be that of July 19, and it will feature works of two Russians, Peter Tchaikovsky and Igor Strvinsky.

the Rainbow Room overlooking Niagara, sight-seeing in the morning, noon train (through the Mohawk Valley, the Catskill Mountains and along the Hudson) to New York City, dinner in the diner, night at the air-conditioned Biltmore; (3) sight-seeing through upper and lower New York City and a cruise around Manhattan; (4) time for shopping, tickets to the Empire State Building observation roof, matinee performance of No Time for Sergeants, then to the Latin Quarter for dinner, dancing and entertainment; (5) early show at Radio City Music Hall, free afternoon and evening; (6) morning train to Philadelphia in time for the train to Washington, night at the Statler Hotel; (7) to Alexandria, Arlington, Mount Vernon, the White House and the Capitol, evening train and (8) back to Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis or wherever you began your tour.

A similar tour of 9 days' duration adds Fredericksburg, Richmond, Williamsburg, Hyde Park, West Point and Buffalo at slight additional cost.

New York City, 5 days, $51.50—American Express. Characteristic of many "city" packages, this one includes accommodation (Taft Hotel), several night-club dinners (Latin Quarter, Copacabana, Village Barn), Radio City Music Hall, a wide choice of sight-seeing and excursions. Add cost of transportation to and from New York, most of your meals.

The Covered Wagon, 36 days, $390—SITA. Here is an opportunity to see a big, beautiful segment of America for very little money and at the same time do your bit toward international understanding and good will. The tour is designed for foreign students residing or recently arrived in this country, but there are openings for a limited number of American college students between the ages of 19 and 25, who may serve as interpreters. The group travels by chartered bus and station wagon, stays in small hotels and Y's in cities, camps out in the West (Grand Teton, Yellowstone national parks; the Columbia River Gorge and Mount Hood; Sequoia; Zion, Bryce and Grand Canyon parks; the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest). You will also see with your foreign friends Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Flagstaff and other Western cities. With more time and money (49 days, $490) you can begin your trip in New York and see the East as well. [Continued on page 177]

It's fairs, folksings, square dances, rodeos, Indian ceremonials, flower fetes, commemorative pageants. It's international music and drama festivals (with Shakespeare the coast-to-coast star). It's dance festivals. It's Festival Summer U.S.A. from late April to late September. Puerto Rico hosts 80-year-old Pablo Casals with a Pablo Casals Festival, Apr. 22—May 8, specially devoted to Mozart, Schubert, Bach. About Shakespeare: at least 5 bardic festivals. Oldest: The Oregon Shakespearean Festival Assoc.'s 17th season, August, Ashland, Oregon. Shakespeare on an Elizabethan stage done with Elizabethan gusto. Most extensive repertoire: Shakespeare-under-the-Stars, Antioch Area Theatre, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Toledo Zoo Amphitheatre (late June to early September). In 5 years director Lithgow's produced all of Shakespeare's plays! Up in Ontario's Stratford (Canada): Siobhan McKenna's Viola; Christopher Plummer's Hamlet; the English Opera Group's Turn of the Screw (London's album magnificent); jazz, symphony concerts. Over in Conn.'s Stratford: American Shakespeare Festival (June 22—Aug. 4): Much Ado (Katharine Hepburn), Hamlet (Fritz Weaver), Othello (Earl Hyman, Alfred Drake). Also: Pro Musica Antiqua (Col. LP); an Elizabethan garden show: a Hamlet exhibit. Up in the Garden Theatre, Camden, Maine, it's Shakespeare for the 11th season (August). Tip: Most useful—A Shakespeare Companion (Funk and Wagnalls). Most famous U.S. music festival: the Berkshire—July to August, Tanglewood, Mass. Headman: Charles Munch, with his Boston Symphony Orchestra (RCA Victor). For Bach-lovers: Bach Festival, Bethlehem, Pa., May; Bach Festival, Carmel, Calif., July. Also in July, in Calif.: Laguna Beach Festival of Arts—tableaux vivants of great paintings. (If you can't go, stock up with Abrams' art books—especially Italian Miniatures, most beautiful art book.) Aaron Copland's conducting at Ojai, Calif., May 24–26. Jennie Tourel's featured at Aspen, Colo., late June—September. (Hear her, Col.) Glittering opera, theatre at Central City, Colo., late June—July. Stokowski is at the Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N.Y., starts Jul. 4, runs 5 weeks. Boston Arts Festival, Jul. 14–29, is bountifully free—no gift horse this but a genuine golden cornucopia of the arts. For dance buffs: Jacob's Pillow (Mass.) Silver Jubilee; American Dance Festival, New London, Conn. Latter's for moderns, former's for anyone dance-minded. Very, very special: New York is a Summer Festival. Lagniappe: In the Museum of Modern Art, a French Film Festival all summer long. Way into July the N.Y. City Ballet will be at the N.Y. City Center.... For detailed comprehensive on Festivals U.S.A.—Robert Meyer, Jr.'s indefatigable report, Festivals U.S.A. (Washburn). Best basic music companion: Tovey's The forms of Music (Meridian, $1.35). Hear: History of Music in Sound (RCA Victor).—L. L.

MADEMOISELLE 145
April, 1957

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
MIDDLETOWN, N. Y.
TIMES-HERALD
Circ. D. 10,258
MAY 20 1957

Tanglewood Music Highlights Listed

If you are a lover of Bach or Mozart and don't mind driving more than a hundred miles or so to hear them played by a top-flight orchestra, the month of July will be a boon for you.

Charles Munch, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is opening the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., with a Bach weekend July 5, 6, and 7, and will follow with three days of Mozart the next weekend.

The musical ensemble for the two weekends will be a chamber orchestra to play a selected group from the two masters. To be featured in the Bach concert are such choices as the Brandenburg Concertos, and a part of the St. Matthew Passion.

Among the Mozart pieces will be the "Haffner" symphony, the composer's three great symphonies (E-flat, G minor and C major), and the Sinfonia Concerto.

Scheduled for the rest of the festival, which runs through August 11, is a program including works from Tchaikovsky, Stravinsky, Berlioz, Hindemith, Brahms and Beethoven.

During the course of the summer festival the podium will be shared by Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht, appearing as guest conductors.

Isaac Stern will be guest artist on August third under the baton of Mr. Munch.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Journal
WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,650
MAY 23 1957

IN THE WORLD OF MUSIC

The school year is drawing to a close, and once again the traditional Memorial Day parade is approaching. The majorettes and school bands are looking forward to good weather and a fine performance. Usually the serious thoughts of the holiday are left to adults.

In regard to the young musicians, many of whom complain that during the winter season there is "too much to do, so I cannot practice," there is a good suggestion in regard to the summer time. Instead of asking mother or father what they can do to pass the time, the player or the singer should utilize the vacation for reviewing and advancing in his or her music studies. Many schools, such as those in West Hartford, combine a program of recreation with a summer music school. Perhaps in the near future such a venture in Windsor Locks may be looked forward to.

The Hartford School of Music announces competitive scolarship auditions for voice and advanced instrumentalists, to be held on Monday, June 10th, and Tuesday, June 11th. Applications may be made before Monday June 3rd.

In addition, children who have studied in the public or private school instrumental programs may audition for scholarship grants on Saturday, June 8th.

Everyone is invited to the Newport Jazz Festival over the Fourth of July holidays. Commencing on Thursday, July 4th, the programs will continue until July 7th. The following will be heard: Stan Kenton and band, Erro Garner trio, Louis Armstrong, Ella Fitzgerald, Dave Brubeck, Count Bassie and band, Roy Eldridge, Lionel Hampton, Dizzy Gillespie, Stan Getz, George Shearing, Jack Teagarden, Teddy Wilson and many other

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News
WEST HARTFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000
MAY 29 1957

Tanglewood Season Will Begin July 3; Programs Listed

This year's Tanglewood season, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will feature symphonic series of work by Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Along with Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Berkshire Festival music director, will be guest conductors Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux.

Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, playing the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 4, and Isaac Stern, doing the Beethoven Violin Concerto at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

The Festival Chorus and orchestra will do the Beethoven 9th Symphony at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Chamber music concerts will be held each Wednesday night.

The Bach series will be July 5-7; Mozart, July 12-14; Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, July 19-21; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven Aug. 9-11.

Tickets and information are available at Berkshire Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Phone Lenox 600.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Gazette
EAST HARTFORD Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 4,725
MAY 30 1957

Tanglewood Season Will Begin July 3; Programs Listed

This year's Tanglewood season, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will feature symphonic series of work by Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Along with Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Berkshire Festival music director, will be guest conductors Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux.

Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, playing the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 4, and Isaac Stern, doing the Beethoven Violin Concerto at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

The Festival Chorus and orchestra will do the Beethoven 9th Symphony at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Chamber music concerts will be held each Wednesday night.

The Bach series will be July 5-7; Mozart, July 12-14; Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, July 19-21; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven Aug. 9-11.

Tickets and information are available at Berkshire Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Phone Lenox 600.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Herald (e)
NEW BRITAIN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 27,830
MAY 2[illegible] 1957

Tanglewood Program

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, will open the orchestra's 1957 summer festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a week end of Bach. There will be an all Bach concert by chamber orchestra Friday evening, July 5, another the next evening, and a singing of the St. Matthew Passion Sunday afternoon.

The following week end which will be given over to concerts by the full Boston Symphony will be that of July 19, and it will feature works of two Russians, Peter Tchaikovsky and Igor Strvinsky.

the Rainbow Room overlooking Niagara, sight-seeing in the morning, noon train (through the Mohawk Valley, the Catskill Mountains and along the Hudson) to New York City, dinner in the diner, night at the air-conditioned Biltmore: (3) sight-seeing through upper and lower New York City and a cruise around Manhattan; (4) time for shopping, tickets to the Empire State Building observation roof, matinee performance of No Time for Sergeants, then to the Latin Quarter for dinner, dancing and entertainment: (5) early show at Radio City Music Hall, free afternoon and evening: (6) morning train to Philadelphia in time for the train to Washington, night at the Statler Hotel: (7) to Alexandria, Arlington, Mount Vernon, the White House and the Capitol, evening train and (8) back to Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis or wherever you began your tour.

A similar tour of 9 days' duration adds Fredericksburg, Richmond, Williamsburg, Hyde Park, West Point and Buffalo at slight additional cost.

New York City, 5 days, $51.50—American Express. Characteristic of many "city" packages, this one includes accommodation (Taft Hotel), several night-club dinners (Latin Quarter, Copacabana, Village Barn), Radio City Music Hall, a wide choice of sight-seeing and excursions. Add cost of transportation to and from New York, most of your meals.

The Covered Wagon, 36 days, $390—SITA. Here is an opportunity to see a big, beautiful segment of America for very little money and at the same time do your bit toward international understanding and good will. The tour is designed for foreign students residing or recently arrived in this country, but there are openings for a limited number of American college students between the ages of 19 and 25, who may serve as interpreters. The group travels by chartered bus and station wagon, stays in small hotels and Y's in cities, camps out in the West (Grand Teton, Yellowstone national parks; the Columbia River Gorge and Mount Hood; Sequoia; Zion, Bryce and Grand Canyon parks; the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest). You will also see with your foreign friends Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Flagstaff and other Western cities. With more time and money (49 days, $490) you can begin your trip in New York and see much of the East as well. [Continued on page 177]

FESTIVAL SUMMER FESTIVAL SUMMER FESTIVAL SUMMER FESTIVAL

It's fairs, folksings, square dances, rodeos, Indian ceremonials, flower fetes, commemorative pageants. It's international music and drama festivals (with Shakespeare the coast-to-coast star). It's dance festivals. It's Festival Summer U.S.A. from late April to late September. Puerto Rico hosts 80-year-old Pablo Casals with a Pablo Casals Festival, Apr. 22—May 8, specially devoted to Mozart, Schubert, Bach. About Shakespeare: at least 5 bardic festivals. Oldest: The Oregon Shakespearean Festival Assoc.'s 17th season, August, Ashland, Oregon. Shakespeare on an Elizabethan stage done with Elizabethan gusto. Most extensive repertoire: Shakespeare-under-the-Stars, Antioch Area Theatre, Yellow Springs, Ohio: Toledo Zoo Amphitheatre (late June to early September). In 5 years director Lithgow's produced all of Shakespeare's plays! Up in Ontario's Stratford (Canada): Siobhan McKenna's Viola; Christopher Plummer's Hamlet: the English Opera Group's Turn of the Screw (London's album magnificent): jazz, symphony concerts. Over in Conn.'s Stratford: American Shakespeare Festival (June 22—Aug. 4): Much Ado (Katharine Hepburn), Hamlet (Fritz Weaver), Othello (Earl Hyman, Alfred Drake). Also: Pro Musica Antiqua (Col. LP): an Elizabethan garden show: a Hamlet exhibit. Up in the Garden Theatre, Camden, Maine, it's Shakespeare for the 11th season (August). Tip: Most useful—A Shakespeare Companion (Funk and Wagnalls). Most famous U.S. music festival: the Berkshire—July to August, Tanglewood, Mass. Headman: Charles Munch, with his Boston Symphony Orchestra (RCA Victor). For Bach-lovers: Bach Festival, Bethlehem, Pa., May; Bach Festival, Carmel, Calif., July. Also in July, in Calif.: Laguna Beach Festival of Arts—tableaux vivants of great paintings. (If you can't go, stock up with Abrams' art books—especially Italian Miniatures, most beautiful art book.) Aaron Copland's conducting at Ojai, Calif., May 24—26. Jennie Tourel's featured at Aspen, Colo., late June—September. (Hear her, Col.) Glittering opera, theatre at Central City, Colo., late June—July. Stokowski is at the Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N.Y., starts Jul. 4, runs 5 weeks. Boston Arts Festival, Jul. 14—29, is bountifully free—no gift horse this but a genuine golden cornucopia of the arts. For dance buffs: Jacob's Pillow (Mass.) Silver Jubilee: American Dance Festival, New London, Conn. Latter's for moderns, former's for anyone dance-minded. Very, very special: New York is a Summer Festival. Lagniappe: In the Museum of Modern Art, a French Film Festival all summer long. Way into July the N.Y. City Ballet will be at the N.Y. City Center.... For detailed comprehensive on Festivals U.S.A.—Robert Meyer, Jr.'s indefatigable report, Festivals U.S.A. (Washburn). Best basic music companion: Tovey's The forms of Music (Meridian, $1.35). Hear: History of Music in Sound (RCA Victor).—L. L.

Buttrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
MIDDLETOWN, N. Y.
TIMES-HERALD
Circ, D. 10,258
MAY 20 1957

Tanglewood Music Highlights Listed

If you are a lover of Bach or Mozart and don't mind driving more than a hundred miles or so to hear them played by a top-flight orchestra, the month of July will be a boon for you.

Charles Munch, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is opening the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., with a Bach weekend July 5, 6, and 7, and will follow with three days of Mozart the next weekend.

The musical ensemble for the two weekends will be a chamber orchestra to play a selected group from the two masters. To be featured in the Bach concert are such choices as the Brandenburg Concertos, and a part of the St. Matthew Passion.

Among the Mozart pieces will be the "Haffner" symphony, the composer's three great symphonies (E-flat, G minor and C major), and the Sinfonia Concerto.

Scheduled for the rest of the festival, which runs through August 11, is a program including works from Tchaikovsky, Stravinsky, Berlioz, Hindemith, Brahms and Beethoven.

During the course of the summer festival the podium will be shared by Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht, appearing as guest conductors.

Isaac Stern will be guest artist on August third under the baton of Mr. Munch.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Journal
WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,650
MAY 23 1957

IN THE WORLD OF MUSIC

The school year is drawing to a close, and once again the traditional Memorial Day parade is approaching. The majorettes and school bands are looking forward to good weather and a fine performance. Usually the serious thoughts of the holiday are left to adults.

In regard to the young musicians, many of whom complain that during the winter season there is "too much to do, so I cannot practice," there is a good suggestion in regard to the summer time. Instead of asking mother or father what they can do to pass the time, the player or the singer should utilize the vacation for reviewing and advancing in his or her music studies. Many schools, such as those in West Hartford, combine a program of recreation with a summer music school. Perhaps in the near future such a venture in Windsor Locks may be looked forward to.

The Hartford School of Music announces competitive scolarship auditions for voice and advanced instrumentalists, to be held on Monday, June 10th, and Tuesday, June 11th. Applications may be made before Monday June 3rd.

In addition, children who have studied in the public or private school instrumental programs may audition for scholarship grants on Saturday, June 8th.

Everyone is invited to the Newport Jazz Festival over the Fourth of July holidays. Commencing on Thursday, July 4th, the programs will continue until July 7th. The following will be heard: Stan Kenton and band, Erro Garner trio, Louis Armstrong, Ella Fitzgerald, Dave Brubeck, Count Bassie and band, Roy Eldridge, Lionel Hampton, Dizzy Gillespie, Stan Getz, George Shearing, Jack Teagarden, Teddy Wilson and many other performers. This Festival is based upon real jazz, which requires a great deal of musical imagination and technique as a performer. It does not seem that one could stay through four or five days of such performances, but there are many who just "love to listen" to this type of jazz for hours. One could argue from now until eternity that the jazz style is meant for dancing mainly and not for continuous listening; for the chronic listener this would make no impression, since such jazz addicts use the recordings for all sorts of backgrounds in adiition to dancing.

The Berkshire Music Festival, with Charles Munch and the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will commence their season of summer concerts on July 3rd, at Tanglewood. This is situated in Lenox, Mass., amid wonderful rural surroundings. It is worth the battle with traffic, and the prices for food in the vicinity, to hear this great orchestra.

Speaking of summer musical programs, twenty states have announced such undertakings, as well as Stratford and Montreal in Canada. Massachusetts is represented by the aforementioned Berkshire Festival, as well as the Music Barn jazz and folk-song programs from June 30 to Sept. 1. Connecticut has the programs at Falls Village, New Haven, Norfolk and Stratford.—Jacob Teller, Music Supervisor, Windsor Locks Public Schools.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News
WEST HARTFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000
MAY 29 1957

Tanglewood Season Will Begin July 3; Programs Listed

This year's Tanglewood season, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will feature symphonic series of work by Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Along with Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Berkshire Festival music director, will be guest conductors Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux.

Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, playing the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 4, and Isaac Stern, doing the Beethoven Violin Concerto at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

The Festival Chorus and orchestra will do the Beethoven 9th Symphony at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Chamber music concerts will be held each Wednesday night.

The Bach series will be July 5-7; Mozart, July 12-14; Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, July 19-21; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven Aug. 9-11.

Tickets and information are available at Berkshire Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Phone Lenox 600.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Gazette
EAST HARTFORD
Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 4,725
MAY 30 1957

Tanglewood Season Will Begin July 3; Programs Listed

This year's Tanglewood season, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will feature symphonic series of work by Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Along with Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Berkshire Festival music director, will be guest conductors Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux.

Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, playing the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 4, and Isaac Stern, doing the Beethoven Violin Concerto at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

The Festival Chorus and orchestra will do the Beethoven 9th Symphony at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Chamber music concerts will be held each Wednesday night.

The Bach series will be July 5-7; Mozart, July 12-14; Tschaikovsky and Stravinsky, July 19-21; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven Aug. 9-11.

Tickets and information are available at Berkshire Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Phone Lenox 600.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Herald (e)
NEW BRITAIN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 27,830
MAY 22 1957

Tanglewood Program

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, will open the orchestra's 1957 summer festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a week end of Bach. There will be an all Bach concert by chamber orchestra Friday evening, July 5, another the next evening, and a singing of the St. Matthew Passion Sunday afternoon.

The following week end which will be given over to concerts by the full Boston Symphony will be that of July 19, and it will feature works of two Russians, Peter Tchaikovsky and Igor Strvinsky.

INFORMATION OBSCURED

[Y]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
ST. LOUIS, MO.
POST-DISPATCH
Circ. D. 388,894 - S. 467,021
MAY 5 1957

...rals Dot U. S.

...AND ART

...VER Sunday, April 21, 1957 5-B

...ov- ...os- ...ge ...unt ...ra- ...an ...m- ...in ...he ...by ...di- ...he ...It ...c. ...vill ...v o ...a- ...n, ...r- ...ll

...consist of four evening concerts on the four Sundays of May, will be directed by Richard Bales.

At the 11th annual Ojai Festival in Ojai, Calif. (May 24 to 26), Aaron Copland will lead two orchestral concerts and play the piano in a chamber music program. Over the same weekend Baldwin-Wallace College will give its 25th annual Bach Festival in Berea, Ohio.

Igor Stravinsky will be 75 years old on June 17 and the Aspen Music Festival, which will open nine days after his birthday, will honor him through the 10 weeks of their season.

Another festival of high interest is the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico. The festival opens in San Juan on April 22 and continues through May 8. Distinguished artists include Milton Katims, Jesus Maria Sanroma, Rudolf Serkin, Eugene Istomin, Isaac Stern, Gerard Souzay who appeared with the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra several seasons ago, Joseph Szigeti, Maria Stader.

Other major festivals in this country are the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood with the Boston Symphony, running from July 4 to August 11; the Carmel Bach Festival in Carmel, Calif., running during July.

In our own area, there is the Brevard Music Festival each summer, with James Christian Pfohl as its director. Concerts will be given each Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons from June 20 through August 4. The festival proper opens on August 9, and will feature such stars as Lois Marshall, Isaac Stern, Jerome Hines, Grant Johannesen.

I would like to leave one thought with you, and that is — we should have a festival here in Charlotte — a May Festival. What city in the country is more beautiful in May than Charlotte? We should not only be able to sell our own people on the idea, but should also attract others to visit this part of the country when it is at its height of beauty.

We now have auditorium facilities which are most adequate. I would like to propose that all the music groups join in one huge festival -- have an opera night, a symphony night, a large choral production — simply drawing together every available organization with talent.

Summer Music in U. S.

Now Rival European Festivals

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

THE SUMMER MUSIC festival has become a standard tourist attraction in Europe and each year some new community sets up an open air theater or bandstand and sends out folders to the travel agencies. Obviously the time has gone when the music loving tripper could make the grand circuit of the festival centers in two or three weeks. He can touch base at Salzburg, Bayreuth and Edinburgh easily enough but having been advised that great doings are afoot at Seife-im-Bad or Ecossais sur les Rochers he becomes fearful that he may be missing something.

Well, if he's an American and really wants to hear music, he can stay at home. In saying this I am not yielding to chauvinism. I am not urging anyone to see America first; I would not deprive the Italians of their American dollars or the French of the simple pleasure they get in snubbing Americans. I am merely leading up to the fact that the United States, also, is full of summer music of comparable quality to the European output.

IN MANY of the American music centers summer music has been going on for a long time and with no pretext of being a festival or anniversary celebration of Lorzing or Pfitzner. The Zoo Opera in Cincinnati, the Stadium concerts in New York, the Ravinia Park season outside Chicago, the Hollywood Bowl and Robin Hood Dell belong in this category. They are parts of the community life—as are the Municipal Opera and Little Symphony Concerts in St. Louis.

In general they are extensions of the winter activities; and they include practically every city in the country that sustains a major orchestra. Summer festivals have also become much more numerous, though the distinction between a festival and a standard summer season is often merely verbal. The Berkshire Festival, however, deserves any honorific term it chooses to adopt. Special events are undertaken and by artists and organizations of the first rank; the atmosphere is genuinely festive.

THE ASPEN Festival in the mountains of Colorado is not as ambitious but it has a distinction of its own. The programs are adventurous and the artists perform in an atmosphere somewhat similar to what prevails when they are playing for themsleves. The audiences include many other musicians' and students together with laymen who are there only because they like music.

What apparently has happened in the United States is similar to the developments in Europe. Communities that qualify as summer resorts have come to believe that their facilities are not complete unless they can offer something to the itinerant music lover. Other cities, unblessed by the splendors of nature, make music for their own people.

PUTTING ONE with the other one finds that more than 60 American communities are now staging festivals or offering yearly summertime seasons. This number does not include all the music camps or workshops—such as Interlochen in Michigan—and it does not take account of projects now in the making.

One hesitates to assess the cultural significance of this phenomenon. At the least it seems to indicate that music has become a necessary ingredient of leisure.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
MIRROR
Circ. D. 897,711 - S, 1,559,216
MAY 31 1957

ROBERT COLEMAN'S THEATRE

Minnie Lines Up 21 Lewisohn Soloists

THE BROADWAY ROUNDUP: The beloved Minnie Guggenheimer has signed 21 soloists for the 1957 series of Stadium Concerts. Those making bows this Summer will be Alexander Brailowsky, Jan Kiepura, Marta Eggerth, John Sebastian, Marais and Miranda, Moura Lympany, Ruth Slenczynska and Stanley Drucker. That's quite a line-up of newcomers to Lewisohn Stadium.

IT USED to cost $1,000 to $6,000 to mount an off-Broadway production. Now, it taps the experimentalists' till $8,000 to $14,000. Inflation has really hit the wonderful kids.

"THE Pajama Game" will be the topper at music tents this season. Abbott Van Nostrand—of Samuel French, Inc.—has yet to file his report on the legit champ for the strawhat circuit.

Abe Burrows, who's only written or staged such song-and-dancers as "Guys and Dolls," "Can-Can," and "Happy Hunting," is at work on two straight plays. Here's a happy Pagliacci bent on playing Hamlet.

CHARLES MUNCH has invited Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux to be guest conductors at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Mass.

NEW YORK POST June 4, 1957

WORDS and MUSIC

By Harriett Johnson

Berkshire Festival to Begin July 5

The Berkshire Festival, which opens its six-weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Friday night, July 5, will feature the works of a single composer at each series of three weekly events throughout the summer.

As in former seasons, concerts will take place each Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday at 2:30, with the Boston Symphony under the direction of Charles Munch as the official ensemble.

Programs for the initial two weeks will take place in the Theater Concert Hall seating approximately 1,200 with a reduced orchestra performing Bach the week-end of July 5 and Mozart the week-end of July 12. Beginning Friday, July 19, the full complement of the Boston Symphony takes over with Tchaikovsky highlighted as the composer. Compositions of Stravinsky, including the "Sacre de Printemps," will also be heard during these three days.

Berlioz July 26

The music of Hector Berlioz will be highlighted during the week-end of July 26, with "Harold in Italy," and the oratorio, "L'Enfance du Christ," included on the programs.

Brahms is the composer beginning Friday night, Aug. 2, and Beethoven, beginning Aug. 9. The Festival closes Sunday, Aug. 11, with Munch conducting Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Soloists during the season will include Isaac Stern playing the Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven Violin Concertos. Rudolf Serkin will play the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 in B Flat Major, Aug. 4, while Joseph de Pasquale will perform the solo viola portion of "Harold in Italy," July 26. Guest conductors will be Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Berkshire Festival Opens On July 3rd

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 103. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of champer proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven ,Aug. 9, 10, 11).

INFORMATION OBSCURED

[9]

Charlotte
N. C. observer
April 21, 1957

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
ST. LOUIS, MO.
POST-DISPATCH
Circ. D. 388,894 - S. 467,021
MAY 5 1957

rals Dot U. S. AND ART

VER Sunday, April 21, 1957 5-B

ov-
00-ge int ra-an min he by di-he

It
c. vill v o

an, r-ll

consist of four evening concerts on the four Sundays of May, will be directed by Richard Bales.

At the 11th annual Ojai Festival in Ojai, Calif. (May 24 to 26), Aaron Copland will lead two orchestral concerts and play the piano in a chamber music program. Over the same weekend Baldwin-Wallace College will give its 25th annual Bach Festival in Berea, Ohio.

Igor Stravinsky will be 75 years old on June 17 and the Aspen Music Festival, which will open nine days after his birthday, will honor him through the 10 weeks of their season.

Another festival of high interest is the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico. The festival opens in San Juan on April 22 and continues through May 8. Distinguished artists include Milton Katims, Jesus Maria Sanroma, Rudolf Serkin, Eugene Istomin, Isaac Stern, Gerard Souzay who appeared with the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra several seasons ago, Joseph Szigeti, Maria Stader.

Other major festivals in this country are the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood with the Boston Symphony, running from July 4 to August 11; the Carmel Bach Festival in Carmel, Calif., running during July.

In our own area, there is the Brevard Music Festival each summer, with James Christian Pfohl as its director. Concerts will be given each Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons from June 20 through August 4. The festival proper opens on August 9, and will feature such stars as Lois Marshall, Isaac Stern, Jerome Hines, Grant Johannesen.

I would like to leave one thought with you, and that is—we should have a festival here in Charlotte — a May Festival. What city in the country is more beautiful in May than Charlotte? We should not only be able to sell our own people on the idea, but should also attract others to visit this part of the country when it is at its height of beauty.

We now have auditorium facilities which are most adequate. I would like to propose that all the music groups join in one huge festival — have an opera night, a symphony night, a large choral producuon — simply drawing together every available organization with talent.

Summer Music in U. S.

Now Rival European Festivals

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

THE SUMMER MUSIC festival has become a standard tourist attraction in Europe and each year some new community sets up an open air theater or bandstand and sends out folders to the travel agencies. Obviously the time has gone when the music loving tripper could make the grand circuit of the festival centers in two or three weeks. He can touch base at Salzburg, Bayreuth and Edinburgh easily enough but having been advised that great doings are afoot at Seife-im-Bad or Ecossais sur les Rochers he becomes fearful that he may be missing something.

Well, if he's an American and really wants to hear music, he can stay at home. In saying this I am not yielding to chauvinism. I am not urging anyone to see America first: I would not deprive the Italians of their American dollars or the French of the simple pleasure they get in snubbing Americans. I am merely leading up to the fact that the United States, also, is full of summer music of comparable quality to the European output.

IN MANY of the American music centers summer music has been going on for a long time and with no pretext of being a festival or anniversary celebration of Lorzing or Pfitzner. The Zoo Opera in Cincinnati, the Stadium concerts in New York, the Ravinia Park season outside Chicago, the Hollywood Bowl and Robin Hood Dell belong in this category. They are parts of the community life—as are the Municipal Opera and Little Symphony Concerts in St. Louis.

In general they are extensions of the winter activities; and they include practically every city in the country that sustains a major orchestra. Summer festivals have also become much more numerous, though the distinction between a festival and a standard summer season is often merely verbal. The Berkshire Festival, however, deserves any honorific term it chooses to adopt. Special events are undertaken and by artists and organizations of the first rank; the atmosphere is genuinely festive.

THE ASPEN Festival in the mountains of Colorado is not as ambitious but it has a distinction of its own. The programs are adventurous and the artists perform in an atmosphere somewhat similar to what prevails when they are playing for themsleves. The audiences include many other musicians' and students together with laymen who are there only because they like music.

What apparently has happened in the United States is similar to the developments in Europe. Communities that qualify as summer resorts have come to believe that their facilities are not complete unless they can offer something to the itinerant music lover. Other cities, unblessed by the splendors of nature, make music for their own people.

PUTTING ONE with the other one finds that more than 60 American communities are now staging festivals or offering yearly summertime seasons. This number does not include all the music camps or workshops—such as Interlochen in Michigan—and it does not take account of projects now in the making.

One hesitates to assess the cultural significance of this phenomenon. At the least it seems to indicate that music has become a necessary ingredient of leisure.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
MIRROR
Circ. D. 897,711 - S. 1,559,216
MAY 3 1 1957

ROBERT COLEMAN'S THEATRE

Minnie Lines Up 21 Lewisohn Soloists

THE BROADWAY ROUNDUP: The beloved Minnie Guggenheimer has signed 21 soloists for the 1957 series of Stadium Concerts. Those making bows this Summer will be Alexander Brailowsky, Jan Kiepura, Marta Eggerth, John Sebastian, Marais and Miranda, Moura Lympany, Ruth Slenczynska and Stanley Drucker. That's quite a line-up of newcomers to Lewisohn Stadium.

IT USED to cost $1,000 to $6,000 to mount an off-Broadway production. Now, it taps the experimentalists' till $8,000 to $14,000. Inflation has really hit the wonderful kids.

"THE Pajama Game" will be the topper at music tents this season. Abbott Van Nostrand—of Samuel French, Inc.—has yet to file his report on the legit champ for the strawhat circuit.

Abe Burrows, who's only written or staged such song-and-dancers as "Guys and Dolls," "Can-Can," and "Happy Hunting," is at work on two straight plays. Here's a happy Pagliacci bent on playing Hamlet.

CHARLES MUNCH has invited Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux to be guest conductors at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Mass.

NEW YORK POST June 4, 1957

WORDS and MUSIC

By Harriett Johnson

Berkshire Festival to Begin July 5

The Berkshire Festival, which opens its six-weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Friday night, July 5, will feature the works of a single composer at each series of three weekly events throughout the summer.

As in former seasons, concerts will take place each Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday at 2:30, with the Boston Symphony under the direction of Charles Munch as the official ensemble.

Programs for the initial two weeks will take place in the Theater Concert Hall seating approximately 1,200 with a reduced orchestra performing Bach the week-end of July 5 and Mozart the week-end of July 12. Beginning Friday, July 19, the full complement of the Boston Symphony takes over with Tchaikovsky highlighted as the composer. Compositions of Stravinsky, including the "Sacre de Printemps," will also be heard during these three days.

Berlioz July 26

The music of Hector Berlioz will be highlighted during the week-end of July 26, with "Harold in Italy," and the oratorio, "L'Enfance du Christ," included on the programs.

Brahms is the composer beginning Friday night, Aug. 2, and Beethoven, beginning Aug. 9. The Festival closes Sunday, Aug. 11, with Munch conducting Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Soloists during the season will include Isaac Stern playing the Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven Violin Concertos. Rudolf Serkin will play the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 in B Flat Major, Aug. 4, while Joseph de Pasquale will perform the solo viola portion of "Harold in Italy," July 26. Guest conductors will be Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Berkshire Festival Opens On July 3rd

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 103. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of champer proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven ,Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
BUFFALO, N. Y.
COURIER EXPRESS
Circ. D. 150,452 - S. 299,263
FEB 24 1957

[97]

In the Realm of Music—By Kenneth Gill

Berkshire Festival to Feature Great Composer Each Weekend

CROSS-COUNTRY — Berkshire Festival plans are announced this weekend and include the Boston Symphony Orchestra in its 20th season of concerts at Tanglewood, which opens July 3. Director Charles Munch will emphasize three things in the 1957 Berkshire edition.

Charles Munch

He will give special prominence to a great composer on each weekend — Bach, Mozart, Tschaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. Munch also intends to feature contemporary works of interest on the last four weekends. Finally, Isaac Stern has been invited to perform three great violin classics, the Concertos of Tschaikowsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two Bach-Mozart weekends and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be the guests for two concerts apiece in the larger series.

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
GREENSBORO, N. C.
NEWS
Circ. D. 81,644 - S. 91,416
FEB 25 1957

MUSIC NOTES

BY HENRY S. WOOTTON JR.

HARPSICHORD RECITAL: The School of Music of Greensboro College will present a harpsichord recital by Nancy Humphrey on Friday night, March 1, in Finch Memorial Chapel.

Mrs. Humphrey is a harpsichordist of extraordinary musical sensibilities. She is a serious and profound interpreter of Bach, having made a specialty of the study and performance of his music.

This benefit recital marks the establishment of a new prize that will be presented by the Piano Department of the School of Music. Proceeds from the recital will be used for this purpose.

The price of tickets is $1.50; students, 75 cents. Because of the small seating capacity, reservations must be limited. Tickets may be secured by mail order, or by contacting a member of the music faculty of Greensboro College. Mail orders should be sent to Seymour Fink, School of Music, Greensboro College.

* * *

DARNELL RECITAL: On Sunday afternoon, March 3, Robert Darnell, pianist, will present a recital at 4:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Music Building at Woman's College.

Darnell, a member of the School of Music faculty, will include in his program Mozart's "Sonata in C major, K. 330," Debussy's "Suite Bergamasque" and the Chopin "Fantasie in F minor, Op. 49." Also to be heard on the program will be a performance of the "Sonata (1953)" by Carl Alexius, also a member of the School of Music faculty. Other numbers on the program include a group by Brahms: "Capriccio, Op. 116, No. 3," "Intermezzo, Op. 117, No. 2" and the "Rhapsody, Op. 79, No. 1." The public is cordially invited.

* * *

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL PLANS: Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Issac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends.

The 20th season of concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks bekween July 3 and August 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week-ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach and all-Mozart, respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings—July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 and Aug. 7.

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. D. 206,408 - S. 279,780
FEB 24 1957

Berkshire Festival

CHARLES MUNCH, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
MILLERTON, N. Y.
NEWS-REPUBLICAN
Circ. W. 3,617
FEB 21 1957

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL PLANS ANNOUNCED

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend - Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature - the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
CHICAGO, ILL.
TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 907,570 - S. 1,428,916
FEB 24 1957

Tanglewood's 1957 Festival Plans Listed

Plans have been announced for the 1957 Berkshire festival at Tanglewood. The Boston Symphony orchestra will be under the direction of Charles Munch, its regular conductor, and two guests, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. The Massachusetts festival will span the six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week-ends of concerts for small orchestra will be all Bach and all Mozart, respectively.

Concerts by the full orchestra will feature works of Tschaikowsky, July 19 thru 21; Berlioz, July 26 thru 28; Brahms, Aug. 2 thru 4, and Beethoven, Aug. 9 thru 11. A series of chamber music concerts will be presented on six Wednesday evenings beginning July 3.

Isaac Stern, violinist, has been engaged for an extended visit. He will play the concertos of Tschaikowsky, Brahms, and Beethoven.

[10]

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
JACKSON, MICH.
CITIZEN-PATRIOT
Circ. D. 35,440 - S. 35,938
FEB 21 1957

The World of

By William J. Swa

Season Tickets Now Are Availa
U-M May Festival of Music May

Season tickets for the University of Michigan's May festival now are available, according to Dr. Charles A. Sink, president of the University Musical society. The festival will be held in Hill auditorium, as usual, May 2, 3, 4 and 5, and will include six concerts. Beginning March 11, all unsold season tickets will be broken up and placed on sale for individual concerts.

The Philadelphia orchestra will be heard at all six concerts, and famous soloists will appear throughout the festival. The University Choral Union, under guest conductor Thor Johnson, will present Verdi's "Aida" in concert form with a cast of distinguished soloists, and "Five Tudor Portraits" by the English composer Ralph Vaughan Williams.

The Festival Youth chorus, consisting of 400 youngsters from the Ann Arbor public schools, and conducted by Geneva Nelson, will perform "The Walrus and the Carpenter."

• • •

Correction

In all the advance publicity for the forthcoming concert of the Jackson Civic band, we have indicated that the concert would be in the high school. This is erroneous. The concert will be in the County Bldg. auditorium next Tuesday at 8 p. m. We regret the error and hope you will take note of the correct location of the concert—the County Bldg. auditorium.

• • •

The things that can happen to a symphony conductor or a choral director, for that matter, in getting a concert ready for presentation. It has its uncertainties right up to the final curtain call.

During the first number of the concert by the Jackson Symphony orchestra Wednesday night in the high school, Carl Shultz, concertmaster was taken suddenly ill and had to leave the stage. Running a symphony without a concertmaster is like running a baseball team without a catcher —no one to relay signals. Fortunately Emil Raab, conductor has them two deep in this position and shifted George Hacskaylo to the all-important post from the viola section.

Earlier one of the players from Ann Arbor, who was supposed to be picked up by one of two car loads of players coming over for the concert, was left stranded on a street ly enlist who tax other A brought only to offered to Ann arrived just bef catch to on the he was, a buck

And director society, program to mak soprano
"Requie soprano
let feve

The has m Ameri
tra le Jackso is affi $109,7 ceived found organi ductor latest league shop years, league
$57,90
in 19

The festiva near place tween concer day e noon.
rector, inence great Bach, lioz, I also tempo the la invite with chest violin of T
Beeth

Pierri Monteux and Carl Schuricht each will conduct two concerts. Mr. Munch will conduct the remainder.

Tanglewood '57

Summer Music-Making

camps and schools offer work and pleasure for musicians in attractive surroundings

Marion D. Ward

Students rehearse outdoors at Norfolk Music School

SUMMER, in another age, at least, used to be the time of "no more pencils, books, or teacher's looks", and a turn from the duties that the winter season meant. This was true even for some musicians; the late Walter Gieseking, for instance, looked to these months as a vacation from the keyboard and as a period to refresh himself through other experiences.

This spirit has hardly disappeared from the profession, but nowadays increasingly more musicians tend to combine pleasure with their work during these months. Many artists, for example, are on faculties of summer music institutes, and countless teachers or young musicians—in or just past the student stage—fill the camps, schools, and festivals that have sprung up on the summer scene. This has become a time for special and intensive study.

Norfolk School of Music

Of these many centers, the Norfolk School of Music of Yale University in Norfolk, Conn., is among the established ones. Headed by the pianist, Bruce Simonds — himself a faculty member at Yale—its tradition dates from the turn of the century, when the estate on which it now stands was made into concert grounds by the late Carl Stoeckel and his wife as a place where artists from the New York Philharmonic, the Metropolitan Opera, and other outstanding groups could come to give summer recitals in an informal atmosphere.

The death of Mr. Stoeckel in 1925 led to its development as a music center, staffed with musicians from various university faculties. Mr. Simonds headed the Norfolk School in 1941, starting with a handful of students who had the benefit of close personal attention from the faculty.

The same approach remains with the school today. The six-week term, which will run this year from June 20 to July 21, is enjoyed by a small student group which in the past has come from some 42 states as well as South America and Europe. There is equal interest in the amateur musician, who looks for an enjoyable musical summer, as there is in the more intense professional. The age group begins at the college level, and among faculty members are such distinguished musicians as Luigi Silva, Benjamin De Loache, and Helen and Howard Boatwright.

Norfolk stresses participation in ensemble-music performance, and a small orchestra and chorus work all season. A half-hour of choral singing each morning is followed by private lessons in strings, woodwinds, piano, organ, trumpet and horn, conducting, theory, and composition. Classes in vocal and piano technique and in musicianship are available, while lectures on art and literature, and informal evening activities—madrigal singing, square and country dancing, and the like—give wider scope to the program. Sports are available, and so are the advantages of Tanglewood, the local summer theatres, and other cultural activities in the busy Connecticut and Berkshire locale. Norfolk has its own concerts, too, each week, the final one of the season given by student talent.

Marlboro School of Music

Further north in New England, the Marlboro School of Music, which is part of the Marlboro Music Festival located in a mountaintop setting near the small town of Marlboro, is one of the most active music centers in summer Vermont. Under its artistic director Rudolf Serkin, who each year foregoes summer engagements for eight weeks to study and make music with distinguished colleagues, the festival has dedicated itself for close to a decade to stimulating the highest standards of ensemble-music performance.

An informal atmosphere sets the tone for a small group of 65 performers in strings, woodwinds, piano and voice. Scholarship aid is available for more than half of this number, many of whom are sought from among the younger members of professional orchestras. For them, as for the distinguished artists, Marlboro provides a respite among other things from the professional pressures of the winter season.

Among the innovations for the coming season, which will run from June 29 to Aug. 26, are two new courses. The first, designed for teachers of woodwind instruments, is called "Style and Tone in Woodwind Performance" and will be taught by Marcel Moyse, flutist and for 20 years professor at the Paris Conservatoire. The second, for singers interested in ensemble music with instruments, is called "Vocal Chamber Music" and is under the general supervision of Martial Singher, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Among other artists who will be teaching and performing at Marlboro this summer are Alexander Schneider, Blanche Honegger, Louise Moyse, Felix Galimir, Lotte Bamberger, Bjoern Andreasson, Claude Frank, Madeline Foley, and Herman Busch. They will be assisted by Myron Bloom and Richard Mackey, leading horn players, and Raymond Benner, bass player, all of the Cleveland Orchestra; Alfred Genovese, leading oboist of the St. Louis Symphony; and Harold Wright, first clarinettist of the National Symphony of Washington, D. C.

On the West Coast, one of the most interesting of summer centers is the Idyllwild Arts Foundation, whose program encompasses literature, art, and dance, as well as jazz, chamber music, orchestra, chorus, and music education. Interest here is as much in children and teen-agers as it is in adults, and professional or amateur status is of no matter as far as participation is concerned.

With workshops in these subjects stretching for several-week periods over the summer, the center will have some distinguished artists as lecturers, such as Merce Cunningham and Charles Weidman in the dance, Peter Seeger and Mirais and Miranda, folk-music artists, and others active in serious music.

Several new groups have entered the summer music field of late. Among them are the Fokine Ballet Summer Camp, in Great Barrington, Mass., whose season from July 1 to Aug. 26 will be under the supervision of the dancer Christine Fokine.

Encore—Music at Marblehead is another newcomer, run by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Saltman, musicians active in Boston. The ocean-front site 20 miles north of that city is the scene for study combined with sports, with students from seven to 18.

At the other end of Massachusetts, at Lenox, near Tanglewood, a most interesting innovation is being prepared for its first season. This is the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music

A NEW SERVICE FOR Concert Artists!
YOUR BROCHURE
MAILED TO CONCERT BUYERS COAST-TO-COAST
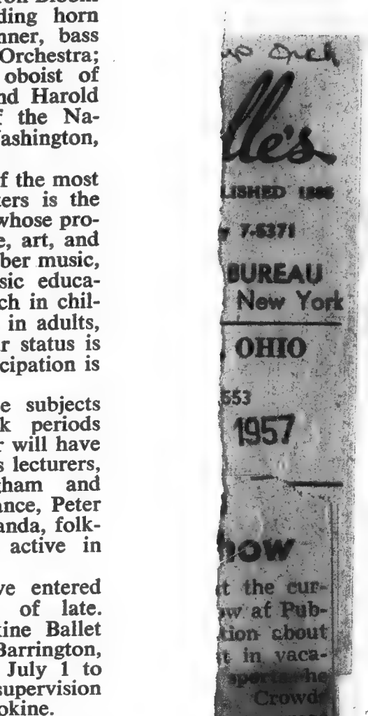
Latest Addresses of:
Orchestras • Opera Companies • Schools
Music Clubs • Impresarios • Etc.
Public Relations Correspondents
Concert Publicity Specialists
119 West 57th Street • New York 19
Telephone: COlumbus 5-2165

The schedule for six chamber music concerts will be announced later. All programs are subject to change.

The Tanglewood headquarters is located approximately 11 miles south of Route 20, approximately 30 miles east of Albany.

by two symphonies, the Haydn Variations, Tragic Overture and a violin concerto on Aug. 2, and 4. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will be played on the closing afternoon, Aug. 11, and another symphony and the violin concerto will be heard on the two preceding evenings. Information about tickets may be obtained from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Mr. Schuricht, who made his New York debut with the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra on Nov. 7, 1956, will appear at Tanglewood for the first time; Mr. Monteux' visit there will be his sixth.



p Dec
lle's
LISHED 1888
7-5371
BUREAU
New York
OHIO
553 1957 how t the curw af Pub-tion about t in vaca-Crowds e so great ossible for o get with-a travel nce to talk of several areas. That if a visitor moment.
lude those ermont, Michigan,
tion com-
City; the ario fish-mps, San-Erie Is-the New Visitors production ering com-ready for he best be selected among Atlantic
A new heliport built on he site of the recently razed
McFadden Deauville at Miami Beach . . . Drama and opera re having a comeback in Madrid Spain with re-opening of Zarzuela Theater, conversion of a movie house to a legiti-mate theater and, after 30 years, the opening of the Royal Opera.

1 [10]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
JACKSON, MICH.
CITIZEN-PATRIOT
Circ. D. 35,440 - S. 35,938
FEB 21 1957

The World of Music

By William J. Swank

Season Tickets Now Are Available for U-M May Festival of Music May 2-5

Season tickets for the University of Michigan's May festival now are available, according to Dr. Charles A. Sink, president of the University Musical society. The festival will be held in Hill auditorium, as usual, May 2, 3, 4 and 5, and will include six concerts. Beginning March 11, all unsold season tickets will be broken up and placed on sale for individual concerts.

The Philadelphia orchestra will be heard at all six concerts, and famous soloists will appear throughout the festival. The University Choral Union, under guest conductor Thor Johnson, will present Verdi's "Aida" in concert form with a cast of distinguished soloists, and "Five Tudor Portraits" by the English composer Ralph Vaughan Williams.

The Festival Youth chorus, consisting of 400 youngsters from the Ann Arbor public schools, and conducted by Geneva Nelson, will perform "The Walrus and the Carpenter."

* * *

Correction

In all the advance publicity for the forthcoming concert of the Jackson Civic band, we have indicated that the concert would be i n the high school. This is erroneous. The concert will be in the County Bldg. auditorium next Tuesday at 8 p. m. We regret the error and hope you will take note of the correct location of the concert—the County Bldg. auditorium.

* * *

The things that can happen to a symphony conductor or a choral director, for that matter, in getting a concert ready for presentation. It has its uncertainties right up to the final curtain call.

During the first number of the concert by the Jackson Symphony orchestra Wednesday night in the high school, Carl Shultz, concertmaster was taken suddenly ill and had to leave the stage. Running a symphony without a concertmaster is like running a baseball team without a catcher —no one to relay signals. Fortunately Emil Raab, conductor has them two deep in this position and shifted George Hacskaylo to the all-important post from the viola section.

Earlier one of the players from Ann Arbor, who was supposed to be picked up by one of two car loads of players coming over for the concert, was left stranded on a street corner in AA. She finally enlisted the aid of a relative who taxied her to Jackson. Another Ann Arbor player was brought to Jackson about 7:15 only to discover no music. Dad offered to drive all the way back to Ann Arbor for the music and arrived at the JHS auditorium just before 9 p. m. The Dog-House catch to this tale is that the gals on the door, not knowing who he was, made the gent fork over a buck admission fee! Oh, Van!

And too, MacWilliam Disbrow, director of the Jackson Choral society, which appeared on the program Wednesday night, had to make a last-minute switch in soprano soloists for the Faure "Requiem" when one of the sopranos was stricken with scarlet fever.

* * *

The Rockefeller foundation has made another grant to the American Symphony Orchestra league (with which the Jackson Symphony orchestra is affiliated) in the amount of $109,700. The league has received three grants from the foundation for the purpose of organizing workshops for conductors and music critics. The latest grant will permit the league to carry on its workshop program for three more years. Previous grants to the league were in the amounts of $57,900 in 1954 and $45,500 in 1955.

* * *

The 20th season of Berkshire festival concerts at Tanglewood, near Lenox, Mass., will take place during the six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. Charles Munch, music director, will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers each week-end—Bach, Mozart, Tschaikowski, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. He also will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week-ends. He has invited Isaac Stern, to perform with the Boston Symphony orchestra, three great classics of violin literature — the concertos of Tschaikowski, Brahms and Beethoven.

Pierri Monteux and Carl Schuricht each will conduct two concerts. Mr. Munch will conduct the remainder.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
FEB 24 1957

Music Bill For Lenox Announced

Tanglewood Fete July 3 to Aug. 11

Music by Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven will be featured in the Boston Symphony Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival from July 3 through Aug. 11 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., it was announced yesterday, with concerts on six Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, beginning July 5.

As usual, the first two week ends will be devoted to chamber orchestra programs and the last four to concerts by the full orchestra. There will also be chamber music concerts on the six Wednesday nights of the festival period, beginning July 3.

Three Conductors Scheduled

Charles Munch will conduct the six chamber orchestra concerts and eight of those for full orchestra. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will conduct two concerts each. Isaac Stern will be soloist in three violin concertos. Works of contemporary interest will also be heard during the last four week ends.

The six Brandenburg Concertos and several suites are scheduled for the Bach programs of July 5, 6, and 7. Part II of the "St. Matthew Passion" will be performed on that Sunday afternoon. The Mozart programs for July 12, 13 and 14 will include the last three symphonies, concertos and a work for chorus and orchestra.

Mr. Monteux will conduct on July 20 and 28 and Mr. Schuricht on Aug. 4 and 10. Two Tchaikovsky symphonies and the violin concerto will be heard in the programs for July 19, 20 and 21. Berlior' "L'Enfance du Christ" is set for Saturday, July 27, and his Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and part of his "Romeo and Juliet" are also listed for that week end.

2 Brahms Symphonies

Brahms will be represented by two symphonies, the Hadyn Variations, Tragic Overture and a violin concerto on Aug. 2, 3 and 4. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will be played on the closing afternoon, Aug. 11, and another symphony and the violin concerto will be heard on the two preceding evenings. Information about tickets may be obtained from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Mr. Schuricht, who made his New York debut with the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra on Nov. 7, 1956, will appear at Tanglewood for the first time; Mr. Monteux' visit there will be his sixth.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
UTICA N. Y. PRESS
MAR 25 1957

Will Appear At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra yesterday announced two guest conductors and a violinist who will appear with the orchestra at the annual Berkshire Music Festival this summer at the Tanglewood Music Shed, Lenox, Mass.

Carl Schuricht who recently toured this country as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra will appear at the festival during August. He has also conducted at many European music festivals, including Salzburg, Lucerne, Montreux, Aix-on-Provence and the Hooland festival.

Pierre Monteux, conductor of the Boston Symphony from 1919 to 1924, will appear during July. He has been regular conductor with the San Francisco Orchestra of Amsterdam. He also conducted the Boston Symphony during its European tours last year and in 1952.

Scheduled for his fourth visit to the Tanglewood is Isaac Stern, violinist. He is slated to perform the concertos of Beethoven, Brahms and Tchaikowsky during the summer, the first two in August, the last in July.

Charles Munch, music director and regular conductor of the symphony, has scheduled an all-Bach and an all-Mozart series for the theater performances the first two weekends in July.

The schedule for six chamber music concerts will be announced later. All programs are subject to change.

The Tanglewood headquarters is located approximately 11 miles south of Route 20, approximately 30 miles east of Albany.

Boston Symphony Orch
Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
CLEVELAND, OHIO
NEWS
Circ. D. 137,553
MAR 27 1957

Big Crowds At Sport Show

If any exhibitor at the current Sportsmen's Show at Public Hall had a question about Clevelanders' interest in vacations and out-door sports he has it no longer. Crowds thronging the hall are so great that at times it's impossible for those in the middle to get within arms length of a travel folder.

A visit gives a chance to talk to representatives of several states and vacation areas. That is, there is a chance if a visitor picks a fairly quiet moment.

State exhibits include those of Massachusetts, Vermont, Kentucky, Wyoming, Michigan, Ohio and such vacation communities as Atlantic City, the Berkshire Hills, Ontario fishing and hunting camps, Sandusky and the Lake Erie Islands, Norfolk, Va, the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau.

TRIP TIPS . . . The Berkshire Music Festival will be July 5 to Aug. 11 at Tanglewood, Mass. . . . Near Brainerd, Minn., a complete reproduction of a northern lumbering community of the 90s is ready for sightseers . . . "The best dressed woman" will be selected Palm Sunday from among promenaders on the Atlantic City Broadwalk . . . A new Deauville Hotel with a heliport on the roof is to be built on the site of the recently razed McFadden Deauville at Miami Beach . . . Drama and opera are having a comeback in Madrid Spain with re-opening of Zarzuela Theater, conversion of a movie house to a legitimate theater and, after 30 years, the opening of the Royal Opera.

PASTE OVER

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,859
MAR 15 1957

Agnes Rockwood

Just Pokin' Around

A new record on the Cadence label cut recently by the Harvey Boys Trio, vocal group, with which James Daugherty, husband of the former Florence "Midge" Thomas of Bennington, performs, is gaining in popularity. This is evidenced as disk jockeys all over the country placed one side of the recording, "Nothing is Too Good For You," in the top 100 selected in last week's poll in "Billboard."

The other side of the record is in the calypso beat and is entitled "Marina Girl," and some d.j.'s who are caught in this newest rhythm prefer this arrangement.

Archie Bleyer and his orchestra, topnotch aggregation, provides the accompaniment for the trio, which also includes Bob McCulloh and Dick Harvey. The group after finishing a successful run at the Palace Theatre in New York with the Judy Garland production, has been filling engagements in night clubs around the metropolitan area and has also been on tour.

The number was selected in 89th place by the disk jockeys.

Carleton Carpenter, popular young stage, screen, radio and television actor, who hails from Bennington, returns to the Broadway stage again April 3 in "Hotel Paradiso," a farce, which will star Bert Lahr. Prior to New York, the show opens at the National Theatre in Washington, D. C., tomorrow night.

Others featured in the cast are Angela Lansbury, Arthur Treacher, Vera Pearce and Douglas Byng. The farce by Georges Feydeau and Maurice Desvalieres is presented by Richard Myers and Julius Fleischmann and Bowden, Barr & Bullock. It is adapted and directed by Peter Glenville.

Radio and theatre aspirants throughout New England will be given an opportunity to display their talent and compete for a $1,200 scholarship award on April 12 and 13 when auditions for the 22nd annual scholarship contest will be held at Leland Powers Theatre and Radio Studios in Boston.

This contest is designed to find and assist a worthy young man or young woman in securing the necessary professional training for a career in the fascinating and lucrative field of radio, television and theatre.

The award will consist of a full tuition scholarship for the two-year professional course at Leland Powers, New England's oldest professional school of theatre, radio and television, now in its 53rd year of training successful graduates. Full details may be had by contacting the Leland Powers School, 31 Evans Way, Boston, Mass.

Plans for the 20th Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., have been announced by Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He will give prominence to music of a great composer on each weekend--Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. He will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends. He has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern to perform the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Dr. Munch will conduct the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts on each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The Berkshire Festival will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7 and 12, 13 and 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Festival is available from the festival office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Interesting Notes: Among the first cadets to graduate from the U S Air Force Academy in 1959 are 37 who were selected from 24 states during their high school days for the American Legion's Boys' State Honors. William John Kornitzer Jr. of Bennington is a member of the class of 1960 and was a Boy's State delegate. There are 39 Boy's State representatives from 28 states in the class of 1960....In the near future, those horse-drawn delivery wagons will be seen no more in the Tri-City area as The Freihofer Baking Co. has announced that it is gradually replacing "Dobbin" with trucks. And the replacement is at the rate of two a month. The baking company, which has offices and plants in Albany, Troy and Schenectady, is the only area firm now using horses on delivery routes. By the end of the year, the 20 horses now in use, will have been replaced by trucks.... Barbara Boyden, seven-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Norman Boyden of Burlington, was pictured in the Wednesday edition of Burlington Daily News as she was one of the models in the "Sand Box Follies" who appeared in a fashion show sponsored by the PTA of Flynn School. Her mother is the former Ann Remington of Bennington....This far there have been 90 applications for Williamstown Summer Theater's posts this third season. Slightly more than half of last year's company will be signed up again this year. Nikos Psacharopoulos, managing director of the theater, said tryouts for this season's resident company will be held at the Williams Club, New York City, the weekend of March 30-31 from 9 to 6. One week earlier tryouts also will be held in New York City at the William Morris agency and the Deborah Coleman agency.

GOOD ANSWER

A Leominster, Mass., man had a good answer ready recently when he was hauled into district court on a drunkenness charge.

Presiding Judge Richard Comerford said that when he saw the man on the day in question he was sober. Why did he get drunk?

"Why, judge," the defendant replied. "I heard your wife gave birth to twins."

He was right. A boy and girl were born to Mrs. Comerford the day before.

Judge Comerford held the charge in abeyance.

Boston Symphony Orch.
Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
WILMINGTON, DEL.
Journal-Every Evening
Circ. D. 70,278
APR 3 1957

Berkshire Festival Starts July First

The famous Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will be held for six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11.

Detailed information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

WHISTON PRESS
CLIPPING SERVICE
BUFFALO, N. Y.
Schenectady, N. Y.
Gazette
FEB 26 1957

1957 7 GAZETTE PHONE FR 4-4141

Boston Symphony Lists Plans for 1957 Festival

The Boston Symphony Orchestra is preparing for its 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, July 3 through Aug. 11. Concerts have been announced for Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons during the six weeks of the 20th season of festival concerts.

* * *

CHARLES MUNCH, musical director, has announced that he will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers each weekend. Composers to be featured are Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. In addition he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends.

Isaac Stern, American violinist, has been asked to perform with the orchestra the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

PIERRE MONTEUX and Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series. Munch will conduct all of the concerts of the "Bach-Mozart" weekends and two concerts in each of the following weekends.

The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra will be held in the Theatre-Concert Hall and concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra will open July 19 in the Shed. A series of chamber music concerts will be presented on the six Wednesday evenings of the festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

During the all-Bach concerts Munch will perform all six Brandenburg Concertos, several suites and part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists. The Mozart concerts will include the great last three symphonies.

MUNCH WILL CONDUCT Berlioz "L'Enfance dus Christ" with chorus and soloists on July 27. The festival will close on the afternoon of Aug. 11 with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Monteux will be making his sixth visit to Tanglewood this summer. He served as conductor of the Boston Symphony between 1918 and 1924 and has been a frequent guest conductor in recent years.

Schuricht, who will conduct the concerts of Aug. 4 and 10, toured this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. He has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Tanglewood Festival is available from the Festival Office at Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
CLEVELAND, OHIO
PRESS
Circ. D. 309,685
APR 3 1957

Announce Music Series

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 series at Tanglewood, N. J. The 15th session will run from July 1 to Aug. 11.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
INQUIRER
Circ. D. 637,561 - S. 1,124,395
MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music

The 1957 Berkshire Festival of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, with Charles Munch as music director, will take place from July 5 to Aug. 11 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors for two programs each.

With concerts Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, the six respective weekends will feature the works of Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. Works of contemporary interest will also be heard on the last four week ends. Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven Violin Concertos.

Chamber concerts will also be given on Wednesday evenings from July 3 to Aug. 7.

Munch will conduct the six Brandenburg Concertos and other Bach works the first week end. The Mozart week end will feature the last three symphonies. The Berlioz week end will include "L'Enfance du Christ" July 27.

Concurrently with the music festival, the 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center will be held July 1 to Aug. 11.

Information on concerts and music center is available from the Berkshire office at Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
WILMINGTON, DEL.
NEWS
Circ. D. 27,717
APR 4 1957

Berkshire Festival Starts July First

The famous Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will be held for six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11.

Detailed information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 - S. 855,847
MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Emphasis on Composers

By MILES KASTENDIECK

GREAT Composer weekends will be the feature of the Berkshire Festival this year. In an effort to point up the Festival Charles Munch has sought to emphasize three things: the music of one great composer each weekend, works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends, and Isaac Stern as soloist in the three great violin classics—the concertos of Tchaikowsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. This season will mark the 20th of Berkshire Festival Concerts at Tanglewood.

This announcement reveals that some effort has been made to unify the Festival. There is a dominating idea to give it focus. It may be more practical than novel, but at least it tells people that each weekend is coordinated and gives them a choice that is musical.

Four Great Ones

Traditionally, the first two weekends, beginning July 5 and July 12, will be devoted to Bach and Mozart respectively. These concerts will be given by small orchestras in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

The next four weekends will feature Tchaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms, and Beethoven in that order. These concerts will be given by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed.

There appears to be little suggestion of deviating from a well-worn path in the general selection of works. Performing all the six Brandenburg Concertos and several Suites may be welcome, but it is repetitious.

The only flexibility in the Bach weekend is the presentation of Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Why it was necessary to include the last three symphonies of Mozart may be even more debatable, especially since the three preceding these could be most profitably cultivated instead.

Share Conducting

One important date in the Shed series will be July 27 when Munch will give Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ." Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will share the conducting: the former on July 20 and 28, the latter on August 4 and 10. Schuricht's appearances will be a highlight of these weekends. He will be remembered for conducting the Vienna Philharmonic on its visit here earlier this season.

Such is the pattern: conservative and solid, possibly commemorative.

[12]

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

MAR 28 1957

Berkshire Festival Plans Are Announced For Season

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend — Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature — the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Festival Dates

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7 — July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings — July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival weekends will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed. The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The weekend of August 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms — two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven weekend (August 9, 10, 11).

The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with a performance by Charles Munch of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Another Beethoven symphony will also be heard, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Violin Concerto.

Three Great Violin Concertos Performed by Isaac Stern

Charles Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics — the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the Orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Guest Conductors

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts — July 20 and 28 — spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on August 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Mr. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

HANOVER, PA.
SUN
Circ. D. 23,099

MAR 16 1957

MUSIC

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who brings his band to the Lyric Theater next Thursday night, has announced plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival this summer. This Baltimore concert, the first in 24 years, includes the Fourth Symphony of Beethoven, Ravel's Daphnis and Chloe Suite No. 2 and Brahms First Symphony.

At Tanglewood Mr. Munch will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend - Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature - the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

The twentieth season of Berkshire concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3rd and August 11th, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7 — July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms and Beethoven (August 9, 10 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theater Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings — July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, August 7.

Boston Sym. Orch
Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

DAVENPORT, IOWA
TIMES
Circ. D. 30,004

MAR 10 1957

Catching The Beat In The Music World

BY INA WICKHAM

"How many of us ever stop to think
Of music as a wondrous magic link
"With God, taking sometimes the place of prayer—
"When words have failed us 'neath the weight of care.
"Music, that knows no country race or creed,
"But gives to each, according to his need"!
—Anonymous

Dr. Paul Beckhelm, musical director of the Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, May Music Festival has announced the dates for the 59th annual festival as Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, May 3, 4, and 5. The opening concert on Thursday will be presented by Adele Addison, soprano, who has appeared in the Quad-Cities in recent seasons. The Friday evening concert will present Jorge Bolet, pianist, in recital.

THE CHICAGO

. . . symphony orchestra will make its 55th consecutive appearance at the Cornell College Music Festival on Saturday May 4. In the afternoon the orchestra will join with the College Oratorio Society in a performance of Norman Dello Joio's "Song Of Affirmation." Miss Addison will be the soprano soloist, and narration will be by Harrold Shiffler. The work was commissioned by Cornell College for its centennial observance in 1953, and received its first performance at the festival that year. The festival will close with a concert by the orchestra on Saturday evening.

THE BERKSHIRE

. . . music festival for 1957, at Tanglewood, Mass., will present the 20th season of concerts. In announcing the plans, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra has said that he will give special prominence to one great composer each weekend, Bach, Beethoven, Mozart Brahms, Berlioz and Tschaikowksy. He will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends. Dr. Munch will conduct all of the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Surricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

THE DATES

. . . of the Festival concerts at Tanglewood will be the six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The concerts by the Boston Symphony orchestra in the Music Shed, will feature works by Tschaikowsky July 19, 20 and 21; Berlioz, July 26, 27 and 28; Brahms Aug. 2, 3 and 4 and Beethoven, Aug. 9, 10 and 11. The series of Chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be on six Wednesday evenings, July 3, 10, 17, 24, and 31 and on Aug. 7.

DURING THE BACH

. . . Mozart series, Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg Concertos, several suites and Part 2 of the St. Matthew Passion. Music of Tschaikowsky will include at least two of his symphonies and the violin concerto played by Isaac Stern. Dr. Munch will direct the Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ," with chorus and soloists and other programs will include "Harold In Italy," and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet." The Brahms programs will include two symphonies; Variations on a Theme of Haydn; the "Tragic" overture and the violin concerto with Mr. Stern. Mr. Stern also will be heard in the Beethoven violin concerto.

INTERNATIONALLY

. . . speaking, the annual Florence, Italy, May Festival, will run from May 4 to June 30 and will include a production of Verdi's "Ernani," with Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting. The Venice Festival of Contemporary music will be from Sept. 11 to Sept., 25 and will include a program of music by Alban Berg and Gustav Mahler, played by the Vienna Philharmonic. In Switzerland, the 31st annual festival of the International Society for Contemporary Music will be held in Zurich from May 31 to June 6. It will include the first performance of Schoenberg's "Moses and Aaron," a work that requires a cast of 52. The Lucerne Festival will be from Aug. 17 to Sept 7. The annual Sibelius Festival will be held in Helsinki from June 9 to 17, with music by Sibelius and other contemporary Finnish compositions.

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

NEWARK N. J. NEWS

MAR 3 1957

Tanglewood Lists Summer Concerts

Many New England Vacationers Attend Performances of Boston Symphony

LENOX, Mass.—The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood here will take place during the six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. Many vacation visitors to New England include the concerts as part of their summer entertainment program.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, has announced that he will feature the works of a great composer each weekend. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6 and 7 and July 12, 13 and 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts for the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20 and 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27 and 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3 and 4), and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10 and 11). In addition, a series of chamber music concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on the six Wednesday evenings of the season.

Assisting Artist

Munch has invited Isaac Stern, the American violinist, to make an extended visit to Tanglewood during the coming summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics—the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven.

Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the Orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August, 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Guest Conductors

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts—July 20 and 28—spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on Aug. 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Courant
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 135,309

MAR 3 1957

The Lively Arts—

Dawn, or Mirage?

By T. H. Parker

Is there a new dawn coming up over Tanglewood, or is it a mirage? Last week, the Berkshire Music Festival announced plans for the Boston Symphony Orchestra's 1957 season at Lenox, Massachusetts, and they sounded hopefully different from the monotonous programing there during recent years.

Charles Munch, musical director of the orchestra and the festival, declared that he will place emphasis on three things this summer. He will give special prominence to the music of one great composer, including Bach, Mozart, Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms, and Beethoven, each week. He has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform the three great classics of violin literature, the concertos by Tschaikowsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. And he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week ends of the festival.

★

The season, incidentally, which will be the twentieth of Berkshire Festival concerts, will take place during six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with programs Friday and Saturday evenings, and Sunday afternoons.

The first two week ends will offer concerts for small orchestra in the theater-concert hall, and will be all-Bach and all-Mozart, respectively. The main concerts, featuring the full Boston Symphony, will be built around Tschaikowsky on July 19, 20 and 21; Berlioz on July 26, 27 and 28; Brahms on August 2, 3 and 4; and Beethoven on August 9, 10 and 11.

There will also be a continuation of the Wednesday evening chamber music concerts on July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 and August 7.

In one way, of course, this is nothing more than repackaging of old chestnuts in new, fancy wrapping. Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms, Beethoven, can hardly be said to be seldom composers at Tanglewood, and doubtless with few exceptions, the works to be performed will be as familiar as they.

Nevertheless, if we are to have them, and in view of the boxoffice they draw from the tourist trade, we assuredly are, we might as well get them in saturation doses. A solid week end of Beethoven, for example, where you can get your ears' teeth into a batch of the composer's masterpieces, is certainly far more engaging than a group of concerts with a dab of Beethoven, a dab of Brahms, etc. These small festivals-within-a-festival, as it were, at least afford an opportunity to savor the works of music's greats to a satisfactory degree and dimension. So even though Mr. Munch's plan is in a way only a resorting, you will be able to revel in one composer at a time, and hear the monumental works in one, big fling. When you get "L'Enfance du Christ," the "Symphonie Fantastique," "Harold in Italy" and music from "Romeo and Juliet" in one swat, all you're lacking is "Lelio."

Reading around in the news release sent out from Tanglewood makes it plain enough that Mr. Stern will not be heard in the three violin concerti on the same day. While this doubtless makes Mr. Stern feel relieved, I cannot help wishing that we'd get the Tschaikowsky, Brahms and Beethoven end to end. It would be a terrific sensation, being snowed under by all these works and all Mr. Stern's magnificent playing in one, fell swoop. Tourists could relieve the strain every now and then by sneaking over to the souvenir stand, and sending a postcard to Auntie Mame. But the dedicated music-lover would have the time of his life, and Mr. Stern could be brought around at the end of the concert with a whiff of smelling salts.

Mr. Munch's most heartening promise is in his statement that he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four week ends of the festival. Exactly how extensive an excursion he plans into recent music is of course well concealed behind the generalness of his announcement. In most seasons, lately, there have been a few contemporary compositions. But they have been far from enough in any festival that professes to see music whole. Possibly he means to do no more than last year when, if memory serves, there were less than a half dozen modern scores among the 50 or so works performed during the major festival concerts.

★

But let us hope, at least, that Mr. Munch intends to give contemporary music a more reasonable hearing. It is not at all necessary that he and the Boston Symphony play compositions fresh off the composer's piano rack. Works of "contemporary interest" need not and should not imply only wet-ink scores. We are not asking that he be motivated by some charitable or chauvinistic or politic desire to "give today's composers an opportunity to be heard," as the cliche goes. Music of contemporary interest may do that, indeed. But it may also draw on a great body of modern writing going back over at least 30 years. Within this corpus, the acknowledged masters are as easily recognized as any of the preceding centuries, and their important works are quite as well established. It is no longer a matter of betting on pioneers and experimenters. Some composers writing in 1957 may come under the latter heading still. Some may deserve a hearing. But in turning to works of contemporary interest, Mr. Munch has a big, accredited repertory upon which to draw quite beyond works of the moment.

Let's hope he will, indeed. It is no mere matter of doing it for music's sake alone. There are other festivals around, particularly that at Ellenville, New York, which are going to give Tanglewood a run for its money. Mr. Munch should keep this clearly in mind.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Standard-Times
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 52,155

APR 7 - 1957

Tanglewood Music Programs, Goals Cited by Dr. Munch

By EARL J. DIAS
Standard-Times Music Critic

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, emphasizes three important intentions.

First of all, he will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers on each weekend—Bach, Mozart, Berlioz, Tschaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Second, he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends. Third, he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform three of the great classics of the violin repertoire—the concertos of Brahms, Tschaikovsky and Beethoven.

This 20th season of the Berkshire Festival will take place during the six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. The first two weekends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7—July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively.

The concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed will feature works by Tschaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music programs in the Theater-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday nights (July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 and Aug. 7).

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival weekends will give audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important works by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six "Brandenburg concertos," several suites, and Part 2 of the "St. Matthew Passion," with chorus and soloists. The latter will be offered on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed.

The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the last three great "Symphonies in E-flat," "G-minor," and "C-major;" smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music by Tschaikovsky will be conducted by Dr. Munch and guest conductor, Pierre Monteux, on July 19, 20 and 21 and will include at least two of the symphonies and the violin concerto.

Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting in the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28), with special attention to the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ," with chorus and orchestra, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy," and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet."

Some of Brahms' greatest works will be featured on August 2, 3 and 4—two symphonies, "Variations on a Theme of Haydn," the "Tragic Overture" and the violin concerto. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series as well as one concert in the final Beethoven weekend—Aug. 9, 10 and 11. The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with Dr. Munch conducting a performance of Beethoven's "Symphony No. 9" and with Isaac Stern playing the violin concerto.

Mr. Stern, by the way, will be making his fourth appearance at Tanglewood. He played most recently with the Boston Symphony in August, 1956, when he did the Beethoven concerto at the Edinburgh Festival.

Ticket information for all the Festival concerts is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Back Bay Ledger &
Beacon Hill Times
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 10,000 Free
MAR 21 1957

AT TANGLEWOOD

Boston Symphony Orchestra Berkshire Festival Dates Set, Twentieth Season Opens July 3

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, in announcing the plans for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, places emphasis on three things. He will give special prominence to the music of one of the great composers during each weekend concert series—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlicz, Brahms and Beethoven; he will feature works of contemporary interest on each of the last four weekends; he has invited the American violinist, Isaac Stern, to perform with him three great classics of violin literature, —the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts of the first two "Bach-Mozart" weekends, and two concerts in each of the following weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors, each conducting two concerts in the larger series.

Festival Dates

The twentieth season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood will take place during six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with concerts each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The first two week ends of concerts for small orchestra in the Theatre-Concert Hall (July 5, 6, 7-July 12, 13, 14) will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4), and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11). A series of chamber music concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall will be presented on six Wednesday evenings — July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31-August 7.

Festival Programs

Dr. Munch's plan to emphasize a special composer on each of the Festival weekends will give Festival audiences an opportunity to hear a representative selection of important compositions by great composers. During his all-Bach concerts (July 5, 6, 7), Dr. Munch will perform all six Brandenburg concertos, several suites and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion with chorus and soloists, which will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed.

The Mozart concerts (July 12, 13, 14) will include the great last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major, "Jupiter" (to be presented Saturday night in the Music Shed), smaller works and concertos to be performed by the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and a work for chorus and orchestra conducted by Hugh Ross.

Music of Tchaikovsky will be conducted by Charles Munch and guest conductor Pierre Monteux on July 19, 20, 21, and will include at least two of the symphonies and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Dr. Munch and Mr. Monteux will again share the conducting of the concerts of the second Shed series (July 26, 27, 28) with special emphasis on the works of Berlioz. On Saturday, July 27, Dr. Munch will perform Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, and other programs will include the Fantastic Symphony, "Harold in Italy" and excerpts from "Romeo and Juliet."

The weekend of August 2, 3, 4, will contain some of the greatest works of Brahms—two symphonies, the Variations on a Theme of Haydn, the Tragic Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will conduct one concert in this series, as well as one concert in the final Beethoven weekend (August 9, 10, 11). The Festival will close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with a ing summer and to perform at the Festival concerts three of the great violin classics — the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Mr. Stern, who will be making his fourth visit to Tanglewood, appeared most recently with the Orchestra at the Edinburgh Festival in August 1956, when he played the Beethoven Concerto with Charles Munch to a capacity audience. During the last few years Mr. Stern has traveled extensively, giving concerts in this country and abroad.

Continued on Page Twelve

Guest Conductors

Pierre Monteux, who will conduct concerts in the first and second weekends of Shed concerts—July 20 and 28—spans a generation in the musical life of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, having been its conductor between 1919 and 1924, and a frequent guest conductor during recent years. Mr. Monteux spent a number of years as the regular conductor of both the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and has joined Charles Munch in conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its transcontinental tour and two European tours. Mr. Monteux makes his sixth visit to Tanglewood in the coming summer.

Carl Schuricht, who will conduct Berkshire Festival concerts on August 4 and 10, is known to American music lovers through his recording and his tour in this country earlier in the season as conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. Mr. Schuricht has conducted the chief orchestras in nearly every European country and in many of the foremost festivals of Europe.

Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
APR 19 1957

1957 Tanglewood Concerts Will Include Modern Music

Stravinsky's 75th Birthday To Be Celebrated

The important works of contemporary composers will be featured on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced.

During the first week end of concerts in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky, who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17. Dr Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum," for chorus, soloists and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ, on Sunday, July 21. Other works by this composer which will be presented include the ballet, "Jeu de Cartes," and "La Sacre du Printemps."

Other contemporary composers whose works will be featured are Paul Hindemith, Werner Egk, Boris Blacher, Samuel Barber, Walter Piston, Arthur Honegger, and Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
APR 4 1957

Munch Switching To Modern Music For Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of July 21. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on July 19, and on July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" (The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith ,the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

On Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston; No. III "Liturgique" and, to open the final concert of the festival Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chaffman of the faculty of Berkshire Music center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass
Independent
Circ. 12,928
APR 2 19[illegible]

Contemporary Works Planned At Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival on Sept. 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Mr. Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring"). Mr. Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

On the following weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neus Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler." Mr. Hindemith [illegible] conductor at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two [illegible] 1940 and 1941.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Chronicle (e)
NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 3,800
MAR 29 1957

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, has announced the Berkshire Festival to be held at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., between July 3 and August 11.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,535

APR 6 - 1957

Will Feature The Moderns At Tanglewood

Stravinsky, Hindemith, Barber, Honegger Music Being Scheduled

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox.

During the first week end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival on Sept. 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Mr. Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring"). Mr. Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

Hindemith Series

On the following week end (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler.". Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theater. This work which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, August 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Other Moderns

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 261,421

APR 7 - 1957

Contemporary Music Played at Tanglewood

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky, who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21.

Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend, July 28, Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chatres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the Faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 8 - 1957

Contemporary Composers To Be Heard at Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, officials of the orchestra said today.

First Week-End

During the first week-end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony orchestra in the music shed tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice International festival Sept. 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Mr. Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring"). Mr. Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

On the following week-end, July 28, Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the symphony "Mathis der Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

American Premiere

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theater. This work which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony orchestra. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule for Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music center in 1955.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber, a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947, on Saturday evening, Aug. 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956. Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and to open the final concert of the festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 6 - 1957

Works by 8 Modern Composers To Be Featured at Festival

LENOX — Works of contemporary importance by eight modern composers will be featured on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival.

During the last four weekends of concerts in the Music Shed, opening July 19, the Boston Symphony Orchestra will play works by Igor Stravinsky, Paul Hindemith, Werner Egk, Boris Blacher, Samuel Barber, Walter Piston, Arthur Honegger and Aaron Copland.

American Premiere

The American premiere of the sonata for orchestra by German composed Werner Egk will be conducted by Carl Schuricht Friday evening, Aug. 2. Mr. Schuricht, a guest conductor at Tanglewood this summer, will present the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher, another modern German composer, Saturday, Aug. 10.

Blacher succeeded Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Musik in Berlin in 1953 and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center two summers ago.

During the first weekend of concerts by the BSO in the Shed tribute will be paid to Stravinsky, who celebrates his 75th birthday June 17. Charles Munch, BSO music director, will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21.

Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" (Card Game) Friday, July 19. The composer's well-known "Le Sacre du Printemps" (The Rite of Spring) will be conducted by guest conductor Pierre Monteux Saturday, July 20.

Two Hindemith Works

On the following weekend, Mr. Monteux will present two works by Paul Hindemith, the overture "News of the Day" and the symphony "Mathis der Maler." Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons, 1940 and 1941.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber, a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947, Saturday evening, August 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. 3 "Liturgique"; and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012

APR 6 1957

Contemporary Music Billed At Tanglewood

CHARLES MUNCH, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival on Sept. 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Mr. Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft.

Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" (Card Game) on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" (The Rite of Spring). Mr. Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

* * *

THE FOLLOWING weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" (Neues Vom Tage) composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer best known for his operas and music for the theater. This work, composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times

* * *

CHARLES MUNCH will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance' by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

[16]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443

APR 11 1957

Munch Will Feature Present-Day Music

Several Composers Will Be Honored at Tanglewood

Important Contemporary Works Will Be Played Last Four Weeks of Festival.—Full Boston Symphony to Pay Tribute to Igor Stravinsky's 75th Birthday Anniversary.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox.

During the first week-end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinksy who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival on September 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Mr. Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft.

Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring"). Mr. Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

On the following week-end, July 28, Pierre Monteux, will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the symphony "Mathis der Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening, August 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. This work, which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, August 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschull for Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber, resident composer at Tanglewood in 1947, on Saturday evening, August 3; Symphony No. 5, by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, August 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III, "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Record (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 405,628

APR 11 1957

Tanglewood Festival Honors Stravinsky

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood.

During the first weekend concerts tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky, who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21.

This work, first performed at the Venice International Festival in 1956, will have its U. S. premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Stravinsky. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring"). Monteux introduced this work to Paris in 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

MIAMI, FLA.
NEWS
Circ. D. 135,488 - S. 114,613

APR 14 1957

Boston Symphony To Honor Stravinsky's 75th Birthday

Igor Stravinsky, who will conduct the University of Miami Symphony Orchestra in two concerts next season, will observe his 75th birthday on June 17.

In honor of the occasion, the Boston Symphony Orchestra will devote its first three programs at the opening of the Berkshire Festival to the music of the distinguished Russian-born composer.

Charles Munch will conduct the orchestra in Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, wind instruments, low strings and organ on July 21.

This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival last September, and will have its American premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Stravinsky in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft.

Munch also will present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" on July 19, and on July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps."

Monteux recently conducted the same work here with the University orchestra. He directed its premiere performance in Paris in May, 1913.

Another distinguished composer, Heitor Villa-Lobos, who also will conduct the University Symphony next season, observed his 70th birthday last week by leading the New York Philharmonic Symphony in a program of his own works.

IGOR STRAVINSKY

HEITOR VILLA-LOBOS

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,372

APR 7 - 1957

Contemporary Composers On Tanglewood Programs

Works by Igor Stravinsky, Paul Hindemith, Werner Egk and Boris Blacher to Be Heard

Boston, April 6—Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox. During the first week end of concerts by the full orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky, who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17.

Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for the chorus, soloists and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice Interational Festival on Sept. 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft.

Ballet On Program

Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre de Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring"). Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

On the following week end (July 28) Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler." Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theater. This work, which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony.

Modern German

Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Dr. Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No 3 ("Liturgique") which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 194,784

MAY 13 1957

Tanglewood Event To Honor Stravinsky

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who observes his 75th birthday June 17.

Dr. Charles Munch, music director, will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the July 21 concert.

This work will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Stravinsky June 19 at Los Angeles.

Dr. Munch also will present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes, July 19. Pierre Monteux will conduct his "La Sacre du Printemps" July 20.

producing Mr.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
DETROIT, MICH.
FREE PRESS
Circ. D. 444,193 - S. 469,816
APR 28 1957

ON 75TH BIRTHDAY

Berkshire Festival To Honor Maestro

BOSTON—Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday June 17.

Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert July 21.

• • •

MUNCH WILL also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes" ("Card Game") on July 19, and on July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "Le Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend Monteux will present Hindemith's Overture "News of the Day" and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theater. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher.

• • •

MUNCH WILL also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947), evening, Aug. 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956; and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

Details of the Tanglewood Festival are as follows:

July 5, 6, 7 — Series X (Theatre)
ALL-BACH
CHARLES MUNCH conducting
Including the six Brandenburg Concertos
St. Matthew Passion—Part II
(Sunday in the Music Shed)

July 12, 13, 14 — Series Y (Theatre)
ALL-MOZART
CHARLES MUNCH conducting
4 Symphonies (including the last three), serenades, concertos and a choral work conducted by HUGH ROSS
In the programs of each week the music of a great composer will be featured.

July 19, 20, 21 — Series A (Shed)
TCHAIKOVSKY
CHARLES MUNCH and PIERRE MONTEUX
The Violin Concerto (with ISAAC STERN)
Two Symphonies and other works

July 26, 27, 28 — Series B (Shed)
BERLIOZ
CHARLES MUNCH and PIERRE MONTEUX
"L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, "Harold in Italy" and Fantastic Symphony

August 2, 3, 4 — Series C (Shed)
BRAHMS
CHARLES MUNCH and CARL SCHURICHT
The Violin Concerto (with ISAAC STERN)
Two Symphonies, Tragic Overture and Haydn Variations

August 9, 10, 11 — Series D (Shed)
BEETHOVEN
CHARLES MUNCH and CARL SCHURICHT
Two Symphonies, including Symphony No. 9 with chorus and soloists
The Violin Concerto (with ISAAC STERN)

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
MAY 19 1957

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

Summer Festivals Bidding More Widely For Visits From Touring Americans

By ROSS PARMENTER

THERE are many more names around this summer's musical map than bordered the similar map last year. In part the increase mirrors the continuing expansion of summer music. Yet not all the new names represent new festivals. Many of the events have been recurring quietly in their own corners for a number of summers. The new element in the situation is that more and more local festivals are now making a play for national attention.

Each summer, it seems, American vacationists grow increasingly mobile. Those giving festivals have realized that year after year more and more tourists are on the road, eager for entertainment. As automobiles and good highways have made distances less important, summer impresarios have been making an increasing play for tourists from all parts of the country. One [illegible] summer. Never before have plans been drawn up so far in advance, nor have prospectuses been so widely circulated. The old days of schedules arranged at the last moment with notices sent out too late to reach any one except those in the neighborhood, it seems, are over.

NEWCOMERS: Three of this year's festivals that are new to the map are also new to the country. One is the Jamestown Festival, a series of musical events interspersed among the other festival activities being held in Virginia to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the establishment of the first permanent English settlement in the New World. Significantly enough, the other two new festivals are operatic, for one of the major post-war developments in American summer music is the spread of summer opera. The larger of the two new events is that of the Santa Fe Opera Association, which will present operas at Santa Fe, N. M., from July 3 to Aug. 29. The other is the first summer opera colony to be run by the National Grass Roots Opera at East Carolina College in Greenville, N. C., from June 10 to July 5.

MAN OF THE HOUR: Stravinsky will be widely honored in the summer festivals. His seventy-fifth birthday falls on June 17, and that day Franz Waxman's Los Angeles Music Festival will round up its activities with a gala all-Stravinsky program. It will consist of the "Symphony of Psalms," the American première of "Canticum Sacrum," and "Agon," a new ballet commissioned by Lincoln Kirstein. The Aspen Festival, which opens in Colorado on June 26, will perform Stravinsky works all through its ten-week season. The Berkshire Festival at Lenox, Mass., will present his "Jeu de Cartes," "Sacre du Printemps" and "Canticum Sacrum." And his major opera, "The Rake's Progress," will be one of the works given in Santa Fe.

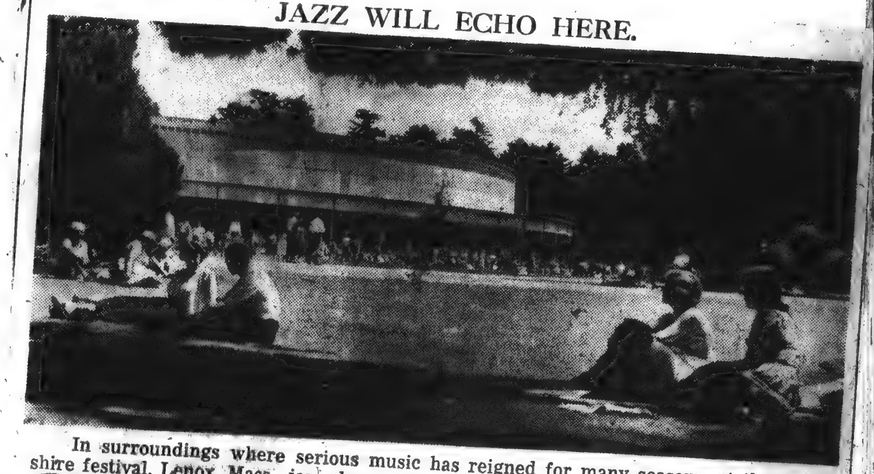
HEMIDEMISEMIQUAVERS: Marian Anderson, who has received honorary degrees from five colleges, will collect five more this spring. The institutions honoring her are St. Mary's College, South Bend, Ind.; Virginia State College; Morgan State College, Baltimore; Rutgers University, and the University of Rochester. . . . Douglas Moore's "The Ballad of Baby Doe" [illegible] have its West Coast premiere on May 23, when it will have the first of five performances by Stanford University. . . . When the Clinton Hill Symphony gives its final concert of the season on Tuesday at Pratt Institute Memorial Hall it will play the first performance of a work it commissioned, Ezra Laderman's "Fantasy on Clinton Hill." The Masterwork Chorus, which draws its membership from fifty-nine towns in northern New Jersey, will give its second an-

REPRISE

The New York Philharmonic-Symphony closed its 115th season. Giorgio Tozzi and David Lloyd were fine soloists in a final program that was nearly all choral. . . . The opera workshop of the Manhattan School of Music showed considerable [illegible] presenting. . . . Joio's melodramatic "The Huss[illegible]" and Donizetti's "Rita." . . . William Masselos as pianist and Virgil Thomson as narrator made Eric Satie's "Sports et Divertissements" the hit of the second "Music for Moderns" concert. . . . Among recitalists, Armen Guirag, Turkish-born tenor, had "a superb voice," Mireya Arboleda was an "intelligent and cultivated" pianist, and Suzanne Sten, mezzo-soprano, presented "a rewarding evening."

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
KANSAS CITY, MO.
TIMES
Circ. D. 338,145
MAY 25 1957

JAZZ WILL ECHO HERE.



In surroundings where serious music has reigned for many seasons, at the Berkshire festival, Lenox, Mass., jazz also will resound this summer. The School for Jazz Inc., will open August 12 at the Berkshire Music barn, and continue through August 30. The jazz faculty, students and audiences will make use of the Berkshire Shed (shown here) and other facilities after the Boston Symphony has completed the 20th summer of music in the hills of Western Massachusetts.

Jazz Plays in Same League With Classics at Summer Festivals

Conservatory Here Is in the Forefront of New Trend, Offering Courses in Summer Session—At the Tanglewood Festival, Makers of "Modern Music" Will Follow the Boston Symphony.

By Clyde Neibarger.
(The Star's Music Editor.)

ANY actual gulf that exists between so-called jazz or popular music and so-called "serious music" is being bridged in various ways in these days. Music schools are adding courses in jazz. In the summer music festivals and workshops, jazz is being given a place alongside the classics.

In Kansas City, the Conservatory of Music is adding a course in jazz. Other schools around the nation have established such courses, or plan to do so soon. But this is one of the first invasions of a formal conservatory.

In New York's Town Hall, where most of the music heard is on the serious side, a new concert society, Music for Moderns, launched a series of four concerts including Duke Ellington's band on program with Dropoulos and the Philharmonic-Symbolic sounds of im- and jazz that tend hem in the same re defined on an- ram. A third linked spel music with art songs. The gram, to be given will be "New Hori- voted to the most ideas in jazz and sic.

Ellington-Mitropou- am at Town Hall, and his orchestra world premiere of 's concert suite nual Bach Festival next Sunday in the Morristown High School. It will consist of a performance of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" led by David Randolph. . . . Samuel Antek will conduct the Chicago Symphony's young people's concerts next season.

Basie and his orchestra with Joe Williams will appear August 2-3, Billie Holiday and a Canadian group, the Ron Collier quintet, will do the August 9-10 program. The Gerry Mulligan quartet and the Teddy Wilson trio are down for August 16-17.

The pleasant rubbing of elbows by the sophisticates of jazz and serious music really achieves a milestone this summer at the Tanglewood area in Western Massachusetts, renowned as the summer home of the Boston Symphony orchestra and its distinguished conductor, Charles Muench. The Tanglewood festival is the most important one in this country.

At Lenox, home of the Tanglewood festival, a new School of Jazz, Inc., will take over the music leadership of the area when the Boston Symphony departs August 11. Some of the most important names in modern jazz will head the faculty—John (Dizzy) Gillespie, trumpet; Oscar Peterson and John Lewis, piano; Ray Brown, jazz bass; Max Roach, drums; Herb Ellis, guitar; Milt Jackson, vibraharp; Bill Russo, jazz composition; Marshall W. Stearns, history of jazz, and Jule Foster, dean.

In a tribute to Louis Armstrong, the Newport Jazz festival July 4, 5 and 6 at Newport, R. I., will feature international jazz, with musicians from Europe and America participating.

Labeled "Modern Music."

They call it "modern mu- the performers are ington and his orches- tan Kenton and Com- a part of the Ravinia tival in Chicago this The Chicago festival n expanded to nine y the addition of dra- adings, children's con- olk songs and art ieces. Ellington will n July 1 and 3, Ken- uly 29 and 31. From e stage, the Chicago y orchestra will play ous" performances. me other schedules of festivals and music or workshops the new are described as "pop- ular music." This is the case at the Adirondack Studio of Song, June 28 to September 4 at Lake George, N. Y.

On the West coast, jazz is making its mark at some of the leading centers of serious vein summer music. One of the most interesting is the Idyllwild, Calif., Arts Foundation. There the program encompasses dance, art and literature, as well as jazz, chamber music, orchestra, chorus and music education.

At Kansas City's Conservatory.

The course in jazz at the Conservatory of Music of Kansas City originally was sched uled to start in September, but the interest in it has been so lively that the conservatory is scheduling a summer school course, Lyle Kennedy, manager of the music center, said.

"We already have one 'combo' group enrolled, to start June 8," Kennedy said. "We expect other such groups to sign up, after the auditions that are a requirement. We also plan to have courses ready in harmony, keyboard, dictation and ear training."

There have been numerous inquiries, Kennedy said, about instruction for popular singers. Such a course may be offered. Most of the would-be "pop" singers are girls.

The formal name for the "combo" is "Modern Dance Band," and that is the way it is described on the conservatory's circulars. There usually are five or six members.

Three veteran jazz musicians who regularly entertain the patrons of Kansas City night spots will be the conservatory's teachers or jazz: Willie Rice, arranger and piano-trumpet man; George Salisbury, pianist, and Herb Six, pianist and harmony expert. Six will not be new on the conservatory faculty, having taught conventional courses there seven years.

There have been some requests for the addition of a course in jazz or popular music at the Mid-Western Music and Art camp at the University of Kansas, but thus far no such step has been seriously contemplated, the camp's director, Prof. Russell L. Wiley, said. The camp opens June 16 for six weeks.

[17]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
DETROIT, MICH.
FREE PRESS
Circ. D. 444,193 - S. 469,816
APR 28 1957

ON 75TH BIRTHDAY

Berkshire Festival To Honor Maestro

BOSTON—Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday June 17.

Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert July 21.

• • •

MUNCH WILL also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes", ("Card Game") on July 19, and on July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend Monteux will present Hindemith's Overture "News of the Day" and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

On Friday evening, Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theater. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher.

• • •

MUNCH WILL also present the following works of ~~current~~ porary composers: "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947), evening, Aug. 3; Symphony No. 5 by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4; Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral at Chartres during its European trip in 1956; and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

Details of the Tanglewood Festival are as follows:

July 5, 6, 7 — Series X (Theatre)
ALL-BACH
CHARLES MUNCH conducting
Including the six Brandenburg Concertos
St. Matthew Passion—Part II (Sunday in the Music Shed)

July 12, 13, 14 — Series Y (Theatre)
ALL-MOZART
CHARLES MUNCH conducting
4 Symphonies (including the last three), serenades, concertos and a choral work conducted by HUGH ROSS
In the programs of each week the music of a great composer will be featured.

July 19, 20, 21 — Series A (Shed)
TCHAIKOVSKY
CHARLES MUNCH and PIERRE MONTEUX
The Violin Concerto (with ISAAC STERN)
Two Symphonies and other works

July 26, 27, 28 — Series B (Shed)
BERLIOZ
CHARLES MUNCH and PIERRE MONTEUX
"L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists, "Harold in Italy" and Fantastic Symphony

August 2, 3, 4 — Series C (Shed)
BRAHMS
CHARLES MUNCH and CARL SCHURICHT
The Violin Concerto (with ISAAC STERN)
Two Symphonies, Tragic Overture and Haydn Variations

August 9, 10, 11 — Series D (Shed)
BEETHOVEN
CHARLES MUNCH and CARL SCHURICHT
Two Symphonies, including Symphony No. 9 with chorus and soloists
The Violin Concerto (with ISAAC STERN)

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
MAY 19 1957

THE WORLD OF MU

Summer Festivals Bidding More For Visits From Touring Ame

By ROSS PARMENTER

THERE are many more names around this summer's musical map than bordered the similar map last year. In part the increase mirrors the continuing expansion of summer music. Yet not all the new names represent new festivals. Many of the events have been recurring quietly in their own corners for a number of summers. The new element in the situation is that more and more local festivals are now making a play for national attention.

Each summer, it seems, American vacationists grow increasingly mobile. Those giving festivals have realized that year after year more and more tourists are on the road, eager for entertainment. As automobiles and good highways have made distances less important, summer impresarios have been making an increasing play for tourists from all parts of the country. One ... this ... summer. Never before have plans been drawn up so far in advance, nor have prospectuses been so widely circulated. The old days of schedules arranged at the last moment with notices sent out too late to reach any one except those in the neighborhood, it seems, are over.

NEWCOMERS: Three of this year's festivals that are new to the map are also new to the country. One is the Jamestown Festival, a series of musical events interspersed among the other festival activities being held in Virginia to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the establishment of the first permanent English settlement in the New World. Significantly enough, the other two new festivals are operatic, for one of the major post-war developments in American summer music is the spread of summer opera. The larger of the two new events is that of the Santa Fe Opera Association, which will present operas at Santa Fe, N. M., from July 3 to Aug. 29. The other is the first summer opera colony to be run by the National Grass Roots Opera at East Carolina College in Greenville, N. C., from June 10 to July 5.

MAN OF THE HOUR: Stravinsky will be widely honored in the summer festivals. His seventy-fifth birthday falls on June 17, and that day Franz Waxman's Los Angeles Music Festival will round up its activities with a gala all-Stravinsky program. It will consist of the "Symphony of ... American première ... Sacrum," and "Ag ... ballet commissioned ... Kirstein. The Asp ... which opens in Colo ... 26, will perform ... works all through ... season. The Berks ... at Lenox, Mass., wil ... "Jeu de Cartes," ... Printemps" and "C ... crum." And his n ... "The Rake's Progre ... one of the worki ... Santa Fe.

HEMIDEMISEMI ... Marian Anderson, ... ceived honorary d ... five colleges, will ... more this spring. Th ... honoring her are St ... lege, South Bend, I ... State College; Morg ... le[illegible]altimore; ... versity, and the U ... Rochester. ... Dou ... "The Ballad of Ba ... have ... May 23, when ... first of five per ... Stanford Univer ... the Clinton Hill ... its final concert of the season on Tuesday at Pratt Institute Memorial Hall it will play the first performance of a work it commissioned, Ezra Laderman's "Fantasy on Clinton Hill."

The Masterwork Chorus, which draws its membership from fifty-nine towns in northern New Jersey, will give its second annual music." This is the case at the Adirondack Studio of Song, June 28 to September 4 at Lake George, N. Y.

On the West coast, jazz is making its mark at some of the leading centers of serious vein summer music. One of the most interesting is the Idyllwild, Calif., Arts Foundation. There the program encompasses dance, art and literature, as well as jazz, chamber music, orchestra, chorus and music education.

At Kansas City's Conservatory.

The course in jazz at the Conservatory of Music of Kansas City originally was scheduled to start in September, but the interest in it has been so lively that the conservatory is scheduling a summer school course, Lyle Kennedy, manager of the music center, said.

"We already have one 'combo' group enrolled, to start June 8," Kennedy said. "We expect other such groups to sign up, after the auditions that are a requirement. We also plan to have courses ready in harmony, keyboard, dictation and ear training."

There have been numerous inquiries, Kennedy said, about instruction for popular singers. Such a course may be offered. Most of the would-be "pop" singers are girls.

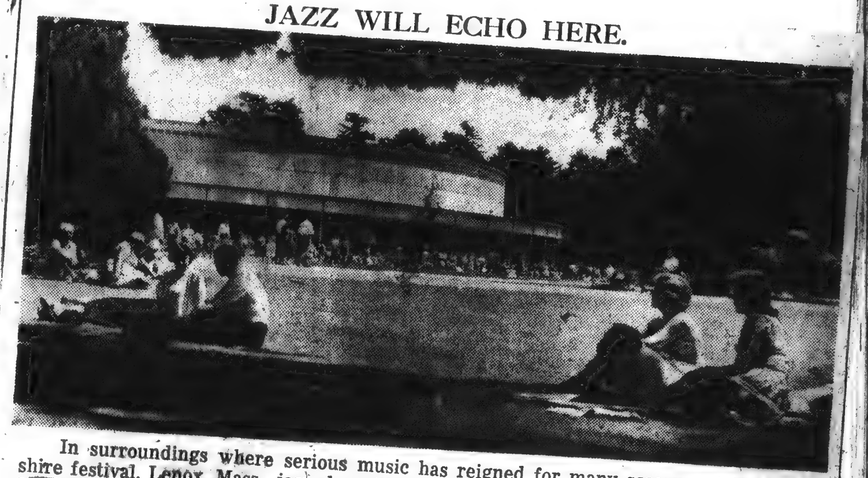
The formal name for the "combo" is "Modern Dance Band," and that is the way it is described on the conservatory's circulars. There usually are five or six members.

Three veteran jazz musicians who regularly entertain the patrons of Kansas City night spots will be the conservatory's teachers or jazz: Willie Rice, arranger and piano-trumpet man; George Salisbury, pianist, and Herb Six, pianist and harmony expert. Six will not be new on the conservatory faculty, having taught conventional courses there seven years.

There have been some requests for the addition of a course in jazz or popular music at the Mid-Western Music and Art camp at the University of Kansas, but thus far no such step has been seriously contemplated, the camp's director, Prof. Russell L. Wiley, said. The camp opens June 16 for six weeks.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
KANSAS CITY, MO.
TIMES
Circ. D. 338,145
MAY 25 1957

JAZZ WILL ECHO HERE.



In surroundings where serious music has reigned for many seasons, at the Berkshire festival, Lenox, Mass., jazz also will resound this summer. The School for Jazz Inc., will open August 12 at the Berkshire Music barn, and continue through August 30. The jazz faculty, students and audiences will make use of the Berkshire Shed (shown here) and other facilities after the Boston Symphony has completed the 20th summer of music in the hills of Western Massachusetts.

Jazz Plays in Same League With Classics at Summer Festivals

Conservatory Here Is in the Forefront of New Trend, Offering Courses in Summer Session—At the Tanglewood Festival, Makers of "Modern Music" Will Follow the Boston Symphony.

By Clyde Neibarger.
(The Star's Music Editor.)

ANY actual gulf that exists between so-called jazz or popular music and so-called "serious music" is being bridged in various ways in these days. Music schools are adding courses in jazz. In the summer music festivals and workshops, jazz is being given a place alongside the classics.

In Kansas City, the Conservatory of Music is adding a course in jazz. Other schools around the nation have established such courses, or plan to do so soon. But this is one of the first invasions of a formal conservatory.

In New York's Town Hall, where most of the music heard is on the serious side, a new concert society, Music for Moderns, launched a series of four concerts including Duke Ellington's band on the same program with Dimitri Metropoulos and the New York Philharmonic-Symphony. Symbolic sounds of impressionism and jazz that tend to put them in the same league were defined on another program. A third linked Negro gospel music with European art songs. The fourth program, to be given tomorrow, will be "New Horizons," devoted to the most advanced ideas in jazz and serious music.

On the Ellington-Mitropoulos program at Town Hall, Ellington and his orchestra played the world premiere of the Duke's concert suite called "Such Sweet Thunder," the title taken from a Shakespearean play. Ellington dedicated the suite to the Stratford Shakespearean festival at Stratford, Ontario, Canada, where he and his orchestra played jazz music last summer.

Jazz Program at Stratford.

This summer at the Stratford Shakespearean festival, July 1 to September 7, jazz again will be very much a part of the concert schedule. There will be six jazz concerts, each being repeated, on Friday and Saturday evenings from August 2 to 17. Count Basie and his orchestra with Joe Williams will appear August 2-3, Billie Holiday and a Canadian group, the Ron Collier quintet, will do the August 9-10 program. The Gerry Mulligan quartet and the Teddy Wilson trio are down for August 16-17.

The pleasant rubbing of elbows by the sophisticates of jazz and serious music really achieves a milestone this summer at the Tanglewood area in Western Massachusetts, renowned as the summer home of the Boston Symphony orchestra and its distinguished conductor, Charles Muench. The Tanglewood festival is the most important one in this country.

At Lenox, home of the Tanglewood festival, a new School of Jazz, Inc., will take over the music leadership of the area when the Boston Symphony departs August 11. Some of the most important names in modern jazz will head the faculty—John (Dizzy) Gillespie, trumpet; Oscar Peterson and John Lewis, piano; Ray Brown, jazz bass; Max Roach, drums; Herb Ellis, guitar; Milt Jackson, vibraharp; Bill Russo, jazz composition; Marshall W. Stearns, history of jazz, and Jule Foster, dean.

In a tribute to Louis Armstrong, the Newport Jazz festival July 4, 5 and 6 at Newport, R. I., will feature international jazz, with musicians from Europe and America participating.

Labeled "Modern Music."

They call it "modern music," but the performers are Duke Ellington and his orchestra and Stan Kenton and Company, as a part of the Ravinia Park festival in Chicago this summer. The Chicago festival has been expanded to nine weeks by the addition of dramatic readings, children's concerts, folk songs and art masterpieces. Ellington will appear on July 1 and 3, Kenton on July 29 and 31. From the same stage, the Chicago Symphony orchestra will play all "serious" performances.

On some other schedules of summer festivals and music schools or workshops the new courses are described as "popular music." This is the case at the Adirondack Studio of Song, June 28 to September 4 at Lake George, N. Y.

On the West coast, jazz is making its mark at some of the leading centers of serious vein summer music. One of the most interesting is the Idyllwild, Calif., Arts Foundation. There the program encompasses dance, art and literature, as well as jazz, chamber music, orchestra, chorus and music education.

At Kansas City's Conservatory.

The course in jazz at the Conservatory of Music of Kansas City originally was scheduled to start in September, but the interest in it has been so lively that the conservatory is scheduling a summer school course, Lyle Kennedy, manager of the music center, said.

"We already have one 'combo' group enrolled, to start June 8," Kennedy said. "We expect other such groups to sign up, after the auditions that are a requirement. We also plan to have courses ready in harmony, keyboard, dictation and ear training."

There have been numerous inquiries, Kennedy said, about instruction for popular singers. Such a course may be offered. Most of the would-be "pop" singers are girls.

The formal name for the "combo" is "Modern Dance Band," and that is the way it is described on the conservatory's circulars. There usually are five or six members.

Three veteran jazz musicians who regularly entertain the patrons of Kansas City night spots will be the conservatory's teachers or jazz: Willie Rice, arranger and piano-trumpet man; George Salisbury, pianist, and Herb Six, pianist and harmony expert. Six will not be new on the conservatory faculty, having taught conventional courses there seven years.

There have been some requests for the addition of a course in jazz or popular music at the Mid-Western Music and Art camp at the University of Kansas, but thus far no such step has been seriously contemplated, the camp's director, Prof. Russell L. Wiley, said. The camp opens June 16 for six weeks.

Eric Satie's "Sports et Divertissements" the hit of the second "Music for Moderns" concert. . . . Among recitalists, Armen Guirag, Turkish-born tenor, had "a superb voice," Mireya Arboleda was an "intelligent and cultivated" pianist, and Suzanne Sten, mezzo-soprano, presented "a rewarding evening."

[18]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Herald Tribune
NEW YORK, N. Y.
Independent Republican
Circ. 585,009

JUN 9 1957

Ellenville to Score Beat on Tanglewood

By FRANCIS D. PERKINS

Ellenville leads Tanglewood by a three-day margin in performing Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for the first time in the eastern United States. In a double bill with Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" under Leopold Stokowski's direction, it will be a feature of the Empire State Music Festival's third season on Thursday and Saturday nights, July 18 and 20. Charles Munch will conduct it in the Berkshire Festival's Music Shed at Lenox, Mass., Sunday afternoon, July 21.

The American Concert Choir, trained by Margaret Hillis, will be heard with the Symphony of the Air in the Ellenville double bill with Uta Graf, Rudolf Petrak and Philip Maero as soloists. "Canticum Sacrum," which had its premiere in Venice in September, will have its first American hearing in an all-Stravinsky program at Los Angeles on the composer's seventy-fifth birthday, June 17, with Robert Craft conducting. It calls for chorus, tenor and baritone, and an orchestra of strings (minus violins and violas), wood winds, harp and organ.

• • •

The Ellenville season runs from July 4 to 28. Igor Markevitch will conduct Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Brahms' Alto Rhapsody on Thursday night and Sunday afternoon, July 4 and 7, when Miss Graf, Mr. Petrak, Maureen Forrester and Norman Scott will sing with the Symphony of the Air and Miss Hillis' choristers. Solofsts of the Royal Danish Ballet will dance Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 5, 6 and 7, offering a different program each evening; Robert Zeller will conduct.

Thursday and Saturday nights, July 11 and 13, will be devoted to stage performances of Richard Strauss' "Elektra." Jose Limon's choreographic version of Eugene O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones," with music by Heitor Villa-Lobos, is scheduled for Friday and Sunday nights, July 12 and 14, when the composer will conduct. This was first performed last summer at Ellenville. Details of the remaining programs have not been announced. Further information can be obtained from the Empire State Music Festival's headquarters, 36 W. 44th St. (OXford 7-0490).

Sixty thousand persons attended the first festival season on the southern fringe of the Catskills for five weeks in 1955. Last summer's festival was shorter by a week, but drew nearly 65,000.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012

APR 30 1957

Boston Symphony Going Calypso as Pops Open

Boston — (UP) — Musical Boston goes informal tonight with the opening of the Pops Concerts, light-hearted prelude to the Summer music season.

Calypso and jazz beats will mingle with a classical drum rolls during the new season, which music lovers take just as seriously as the formal Fall and Winter music season.

Ninety-five Boston Symphony Orchestra players don Summer weight clothes and play before tables instead of rows of seats, but there will be more Beethoven than boogie. This, the 72d Pops season, will last until June 29.

Veteran Maestro Fiedler leads the Pops, which feature lighter classics not suitable to the formal symphony season and big-orchestra arrangement of popular music of the day. Pops programs run the gamut from Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture to Rodgers and Hmmerstein.

The Pops musicians go out beside the Charles River for a series of esplanade concerts beginning July 2 and return briefly, after the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., which runs from July 3 to Aug. 11, inclusive.

Thousands of visitors will hear Charles Munch share the podium with guest conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. Renowned violinist Isaac Stern will be soloist in a series of classic concertos.

Simultaneous with the Esplanade and Tanglewood programs, the Castle Hill Foundation schedules an impressive series of concerts at Ipswich, Mass.

Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson Jazz Trio will start off the series June 28.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017

APR 30 1957

Pops Concerts Open Tonight In Boston

By JOHN A. HAHN

Boston, April 30 —(UP)— Musical Boston goes informal tonight with the opening of the pops concerts, light-hearted prelude to the summer music season.

Calypso and jazz beats will mingle with classical drum rolls during the new season which music lovers take just as seriously as the formal fall and winter concert series.

Ninety - five Boston Symphony Orchestra players don summerweight clothes and play before tables instead of rows of seats but there will be more Beethoven than boogie. This, the 72d pops season, will last until June 29.

Veteran maestro Fiedler leads the pops concerts which feature lighter classics not suitable to the big - orchestra arrangement of popular music of the day. Pops programs run the gamut from Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture to Rodgers and Hammerstein.

The pops musicians go out beside the Charles River for a series of Esplanade concerts beginning July 2 and return, briefly, after the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., which runs from July 3 to Aug. 11, inclusive.

The Tanglewood concerts also are outdoors but under shelter and are as formal as the winter symphony series.

Thousands of visitors to New England, many from neighboring New York State, will hear Charles Munch share the Boston Symphony podium with guest conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. Renowned violinist Isaac Stern will be soloist in a series of classic concertos.

Simultaneous with the esplanade and Tanglewood programs the Castle Hilg Foundation schedules an impressive series of concerts at Ipswich, Mass.

Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson Jazz Trio will start off the series June 28 at Castle Hill, formerly the Crane Estate.

Calypso Master Geoffrey Holder and his Trinidad Dancers will climax the Castle Hill season which also has scheduled Mezzo-Soprano Mildred Miller, pianist Rudolf Serkin, Negro basso William Warfield and the Berkshire Quartet.

Even the children aren't forgotten, musically. Special small-fry Esplanade concerts will be given the mornings of July 3 and 10 and Aug. 14 in Boston.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496

APR 30 1957

Pops Concert Season Opens In Hub Tonight

BOSTON (UP)—Musical Boston goes informal tonight with the opening of the Pops concerts, light-hearted prelude to the summer music season.

Calypso and jazz beats will mingle with classical drum rolls during the new season which music loves take just as seriously a the formal fall and winter concert series.

Ninety-five Boston Symphony Orchestra players don summerweight clothes and play before tables instead of rows of seats but there will be more Beethoven than boogie. This, the 72nd Pops season, will last until June 29.

Veteran maestro Arthur Fiedler leads the Pops concerts which feature lighter classics not suitable to the formal symphony season and big-orchestra arrangement of popular music of the day.

Outdoors in July

The Pops musicians go out beside the Charles River for a series of Esplanade concerts beginning July 2 and return, briefly, after the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., which runs from July 3 to Aug. 11, inclusive.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-42

Herald News (e)
FALL RIVER, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 39,974

APR 30 1957

Boston Pops Start Again

BOSTON, (UP)—Musical Boston goes informal tonight with the opening of the Pops Concerts, light-hearted prelude to the Summer music season.

Calypso and jazz beats will mingle with a classical drum rolls during the new season. But there will be more Beethoven than boogie. This, the 72nd pops season, will last until June 29.

Veteran Maestro Fiedler leads the Boston Symphony Orchestra Pops Concert, which feature lighter classics not suitable to the formal symphony season and big-orchestra arrangement of popular music of the day. Pops programs run the gamut from Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture to Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Play at Tanglewood

The Pops musicians go out besides the Charles River for a series of Esplanade concerts beginning July 2 and return, briefly, after the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, which runs from July 3 to Aug. 11.

The Tanglewood concerts also are outdoors but under shelter and are as formal as the Winter symphony series.

Thousands of visitors to New England will hear Charles Munch share the Boston Symphony podium with guest conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. Renowned violinist Isaac Stern will be soloist in a series of classic concertos.

Concerts of Ipswich

Simultaneous with the Esplanade and Tanglewood programs, the Castle Hill Foundation schedules an impressive series of concerts at Ipswich, Mass.

Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson Jazz Trio will start off the series June 28 at Castle Hill, formerly the Crane estate.

Calypso master Geoffrey Holder and his Trinidad Dancers will climax the Castle Hill season which also has scheduled mezzo-soprano Mildred Miller, pianist Rudolf Serkin, Negro basso William Warfield and the Berkshire Quartet.

Even the children aren't forgotten, musically. Special small-fry Esplanade concerts will be given the mornings of July 3 and 10 and Aug. 14 in Boston.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Times (e)
GLOUCESTER, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 9,264

APR 30 1957

Pops Concerts Begin Tonight

By JOHN A. HAHN

United Press Staff Correspondent

BOSTON (UP)—Musical Boston goes informal tonight with the opening of the Pops concerts, light-hearted prelude to the summer music season.

Calypso and jazz beats will mingle with classical drum rolls during the new season which music loves take just as seriously as the formal fall and winter concert series.

Ninety-five Boston Symphony Orchestra players don summerweight clothes and play before tables instead of rows of seats but there will be more Beethoven than boogie. This, the 72nd Pops season, will last until June 29.

Veteran maestro Arthur Fiedler leads the Pops concerts which feature lighter classics not suitable to the formal symphony season and big-orchestra arrangement of popular music of the day. Pops programs run the gamut from Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture to Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Outdoors in July

The Pops musicians go out beside the Charles River for a series of Esplanade concerts beginning July 2 and return, briefly, after the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., which runs from July 3 to Aug. 11, inclusive.

The Tanglewood concerts also are outdoors but under shelter and are as formal as the winter symphony series.

Thousands of visitors to New England, many from neighboring New York state, will hear Charles Munch share the Boston Symphony podium with guest conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. Renowned violinist Isaac Stern will be soloist in a series of classic concertos.

Simultaneous with the Esplanade and Tanglewood programs, the Castle Hill Foundation schedules an impressive series of concerts at Ipswich, Mass.

Jazz at Castle Hill

Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson Jazz Trio will start off the series June 28 at Castle Hill, formerly the Crane Estate.

Calypso master Geoffrey Holder and his Trinidad dancers will climax the Castle Hill season which also has scheduled mezzo-soprano Mildred Miller, pianist Rudolf Serkin, Negro basso William Warfield and the Berkshire quartet.

Even the children aren't forgotten, musically. Special small-fry Esplanade concerts will be given the mornings of July 3 and 10 and Aug. 14 in Boston.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052
APR 24 1957

Full Program Announced For Tanglewood At Lenox Starting Early In July

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Huge Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique"). On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchiakovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahm's Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahm's Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News (e)
FRAMINGHAM, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 11,543
APR 27 1957

1957 Festival At Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival, at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The first two week-ends of the festival in the Theatre-Concert hall, by a chamber orchestra, will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, respectively. Open the concerts of the Bach weekend, on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert, on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Press (e)
BRISTOL, Conn.
Independent Republican
Circ. 12,670
APR 26 1957

Hub Symphony Orchestra Announces Program For Tanglewood Production

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Luke Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game", Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring" Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair", "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Ceare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet", Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler".

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the work of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11th, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the work of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11th, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Patriot-Ledger (e)
QUINCY, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 41,931
APR 30 1957

72nd Pops Concert Season To Open In Boston Tonight

BOSTON, April 30 (UP)—Musical Boston goes informal tonight with the opening of the Pops concerts, light-hearted prelude to the summer music season.

Variety Offered

Calypso and jazz beats will mingle with a classical drum rolls during the new season which music lovers take just as seriously as the formal fall and winter concert series.

Ninety-five Boston Symphony orchestra players don summer-weight clothes and play before tables instead of rows of seats but there will be more Beethoven than boogie. This, the 72nd Pops season, will last until June 29.

Veteran Maestro Arthur Fiedler leads the Pops concerts which feature lighter classics not suitable to the formal symphony season and big-orchestra arrangement of popular music of the day. Pops programs run the gamut from Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture to Rodgers and Hammerstein.

The Pops musicians go out besides the Charles River for a series of Esplanade concerts beginning July 2 and return, briefly, after the Berkshire music festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., which runs from July 3 to Aug. 11, inclusive.

The Tanglewood concerts also are outdoors but under shelter and are as formal as the winter symphony series.

Guest Conductors

Thousands of visitors to New England, many from neighboring New York state, will hear Charles Munch share the Boston Symphony podium with guests conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. Renowned violinist Isaac Stern will be soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Beethoven Violin Concerto.

Simultaneous with the Esplanade and Tanglewood programs, the Castle Hill foundation schedules an impressive series of concerts at Ipswich, Mass.

Ella Fitzgerald and the Oscar Peterson jazz trio will start off the series June 28 at Castle Hill, formerly the Crane estate.

Calypso master Geoffrey Holder and his Trinidad dancers will climax the Castle Hill season which also has scheduled mezzo-soprano Mildred Miller, pianist Rudolf Serkin, Negro basso William Warfield and the Berkshire quartet.

Even the children aren't forgotten, musically. Special small-fry Esplanade concerts will be given the mornings of July 3 and 10 and Aug. 14 in Boston.

Syracuse Herald-American
June 9, 1957

To Honor Stravinsky In East and West

During the first weekend concerts July 21 by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in The Music Shed at "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., tribute will be paid Igor Stravinsky, who celebrates his birthday June 17. Dr. Charles Munch, musical director of the orchestra and of the Berkshire Music Center, will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists and orchestra of wind instruments, bow strings and organ.

On June 19 there will be a special birthday concert in Los Angeles Honoring Composer Stravinsky and devoted to his music. For Friday, July 19, and Saturday, July 20, Dr. Munch has arranged Stravinsky music. He will present the ballet, "Card Game," (Jeu de Cartes) on July 19. On July 20 Pierre Monteux will conduct the Rite of Spring" which was introduced in Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's "Ballet Russe."

Hugh Ross will direct the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch. Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals. In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer. Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

[20]

Tanglewood Programs Released For Six-Week Music Festival

TANGLEWOOD — The complete programs for the forthcoming Berkshire Festival, announced today by Boston Symphony Orchestra music director Charles Munch, spell out in detail the three-point emphasis to be given this summer's concerts.

To be stressed will be three things: The music of one of the great composers each weekend, modern music on the programs of each of the last four weekends and performances by Isaac Stern of three great violin concertos.

Bach-Mozart Opener

The first two weekends of concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening of the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, with G. Wallace Woodworth acting as conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

Ross To Conduct

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game" Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra, with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture, "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; Gerald Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus.

Monteux Conductor

Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto, with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, with Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Beethoven Wind-Up

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross, conductor) and soloists, Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017
APR 29 1957

Tanglewood Concerts To Open July 5

The complete programs of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. has been announced by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The first two weekends of the festival in the Theater - Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopless, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G-minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Cinfonia Concertante K. 297 B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tachaikovsky's Rocco Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

All-Berlioz Event

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Snfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo - soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Grammm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medee's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

HERALD TRIBUNE
1 28, 1957
Section 4 Part 1

glewood Festi ing 41 Progr

By FRANCIS D. PERKINS

performances will be heard during thi ctivity at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., w ady announced, the Boston Symphony en concerts in its regular Berkshire Fes e the annual "Tanglewood on Par he Boston Pops r Arthur Fiedler ug. 8. The groups o will appear in the six Wednes- nber music series ni Quartet, July pkin and Ralph nists, July 10; o, July 17; Kroll , July 24, and , baritone, July e Music Center ffer orchestral, mber music con- erformances and ums. Operas are three Mondays, Aug. 5. If Tan- nts are followed, ude one or more nfamiliar earlier

---

BOSTON HERALD
Sunday, April 28, 1957

Boston Symphony Announces Full Tanglewood Programs

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre - Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

Mozart Featured

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian Composer, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of 'L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

To Mark Debut

The first concert of the following week on Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Beethoven's Works

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11th, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

[20]

4—The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, April 27, 1957

Tanglewood Programs Released For Six-Week Music Festival

TANGLEWOOD — The complete programs for the forthcoming Berkshire Festival, announced today by Boston Symphony Orchestra music director Charles Munch, spell out in detail the three-point emphasis to be given this summer's concerts.

To be stressed will be three things: The music of one of the great composers each weekend, modern music on the programs of each of the last four weekends and performances by Isaac Stern of three great violin concertos.

Bach-Mozart Opener

The first two weekends of concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening of the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert Saturday evening, [illegible] consist of five Brandenweek on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto, with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, with Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Beethoven Wind-Up

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross, conductor) and soloists, Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

penny per gallon. It is per gallon. It erkshire price of EAT with ation per

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017

APR 29 1957

Tanglewood Concerts To Open July 5

The complete programs of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. has been announced by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The first two weekends of the festival in the Theater - Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopless, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G-minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Cinfonia Concertante K. 297 B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tachaikovsky's Rocco Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert

BOSTON HERALD
Sunday, April 28, 1957

Boston Symphony Announces Full Tanglewood Programs

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre - Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

Mozart Featured

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian Composer, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of 'L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

To Mark Debut

The first concert of the following week on Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch will [redacted] tival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Beethoven's Works

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11th, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE
April 28, 1957

6 Section 4 Part 1

Tanglewood Festival Offering 41 Programs

By FRANCIS D. PERKINS

Forty-one performances will be heard during this summer's six weeks of activity at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., which begin July 2. As already announced, the Boston Symphony Orchestra will give eighteen concerts in its regular Berkshire Festival series, and will share the annual "Tanglewood on Parade" program with the Boston Pops Orchestra under Arthur Fiedler on Thursday, Aug. 8. The groups and artists who will appear in the first five of the six Wednesday night chamber music series are the Paganini Quartet, July 3; Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, pianists, July 10; Beaux Arts Trio, July 17; Kroll String Quartet, July 24, and Gerard Souzay, baritone, July 31.

The Berkshire Music Center will again offer orchestral, choral and chamber music concerts, opera performances and composers' forums. Operas are scheduled for three Mondays, July 22, 29 and Aug. 5. If Tanglewood precedents are followed, these will include one or more modern or unfamiliar earlier works.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012
MAY 14 1957

C221

NEW YORK TIMES
April 29, 1957

PROGRAMS LISTED FOR TANGLEWOOD

Festival Opening July 5 Will Be Concluded on Aug. 11 With Beethoven's Ninth

Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Berkshire Festival Chorus on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, as the highlight of the final weekend of the Berkshire Festival at Lenox, Mass.

For this performance in the Tanglewood Music Shed Charles Munch and his orchestra will be joined by Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm, bass.

On Sunday afternoon, July 7, Part II of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" will provide a similarly festive climax to the opening week of Bach and Mozart programs conducted by Mr. Munch in the Tanglewood Theatre-Concert Hall. The "St. Matthew Passion" will enlist the same soloists as the Ninth Symphony plus James Joyce, bass; the Radcliff Choral Society and the Harvard Glee Club.

The festival will begin Friday, July 5, with a program of Bach suites and concertos featuring Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, pianists, and Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist. The concert of July 6 will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos.

Three Mozart Programs

The following three week-end concerts, July 12, 13 and 14, will be devoted entirely to Mozart. They will feature his Litanies (K. 243) for chorus, soloists and orchestra, conducted by Hugh Ross, his three last symphonies, those in E flat, G minor, and C major, as well as the Sinfonia Concertante (K. 297b) and concertos for winds.

The four week-ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will begin Friday evening, July 19, with a Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky program, the first of a week-end series devoted to those composers. Mr Munch will conduct Tchaikovsky's "Pathetique" Symphony and Rococo Variations for 'Cello and Orchestra and Stravinsky's "Card Game."

Monteux Will Conduct

Pierre Monteux as guest conductor on July 20 will present Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring" and Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony. On July 21 Isaac Stern will be the soloist in the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto and Mr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum."

The week-end of July 26-28 will feature the music of Berlioz, including a performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" with Miss Kopleff, Mr. Gramm, Mr. Valetti, tenor; Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Mr. Monteux will appear again as guest conductor for the concert of July 28.

Carl Schuricht will make two guest appearances to conduct the concerts of Friday, Aug. 2, and Saturday, Aug. 10. His first program will include Werner Egk's Sonata for Orchestra and Brahms' First Symphony and Tragic Overture.

Rudolf Serkin will be the soloist in Brahms' Second Piano Concerto on the afternoon of Aug. 5. Mr. Stern will return for additional appearances in the Brahms Violin Concerto on Aug. 3 and the Beethoven Violin Concerto on Aug. 9.

Bach Weekend to Open Tanglewood Season in July

The first two weekends of the 1957 Berkshire Music Festival in the Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood by a chamber orchestra of the Boston Symphony will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively.

Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4.

On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The concert of Saturday evening, July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

* * *

THE FIRST WEEKEND of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game", Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique"). On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring". Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

* * *

AN ALL-BERLIOZ program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair", "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of 'L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerald Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet", Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler".

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

* * *

THE FINAL weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert on Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Lenore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11th, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

SYRACUSE HERALD-AMERICAN, Sunday, May 5, 1957 35

'Tanglewood' Plans Include Brahms, Bach

Dr. Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has completed programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival season in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass. The first two weekends of the festival, in the theater-concert hall by a chamber orchestra conducted by Director Munch, will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart. At the opening concerts of the Bach weekend starting July 5, the program will include the Brandenburg Concerto with Lukas Foss as piano soloist. Foss played with an augmented chamber orchestra (the Krasner Ensemble) last Monday night in Nottingham High School here. On July 7 the concert will move to the Music Shed when Part II of The Passion According to St. Matthew will be sung. Soloists: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, bassos. Joyce is an alumnus of Syracuse University.

The debut of the noted German conductor Carl Schuricht is set for August 2 in the Shed when the symphonic program will comprise the Brahms Tragic Overture, the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk and the Brahms First Symphony. On August 3 Isaac Stern, violinist, will be soloist in a Brahms' Concerto, also playing "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber, American composer. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct the Brahms Academic Festival Overture and the Brahms Second Piano Concerto with Rudolf Serkin, soloist. The program will include Walter Piston's Fifth Symphony.

An all-Berlioz program, special emphasis on Beethoven and the three great symphonies of Mozart —the E Flat, G Minor and C Major—also are scheduled by Dr. Munch, as well as works of Tschaikowsky and Igor Stravinsky.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
MAY 29 1957

TANGLEWOOD TO PAY TRIBUTE TO I. STRAVINSKY

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17 of the year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravisky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival on September 20, 1956, and will have its United States premiere at a special birthday concert in honor of Mr. Stravinsky and devoted to his music in Los Angeles on June 19 under the direction of Robert Craft. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" "(The Rite of Spring"). Mr. Monteux introduced this work to Paris in May, 1913, conducting the first performance of the ballet by Diaghilev's Ballet Russe.

On the following weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "News of the Day" ("Neues Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathis der Maler". Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

[22]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 43,857
APR 28 1957

Boston Symphony Annnounces Schedule For Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, yesterday announced the complete programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the festival in the Theatre - Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopless, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G-minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring". Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

All-Berlioz Event

An all - Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair", "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo - soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet", Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medee's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
MAY 2 1957

Complete Programs for Festival Listed

Director Munch Announces Tanglewood Music

Bach and Mozart Will Be Featured During First Two Weeks.—Carl Schuricht, Noted German Conductor, Will Lead Two Performances of Full Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox.

The first two week-ends of the festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach week-end on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart week-end with the Divertimento K. 136 for strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for wind instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The concert of Saturday evening July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists, Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stragliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon.

The first week-end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikowsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21 presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26 including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus.

Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week, on August 2, will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medee's Meditation and dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final week-end of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078 Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
APR 27 1957

Munch Announces Complete Programs for Tanglewood

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, today announced the complete programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire festival at Tanglewood, Lenox.

First Two Week-Ends

The first two week-ends of the festival in the theater-concert hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Mr. Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach week-end on Friday, July 5, Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg concerto No. 5, with Lukas Foss as piano soloist; Suite No. 2, with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute; and the Concerto for two pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the music shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee club and Radcliffe Choral society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will be at Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart week-end with the Divertimento K. 136 for strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for wind instruments, and the "Haffner" symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half, of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the music shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists - Sherman Walt in the Bassoon concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante, K. 297B for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon.

The first week-end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony orchestra in the music shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for 'cello and orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

Monteux Conductor

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky violin concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlin program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy," with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" overture and his symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week, on Aug. 2, will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Final Week-End

The final week-end of the Berkshire festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth symphony will bring the festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with the Berkshire Festival chorus, Hugh Ross conductor, and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

[23]

Berkshire Festival Programs Announced

Mozart, Bach Fill 2 Weekends

Special to The Blade

BOSTON, May 4—Charles Muench, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced complete programs for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, near Lenox.

The first two weekends in the Theater-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Mr. Muench and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend Friday, July 5, Charles Muench will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be in the Music Shed, devoted to Part 2 of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. Choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

★ ★ ★

ON FRIDAY, July 12, Mr. Muench will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento (K. 136) for strings, the Serenade (K. 361) for winds and the "Haffner" symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies (K. 243) for chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The concert Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Mr. Muench will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto (K. 495). The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante (K. 297B) for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orcrestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikowsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Mr. Muench will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game;" Tchaikowsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

★ ★ ★

SATURDAY EVENING, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program of the "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikowsky's fifth symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Mr. Muench will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert July 21, presenting Tchaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" by Stravinsky, and the Tchaikowsky violin concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed Friday evening, July 26, including the overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist; and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented Saturday evening, July 28, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; Gerard Souzay, baritone and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor Sunday, July 28, in excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet;" Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" overture and his symphony "Mathis der Maler."

★ ★ ★

THE FIRST concert of the following week Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms' Tragic Overture, a Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms' first symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Mr. Muench will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist; also, "Medee's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Mr. Buench will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and Brahms' second piano concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

★ ★ ★

THE FINAL weekend of the Festival will lean upon Beethoven. Mr. Muench will conduct Friday evening, Aug. 9, Betehoven's "Leonore," Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven violin concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor Saturday, Aug. 10, M. Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik; Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

Beethoven's ninth symphony will bring the Festival to a close Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Mr. Muench will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

TWENTIETH FESTIVAL OPENS AT TANGLEWOOD JULY 19

Students practice chamber music under a tree

Music

Syracuse Herald-American June 2, 1957

'Teahouse' To Open In Lyric June 18

By E. V. W.

Actors of Oriental background, who played on Broadway and on tour in "Teahouse of the August Moon," have been engaged for roles in that comedy hit by the Finger Lakes Lyric Circus management. The show opens Tuesday night, June 18, and will run for two weeks in The Tent in Route 20 near Skaneateles. These actors include lovely Tsuruka Kobayashi as Lotus Blossom, leading feminine role, and Jerry Fugikawa, Christal Kim, Nace Kondo and Mara Kim.

Also engaged for the production is Chuck Morgan, who appeared as a professional wrestler in the motion picture "The Joe Louis Story" and who was in the original production of "Teahouse," and John J. Martin and David Renard, seen with Burgess Meredith, in the National Company of the show. Frank Maxwell, former Syracusan who left here to win success on Broadway and in Radio-TV, and the Lyric Circus producers and directors, Walter Davis and David Davis, also are in the cast. The setting of "Teahouse" is on Okinawa where U.S. Military government officers come to know the problems of life in the Orient. "Teahouse" is the only non-musical show booked for the Lyric's 1957 season.

This date in music: 1846, Camille Saint-Saens makes his debut as a pianist in Paris; 1938 Lily Pons and Andre Kostelanetz wed.

A special evening concert, a Family Night, with no admission charge and an invitation to parents to bring their children, is announced by the board of directors of the Onondaga Symphony Orchestra, William Haaker conductor, Thursday night, June 13, at 8:15 o'clock in Nottingham High School auditorium. Conductor Haaker will narrate program notes as he has done with other orchestras he conducts—the Virginia Symphony and in Milwaukee, the Pops Orchestra.

The program will include the overture to Herold's opera "Zampa," two movements from Handel's "Water Music" Suite; the first movement of Dvorak's "New World Symphony," the closing movement of Bizet's "La Arlesienne Suite No. 2. Also a Fugato by McBride, contemporary composer, on a well-known theme, "Dance of the Comedians," by Smetana and the Rakoczy March from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz.

Manager of the Orchestra is Murray Bernthal, violinist and teacher, executive of Famous Artists Series and active in Local 78, American Federation of Musicians. President of the Orchestra is Mrs. G. Norman Knaus.

The Berkshire Festival in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., will be July 3-Aug. 11 with "Tanglewood on Parade" featuring Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra on Aug. 8. Dr. Charles Munch is musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Berkshire Festival and Music Center. Carl Schuridt and Pierre Monteux will be guest conductors this season. Soloists with the Boston Symphony will include Pianist Rudolf Serkin and Violinist Isaac Stern.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theater-Concert Hall by a Chamber orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Munch and will be devoted respectively to Bach and Mozart works. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion by Bach. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Boyce, bassos.

Choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will go to "Tanglewood" especially to participate. Adele Addison, John McCollum and Donald Gramm were in Bethlehem, Pa., recently as soloists in the Bethlehem Bach Festival. Miss Koleff is known here for solo work with the Robert Shaw Chorale. Boyce is an alumnus of Syracuse University.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will open July 19 with works of Tschaikowsky and Stravinsky featured. Dr. Munch will conduct Friday night and Sunday afternoon; Pierre Monteux will lead the Orchestra Saturday night, July 20.

TIMES June 9

WORLD OF MUSIC: FLORENTINES

By ROSS PARMENTER

SINCE World War II Italy has sent us some fine chamber orchestras, notably the Virtuosi di Roma, I Musici and the Corelli Society. But we have not heard a full Italian symphony orchestra since Arturo Toscanini toured here with an orchestra of picked men from Milan's La Scala in 1920. This lends special interest to the fact that next season the Symphony Orchestra of the Florence May Festival will make its first American tour.

Its first concert in New York will be on Oct. 13 at Carnegie Hall. It will be sponsored by Casa Italiana of Columbia University. During its ten or eleven-week tour the orchestra will be led by three men, Carlo Zecchi, Franco Ferrara and Franco Mannino. Which one will be on the podium for the first New York concert has not yet been decided.

The cancellation of the tour of the Prague Philharmonic because of United States finger-printing requirements means the Florence orchestra will be the only symphony from abroad that will be heard here next season. But the Virtuosi di Roma will be back.

The Deutschmeister Band will come here as part of "Vienna on Parade" and there will be a number of chamber ensembles. Among those that have never visited this country will be the Barylli Quartet from Vienna, the Koeckert Quartet from Munich, the Quartetto di Roma and the Pauk String Quartet from Liège.

First Italian Symphony In 37 Years To Visit The U.S. in Fall

Despite its present home, however, the Pauk musicians are not Belgians. They are Hungarians, who were touring Western Europe at the time of the uprisings last year. They elected not to return to their homeland, which is why they will be able to tour here.

CANTICUM: Keeping track of first American performances of Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" has been a problem. News of its première began appearing last fall. At that time the Southern California Chamber Music Society said it would give the work its Los Angeles première on June 17. For a while this looked as if it would be the American première. However, this proposed program was later canceled. Then came the announcement that the United States première would be on July 21 at the Berkshire Festival. This performance, though, became the "East Coast première" when it was announced that Franz Waxman would conduct the work at the [illegible] concert of the Los Angeles [illegible] Festival on June 17. Last week the Berkshire première had to be downgraded still again. The new East Coast première was announced as taking place on July 18, when Leopold Stokowski will conduct it with the Symphony of the Air at the Empire State Festival in Ellenville.

MUSICOLOGIST: Donald W. MacArdle, who was co-editor with Ludwig Misch of "New Beethoven Letters," was in town recently. Far from being the usual musicologist, he turned out to be an engineer living in Dallas who prepares technical manuals for the Army. To do his musical research he gets up at 4:30 each morning. He works uninterruptedly from 5 to 8 A. M. He is hoping soon to be a contestant on the "The $64,000 Question" to win enough money to devote himself wholly to Beethoven.

OPENERS: Igor Markevitch's record of opening three major summer series as conductor will be equalled by Alexander Brailowsky's opening three as soloist. The one at which they will coincide is that of the Lewisohn Stadium on June 24. Mr. Markevitch's others will be Ravinia on June 27 and Ellenville on July 4. Mr. Brailowsky's additional concerts will be at Robin Hood Dell on June 17 and the Hollywood Bowl on July 9.

RADIO: Carlisle Floyd's "Susannah" will be the opening opera in the festival of recorded operatic performances that will be presented this week by WNYC. Altogether there will be sixty hours of music in the festival. Other American works will be Marvin David Levy's "Sotoba Komachi," Theodore Chanler's "Pot of Fat," Richard Owen's "Dismissed with Prejudice," and Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Unicorn, the Gorgon and the Manticore." Ruby Mercer, who began the festivals in 1951, will be the coordinator.

HEMIDEMISEMIQUAVERS: Grace Hoffman, American mezzo-soprano, is singing Brangaene in the five performances of "Tristan und Isolde" that Wolfgang Wagner is directing at Bayreuth this summer. . . . The University of Denver recently gave the première of "Venus in Africa," a three-act opera by George Antheil. . . . Paul Ben-Haim was selected as this year's winner of Israel's state prize for his achievements in creating a style linking Oriental and Western elements. . . . The du Pont Employes Concert Band of Wilmington, Del., is offering $100 in a contest for a concerto grosso for band which features four to six solo instruments.

FRIENDSHIP

Young American conductors, who have engagements in Europe this summer, are directing works by young American composers. On Tuesday, for instance, Willard George will direct the European première of Ellis B. Kohs' Symphony No. 1 in Paris.

Meanwhile Thomas Baldner will introduce Lukas Foss' "Song of Anguish" with the Berlin Radio Symphony and next month he will direct the German première of Paul Creston's Symphony No. 2 in Baden-Baden.

[23]

Berkshire Festival Programs Announced

Mozart, Bach Fill 2 Weekends

Special to The Blade

BOSTON, May 4—Charles Muench, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced complete programs for the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, near Lenox.

The first two weekends in the Theater-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Mr. Muench and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend Friday, July 5, Charles Muench will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be in the Music Shed, devoted to Part 2 of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. Choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

★ ★ ★

ON FRIDAY, July 12, Mr. Muench will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento (K. 136) for strings, the Serenade (K. 361) for winds and the "Haffner" symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies (K. 243) for chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The concert Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Mr. Muench will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto (K. 495). The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante (K. 297B) for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orcrestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikowsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Mr. Muench will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game;" Tchaikowsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

★ ★ ★

SATURDAY EVENING, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program of the "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikowsky's fifth symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Mr. Muench will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert July 21, presenting Tchaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" by Stravinsky, and the Tchaikowsky violin concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed Friday evening, July 26, including the overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist; and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented Saturday evening, July 28, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; Gerard Souzay, baritone and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor Sunday, July 28, in excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet;" Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" overture and his symphony "Mathis der Maler."

★ ★ ★

THE FIRST concert of the following week Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms' Tragic Overture, a Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms' first symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Mr. Muench will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist; also, "Medee's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Mr. Buench will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and Brahms' second piano concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

★ ★ ★

THE FINAL weekend of the Festival will lean upon Beethoven. Mr. Muench will conduct Friday evening, Aug. 9, Betehoven's "Leonore," Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven violin concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor Saturday, Aug. 10, M. Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik; Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

Beethoven's ninth symphony will bring the Festival to a close Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Mr. Muench will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

TWENTIETH FESTIVAL OPENS AT TANGLEWOOD JULY 19

Students practice chamber music under a tree

WORLD OF MUSIC: FLORENTINES

By ROSS PARMENTER

SINCE World War II Italy has sent us some fine chamber orchestras, notably the Virtuosi di Roma, I Musici and the Corelli Society. But we have not heard a full Italian symphony orchestra since Arturo Toscanini toured here with an orchestra of picked men from Milan's La Scala in 1920. This lends special interest to the fact that next season the Symphony Orchestra of the Florence May Festival will make its first American tour.

Its first concert in New York will be on Oct. 13 at Carnegie Hall. It will be sponsored by Casa Italiana of Columbia University. During its ten or eleven-week tour the orchestra will be led by three men, Carlo Zecchi, Franco Ferrara and Franco Mannino. Which one will be on the podium for the first New York concert has not yet been decided.

The cancellation of the tour of the Prague Philharmonic because of United States fingerprinting requirements means the Florence orchestra will be the only symphony from abroad that will be heard here next season. But the Virtuosi di Roma will be back.

The Deutschmeister Band will come here as part of "Vienna on Parade" and there will be a number of chamber ensembles. Among those that have never visited this country will be the Barylli Quartet from Vienna, the Koeckert Quartet from Munich, the Quartetto di Roma and the Pauk String Quartet from Liège.

First Italian Symphony In 37 Years To Visit The U.S. in Fall

Despite its present home, however, the Pauk musicians are not Belgians. They are Hungarians, who were touring Western Europe at the time of the uprisings last year. They elected not to return to their homeland, which is why they will be able to tour here.

CANTICUM: Keeping track of first American performances of Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" has been a problem. News of its première began appearing last fall. At that time the Southern California Chamber Music Society said it would give the work its Los Angeles première on June 17. For a while this looked as if it would be the American première. However, this proposed program was later canceled. Then came the announcement that the United States première would be on July 21 at the Berkshire Festival. This performance, though, became the "East Coast première" when it was announced that Franz Waxman would conduct the work at the first concert of the Los Angeles Music Festival on June 17. Last week the Berkshire première had to be downgraded still again. The new East Coast première was announced as taking place on July 18, when Leopold Stokowski will conduct it with the Symphony of the Air at the Empire State Festival in Ellenville.

MUSICOLOGIST: Donald W. MacArdle, who was co-editor with Ludwig Misch of "New Beethoven Letters," was in town recently. Far from being the usual musicologist, he turned out to be an engineer living in Dallas who prepares technical manuals for the Army. To do his musical research he gets up at 4:30 each morning. He works uninterruptedly from 5 to 8 A. M. He is hoping soon to be a contestant on the "The $64,000 Question" to win enough money to devote himself wholly to Beethoven.

OPENERS: Igor Markevitch's record of opening three major summer series as conductor will be equalled by Alexander Brailowsky's opening three as soloist. The one at which they will coincide is that of the Lewisohn Stadium on June 24. Mr. Markevitch's others will be Ravinia on June 27 and Ellenville on July 4. Mr. Brailowsky's additional concerts will be at Robin Hood Dell on June 17 and the Hollywood Bowl on July 9.

RADIO: Carlisle Floyd's "Susannah" will be the opening opera in the festival of recorded operatic performances that will be presented this week by WNYC. Altogether there will be sixty hours of music in the festival. Other American works will be Marvin David Levy's "Sotoba Komachi," Theodore Chanler's "Pot of Fat," Richard Owen's "Dismissed with Prejudice," and Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Unicorn, the Gorgon and the Manticore." Ruby Mercer, who began the festivals in 1951, will be the coordinator.

HEMIDEMISEMIQUAVERS: Grace Hoffman, American mezzo-soprano, is singing Brangaene in the five performances of "Tristan und Isolde" that Wolfgang Wagner is directing at Bayreuth this summer. . . . The University of Denver recently gave the première of "Venus in Africa," a three-act opera by George Antheil. . . . Paul Ben-Haim was selected as this year's winner of Israel's state prize for his achievements in creating a style linking Oriental and Western elements. . . . The du Pont Employes Concert Band of Wilmington, Del., is offering $100 in a contest for a concerto grosso for band which features four to six solo instruments.

FRIENDSHIP

Young American conductors, who have engagements in Europe this summer, are directing works by young American composers. On Tuesday, for instance, Willard George will direct the European première of Ellis B. Kohs' Symphony No. 1 in Paris.

Meanwhile Thomas Baldner will introduce Lukas Foss' "Song of Anguish" with the Berlin Radio Symphony and next month he will direct the German première of Paul Creston's Symphony No. 2 in Baden-Baden.

Syracuse Herald-American June 2, 1957

Hopper... To Open

's Your Questions

ne 18

bulbs but should let them wither

By E. V. W.

Actors of Oriental background, who played on Broadway and on tour in "Teahouse of the August Moon," have been engaged for roles in that comedy hit by the Finger Lakes Lyric Circus management. The show opens Tuesday night, June 18, and will run for two weeks in The Tent in Route 20 near Skaneateles. These actors include lovely Tsuruka Kobayashi as Lotus Blossom, leading feminine role, and Jerry Fugikawa, Christal Kim, Nace Kondo and Mara Kim.

Also engaged for the production is Chuck Morgan, who appeared as a professional wrestler in the motion picture "The Joe Louis Story" and who was in the original production of "Teahouse," and John J. Martin and David Renard, seen with Burgess Meredith, in the National Company of the show. Frank Maxwell, former Syracusan who left here to win success on Broadway and in Radio-TV, and the Lyric Circus producers and directors, Walter Davis and David Davis, also are in the cast. The setting of "Teahouse" is on Okinawa where U.S Military government officers come to know the problems of life in the Orient. "Teahouse" is the only non-musical show booked for the Lyric's 1957 season.

This date in music: 1846, Camille Saint-Saens makes his debut as a pianist in Paris; 1938 Lily Pons and Andre Kostelanetz wed.

A special evening concert, a Family Night, with no admission charge and an invitation to parents to bring their children, is announced by the board of directors of the Onondaga Symphony Orchestra, William Haaker conductor, Thursday night, June 13, at 8:15 o'clock in Nottingham High School auditorium. Conductor Haaker will narrate program notes as he has done with other orchestras he conducts—the Virginia Symphony and in Milwaukee, the Pops Orchestra.

The program will include the overture to Herold's opera "Zampa," two movements from Handel's "Water Music" Suite; the first movement of Dvorak's "New World Symphony," the closing movement of Bizet's "La Arlesienne Suite No. 2. Also a Fugato by McBride, contemporary composer, on a well-known theme, "Dance of the Comedians," by Smetana and the Rakoczy March from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz.

Manager of the Orchestra is Murray Bernthal, violinist and teacher, executive of Famous Artists Series and active in Local 78, American Federation of Musicians. President of the Orchestra is Mrs. G. Norman Knaus.

The Berkshire Festival in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., will be July 3-Aug. 11 with "Tanglewood on Parade" featuring Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra on Aug. 8. Dr. Charles Munch is musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Berkshire Festival and Music Center. Carl Schuridt and Pierre Monteux will be guest conductors this season. Soloists with the Boston Symphony will include Pianist Rudolf Serkin and Violinist Isaac Stern.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theater-Concert Hall by a Chamber orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Munch and will be devoted respectively to Bach and Mozart works. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion by Bach. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Boyce, bassos.

Choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will go to "Tanglewood" especially to participate. Adele Addison, John McCollum and Donald Gramm were in Bethlehem, Pa., recently as soloists in the Bethlehem Bach Festival. Miss Koleff is known here for solo work with the Robert Shaw Chorale. Boyce is an alumnus of Syracuse University.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will open July 19 with works of Tschaikowsky and Stravinsky featured. Dr. Munch will conduct Friday night and Sunday afternoon; Pierre Monteux will lead the Orchestra Saturday night, July 20.

[243]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

KINGSTON, N. Y.
DAILY FREEMAN
APR 24 1957

Boston Symphony Orchestra Announces Complete Tanglewood Summer Programs

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3r, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

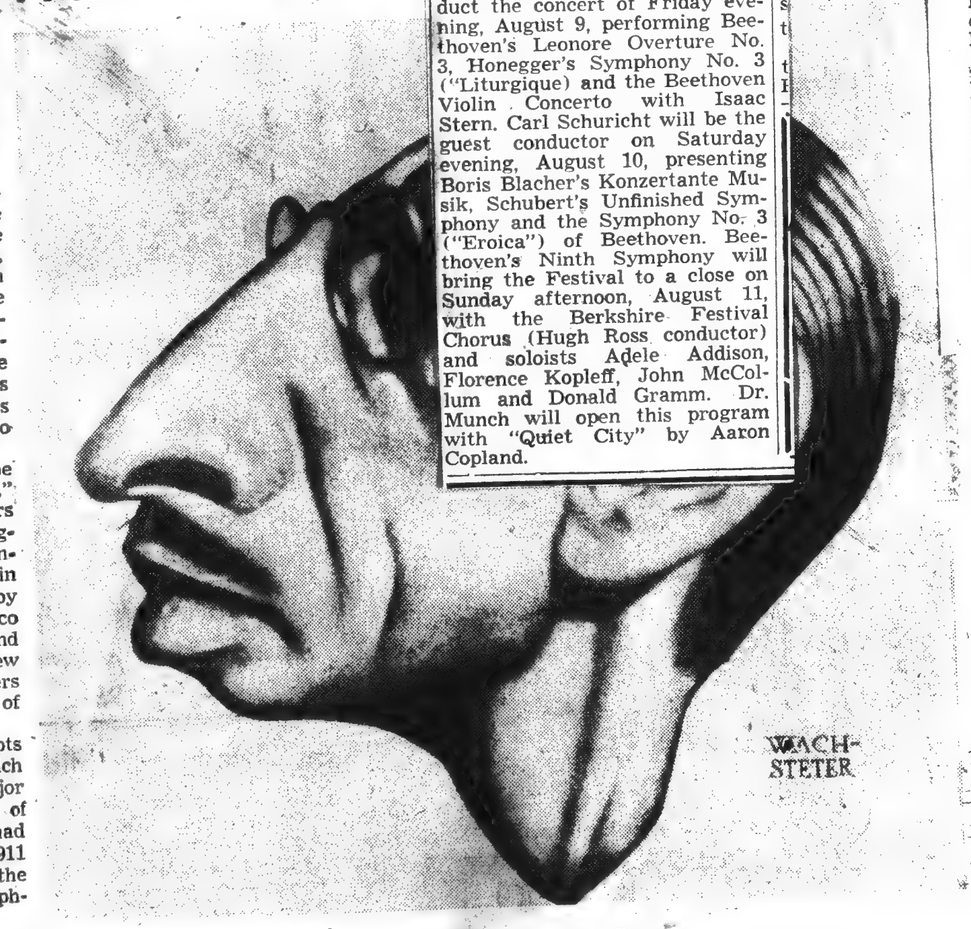
The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique) and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Journal
PROVIDENCE, R. I.
Independent
Circ. 185,173

JUN 9 1957

Festivals Will Mark Stra...day



WACH-STETER

IGOR Stravinsky's 75th birthday (it comes on June 17) will be the cause of celebrations at Boston's Arts Festival and at the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood.

Boston will salute the composer by devoting the three final musical evenings of the festival, June 28, 29 and 30, to programs of his works on the Public Garden lakeside stage. Robert Craft will conduct the orchestra. Stravinsky will be awarded the Festival Music Medal and his son, Soulima, will appear as soloist in a concerto for piano and orchestra.

A "first" for Boston will be the performance of "Renard," a ballet-burlesque for singers and dancers. With choreography by Bronislava Nijinska it was first presented in 1922. It will be danced by Todd Bolender, Francisco Moncion, Herbert Bliss and John Mandia, all of the New York City Ballet. The singers are under the direction of Sarah Caldwell.

There will also be excerpts from "Petrouchka," which among Stravinsky's 17 major ballets is considered one of the "seven immortals." It had its premiere in Paris in 1911 and is considered one of the masterpieces of choreographer Fokine.

The orchestral portion of the salute to Stravinsky will open with his "Greeting Prelude" which he wrote to celebrate the 80th birthday of Pierre Monteux.

Other orchestral works will be the "Symphony in Three Movements" and "Capriccio," an abstract piece for piano and orchestra which will present his son, Soulima, as soloist. It was written in 1929.

At Tanglewood, Stravinsky will be honored by having some of his works played during the first weekend of concerts by the full orchestra, July 19-21. At the Friday concert Charles Munch will present the ballet, "Jeu de Cartes." Saturday Pierre Monteux will conduct "Le Sacre du Printemps" which he introduced to Paris in 1913 at the riotously received premiere by the Diaghilev Ballet Russe.

Munch returns to the podium Sunday to conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ.

This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival last September and is scheduled for its United States premiere at a special birthday concert of Stravinsky music in Los Angeles, June 19, under the direction of Robert Craft.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 104,780

APR 28 1957

Music

Tanglewood Includes Modern Music This Year

By RAYMOND MORIN,
Telegram Music Critic

The complete Tanglewood programs, just announced, will have enough modern and new music to sate the ravenous appetites of those who criticized last summer's Berkshire Music Festival concerts severely.

We refer to the four weekends of concerts held in the Shed, beginning Friday evening, July 19. These works are in addition to those by four composers who will be represented successively in this order — Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Some of the contemporary fare matched with standard scores are "Jeu de Cartes," "The Rite of Spring," and "Canticum Sacrum," all by Stravinsky; Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture; Werner Egk's Sonata for Orchestra; Samuel Barber's "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance;" Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5; Boris Balcher's "Konzertante Musik;" Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III ("Liturgique"); and Aarone Copland's "Quiet City."

Conductors will be Charles Munch, Carl Schuricht, Pierre Monteux, and Arthur Fieldler ("Tanglewood on Parade," Thursday evening, Aug. 8) — and instrumental soloists, Rudolf Serkin, pianist, and Isaac Stern, violinist.

A number of vocal soloists and other instrumentalists will be heard in the course of the season.

Organ Entertainer

A good entertainment is automatically promised when it's announced that organist Porter Heaps is returning to Worcester for another of his disarming illustrated talks on what is commonly referred to as "the king of instruments."

Heaps will appear at the Little Theater on Thursday evening, his cheerful and informative meanderings to begin at 8 o'clock. His main mission will be to impress on his audience how easy it is to play the organ.

Judging from past experience, it will be very easy to listen to Heaps.

There is no admission charge, but tickets are required. These may be obtained by calling at M. Steinert & Sons Co., 308 Main street, Worcester, or phoning Pleasant 5-2506.

Student Festival

Worcester will be represented by the South High School band at the Western Massachusetts High School Music Festival in West Springfield on Saturday, May 25. The 60-player uniformed band will be directed by Lois Parker, music instructor at South.

Springfield will be invaded by 5,000 student participants and 10,000 adult visitors. Big highlight of the day will be the afternoon parade of all the colorful bands and musical units taking part in the festival.

Jazz Faculty

The new school of jazz in Lenox has announced its faculty for this summer without the decorations of master's degrees or honorary doctorates.

Trumpet teacher will be John "Dizzy" Gillespie. Oscar Peterson and John Lewis are the piano teachers; Ray Brown, bass; Max Roach, drums; Herb Ellis, guitar; Milt Jackson, vibraharp; Bill Russo, trombone, etc.

They will be in session from Aug. 12 (the day following the close of the Berkshire Music Festival) until Aug. 30. The Tanglewood programs close with Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, the echoes of which will have been given ample time to subside.

Bifocals?

The following appeared in the "Lost and Found" column of a recent issue of the New York Times:

OPERA GLASSES-ROSE COLORED

Paris Lemaire make; Mon. night. Lost vic Met Opera House (Tosca). Great sentimental value. Reward. Ben Grauer, CI 7-8300.

Ben Grauer is the NBC announcer. CI 7-8300 is the telephone number of the National Broadcasting Company. Like Musical America the magazine which reported the incident we have — no comment.

[247]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
KINGSTON, N. Y.
DAILY FREEMAN
APR 24 1957

Boston Symphony Orchestra Announces Complete Tanglewood Summer Programs

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces, the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3r, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Journal
PROVIDENCE, R. I.
Independent
Circ. 185,173
JUN 9 1957

Festivals Will Mark Stravinsky's Birthday

IGOR Stravinsky's 75th birthday (it comes on June 17) will be the cause of celebrations at Boston's Arts Festival and at the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood.

Boston will salute the composer by devoting the three final musical evenings of the festival, June 28, 29 and 30, to programs of his works on the Public Garden lakeside stage. Robert Craft will conduct the orchestra. Stravinsky will be awarded the Festival Music Medal and his son, Soulima, will appear as soloist in a concerto for piano and orchestra.

A "first" for Boston will be the performance of "Renard," a ballet-burlesque for singers and dancers. With choreography by Bronislava Nijinska it was first presented in 1922. It will be danced by Todd Bolender, Francisco Moncion, Herbert Bliss and John Mandia, all of the New York City Ballet. The singers are under the direction of Sarah Caldwell.

There will also be excerpts from "Petrouchka," which among Stravinsky's 17 major ballets is considered one of the "seven immortals." It had its premiere in Paris in 1911 and is considered one of the masterpieces of choreographer Fokine.

The orchestral portion of the salute to Stravinsky will open with his "Greeting Prelude" which he wrote to celebrate the 80th birthday of Pierre Monteux.

Other orchestral works will be the "Symphony in Three Movements" and "Capriccio," an abstract piece for piano and orchestra which will present his son, Soulima, as soloist. It was written in 1929.

At Tanglewood, Stravinsky will be honored by having some of his works played during the first weekend of concerts by the full orchestra, July 19-21. At the Friday concert Charles Munch will present the ballet, "Jeu de Cartes." Saturday Pierre Monteux will conduct "Le Sacre du Printemps" which he introduced to Paris in 1913 at the riotously received premiere by the Diaghilev Ballet Russe.

Munch returns to the podium Sunday to conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ.

This work was first performed at the Venice International Festival last September and is scheduled for its United States premiere at a special birthday concert of Stravinsky music in Los Angeles, June 19, under the direction of Robert Craft.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 104,780
APR 28 1957

Music

Tanglewood Includes Modern Music This Year

By RAYMOND MORIN,
Telegram Music Critic

The complete Tanglewood programs, just announced, will have enough modern and new music to sate the ravenous appetites of those who criticized last summer's Berkshire Music Festival concerts so severely.

We refer to the four weekends of concerts given in the Shed, beginning Friday evening, July 19. These works are in addition to those by four composers who will be represented successively in this order — Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Some of the contemporary fare matched with standard scores are "Jeu de Cartes," "The Rite of Spring," and "Canticum Sacrum," all by Stravinsky; Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture; Werner Egk's Sonata for Orchestra; Samuel Barber's "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance;" Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5; Boris Balcher's "Konzertante Musik;" Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III ("Liturgique"); and Aaron Copland's "Quiet City."

Conductors will be Charles Munch, Carl Schuricht, Pierre Monteux, and Arthur Fieldler ("Tanglewood on Parade," Thursday evening, Aug. 8) — and instrumental soloists, Rudolf Serkin, pianist, and Isaac Stern, violinist.

A number of vocal soloists and other instrumentalists will be heard in the course of the season.

Organ Entertainer

A good entertainment is automatically promised when it's announced that organist Porter Heaps is returning to Worcester for another of his disarming illustrated talks on what is commonly referred to as "the king of instruments."

Heaps will appear at the Little Theater on Thursday evening, his cheerful and informative meanderings to begin at 8 o'clock. His main mission will be to impress on his audience how easy it is to play the organ.

Judging from past experience, it will be very easy to listen to Heaps.

There is no admission charge, but tickets are required. These may be obtained by calling at M. Steinert & Sons Co., 308 Main street, Worcester, or phoning Pleasant 5-2506.

Student Festival

Worcester will be represented by the South High School band at the Western Massachusetts High School Music Festival in West Springfield on Saturday, May 25. The 60-player uniformed band will be directed by Lois Parker, music instructor at South.

Springfield will be invaded by 5,000 student participants and 10,000 adult visitors. Big highlight of the day will be the afternoon parade of all the colorful bands and musical units taking part in the festival.

Jazz Faculty

The new school of jazz in Lenox has announced its faculty for this summer without the decorations of master's degrees or honorary doctorates.

Trumpet teacher will be John "Dizzy" Gillespie. Oscar Peterson and John Lewis are the piano teachers; Ray Brown, bass; Max Roach, drums; Herb Ellis, guitar; Milt Jackson, vibraharp; Bill Russo, trombone, etc.

They will be in session from Aug. 12 (the day following the close of the Berkshire Music Festival) until Aug. 30. The Tanglewood programs close with Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, the echoes of which will have been given ample time to subside.

Bifocals?

The following appeared in the "Lost and Found" column of a recent issue of the New York Times:

OPERA GLASSES-ROSE COLORED

Paris Lemaire make; Mon. night. Lost vic Met Opera House (Tosca). Great sentimental value. Reward. Ben Grauer, CI 7-8300.

Ben Grauer is the NBC announcer. CI 7-8300 is the telephone number of the National Broadcasting Company. Like Musical America the magazine which reported the incident we have — no comment.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
APR 28 1957

Full Programs Announced For Season at Tanglewood

Works by Tchaikovsky, Stravinsky, Brahms, Berlioz and Beethoven to Be Music Shed Features; Bach and Mozart Week Ends

Boston, April 27 — Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announced the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox. The first two week ends of the festival in the Theater-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, respectively.

Opening the concerts of the Bach week end on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; "Brandenburg" concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C Minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

Soloists Named

The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five "Brandenburg" concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part 2 of the "St. Matthew Passion." Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart week end with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, Presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the bassoon concerto and James Stagliano in the horn concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon.

Full Orchestra

The first week end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game." Tchaikovsky's "Rococo Variations" for cello and orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist; and the same composer's "Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's fifth symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Achaikovsky violin concerto with Osaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the foverture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the "Fantastic" symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presemted by Dr. Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus.

German Conductor

Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" overture and his symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on Aug. 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms "Tragic" overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms first symphony. On Saturday, Aug. 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4, Dr. Munch wil conduct Brahms' "Academic Festival" overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' second piano concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final week end of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, Aug. 9, performing Beethoven's "Leonore" overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven violin concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schurich will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, Aug. 10, presenting Boris Blacher's "Konzertante Musik," Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

Beethoven's ninth symphony will bring the festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm, Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,859
MAY 22 1957

Announce Complete Program For 1957 Berkshire Festival

LENOX, Mass.—Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1,2,3,6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists-Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinski. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinski's "Card Game." Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinski's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinski, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph di Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11th, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

Buxbelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
TOLEDO, OHIO
TIMES
Circ. D. 48,355
MAY 8 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens July 3 At Tanglewood

By FREDERICK J. KOUNTZ

A lady called me a few weeks ago to ask me if Tanglewood, which is in the neighborhood of Lenox, which is close to Pittsfield, is east or west of Boston. If such misconception should be allowed to progress unchecked the results might be serious indeed for the Boston Orchestra people.

After all there are not on the east very many obstacles between Boston and England. So of course such geographical misgivings must be turned into a more comfortable perspective.

Tanglewood, the summer home of the Boston Orchestra and the site of the annual Berkshire Festival, is a pleasant walk from the center of Lenox. Lenox is almost exactly seven miles south from Pittsfield. And Pittsfield is directly across the state, almost at the western edge, a few yards more than 150 miles from Boston. All names and places noted herein are obviously peculiar to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Events Outlined

The Berkshire Festival begins this year on July 3 when the Paganini Quartet will open the five weeks of chamber music concerts; every Wednesday night from July 3 through Aug. 7. The orchestral concerts in the Theater - Concert Hall—these are the chamber orchestra concerts—will be played July 4 and 5, and July 12, 13, and 14. The first two programs will be entirely Bach and the last three all Mozart. There will be a performance of the St. Matthew Passion in the Shed—that is the big concert building—on July 7.

The complete Boston Orchestra will reintroduce itself in the Shed on July 19. That concert will usher in an interval with Stravinsky and Tchaikowsky with the concerts of July 20 and 21. Hindemith and Berlioz will be the musical fare on July 26, 27, and 28. During the following week, Aug. 2, 3, and 4 the music of Brahms, Egk, Barber and Piston will be heard. And the final concerts of the festival, Aug. 9, 10, and 11 will be devoted to the good interests of Beethoven, Honegger, Blacher and Copland.

All concerts begin at 8:30 except those on Sunday when the starting time is 2:30. From now until July 1 the business of the festival will be done out of Symphony Hall, Boston 15. After July 1 the address should be Boston Symphony Orchestra, Lenox, Mass.

[26]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Back Bay Ledger &
Beacon Hill Times
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 10,000 Free

MAY 23 1957

Boston Symphony Announces Tanglewood Summer Program

The Boston Symphony Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, in Lenox, will open on July 5, with a concert devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, Dr. Charles Munch announced this week.

Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, bass. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choal Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra.

The concert of Saturday evening July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday July 14, Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for the Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6. ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus.

Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 12 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony.

On Saturday, August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and Symphony No. 3 "Eroica" of Beethoven.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Post
BRIDGEPORT, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 63,829

MAY 5 1957

Bach Week-End July 5 Opens Tanglewood Series

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

The first two weekends of the festival in the Theatre-Concert hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee club and Radcliffe Choral society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, Dr. Munch will preesnt two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in Ce minor for strings, and cloes with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn and Bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on the evening of July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joesph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evenings, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the Festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, with the Berkshire Festival Chorus (Hugh Ross conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

PASTE OVER

[27]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675

MAY 7 - 1957

...rams in Prospect for Tanglewood

2-57

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Town Crier & Herald
WESTPORT, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,200

JUN 6 1957

Tanglewood Music . . .

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today announced the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4.

On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be wholly devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm, James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will appear in Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists an orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening July 13 which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

On Sunday July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn & Bassoon.

The concert of July 19, by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. An all Berlioz program will be performed July 26; the music of Brahsm will be featured Aug. 2, 3; the works of Beethoven will be emphasized the final weekend, Aug. 9.

Six-Week Festival to Open In the Berkshires July 5

The complete programs for this summer's Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., which will take place each weekend from July 5 through Aug. 9, have been announced by Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

For the first two weekends of Bach and Mozart respectively, Dr. Munch will conduct a chamber orchestra in the Theater-Concert Hall. His programs will be:

Friday evening, July 5 — Bach's Suite No. 3, Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (Lukes Foss, piano soloist), Suite No. 2 (Doriot Anthony Dwyer, solo flute), Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor, performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

Saturday evening, July 6—Five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4.

Sunday afternoon, July 7, in the Music Shed — Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto, John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, of which G. Wallace Woodworth is the conductor, will sing.

Friday evening, July 12 — Dr. Munch will conduct Mozart's Divertimento, K. 136, for strings; the Serenade, K. 361, for wind instruments; and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies, K. 243, for chorus, soloists, and orchestra.

Saturday evening, July 13 in the Music Shed—Mozart's three symphonies in E-flat, G minor, and C major ("Jupiter").

Sunday afternoon, July 14—Dr. Munch will present Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto, K. 495. This program opens with Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and closes with Sinfonia Concertante, K. 297B, for oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon.

* * *

The third weekend of the festival will offer the first of the concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed.

Friday evening, July 19—Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra (Samuel Mayes, soloist), and his Symphony No. 6 ("Pathétique").

Saturday evening, July 20—Pierre Monteux, guest conductor, will present Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" Overture, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring."

Sunday afternoon, July 21—Dr. Munch will conduct Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" Overture, Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum," and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto, with Isaac Stern.

Friday evening, July 26, a Berlioz program—The overture, "The Corsair"; "Harold in Italy" (Joseph de Pasquale, soloist), and the "Fantastic" Symphony.

Saturday evening, July 27—Dr. Munch will present Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" (Florence Kopleff, contralto; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; Gérard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival Chorus).

Sunday afternoon, July 28. Pierre Monteux will conduct excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture, and his symphony, "Mathis der Maler."

* * *

The following weekend Carl Schuricht, German conductor, will visit Tanglewood.

Friday evening, Aug. 2—Dr. Schuricht will conduct the Brahms "Tragic" Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms' First Symphony.

Saturday evening, Aug 3—Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Variations on a Theme of Haydn, his Violin Concerto (Issac Stern, soloist), and Samuel Barber's "Medea's Meditation and Dance."

Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4—Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and Brahms' Second Piano Concerto (Rudolf Serkin, soloist).

The final weekend at Tanglewood will feature the music of Beethoven.

Friday evening, Aug. 9—Dr. Munch will conduct Beethoven's "Leonore" Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique"), and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

Saturday evening, Aug. 10 — Carl Schuricht will present Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, and Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica").

Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11 — Dr. Munch will conduct "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland. The program will also include Beethoven's Ninth Symphony with the Berkshire Festival Chorus and Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, and Donald Gramm as soloists.

[28]

Berkshire Night Clippings

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 2 1957

Special 'Berkshire Night' Plan Asked at Tanglewood

Berkshire county music lovers who have felt that three Tanglewood concerts in as many days is too much music in too short a period of time may have a chance this season to indulge their tastes in less concentrated intervals and still have the price benefits offered under the existing ticket system.

Friday Night Concerts

That possibility arose today when it was learned that Henry B. Cabot, president of the Boston Symphony orchestra's board of trustees, has informed the Tanglewood advisory committee that he sees merit in a plan to permit subscribers to buy tickets for four consecutive Friday night concerts, and that the orchestra management now is working out details of an arrangement along those lines which may be announced within a few weeks.

The advance ticket sale system that has been in vogue for several years offers price discounts for tickets bought for each week-end series of three concerts. But the advisory committee, acting on a suggestion from a county resident who is a long-time Tanglewood subscriber, asked Mr. Cabot to consider offering similar price incentives for single concerts spread over a four-week period.

"He complained," said the committee in reference to the Berkshire resident's suggestion, "that for his taste three symphony concerts in three days offered too much music over too brief a period of time. Therefore, he wondered if it were not possible to offer him, and other Berkshire residents, a similar price incentive to buy four Shed concert tickets on four consecutive Friday nights."

"Berkshire Nights"

The committee argued that such a plan would "ration out music in a more digestible form" and, by establishing Friday evenings as "Berkshire nights," would tend to concentrate and enlarge the Berkshire audience, smooth out the attendance peaks, and ease traffic and parking problems for all Shed concerts.

"The plan could markedly restore the Berkshire flavor to the Shed concerts," said the committee, "and the sense of Berkshire partnership in this unique artistic endeavor of which we are also proud. Properly publicized and promoted, 'Berkshire nights' might restore audiences and restimulate enthusiasm where it has flagged."

Mr. Cabot wrote that he liked the idea and that he felt it offered the orchestra management a chance "to respond to the wishes of people to whom we owe a great deal for hospitality, help, and encouragement in the 20-odd years since the Boston Symphony orchestra became a part of the Berkshire Festival.

Committee Members

Members of the Tanglewood advisory committee include Whitney S. Stoddard of the Williams college faculty and Probate Judge F. Anthony Hanlon, formerly of Adams, and several down-county residents. The chairmen of the Lee, Lenox and Stockbridge selectmen joined the committee in backing the proposal.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 2 1957

'Berkshire Nights'

BSO Studies Special Tickets For Friday Tanglewood Series

A plan for offering a special subscription to the Friday night Berkshire Festival concerts in the Music Shed, designed especially for Berkshire residents, is being worked out by top officials of the Tanglewood organization here and in Boston.

Main outlines of the plan, tentatively known as "Berkshire Nights," have been sketched in an exchange of letters between the Tanglewood Advisory Committee and Henry B. Cabot, president of the board of trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Inc.

Series Discount

In its letter, the TAC suggested that a price incentive similar to that in force for the weekend series of three concerts be offered to persons buying four Shed concert tickets on four consecutive Friday nights.

This suggestion was welcomed by Mr. Cabot, who said the orchestra management was equally enthusiastic. He said details of the plan would be announced shortly.

According to the Tanglewood Advisory Committee's letter, the basic idea for "Berkshire Nights" came from a Stockbridge resident and longtime Tanglewood subscriber who felt increasingly overwhelmed by the "feast of musical riches in his own backyard."

He observed that a discount was offered him if he bought tickets for a weekend series of Shed concerts. But he felt that three major concerts in three days were too much of a good thing, leaving little time for other activities.

Consequently he decided that his own interests, and those of other Berkshire residents, might be served by an arrangement under which a similar discount would be given purchasers of tickets for the Friday night Shed concerts.

The chief advantage of such a plan, the Tanglewood Advisory Committee noted, would be that it would make the discount available while rationing out music in a "more digestible" form.

Balancing the Crowds

"If the plan were successful," the letter continued, "it would tend to concentrate and enlarge the Berkshire audience at one particular concert in a weekend series, thus making it more socially enjoyable. If it were possible to have the 'Berkshire Nights' on Friday evening, it would tend to raise the valleys and smooth out the peaks of attendance, and thus alleviate the traffic and parking problem for all Shed concerts."

To assure success of the proposal, the committee recommended that the four Friday nights offer a representative cross-section of the soloists performing during the season and the orchestra's repertory.

This would encourage the strong area support necessary to the plan, while restoring the "sense of Berkshire partnership in this unique artistic endeavor of which we are all so proud."

"Necessarily, since the number of musical events at Tanglewood has grown from the early days of the Berkshire Festival, the local audience has been distributed over scores of musical events," the advisory committee's letter concluded. "Some of it, in fact, probably has disappeared because the novelty has worn off and the enterprise, because of its very success, has become more impersonal. Properly publicized and promoted, 'Berkshire Nights' might restore audiences and re-stimulate enthusiasm where it has flagged."

Answer to Need

In his affirmative answering letter, the president of the BSO trustees wrote that the plan offered an opportunity for the organization to answer the needs of Berkshire residents who had helped make Tanglewood possible.

"I like the idea," Mr. Cabot wrote. "It offers a chance to encourage the interest of the Berkshire residents in Tanglewood and for us to respond to the wishes of people to whom we owe a great deal for hospitality, help and encouragement in the 20-odd years since the Boston Symphony Orchestra became a part of the Berkshire Festival. The whole idea of the Festival sprang from the Berkshires and we are always eager to serve the people who have made the undertaking possible.

"I have talked the matter over with the management of the orchestra and they are now working out the details of how it can best be arranged. Within a week or two we will be able to announce the details of a plan, and I hope very much that the Berkshires will welcome the idea as warmly as we do."

Members of the Tanglewood Advisory Committee are Alan J. Blau, George W. Edman, F. Anthony Hanlon and Lawrence K. Miller of Pittsfield; Lenges Bull, George E. Mole, H. George Wilde and Jesse L. Thomason of Lenox; Henry W. Dwight of Stockbridge; Whitney S. Stoddard of Williamstown; Robert K. Wheeler of Great Barrington, and serving as ex officio members, the chairmen of Selectmen in Lee, Lenox and Stockbridge: Michael J. Sullivan, George L. Hughes and William F. Lawless, respectively.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 9 1957

Berkshire Nights' Promotion Planned

A committee formed to stimulate interest in the proposed Berkshire nights at Tanglewood, Lenox, during the Berkshire Music festival this summer, will meet Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Pittsfield Country club to discuss promotion plans.

The formation of the committee resulted from the acceptance by the Boston Symphony orchestra of a proposal of the county advisory committee for the Tanglewood festival that Friday evenings be designated as Berkshire nights during the four week-ends of major concerts at Tanglewood this year and that subscription tickets for the four Friday evening concerts be made available to Berkshire residents. Heretofore the only subscription tickets available were for series of three consecutive concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons. Thomas D. Perry, Jr., manager, and Gail Rector, assistant manager, of the Boston orchestra, will be present at the meeting Monday.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 5 - 1957

Letters

Berkshire Nights

To the Editor of THE EAGLE:—

The news item [Eagle, April 2] from Tanglewood and the Boston Symphony Orchestra announcing a special series of four Friday night Shed concerts which will be open to Berkshire County residents at a reduced rate, strikes me as an excellent idea whether looked at from the point of view of the festival management or the potential ticket purchaser.

The directors of the Berkshire Festival are wise to seek fuller support from county residents by offering them a preferred ticket plan, since it was these very people who made the festival possible in the first place. The proposed plan also gives people in the area a golden opportunity to support a valuable and much needed activity, while proving to themselves that no gadget is a completely satisfying substitute for the wonderful experience of hearing live music, regardless of how many speakers there are on your phonograph, or how Hi your Fi is.

We should keep in mind the fact that a famous festival—such as the one in Salzburg—becomes successful because of the support given it by people in the area, rather than by an ability to attract droves of tourists.

I salute Tanglewood's high co[mmand] for rolling out a special [carpet] for local customers, but the other hand urge county mu[sic] lovers to take full advantage of [the] offer.

IRWIN SHAINMA[N]
Williamstown.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Morning Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 131,485

APR 16 1957

"Berkshire Nights" At Tanglewood

Members of the Berkshire Nights Committee gathered yesterday afternoon at a cocktail party at the Pittsfield Country Club to discuss plans for promotion of this special subscription series of concerts at Tanglewood, recently announced by the Tanglewood Advisory Committee. The committee, which is headed by Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of Pittsfield, consists of Berkshire area residents.

Thomas D. Perry Jr., manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, spoke to the committee of the pleasure of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in accepting the suggestion of the Tanglewood Advisory Committee for a subscription series to accommodate the musical interests of the community closest to Tanglewood.

New England N[ewsclip Agency, Inc.]
Box 2078, Boston [6 • RIchmond 2-4200]

Hera[ld]
BOSTO[N]
Independen[t]
Circ.

APR 1[6] 195[7]

Symphony Schedules 4 Tanglewood Concerts

PITTSFIELD, April 15—The Boston Symphony Orchestra will play a series of four concerts this summer at Tanglewood.

Dr. Charles Munch will conduct July 19 an 26. On Aug. 2 Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor. Isaac Stern, violinist, will be soloist in the Aug. 9 concert, conducted by Dr. Munch.

[28]

Berkshire Nights clippings

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 2 1957

Special 'Berkshire Night' Plan Asked at Tanglewood

Berkshire county music lovers who have felt that three Tanglewood concerts in as many days is too much music in too short a period of time may have a chance this season to indulge their tastes in less concentrated intervals and still have the price benefits offered under the existing ticket system.

Friday Night Concerts

That possibility arose today when it was learned that Henry B. Cabot, president of the Boston Symphony orchestra's board of trustees, has informed the Tanglewood advisory committee that he sees merit in a plan to permit subscribers to buy tickets for four consecutive Friday night concerts, and that the orchestra management now is working out details of an arrangement along those lines which may be announced within a few weeks.

The advance ticket sale system that has been in vogue for several years offers price discounts for tickets bought for each week-end series of three concerts. But the advisory committee, acting on a suggestion from a county resident who is a long-time Tanglewood subscriber, asked Mr. Cabot to consider offering similar price incentives for single concerts spread over a four-week period.

"He complained," said the committee in reference to the Berkshire resident's suggestion, "that for his taste three symphony concerts in three days offered too much music over too brief a period of time. Therefore, he wondered if it were not possible to offer him, and other Berkshire residents, a similar price incentive to buy four Shed concert tickets on four consecutive Friday nights."

"Berkshire Night"

The committee argued that such a plan would "ration out music in a more digestible form" and, by establishing Friday evenings as "Berkshire nights," would tend to concentrate and enlarge the Berkshire audience, smooth out the attendance peaks, and ease traffic and parking problems for all Shed concerts.

"The plan could markedly restore the Berkshire flavor to the Shed concerts," said the committee, "and the sense of Berkshire partnership in this unique artistic endeavor of which we are also so proud. Properly publicized and promoted, 'Berkshire nights' might restore audiences and restimulate enthusiasm where it has flagged."

Mr. Cabot wrote that he liked the idea and that he felt it offered the orchestra management a chance "to respond to the wishes of people to whom we owe a great deal for hospitality, help, and encouragement in the 20-odd years since the Boston Symphony orchestra became a part of the Berkshire Festival.

Committee Members

Members of the Tanglewood advisory committee include Whitney S. Stoddard of the Williams college faculty and Probate Judge F. Anthony Hanlon, formerly of Adams, and several down-county residents. The chairmen of the Lee, Lenox and Stockbridge selectmen joined the committee in backing the proposal.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 5 - 1957

Letters

Berkshire Nights

To the Editor of THE EAGLE:—

The news item [Eagle, April 2] from Tanglewood and the Boston Symphony Orchestra announcing a special series of four Friday night Shed concerts which will be open to Berkshire County residents at a reduced rate, strikes me as an excellent idea whether looked at from the point of view of the festival management or the potential ticket purchaser.

The directors of the Berkshire Festival are wise to seek fuller support from county residents by offering them a preferred ticket plan, since it was these very people who made the festival possible in the first place. The proposed plan also gives people in the area a golden opportunity to support a valuable and much needed activity, while proving to themselves that no gadget is a completely satisfying substitute for the wonderful experience of hearing live music, regardless of how many speakers there are on your phonograph, or how Hi your Fi is.

We should keep in mind the fact that a famous festival—such as the one in Salzburg—becomes successful because of the support given it by people in the area, rather than by an ability to attract droves of tourists.

I salute Tanglewood's high command for rolling out a special red carpet for local customers, but on the other hand urge county music lovers to take full advantage of the offer.

IRWIN SHAINMAN.
Williamstown.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Herald (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 134,866

APR 16 1957

Symphony Schedules 4 Tanglewood Concerts

PITTSFIELD, April 15—The Boston Symphony Orchestra will play a series of four concerts this summer at Tanglewood.

Dr. Charles Munch will conduct July 19 an 26. On Aug. 2 Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor. Isaac Stern, violinist, will be soloist in the Aug. 9 concert, conducted by Dr. Munch.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 2 1957

'Berkshire Nights'

BSO Studies Special Tickets For Friday Tanglewood Series

A plan for offering a special subscription to the Friday night Berkshire Festival concerts in the Music Shed, designed especially for Berkshire residents, is being worked out by top officials of the Tanglewood organization here and in Boston.

Main outlines of the plan, tentatively known as "Berkshire Nights," have been sketched in an exchange of letters between the Tanglewood Advisory Committee and Henry B. Cabot, president of the board of trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Inc.

Series Discount

In its letter, the TAC suggested that a price incentive similar to that in force for the weekend series of three concerts be offered to persons buying four Shed concert tickets on four consecutive Friday nights.

This suggestion was welcomed by Mr. Cabot, who said the orchestra management was equally enthusiastic. He said details of the plan would be announced

[illegible]

More Prudence

To the Editor of THE EAGLE:—

[illegible] Pittsfield.

[illegible] conse[illegible] clans conc[illegible] consensus [illegible] not do, th[illegible] pression o[illegible] either aut[illegible] unscientifi[illegible] coveries to[illegible] the adva[illegible] bodies of [illegible] serve ho[illegible] the harde[illegible] the profes[illegible] it is the n[illegible] ings. Some[illegible] no one to[illegible] Professi[illegible] country.

[illegible] street have eight sons [illegible] ford for having had one [illegible] believe we have estab[illegible] lighter.

[illegible] bass of Albany Road.

JAMES A. MURPHY.

[illegible], a sophomore at St. [illegible], John P. of this city; [illegible] William D., Raymond [illegible] Michael's College, Wi[illegible] sor Edward F. Mur[illegible] rd J. Murphy of this [illegible]; Ward 3 city council[illegible] James A. Jr. of Mal[illegible] years (from 1921-1955). [illegible] high schools for over a [illegible] of St. Joseph's gram[illegible] [illegible] members of our family [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Berkshire Eagle

Published every week-day afternoon except holidays by the EAGLE PUBLISHING COMPANY
33 Eagle Street, Pittsfield, Massachusetts

Editorials

The Realities in Red China

The current issue of Look magazine contains an article on Red China compiled by Edmund Stevens, Moscow reporter, and photographer Philip Harrington, the first such team to visit that nation since the Communists came to power. The two were in China for a month, traveled and took pictures where they pleased, visited the main cities and thoroughfares, and talked to hundreds of people including Western diplomats and neutral observers. Their conclusions, which we summarize, therefore are based on first-hand observation. They are:

1. That the Communist regime is there to stay. Nothing short of a war of conquest could overthrow it. The country is more unified and more stable than it has been for centuries.

2. China is not a Soviet satellite. The Communists gained power by means of a mass revolutionary movement with strong nationalist undertones. The regime therefore has a far broader base than the government in any other Communist country, including the U.S.S.R. This gives it independence and elasticity and makes for a somewhat more relaxed atmosphere.

3. The opposition has been liquidated or won over. Former opponents of the regime are now holding important jobs. The people are almost solidly behind the regime.

4. Living standards are still low. But they are higher than they have been and are continuing to improve.

5. American influence in China has not been obliterated. Many government officials and more than 80 per cent of the scientists were educated in America. English is still the most widely spoken foreign language. The reporters found little evidence of anti-American feeling. Many Chinese told him they would welcome renewed ties with the West.

6. China's biggest problem is its population which threatens to reach a billion by the end of the century. Several plans for control are under consideration.

7. Much of the system is hateful—the tyranny, brutality, the spying, the lying and the forced conformity.

However, Mr. Stevens concludes that any idea that the regime could be overthrown by an expedition from Formosa is dangerous wishful thinking.

Unhappily, the United States cannot recognize the realities in China. As long at least as Chiang lives, it is committed to him and tied to him as the English Jacobites were once tied to Bonnie Prince Charlie, and a handful of French Royalists are still committed to restoring the Bourbons to the throne of France. For an indefinite period the government in Washington must continue to operate in a diplomatic never-never world, to pretend that it thinks the Peiping regime is toppling to a fall, and that Chiang is on the point of being borne back in triumph to his former position and honors. Any retreat from this position would bring a hurricane of protest from the Knowland-Bridges-MacArthur group, together with the charge that we were betraying our friends and selling out to communism.

'Berkshire Nights' Make Sense

Several "bravos" are in order for the "Berkshire Nights" plan outlined by the Tanglewood Advisory Committee and the Boston Symphony Orchestra trustees in their exchange of letters made public yesterday. The idea of a Friday evening concert series designed especially for Berkshire residents makes great good sense for the Boston orchestra and the local public alike.

As explained yesterday, the plan envisages the offering of a subscription to the four Friday evening concerts in the Music Shed, with an appropriate price reduction. The plan provides further that any guest artist scheduled for a weekend appearance would also be heard Friday night, so that the subscriber would be assured of hearing a representative program.

Such a scheme has a good many advantages, not the least being its consideration for the needs of the local concert-goer. There have always been the weekend concert series, with suitable discount for purchase of all three tickets; and these have proved particularly attractive to visitors in the Berkshires for a few days. But for many of us who are here the whole season, there were no comparable compensations. Unless one bought the weekend series, the price was the same for all Festival concerts.

What is more, the very richness of the musical feast discouraged some from sampling it. With splendid concerts available during the week to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, climaxed by the three principal programs over the weekend, many a conscientious concert-goer felt he just couldn't keep up with it all. Logically or not, he sometimes decided to skip the whole business.

Involved in such a decision was a diminishing sense of relationship with the Festival. The early concerts were of course launched by Berkshire people who felt a keen sense of loyalty and responsibility toward their handiwork. As years passed and Tanglewood solidified its success, the local tie was weakened. Berkshire folk necessarily recognized that Tanglewood belonged more to the musical world than to them.

The Friday night series, however, will be an opportunity for county residents to become reacquainted with the peerless Boston Symphony Orchestra in a summer cultural event of which they have every right to be proud. At the same time, they will be able to make the occasion something of a get-together with their neighbors, a concert to be enjoyed among friends.

From all these standpoints, then, the "Berkshire Nights" proposal has merit. We trust that the response to the plan will be as hearty as it deserves.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 80,746

APR 16 1957

"Berkshire Nights' Series Announced in Pittsfield

Members of the Berkshire Nights Committee gathered yesterday at the Pittsfield Country Club to discuss plans for promotion of a special subscription series of concerts at Tanglewood recently announced by the Tanglewood Advisory Committee.

The committee, which is headed by Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of Pittsfield, consists of Berkshire residents.

Thomas D. Perry, Jr., manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, spoke of the pleasure of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in accepting the suggestion of the advisory committee for a subscription series to accommodate the musical interests of the community closest to Tanglewood. He read a letter from Charles Munch telling of his interest in the project an dhis hope that he would have the opportunity to meet the members of the committee during the summer at Tanglewood.

Perry announced that Dr. Munch has selected the following programs for the four Friday evening concerts in the Shed, July 19, 26 and August 2, 9.

On July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes," Tschaikovsky's Rocco Variations for Cello and Orchestra with the Orchestra's first 'cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist, and will close the program with Tschaikovsky's Sixth Symphony.

On July 26, Dr. Munch will present an all-Berlioz program, including the Overture "Le Corsair," "Harold in Italy" (with Joseph de Pasquale as viola soloist) and the Fantastic Symphony.

Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor for the third concert of the series on August 2. Mrs. Schuricht's program will be: Brahms Tragic Overture and Symphony No. 1, and the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk.

The final concert of the Friday evening series on August 9 will be conducted by Dr. Munch, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Beethoven Violin Concerto. The program will open with Beethoven's Overture to "Leonoré" No. 3 and the Honegger Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique").

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 16 1957

Berkshire Nights Group Discusses Festival Promotion

Members of the Berkshire Nights committee gathered yesterday afternoon at a cocktail party at the Pittsfield country club to discuss plans for promotion of the special subscription series of concerts at the Berkshire Music festival recently announced by the Tanglewood advisory committee. The committee, which is headed by Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of Pittsfield, consists of Berkshire area residents.

Friday Night Series

Thomas D. Perry, Jr., manager of the Boston Symphony orchestra, spoke to the committee of the pleasure of the Boston Symphony orchestra in accepting the suggestion of the Tanglewood advisory committee for a Friday-night subscription series to accommodate the musical interests of the community closest to Tanglewood. He read a letter from Charles Munch expressing his regret at not being able to attend the party, his interest in the project and his hope that he would have the opportunity to meet the members of the committee during the summer at Tanglewood.

Mr. Perry announced that Dr. Munch has selected the following programs for the four Friday evening concerts in the shed July 19 and 26 and August 2 and 9: On July 19 Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with the Orchestra's first 'cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist, and will close the program with Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony. On July 26, Dr. Munch will present an all-Berlioz program, including the Overture "Le Corsair," "Harold in Italy" (with Joseph de Pasquale as viola soloist) and the Fantastic Symphony.

Guest Conductor

Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor for the third concert of the series on Aug. 2. Mr. Schuricht's program will be: Brahms Tragic Overture and Symphony No. 1, and the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk. The final concert of the Friday evening series on August 9, will be conducted by Dr. Munch, and Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Beethoven Violin Concerto. The program will open with Beethoven's Overture to "Leonore" No. 3 and the Honegger Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique").

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 184,973

APR 16 1957

Berkshire Programs

Members of the Berkshire Nights Committee gathered yesterday at a cocktail party at the Pittsfield Country Club to discuss plans for promotion of this special subscription series of concerts at Tanglewood recently announced by the Tanglewood Advisory Committee.

The committee, which is headed by Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of Pittsfield, consists of Berkshire area residents.

Thomas D. Perry, Jr., manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, announced that Dr. Munch has selected the following programs for the four Friday evening concerts in the Shed (July 19, 26-Aug. 2, 9.)

On July 19 Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra with the Orchestra's first "cellist," Samuel Mayes, as soloist, and will close the program with Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony.

On July 26, Dr. Munch will present an all-Berlioz program, including the Overture "Le Corsair," "Harold in Italy" (with Joseph de Pasquale as viola soloist) and the Fantastic Symphony.

[30]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
APR 24 1957

Answer to Arts

FAIR OR FOUL

By Roger O'Gara

SINCE THE EAGLE'S intramural disagreement on Tanglewood has become the worst kept secret of the peace time, it's fitting that the sports department should be heard in rebuttal. The Lively Arts column of yesterday strongly hinted that the scriveners of athletic achievements have only two joys in life—dedication to childish games and disparagement of adult music.

This was stated by way of introducing a strong endorsement of the recently announced bargain plan to increase attendance at the Berkshire Symphonic Festival's Friday night series. A sensitive soul, such as this essayist, could conclude only that the classical columnist's reasoning was that there isn't room in Berkshire County for both top drawer music and amateur sports.

It always is open season on sports. Not a few universal solvents in our midst operate on the premise that a sweeping denunciation of sports wins for the speaker unqualified honors as a culturist, patron of the arts and lofty thinker.

o—o

THIS SPORTS department admits to frequent and playful verbal thrusts at Tanglewood. However, the base of the criticism has been the affectation of those whom it suspects of not knowing a note from a nut, notwithstanding their veritable gushiness of rapturous praise of the music.

This observer never would dare to question the worth of the music, because he is the world's least qualified judge. His deficient background includes: 1. Expulsion from junior high music class for inability to carry a tune; 2. Awkward attempts at dancing, caused by acute lack of rhythm; and, 3. Veritable tone deafness, induced in part, at least, by a mastoid operation at the age of seven.

No, the music hasn't been the target. The music, authoritative sources advise, is major league beyond any shadow of a doubt. The irritant to us is the bush leaguer who feels that the combination of a bravo and two ohs and ahs magically makes him a monumental mentality.

o—o

THE PATRON of the arts, in his back-of-the-hand slap at sports and those who write of them is employing a standard operation. Let's consider the area covered by his criticism. Snobbish debunkers feel that it is both fashionable and strategic to strike something at its lowest level, in the belief that this is its weakest point.

So the patron hits this department's devotion to junior athletics, completely ignoring our up-to-the-minute coverage and objective and unbiased interpretation of athletics on all levels.

If Wagner, Bach, Beethoven and the rest had carried on their composing chores with such a singular lack of thoroughness, there would have been an appalling number of unfinished symphonies. If we were to criticize music, we wouldn't pick on the hurdy-gurdy or the harmonica.

o—o

IT IS TRUE that baseball on all levels has been played hereabouts for some years before almost barren bleachers. The same situation prevailed in professional basketball last winter.

The interpreter of culture frequently has decried our attempt to sell readers on the caliber of such enterprises as the Lenox Merchants, the Tyler Aces, Little League and Pop Warner League. His arbitrary attitude has been that if the attractions were any good, people would flock to see them.

This observer emphatically has taken exception to that line of reasoning. He feels that sparse, or even sagging attendance, doesn't necessarily reflect discredit on what is being offered.

So he commends the music people's concern over the decrease in patronage. And he wishes them well in their attempt to put more people in the Shed. It's significant to note that the classical columnist now is doing the same thing he chided the sports editor for doing.

Two things are certain. The music won't hurt them. And any endeavor to relieve Pittsfield's summer-time affliction of front-porch, rocking-chairitis deserves encouragement.

o—o

THE MAN told his readers to watch the sports pages for the odds on summer attendance. Here it is.

Tanglewood this summer will show an appreciable increase in attendance, because the people behind this project believe in their product. The music will outdraw the Tyler Aces by upwards of 200 to 1.

Did someone ask why I don't try Tanglewood? I did. I was there twice in 1940. The man who pitted major league music against minor sports hasn't seen a high school baseball game since 1939, by his own admission.

Why haven't I returned to Tanglewood? To be frank, if I tried to add classical music to an already burdensome schedule, I would be spreading myself as thin as a sandwich in a third-rate cafeteria.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
APR 25 1957

Berkshire Nights Idea at Festival Warmly Received

Berkshire county residents — and people from communities well beyond the limits of the county — seem to like the idea of Berkshire nights at Tanglewood, Lenox, during the Berkshire Music festival season.

Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of Pittsfield, chairman of the Berkshire Nights committee, said yesterday that applications have come in from all parts of the county and from points as distant as Northampton and Albany, N. Y.

The Berkshire nights plan offers special subscription tickets for four Friday night concerts at a 25 per cent reduction from the single-ticket price. Previously, subscription tickets were available only for week-end series of concerts, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons.

Mrs. Cumpston said Mrs. Harold Brafman of this city, Harry Barschdorf of Adams and Walter Lehman of Williamstown have been named to the committee and have application blanks and information about the plan.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
APR 24 1957

Berkshire Nights

Festival Series Going Well; Town Chairmen Announced

Response to the initial announcements of Berkshire Nights, the Friday evening subscription series at Tanglewood, has been "very encouraging" according to the chairman of the Berkshire Nights Committee.

Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of Pittsfield said applications have come in from Albany and Northampton as well as from all over the county. In addition, there have been numerous requests for information.

The special subscriptions for Friday night concerts in the Music Shed, at a 25 per cent price reduction, may be obtained by writing Mrs. Cumpston at Post Office Box 1, Pittsfield. Information and subscription blanks also may be obtained from members of the area-wide Berkshire Nights Committee.

Committee chairmen in the various towns are as follows: Dalton, Mrs. Richard H. Brown; Lenox, Mrs. Jesse L. Thomason; Lee, Mrs. D. Allen Fraser; Stockbridge, Mrs. Mac Morgan; Richmond, Mrs. Bruce Keith; Great Barrington, Mrs. William C. Gulick and Mrs. James E. Kimball Jr.; Egremont, Mrs. Robert I. Moran; Hopkinton, Mrs. Alexander Stollen; Sheffield, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Bessette; North Adams, Mrs. Harold Brafmann; Adams, Harry Barschdorf; Williamstown, Walter Lehman; Chatham, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Cecil S. Mapes; and Lakeville, Conn., Mrs. Scoville Firuski.

The Berkshire Nights series will open Friday evening July 19 in the Music Shed and will continue for the next three Friday evenings: July 26, Aug. 2 and Aug. 9.

At the special rate of four concerts at the same price as the usual weekend series of three, Berkshire Nights subscriptions will range from $6 in the rear sections to $22 for a single box seat.

APR 22 1957

Berkshire Nights Planners

Lenscraft

Best wishes for success of the Berkshire Nights series at Tanglewood this summer were expressed by Boston Symphony Orchestra Music Director Charles Munch at a recent meeting with Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of Pittsfield, chairman of the area-wide Berkshire Nights Committee. Ssubscriptions for the four Friday evening concerts in Music Shed went on sale today and will be offered until June 1.

[327]

5/20/57

Berkshire Nights Committee Is Entertained at Cocktail Party

Mitchell

BSO MANAGER Thomas D. Perry Jr. discusses Berkshire Nights concert series with C. D. Jackson, a trustee of the orchestra; Mrs. John R. Cook of Williamstown and Harry O. Barschdorf of Adams. Mrs. Cook and Mr. Barschdorf are members of Berkshire Nights committee.

Mitchell

SOUTH COUNTY residents at party yesterday at Mr. Jackson's home in Lenox included Mrs. Alexander Stoller of Housatonic, and Mr. and Mrs. O. Dickinson Street Jr., Mrs. D. Allan Fraser and Mr. Fraser, all of Lee. Women are Berkshire Nights committee members.

'Bring Berkshire Festival Home,' Says C. D. Jackson, BSO Trustee

C. D. Jackson, vice president of Time Inc., and a member of the board of trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, yesterday urged Berkshire residents to "rally once more" to bring the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood "back home where it belongs."

Mr. Jackson, who entertained members of the Berkshire Nights committee at a cocktail party at his Lakeside Stables home in Interlaken, gave strong endorsement to a plan offered area residents to buy a special subscription for four Friday night BSO concerts at Tanglewood this summer.

He noted that the Festival has become a national and international event and expressed the feeling "it has drifted away from all of us."

With the Berkshire Nights plan, he said, "we have an opportunity to bring it back to the Berkshires, where it began, where it belongs and where it must be."

Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of this city, chairman of the Berkshire Nights Committee, reported there is widespread interest throughout the area in the Berkshire Nights plan and urged committee members to impress upon the public that the deadline for special subscriptions is June 1.

Mrs. Cumpston said the response to the new plan has been gratifying to date and many persons have indicated in their letters to the committee that "this is what we've been waiting for."

The Berkshire Nights series, planned especially for area residents, offers balances, representative programs at a special series discount of 25 per cent.

Committee members were present from practically every town and city in the Berkshires. Thomas D. Perry Jr., manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Mrs. Perry also attended.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,366

MAY 3 1957

Series of Friday Concerts Planned At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra recently has announced a special subscription plan for its Tanglewood neighbors. Known as "The Berkshire nights," this plan, which originated with the Tanglewood Advisory Committee of local residents and was enthusiastically seconded by the orchestra, offers a series of four Friday evening Berkshire Festival concerts at a 25 per cent reduction — four concerts for the price of the usual, week-end series of three.

Series Opens July 19

The series will open on Friday evening, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings, July 26, August 2 and August 9, and will give residents in the area an opportunity to attend a festival concert each week at the special series rate.

The program will be conducted by the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, on July 19, 26 and August 9, and by the eminent conductor, Carl Schuricht, who makes his Tanglewood debut on August 2. The violinist, Isaac Stern, will perform the Beethoven Violin Concerto on August 9, and two of the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Joseph de Pasquale, violist, and Samuel Mayes, cellist, will be soloists on July 19 and 26 respectively. Following the general pattern of the 1957 Berkshire Festival, each program will emphasize the music of one of the great composers, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Complete programs are as follows: July 19—Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes," Tchaikovsky's "Rococo Variations" for cello and orchestra (Samuel Mayes); Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony. July 26—All-Berlioz program: Overture "Le Corsair" "Harold in Italy" (Joseph De Pasquale); Fantastic Symphony. August 2—Carl Schuricht conducting—Brahms' Tragic Overture, Symphony No. 1; Werner Egk Sonata for Orchestra. August 9—Beethoven Overture to "Leonore" No. 3, Violin Concerto (Isaac Stern); Honegger Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique").

Requests for tickets should be addressed to Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., P. O. Box 1, Pittsfield.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052

MAY 2 1957

Special Series Of Events Planned At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra recently announced a special subscription plan for its Tanglewood neighbors. Known as "The Berkshire Nights," this plan, which originated with the Tanglewood Advisory Committee of local residents, and was enthusiastically seconded by the orchestra, offers a series of four Friday evening Berkshire Festival concerts at a 25 per cent reduction — four concerts for the price of the usual weekend series of three.

The series will open on Friday evening, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings, July 26, August 2 and August 9, and will give residents in the area an opportunity to attend a Festival concert each week at the special series rate.

The programs will be conducted by the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, on July 19, 26 and August 9, and by the eminent conductor, Carl Schuricht, who makes his Tanglewood debut on August 2. The violinist, Isaac Stern, will perform the Beethoven Violin Concerto on August 9, and two of the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Joseph de Pasquale, violist, and Samuel Mayes, cellist, will be soloists on July 19 and 26 respectively. Following the general pattern of the 1957 Berkshire Festival, each program will emphasize the music of one of the great composers, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

MAY 5 - 1957

RATES REDUCED FOR 'NEIGHBORS' AT TANGLEWOOD

'Berkshire Nights' Will Include Four Friday Concerts

Boston, May 4 — The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced a special subscription plan for its Tanglewood neighbors. Known as "The Berkshire Nights", this plan, which originated with the Tanglewood Advisory Committee of local residents and was enthusiastically seconded by the orchestra, offers a series of four Friday evening Berkshire Festival concerts at a 25 per cent, four concerts for the price of the usual weekend series of three.

The series will open on Friday evening, July 19, and continue for next three Friday evening, July 26, Aug. 2 and Aug. 9, and will give residents in the area an opportunity to attend a Festival concert each week at the special series rate.

Munch and Schuricht

The programs will be conducted by the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, July 19, 26 and Aug. 9, and by the eminent conductor, Carl Schuricht, who makes his Tanglewood debut Aug. 2. The violinist Isaac Stern will perform the Beethoven violin concerto Aug. 9, and two of the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Joseph de Pasquale, violist, and Samuel Mayes cellist, will be soloists on July 19 and 26, respectively. Following the general pattern of the 1957 Berkshire Festival, each program will emphasize the music of one of the great composers—Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Complete programs are as follows: July 19-Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes", Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations" for Cello and Orchestra (Samuel Mayes); Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony. July 26-All-Berlioz program: Overture "Le Corsair" "Harold in Italy" (Joseph de Pasquale); "Fantastic" Symphony. Aug. 2—Carl Schuricht conducting, Brahms' "Tragic" Overture, Symphony No. 1; Werner Egk Sonata for Orchestra. Aug. 9—Beethoven overture to "Leonore" No. 3, violin concerto (Isaac Stern); Honegger Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique").

Requests for tickets in this series should be addressed to Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., P. O. Box 1, Pittsfield, Mass.

[32]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
APR 16 1957

Berkshire Nights

Special Festival Subscription Affords 25 Per Cent Reduction

A special subscription rate of four concerts for the price of three will be offered under the Berkshire Nights plan at Tanglewood this summer.

Announcement of the special rate was made by Thomas D. Perry Jr., Boston Symphony Orchestra manager, during a meeting yesterday afternoon at which details of the Berkshire Nights series were explained.

Devised for Berkshirites

Mr. Perry told a group of 60 gathered at the Country Club of Pittsfield that the reduced price for the four Friday evening concerts in the Music Shed is designed to appeal particularly to persons living within easy driving distance of Tanglewood.

These concert-goers, most of them Berkshire residents, will now be able to attend once on each of the big festival weekends and take advantage of the special rate. They thus will be able to "spread out" their concert-going while saving money on tickets.

"The whole idea is to offer something attractive to residents of Berkshire County," Mr. Perry explained. "We in Boston are grateful to the Berkshire people who established the festival and who have helped support it over the years, and this is one way of showing our appreciation."

Mrs. Cumpston Introduced

Mr. Perry introduced to the gathering Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of Pittsfield, newly appointed chairman of the Berkshire Nights committee, who spoke briefly on the promotional campaign to be carried on during the next six weeks.

Mrs. Cumpston said that while forming a working committee she had encountered a great deal of enthusiasm for the plan. Declaring that it made "good sense" from both the musical and financial standpoint, she predicted that with community support it would be a "tremendous success."

Endorsed by TAC

A hearty endorsement of Berkshire Nights was given by Henry W. Dwight of Stockbridge, member of the Tanglewood Advisory Committee since its inception.

Mr. Dwight said the TAC had been favorably impressed by the plan from the beginning: "When it was suggested to us, we really picked up the ball and ran with it."

Two additional advantages are the lighter traffic Friday night, as compared with Saturday and Sunday, and the possibility of seeing familiar faces in the Shed, Mr. Dwight said. It was explained that Berkshire Nights seats would be grouped together to accentuate the community flavor.

The special series also received messages giving blessings of Charles Munch, BSO music director, and Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, cofounder of the festival. Miss Robinson Smith, accepted an invitation to serve on the honorary Berkshire Nights committee. The communications were read by Mr. Perry.

The Programs

The programs for the four Berkshire Nights concerts, as planned by Dr. Munch and outlined by Mr. Perry, will carry out the three basic aims laid down for the coming season:

1. To feature one of six great composers each weekend.

2. To include a work of contemporary importance on each program.

3. To present a distinguished guest soloist—in this case violinist Isaac Stern.

Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes," Tchaikovsky's Rococo variations for cello and orchestra, with the orchestra's first cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist, and will close the program with Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony.

On July 26, Dr. Munch will present an all-Belioz program, including the overture "Le Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as viola soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony.

Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor for the third Berkshire Nights concert Aug. 2. Mr. Schuricht's program will be Brahms Tragic Overture and First Symphony and the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk.

The last concert of the series Aug. 9, will be conducted by Dr. Munch. Isaac Stern will be soloist in the Beethoven violin concerto. The program will open with Beethoven's Overture to Leonore No. 3 and the Honegger Symphony No. 3.

Tague

BERKSHIRE NIGHTS promotion was discussed at a gathering yesterday afternoon at the Country Club of Pittsfield. Here, talking over plans for the Friday evening subscription series, are Henry W. Dwight of Stockbridge and Robert K. Wheeler of Great Barrington, long-time members of the Tanglewood Advisory Committee; Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr., Berkshire Nights committee chairman, and BSO Manager Thomas D. Perry Jr.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
APR 17 1957

In Brief . . .

Not the least of the benefits accruing from the new Girls' Club building is the fact that it has helped lure to Pittsfield an executive director with the outstanding qualifications of Miss Katherine R. Shankland, whose appointment was announced yesterday . . . With wasteful duplication of effort already such a problem in the fund-raising field, it does seem as though some one should initiate a concerted campaign to bring under one tent the two organizations that are working the same field in promoting funds for muscular dystrophy research and treatment. In the long run, such fragmentation can only hurt the over-all cause . . .

Even though the County Commissioners can offer nothing more tangible than sympathy at this time, there's no question that West Stockbridge's selectmen are well justified in their concern over the town's ability to handle the heavy volume of traffic that will soon be coming on and off the Massachusetts Turnpike. It's ironic that the super-road's two Berkshire interchanges will be in Lee and West Stockbridge, which happen to have two of the narrowest main roads west of the Connecticut . . . If the initial response of Tanglewood's closest friends in these parts is typical of the reaction from Berkshire music-lovers generally, the special offer of four concerts for the price of three this summer should go far to stimulate more zealous local support for the Festival . . .

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
MAY 3 1957

4 Berkshire Nights Programs Listed At Tanglewood, Lenox

The programs for the concerts to be presented on the four Berkshire Nights at Tanglewood, Lenox, this season during the annual Berkshire Music festival, were announced today by Charles Munch, music director of the Boston symphony orchestra.

25% Reduction

Suggested by the festival's Berkshire advisory committee and readily accepted by the orchestra, the Berkshire Nights plan will make available to county residents, subscription tickets at a 25 per cent reduction in price for the four Friday evening concerts of the season. Heretofore subscription tickets have been available only for a series of concerts in one week-end, on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, or for the entire festival.

The Berkshire Nights series will open Friday evening, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings, July 26, Aug. 2 and Aug. 9, and will give residents in the area an opportunity to attend a Festival concert each week at the special series rate.

The programs will be conducted by Dr. Munch, on July 19, 26 and Aug. 9, and by the eminent conductor, Carl Schuricht, who makes his Tanglewood debut on Aug. 2. The violinist, Isaac Stern, will perform the Beethoven Violin concerto on Aug. 9, and two of the principals of the Boston Symphony orchestra, Joseph de Pasquale, violist, and Samuel Mayes, cellist, will be soloists on July 19 and 26 respectively. Following the general pattern of the 1957 Berkshire festival, each program will emphasize the music of one of the great composers, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Complete Programs

Complete programs are as follows: July 19, Stravinsky's "Jeu de Cartes," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra, Samuel Mayes, soloist; Tchaikovsky's Sixth symphony. July 26, All-Berlioz program: Overture "Le Corsair," "Harold in Italy," Joseph de Pasquale, soloist; Fantastic symphony. Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht conducting, Brahms Tragic overture, Symphony No. 1; Werner Egk sonata for orchestra. Aug. 9, Beethoven overture to "Leonore" No. 3, Violin concerto, Isaac Stern, soloist; Honegger Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique").

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-420(
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,372
APR 14 1957

Mrs. E. H. Cumpston, Jr., Head of Berkshire Nights

Will Lead Drive in County to Get Residents to Attend Festival at Tanglewood

(Special to The Republican)

Berkshire Hills, April 13—An energetic, civic-minded lady, with a fine record of co-operating with various civic and church enterprises in her community, has been selected to head Berkshire Nights Committee in charge of arrangements for the new concert series at Tanglewood, Lenox, this season.

She is Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of 303 Lenox Rd. The announcement was made by the Tanglewood advisory committee and Boston Symphony Orchestra manager, Thomas D. Perry, Jr. As head of the committee Mrs. Cumpston will lead the drive in the county for getting residents to attend the festival at Tanglewood under a special nights program, designed especially for them. Plans call for the offering to people in the county a subscription to the four Friday night concerts in the Music Shed at reduced prices. The chief purpose is to make attendance to the concerts possible by establishing a subscription popular with the average music lover.

Even though the subscriptions will be sold at reduced prices, this does not mean that the subscriber will be attending concerts without the major artists performing. For, inasmuch as guest artists are booked for week end appearances at Tanglewood, they will also be heard Friday nights and the works performed will be representative of the orchestra's repertoire. The Berkshire Nights subscriber will gain the benefits of a regular subscription without the necessity of attending three major concerts in one week end.

Mrs. Cumpston is busy making up a committee to assist her with the drive. The campaign will run from Monday of this coming week to June 1. Mrs. Cumpston has been prominent in music activities since coming to Pittsfield seven years ago, and has been soloist at St. Stephen's Church. From 1942 to 1945 she was soprano soloist with the Radcliffe Choral Society, and was soloist with the Boston Pops orchestra under Arthur Fiedler. She was membership chairman of Pittsfield Community Concerts Association for 1954 and 1955, and for the past three years has worked on arrangements for sponsoring the Young Audience Concerts which began their series in the county this week. She retired this week as president of the Pittsfield Junior League after serving two years.

The Lively Arts

By Milton R. Bass

WELL, HERE it is again. Just as the roads are beginning to show their surfaces through the mud and salt and sand and gunk, and the weather becomes warm enough to drop the car window a little, they start talking about tourists and Tanglewood, turmoil and traffic. In preparation for the extra influx [illegible] new turnpike, one local [illegible] having 77 mm. recoilless cannon mounted on his front fenders. He intends to blast his way through this summer no matter how many sports cars those New Yorkers clog the roads with.

* * *

THOUGHTS of summer bring thoughts of Tanglewood because the two events are inseparably linked around here. Without doubt, Tanglewood is not only the biggest thing we have to offer tourists in the summer, but you might even go on to say it is about the only thing we have to offer. Our small lakes are fished out and so jammed with power boats that it's worth your life to swim if you brave the oil scum in the first place. The summer weather is worse than the tropics and the scenery is covered by signs and empty beer bottles. We are a GE town industrially, and a Tanglewood town culturally.

There are plenty of people who go around bravely attacking both GE and Tanglewood, but deep down they realize how the area would suffer if either pulled up stakes. We have more to lose than they have because their activities are diversified while all our eggs are balanced on one razor's edge.

* * *

IT IS MY good fortune to sit in close proximity to the members of the sports department of this honorable sheet. These rough, tough, red-blooded one-hundred-and-one percenters have definite opinions on everything under the sun, and Tanglewood and its addenda are included in their orbit. They howl with derision every time a picture of a musical ensemble is run in the paper even though they have been running for the past 10 years the same picture of a guy sliding into second base.

They weep and wail about the poor sports around here who won't support professional basketball or semiprofessional baseball or amateur athletics, but the thousands who crowd into each Tanglewood concert don't impress them at all. They go right on whooping about the amount of space this paper gives cultural events while they pile midget league box scores on top of junior-jv-intermediate box scores and top it off with the week's bowling averages.

* * *

ALL THIS gives pause to one who can get just as excited by music or theatricals as he can by a sweeping end run or a crucial double down the right field line. Must one be as one-sided as the office sports or can one enjoy both athletic and aesthetic events? Are well-rounded (mentally, not physically), perfect people like me on the way out?

It could be that we are, because attendance at Tanglewood was down last year. Some blamed the weather, some blamed the particular programs and others blamed the traffic. Nobody really knows for sure. It could be any and all of them.

* * *

WELL, THIS year we can get an inkling because Tanglewood is offering a deal which any Berkshire County music lover should find hard to pass up. They are offering four Friday night concerts for the price of three, and are scheduling the events so that you get something classic, something new, a borrowed soloist and a conductor true blue. Not only that, they are reserving a special block of seats together for Berkshire people so you can check to see who is present with whom.

Do not, however, hope that the institution of these Berkshire Nights will bring back the good old social days of the county with mad midnight balls, candlelight suppers and titillating teas. Those days, my dear, are gone forever. One is lucky to be able to afford two servants, let alone a staff.

* * *

THE IMPORTANT thing is that you are getting the opportunity to hear magnificent music played by a magnificent orchestra in a magnificent setting. And you will be getting it all at bargain prices. We are fortunate to have a major league music field so readily available. It will be interesting to see if there are more backers for this kind of community activity than there were for the Lenox Merchants. For the betting odds on this contest, please consult the sporting pages of your local newspaper.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 6 - 1957

Berkshire Week in Review

$2.95.

County Roundup

IN A MOVE aimed at boosting Berkshire box-office support for the Music Festival, the Tanglewood Advisory Committee revealed a plan under which [illegible] discount would be given on purchases of tickets for [illegible] Friday night [illegible]. The management of the Boston Symphony expressed enthusiasm for the plan, which was tentatively dubbed "Berkshire Nights." . . . In Williamstown, the two-year-old Clark Art Institute [illegible] news on two counts. It logged in its 50,000th visitor, a New Lebanon school marm with 25 pupils, and an-

'Berkshire Nights'

BSO Studies Special Tickets For Friday Tanglewood Series

A plan for offering a special subscription to the Friday night Berkshire Festival concerts in the Music Shed, designed especially for Berkshire residents, is being worked out by top officials of the Tanglewood organization here and in Boston.

Main outlines of the plan, tentatively known as "Berkshire Nights," have been sketched in an exchange of letters between the Tanglewood Advisory Committee and Henry B. Cabot, president of the board of trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Inc.

Series Discount

In its letter, the TAC suggested that a price incentive similar to that in force for the weekend series of three concerts be offered to persons buying four Shed concert tickets on four consecutive Friday nights.

This suggestion was welcomed by Mr. Cabot, who said the orchestra management was equally enthusiastic. He said details of the plan would be announced shortly.

According to the Tanglewood Advisory Committee's letter, the basic idea for "Berkshire Nights" came from a Stockbridge resident and longtime Tanglewood subscriber who felt increasingly overwhelmed by the "feast of musical riches in his own backyard."

He observed that a "discount was offered him if he bought tickets for a weekend series of Shed concerts. But he felt that three major concerts in three days were too much of a good thing, leaving little time for other activities.

Consequently he decided that his own interests, and those of other Berkshire residents, might be served by an arrangement under which a similar discount would be given purchasers of tickets for the Friday night Shed concerts.

The chief advantage of such a plan, the Tanglewood Advisory Committee noted, would be that it would make the discount available while rationing out music in a "more digestible" form.

Balancing the Crowds

"If the plan were successful," the letter continued, "it would tend to concentrate and enlarge the Berkshire audience at one particular concert in a weekend series, thus making it more socially enjoyable. If it were possible to have the 'Berkshire Nights' on Friday evening, it would tend to raise the valleys and smooth out the peaks of attendance, and thus alleviate the traffic and parking problem for all Shed concerts."

To assure success of the proposal, the committee recommended that the four Friday nights offer a representative cross-section of the soloists performing during the season and the orchestra's repertory.

This would encourage the strong area support necessary to the plan, while restoring the "sense of Berkshire partnership in this unique artistic endeavor of which we are all so proud."

"Necessarily, since the number of musical events at Tanglewood has grown from the early days of the Berkshire Festival, the local audience has been distributed over scores of musical events," the advisory committee's letter concluded. "Some of it, in fact, probably has disappeared because the novelty has worn off and the enterprise, because of its very success, has become more impersonal. Properly publicized and promoted, 'Berkshire Nights' might restore audiences and re-stimulate enthusiasm where it has flagged."

Answer to Need

In his affirmative answering letter, the president of the BSO trustees wrote that the plan offered an opportunity for the organization to answer the needs of Berkshire residents who had helped make Tanglewood possible.

"I like the idea," Mr. Cabot wrote. "It offers a chance to encourage the interest of the Berkshire residents in Tanglewood and for us to respond to the wishes of people to whom we owe a great deal for hospitality, help and encouragement in the 20-odd years since the Boston Symphony Orchestra became a part of the Berkshire Festival. The whole idea of the Festival sprang from the Berkshires and we are always eager to serve the people who have made the undertaking possible.

"I have talked the matter over with the management of the orchestra and they are now working out the details of how it can best be arranged. Within a week or two we will be able to announce the details of a plan, and I hope very much that the Berkshires will welcome the idea as warmly as we do."

Members of the Tanglewood Advisory Committee are Alan J. Blau, George W. Edman, F. Anthony Hanlon and Lawrence K. Miller of Pittsfield; Lenges Bull, George E. Mole, H. George Wilde and Jesse L. Thomason of Lenox; Henry W. Dwight of Stockbridge; Whitney S. Stoddard of Williamstown; Robert K. Wheeler of Great Barrington, and serving as ex officio members, the chairmen of Selectmen in Lee, Lenox and Stockbridge: Michael J. Sullivan, George L. Hughes and William F. Lawless, respectively.

Four Draftees Leave for Army

Four draftees left this morning from the bus terminal on Center Street for induction into the Army. They were presented gifts by the sendoff committee.

William F. Stephenson of 61 Bay State Rd. was the leader of the group. Others were William B. Barscz, 88 Howard St.; Clyde M. Keyes, West Stockbridge, and Donald R. Parker, Dalton.

School Builders To Meet Thursday

The School Building Commission will meet Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at Pittsfield High School. Albert Hover, representative of Perkins & Will, architects for the new Williams Street elementary school, will attend.

Cemetery Memorials

[illegible] committee for Tanglewood Berkshire Nights program being sponsored this season as a promotional move to present the Tanglewood concerts to Berkshire residents at a special price.

The county chairman is Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of Pittsfield. Among the five honorary chairmen are Mrs. Thomas H. Stodgett of this town. The others are Mrs. Serge Koussevitzky of Lenox, widow of the former director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith of Stockbridge, president of the Berkshire Festival, Inc.; Mrs. James Phinney Baxter, III, of Williamstown, and Mrs. Bruce Crane of Dalton.

Members of the committee from this area include Mrs. William C. Gulick and Mrs. James E. Kimball, Jr., of this town; Mrs. Robert I. Morgan of South Egremont, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bessette of Sheffield, Mrs. Alexander Stoller of Housatonic, Mrs. Miles Morgan, Mrs. Henry W. Dwight, Mrs. Clement Ogden, and Mrs. James S. Deeley of Stockbridge; and Mrs. D. Allen Fraser and Mrs. Dickinson Sargent of Lee.

The committee is assisting in the drive to obtain subscribers for the Berkshire Nights program, at the rate of four tickets for the price of three. The Berkshire Nights concerts will open on Friday, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings, July 26, August 2, and August 9. The August 2 concert will be directed by Carl Schuricht, who will make his Tanglewood debut. The other concerts will be under the direction of the regular conductor, Charles Munch.

The Lively Arts

By Milton R. Bass

WELL, HERE it is again. Just as the roads are beginning to show their surfaces through the mud and salt and sand and gunk, and the weather becomes warm enough to drop the car window a little, they start talking about tourists and Tanglewood, turmoil and traffic. In preparation for the extra influx from the new turnpike, one local citizen is having 77 mm. recoilless cannon mounted on his front fenders. He intends to blast his way thrpugh this summer no matter how many sports cars those New Yorkers clog the roads with.

* * *

THOUGHTS of summer bring thoughts of Tanglewood because the two events are inseparably linked around here. Without doubt, Tanglewood is not only the biggest thing we have to offer tourists in the summer, but you might even go on to say it is about the only thing we have to offer. Our small lakes are fished out and so jammed with power boats that it's worth your life to swim if you brave the oil scum in the first place. The summer weather is worse than the tropics and the scenery is covered by signs and empty beer bottles. We are a GE town industrially, and a Tanglewood town culturally.

There are plenty of people who go around bravely attacking both GE and Tanglewood, but deep down they realize how the area would suffer if either pulled up stakes. We have more to lose than they have because their activities are diversified while all our eggs are balanced on one razor's edge.

* * *

IT IS MY good fortune to sit in close proximity to the members of the sports department of this honorable sheet. These rough, tough, red-blooded one-hundred-and-one percenters have definite opinions on everything under the sun, and Tanglewood and its addenda are included in their orbit. They howl with derision every time a picture of a musical ensemble is run in the paper even though they have been running for the past 10 years the same picture of a guy sliding into second base.

They weep and wail about the poor sports around here who won't support professional basketball or semiprofessional baseball or amateur athletics, but the thousands who crowd into each Tanglewood concert don't impress them at all. They go right on whooping about the amount of space this paper gives cultural events while they pile midget league box scores on top of junior-jv-intermediate box scores and top it off with the week's bowling averages.

* * *

ALL THIS gives pause to one who can get just as excited by music or theatricals as he can by a sweeping end run or a crucial double down the right field line. Must one be as one-sided as the office sports or can one enjoy both athletic and aesthetic events? Are well-rounded (mentally, not physically), perfect people like me on the way out?

It could be that we are, because attendance at Tanglewood was down last year. Some blamed the weather, some blamed the particular programs and others blamed the traffic. Nobody really knows for sure. It could be any and all of them.

* * *

WELL, THIS year we can get an inkling because Tanglewood is offering a deal which any Berkshire County music lover should find hard to pass up. They are offering four Friday night concerts for the price of three, and are scheduling the events so that you get something classic, something new, a borrowed soloist and a conductor true blue. Not only that, they are reserving a special block of seats together for Berkshire people so you can check to see who is present with whom.

Do not, however, hope that the institution of these Berkshire Nights will bring back the good old social days of the county with mad midnight balls, candlelight suppers and titillating teas. Those days, my dear, are gone forever. One is lucky to be able to afford two servants, let alone a staff.

* * *

THE IMPORTANT thing is that you are getting the opportunity to hear magnificent music played by a magnificent orchestra in a magnificent setting. And you will be getting it all at bargain prices. We are fortunate to have a major league music field so readily available. It will be interesting to see if there are more backers for this kind of community activity than there were for the Lenox Merchants. For the betting odds on this contest, please consult the sporting pages of your local newspaper.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

APR 6 - 1957

Berkshire Week in Review

~~$2.95.~~

County Roundup

IN A MOVE aimed at boosting Berkshire box-office support for the Music Festival, the Tanglewood Advisory Committee projected a plan under which a substantial discount would be given to buyers of tickets for four consecutive Friday night [illegible]. The management of the Boston Symphony expressed enthusiasm for the plan, which was tentatively dubbed "Berkshire Nights". . . In Williamstown, the two-year-old Clark Art Institute made news on two counts. It logged in its 50,000th visitor, a New Lebanon school marm with 25 pupils and ar-

'Berkshire Nights'

BSO Studies Special Tickets For Friday Tanglewood Series

A plan for offering a special subscription to the Friday night Berkshire Festival concerts in the Music Shed, designed especially for Berkshire residents, is being worked out by top officials of the Tanglewood organization here and in Boston.

Main outlines of the plan, tentatively known as "Berkshire Nights," have been sketched in an exchange of letters between the Tanglewood Advisory Committee and Henry B. Cabot, president of the board of trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Inc.

Series Discount

In its letter, the TAC suggested that a price incentive similar to that in force for the weekend series of three concerts be offered to persons buying four Shed concert tickets on four consecutive Friday nights.

This suggestion was welcomed by Mr. Cabot who said the orchestra trustees themselves as to its scientific and its practic. Millions have, and have suggest that he investigate chiropractic and its theory false. I believe we have established a record for having one or more members of our family as students of St. Joseph's grammar and high schools for over a period of 34 years (from 1921-1955).

They are: James A. Jr. of Malden, Mass.; Ward 3 city councilman Bernard J. Murphy of this city; Professor Edward F. Murphy of St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vt.; William D., Raymond A., Arthur E., John P. of this city; Thomas P., a sophomore at St. Michael's; and the sister, Mrs. Robert P. Bass of Albany Road.

Mrs. JAMES A. MURPHY.
Pittsfield.

New Science

To the Editor of THE EAGLE:—

Dr. Howard Root ["Letters," March 28] says chiropractic is unscientific and its theory false. I suggest that he investigate chiropractic. Millions have, and have found a family of eight boys and one girl? We, the James A. Murphys of Adam Street have eight sons and one daughter.

I also believe we have established a record for having had one or more members of our family as students of St. Joseph's grammar and high schools for over a period of 34 years (from 1921-1955).

They are: James A. Jr. of Malden, Mass.; Ward 3 city councilman Bernard J. Murphy of this city; Professor Edward F. Murphy of St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vt.; William D., Raymond A., Arthur E., John P. of this city; Thomas P., a sophomore at St. Michael's; and the sister, Mrs. Robert P. Bass of Albany Road.

Mrs. JAMES A. MURPHY.
Pittsfield.

More Elog

To the Editor of TH

In my letter [illegible] tioned two great [illegible] nating speeches [illegible] Conkling and Ja[illegible] There have bee[illegible] noteworthy.

In the Whig c[illegible] qualified themselves in the 20-odd years [illegible] ...ington, D.C. Charlie the [illegible]ning" horse from [illegible]e, talking horse from [illegible]se for ads." On hand [illegible]ppear on stage, screen, [illegible]ard the rights of an[illegible] [illegible]otel, New York, today. [illegible]ged, or stabled, in the [illegible]tists, Local No. 1, it [illegible] American Guild of [illegible]t animal union. To be [illegible]ded; launching of the [illegible] oddest meetings we've [illegible]ceived an invitation to

—o—

[illegible]vetyone know that a [illegible]od is a pile 8 feet long [illegible] high and 4 wide? Well, [illegible] in the trade is another [illegible] Cape Cod cord, and [illegible] for it. Years ago some[illegible]rmouth decided to cut [illegible]y 2 feet long instead of [illegible]g in only half a cord. [illegible]own as Yankee in[illegible]

—o—

[illegible] that unless we people of [illegible] countries are in ac[illegible]-powered diplomacy can [illegible]g them together. He's [illegible]n at the grass roots, [illegible]gs grow.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4206

Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON,
Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443

MAY 9 - 1957

Area Chairmen Are Named for Concerts

Others in This Section Are Members of Committee

Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett Is One of Five Honorary Chairmen Named for Berkshire Nights Program.—Others From Area Named to Committee Are Listed.

Several persons from the Southern Berkshire district have been named on the committee for Tanglewood Berkshire Nights program being sponsored this season as a promotional move to present the Tanglewood concerts to Berkshire residents at a special price.

The county chairman is Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston, Jr., of Pittsfield. Among the five honorary chairmen are Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett of this town. The others are Mrs. Serge Koussevitzky of Lenox, widow of the former director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith of Stockbridge, president of the Berkshire Festival, Inc.; Mrs. James Phinney Baxter, III, of Williamstown, and Mrs. Bruce Crane of Dalton.

Members of the committee from this area include Mrs. William C. Quick and Mrs. James E. Kimball, Jr., of this town; Mrs. Robert I. Morgan of South Egremont, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bessette of Sheffield, Mrs. Alexander Stoller of Housatonic, Mrs. Mary Morgan, Mrs. Henry W. Dwight, Mrs. Clement Ogden, and Mrs. James S. Deeley of Stockbridge; and Mrs. D. Allen Fraser and Mrs. Dickinson Sargent of Lee.

The committee is assisting in the drive to obtain subscribers for the Berkshire Nights program, at the rate of four tickets for the price of three. The Berkshire Nights concerts will open on Friday, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings, July 26, August 2, and August 9. The August 2 concert will be directed by Carl Schuricht, who will make his Tanglewood debut. The other concerts will be under the direction of the regular conductor, Charles Munch.

[34]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

MAY 4 1957

Tanglewood Berkshire Nights Will Have Committee of 47

Five honorary chairmen and 47 committee members were announced today by Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr., chairman of the committee for Berkshire Nights at Tanglewood this summer.

The appointees will be in charge of promotion and ticket sales for the new Friday night concert series. The drive for subscriptions, which are offered at a reduced rate of four tickets for the price of three, opened two weeks ago and will continue to the end of the month.

Purpose of Berkshire Nights is to give area residents who live within easy driving distance of Tanglewood a chance to spread out their concert-going over four weekends while still taking advantage of a special series rate.

Open July 19

The Berkshire Nights concerts will open Friday evening, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings: July 26, Aug. 2 and Aug. 9.

The programs will be conducted by the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, on July 19 and 26 and Aug. 9. The eminent German conductor, Carl Schuricht, will make his Tanglewood debut at the Aug. 2 concert.

Violinist Isaac Stern will perform the Beethoven Violin Concerto Aug. 9. Two of the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, violist Joseph de Pasquale and cellist Samuel Mayes, will be soloists July 19 and 26, respectively. In line with the 1957 Festival's general pattern, each program will emphasize the music of one of four great composers: Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Requests for tickets should be addressed to Mrs. Cumpston at P.O. Box 1, Pittsfield.

Honorary Chairmen

The five honorary chairmen announced today are Mrs. Serge Koussevitzky of Lenox, widow of the Boston Symphony Orchestra conductor; Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith of Stockbridge, president of the Berkshire Festival Inc.; and three persons active in the early days of the Festival, Mrs. James Phinney Baxter III, of Williamstown, Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett of Great Barrington and Mrs. Bruce Crane of Dalton.

The area committees are as follows:

Pittsfield: Albert W. Barris, Mrs. Benjamin N. Bowers, Mrs. Alexander Euston, Mrs. Alan B. Grieve, Mrs. Lincoln S. Cain, Mrs. Lawrence Hamilton, Mrs. John G. W. Mahanna, Miss Margo Miller, Mrs. Leonard Rabins and Mrs. Willem Willeke.

Dalton: Mrs. Richard Brown.

Lenox: Mrs. Jesse Thomason, Mrs. Ward Gaston, Mrs. John Church, Mrs. W. Hewitt Clifford, Miss Helen Loughran, Mrs. Robert Hollingsworth.

Lee: Mrs. D. Allen Fraser, Mrs. D. Dickinson Street.

Stockbridge; Mrs. Mac Morgan, Mrs. Henry W. Dwight, Mrs. Clement Ogden, Mrs. James S. Deely.

Great Barrington: Mrs. William C. Gulick, Mrs. James E. Kimball Jr.

South Egremont: Mrs. Robert I. Moran.

Sheffield: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bessette.

Lakeville, Conn.: Mrs. Scoville Firuski, Albert Sly.

Richmond: Mrs. Bruce Keith, Mrs. William Crane, Mrs. John W. Talbot, Mrs. Albert I. Ris.

Williamstown: Mrs. John Cook, Walter Lehman, Irwin Shainman, Mrs. Charles Foehl, Robert Barrow, Louis Rudnick, Mrs. Bruce Carlson.

Adams: Harry Barschdorf.

North Adams: Dr. Pliny Allen, Mrs. Harold Brafmann.

Housatonic: Mrs. Alexander Stoller.

Chatham, N.Y.: Mr. and Mrs. Cecil S. Mapes, Mrs. Robert Waite.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

MAY 27 1957

Deadline For Concerts Is Saturday

Berkshire Nights Plan Offers Reduced Prices

All Berkshire Nights subscriptions for Tanglewood this summer must be mailed before Saturday, June 1, it was announced today by Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr., chairman of the Berkshire Nights committee.

Mrs. Cumpston issued the reminder today to all interested in purchasing the Friday-night subscriptions offered at a special discount of four concerts for the price of three.

The chairman also announced that subscriptions bought before May 17 have been filled and mailed out from the Boston Symphony Orchestra ticket office at Symphony Hall, Boston.

In order to reserve the best possible seats for Berkshire Nights subscribers, she explained, it was decided not to assign seats in one general block in each price range. Instead, smaller blocks have been reserved around which additional seats are available for those subscribing during the last two weeks of May.

An additional problem in seating originated from the specific seating requests made by more than half the Berkshire Nights subscribers for seats on the aisle, in particular rows and in particular sections. Insofar as was possible, all such requests were granted.

Subscriptions to the four-concert series, ranging in price from $6 to $110 for a six-seat box, must be mailed before Saturday to Post Office Box 1, Pittsfield. Requests for information during these final five days should be telephoned to Mrs. Cumpston in Pittsfield.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

MAY 23 1957

Berkshire Nights At Tanglewood Offer New Series

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has recently announced a special subscription plan for its Tanglewood neighbors. Known as "The Berkshire Nights", this plan, which originated with local residents, and was enthusiastically seconded by the Orchestra, offers a series of four Friday evening Berkshire Festival concerts at a 25% reduction—four concerts for the price of the usual weekend series of three.

The series will open on Friday evening, July 19, and continue for the next three Friday evenings, July 26, August 2 and August 9, and will give residents in the area an opportunity to attend a Festival concert each week at the special series rate. Deadline for ordering tickets is June 1.

The programs will be conducted by the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, on July 19, 26 and August 9, and by the eminent conductor, Carl Schuricht, who makes his Tanglewood debut on August 2. The violinist, Isaac Stern will perform the Beethoven Violin Concerto on August 9, and two of the principals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Joseph de Pasquale, violinist, and Samuel Mayes, cellist, will be will be soloists on July 19 and 26 respectively. Following the general pattern of the 1957 Berkshire Festival, each program will emphasize the music of one of the great composers, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-420(
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 4 1957

300 Tickets Sold for Series At Tanglewood

Three hundred series tickets, a total of 1,200 seats, were sold during the drive for subscriptions to the first Berkshire Nights this summer at Tanglewood, according to Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr., drive chairman. The drive, which opened April 15, closed Saturday.

Purpose of the drive was to make subscriptions to four Friday night concerts, beginning July 19, available to Berkshire area residents at a price reduction.

Thomas D. Perry Jr., manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, said yesterday that he "is very greatful to Berkshire people for responding so well to the series." The drive exceeded the original estimate of 250 series tickets.

"This year's drive was an excellent start," said Mrs. Cumpston, who feels confident that many people will take advantage of the series next year when they know about it longer in advance.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

MAY 23 1957

'Berkshire Nights' Explained to Rotary

GREAT BARRINGTON — The Rotary Club heard of music from two angles yesterday. Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of Pittsfield explained the Berkshire Nights program at Tanglewood, which allows residents to buy a special subscription for four Friday night Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts.

Mrs. Willem Willeke of Pittsfield talked about the Young Audiences Concerts, which have been given this year at Searles, Mount Everett and other county schools.

Next week's speaker will be Fred C. White of Monterey.

Mrs. Cumpston To Work on Concert Series

Pittsfield Musician Heads Committee on Berkshire Nights

Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr. of Pittsfield has been appointed chairman of the Berkshire Nights Committee in charge of arrangements for the new concert series at Tanglewood this summer.

Mitchell
Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr.

Announcement of the appointment was made this morning by the Tanglewood Advisory Committee and Boston Symphony Orchestra Manager Thomas D. Perry, Jr.

As chairman of the Berkshire Nights Committee, Mrs. Cumpston will spearhead local promotion of the concert series designed especially for Berkshire County residents and others within easy driving range of Tanglewood.

Four Friday Concerts

Plans for Berkshire Nights, as announced last week, call for the offering of a subscription to the four Friday evening concerts in the Music Shed, with a suitable price reduction. The aim is to make available to the local concert-goer a subscription tailored to his needs.

Since guest artists booked for weekend appearances at Tanglewood will also be heard on the four Friday nights, and since works performed would be representative of the orchestra's repertory, it is expected that the Berkshire Nights subscriber will gain the benefits of a regular subscription without the necessity of attending three major concerts in one weekend.

The new chairman will appoint a committee of area residents to assist in promoting the plan. The campaign will run from April 15 to June 1.

Well-Known Soloist

Mrs. Cumpston has been prominent in civic and musical activities since coming to the Berkshires seven years ago. In Pittsfield she has been soprano soloist for St. Stephen's Church, and she is currently studying singing with Mrs. Alexander Stoller at the Pittsfield Community Music School.

From 1942 through 1945 she was soprano soloist with the Radcliffe Choral Society. In 1945, after winning a Radcliffe contest, she was a soloist with the Boston Pops Orchestra under the direction of Arthur Fiedler.

She was membership chairman of the Pittsfield Community Concert Assn. in 1954 and 1955 and has worked for the past three years on arrangements for the Young Audiences concerts. She was chairman of the group that brought the St. Thomas Church Choir of New York City here last spring, and has been active in plans for the "Pops" concerts at the Pittsfield Community Music School. She will retire tomorrow as president of the Pittsfield Junior League after a two-year term.

EAGLE
Apnl 9, 1957

'Berkshire Nights' Are by Subscription

Syracuse Herald-American
May 14, 1957

A special series of concerts, known as "The Berkshire Nights," will take place in "Tanglewood" starting Friday night, July 19, and will continue on the next Friday nights, July 26, Aug. 2 and Aug. 9. These four concerts are offered at a subscription rate, four concerts for the price of three.

Dr. Charles Munch, conductor and musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which has its summer home in "Tanglewood" (home of Berkshire Music Center) will conduct the programs July 19 and 26 and Aug. 9. The concert Aug. 2 will be conducted by Carl Schurict, here from Europe for his "Tanglewood" debut. Isaac Stern will perform the Beethoven Concerto on Aug. 9 and two of the principals of the Boston Symphony, Joseph de Pasquale, violist, and Samuel Mayes, cellist, will be soloists July 19 and 26, respectively.

In the pattern of the 1957 Berkshire Festival each concert of "Berkshire Nights" will bring the music of one of these great composers, Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. Since these concerts are arranged as a plan for "Tanglewood" neighbors of the Boston Symphony, orders for tickets should be sent to Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr., P. O. Box 1, Pittsfield, Mass.

The Bennington Composer's Conference and Chamber Music Center, offers seven scholarships to this summer's session, according to the conference director, Dr. Alan Carter. Applicants for composers' scholarships, should send at least two scores to Roger Goeb, 11 Lakeside Dr., Rockville Center, Long Island, N.Y. The applicant for the violinist scholarship should send three letters of recommendation from past or present teachers and established musicians to Dr. Carter, 17 High St., Middlebury, Vt.

This date in music: 1859, Nellie Mitchell, famous operatic soprano, known as Nellie Melba, born in Australia, taking her professional name from her native Melbourne.

The Conference and Center are conducted in Bennington College, Bennington, Vt., Aug. 11-23. The Conference, concurrently with the Chamber Music Center, provides talented composers with opportunity to have their works criticized by qualified musicians and experienced teachers. Six of the Bennington scholarships are for composers; one for a violinist.

The Berkshire Nights of the
Berkshire Festival

From now until May 31, residents of this area will have an opportunity to buy a special subscription for four Friday evening Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts in the Music Shed at Tanglewood. The Berkshire Nights series, planned particularly for those living within easy driving distance of Tanglewood, offers balanced, representative programs at a special series discount of 25 per cent. The discount means that the full series of four concerts will cost no more than the usual weekend series of three.

The Friday Programs in the Music Shed at 8:30

July 19

STRAVINSKY "Jeu de Cartes"
TCHAIKOVSKY Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra
Soloist: Samuel Mayes
TCHAIKOVSKY Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique")
Conductor: Charles Munch

July 26

BERLIOZ Overture "Le Corsair"
"Harold in Italy"
Soloist: Joseph de Pasquale
Fantastic Symphony
Conductor: Charles Munch

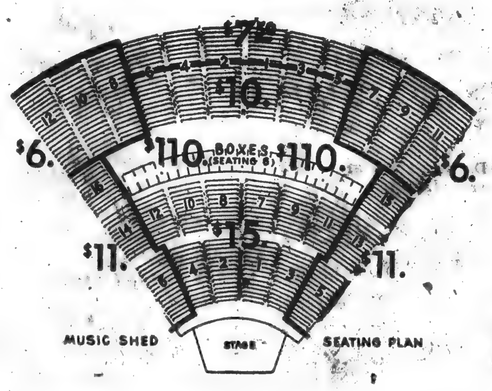
August 2

BRAHMS Tragic Overture
EGK Sonata for Orchestra
BRAHMS Symphony No. 1
Conductor: Carl Schuricht

August 9

BEETHOVEN Leonore Overture No. 3
HONEGGER Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique")
BEETHOVEN Concerto for Violin
Soloist: Isaac Stern
Conductor: Charles Munch

Series Prices in force until MAY 31 only!
$6, $7.50, $10, $11, $15, $110 (Boxes Seating 6)



Make check or money order payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra and send to: Mrs. Edward H. Cumpston Jr., P.O. Box 1, Pittsfield, Mass. For further information, call any one of the following members of the Berkshire Nights Committee.

Pittsfield
Albert W. Barris
Mrs. Benjamin N. Bowers
Mrs. Alexander Euston
Mrs. Alan B. Grieve
Mrs. Lincoln S. Cain
Mrs. Lawrence G. Hamilton
Mrs. John G. W. Mahanna
Mrs. Leonard Rabins
Mrs. Willem Willeke
Mr. and Mrs. John W. Livermore

Dalton
Mrs. Richard H. Brown

Lenox
Mrs. Jesse L. Thomason
Mrs. Ward J. Gaston
Mrs. John Church
Mrs. W. Hewitt Clifford
Miss Helen Loughran
Mrs. Marion R. Hollingsworth

Sheffield
Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Bessette

Lee
Mrs. D. Allen Fraser
Mrs. O. Dickinson Street Jr.

Stockbridge
Mrs. Mac Morgan
Mrs. Henry W. Dwight
Mrs. Clement M. Ogden
Mrs. James S. Deely

Great Barrington
Mrs. William C. Gulick
Mrs. James E. Kimball Jr.

South Egremont
Mrs. Robert I. Moran

Richmond
Mrs. Bruce W. Keith
Mrs. William Crane
Mrs. John W. Talbot,
Mrs. Albert I. Ris

Housatonic
Mrs. Alexander Stoller

Adams
Harry O. Barschdorf

Lakeville, Conn.
Mrs. Scoville Firuski
Albert C. Sly

Hillsdale, N.Y.
Mrs. Alexander Bloch

Chatham, N.Y.
Mr. and Mrs. Cecil S. Mapes
Mrs. Robert Waite

Williamstown
Mrs. John R. Cook
Walter J. Lehmann
Irwin Shainman
Mrs. Charles A. Foehl
Robert G. Barrow
Louis Rudnick
Mrs. Bruce R. Carlson

North Adams
Dr. Pliny A. Allen
Mrs. Harold E. Brafman

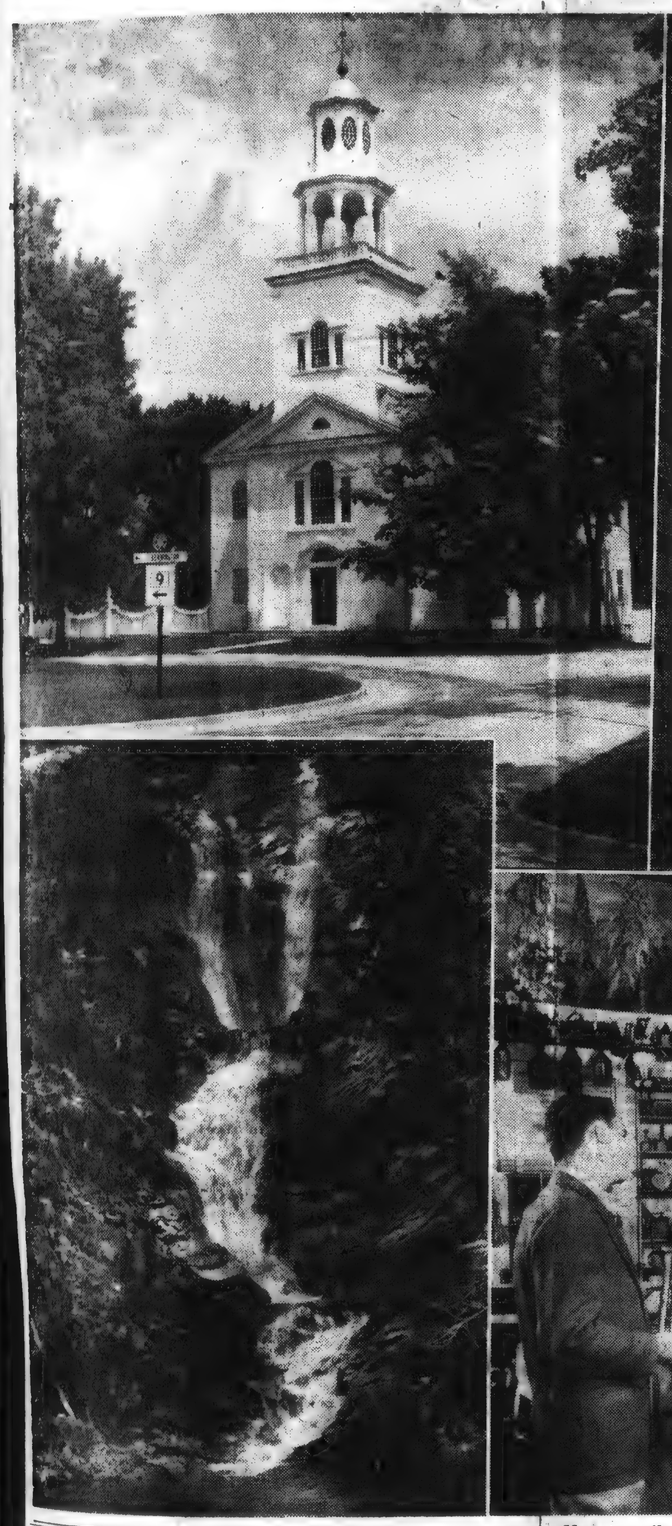
C371

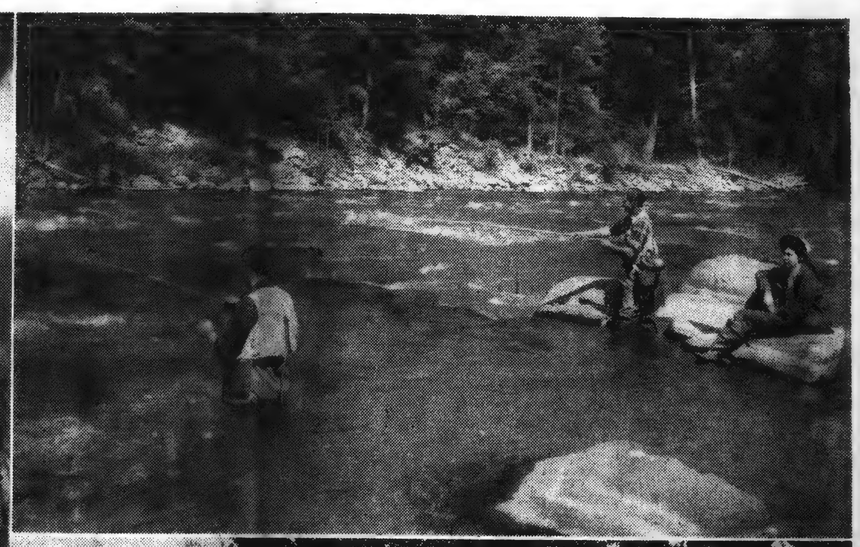
New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUN [illegible] 957

Vacation Season Opens Throughout New England





New turnpikes, better roads, and an increase in air travel are just some of the many reasons why each section of New England expects a record amount of vacationers this season. Pictured above are some of the picturesque spots in the six-state area. Top left, Old First Church in Bennington, Vt.; center, Old Sturbridge Village; top right, one of several rivers due to attract fishermen; middle right, the Music Shed at Tanglewood in Lenox, summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Lower left, the beautiful waterfalls in the Savoy State Forest in the Berkshires; center, Goyette Museum of Americana in Peterborough, N. H.; and right, Hampton Beach, N. H., one of the favorite family vacation areas along the New England coastline.

REDUCTION

RATIO

18x

2.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

2.0 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

1.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

PM-MGP 13"x18"
METRIC GENERAL PURPOSE TARGET
PHOTOGRAPHIC

200 mm

150 mm

100 mm

A5

A4

A3

1.0 mm

1.5 mm

2.0 mm

2.5 mm

PRECISION℠ RESOLUTION TARGETS

Century

A&P

1303 Geneva Avenue
St. Paul, MN 55119

4.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

3.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

3.0 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

Shutters Come Down, Batons Lift--The Summer Circuit Starts to Swing

By ORMONDE PLATER

IN an old barn at Malden Bridge, a barn that looks as if the cows had just vacated it, the house lights will dim Tuesday night and the curtain will part on "Holiday for Lovers." With this, the summer season begins.

It will be a big season, as it has been big in the past. South into the Middle Hudson Valley and Catskills, north into the Green Mountains and Adirondacks, west into the Helderbergs, east into the Berkshires. On the map there is no order to the array. In a few points the theaters and music houses cluster gregariously, but mostly they live in solitude.

They add up to 10 summer theaters and about as many music events. In late June the theaters open; in July the music starts, then ebbs in late August, leaving the theaters to shut their doors with Labor Day.

Malden Bridge is an early starter. The following Monday, June 24, four more theaters jump in, and by the first week of July you won't be able to go to all of them in a week—not even if you attend matinees.

The schedules are not much different than last year's. The Arena Theater at State College for Teachers still nudges the avant garde. The Knickerbocker Players at Siena College (who have succeeded the old Coventry Players there) lean towards work of old vintage. The rest of them rely rather heavily on recent Broadway [illegible], with a few surprises thrown in for good measure.

For one thing, though, we fail to find any of those "new revues" that used to visit the so-called "star" houses. Spa and Sacandaga. The stars will still be there, stopping off on their tours of the summer circuit, but not the revues.

As a glance at the accompanying schedule will reveal, Spa has an impressive list of stars. It starts with Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin as those comic novelists in "Janus" and ends with Basil Rathbone in Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution." Sacandaga's big attraction will be Lisa Ferraday in the same play.

Shelley Players will try a new play, "The Second Oldest Profession," by Ralph Wesley Cain. Spa has the rights to a new one, "October Gal," by Charles Robinson, but if a star can't be procured, another drama will get the nod.

The Berkshire Playhouse, which one might call a starlet theater, has delved into New York drama and television for its actors, among whom are William Roerick, Skedge Miller and Deirdre Owens, all returners.

Williamstown has cut down to an eight-week schedule, but director Nikos Psacharopoulos is back, and that's the best news on the circuit.

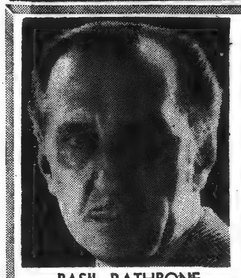
Between those Elysian fields of drama and music lies the dance, which is ably represented, just east of Lee, Mass., by Jacob's Pillow, one of the top dance festivals in the world. Ted Shawn, its founder and director, is celebrating its silver jubilee with such eminent dancers as Maria Tallchief, Alicia Markova, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada. The season will be nine weeks.

On to music. Everyone has heard of the Berkshire Festival, and so it should surprise no one that Charles Munch will return for six weeks with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Guest conductors will be old-hand Pierre Monteux and new-hand Carl Schuricht (of the Vienna Symphony). Isaac Stern, violinist, and Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will appear at times as guest soloists.

Next door to Tanglewood is the Berkshire Music Barn, haven of jazz (Sunday nights) and folk music (Saturday afternoons) during July and August. During August the newly founded School of Jazz will hold forth there, with such professors as Dizzy Gillespie, John Lewis and Jimmy Giuffre.

Continued on Page B-12

Tanglewood—A Sunday afternoon crowd overflows the theater of the Berkshire Festival to listen to a chamber music concert conducted by Charles Munch. After the second week, the full orchestra moves to the big shed for four weekends of concerts. Wednesday nights are devoted to more chamber music.



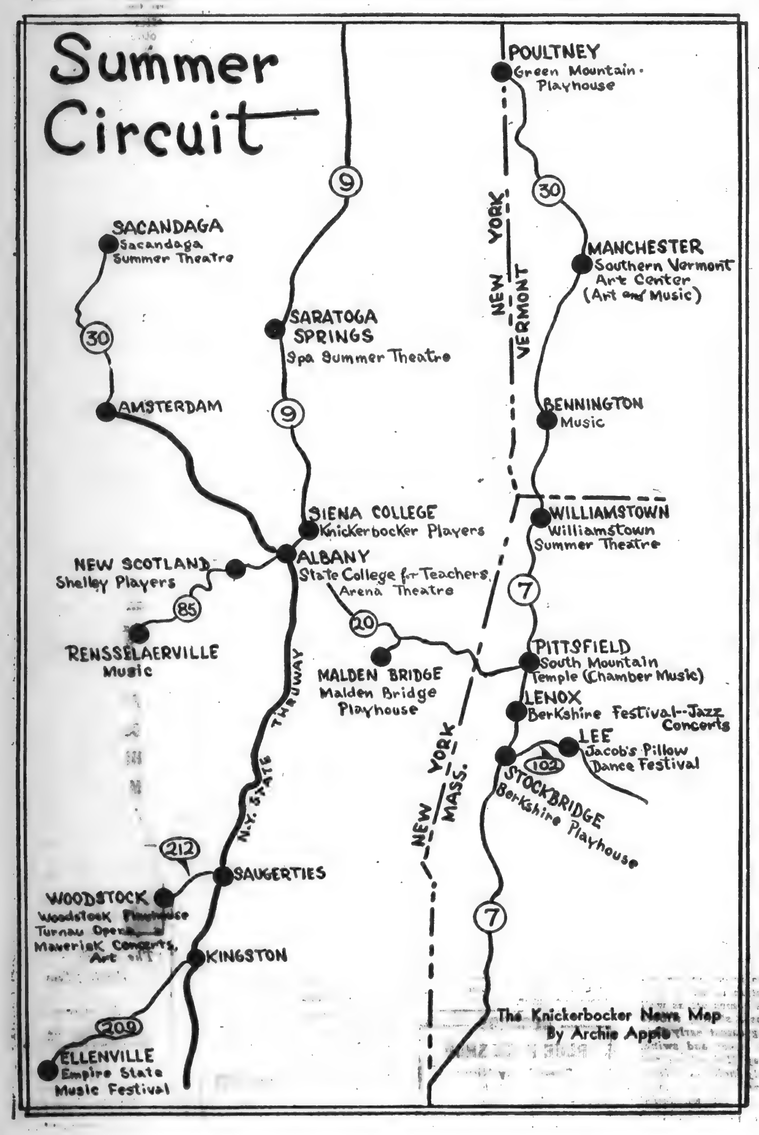
BASIL RATHBONE
Prosecution Witness

IMOGENE COCA
Comic Novelist

CHARLES MUNCH
Tanglewood Leader

LISA FERRADAY
Hungarian Beauty

DIZZY GILLESPIE
Jazz Professor



Williamstown—Three young actresses study their lines on the broad lawn of the Williamstown Summer Theater. In winter, it's the Adams Memorial Theater, dramatics annex of Williams College, but in summer director Nikos Psacharopoulos takes it over for eight weeks of stock.

Summer Stock Schedules

NEW YORK

ALBANY—State Teachers' College.
July 10-13, The Play's the Thing.
July 18-20, The Living Room.
July 25-27; Aug. 1-3, The Night of the Auk.

LOUDONVILLE — Knickerbocker Players, at Siena College.
June 25-July 6, The Solid Gold Cadillac.
July 9-20, The Milky Way.
July 23; Aug. 3, The Streets of New York.

MALDEN BRIDGE—Playhouse.
June 18-23, Holiday for Lovers.
June 25-30, The Rainmaker.
July 2-7; 9-14, Teahouse of the August Moon.
July 16-21, A Hatful of Rain.
July 23-28, Desk Set.
July 30-Aug. 4; Aug. 6-11, Witness for the Prosecution.
Aug. 13-18, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?
Aug. 20-25, The Loud Red Patrick.
Aug. 30, Drama Festival: Once Around the Block, A Streetcar Named Desire, Hamlet.

NEW SCOTLAND—Shelley Players.
June 24-30, Born Yesterday.
July 2-7, Craig's Wife.
July 9-14, The Hasty Heart.
July 16-21, The Second Oldest Profession (new).
July 23-28, Rope.
July 30-Aug. 4, Cradle Snatchers.
Aug. 6-11, The Bad Seed.
Aug. 13-18, (to be announced).
Aug. 20-25, The Rainmaker.
Aug. 27-Sept. 1, A Streetcar Named Desire.

SACANDAGA—Summer Theater.
June 24-29, Anniversary Waltz, with Murial Williams.
July 1-6, The Pajama Game.
July 8-13, Witness for the Prosecution, with Lisa Ferraday.
July 15-20, The Boy Friend.
July 22-27, The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker, with Paul Hartman.
July 29-Aug. 3, Can-Can.
Aug. 5-10, Holiday for Lovers, with Victor Jory.
Aug. 12-17, Brigadoon.
Aug. 19-24, (to be announced).
Aug. 26-31, (to be announced).

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Spa Summer Theater.
June 24-29, Janus, with Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin.
July 1-6, The Reluctant Debutante, with Edward Everett Horton.
July 8-13, A View from the Bridge, with Luther Adler.
July 15-20, Brigadoon.
July 22-27, Back to Methuselah, with Celeste Holm.
July 29-Aug. 3, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?, with Marilyn Maxwell.
Aug. 5-10, The Primirose Path, with Lilias Roth.
Aug. 12-17, The Boy Friend.
Aug. 19-24, Witness for the Prosecution, with Basil Rathbone.
Aug. 26-31, (to be announced).

WOODSTOCK—Playhouse.
July 2-7, A Hatful of Rain.
July 9-14, The Reluctant Debutante.
July 16-21, Desire Under the Elms.
July 23-28, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?
July 30-Aug. 4, The Potting Shed.
Aug. 6-11, Janus.
Aug. 13-18, Witness for the Prosecution.
Aug. 20-25, A View from the Bridge.
Aug. 27-Sept. 1, Inherit the Wind.

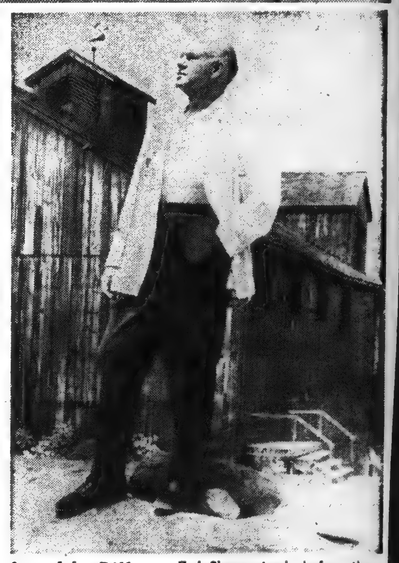
MASSACHUSETTS

STOCKBRIDGE — Berkshire Playhouse.
June 24-29, Janus, with Carol Stone.
July 1-6, Bus Stop, with William Swan and Pat Fulley.
July 8-13, Charm, with Paula Trueman.
July 15-20, The Great Sebastian, with Mary Wickes.
July 22-27, Time Limit, with William Roerick and Tom Coley.
July 29-Aug. 3, Androcles and the Lion, with Skedge Miller.
Aug. 5-10, The Potting Shed.
Aug. 12-17, King of Hearts.
Aug. 19-24, Oh, Men! Oh, Women!
Aug. 26-31, The Reluctant Debutante, with Deirdre Owens.

WILLIAMSTOWN — Summer Theater.
July 5-13, Teahouse of the August Moon.
July 16-20, Anastasia.
July 22-27, The Reluctant Debutante.
July 30-Aug. 3, A View from the Bridge.
Aug. 6-10, (to be announced).
Aug. 13-17, The Enchanted.
Aug. 20-24, Orpheus Descending.
Aug. 27-31, Caesar and Cleopatra.

VERMONT

POULTNEY—Green Mountain Playhouse.
June 25-29, Years Ago.
July 2-6, Susan Slept Here.
July 9-13, Witness for the Prosecution.
July 16-20, The Flowering Peach.
July 23-27, Oh, Men! Oh, Women!
July 30-Aug. 3, The Day's Mischief.
Aug. 6-10, The Great Big Door Mat.
Aug. 13-17, Teahouse of the August Moon.
Aug. 20-24, A View from the Bridge.
Aug. 27-31, The Hasty Heart.

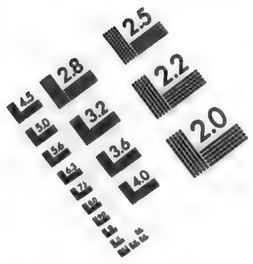


Jacob's Pillow—Ted Shawn stands before the theater of the dance festival he founded 25 years ago. Mr. Shawn, who won the Capezio Dance Award last winter for his festival activities, plans to celebrate the silver jubilee with nine weeks of the dance.

REDUCTION

RATIO

14x



2.5 mm

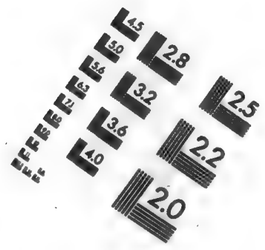
ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

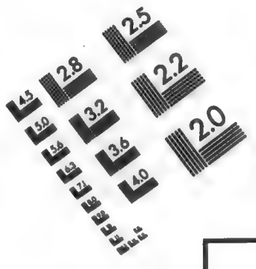
2.0 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

1.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890



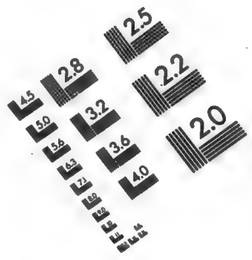


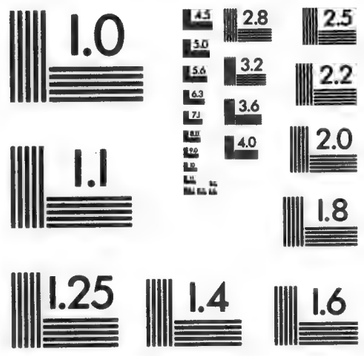
PM-MGP 13″x18″
METRIC GENERAL PURPOSE TARGET
PHOTOGRAPHIC

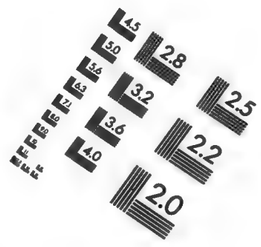
200 mm

150 mm

100 mm







ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

1.0 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

1.5 mm

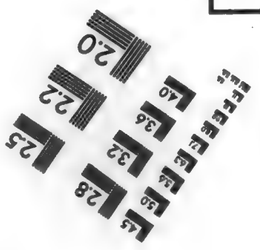
ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

2.0 mm

A5

A4

A3

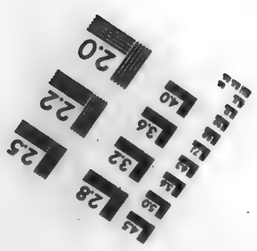


PRECISION℠ RESOLUTION TARGETS

Century

A&P

1303 Geneva Avenue
St. Paul, MN 55119



ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz
1234567890

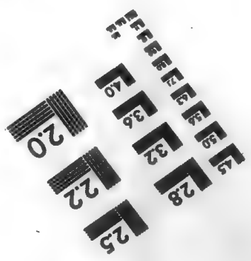
4.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

3.5 mm

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz1234567890

3.0 mm



Shutters Come Down, Batons Lift--The Summer Circuit Starts to Swing

By ORMONDE PLATER

IN an old barn at Malden Bridge, a barn that looks as if the cows had just vacated it, the house lights will dim Tuesday night and the curtain will part on "Holiday for Lovers." With this, the summer season begins.

It will be a big season, as it has been big in the past. South into the Middle Hudson Valley and Catskills, north into the Green Mountains and Adirondacks, west into the Helderbergs, east into the Berkshires. On the map there is no order to the array. In a few points the theaters and music houses cluster precariously, but mostly they live in solitude.

They add up to 30 summer theaters and about as many music events. In late June the theaters open; in July the music starts, then ebbs in late August, leaving the theaters to shut their doors with Labor Day.

Malden Bridge is an early starter. The following Monday, June 24, four more theaters jump in, and by the first week of July you won't be able to go to all of them in a week—not even if you attend matinees.

The schedules are not much different than last year's. The Arena Theater at State College for Teachers still nudges the avant garde. The Knickerbocker Players at Siena College (who have succeeded the old Coventry Players there) lean towards work of old vintage. The rest of them rely rather heavily on recent Broadway successes, with a few surprises thrown in for good measure.

For one thing, though, we fail to find any of those "new revues" that used to visit the so-called "star" houses. Spa and Sacandaga. The stars will still be there, stopping off on their tours of the summer circuit, but not the revues.

As a glance at the accompanying schedule will reveal, Spa has an impressive list of stars. It starts with Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin as those comic novelists in "Janus" and ends with Basil Rathbone in Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution." Sacandaga's big attraction will be Lisa Ferraday in the same play.

Shelley Players will try a new play, "The Second Oldest Profession," by Ralph Wesley Cain. Spa has the rights to a new one, "October Gal," by Charles Robinson, but if a star can't be procured, another drama will get the nod.

The Berkshire Playhouse, which one might call a starlet theater, has delved into New York drama and television for its actors, among whom are William Roerick, Skedge Miller and Deirdre Owens, all returners.

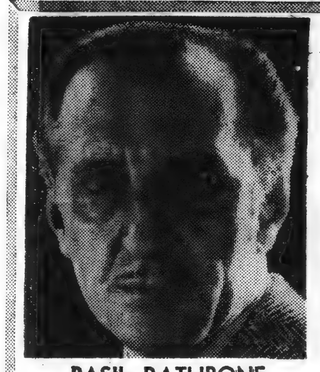
Williamstown has cut down to an eight-week schedule, but director Nikos Psacharopoulos is back, and that's the best news on the circuit.

Between those Elysian fields of drama and music lies the dance, which is ably represented, just east of Lee, Mass., by Jacob's Pillow, one of the top dance festivals in the world. Ted Shawn, its founder and director, is celebrating its silver jubilee with such eminent dancers as Maria Tallchief, Alicia Markova, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada. The season will be nine weeks.

On to music. Everyone has heard of the Berkshire Festival, and so it should surprise no one that Charles Munch will return for six weeks with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Guest conductors will be old-hand Pierre Monteux and new-hand Carl Schuricht (of the Vienna Symphony). Isaac Stern, violinist, and Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will appear at times as guest soloists.

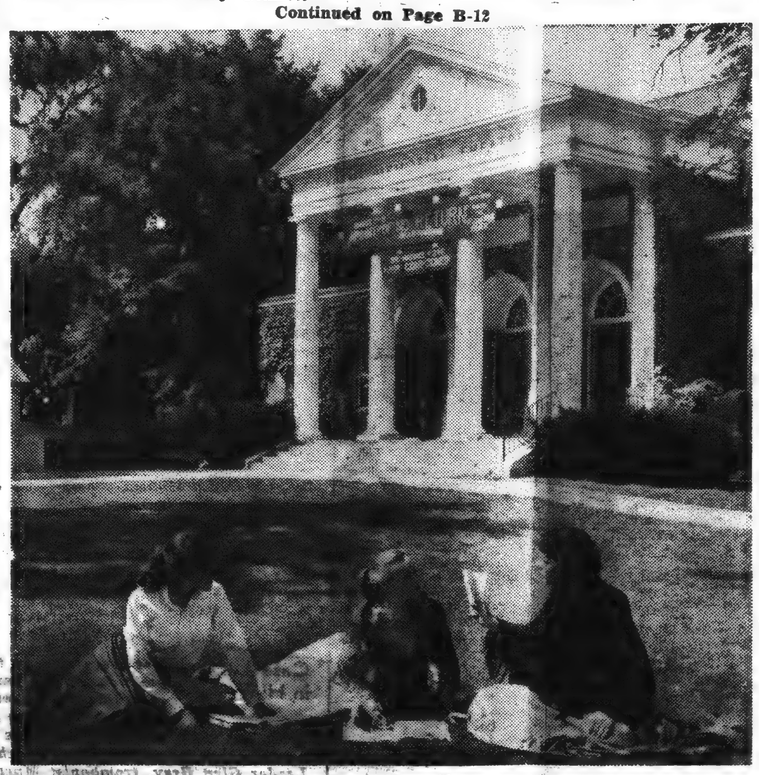
Next door to Tanglewood is the Berkshire Music Barn, haven of jazz (Sunday nights) and folk music (Saturday afternoons) during July and August. During August the newly founded School of Jazz will hold forth there, with such professors as Dizzy Gillespie, John Lewis and Jimmy Giuffre.

Continued on Page B-12

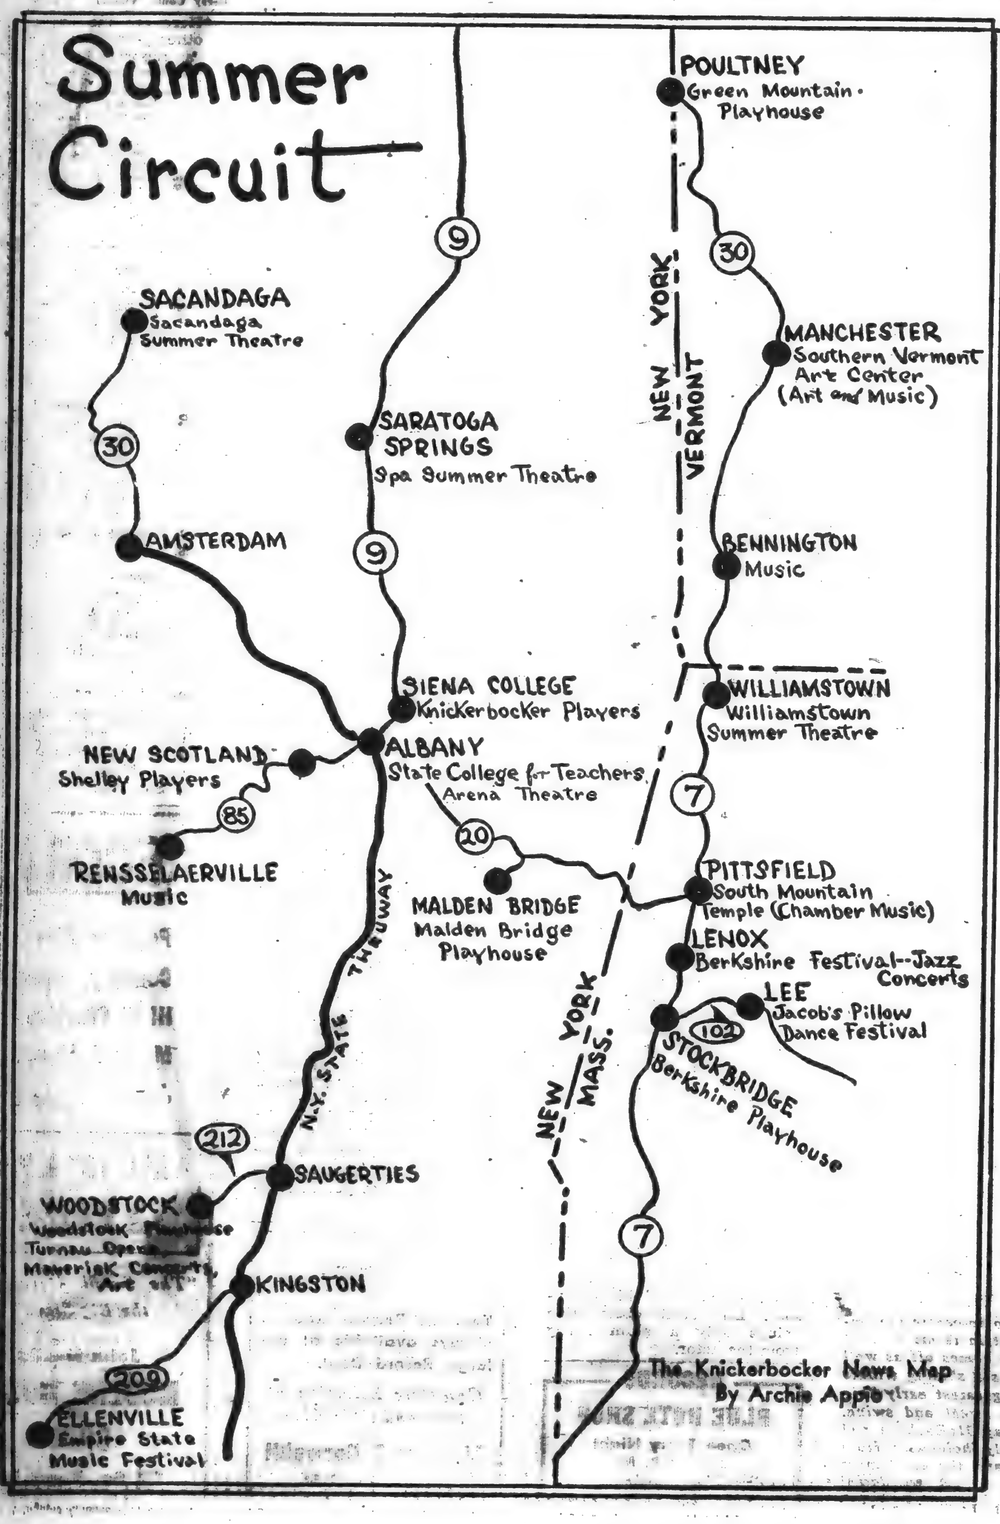


BASIL RATHBONE
Prosecution Witness

IMOGENE COCA
Comic Novelist



Williamstown—Three young actresses study their lines on the broad lawn of the Williamstown Summer Theater. In winter, it's the Adams Memorial Theater, dramatics arm of Williams College, but in summer director Nikos Psacharopoulos takes it over for eight weeks of stock.



The Knickerbocker News Map
By Archie Appleyard

Summer S

NEW YORK

ALBANY—State Teachers' College.
July 10-13, The Play's the Thing.
July 18-20, The Living Room.
July 25-27; Aug. 1-3, The Night of the Auk.

LOUDONVILLE — Knickerbocker Players, at Siena College.
June 25-July 6, The Solid Gold Cadillac.
July 9-20, The Milky Way.
July 23; Aug. 3, The Streets of New York.

MALDEN BRIDGE—Playhouse.
June 18-23, Holiday for Lovers.
June 25-30, The Rainmaker.
July 2-7; 9-14, Teahouse of the August Moon.
July 16-21, A Hatful of Rain.
July 23-28, Desk Set.
July 30-Aug. 4; Aug. 6-11, Witness for the Prosecution.
Aug. 13-18, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?
Aug. 20-25, The Loud Red Patrick.
Aug. 30, Drama Festival: Once Around the Block, A Streetcar Named Desire, Hamlet.

NEW SCOTLAND—Shelley Players.
June 24-30, Born Yesterday.
July 2-7, Craig's Wife.
July 9-14, The Hasty Heart.
July 16-21, The Second Oldest Profession (new).
July 23-28, Rope.
July 30-Aug. 4, Cradle Snatchers.
Aug. 6-11, The Bad Seed.
Aug. 13-18, (to be announced).
Aug. 20-25, The Rainmaker.
Aug. 27-Sept. 1, A Streetcar Named Desire.

SACANDAGA—Summer Theater.
June 24-29, Anniversary Waltz, with Murial Williams.
July 1-6, The Pajama Game.
July 8-13, Witness for the Prosecution, with Lisa Ferraday.

July 15
July 22 Penny man.
July 29
Aug. 5 with
Aug. 12
Aug. 19
Aug. 26

SARATOG mer
June 24 Coca an
July 1 tante, Horton
July 8-13 with
July 15
July 22 with
July 29-Au Rock Maxwe
Aug. 5 with
Aug. 12
Aug. 19 cution,
Aug. 26

WOODSTO
July 2-7,
July 9-1 tante.
July 16-2
July 23-2 Hunter?
July 30-A
Aug. 6-1
Aug. 13-1 cution.
Aug. 20 Bridge.
Aug. 27-S

vn, Batons Lift-- Starts to Swing

the theaters open; in late August, leaving with Labor Day.
arter. The following ers jump in, and by e able to go to all of attend matinees.

ch different than last at State College for t garde. The Knick- llege (who have suc- yers there) lean to- The rest of them rely ain.

NCHESTER uthern Vermont
t Center and Music)

TON

STOWN town eatre

LD ntain mber Music)

Festival--Jazz Concerts

b's Pillow ce Festival se

er News Map
Appio

rather heavily on recent Broadway outputs, with a few surprises thrown in for good measure.

For one thing, though, we fail to find any of those "new revues" that used to visit the so-called "star" houses. Spa and Sacandaga. The stars will still be there, stopping off on their tours of the summer circuit, but not the revues.

As a glance at the accompanying schedule will reveal, Spa has an impressive list of stars. It starts with Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin as those comic novelists in "Janus" and ends with Basil Rathbone in Agatha Christie's "Witness for the Prosecution." Sacandaga's big attraction will be Lisa Ferraday in the same play.

Shelley Players will try a new play, "The Second Oldest Profession," by Ralph Wesley Cain. Spa has the rights to a new one, "October Gal," by Charles Robinson, but if a star can't be procured, another drama will get the nod.

The Berkshire Playhouse, which one might call a starlet theater, has delved into New York drama and television for its actors, among whom are William Roerick, Skedge Miller and Deirdre Owens, all returners.

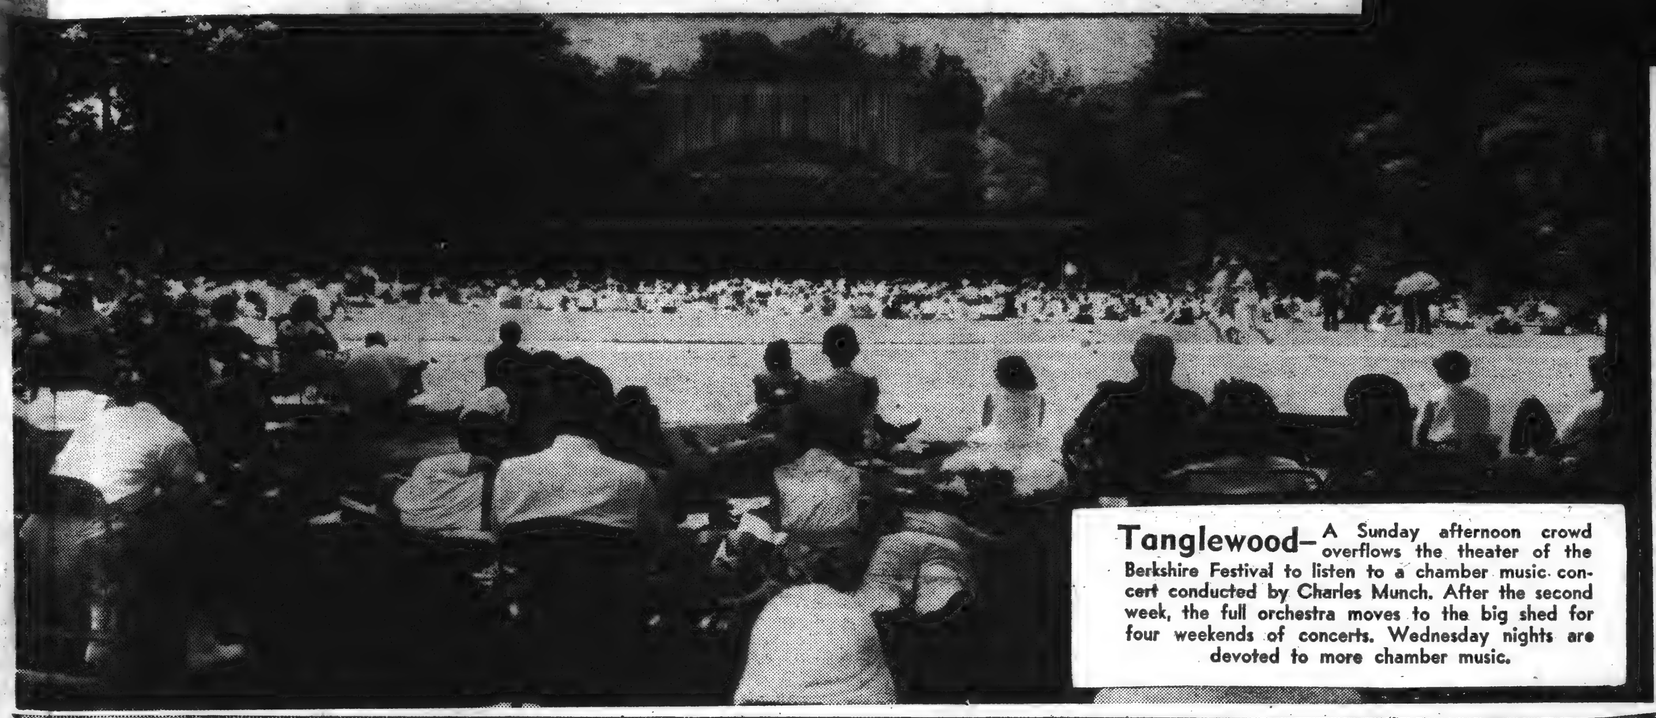
Williamstown has cut down to an eight-week schedule, but director Nikos Psacharopoulos is back, and that's the best news on the circuit.

Between those Elysian fields of drama and music lies the dance, which is ably represented, just east of Lee, Mass., by Jacob's Pillow, one of the top dance festivals in the world. Ted Shawn, its founder and director, is celebrating its silver jubilee with such eminent dancers as Maria Tallchief, Alicia Markova, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada. The season will be nine weeks.

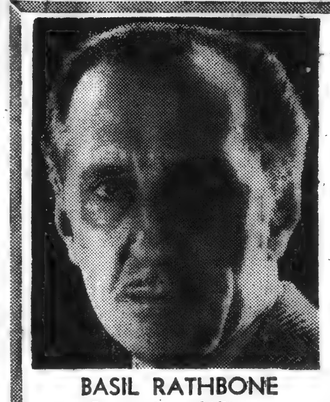
On to music. Everyone has heard of the Berkshire Festival, and so it should surprise no one that Charles Munch will return for six weeks with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Guest conductors will be old-hand Pierre Monteux and new-hand Carl Schuricht (of the Vienna Symphony). Isaac Stern, violinist, and Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will appear at times as guest soloists.

Next door to Tanglewood is the Berkshire Music Barn, haven of jazz (Sunday nights) and folk music (Saturday afternoons) during July and August. During August the newly founded School of Jazz will hold forth there, with such professors as Dizzy Gillespie, John Lewis and Jimmy Giuffre.

Continued on Page B-12



Tanglewood— A Sunday afternoon crowd overflows the theater of the Berkshire Festival to listen to a chamber music concert conducted by Charles Munch. After the second week, the full orchestra moves to the big shed for four weekends of concerts. Wednesday nights are devoted to more chamber music.



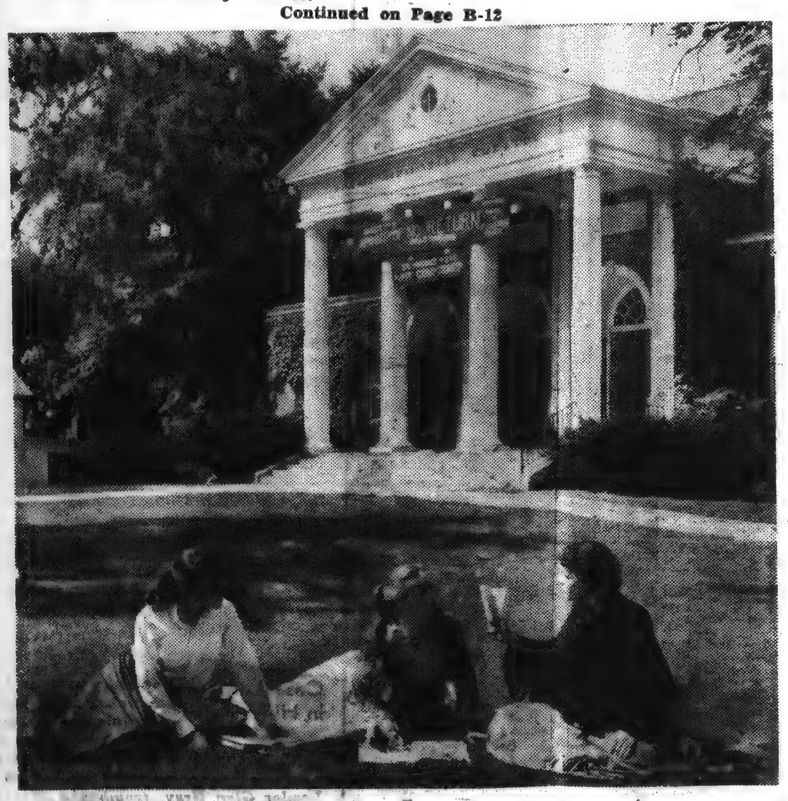
BASIL RATHBONE
Prosecution Witness

IMOGENE COCA
Comic Novelist

CHARLES MUNCH
Tanglewood Leader

LISA FERRADAY
Hungarian Beauty

DIZZY GILLESPIE
Jazz Professor



Williamstown— Three young actresses study their lines on the broad lawn of the Williamstown Summer Theater. In winter, it's the Adams Memorial Theater, dramatics arm of Williams College, but in summer director Nikos Psacharopoulos takes it over for eight weeks of stock.

Summer Stock Schedules

NEW YORK

ALBANY—State Teachers' College.
July 10-13, The Play's the Thing.
July 18-20, The Living Room.
July 25-27; Aug. 1-3, The Night of the Auk.

LOUDONVILLE — Knickerbocker Players, at Siena College.
June 25-July 6, The Solid Gold Cadillac.
July 9-20, The Milky Way.
July 23; Aug. 3, The Streets of New York.

MALDEN BRIDGE—Playhouse.
June 18-23, Holiday for Lovers.
June 25-30, The Rainmaker.
July 2-7; 9-14, Teahouse of the August Moon.
July 16-21, A Hatful of Rain.
July 23-28, Desk Set.
July 30-Aug. 4; Aug. 6-11, Witness for the Prosecution.
Aug. 13-18, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?
Aug. 20-25, The Loud Red Patrick.
Aug. 30, Drama Festival: Once Around the Block, A Streetcar Named Desire, Hamlet.

NEW SCOTLAND—Shelley Players.
June 24-30, Born Yesterday.
July 2-7, Craig's Wife.
July 9-14, The Hasty Heart.
July 16-21, The Second Oldest Profession (new).
July 23-28, Rope.
July 30-Aug. 4, Cradle Snatchers.
Aug. 6-11, The Bad Seed.
Aug. 13-18, (to be announced).
Aug. 20-25, The Rainmaker.
Aug. 27-Sept. 1, A Streetcar Nameed Desire.

SACANDAGA—Summer Theater.
June 24-29, Anniversary Waltz, with Murial Williams.
July 1-6, The Pajama Game.
July 8-13, Witness for the Prosecution, with Lisa Ferraday.
July 15-20, The Boy Friend.
July 22-27, The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker, with Paul Hartman.
July 29-Aug. 3, Can-Can.
Aug. 5-10, Holiday for Lovers, with Victor Jory.
Aug. 12-17, Brigadoon.
Aug. 19-24, (to be announced).
Aug. 26-31, (to be announced).

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Spa Summer Theater.
June 24-29, Janus, with Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin.
July 1-6, The Reluctant Debutante, with Edward Everett Horton.
July 8-13, A View from the Bridge, with Luther Adler.
July 15-20, Brigadoon.
July 22-27, Back to Methuselah, with Celeste Holm.
July 29-Aug. 3, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?, with Marilyn Maxwell.
Aug. 5-10, The Primrose Path, with Lillian Roth.
Aug. 12-17, The Boy Friend.
Aug. 19-24, Witness for the Prosecution, with Basil Rathbone.
Aug. 26-31, (to be announced).

WOODSTOCK—Playhouse.
July 2-7, A Hatful of Rain.
July 9-14, The Reluctant Debutante.
July 16-21, Desire Under the Elms.
July 23-28, Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?
July 30-Aug. 4, The Potting Shed.
Aug. 6-11, Janus.
Aug. 13-18, Witness for the Prosecution.
Aug. 20-25, A View from the Bridge.
Aug. 27-Sept. 1, Inherit the Wind.

MASSACHUSETTS

STOCKBRIDGE — Berkshire Playhouse.
June 24-29, Janus, with Carol Stone.
July 1-6, Bus Stop, with William Swan and Pat Fulley.
July 8-13, Charm, with Paula Trueman.
July 15-20, The Great Sebastian, with Mary Wickes.
July 22-27, Time Limit, with William Roerick and Tom Coley.
July 29-Aug. 3, Androcles and the Lion, with Skedge Miller.
Aug. 5-10, The Potting Shed.
Aug. 12-17, King of Hearts.
Aug. 19-24, Oh, Men! Oh, Women!
Aug. 26-31, The Reluctant Debutante, with Deirdre Owens.

WILLIAMSTOWN — Summer Theater.
July 5-13, Teahouse of the August Moon.
July 16-20, Anastasia.
July 23-27, The Reluctant Debutante.
July 30-Aug. 3, A View from the Bridge.
Aug. 6-10, (to be announced).
Aug. 13-17, The Enchanted.
Aug. 20-24, Orpheus Descending.
Aug. 27-31, Caesar and Cleopatra.

VERMONT

POULTNEY—Green Mountain Playhouse.
June 25-29, Years Ago.
July 2-6, Susan Slept Here.
July 9-13, Witness for the Prosecution.
July 16-20, The Flowering Peach.
July 23-27, Oh, Men! Oh, Women!
July 30-Aug. 3, The Day's Mischief.
Aug. 6-10, The Great Big Doorstep.
Aug. 13-17, Teahouse of the August Moon.
Aug. 20-24, A View from the Bridge.
Aug. 27-31, The Hasty Heart.

Jacob's Pillow— Ted Shawn stands before the theater of the dance festival he founded 25 years ago. Mr. Shawn, who won the Capezio Dance Award last winter for his festival activities, plans to celebrate the silver jubilee with nine weeks of the dance.

Gorin West

Opera Company Schedules Tour

New York—The NBC Opera Company is about to head West, for a 57-city, 70-day tour that will take opera to big cities like Cleveland and Milwaukee and small cities like Ruston, La., and Hutchinson, Kan. They'll do three operas, "La Traviata," "The Marriage of Figaro" and "Madame Butterfly."

Igor Gorin, the Russian-born baritone, will go along in the "La Traviata" company. And, since he spends most of his time touring the nation anyhow, he's very excited about the project.

Gorin

"I've found in America," he says, "more interest in good music than I've noticed in Europe. Why, the Columbia Artists Bureau alone has 1,000 cities on its list, 1,000 cities that have organized series of concerts.

"You'd be amazed at the interest in music in smaller cities. I've sung at places like Holdrege, Neb., which I'd never heard of before I went there—yet 1,700 people came to hear me sing. And in Billings, Mont., I found the finest auditorium—we have nothing like it in New York.

"And since the NBC Opera Theater has done operas in English on TV there is a great deal of enthusiasm for opera everywhere I go. I think America's musical knowledge is greatly underrated."

America thinks pretty highly of Gorin, too. Although he only knew two English words—"hello" and "OK," taught him by a girl on the ship that brought him over when he was in his early 20s—he now speaks almost perfectly. And he's just been given a medal by ASCAP and the General Federation of Women's Clubs for his contributions to American music.

Summer Theater Eye Air Building

New York (AP)—Comes now the theater in a balloon.

Two summer theater impresarios, working independently, have announced plans to utilize the air-house principle in future projects.

Under the plan, a fabric structure is kept in position with a small amount of air pressure, instead of requiring the polies and support of an old-fashioned carnival tent.

Buildings sufficiently large to house 2,500 show fans are practical, say backers. It probably will be another year or so, however, before the first air theater is erected.

Books and Authors

Fighting of Bulls and Men Inspires Tales of the Art

By DUANE LaFLECHE

BASEBALL, the sages of the sports pages now and again proclaim, is dying as the national pastime. May it rest in peace.

Will it have a successor? Is there another sport that can be something more than a sport? Something that will seize on the nation's fancy, give the republic heroes, and stir an almost religious fervor among its devotees? I doubt it.

Canada has its hockey, Britain its football, and France its bicycle races. Do they give an entire nation its heroes? Do they stir an almost religious devotion? Scarcely.

But Spain has its bullfights. Is bullfighting something more than a sport?

Yes, in fact it is scarcely a sport at all. Does it give a nation its heroes? Yes, dead heroes and living ones. Does it stir an almost religious devotion? Yes.

And there is one more question. Would it do any of those things for Americans? And the answer is no.

But in another way bullfighting has swept America, and rightfully so. For while baseball has produced no more writing than an infantile "Casey at the Bat," the jingly tune of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," and the perpetual panegyrics of the sports writers, bullfighting has produced a classic literature.

America has taken that literature to its heart, and now some of the best of it has been compiled by Rex Smith in a beautifully produced book which he chose to call "Biography of the Bulls."

The muleta
In the left hand, the heart hand,
And the sword
In the right hand, the knight hand;
A black storm, the raging form
That plunges
Like thunder through the shadows on the sand.
Where stands a man,
Slim, alone forlorn,
Between his destiny and death.

Amando Vilches Cano used those words in describing the "natural pass" of the matador.

And Filipe Sassone said it this way:

The natural pass? With the muleta (a bit of cloth) in the left hand, the sword in the right hand, and the heart in between. That is the way it is, and the only way it is.

• • •

At five in the afternoon
Exactly five in the afternoon
A boy brought in a white sheet
at five in the afternoon
And a basket of prepared lime
at five in the afternoon
The rest was death and only death
At five in the afternoon."

Frederico Garcia Lorca wrote that. It is part of his lament for a dead bullfighter. And this is what John Steinbeck said:

A great bullfight brings the exaltation great music does and great poetry. One carries for a time afterwards the satisfaction and the knowledge that man is no weakling in a dreadful world—that by his bravery, his versatility and his merits he has and can survive anything the world can bring against him. . . . No, I do not love the bullfight, but I love the bull, and I love the man who reassures to us that we are the race of men.

• • •

ALL of the quotations are from selections in "Biography of the Bulls." They tell a lot about bullfighting, but they give only a hint of the excellence with which Mr. Smith has selected the works and the portions of works he has compiled in his anthology.

Tom Lea is there with an excerpt from "The Brave Bulls," just about the finest bullfighting novel ever written by an American. And Tom Lea is on the front cover too, with the painting of a fighting bull, full of life and wearing his breeder's colors as he enters the ring. The painting is reproduced with this commentary.

Hemingway, who called bullfighting not so much a sport as the enactment of a tragedy, and who wrote the first book by an American to explain the fiesta (it was "Death in the Afternoon") is there with a short story. It is the poignant "The Capital of the World" and it is the story of a boy who wanted to be a matador and who died "full of illusions."

And to mention just three more American writers represented, there are Barnaby Conrad, Sidney Franklin and Frank Harris. "Montes, the Matador" is Harris' contribution. It is a story well known in Spain. He might have put a third "M" in his title—for murder.

Mr. Smith has selected not only from American writing. I chose to mention the Americans specifically only because they are, perhaps, more widely known. As for himself, he has contributed an introduction; an historical background to the fiesta of today.

Then there are the illustrations. Mr. Lea's I have mentioned. Others range from works by Goya to those of John Groth. All are beautifully reproduced.

I should say, I believe, that Mr. Smith is a former newspaper correspondent in Spain who became devoted to the art of the bulls and the men who fight them. He is now a vicepresident of American Airlines.

• • •

I WAS so rash as to say at one time in the not-too-far-distant-past, that I take a dim view of anthologies. I looked down my nose and commented, "Too much dross among the gold."

"Biography of the Bulls" makes me take it all back. And I join with other armchair aficionados to award Mr. Smith for his contribution to tauromachian art and writing not one ear but two, and not two ears alone, but two ears and one hoof, or—most justly yet—two ears, one hoof and the tail.

"Biography of the Bulls," Rinehart & Co. —$7.95.

Andy Griffith's Acting Record Perfect

He's done one TV play, one Broadway play, one movie. They've all been hits. Andy Griffith is batting 1.000.

"I'm bound to have a flop," says the big North Carolina boy with the coast-to-coast grin. "One of these days, I'm going to have the biggest bomb in history. I know a man can't have a success every time, so I know it'll catch up to me. And I tell you one thing—I'm not looking forward to it."

Griffith first came to New York on the strength of his comedy record, "What It Was Was Football." Then he just happened to read for the Theater Guild when they were looking for someone to do the TV play of "No Time for Sergeants" — "you wouldn't believe it if you saw it in the movies, but it happened.

The TV play was a smash. They decided to do it on Broadway with Andy in the lead. It was a smash. Elia Kazan saw him in it, felt he was just right for the lead in "A Face in the Crowd." That's just opened and it's a smash. He's also made the movie version of "No Time for Sergeants," scheduled for release in the fall, and there's no reason to believe that will spoil his perfect record.

"I've never done another TV play," he says, "just a few guest spots here and there. There's a reason for that. I got such wonderful reviews after 'No Time for Sergeants' that I was scared to do another play—they'd be gunning for me."

Actually, he faces something of a problem. His southern accent, his slightly naive expression, his seeming shyness all combine to limit the parts he can do. He thinks, if he has to, he can lose the accent.

Barns Open For Summer

Continued from Page B-10

The Empire State Music Festival, at Ellenville, is newer than Berkshire, but no less worthy. Leopold Stokowsky and his Symphony of the Air are the stalwarts, but the five-week season, beginning July 4, will as usual embrace operatic, stage and ballet performances.

Chamber music is a growing thing in the circuit. Its audiences are small but dedicated, and its centers are the Maverick concerts at Woodstock, the South Mountain Temple at Pittsfield, Mass., and the Southern Vermont Art Center at Manchester, Vt.

The Turnau Opera Company in Woodstock keeps devotees of that art happy with a schedule balanced between the old and modern.

If your delight tends towards the visual, you can find art almost anywhere on the circuit, but the centers are Woodstock, the Berkshire region and Manchester, Vt.

Leopold-Loeb Case Provides Two Plays

New York (AP) — Two dramas based on the Leopold-Loeb murder case of 1924 have been announced for Broadway production next fall.

Meyer Levin is adapting his best-seller, "Compulsion," and William Marchant is penning "Counsel for the Defense."

ALBANY CAMERA SHOP
Headquarters for
• KODAKS
• BROWNIE MOVIE CAMERAS
• Bell & HOWELL CAMERAS
• BOLEX MOVIE CAMERAS
• BINOCULARS B&L, AND OTHERS
• POLAROID
• ANSCO • ZEISS
• DEVELOPING AND PRINTING
Time Payments
Time Payments Available
204 Washington Ave., at Lark
Phone 5-4558

HERBY'S Delicatessen
187 LARK STREET
• DINNERS $1.25 TO $2.00. SERVED 5:30 TO 8:30
MONDAY THRU SATURDAY
• FOOD DELICIOUSLY DIFFERENT
• UNSURPASSED QUALITY
• CATERER SPECIALISTS
CLOSED SUNDAYS PHONE 3-8935

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
JUN 9 1957

Accent on Culture Again As Berkshire Season Opens

Boston Symphony Orchestra and Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival Highlight Summer Attractions

Pittsfield--There's more than music in the Berkshires, but the accent will be on culture here again during this area's 1957 summer vacation-travel season.

Silver Jubilee

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Charles Munch, will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11. Concerts by the full orchestra in the 6000 - seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms (Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9-11). Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will be the soloist at three performances.

This will be the silver jubilee year for Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival off Route 20 in Becket. The Pillow will open its 25th season July 1 and run through Aug. 31 for a total of 54 performances.

In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. For the opening week, Mr. Shawn has signed the Mary Anthony Dance Theater in the group work "Threnody," seen in New York this past season.

In the southern Berkshire town of Lenox, not far away from the Tanglewood grounds, music of another nature will be featured at the Berkshire Music Barn. The Music Barn season will run from June 30 through Sept. 1 and will star national headliners in the field of jazz and folk music.

Jazz concerts will be held every Sunday evening at 8.30 p. m.; folk concerts, every Saturday afternoon at 4 p. m. Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Dave Brubeck and Ella Fitzgerald are among the stars already signed for the Music Barn season.

Summer Theaters

Also out of the cultural tap will come performances at the Berkshire Hills' two summer theaters. In the southern Berkshire town of Stockbridge, the Berkshire Playhouse will open its 26th, 10-week seasor June 24. And, in the northern Berkshire college town, the Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Thanks to a generous "Dame Nature," there is more than culture available for the vacationer in the Berkshires. And thanks to the new Massachusetts Turnpike, Berkshires, natural and cultural attractions are closer than ever for the motorized vacationer.

The expressway has brought the Berkshires within 33 miles of the Springfield area and has reduced the travel time from the Boston metropolitan area to 2½ hours.

The Berkshires' 90 woodland lakes and ponds, 274 trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves provide excellent opportunities for camping, fishing, swimming, boating and other outdoor summer activities.

And, main and secondary highways are dotted with state-maintained picnicing spots ideal for a family outing.

Right now nature is putting on one of the New England region's most colorful shows here in the outskirts of this central Berkshire city. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in Pittsfield State Forest. The pink flowering trees annually reach their peak beauty about this time and continue in bloom throughout most of June. The trees cover 100-acres surrounding Berry Pond—and 11-acre body of water atop a 2000-foot peak in the Taconic Range. The area may be reached over a hard-surfaced road.

Another favorite nature spot is the Pleasant Valley Wildlife Sanctuary off Routes 20 and 7 about seven miles south of Pittsfield in the town of Lenox. It includes a natural history and wildlife museum, and a beaver colony.

In the north Berkshire town of Clarksbury, off Route 8, is the only watereroded natural marble bridge in North America. Another favotite summer spot in the Berkshires is Mount Greylock, the state's highest peak. It can be reached by car off Route 7 in Lanesboro and New Ashford and Route 2 in North Adams.

A comparative newcomer in the culture field is the three-year old Clark Art Museum in Williamstown, already rated as one of the top small museums in the world. Thirty-three Renoirs are included in the paintings already on display. It is open daily, except Mondays, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. free of charge.

Diversified Program

Berkshire's growing group of year-round resorts are looking for another banner summer season this year. Such resorts as Eastover in Lenox, Oak 'n Spruce in East Lee, Avaloch in Lenox and Jud End Barn in Egremont —all in the southern Berkshire region—give a diversified program which has found general approval form the younger one- or two-week vacationer.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South St., Pittsfield, will provide further information on request.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
JUN 20 1957

Will Offer Six Chamber Music Concerts on Wednesday Evenings at Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty. The numbers are Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemuth's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from Neue Liebslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on August 77 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestra and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists Menahem Pressler, piano, and Robert Voison, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Wilton Bulletin
WILTON, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,804
JUN 12 1957

Chamber Music At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, of which Charles Munch is music director, has announced programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orchestra's summer school of music.

The opening program on July 3 by the Paganini String Quartet will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

On July 10 Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, will play duets Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endick, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass, be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No.. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden".

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Mr. Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Revel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on August 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 4200
Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047
JUN 23 1957

'Music

Jazz Parade at Lenox Starts With Fitzgerald

By RAYMOND MORIN,
Telegram Music Critic

The big jazz parade begins one week from tonight at the Music Barn in Lenox. First of the irrepressibles, and a favorite of ours, will be Ella Fitzgerald.

Other jazz musicians to follow will be Dave Brubeck and his quartet, the Gerry Mulligan Quintet, the Lionel Hampton Band, Duke Ellington Orchestra, Woody Herman, Oscar Peterson Trio, and Dizzy Gillespie.

A happy medium between the nearby Berkshire Music Festival and the uninhibited jam sessions will be folk concerts and opera.

Ethel Waters will initiate the folk concerts on July 6. These Saturday afternoon features will be given by Richard Dyer-Bennet, Marais and Miranda, and the Weavers. Tom Lehner will give a performance of his satiric folk songs.

Opera is new to the Music Barn this season. On August 5, 6, and 7, the After Dinner Opera Company will present four one-act operas, including "The Telephone," by Menotti; "In a Garden," by Gertrude Stein; "Sweet Betsy from Pike," by Mark Bucci, and "Apollo and Persephone," by Reginald Cockshott.

The same company will perform the Menotti, Cockshott, and Stein works on the Fine Arts Course at Clark University on Friday, Nov. 1.

The Music Barn at Lenox is run by Philip and Stephanie Barber.

Stravinsky Tribute

A fitting climax of the Sixth Annual Berkshire Arts Festival will be the awarding of the Festival Music Medal next weekend to Igor Stravinsky in honor of his 75th birthday.

Commemorating the occasion will be the New England premiere of his comic opera-ballet, "Renard," with Todd Bolender and members of the New York City Ballet.

The composer's son, Soulima, is instrumental soloist of the occasion in a piano concerto for which Robert Craft will conduct the orchestra.

The 17-day festival is taking place in the Boston Garden. There is no admission charge. This week's events include George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" (Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8:30) and a concert by the Herb Pomeroy Band on Thursday night at the same hour.

More Chamber Music

A series of chamber-music concerts will be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7.

Proceeds will go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Berkshire Music Center. Concerts will take place in the Theater-Concert Hall.

The opening program, July 3, will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet, Opus 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

Remainder of the schedule follows:

July 10—Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, piano duets; Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, base.

July 17—Beaux Arts Trio.

July 24—Kroll String Quartet.

July 31—Gerard Souzay, baritone; Ralph Berkowitz, accompanist.

August 7—Zimbler Sinfonietta.

[40]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
MILLERTON, N. Y.
NEWS-REPUBLICAN
Circ. W. 3,617

Chamber Music Series At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch Music Director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty - Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms' Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24th in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on August 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obligato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
JUN 9 1957

Chamber Music Concerts At Tanglewood Arranged

Programs Filled for Six Wednesday Night Performances From July 3 to Aug. 7

Boston, June 8 — The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch music director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theater-Concert Hall, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

Programs Filled

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera, and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty—Schubert's "Variations On an Original Theme" in A flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms' "Liebeslieder" Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the "Neue Liebeslieder," by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Berkowitz and Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

Song Recital

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; "Triptych" by Alexandre Tansman; Broccherini's flute concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's "Serenata Notturna" for two string orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with trumpet obbligato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUN 10 1957

Chamber Concert Schedule at Lenox

The Boston Symphony orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, has announced the programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate theater-concert hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music center.

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini string quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire music center faculty—Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for piano, four hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beau Arts trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two string orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for piano and strings with trumpet obligato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Hour (e)
NORWALK, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 16,862
JUN 6 1957

SIX CONCERTS SET BY BOSTON SYMPHONY

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, director, announced programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7.

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,859
JUN 6 1957

Tanglewood Series Dates Chamber

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch Music Director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty—Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzer, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24th in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Herald
CHICOPEE, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 1,662
JUN 13 1957

At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, announced that a series of evening chamber music concerts will be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7.

Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theater-concert Hall at Tanglewood go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orchestra's summer schoo of music, the Berkshire Musi Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Courant
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 135,309
JUN 9 1957

Chamber Music Concerts Listed For Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch Music Director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre - Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music center.

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty — Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A - flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Rael. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obligato; soloists. Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,053
JUN 4 1957

Chamber Music At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch music director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty — Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantasie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipqin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24th in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flue Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
JUN 9 1957

Tanglewood Chamber Music Programs

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, has announced the programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which will be given in the Theater-Concert Hall, will go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's Summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet, Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by Argentine, Alberto Ginastera, and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert, July 10, will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin of the Berkshire Music Center faculty—Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantasy in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, four hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 1 the Beaux Arts Trio will present first performance of the Trio No. 2 Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. The program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by Czech, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will present early French songs, and groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel, the latter in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program, Aug. 7, by the Zimbler Sinfonnetta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet obligato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUN 10 1957

Announce Lenox Chamber Concerts

The Bonston Symphony orchestra, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F. major.

The second conert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kolleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24th in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek , and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden".

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on August 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce Triptych by Aleanadre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675
JUN 8 1957

Tanglewood Chamber Music

The programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts, to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7, are listed below. Proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the Theater-Concert Hall, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3 will be given by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty —Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, to be sung by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

* * *

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janaček, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

* * *

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, and Ravel.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras, and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obbligato, with Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,535
JUN 8 1957

Chamber Music Concerts Again At Tanglewood

Boston Symphony Orchestra Lists Six Wednesday Programs

Boston, June 8—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch music director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty; Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
JUN 27 1957

Chamber Music Series To Be Given At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch Music Director, has announced programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty — Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass.

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052
JUN 4 1957

Chamber Music At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch music director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty — Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipqin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24th in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
JUN 9 1957

Tanglewood Chamber Music Programs

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, has announced the programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which will be given in the Theater-Concert Hall, will go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program, July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet, Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by Argentine, Alberto Ginastera, and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert, July 10, will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin of the Berkshire Music Center faculty—Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantasy in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, four hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 1 the Beaux Arts Trio will present first performance of the Trio No. 2 Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. The program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by Czech, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will present early French songs, and groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel, the latter in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program, Aug. 7, by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet obligato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUN 10 1957

Announce Lenox Chamber Concerts

The Bonston Symphony orchestra, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24th in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden".

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the twentieth anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on August 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce Triptych by Aleandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675
JUN 8 19[illegible]

Tanglewood Chamber Music

The programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts, to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7, are listed below. Proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the Theater-Concert Hall, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3 will be given by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty —Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, to be sung by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, and Ravel.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras, and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obbligato, with Menahem Pressler, piano, and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
JUN 27 1957

Chamber Music Series To Be Given At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch Music Director, has announced programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., on six Wednesdays between July 3 and August 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3rd will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty — Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,535
JUN 8 1957

Chamber Music Concerts Again At Tanglewood

Boston Symphony Orchestra Lists Six Wednesday Programs

Boston, June 8—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch music director, announces programs for the series of Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held as part of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, on six Wednesdays between July 3 and Aug. 7. Net proceeds from these concerts, which are held in the intimate Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, go to the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund to aid students at the orchestra's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

The opening program on July 3 will be by the Paganini String Quartet and will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The second concert on July 10 will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, both members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty; Schubert's Variations on an Original Theme in A-flat major and Fantaisie in F minor, and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands. The second half of the program will be devoted to a performance of Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder, by a quartet of soloists: Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass. The quartet will be accompanied by Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Lipkin.

On July 17 the Beaux Arts Trio will present the first performance of the Trio No. 2, Op. 53, by Robert Casadesus. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, No. 3, and close with the "Archduke" Trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will be heard on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 2 by the Czech composer, Leos Janacek, and Schubert's Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

On July 31 there will be a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, with Ralph Berkowitz at the piano. Mr. Souzay will open with several early French songs, and will present groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, and Ravel. The Ravel group will be presented in observance of the 20th anniversary of the composer's death.

The closing program on Aug. 7 by the Zimbler Sinfonietta will include Symphony No. 1 by William Boyce; Triptych by Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings with Trumpet Obliggato; soloists, Menahem Pressler, piano, and [42]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Courant
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 135,309

JUN 23 1957

The Lively Arts—
Tanglewood Timetable

By T. H. Parker

Whether it was a longing for the cool, green lawns of Tanglewood, or a fine, consuming passion for music regardless of the weather, I cannot say. The fact is, however, that this week saw the first phone calls for detailed information about the Berkshire Music Festival.

That information is presently to hand, and in the threefold interests of music, the Boston Symphony, and Courant service to its readers, I set it down.

★

The Festival's 20th season will open July 3 and extend to August 11. The six week ends of concerts, which come on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon will be conducted by Pierre Monteux of the San Francisco Symphony on July 20 and 28, by Carl Schuricht of Vienna August 2 and 10, and by Charles Munch, regular musical director of the Boston Symphony, the rest of the time.

The works of a special composer will be stressed each week-end. Music of Bach will be featured on July 5, 6 and 7, and of Mozart July 12, 13 and 14. The honors will go to Tschaikowsky July 19, 20, and 21, to Berlioz July 26, 27 and 28; to Brahms August 2, 3 and 4 and finally to Beethoven August 9, 10 and 11.

In addition, there will be a special send-off for Igor Stravinsky on the occasion of his 75th birthday. His "Canticum Sacrum" will be performed July 21, and "Jeu de Cartes" July 19 and "Sacre du printemps" July 20.

Besides the week end music, there will be six concerts of chamber music on Wednesday evenings, beginning July 3, in the Tanglewood Theater, from which the proceeds will go into the revolving scholarship fund to aid students at the Berkshire Music Center.

Last, and to many not least, Tanglewood on Parade, presenting Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra, will be held August 8.

★

Here is the complete program: (Weekdays, 8:30 p.m., Sundays, 2:30).

Friday, July 5 — All-Bach program, Suite No. 3, Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (Lukas Foss), Suite No. 2, Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos (Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin).

Saturday, July 6—Bach Brandenburg Concertos Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4.

Sunday, July 7 — Bach St. Matthew Passion (Part II) with Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm, James Joyce, Harvard Glee Club, Radcliffe Choral Society.

Friday, July 12 — All-Mozart program, Divertimento K136, Serenade K388, "Haffner" Symphony, excerpts from Mass in C Major K337, with chorus and soloists.

Saturday, July 13 — Mozart's symphonies in E Flat, G Minor and C Major.

Sunday, July 14 — Mozart's Adagio and Fugue in C Minor, his Bassoon Concerto (Sherman Walt), Horn Concerto (Ernest Stagliano) and Sinfonia Concertante (Lord B.

Friday, July 19 — Stravinsky, "Jeu de Cartes"; Tschaikowsky, Rococo Variations for 'Cello and Orchestra (Samuel Mayes); Tschaikowsky, Symphony No. 6 or 5th.

Saturday, July 20 — Mendelssohn, "Fingal's Cave" Overture; Tschaikowsky, Symphony No. 5; Stravinsky, "Le Sacre du Printemps."

Sunday, July 21 (Koussevitzky Memorial Concert) — Tschaikowsky, "Romeo and Juliet"; Stravinsky, Canticum Sacrum; Tschaikowsky, Violin Concerto (Isaac Stern).

Friday, July 26 — All Berlioz program, "Le Corsair" Overture; "Harold in Italy" (Joseph de Pasquale); "Symphonie Fantastique."

Saturday, July 27—Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" (Florence Kopleff, Cesare Valletti, Donald Gramm, Gerard Souzay, Berkshire Festival Chorus).

Sunday, July 28 — Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet" (excerpts); Hindemith, "News of the Day" Overture, and "Mathis der Maler."

Friday, August 2 — Brahms' "Tragic" Overture; Egk, Sonata for Orchestra; Brahms, Symphony No. 1.

Saturday, August 3 — Brahms, Haydn Variations; Barber, "Medea's Meditation and Dance of Vengeance"; Brahms, Violin Concerto (Isaac Stern).

Sunday, August 4 — Brahms, "Academic Festival" Overture; Piston, Symphony No. 5; Brahms, Piano Concerto No. 2 (Rudolf Serlkin).

Friday, August 9 — Beethoven, "Leonore" Overture No. 3; Honegger, "Liturgique" Symphony No. 3; Beethoven, Violin Concerto (Isaac Stern).

Saturday, August 10 — Blacher, Concertante Music; Schubert, "Unfinished" Symphony; Beethoven, Symphony No. 3.

Sunday, August 11 — Copland, "Quiet City"; Beethoven, Symphony No. 9 (Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm, Berkshire Festival Chorus).

★

Wednesday concerts: July 3 — Paganini String Quartet in Opus 18, No. 2, Beethoven; Quartet No. 1, Ginastera; F Major Quartet, Ravel.

July 10 — Piano duets of Hindemith and Schubert; Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes (Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, pianists; Saramae Endich, John McCollum, Florence Kopleff, Donald Gramm, singers.)

July 17 — Beaux Arts Trio in Haydn Trio in C Major, No. 3; R. Casadesus Trio No. 2; Beethoven "Archduke" Trio.

July 24 — Kroll String Quartet in Haydn Opus 77, No. 1; Quartet No. 2, Janacek; "Death and the Maiden" Quartet, Schubert.

July 31 — Song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone, Ralph Berkowitz, piano; early French arias, works by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms, Ravel.

August 7 — Zimbler Sinfonietta in Symphony No. 1, Boyce; Tansman Triptych; Boccherini Concerto for Flute (James Pappoutsakis); Mozart Serenata Notturna; Shostakovitch, Concerto for Piano and Trumpet (Menahem Pressler, Roger Voison).

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Festival At Tanglewood Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10).

Each week-end will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two week-ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week-ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven, and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky, with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio and the Kroll String Quartet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 22 1957

Music Center Opens June 30; First Festival Concert July 3

TANGLEWOOD—The 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center will open Sunday, June 30, at 3:30 p.m. with exercises in the Theatre-Concert Hall, followed by tea in the garden. Invitations have been issued for this annual event by the trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the faculty and Friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, will open July 3 and continue through Aug. 11. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Charles Munch, musical director of the BSO, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the Theatre-Concert Hall with an all-Bach program, July 5, 6 and 7, and an all-Mozart program, July 12, 13 and 14.

The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will be devoted to Tchaikovsky, July 19, 20 and 21; Berlioz, July 26, 27 and 28; Brahms, Aug. 2, 3 and 4 and Beethoven, Aug. 9, 10 and 11.

Stern, Serkin To Play

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven, and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features this season will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum," on July 21, "Jeu de Cartes," July 19, and "Sacre du Printemps," July 20.

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ," on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Rudolf Serkin

All of these concerts will be conducted by Dr. Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Wednesday Concerts

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center.

The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quatet.

SYRACUSE HERALD-AMERICAN, Sunday, May 5, 1957

'Tanglewood' Plans Include Brahms, Bach

Dr. Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has completed programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival season in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass. The first two weekends of the festival, in the theater-concert hall by a chamber orchestra conducted by Director Munch, will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart. At the opening concerts of the Bach weekend starting July 5, the program will include the Brandenburg Concerto with Lukas Foss as piano soloist. Foss played with an augmented chamber orchestra (the Krasner Ensemble) last Monday night in Nottingham High School here. On July 7 the concert will move to the Music Shed when Part II of The Passion According to St. Matthew will be sung. Soloists: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. Joyce is an alumnus of Syracuse University.

The debut of the noted German conductor Carl Schuricht is set for August 2 in the Shed when the symphonic program will comprise the Brahms Tragic Overture, the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk and the Brahms First Symphony. On August 3 Isaac Stern, violinist, will be soloist in a Brahms Concerto, also playing "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber, American composer. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct the Brahms Academic Festival Overture and the Brahms Second Piano Concerto with Rudolf Serkin, soloist. The program will include Walter Piston's Fifth Symphony.

An all-Berlioz program, special emphasis on Beethoven and the three great symphonies of Mozart—the E Flat, G Minor and C Major—also are scheduled by Dr. Munch, as well as works of Tschaikowsky and Igor Stravinsky.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047

JUN 23 1957

Tanglewood Concerts To Begin 20th Season

A LITTLE MORE THAN a week away is the beginning of the world renowned Berkshire Festival, a series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra held at Tanglewood in Lenox.

It is just a few hours' drive to Tanglewood, where one can hear the world's great music in the beautiful setting of the Berkshire hills.

This is the 20th year of the festivals of which Charles Munch, conducton of the orchestra, is music director.

Each Wednesday evening from July 3 through Aug. 7, there will be a concert of chamber music. Proceeds of these concerts benefit the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund for students at the festival.

Groups which will play at these concerts are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and The Zimbler Sinfonietta. The latter is a group of members of the Boston Symphony orchestra. Vocal soloists for this series include Saramae Endich, John McCollum, Florence Kopleff, Donald Gramm, and Gerard Souzay. Featured instrumental performers will be Seymour Lipkin, Ralph Berkowitz and Menahem Pressler, pianists, James Pappoutsakis, flutist, and Roger Voisin, trumpeter.

Two series of Bach-Mozart concerts will be the weekends of July 5 through 7 and July 12 through 14 in the Theater. Among artists for this series will be Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, pianists; singers, Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm, James Joyce, the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society. Hugh Ross will conduct with Mr. Munch.

The Major Concert Series in the Shed will be the weekends of July 19 to 21, and 26 to 28, Aug. 2 to 4 and 9 to 11. Concerts will be at 8:30 p. m. on Friday and Saturday and 2:30 p. m. on Sunday. Guest conductors during the series will be Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux. Soloists will include Rudolf Serkin, pianist, Isaac Stern, violinist, and vocalists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollcm and Donald Gramm. The Berkshire Festival Chorus will sing.

A feature event on Aug. 8, the last week of the festival, "Tanglewood on Parade" will feature the Boston Pops Orchestra conducted by Arthur Fiedler. A variety of events will take place in different parts of the center. Proceeds benefit the center's school.

Friday, June 21, 1957
BROOKLYN RECORD—BAY RIDGE RECORD—Flatbush Record

MAN ABOUT BROOKLYN

By Charles Richman

THE HEATS ON: When the sun comes striking down with its mighty power, Brooklyn folks start treking to the northern woodlands to keep cool. In our survey we find that borough folks are the most vacation minded of any community.

There is nothing like sitting in a charming musical atmosphere and many of us will be doing just that at the Berkshire Festival which gets under way on June 3rd.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to August 11, 1957.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolph Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concert will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evening in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at th Berkshire Music Center The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and severa unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Chautauqua to Have Three B's in Concerts

SYRACUSE HERALD-AMERICAN June 30, 1957

The first concert of the 26th season of the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra is announced for next Friday night in the Amphitheater in Chautauqua Institution, Walter Hendl conducting. Mr. Hendl, who returns to Chautauqua for his fifth season, recently completed another successful year as director of the Dallas, Texas Symphony. The Chautauqua Orchestra will be heard Sunday afternoons and Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights thereafter, for seven weeks, 28 concerts in all.

Howard Hanson, famous composer-pianist and director of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, will be guest conductor of his own Symphony No. 5. Another guest conductor will be Alberto Bolet, director of the Havana, Cuba Philharmonic. Tuesday nights will be devoted to the symphonies of Bach, Beethoven and Brahms. Mischa Mischakoff returns as concertmaster of the orchestra for his 29th consecutive season. On two occasions he will be soloist. Also he will be presented with his own string quartet in three programs in Norton Memorial hall.

Soloists with the orchestra: Pianists Lilian Kallir, Leonid Hambro, each in two performances; Ivan Davis Jr., National Federation of Music Clubs winner; Nelson and Neal, duo-pianists; Muriel Kilby and Walter Hendl, Mischakoff and Aaron Rosang in two appearances; Nathan Gordon, violist; Laszlo Vargo, cellist; Frederick Wilkins, flutist; and the Columbus Boychoir, of which Theodore Poister of Syracuse is a member.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., July 3-Aug. 11, is under direction of Dr. Charles Munch, music director and conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. There will be six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, under direction of Dr. Munch, with Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht conducting respectively July 20, 28 and Aug. 2, 10.

HOWARD HANSON

Each weekend will emphasize works of a special composer. The first two weekends will have an orchestra of chamber proportions in the Theater-Concert Hall. All-Bach programs are arranged for July 5, 6, 7 and all-Mozart July 12, 13, 14.

The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra will be in the Music Shed with a seating capacity of 6,000. The July 19, 20, 21 programs will be devoted to Tschaikowsky. On July 26, 27, 28 there will be Berlioz music; on Aug. 2, 3, 4 Brahms compositions and, in closing, on Aug. 9, 10, 11, Beethoven compositions.

Soloists will include Isaac Stern, violinist, to perform concertos by Tschaikowsky, Brahms and Beethoven, and Rudolf Serkin pianist, to play the Brahms Second Concerto.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Italian News
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 13,362

JUN 21 1957

Berkshire Festival at Lenox to run from July 3-Aug. 11

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox Mass. from July 3 to August 11.

The six weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto. Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" on July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" on July 19 and Sacre du Printemps" on July 20.

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUN 16 1957

Berkshire Music Festival to Open July 3 at Tanglewood

Six Week Ends of Concerts Planned for 20th Season With Emphasis On Special Composers

Lenox, June 15—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood from July 3 to Aug. 11.

Special Emphasis

The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps", (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Chamber Concerts

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 44,706

JUN 16 1957

Tanglewood Concerts To Start July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat theater-concert hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux, July 20 and 28 and Carl Schuricht, Aug. 2 and 10. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach on July 5, 6 and 7 and all-Mozart July 12, 13 and 14. The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky on July 19, 20 and 21, Berlioz on July 26, 27 and 28, Brahms on August 2, 3 and 4 and Beethoven on August 9, 10 and 11.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concerts of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" on July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" on July 19 and "Sacre du Printemps" on July 20.

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of July 12th.

EVENING SUN, HANOVER, PA., SATURDAY, JUNE 22, 1957

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Free Press
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Weekly Democrat
Circ. 7,100

JUN 15 1957

Berkshiré Festival Opens On July 3rd

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of champer proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,585
JUN 19 1957

20th Tanglewood Season Opens Week After Next

Program Completed for Annual Berkshire Music Festival, Which Has Become Internationally Famous

Boston, June 19—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, [illegible] presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat theater-concert hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky, (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

RUDOLF SERKIN

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre de Printemps" (July 20).

Choral Works

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert of Friday, July 12.
Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, Jult 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the theater-concert hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classical of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the bariton. Gerard Souzay, on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood. Lenox.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,366
JUN 15 1957

Boston Symphony Opens Berkshire Festival July 3

20th Season at Tanglewood to Feature Six Week Ends of Concerts

Lenox, June 14—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will present its 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood from July 3 to August 11.

Six Week Ends

The six week-ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteaux on July 20, and 28 and Carl Schuricht on August 2 and 0.

Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer. The first two week ends will feature an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall, all-Bach, July 5, 6, and 7 and all-Mozart July 12, 13, and 14. The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000 will be devoted to Tchaikovsky July 19, 20 and 21, Berlioz July 26, 27 and 28, Brahms August 2, 3 and 4 and Beethoven August 9, 10 and 11.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahams and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" July 19 and "Sacre du Printemps" July 20.

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Indep. Republican
Circ. 305,271
JUN 16 1957

20th Berkshire Festival Opens July 3 at Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28) Brahms (August 2,3,4) and Beethoven (August 9,10,11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20)

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday Afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325
JUN 20 1957

Berkshire Fe... Music Highl...

Six weekends of concerts en... special composer, four weekends ... to Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahn... salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky will be highlights of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The orchestra's 20th season, with Charles Munch music director, will be presented from July 3 to Aug. 11.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10).

STERN TO APPEAR

The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

CHAMBER MUSIC

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will ... eve... Hal... cert... Rev... assi... Mus... T... of ... Bee... pora...

FORT WAYNE, IND.
NEWS SENTINEL
Circ. D. 76,286
JUN 14 1957

Berkshire Festival Will Open on July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to Aug. 11.

The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10).

Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer —the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1,200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14).

The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour.

Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,859
JUN 25 1957

Tanglewood Festival Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat theatre-concert hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinski with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berloiz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,585
JUN 19 1957

20th Tanglewood Season Opens Week After Next

Program Completed for Annual Berkshire Music Festival, Which Has Become Internationally Famous

Boston, June 14—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat theater-concert hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky, (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

RUDOLF SERKIN

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre de Printemps" (July 20).

Choral Works

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert of Friday, July 12.
Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, Jult 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the theater-concert hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classical of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the, bariton. Gerard Souzay, on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood. Lenox.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,866
JUN 15 1957

Boston Symphony Opens Berkshire Festival July 3

20th Season at Tanglewood to Feature Six Week Ends of Concerts

Lenox, June 14—The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will present its 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood from July 3 to August 11.

Six Week Ends

The six week-ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteaux on July 20, and 28 and Carl Schuricht on August 2 and 0.

Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer. The first two week ends will feature an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall, all-Bach, July 5, 6, and 7 and all-Mozart July 12, 13, and 14. The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000 will be devoted to Tchaikovsky July 19, 20 and 21, Berlioz July 26, 27 and 28, Brahms August 2, 3 and 4 and Beethoven August 9, 10 and 11.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahams and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" July 19 and "Sacre du Printemps" July 20.

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Indep. Republican
Circ. 305,271
JUN 16 1957

20th Berkshire Festival Opens July 3 at Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28) Brahms (August 2,3,4) and Beethoven (August 9,10,11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20)

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday Afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325
JUN 20 1957

Berkshire Festival Music Highlights

Six weekends of concerts emphasizing the works of a special composer, four weekends of concerts to be devoted to Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven and a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky will be highlights of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The orchestra's 20th season, with Charles Munch music director, will be presented from July 3 to Aug. 11.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10).

STERN TO APPEAR

The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

CHAMBER MUSIC

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center.

The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,859
JUN 25 1957

Tanglewood Festival Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat theatre-concert hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinski with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berloiz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Shopping News
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Bi-Weekly
Circ. 99,870 Free
JUN 18 19[illegible]

Boston Symphony Orchestra Announces Tanglewood Programs

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, today announces the complete programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

The first two weekends of the festival in the Theatre-Concert hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively. Opening the concerts of the Bach weekend on Friday, July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist), Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for two pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert on Saturday evening, July 6, will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 4. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be held in the Music shed and will be wholly devoted to PartII of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tennor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses of the Harbard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will come to Tanglewood especially for this performance.

On Friday, July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart weekend with the Divertimento K. 136 for strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for wind instruments and the "Haffner" symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of Saturday evening, July 13, which will take place in the Music shed, will consist of the three great symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter"). On Sunday, July 14, Dr. Munch, will present two of his principal players as soloists — Sherman Walt in the Bassoon concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn concerto K. 495. The program will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and close with the Sinfonia Concertante K. 297B for Oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Msuic shed will feature works of two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky. At the Friday concert of July 19, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game", Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Charles Munch on Saturday evening, July 27, with Florence Kopleff, mezzo-soprano; Cesare Valletti, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Gerard Souzay, baritone, and the Berkshire Festival chorus. Pierre Monteux will again be guest conductor on Sunday, July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

The first concert of the following week on August 2, will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture Sonata for orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the variations on a Theme of Haydn and the violin concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber. On Sunday afternoon, August 4, Dr. Munch will conduct Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahms' Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Feistival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Sympnony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern. Carl Schuricht will be the guest conductor on Saturday evening, August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musick, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will bring the festival to a close on Sunday afternoon, August 11th, with the Berkshire Festival chorus (Hugh Ross, conductor) and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Dr. Munch will open this program with "Quiet City" by Aaron Copland.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Record (m)
MERIDEN, Conn.
Independent Republican
Circ. 16,711
JUN 26 1957

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUN 22 1957

Feature Berlioz And Stravinsky At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in which will be all Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music shed, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" "Jeu de Cartes" and "Sacre du Printemps."

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bachs St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the theater-concert hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual fetures including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebslieder" waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String quartet, the Beaux Arts trio and the Kroll String quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival office, Tanglewood, Lenox.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052
JUN 19 1957

July 3 Is Opening Date For Berkshire Festival

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, from July 3 to Aug. 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "I'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre -Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, (a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the festival office, Tanglewood.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
GREENSBORO, N. C.
NEWS
Circ. D. 81,644 - S. 91,416
JUN 3 1957

MUSIC NOTES

BY HENRY S. WOOTTON JR.

HARPSICHORD SOCIETY: A harpsichord society has been formed which will commission new works for the harpsichord and award scholarships for those who want to study the instrument. It is the Harpsichord Music Society, and its headquarters are at the Mannes College of Music, New York City.

In its commissioning program the society will seek contemporary works that will utilize the harpsichord in various ways: As a solo instrument, as an accompaniment in vocal music, as a member of chamber ensembles and as a concerto instrument. Sylvia Marlowe, famous American harpsichordist, is the society's musical director.

HANSON HONORED: Howard Hanson, distinguished American conductor, composer and director of the famed Eastman School of Music; the Juilliard String Quartet; and Oliver Daniel, director of contempory music projects of Broadcast Music Inc., received the Laurel Leaf Award given by the American Composers Alliance last week. The awards, for distinguished service to American music, were given at a reception following the spring general membership meeting of the composers' organization.

Robert Ward, American Composers Alliance president, made the awards in the following words: "Howard Hanson's crusade for our native music began with the first Eastman Festival of Contemporary Music over 30 years ago. The music of his compatriots has been staples of the many programs he has conducted all over the world. Of recent years, his recordings of American music have become widely known as models of technical precision and perceptive interpretation."

FESTIVAL FANFARE: The Stadium Symphony of New York will open its 40th season at the Lewisohn Stadium of City College June 24. The orchestra, composed mainly of members of the New York Philharmonic - Symphony, will present five concerts a week for six weeks, closing Aug. 3.

The 20th season of Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood, Mass., will take place during six weeks between July 3 and Aug. 11. Charles Munch will be the music director, and guest conductors will be Pierre Monteaux and Carl Schuricht. Isaac Stern will be violin soloist. During the first weekend of concerts, tributes will be paid to Igor Stravinsky, who celebrates his 75th birthday on June 17.

Boston Symphony Lists Berkshire Festival Schedule

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Shuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200 - seat Theatre - Concert Hall will be all - Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all - Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu ie Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20)

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre - Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
SYRACUSE, N. Y.
HERALD-AMERICAN
Circ. S. 222,243
JUN 2 1957

MUSIC

'Teahouse' To Open In Lyric June 18

KOBAYASHI

By E. V. W.

Actors of Oriental background, who played on Broadway and on tour in "Teahouse of the August Moon," have been engaged for roles in that comedy hit by the Finger Lakes Lyric Circus management. The show opens Tuesday night, June 18, and will run for two weeks in The Tent in Route 20 near Skaneateles. These actors include lovely Tsuruka Kobayashi as Lotus Blossom, leading feminine role, and Jerry Fugikawa, Christal Kim, Nace Kondo and Mara Kim.

Also engaged for the production is Chuck Morgan, who appeared as a professional wrestler in the motion picture "The Joe Louis Story" and who was in the original production of "Teahouse," and John J. Martin and David Renard, seen with Burgess Meredith, in the National Company of the show. Frank Maxwell, former Syracusan who left here to win success on Broadway and in Radio-TV, and the Lyric Circus producers and directors, Walter Davis and David Davis, also are in the cast. The setting of "Teahouse" is on Okinawa where U.S. Military government officers come to know the problems of life in the Orient. "Teahouse" is the only non-musical show booked for the Lyric's 1957 season.

This date in music: 1846, Camille Saint-Saens makes his debut as a pianist in Paris; 1938 Lily Pons and Andre Kostelanetz wed.

A special evening concert, a Family Night, with no admission charge and an invitation to parents to bring their children, is announced by the board of directors of the Onondaga Symphony Orchestra, William Haaker conductor, Thursday night, June 13, at 8:15 o'clock in Nottingham High School auditorium. Conductor Haaker will narrate program notes as he has done with other orchestras he conducts—the Virginia Symphony and in Milwaukee, the Pops Orchestra.

The program will include the overture to Herold's opera "Zampa," two movements from Handel's "Water Music" Suite; the first movement of Dvorak's "New World Symphony," the closing movement of Bizet's "La Arlesienne" Suite No. 2. Also a Fugato by McBride, contemporary composer, on a well-known theme, "Dance of the Comedians," by Smetana and the Rakoczy March from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz.

Manager of the Orchestra is Murray Bernthal, violinist and teacher, executive of Famous Artists Series and active in Local 78, American Federation of Musicians. President of the Orchestra is Mrs. G. Norman Knaus.

The Berkshire Festival in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., will be July 3-Aug. 11 with "Tanglewood on Parade" featuring Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra on Aug. 8. Dr. Charles Munch is musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Berkshire Festival and Music Center. Carl Schuridt and Pierre Monteux will be guest conductors this season. Soloists with the Boston Symphony will include Pianist Rudolf Serkin and Violinist Isaac Stern.

The first two weekends of the Festival in the Theater-Concert Hall by a Chamber orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Munch and will be devoted respectively to Bach and Mozart works. On Sunday afternoon, July 7, the concert will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion by Bach. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Boyce, bassos.

Choruses of the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor, will go to "Tanglewood" especially to participate. Adele Addison, John McCollum and Donald Gramm were in Bethlehem, Pa., recently as soloists in the Bethlehem Bach Festival. Miss Koleff is known here for solo work with the Robert Shaw Chorale. Boyce is an alumnus of Syracuse University.

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will open July 19 with works of Tschaikowsky and Stravinsky featured. Dr. Munch will conduct Friday night and Sunday afternoon; Pierre Monteux will lead the Orchestra Saturday night, July 20.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Herald (e)
NEW BRITAIN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 27,830
JUN 17 1957

Season Opens July 3 At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six week ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week end will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two week ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat theater-concert hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (Aug. 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9, 10, 11.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 188
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New Yor
CHICAGO, ILL.
NEWS
Circ. D. 576,350
JUN 8 1957

Berkshire Festival Of Music

Great classics and the music of contemporary composers make up the varied fare of the Berkshire Music Festival, opening July 5 at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass.

The first weekend of concerts by the Boston Symphony will be devoted to Bach's performance of "St. Matthew's Passion."

* * *

WEEKENDS TO follow, through Aug. 11, will feature all Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven concerts. Charles Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht are the conductors for the series.

Isaac Stern is to be the soloist on three weekends in violin concertos by Brahms, Tchaikovsky and Beethoven.

A series of six chamber music concerts and a "Tanglewood on Parade" evening with the Boston Pops, conducted by Arthur Fiedler, are also planned for the Berkshire season.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New Yor
NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
POST
Circ. D. 389,011 - S. 258,545
JUN 4 1957

WORDS and MUSIC

By Harriett Johnson

Berkshire Festival to Begin July 5

The Berkshire Festival, which opens its six-weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Friday night, July 5, will feature the works of a single composer at each series of three weekly events throughout the summer.

As in former seasons, concerts will take place each Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday at 2:30, with the Boston Symphony under the direction of Charles Munch as the official ensemble.

Programs for the initial two weeks will take place in the Theater Concert Hall seating approximately 1,200 with a reduced orchestra, performing Bach the week-end of July 5 and Mozart the week-end of July 12. Beginning Friday, July 19, the full complement of the Boston Symphony takes over with Tchaikovsky highlighted as the composer. Compositions of Stravinsky, including the "Sacre de Printemps," will also be heard during these three days.

Berlioz July 26

The music of Hector Berlioz will be highlighted during the week-end of July 26, with "Harold in Italy," and the oratorio, "L'Enfance du Christ," included on the programs.

Brahms is the composer beginning Friday night, Aug. 2, and Beethoven, beginning Aug. 9. The Festival closes Sunday, Aug. 11, with Munch conducting Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Soloists during the season will include Isaac Stern playing the Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven Violin Concertos. Rudolf Serkin will play the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 2 in B Flat Major, Aug. 4, while Joseph de Pasquale will perform the solo viola portion of "Harold in Italy," July 26. Guest conductors will be Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
JUN 16 1957

Boston Symphony Opens Berkshire Festival July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six week-ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each week-end will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two week-ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week-ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302
JUN 30 1957

At Tanglewood the 20th season of the Berkshire Music Festival gets underway Wednesday evening with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet. The Berkshire fete, presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will run for six weeks and 24 concerts through Aug. 11. The Paganini quartet, making its first appearance will do a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and Maurice Ravel's String Quartet in F Major.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
JUN 23 1957

'Janus' to Open 26th Berkshire Playhouse Season

The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge will open its 26th season of theater in that southern Berkshire County town tomorrow.

Carol Stone will be featured in "Janus," the Carolyn Green comedy. The Berkshire Playhouse season will run for 10 weeks. Performances will be given every evening at 8:45 except Sundays through Aug. 31. Matinees are given Wednesdays and Saturdays at 2:30 p.m.

The theater is located at the intersection of Routes 102 and U.S. 7. It is approximately four miles west of the East Lee access to the Massachusetts toll road.

Mail orders and telephone reservations can be made direct to the box office which is open daily except Sunday from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m.

The playhouse in Stockbridge is the first of the Berkshires' major cultural attractions to open this season. Second out of the tap this year will be Music Barn in Lenox, where the season opens June 30. Jazz concerts will be presented every Sunday evening; folk concerts every Saturday afternoon, and ethnic groups during the week, illustrating music from other parts of the world. The Music Barn season will run through Sept. 1.

On July 1, Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival will open its silver jubilee year off Route 20 in Becket. The Pillow's 54 performances will run through Aug. 31.

The area's major musical attraction is the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, in Lenox where the Boston Symphony Orchestra will open its annual six-week stand July 3 under the baton of Charles Munch and guest conductors. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

The Berkshires' other Summer theater, the Williamstown Summer Theater, will open an eight-week season July 5 and will offer the "Teahouse of the August Moon" as its 1957 entre.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUN 23 1957

TIMELY TRAVEL TOPICS

ng a 62-Day Cruise Next Winter open at the same time. . . . Five colonial houses and other historic buildings will be open to the public on June 29 during Old Wickford Day, at Wickford, R. I. Among the old homes is the birthplace of Gilbert Stuart, famed early American artist. . . . Eastern Airlines will inaugurate through coach service between Boston and Quebec City on June 27. . . . All expense week-end tours to the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., and the Empire State Music [illegible] N. Y., [illegible] Tours of 2039 Broadway, N. Y. . . . Storyland Village near Asbury Park, N. J., has three new attractions this season: "Frontier City," "Hansel and Gretel-land," and "Animal-Jungleland."

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-8371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
TOLEDO, OHIO
BLADE
Circ. D. 193,863 - S. 178,068
MAY 26 1957

Mostly About Music

The Word Is Peculiar —Or Is It Egomania?

By JULIAN SEAMAN
Blade Music Editor

THE professional world of music is peculiar. Violinists are apt to talk of other violinists, pianists of pianists, 'cellists of 'cellists and so forth. Once in a while, a 'cellist will speak of a pianist, in terms of the 'cello; ditto violinists and the rest.

And so, when Jacob Krachmalnick, concertmaster of the Philadelphia Orchestra, drifted into the Michigan Union lobby with Robert Merrill of the Metropolitan — with wife n tow — I was amused. I waved a hand and joined them at the newstand. Somehow, a violinist and a baritone should be chatting of politics and how to cook a steak.

As a matter of fact, they were talking of opera, to which even a violinist may subscribe. Mr. Merrill wanted to know if I had heard him, thereby adhering to the good old conceit of baritones. I said I had not, that Verdi's "Aida," in such a guise of haphazard fiesta, had deterred me.

The Merrills professed weariness and strolled off to bed and Mr. Krachmalnick and I, he with no hat and I with no coat, stood out on the chilly steps and watched automotive students roll by, the while discussing life and violins. He mentioned names, which I will not, and said of one eminent artist that he "always stepped in front of the composer," a quaint thought to be applied today to many a case of egomania.

★ ★ ★

I CAN THINK, and so can he, of young aspirants befuddled by their own importance, o whom the composer supposedly translated is just another piece of musical furniure, to be used but never honored.

He agreed with me that another "fiddler" (all professional violinists are fond of calling themselves "fiddlers") had never been fully appreciated in this country until recently. "Do you know," said he, "after the first reviews he was ready to jump out of windows? American critics couldn't or wouldn't understand the difference between a real artist and a showman. Now he's hailed everywhere. You people are fickle."

I remember the debut of this artist, and thought I remembered that the reviews, while reserved and in no sense a unanimous "rave," were balanced and perceptive. But I saw no point in reminding him of this; for the real and dedicated musician is something of a child, and the slightest dissention looms monstrous in his eyes.

★ ★ ★

I SPOKE OF the tremendous value and musical worth of instruments in his orchestra, insured for some $2,000,000. And he told me of the Betti violin he had inherited. Adolfo Betti, for many years concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in its palmiest days, had been his teacher. "When he died," said Jacob, "I felt as though my fiddle fingers were gone. But he had left me his violin, and I'm still trying to grow into it. Sometimes, I think I never will."

Which is true humility, and bespeaks the artist, not merely the violinist.

★ ★ ★

THE FESTIVAL at Ann Arbor this year, like he coming one at Tanglewood, near Lenox, Mass., an nnual romp for the yeasty intelligentsia, was singuarly dull. Prospects at Tanglewood are scarcely nore enlivening. The routine of standard works; 'opera in concert form," growing mania; the ame old round of welltied artists with nothing nuch to say—such is the icture of American music estival hearabouts.

If "new" music is at hand, has been played before, so hat a modicum of rehearsal s needed; if new artists are vailable, either they are oung and untried, or of nediocre and questionable uality. We have not yet heard Anton Dermota in Ann Arbor, nor Teresa Stich-Randall, Inge Borkh, Clara Haskil, Fischer-Dieskau, Windgassen, Stader, Oistrakh et al. Conductors seldom vary from the safe and true, despite such rampant attractions as Cluytens, Previtali, Fricsay, Kubelik, Ansermet, Elmendorf, Knaperbutsch or De Sabatax. Carl Schuricht, at long last, makes an American debut at Tanglewood this summer.

There is need, on the score of sheer monotony, to change the orchestral scene. One may dream, I suppose, of the Concertgebouw or Vienna Philharmonic at Tanglewood, of the Czech Philharmonic or Berlin Philharmonic or Lamoureux or Nationale orchestras at Ann Arbor.

But these are dreams; meanwhile, the heavy round continues.

As the late Gertrude Stein might have remarked:

"A festival is a festival is a festival etc."

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-8371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,199,293
JUN 9 1957

WORLD OF MUSIC: FLORENTINES

By ROSS PARMENTER

First Italian Symphony In 37 Years To Visit The U.S. in Fall

SINCE World War II Italy has sent us some fine chamber orchestras, notably the Virtuosi di Roma, I Musici and the Corelli Society. But we have not heard a full Italian symphony orchestra since Arturo Toscanini toured here with an orchestra of picked men from Milan's La Scala in 1920. This lends special interest to the fact that next season the Symphony Orchestra of the Florence May Festival will make its first American tour.

Its first concert in New York will be on Oct. 13 at Carnegie Hall. It will be sponsored by Casa Italiana of Columbia University. During its ten or eleven-week tour the orchestra will be led by three men, Carlo Zecchi, Franco Ferrara and Franco Mannino. Which one will be on the podium for the first New York concert has not yet been decided.

The cancellation of the tour of the Prague Philharmonic because of United States fingerprinting requirements means the Florence orchestra will be the only symphony from abroad that will be heard here next season. But the Virtuosi di Roma will be back.

The Deutschmeister Band will come here as part of "Vienna on Parade" and there will be a number of chamber ensembles. Among those that have never visited this country will be the Barylli Quartet from Vienna, the Koeckert Quartet from Munich, the Quartetto di Roma and the Pauk String Quartet from Liège.

Despite its present home, however, the Pauk musicians are not Belgians. They are Hungarians, who were touring Western Europe at the time of the uprisings last year. They elected not to return to their homeland, which is why they will be able to tour here.

CANTICUM: Keeping track of first American performances of Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" has been a problem. News of its première began appearing last fall. At that time the Southern California Chamber Music Society said it would give the work its Los Angeles première on June 17. For a while this looked as if it would be the American première. However, this proposed program was later canceled. Then came the announcement that the United States première would be on July 21 at the Berkshire Festival. This performance, though, became the "East Coast première" when it was announted that Franz Waxman would conduct the work at the final concert of the Los Angeles Music Festival on June 17. Last week the Berkshire première had to be downgraded still again. The new East Coast première was announced as taking place on July 18, when Leopold Stokowski will conduct it with the Symphony of the Air at the Empire State Festival in Ellenville.

Burrelle's
1888

ROANOKE, VA.
TIMES
Circ. D. 46,672 - S. 84,179
JUN 9 1957

Summer Shows Bustin' Out All Over U. S.

About 300 Spots Book Activities Along Many Lines

By WILLIAM GLOVER

For vacationists who like an assortment of the arts, Aspen, Colo., will provide opera, chamber music and orchestral music; the renowned Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Mass., and nearby Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee will respectively provide music and dance.

Boston has a summer arts festival of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet and art exhibits. Central City, Colo., lists an opera fiesta, and the Empire State Music Festival at Ellenville, N.Y., will stress new operas and ballet. Jazz fanatics will congregate again at Newport, R.I.

With all the cross-country excitement, little old Broadway itself and the rest of New York City won't be exactly devoid of theatrical attractions.

Twenty shows are still ensconced on the main stem, Guy Lombardo's version of "Show Boat" is set for the summer at Jones Beach, and for the first time Central Park is to have a weekly series of music and dance shows staged atop its wintertime ice-skating rink.

[48]

Return to MHS

The Massachusetts Turnpike
NOW OPEN

The safest, fastest route to and from New York, Chicago and the West

123 Miles of Carefree, Happy Motoring through Beautiful Massachusetts Countryside

MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE AUTHORITY
80 Boylston Street, Boston
Write today for your detailed map.

The Distinguished
RED LION INN
STOCKBRIDGE, MASS.

An outstanding country inn, now in its 185th season. Noted for its wonderful table. Two lounges for refreshment. 3 merry miles west of Lee interchange.

Tel. Stockbridge 46

The closest Inn to Tanglewood
Avaloch

We free our guests from the usual resort impositions. They find full vacation facilities which they are free to use or ignore in an atmosphere which is neither commercial nor coercive, just across the road from Tanglewood. A new swimming pool, tennis, hi-fi and an extensive library are on the estate. Modified American plan features brunch served daily until 1 P.M., and cornucopian dinners.

HOME OF THE FIVE REASONS STEAK AND ALE HOUSE

A gathering place for arbiters, of old wine, fine ale and good beef.

For information or reservations write Department C, Avaloch, Lenox, Mass. or telephone Lenox 41.

BREEZY KNOLL INN

ON Pontoosuc Lake
In the Heart of the Berkshires
75 guest rooms - swimming - boating - dining rooms
A HOME AWAY FROM HOME
Route 7, Pittsfield, Massachusetts

JUG END BARN
In the Glorious Berkshires

Massachusetts Thruway is open now, and in just 3 short hours you'll be in the midst of a fun-filled vacation that's informal and inexpensive. Sports, orchestras, amateur shows and all sorts of exciting things to do. For color folder, Box R, GREAT BARRINGTON, MASS.

The Wendell-Sherwood
Pittsfield, Massachusetts

IN THE HEART of the Beautiful BERKSHIRE HILLS

A completely modern, fireproof, 300-room hotel, with complete facilities including TV and Radio in all rooms. The central point to all children's camps. Tanglewood Music Festival, Jacob's Pillow, and Stock Theatres. Famous Saturday Night Smorgasbord. Write for booklet 11.

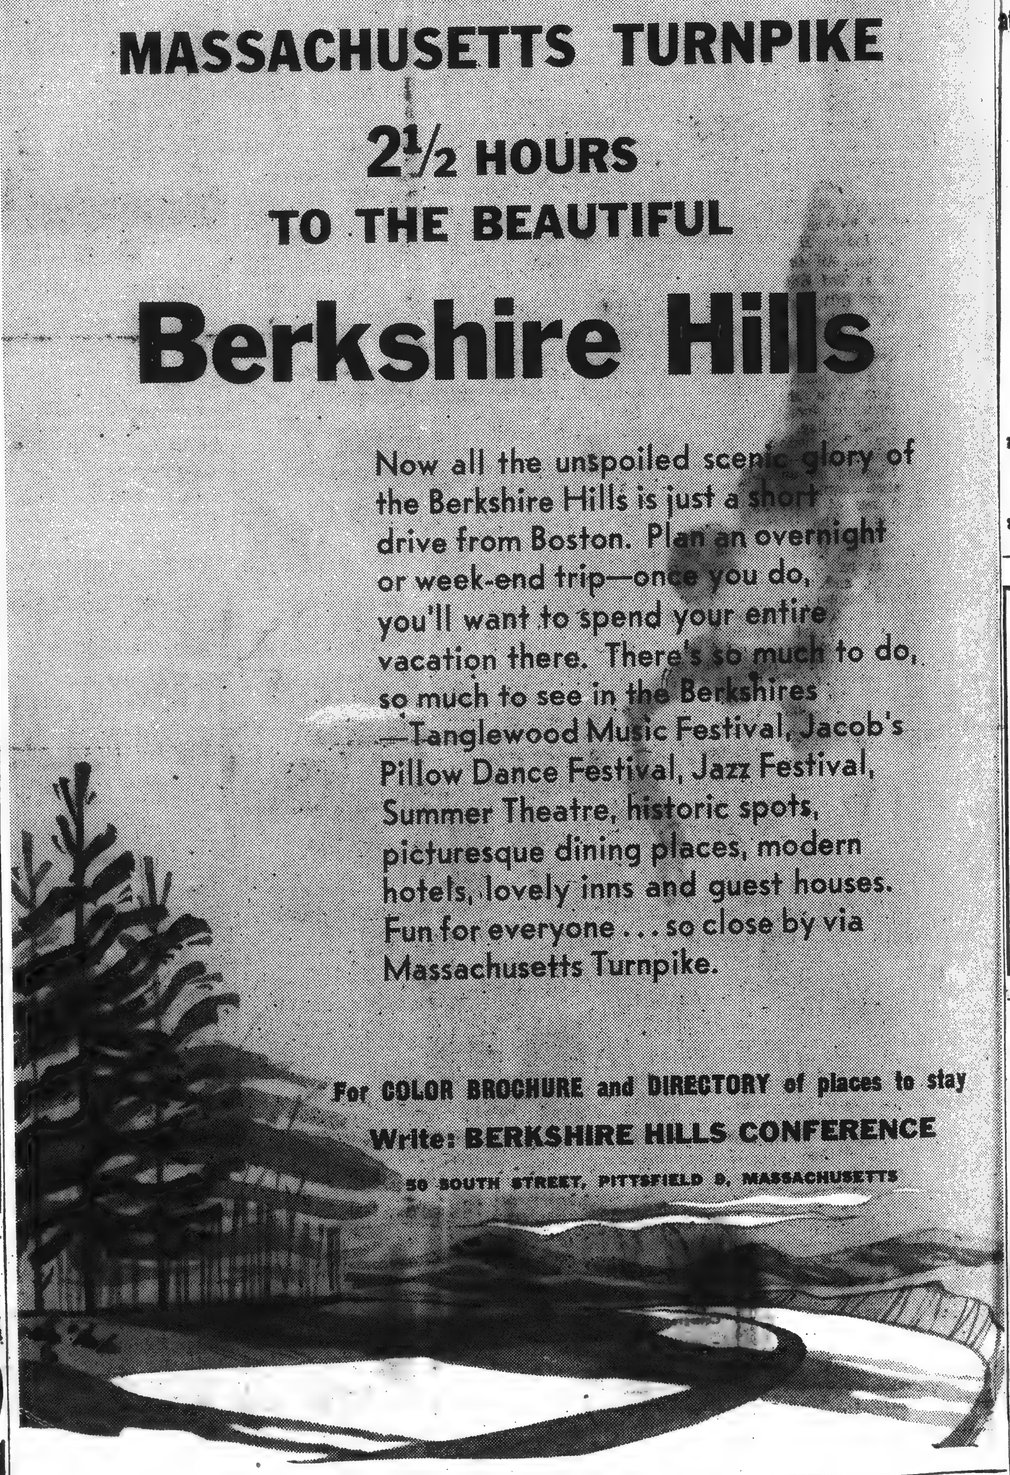
W. H. Clifford, Manager
Phone Pittsfield 4511.

2½ Hours from Boston via Turnpike—Exit at Lee

The 1896 HOUSE

Finest food served anywhere
And now—
The finest in accommodations
The 1896 Motel
on U. S. Route 7—Williamstown, Mass.

TRAVEL THE MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE
2½ HOURS TO THE BEAUTIFUL
Berkshire Hills



Now all the unspoiled scenic glory of the Berkshire Hills is just a short drive from Boston. Plan an overnight or week-end trip—once you do, you'll want to spend your entire vacation there. There's so much to do, so much to see in the Berkshires —Tanglewood Music Festival, Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, Jazz Festival, Summer Theatre, historic spots, picturesque dining places, modern hotels, lovely inns and guest houses. Fun for everyone . . . so close by via Massachusetts Turnpike.

For COLOR BROCHURE and DIRECTORY of places to stay
Write: BERKSHIRE HILLS CONFERENCE
50 SOUTH STREET, PITTSFIELD 9, MASSACHUSETTS

JACOB'S Dance PILLOW Festival

2½ Hours from Boston Via the New Mass. Turnpike
1933 — SILVER JUBILEE SEASON — 1957
Nine Weeks — July 2 — Aug. 31

First 7 Performances July 2-6
Gala Opening Night Tues. July 2 at 9 P.M.!
MARIA TALLCHIEF & ANDRE EGLEVSKY
Stars of the N. Y. City Ballet
The MARY ANTHONY DANCE THEATRE
"Threnody" & New Group Work
TOM TWO ARROWS — American Indian Dances
BRUCE McCLURE — Scottish Highland Dances

MAIL ORDERS NOW! Tues. Wed. Eves. & Thurs. Mat. $2.50
Fri. & Sat., Mats. & Eves, ...$3.00
All Eves. 9 P.M. — All Mats. 4 P. M.
For detailed Season Schedule Write BOX 87, LEE, MASS. Phone LEE 745

At the Western end of the Turnpike lies:
TANGLEWOOD
The Summer Home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra
Charles Munch, Music Director
The Berkshire Festival—Concerts Fri., Sat., Sunday
July 3 through August 11
Conductors—Charles Munch, Pierre Monteux
Carl Schuricht
Soloists—Isaac Stern, Rudolf Serkin and others
August 9—Tanglewood on Parade
Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra
For ticket and program information:
FESTIVAL OFFICE
TANGLEWOOD, LENOX, MASS.

JAZZ! FOLK MUSIC! OPERA!
Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, Mass.
(next to Tanglewood)

Opens June 30 with Ella Fitzgerald; Ethel Waters, Dave Brubeck, Tom Lehrer, Gerry Mulligan, Marais and Miranda, Lionel Hampton, Duke Ellington, The Weavers, Woody Herman, Richard Dyer Bennet, Voices from Porgy and Bess, After Dinner Opera Company, Modern Jazz Quartet, Mahalia Jackson, Oscar Peterson, Dizzy Gillespie, Stan Getz, Miles Davis.

AND/stop at the POTTING SHED AT MUSIC INN before and after concerts to eat, to drink, to dance, to listen to French songs.
OR/come for your vacation and stay at MUSIC INN.
For programs, for booklets, for details, write Stephani Barber, Lenox, Mass. Tel Lenox 610

BERKSHIRE PLAYHOUSE
Stockbridge, Mass.
10 weeks—26th Season opens June 24—10 plays
The delightful Broadway comedy
"JANUS"
With an all star cast
Also: "BUS STOP", "CHARM", "THE GREAT SEBASTIANS", "TIME LIMIT!", "ANDROCLES AND THE LION", "POTTING SHED", "KING OF HEARTS", "O, MEN! O, WOMEN!", AND "RELUCTANT DEBUTANTE".
EVES. MON. THRU SAT. AT 8:45 P.M.
MATS. WED. AND SAT. AT 2:30 P.M.
Season subscriptions and single tickets now on sale at the box office. Phone reservations: Stockbridge 460.

IT'S FUN...
at this BARGAIN RATE JUNE to JULY 15
and so economical to vacation at the Famous CURTIS HOTEL!

FREE!
- Heated Swimming Pool
- Beach Chairs
- Golf — Tennis
- Guest Shows — Prizes
- Cocktails on the House
- Movies — Dancing — Games
- Moonlight Swim Parties
- Bar-B-Q — Buffet
- Parking

$12 Daily per person (Double Occupancy) SUMPTUOUS MEALS included Plus Tax

2 hours from Boston on new Mass. Turnpike (Exit at Lee)
Contact Your Travel Agent or Phone: LENOX 16
The Curtis Hotel
In The Beautiful BERKSHIRE HILLS, LENOX, MASSACHUSETTS

Welcome, Neighbor!

Now that the Boston-Albany Thruway's open, Boston is two hours closer to "New England's Outstanding Year-Round Resort". Now, in less than three hours' driving time, you Hubtown folk can enjoy:

Our fabulous glass-enclosed indoor pool and our outdoor pool.

Wonderful evenings of fun in the picturesque Carriage Room and the marvelous Tally-Ho Barn, with dancing to two of the best orchestras anywhere.

All Seasonal Sports—canoeing, tennis, riding and all the rest.

It's yours at moderate American Plan rates, and now's the time for reservations. Telephone 625, or write Box H, Lenox, Mass.

Eastover
LENOX, MASS.

NEAREST BERKSHIRE RESORT TO MASS. TURNPIKE—EXIT AT LEE

B.I.
your key to enjoyment

The Berkshire Inn
Great Barrington, Massachusetts
James J. Joyce, Landlord
OPEN
Less than 3 hours from New York City via Parkways or N. Y. Thruway
Two hours from Boston via Mass. Turnpike, exit at Lee or West Stockbridge
Accommodations at Moderate AP and EP Rates
Meal Service daily until Midnite in Grill or Main Dining Room
For Information call
Gt Barr. 880

Chanterwood
Box 5, Lee 6, Mass.
JUST OFF EXIT 2, MASS. TURNPIKE
NR. TANGLEWOOD & OTHER FESTIVALS

IF IT'S a truly lovely lake you like, enchanting woods, sports, fine food, good music, cottages or cabins, then try our mountain "HIDEAWAY." Tennis, shuffleboard, barbecues, volley ball, library, cocktails, loafing patio. Plenty to do right here but the Berkshires offer even more. For details Folder D. Lower rates to June 21. Res. rec. Tel. Lee 585.

C497

Boston Symphony Opens Berkshire Festival July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six week-ends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 21) and Carl Bricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each conductor will emphasize the music of a special composer—the fourth two week-ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weeks-series of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

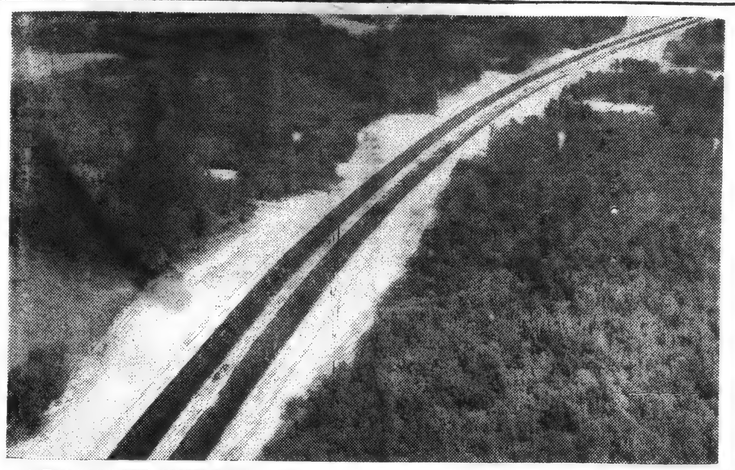
Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.



NEW MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE offers quick access to resort areas.

THE MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE
Safe Driving Through Miles Of Ever Changing Scenery

The Massachusetts Turnpike is designed as one of the safest in the world. It's free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights, intersections and railroad crossings.

Eventually motorists will be able to travel from Boston to Buffalo, N.Y., without once stopping for a traffic light. This will be made possible with the completion of the initial turnpike's extension from Weston into Boston and the Berkshire extension of the New York Thruway. Contracts for the latter already have been let.

The completed initial turnpike is 123 miles long and was constructed at a total cost of approximately $239 million. It extends from the New York line near West Stockbridge to join with circumferential highway Route 128 in Weston.

Over its entire length from the western border of the Commonwealth to the eastern terminus the turnpike offers the motorist a constantly changing view of Massachusetts scenery.

The initial turnpike is a divided highway throughout with a center strip 18 feet wide over much of its length, 6 feet wide on major bridges and certain other locations and wider than 18 feet where terrain and cost permitted.

★ ★ ★

The typical roadway section consists of two 12-foot lanes plus a 10-foot emergency lane in each direction. The 12.5-mile section between Route 128 and Route 9 west of Framingham has three 12-foot sections plus a 10-foot lane in each direction.

All bridges between Route 15 and Route 9 interchanges have been constructed to accommodate an ultimate six-lane turnpike. This will make it economical to add two lanes in the future.

A motorist traveling the entire initial turnpike will cross 200 bridges. Four of the bridges span the major rivers in Massachusetts the Quaboag, Chicopee, Connecticut and Westfield Rivers. All the bridges are "deck-type" in design. All portions of their structure, except parapet and railing, lie between the roadway. They are also equipped with sidewalks.

Eight Howard Johnson restaurants are spaced along the initial turnpike from Stockbridge to Weston. The restaurants are the latest in modern design and equipped with adequate parking facilities. Simple and safe traffic patterns have been installed at each of the restaurant areas. The patterns include acceleration and deceleration lanes, plus adequate signs and lighting. Estimated cost of the concessions: $10 million.

Six maintenance depots have been erected at strategic spots along the Turnpike. These depots house personnel and supplies for the Turnpike. One contains a central shop for complete servicing and repair of turnpike equipment—snow removal machines, two trucks and sanders.

The turnpike is constantly patrolled by State Police in two-way radio station wagon-ambulances—day and night—to furnish protection, service and assistance to turnpike-users.

A total of 14 interchanges are situated along the initial Turnpike linking the limited access highway with every major route serving the six New England states.

Interchange No. 2, for example, connects with Route 20 at East Lee to serve motorists traveling north to Vermont and south to Connecticut. Further east Interchange 9 provides another connection with Route 20—and Route 15—for traffic heading to and from Hartford and New York and points south and west.

Toll booths are established at the Interchanges. And a motorist receives a ticket as he enters the initial Turnpike. At whatever interchange he leaves the Turnpike, he surrenders the ticket and pays the toll assessed for his type of vehicle and the distance he traveled.

Toll collection equipment is the latest in design to speed toll-paying, to reduce delays to a minimum, and arranged for expansion as increasing traffic makes it necessary.

Mass. Turnpike Brings the Berkshires to Boston's Back Yard

It's Only Two-Hour Trip From Hub to Area Exits

PITTSFIELD — The beauty and culture of the Berkshires have been brought to Boston's back yard by the new cross-state thruway.

This area, according to John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference is already feeling the influx of one-day motorists from the Boston metropolitan area. He said many of the one-day visitors have liked their first taste of the Berkshires and are now planning longer stays in the future.

The fact that it is only a two-hour thruway trip from Boston to the two Berkshire exits makes it possible for residents of the metropolitan area to leave their homes late in the afternoon, drive the 100-odd miles to the Berkshires, dine at one of the area's many attractive eating spots, take in a performance at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow or a playhouse and return to the Hub by a reasonable hour.

Tanglewood, of course, is the featured attraction of the Berkshires' cultural mecca in summer season. The Boston Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Charles Munch will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in the town of Lenox July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

Concerts by the full BSO in the 6,000-seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms (Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9-11).

At Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival off Route 20 in Becket, also a hoot and a holler from the MTA exit, this will be the silver jubilee year. The Pillow's season will run from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be held every Sunday evening at 8:30; folk music concerts, every Saturday afternoon at 4. Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Dave Brubeck and Ella Fitzgerald are among the stars already signed for the Music Barn 1957 season.

Modern music will be played at the Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox, just down the road from Tangleood and a few minutes from the thruway exit.

NATURAL DISPLAYS

The Music Barn season will run from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be held every Sunday evening at 8:30; folk music concerts, every Saturday afternoon at 4. Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Dave Brubeck and Ella Fitzgerald are among the stars already signed for the Music Barn 1957 season.

The Berkshires also have two summer theaters. The Berkshire Playhouse will open its 26th 10-week season in Stockbridge June 24. The Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Right now one of New England's most colorful natural displays is in progress at Pittsfield State Forest on the outskirts of Central Berkshire city. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in the state forest atop a 2,000-foot peak in the Taconic Range. The area may be reached by car over a hard-surfaced road.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South St., Pittsfield, will provide free on request a circle tour map which outlines six suggested half-day motor trips through the Berkshires. The map gives detailed driving directions and descriptions of items of natural and historic interest.

If it's early American history you are interested in, a stop at the Mission House in Stockbridge is a must on any Berkshire tour. It was built in 1739 by the Rev. John Sergeant, first missionary to the Stockbridge Indians, and is open from May through November.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 1 1957

ROLLING Berkshire Hills form a pleasant backdrop for this quiet pastoral scene. Center is Mt. Greylock, rising 3,491 feet. It is highest mountain in Massachusetts.

Turnpike Spurs Berkshire Trade

The very first day of the Turnpike's operation in May had an impact on tourist services of Berkshire County. Not only did the Pike bring business to the inns and restaurants and service stations of the county, but there was an immediate and traceable reduction in truck traffic.

This report was made by Byrne Bauer, owner-manager of the 185-year old Red Lion Inn at Stockbridge. "We felt the benefits of the increased traffic the very first meal," he said. "And our Chief of Police William Collins had a counter to check traffic. He reported a 50 per cent reduction in the first three days."

Downing Predicts Banner Summer Despite Turnpike

Berkshire Hills Conference Executive John F. Downing of Pittsfield today predicted a banner 1957 summer season for the Berkshire County vacation-travel business.

To Compensate Loss

He took note of the recent Mohawk and Taconic Trail Assn. charge that the new cross-state turnpike has stolen traffic from the North Berkshire region, but said he thinks the toll road and an already expanded promotional program will bring in enough additional tourists to more than compensate for any possible over-all area loss.

Mr. Downing said he bases his prediction on a 20 per cent increase in inquiries from the Conference advertising-promotion program and on excellent reports from a cross-section of the county's tourist industries.

He said Business Manager William Martin of the Williamstown Summer Theater reports advance sales up and is looking for a "terrific year." Two North Berkshire motels report solid bookings for the coming Tanglewood season, Mr. Downing said.

"It appears that we are going to be successful in getting the tourists here in larger-than-usual numbers this year for stays of at least one day," said Mr. Downing.

"The Job Now"

"The job now," he said, "is to try and get them to stay longer than the one day."

Mr. Downing said the Conference this year is making increased use of a circle-tour folder designed to get the motorized vacationist to see all of Berkshire County.

The Conference executive said such comparatively new attractions as the Williamstown theater and Music Barn in Lenox, both in their third season, have done a lot for the county area as a whole in making it a more desirable vacation spot.

"The more things we have to do here the better everyone will make out," said Mr. Downing.

Answer to Turnpike

He suggested that additional attractions in the North Berkshire region might be one answer to the turnpike traffic competition.

Mr. Downing said reports of increased advance sales this year have been made to the Conference by boxoffice representatives at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Music Barn and the county's two summer theaters.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will open the annual six-week Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood Wednesday. Ted Shawn will open the Pillow's silver anniversary season tomorrow evening and the Williamstown theater will open Friday. The Music Barn summer schedule started yesterday.

'Pike Is Safest In the World

The Massachusetts Turnpike is designed as one of the safest in the world.

It's free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights, intersections and railroad crossings.

Eventually motorists will be able to travel from Boston to Buffalo, N. Y. without once stopping for a traffic light. This will be made possible with the completion of the Initial Turnpike's extension from Weston to Boston and the Berkshire extension of the New York Thruway. Contracts for the latter already have been let.

CHANGING VIEWS

The completed Initial Turnpike is 123 miles long and was constructed at a total cost of approximately $239 million. It extends from the New York line near West Stockbridge to join with circumferential highway Route 128 in Weston.

Over its entire length from the western border of the Commonwealth to the eastern terminus, the Turnpike offers the motorist a constantly changing view of Massachusetts scenery.

The Initial Turnpike is a divided highway throughout with a center strip 18 feet wide over much of its length, six feet wide on major bridges and certain other locations, and wider than 18 feet where terrain and cost permitted.

The typical roadway section consists of two 12-foot lanes, plus a ten foot emergency lane in each direction. The 12.5-mile section between Route 128 and Route 9 west of Framingham has three 12-foot sections plus a ten foot lane in each direction.

All bridges between Route 15 and Route 9 interchanges have been constructed to accommodate an ultimate six lane Turnpike. This will make it economical to add two lanes in the future.

A motorist traveling the entire Initial Turnpike will cross 200 bridges. Four of the bridges span the major rivers in Massachusetts—the Quaboag, Chicopee, Connetticut and Westfield Rivers. All the bridges are "deck-type" in design. All portions of their structure, except parapet and railing, lie below the roadway. They're also equipped with sidewalks.

Eight Howard Johnson restaurant are spaced along the Initial Turnpike from Stockbridge to Weston. The restaurants are the latest in modern design and equipped with adequate parking facilities. Simple and safe traffic patterns have been installed at each of the restaurant areas. The patterns include acceleration and deceleration lanes, plus adequate signs and lighting. Estimated cost of the concessions: $10 million.

TURNPIKE SUPPLIES

Six maintenance depots have been erected at strategic spots along the Turnpike. These depots house personnel and supplies for the Turnpike. One contains a central shop for complete servicing and repair of turnpike equipment—snow removal machines, tow trucks and sanders.

The turnpike is constantly patrolled by State Police in two-way radio station wagon-ambulances—day and night—to furnish protection, service and assistance to turnpike-users.

A total of 14 interchanges are situated along the Initial Turnpike linking the limited access highway with every major route serving the six New England states.

C497

Boston Symphony Opens Berkshire Festival July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, inaugurates the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six week-ends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Bamberg (Aug. 2, 10). Each week-end will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two week-ends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theater-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four week-ends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

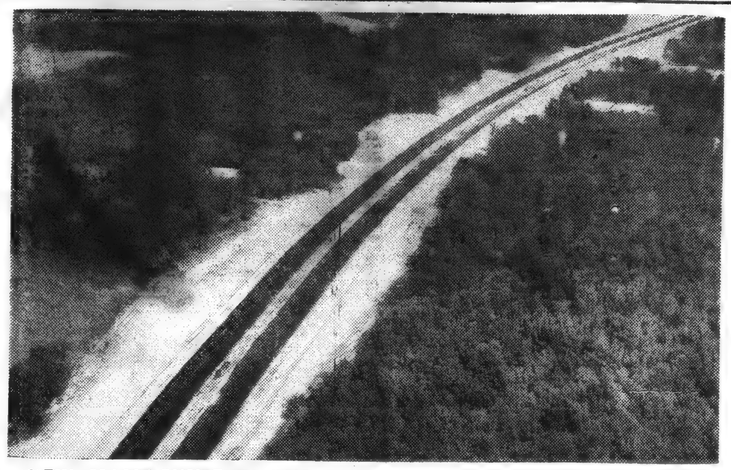
Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.



NEW MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE offers quick access to resort areas.

THE MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE
Safe Driving Through Miles Of Ever Changing Scenery

The Massachusetts Turnpike is designed as one of the safest in the world. It's free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights, intersections and railroad crossings.

Eventually motorists will be able to travel from Boston to Buffalo, N.Y., without once stopping for a traffic light. This will be made possible with the completion of the initial turnpike's extension from Weston into Boston and the Berkshire extension of the New York Thruway. Contracts for the latter already have been let.

The completed initial turnpike is 123 miles long and was constructed at a total cost of approximately $239 million. It extends from the New York line near West Stockbridge to join with circumferential highway Route 128 in Weston.

Over its entire length from the western border of the Commonwealth to the eastern terminus the turnpike offers the motorist a constantly changing view of Massachusetts scenery.

The initial turnpike is a divided highway throughout with a center strip 18 feet wide over much of its length, 6 feet wide on major bridges and certain other locations and wider than 18 feet where terrain and cost permitted.

★ ★ ★

The typical roadway section consists of two 12-foot lanes plus a 10-foot emergency lane in each direction. The 12.5-mile section between Route 128 and Route 9 west of Framingham has three 12-foot sections plus a 10-foot lane in each direction.

All bridges between Route 15 and Route 9 interchanges have been constructed to accommodate an ultimate six-lane turnpike. This will make it economical to add two lanes in the future.

A motorist traveling the entire initial turnpike will cross 200 bridges. Four of the bridges span the major rivers in Massachusetts the Quaboag, Chicopee, Connecticut and Westfield Rivers. All the bridges are "deck-type" in design. All portions of their structure, except parapet and railing, lie between the roadway. They are also equipped with sidewalks.

Eight Howard Johnson restaurants are spaced along the initial turnpike from Stockbridge to Weston. The restaurants are the latest in modern design and equipped with adequate parking facilities. Simple and safe traffic patterns have been installed at each of the restaurant areas. The patterns include acceleration and deceleration lanes, plus adequate signs and lighting. Estimated cost of the concessions: $10 million.

Six maintenance depots have been erected at strategic spots along the Turnpike. These depots house personnel and supplies for the Turnpike. One contains a central shop for complete servicing and repair of turnpike equipment—snow removal machines, two trucks and sanders.

The turnpike is constantly patrolled by State Police in two-way radio station wagon-ambulances—day and night—to furnish protection, service and assistance to turnpike-users.

A total of 14 interchanges are situated along the initial Turnpike linking the limited access highway with every major route serving the six New England states.

Interchange No. 2, for example, connects with Route 20 at East Lee to serve motorists traveling north to Vermont and south to Connecticut. Further east Interchange 9 provides another connection with Route 20—and Route 15—for traffic heading to and from Hartford and New York and points south and west.

Toll booths are established at the Interchanges. And a motorist receives a ticket as he enters the initial Turnpike. At whatever interchange he leaves the Turnpike, he surrenders the ticket and pays the toll assessed for his type of vehicle and the distance he traveled.

Toll collection equipment is the latest in design to speed toll-paying, to reduce delays to a minimum, and arranged for expansion as increasing traffic makes it necessary.

Mass. Turnpike Brings the Berkshires to Boston's Back Yard

It's Only Two-Hour Trip From Hub to Area Exits

PITTSFIELD — The beauty and culture of the Berkshires have been brought to Boston's back yard by the new cross-state thruway.

This area, according to John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference is already feeling the influx of one-day motorists from the Boston metropolitan area. He said many of the one - day vistitors have liked their first taste of the Berkshires and are now planning longer stays in the future.

The fact that it is only a two-hour thruway trip from Boston to the two Berkshire exits makes it possible for residents of the metropolitan area to leave their homes late in the afternoon, drive the 100-odd miles to the Berkshires, dine at one of the area's many attractive eating spots, take in a performance at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow or a playhouse and return to the Hub by a reasonable hour.

Tanglewood, of course, will be the featured attraction on the Berkshires' cultural menu this summer season. The Boston Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Charles Munch will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in the town of Lenox July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

Concerts by the full BSO in the 6,000-seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms (Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9-11).

At Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival off Route 20 in Becket, also a hoot and a holler from the MTA exit, this will be the silver jubilee year. The Pillow will open its 25th season July and run through Aug. 31 for a total of 54 performances.

In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, eight soloists from the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. For the opening week, Shawn has signed the Mary Anthony Dance Theater in the group work "Threnody," seen in New York this past season.

Modern music will be played at the Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox, just down the road from Tanglewood and a few minutes from the thruway exit.

NATURAL DISPLAYS

The Music Barn season will run from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be held every Sunday evening at 8:30; folk music concerts, every Saturday afternoon at 4. Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Dave Brubeck and Ella Fitzgerald are among the stars already signed for the Music Barn 1957 season.

The Berkshires also have two summer theaters. The Berkshire Playhouse will open its 26th 10-week season in Stockbridge June 24. The Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Right now one of New England's most colorful natural displays is in progress at Pittsfield State Forest on the outskirts of Central Berkshire city. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in the state forest atop a 2,000-foot peak in the Taconic Range. The area may be reached by car over a hard-surfaced road.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South St., Pittsfield, will provide free on request a circle tour map which outlines six suggested half-day motor trips through the Berkshires. The map gives detailed driving directions and descriptions of items of natural and historic interest.

If it's early American history you are interested in, a stop at the Mission House in Stockbridge is a must on any Berkshire tour. It was built in 1739 by the Rev. John Sergeant, first missionary to the Stockbridge Indians, and is open from May through November.

ROLLING Berkshire Hills form a pleasant backdrop for this quiet pastoral scene. Center is Mt. Greylock, rising 3,491 feet. It is highest mountain in Massachusetts.

Turnpike Spurs Berkshire Trade

The very first day of the Turnpike's operation in May had an impact on tourist services of Berkshire County. Not only did the Pike bring business to the inns and restaurants and service stations of the county, but there was an immediate and traceable reduction in truck traffic.

This report was made by Byrne Bauer, owner-manager of the 185-year old Red Lion Inn at Stockbridge. "We felt the benefits of the increased traffic the very first meal," he said. "And our Chief of Police William Collins had a counter to check traffic. He reported a 50 per cent reduction in the first three days."

dicts Banner pite Turnpike

To Compensate Loss

He took note of the recent Mohawk and Taconic Trail Assn. charge that the new cross-state turnpike has stolen traffic from the North Berkshire region, but said he thinks the toll road and an already expanded promotional program will bring in enough additional tourists to more than compensate for any possible over-all area loss.

Mr. Downing said he bases his prediction on a 20 per cent increase in inquiries from the Conference advertising-promotion program and on excellent reports from a cross-section of the county's tourist industries.

He said Business Manager William Martin of the Williamstown Summer Theater reports advance sales up and is looking for a "terrific year." Two North Berkshire motels report solid bookings for the coming Tanglewood season, Mr. Downing said.

"It appears that we are going to be successful in getting the tourists here in larger-than-usual numbers this year for stays of at least one day," said Mr. Downing.

"The Job Now"

"The job now," he said, "is to try and get them to stay longer than the one day."

Mr. Downing said the Conference this year is making increased use of a circle-tour folder designed to get the motorized vacationist to see all of Berkshire County.

The Conference executive said such comparatively new attractions as the Williamstown theater and Music Barn in Lenox, both in their third season, have done a lot for the county area as a whole in making it a more desirable vacation spot.

"The more things we have to do here the better everyone will make out," said Mr. Downing.

Answer to Turnpike

He suggested that additional attractions in the North Berkshire region might be one answer to the turnpike traffic competition.

Mr. Downing said reports of increased advance sales this year have been made to the Conference by boxoffice representatives at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Music Barn and the county's two summer theaters.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will open the annual six-week Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood Wednesday. Ted Shawn will open the Pillow's silver anniversary season tomorrow evening and the Williamstown theater will open Friday. The Music Barn summer schedule started yesterday.

'Pike Is Safest In the World

The Massachusetts Turnpike is designed as one of the safest in the world.

It's free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights, intersections and railroad crossings.

Eventually motorists will be able to travel from Boston to Buffalo, N. Y. without once stopping for a traffic light. This will be made possible with the completion of the Initial Turnpike's extension from Weston to Boston and the Berkshire extension of the New York Thruway. Contracts for the latter already have been let.

CHANGING VIEWS

The completed Initial Turnpike is 123 miles long and was constructed at a total cost of approximately $239 million. It extends from the New York line near West Stockbridge to join with circumferential highway Route 128 in Weston.

Over its entire length from the western border of the Commonwealth to the eastern terminus, the Turnpike offers the motorist a constantly changing view of Massachusetts scenery.

The Initial Turnpike is a divided highway throughout with a center strip 18 feet wide over much of its length, six feet wide on major bridges and certain other locations, and wider than 18 feet where terrain and cost permitted.

The typical roadway section consists of two 12-foot lanes, plus a ten foot emergency lane in each direction. The 12.5-mile section between Route 128 and Route 9 west of Framingham has three 12-foot sections plus a ten foot lane in each direction.

All bridges between Route 15 and Route 9 interchanges have been constructed to accommodate an ultimate six lane Turnpike. This will make it economical to add two lanes in the future.

A motorist traveling the entire Initial Turnpike will cross 200 bridges. Four of the bridges span the major rivers in Massachusetts—the Quaboag, Chicopee, Connetticut and Westfield Rivers. All the bridges are "deck-type" in design. All portions of their structure, except parapet and railing, lie below the roadway. They're also equipped with sidewalks.

Eight Howard Johnson restaurant are spaced along the Initial Turnpike from Stockbridge to Weston. The restaurants are the latest in modern design and equipped with adequate parking facilities. Simple and safe traffic patterns have been installed at each of the restaurant areas. The patterns include acceleration and deceleration lanes, plus adequate signs and lighting. Estimated cost of the concessions: $10 million.

TURNPIKE SUPPLIES

Six maintenance depots have been erected at strategic spots along the Turnpike. These depots house personnel and supplies for the Turnpike. One contains a central shop for complete servicing and repair of turnpike equipment—snow removal machines, tow trucks and sanders.

The turnpike is constantly patrolled by State Police in two-way radio station wagon-ambulances—day and night—to furnish protection, service and assistance to turnpike-users.

A total of 14 interchanges are situated along the Initial Turnpike linking the limited access highway with every major route serving the six New England states.

[50]

Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675
MAY 4 - 1957

Concertgoers, Sports Fans, and Campers to Benefit

East-West Pike to Unlock State to Bay Staters

By Albert D. Hughes
Staff Writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Eastern and western Massachusetts will be joined in closer economic, cultural, and physical ties with the opening of the Massachusetts Turnpike on May 15.

The just plain chore of highway traveling, which has long kept these two areas of the state in relative ignorance of each other's assets, will be lightened considerably with the toll-road opening.

Eastern and western regions will be within literally a two- to three-hour drive from each other. Boston itself will move to within three to four hours travel time from Albany and, thus, will become an easier "target" for motor tourists coming into New England from this New York gateway.

Similarly, in the reverse direction, Massachusetts will become less of a formidable travel barrier to New England motorists bound for Middle Atlantic and western points.

The travel-time barrier that has long caused metropolitan Boston residents to turn to the Cape, the North Shore, Maine, and New Hampshire for their vacation and recreation will be lifted.

No longer will eastern residents have to battle heavy traffic through [illegible] residential suburbs of Boston, the industrial complexes of Worcester and Springfield, or the mountainous and winding roads of the Berkshires [illegible] been crowded by "through" truck caravans between Boston and Albany.

Instead, the legal possibility of traveling from the Weston gateway of the turnpike to the Massachusetts - New York state line at West Stockbridge—123 miles in 123 minutes—opens a wealth of travel and recreation possibilities to Bay State motorists. Many of them are going to know their state for perhaps the first time.

Just consider one possibility—music—that some offhand might see little connection with the turnpike. It has long been a source of regret to musical Bostonians, many of them loyal patrons of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, that it is not convenient to attend the Berkshire Festival concerts in Lenox.

To be sure, enthusiasts often have made the trip out and back from Boston to Lenox in one evening to hear certain concerts. Real "dedicated" festivalers, of course, even take vacations out in the Berkshires in order to hear concerts.

That Bostonians cannot reach the festival easily is shown by the estimates of festival officials in Boston that about 85 per cent of concertgoers are from the New York-New Jersey area. In the course of four weekends and 12 formal concerts which comprise the festival, some 120,000 persons pass through the Tanglewood gates, of which a small proportion comes from Boston.

With the Turnpike opening there is every reason to believe that the loyal faces and sharp Boston accents will be mingled more than ever with the polyglot speech of New Yorkers at the concerts. According to inquiries already received at the Berkshire Festival office in Symphony Hall in Boston there is a basis for believing that "seacoast" attendance will augment sharply.

Also, take the case of the loyal Red Sox fan pent up in some Berkshire community. Comes warm weather and a convenient weekend and he wants to come down to the games in Boston—but it is a real chore.

Now he can more readily consider the trip, take his place in the grandstand or bleachers with the rest of the fans, berate the umpires, and consume hot dogs and soda. To the fan, baseball on TV is wonderful, better than no game, but nothing exceeds the excitement of personally standing up to watch the action when Ted Williams hits one over the fence with men on base, seeing a foul ball snagged, or watching a "rhubarb" at home plate.

With a Boston destination stretching promisingly before him, the Berkshire "hot stove leaguer" soon can jump into the old car and take in a game. Attendance at Fenway Park is expected to increase substantially because of this easier travel factor.

Say "mountains" and the average metropolitan Bostonian's thoughts fly to New Hampshire. The Granite State's hills are wonderful, and because of them New Hampshire is an adopted state for many Bay Staters. But it has tended to make Massachusetts residents forget that their own state has an excellent mountain region—the Berkshires—mountains that are an extension of the range that traverses Vermont from north to south.

Just off the turnpike at Lee, for instance, is October Mt. State Forest, largest state forest in Massachusetts, with hiking and bridle trails and a camping area only three miles from Lenox. To the south of the tollway near Stockbridge is Beartown State Forest, with hiking and bridle trails, picnic, swimming and camping areas.

Nearby, at Pittsfield, is the Pittsfield State Forest with picnic and swimming facilities, Berry Pond (highest fresh water lake in the state), and Berry Hill, popular for its views and the wild azalea blossoms which will be covering its top in late May or early June.

State Parks Galore

A Bay State motorist with an investigative bent also could visit Tolland State Forest, near Otis, with camping, picnicking, and beach facilities; Campbell Falls State Forest, a quiet but beautiful area near the Connecticut line at Southfield, with table spread before the falls; and Bash Bish Falls State Forest, near the New York line at Mt. Washington, containing the Bay State's most spectacular waterfalls.

The reverse side of this coin is that western Massachusetts residents will be able more readily to reach North and South Shore beaches and recreation areas. State parks include the Standish Monument Reservation at South Duxbury, with excellent views of the ocean from the monument and picnic tables scattered under the old pines on top of the hill; the Myles Standish State Forest, near Plymouth, with camp sites, picnic and beach facilities, log cabins and other sleeping facilities.

A folder, Massachusetts State Forests and State Parks, describing each area and its facilities, with the fees for parking and camping which are charged, is available from the Department of Natural Resources, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston.

The possibilities for Bay Staters to know their own state are enhanced by the coming turnpike opening.

Turnpike Provides Easier Access to Berkshire Festival

The opening of the Massachusetts Turnpike will greatly extend the opportunity for music lovers to attend the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox.

Concerts will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday each weekend from July 5 to Aug. 11. Dr. Charles Munch, the orchestra's music director, has announced complete programs for the season, which are available at Symphony Hall.

The first two week-ends will be devoted to Bach and Mozart, with Dr. Munch conducting a chamber orchestra. The first week-end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra will begin July 19.

An impressive list of guest conductors, soloists and choruses is included in the Summer-long program.

tion we will use our statistics."

Univac 120 will hand counting and auditing of 9000 punched cards per well as the preparation of charge accounts. It is ca handling as many as 12,500 card toll tickets per hou process up to 100,000 to through all accounting a ing steps in any eight-ho and complete a full week in 32 hours.

This capacity for expa
activities is planned to mands of an estimated ann ge of 20,800,000 which th pike Authority anticip 1965. When this volume is the Turnpike accounting o be handling approximate toll tickets each working

The study of traffic den be one of the most import tributions to the operatio
Turnpike, according to C
It will help to determin factors: assignment of c and maintenance controls.

The facts on every car essed at the toll exits transmitted to a remote r unit which will automatica the information on a tape

ROBOTS LINE THE WALL of this corridor tha across the turnpike under the toll booths at the W Interchange. Each car or truck that passes throu gate makes its own record automatically.

GLOBE May 12, 1957

Impact of Turnpike

The Eagle, July 3 1957

Traffic Patterns Changing, Goggins Tells Kiwanis Club

William J. Goggins, Berkshire district engineer for the state Department of Public Works, told members of the Kiwanis Club this afternoon that the recently-opened Massachusetts Turnpike already has had a significant impact on traffic patterns in sections of Berkshire County.

His traffic engineers have noted, for instance, that in June there was a 50 per cent decrease in Route 20 traffic in East Lee (the main Jacob's Ladder route to the east) and a 54 per cent decrease in Chester, also on Route 20.

On the other hand, he said, a recent check of traffic on Route 102 (from South Lee southwesterly through Stockbridge and West Stockbridge) shows that the Turnpike hasn't been as effective as expected in taking the trucks off the main streets of Stockbridge.

Truck Problem Not Solved

Of all the vehicular traffic on Route 102, he said, his engineers find that trucks were just as dominant last month as they were five years ago, if not more so. "Of course," he added, "there are a lot more trucks on the road today than there were five years ago, and we intend to make a numerical count in the near future. But the overall objective of pulling trucks off the main streets of Stockbridge has not been achieved."

Goggins observed that five years ago plans were implemented to build a divided highway between South Lee and West Stockbridge and the intent was to bypass Stockbridge. But, shortly after the job was started under state auspices, the Turnpike Authority was created and Turnpike officials agreed to buy the completed section of the bypass from the state. The Turnpike Authority, incidentally, still owes the state about $2,500,000 for that completed section of the bypass.

Goggins also advised the weekly Kiwanis luncheon audience that they could look forward to some "significant" highway relocations in the Berkshires in the next year.

One is relocation of Route 20 from Lee to the New York state line, and the other is relocations of Routes 7 and 2 in the Williamstown area.

Silent on Route 20 Relocation

On orders of Public Works Commissioner Carl E. Sheridan, Goggins could not give Kiwanians any details on the Route 20 relocation from Lebanon Mountain to a point about 400 feet north of the Lenox-Pittsfield line on the existing Route 20. The actual locations, he said, are not final and will be revealed only when public hearings are held for the benefit of interested parties.

The Route 2 relocation would bypass Williamstown on the south and the Route 7 relocation would bypass Williamstown to the east.

Another important highway job coming up for this area is the completion of a section of Route 9, running easterly from Col. A. D. Budd's estate in Windsor to a recently completed section of the highway in West Cummington. This would give east-bound traffic from Pittsfield an excellent four-lane highway from Dalton to Goshen. Plans are on the boards for completing Route 9 all the way into Northampton.

The district engineer also expects in the near future approval of a $50,000 design for traffic improvement at the Coltsville Corners circle. This money has been taken from a $200,000 allocation for the resurfacing of Route 7 through Lanesboro and New Ashford.

CUE, MAY 25, 1957

travel notes

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL

FOR THE 1957 Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood (July 3 - August 11) Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will emphasize three things: the music of one great composer each weekend; music of contemporary importance on the programs of each of the last four weekends; and performances with Isaac Stern of the three classics of the violin literature—the concertos of Beethoven, Tchaikovsky and Brahms.

The first two weekends of concerts will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will be devoted principally to music of Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven, in addition to other standard works. Charles Munch will conduct the concerts of the Bach-Mozart series and two concerts in each of the last four weeks, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will conduct other musical events.

Here is the rundown of major [illegible] as scheduled at this time. The [illegible] the principal artists are given at the beginning of each grouping.

[illegible] darkly that this was to save his "friends" and potential Presidential candidate Roosevelt from "embarrassment."

He sailed to France with ex-showgirl Betty Compton, whom he promptly married when his first wife Janet divorced him a year later. In 1936 he returned to New York, "broke." Ten years later, James J. Walker, aged 65, died, and was buried from St. Patrick's Cathedral. The whole city mourned its once-gay mayor.

It seems like yesterday. . . . And, incidentally, it was just 30 years ago, too, that a young actor named Lester Hope made his "legitimate stage" debut on Broadway, in a play called "The Sidewalks of New York." Today we call him Bob Hope, and he plays Jimmy Walker in "Beau James." Small world. . . .

THE BOSTON SUNDAY HERALD, MAY 12, 1957

14 INTERCHANGES ON TURNPIKE

There are 14 interchanges on the Massachusetts Turnpike.

No. 1 is in West Stockbridge at the west end of the pike; number 14 is at Weston on the East end.

Following is the complete list:

1—Mass. Route 8 in West Stockbridge.
2—U.S. Route 20 in East Lee, 12 miles south of Pittsfield.
3—U. S. Route 202 and Mass. Route 10, two miles north of Westfield.
4—U.S. Route 5, five miles north of Springfield.
5—Mass. Route 33, Chicopee.
6—Springfield connection, Burnett road, Chicopee.
7—Mass. Route 21, Ludlow.
8—Mass. Route 32, Palmer.
9—Junction of U.S. Route 20 and Mass. Route 15, Sturbridge.
10—Mass. Route 12, Auburn.
11—Mass. Route 122, Millbury.
12—[illegible] Route 9, two miles [illegible] Framingham center.
13—[illegible] Route 30 at Speen [illegible] near Framingham-Natick town line.
14—Mass. Route 128, one-half mile south of Route 30, in Weston.

[50]

Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675
MAY 4 - 1957

Concertgoers, Sports Fans, and Campers to Benefit

East-West Pike to Unlock State to Bay Staters

By Albert D. Hughes
Staff Writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Eastern and western Massachusetts will be joined in closer economic, cultural, and physical ties with the opening of the Massachusetts Turnpike on May 15.

The just plain chore of highway traveling, which has long kept these two areas of the state in relative ignorance of each other's assets, will be lightened considerably with the toll-road opening.

Eastern and western regions will be within literally a two- to three-hour drive from each other. Boston itself will move to within three to four hours travel time from Albany and, thus, will become an easier "target" for motor tourists coming into New England from this New York gateway.

Similarly, in the reverse direction, Massachusetts will become less of a formidable travel barrier to New England motorists bound for Middle Atlantic and western points.

The travel-time barrier that has long caused metropolitan Boston residents to turn to the Cape, the North Shore, Maine, and New Hampshire for their vacations and recreation will be lifted.

No longer will eastern residents have to battle heavy traffic [illegible] Presidential [illegible] to Worcester and Springfield. The mountainous and [illegible] roads of the Berkshires [illegible] have been crowded [illegible] through truck caravans between Boston and Albany.

Instead, the legal possibility of traveling from the Weston gateway of the turnpike to the Massachusetts-New York state line at West Stockbridge—123 miles in 123 minutes—opens a wealth of travel and recreation possibilities to Bay State motorists. Many of them are going to know their state for perhaps the first time.

Just consider one possibility—music—that some offhand might see little connection with the turnpike. It has long been a source of regret to musical Bostonians, many of them loyal patrons of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, that it is not convenient to attend the Berkshire Festival concerts in Lenox.

To be sure, enthusiasts often have made the trip out and back from Boston to Lenox in one evening to hear certain concerts. Real "dedicated" festivalers, of course, even take vacations out in the Berkshires in order to hear concerts.

That Bostonians cannot reach the festival easily is shown by the estimates of festival officials in Boston that about 85 per cent of concertgoers are from the New York-New Jersey area. In the course of four weekends and 12 formal concerts which comprise the festival, some 120,000 persons pass through the Tanglewood gates, of which a small proportion comes from Boston.

With the Turnpike opening there is every reason to believe that the loyal faces and sharp Boston accents will be mingled more than ever with the polyglot speech of New Yorkers at the concerts. According to inquiries already received at the Berkshire Festival office in Symphony Hall in Boston there is a basis for believing that "seacoast" attendance will augment sharply.

Also, take the case of the loyal Red Sox fan pent up in some Berkshire community. Comes warm weather and a convenient weekend and he wants to come down to the games in Boston—but it is a real chore.

Now he can more readily consider the trip, take his place in the grandstand or bleachers with the rest of the fans, berate the umpires, and consume hot dogs and soda. To the fan, baseball on TV is wonderful, better than no game, but nothing exceeds the excitement of personally standing up to watch the action when Ted Williams hits one over the fence with men on base, seeing a foul ball snagged, or watching a "rhubarb" at home plate.

With a Boston destination stretching promisingly before him, the Berkshire "hot stove leaguer" soon can jump into the old car and take in a game. Attendance at Fenway Park is expected to increase substantially because of this easier travel factor.

Say "mountains" and the average metropolitan Bostonian's thoughts fly to New Hampshire. The Granite State's hills are wonderful, and because of them New Hampshire is an adopted state for many Bay Staters. But it has tended to make Massachusetts residents forget that their own state has an excellent mountain region—the Berkshires—mountains that are an extension of the range that traverses Vermont from north to south.

Just off the turnpike at Lee, for instance, is October Mt. State Forest, largest state forest in Massachusetts, with hiking and bridle trails and a camping area only three miles from Lenox. To the south of the tollway near Stockbridge is Beartown State Forest, with hiking and bridle trails, picnic, swimming and camping areas.

Nearby, at Pittsfield, is the Pittsfield State Forest with picnic and swimming facilities, Berry Pond (highest fresh water lake in the state), and Berry Hill, popular for its views and the wild azalea blossoms which will be covering its top in late May or early June.

State Parks Galore

A Bay State motorist with an investigative bent also could visit Tolland State Forest, near Otis, with camping, picnicking, and beach facilities; Campbell Falls State Forest, a quiet but beautiful area near the Connecticut line at Southfield, with table spread before the falls; and Bash Bish Falls State Forest, near the New York line at Mt. Washington, containing the Bay State's most spectacular waterfalls.

The reverse side of this coin is that western Massachusetts residents will be able more readily to reach North and South Shore beaches and recreation areas. State parks include the Standish Monument Reservation at South Duxbury, with excellent views of the ocean from the monument and picnic tables scattered under the old pines on top of the hill; the Myles Standish State Forest, near Plymouth, with camp sites, picnic and beach facilities, log cabins and other sleeping facilities.

A folder, Massachusetts State Forests and State Parks, describing each area and its facilities, with the fees for parking and camping which are charged, is available from the Department of Natural Resources, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston.

The possibilities for Bay Staters to know their own state are enhanced by the coming turnpike opening.

Turnpike Provides Easier Access to Berkshire Festival

The opening of the Massachusetts Turnpike will greatly extend the opportunity for music lovers to attend the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox.

Concerts will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday each weekend from July 5 to Aug. 11. Dr. Charles Munch, the orchestra's music director, has announced complete programs for the season, which are available at Symphony Hall.

The first two week-ends will be devoted to Bach and Mozart, with Dr. Munch conducting a chamber orchestra. The first week-end of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra will begin July 19.

An impressive list of guest conductors, soloists and choruses is included in the Summer-long program.

[illegible] will use [illegible] our statistics."

Univac 120 will handle counting and auditing of [illegible] 9000 punched cards per [illegible] well as the preparation of [illegible] charge accounts. It is capable handling as many as 12,500 card toll tickets per hour, process up to 100,000 toll [illegible] through all accounting and [illegible] ing steps in any eight-hour [illegible] and complete a full week's [illegible] in 32 hours.

This capacity for expansion [illegible] activities is planned to meet [illegible] mands of an estimated annual [illegible] of 20,800,000 which the Turnpike Authority anticipates [illegible] 1965. When this volume is reached, the Turnpike accounting office will be handling approximately [illegible] toll tickets each working day.

The study of traffic demands will be one of the most important contributions to the operation of the Turnpike, according to Charles [illegible]. It will help to determine [illegible] factors: assignment of equipment and maintenance controls.

The facts on every car processed at the toll exits will be transmitted to a remote recording unit which will automatically record the information on a tape.

ROBOTS LINE THE WALL of this corridor that [illegible] across the turnpike under the toll booths at the West [illegible] Interchange. Each car or truck that passes through a toll gate makes its own record automatically.

GLOBE May 12, 1957

Impact of Turnpike

The Eagle, July 3, 1957

Traffic Patterns Changing, Goggins Tells Kiwanis Club

William J. Goggins, Berkshire district engineer for the state Department of Public Works, told members of the Kiwanis Club this afternoon that the recently-opened Massachusetts Turnpike already has had a significant impact on traffic patterns in sections of Berkshire County.

His traffic engineers have noted, for instance, that in June there was a 50 per cent decrease in Route 20 traffic in East Lee (the main Jacob's Ladder route to the east) and a 24 per cent decrease in Chester, also on Route 20.

On the other hand, he said, a recent check of traffic on Route 102 (from South Lee southwesterly through Stockbridge and West Stockbridge) shows that the Turnpike hasn't been as effective as expected in taking the trucks off the main streets of Stockbridge.

Truck Problem Not Solved

Of all the vehicular traffic on Route 102, he said, his engineers find that trucks were just as dominant last month as they were five years ago. If not more so. "Of course," he added, "there are a lot more trucks on the road today than there were five years ago, and we intend to make a numerical count in the near future. But the overall objective of pulling trucks off the main streets of Stockbridge has not been achieved."

Goggins observed that five years ago plans were implemented to build a divided highway between South Lee and West Stockbridge and the intent was to bypass Stockbridge. But shortly after the job was started under state auspices, the Turnpike Authority was created and Turnpike officials agreed to buy the completed section of the bypass from the state. The Turnpike Authority, incidentally, still owes the state about $2,500,000 for that completed section of the bypass.

Goggins also advised the weekly Kiwanis luncheon audience that they could look forward to some "significant" highway relocations in the Berkshires in the next year.

One is relocation of Route 20 from Lee to the New York state line, and the other is relocations of Routes 7 and 2 in the Williamstown area.

Silent on Route 20 Relocation

On orders of Public Works Commissioner Carl E. Sheridan, Goggins could not give Kiwanians any details on the Route 20 relocation from Lebanon Mountain to a point about 400 feet north of the Lenox-Pittsfield line on the existing Route 20. The actual locations, he said, are not final and will be revealed only when public hearings are held for the benefit of interested parties.

The Route 2 relocation would bypass Williamstown on the south and the Route 7 relocation would bypass Williamstown to the east.

Another important highway job coming up for this area is the completion of a section of Route 9, running easterly from Col. A. D. Budd's estate in Windsor to a recently completed section of the highway in West Cummington. This would give east-bound traffic from Pittsfield an excellent four-lane highway from Dalton to Goshen. Plans are on the boards for completing Route 9 all the way into Northampton.

The district engineer also expects in the near future approval of a $50,000 design for traffic improvement at the Coltsville Corners circle. This money has been taken from a $200,000 allocation for the resurfacing of Route 7 through Lanesboro and New Ashford.

THE BOSTON SUNDAY HERALD, MAY 12,

14 INTERCHANGES ON T

There are 14 interchanges on the Massachusetts Turnpike.

No. 1 is in West Stockbridge at the west end of the 'pike; number 14 is at Weston on the east end.

Following is the complete list:

1—Mass. Route 41 in West Stockbridge.

2—U.S. Route 20 in East Lee, 12 miles south of Pittsfield.

3—U. S. Route 202 and Mass. Route 10, two miles north of Westfield.

4—U.S. Route 5, five miles north of Springfield.

5—Mass. Route 33, Chicopee.

6—Springfield connection, Burnett road, Chicopee.

7—Mass. Route 21, Ludlow.

8—Mass. Route 32, Palmer.

9—Junction of U.S. Route 20 and [illegible] mile south of Route 30, in Weston.

CUR... MAY 25, 1957

travel notes

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL

For the 1957 Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood (July 3 - August 11) Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will emphasize three things: the music of one great composer each weekend; music of contemporary importance on the programs of each of the last four weekends; and, performances with Isaac Stern of the three classics of the violin literature—the concertos of Beethoven, Tchaikovsky and Brahms.

The first two weekends of concerts will be all Bach and all Mozart respectively. The four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will be devoted principally to music of Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven, in addition to other standard works. Charles Munch will conduct the concerts of the Bach-Mozart series and two concerts in each of the last four weeks. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will conduct the other musical events.

Here is the rundown of major events as scheduled at this time. The names of the principal artists are given at the end of each grouping.

July 3, 10, 17, 24, and August 7—Mozart Chamber Music Concert, Theatre Concert Hall, the program which will be announced later.

July 5, 6, 7—All Bach [illegible] including six Brandenburg Concertos, [illegible] the St. Matthew Passion. Charles [illegible]

July 12, 13, 14—All Mozart [illegible] four symphonies (including [illegible] serenades, concertos and arias. Charles Munch. (Choral works by Hugh Ross.)

July 19, 20, 21—Tchaikovsky, two [illegible] ies and the [illegible] Violin Concerto. Charles Munch, [illegible]

July 26, [illegible] 28—Berlioz, "L'Enfance Christ" [illegible] chorus and soloists; [illegible] in Italy" [illegible] Fantastic Symphony. Charles [illegible] Munch.

August 2, [illegible] Tragic Overture and Haydn Variations and Violin Concerto. Charles Munch, Carl Schuricht, Isaac Stern.

August 9, 10, 11—Beethoven, two symphonies, including Symphony No. 9 with chorus and soloists, Violin Concerto. Charles Munch, Carl Schuricht, Isaac Stern.

The Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. will sell you tickets: $110 for a box seating six, and single admissions good for three concerts each, from $6 to $15. Evening concerts start at 8:30, Sunday afternoons at 2:30. Advance reservations are suggested.

For stays of more than one night, you should contact the Berkshire Hills Conference, Pittsfield 26, Mass. (Pittsfield 2-7437 or 6406). Shorter stays can be arranged on arrival through the local information bureaus of Pittsfield, Lenox, Stockbridge, Great Barrington, North Adams and Williamstown.

—Eric Mann

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUN 18 1957

The Lively Arts

By Milton R. Bass

ANXIOUS to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the new Turnpike, I drove to Boston recently to seek out the cultural opportunities offered by that historic area. There has been a great deal said about how the new superhighway will open the Berkshires to the South Boston music and nature lovers, but little weight has been added to the other side of the scale. Therefore, I journeyed not as a simple, curious citizen, but as a pioneer dedicated to opening the great civilization to the wilderness.

* * *

I SEARCHED Boston and environs with a fervor unmatched since the Middle Ages, and made a discovery that will inspire the whole of Berkshire County to clog the eastern end of the Turnpike in a way that will make the recent western nightmare seem dreamy by comparison.

Boston has innumerable historic, cultural and gastronomic attractions, but I will leave those for the Happels to describe. I am here myself today to speak to you about rejuvenation, renaissance, phoenixes rising from the ashes, Art triumphing over bourgeois' materialism. Hearken to my message:

* * *

BURLESQUE still lives in Boston. There were lamentations and tears of nostalgia a few years ago when the Old Howard, a burlesque landmark in the commonwealth of Massachusetts, closed its doors on the hordes of Harvard boys who considered the place a required course. There were those who claimed Boston would become a ghost town. (There are those who claim it is.)

The situation was dormant for a couple of years, and then an enterprising businessman, fearful for the future of his beloved community, brought burlesque back to the city at the Casino Theater off Scollay Square. This is not roadhouse burlesque with an exotic dancer peeling to a few drum beats, but real, honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned burlesque in the classical style.

* * *

NOT WISHING to fire until I could see the whites of their eyes, I had an influential friend pull strings and secured seats right down front where I could report on the contemporary status of the art form. There were seven in the party, four males and three females, and with the exception of one of the females, we all enjoyed the prima ecdysiasts, the vintage comedians, the chorines who were never quite sure which was the best foot to put forward and the intermission huckster who was the closest thing to a human talking machine these eyes have ever seen.

The maverick member of our party found the whole show "degrading and disgusting," something fit only for the "morons who were present." When it was pointed out that we were among the "morons" present, she won the argument for her side by bursting into tears and silencing the opposition.

* * *

THE VEHEMENCE of her reaction to the show caused me to shinny up on a cloud with Clarence Crandall and reflect on burlesque, its why and wherefores. Burlesque goes back before the first recording of history and down through the ages it pops up in strange and exotic places. It is a feminine weapon in the battle for existence. John the Baptist lost his head over Salome's seventh veil. Gypsy Rose Lee in a recent interview about her status as an author commented, "Royalties are nice and all that, but shaking the beads brings in money quicker."

You can write all you want about burlesque as an art form, but even the most ardent admirer will have to admit that it appeals solely to the baser instincts of man. There is much more of the naked than the nude in its technique. The comedy skits connected with the stripping are lewdly suggestive, crude and vulgar. Many great comedians have been spawned in its hotel bedroom and hospital skits, but this does not affect the statistics of juvenile delinquency. We must just face the fact that burlesque is raw, raucous and rowdy, and that a lot of people like it that way.

* * *

THE IMPORTANT thing is that when Tanglewood opens, the Turnpike is going to be jammed on one side with people rushing to the concerts. Therefore, it is our bounden duty to see that the other section of the road gets its fare share so that the toll takers do not become slow and slack in their duties. Therefore, what better plan than for us to zip into Boston for the burlesque while the beaners are here for the symphony.

In this way everything will be balanced out beautifully according to what has become known as the Bass Law of Burley. Infractors will be prosecuted to the full extent of their inhibitions and guilt complexes.

AUTO TOURS

Turnpike Fills Need In Mass.

By GENE GRAF

The Massachusetts Turnpike is the latest addition to the roster of fine toll highways which speed the traveler along his way in this section of the country.

It opened only a few weeks ago. Recently I toured it from one end to the other to supply a first hand report.

I got on the turnpike at the Boston end and followed it west, as part of a long way home trip to Cape Cod. The road starts at Weston on Massachusetts 128, which is a freeway skirting all around Boston.

SINCLAIR Tour Bureau mapped a route from Cape Cod for me that followed Route 3 along the coast to an intersection with Route 128. This included a little jog to stop at Plymouth where the Mayflower II will be anchored.

The turnpike runs 123 miles across the state and is about the last word in superhighway construction. From Weston, it runs in a general west southwesterly direction, passing north of Framingham and south of Worcester.

At about Sturbridge it hooks up with Wilbur Cross Parkway, the toll road running up through Connecticut from the Merritt-Hutchinson River Parkway connection from New York City.

This link-up with the new highway will save both time and mileage for New Yorkers on trips to and from the Boston area. I turned up the quick route home and went on along the new road.

•

THE TURNPIKE, which carries the official designation Disabled American Veterans Highway, is built to the highest U.S. Road Bureau standards. The opposing traffic streams are divided. There are three lanes each way as far as Framingham and two lanes the rest of the way.

I found the hills very slight and the curves well banked so there is no trouble maintaining the legal 60 mile speed limit.

When new toll roads are built, many people often wonder what the reason for them is, and wouldn't the old route do just as well? In this case, the alternate route across Massachusetts is a twisting, outmoded Route 20, which is no match for today's highway needs.

•

ON THE WESTERN end, the Massachusetts Turnpike ends at the New York border near the village called State Line. A direct link with the New York State Thruway is under construction, but for the present, the motorist must put up with existing old roads—which are really not too bad.

You can get on the Thruway by going through Albany. I followed Route 22 south to Route 44, then to Taconic State Parkway.

In summary, I would say the new Massachusetts road is a definite plus for motoring through New England. With the existing traffic-light-free turnpikes, it provides a dream route from New York City all the way to Augusta, Me.

•

If you would like a vacation trip that includes the Massachusetts Turnpike, or a vacation routing to just about any place, drop me a line. Sinclair Tour Bureau is ready and waiting to work for you.

Write: Gene Graf, Auto Editor, New York Mirror, 235 East 45th St., New York 17, N. Y.

And don't forget to look in next week. I'm heading for the Catskills and will have a report on what's new in motoring there.

anticipating and understanding the needs of the flying public.

"People are people here and in France, and everywhere," says the pretty hostess. Asked if she had any "trouble" with American men on her flights she smiled warmly and shook her head no.

RESORTS
Wildwood, N. J.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO...
WILDWOOD
By-the-Sea • NEW JERSEY
"FUN in the SUN"
via the beautiful GARDEN STATE PARKWAY
Just 3 hours from New York
Write Bureau of Public Relations for Free Booklet and Hotel, Motel & Apartment Directory WORLD'S FINEST AND SAFEST BATHING BEACH

Hotel Oceanic
On Beach Front
OCEAN and BURK AVES.
Private balconies overlooking beach and ocean. Ultra modern. Fabulous lounge. Recreation room. Free covered parking. Ceramic tiled baths — tub and shower. Informal, come-as-you-are atmosphere. Just a few feet to tennis and shuffleboard courts. Modest rates include delicious meals. Dining room open until September 16th. September rates only $37.50 up per week. European plan available. Write for folder or phone 2-5694. Owner-managed — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oster.

MARYLAND HALL
WILDWOOD AVE., AT THE BEACH
Modernly furnished rooms. Private or semi-private baths. Hot and cold water. Air Conditioned rooms optional. Television. Coffee Shop. Free parking. Central. Near R.R. and Bus. Modest rates . . . Write for color brochure. Phone 2-8064 or 2-5705. C. Masciarella.

THE TIDES Inn
305-307 E. Pine Ave. Half Block to Beach
AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN PLAN
Private baths. Hot and cold water all rooms. Free Parking. Bathe from Hotel. Central. Rates and folder on request. Reserve early. Owner-manager, Roy Harro Jr., Ph. 2-2541.

ROOSEVELT
26th and Atlantic Ave., near Beach & Boardwalk
Wildwood-by-the-Sea, N. J.
$31.50 American Plan. Includes all meals. For week, per person. 2 in a room.
FREE PARKING & BATHING
Meshal, Owner-Mgt. Phone Wildwood 2-7422

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUN 18 1957

The Lively Arts

By Milton R. Bass

ANXIOUS to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the new Turnpike, I drove to Boston recently to seek out the cultural opportunities offered by that historic area. There has been a great deal said about how the new superhighway will open the Berkshires to the South Boston music and nature lovers, but little weight has been added to the other side of the scale. Therefore, I journeyed not as a simple, curious citizen, but as a pioneer dedicated to opening the great civilization to the wilderness.

* * *

I SEARCHED Boston and environs with a fervor unmatched since the Middle Ages, and made a discovery that will inspire the whole of Berkshire County to clog the eastern end of the Turnpike in a way that will make the recent western nightmare seem dreamy by comparison.

Boston has innumerable historic, cultural and gastronomic attractions, but I will leave those for the Happels to describe. I am here myself today to speak to you about rejuvenation, renaissance, phoenixes rising from the ashes, Art triumphing over bourgeois' materialism. Hearken to my message:

* * *

BURLESQUE still lives in Boston. There were lamentations and tears of nostalgia a few years ago when the Old Howard, a burlesque landmark in the commonwealth of Massachusetts, closed its doors on the hordes of Harvard boys who considered the place a required course. There were those who claimed Boston would become a ghost town. (There are those who claim it is.)

The situation was dormant for a couple of years, and then an enterprising businessman, fearful for the future of his beloved community, brought burlesque back to the city at the Casino Theater off Scollay Square. This is not roadhouse burlesque with an exotic dancer peeling to a few drum beats, but real, honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned burlesque in the classical style.

* * *

NOT WISHING to fire until I could see the whites of their eyes, I had an influential friend pull strings and secured seats right down front where I could report on the contemporary status of the art form. There were seven in the party, four males and three females, and with the exception of one of the females, we all enjoyed the prima ecdysiasts, the vintage comedians, the chorines who were never quite sure which was the best foot to put forward and the intermission huckster who was the closest thing to a human talking machine these eyes have ever seen.

The maverick member of our party found the whole show "degrading and disgusting," something fit only for the "morons who were present." When it was pointed out that we were among the "morons" present, she won the argument for her side by bursting into tears and silencing the opposition.

* * *

THE VEHEMENCE of her reaction to the show caused me to shinny up on a cloud with Clarence Crandall and reflect on burlesque, its why and wherefores. Burlesque goes back before the first recording of history and down through the ages it pops up in strange and exotic places. It is a feminine weapon in the battle for existence. John the Baptist lost his head over Salome's seventh veil. Gypsy Rose Lee in a recent interview about her status as an author commented, "Royalties are nice and all that, but shaking the beads brings in money quicker."

You can write all you want about burlesque as an art form, but even the most ardent admirer will have to admit that it appeals solely to the baser instincts of man. There is much more of the naked than the nude in its technique. The comedy skits connected with the stripping are lewdly suggestive, crude and vulgar. Many great comedians have been spawned in its hotel bedroom and hospital skits, but this does not affect the statistics of juvenile delinquency. We must just face the fact that burlesque is raw, raucous and rowdy, and that a lot of people like it that way.

* * *

THE IMPORTANT thing is that when Tanglewood opens, the Turnpike is going to be jammed on one side with people rushing to the concerts. Therefore, it is our bounden duty to see that the other section of the road gets its fare share so that the toll takers do not become slow and slack in their duties. Therefore, what better plan than for us to zip into Boston for the burlesque while the beaners are here for the symphony.

In this way everything will be balanced out beautifully according to what has become known as the Bass Law of Burley. Infractors will be prosecuted to the full extent of their inhibitions and guilt complexes.

R 16 RESORTS • NEW YORK MIRROR, SUNDAY, JUNE 16, 1957

AUTO TOURS

Turnpike Fills Need In Mass.

By GENE GRAF

The Massachusetts Turnpike is the latest addition to the roster of fine toll highways which speed the traveler along his way in this section of the country.

It opened only a few weeks ago. Recently I toured it from one end to the other to supply a first hand report.

I got on the turnpike at the Boston end and followed it west, as part of a long-way-home trip to Cape Cod. The road starts at Weston on Massachusetts 128, which is a freeway skirting all around Boston.

SINCLAIR Tour Bureau mapped a route from Cape Cod for me that followed Route 3 along the coast to an intersection with Route 128. This included a little jog to stop at Plymouth where the Mayflower II will be anchored.

The turnpike runs 123 miles across the state and is about the last word in superhighway construction. From Weston, it runs in a general west southwesterly direction, passing of Framingham and sou Worcester.

At about Sturbridge it up with Wilbur Cross Par the toll road running up th Connecticut from the M Hutchinson River Parkway nection from New York C

This link-up with the highway will save both ti mileage for New Yorke trips to and from the area. I up the quic home and on along t road.

THE TURNPIKE, whi ries the official designati abled American Veteran way, is built to the high Road Bureau standards. posing traffic streams vided. There are three lan way as far as Framingh two lanes the rest of the

I found the hills very and the curves well ba there is no trouble mai the legal 60 mile speed li

When new toll roads a many people often wond the reason for them wouldn't the old route do well? In this case, the s route across Massachuse twisting, outmoded Ro which is no match for highway needs.

ON THE WESTERN Massachusetts Turnpike the New York border village called State Line. link with the New Yo Thruway is under cons but for the present, the must put up with exis roads—which are really bad.

You can get on the by going through Alba lowed Route 22 south 44, then to Taconic St way.

In summary, I would new Massachusetts road finite plus for motoring New England. With the traffic-light-free turnp provides a dream rou New York City all the Augusta, Me.

If you would like a vac that includes the Mass Turnpike, or a vacation to just about any place a line. Sinclair's tour B ready and waiting to you.

Write: Gene Graf, Aut New York Mirror, 235 E St., New York 17, N. Y.

And don't forget to next week. I'm heading Catskills and will have on what's new in motorli

NEWARK, N. J.
NEWS
Circ. D. 275,829 - S. 321,395
JUN 23 1957

Vacation Patterns In Massachusetts

The patterns from which vacations in Massachusetts are woven are of unrivaled variety. They are tailored to fit active sports or quiet relaxation. The weaving shuttles also make a strong design of comfortable lodgings to meet every purse.

Pattern No. 1 — A beautiful 1,800-mile coastline with everything the ideal seashore holiday implies. There are sunny beaches by the score with swimming in a clean, invigorating ocean where you may choose vigorous surf or sheltered waters, sun-bathing beach parties and cookouts, thrilling rides over the sand and dunes in beach buggies. Sport fishing is unequalled: surfcasting for striped bass, bluefish or pollock; trolling from a boat for these same species plus mackerel, bluefin tuna, marlin; still-fishing for the tasty bottom feeders. A dividend to this fishing is participation in any of the half dozen fishing derbies held during the summer and fall in which valuable prizes are awarded weekly, monthly or seasonal grand awards. There is boating of every description, from skiffs, to outboards to charter party boats, and the sailing regattas for which Massachusetts is famous.

The Berkshires

Pattern No. 2—The unspoiled beauty of the Berkshire Hills and Pioneer Valley at the western end of the state. Clear lakes and streams, many with excellent fishing and the former offering boating and swimming. These wooded hills and fertile valleys provide as many varied opportunities for diversion as the seashore for those who enjoy the inland region.

Pattern No. 3—The Bay State's treasure house of historic landmarks where early Americana really comes alive. Bay State citizens, down through the years, have taken pride in the preservation of these shrines and they are visited by hundreds of thousands annually. Bunker Hill, Faneuil Hall, Plymouth Rock, House of Seven Gables, Lexington, Concord, Old North Church, Paul Revere's birthplace, Old Deerfield, ancient burying grounds, Old Ironsides, all are names familiar from childhood's earliest recollections that retain their magic to this day.

Pattern No. 4—Cultural opportunities are numerous. Berkshire Music Festival, held at the lovely Tanglewood Estate in Lenox, draws music lovers from far and wide to enjoy the weekend concerts presented by the famous Boston Symphony Orchestra during July and August. In this connection there is the Berkshire Music Center where talented young musicians gather to further their studies under the finest of instructors. The Bay State's summer art colonies have been recognized as outstanding for generations at Gloucester, Rockport, Provincetown and Nantucket. Schools for all types of art are conducted by outstanding artists from late June through Labor Day.

Pattern No. 5—Wide range of entertainment, such as summer theaters, the newly popular music circus, clambakes, golf, tennis, hiking, picnicking, dancing, night-clubbing will be found throughout the resort areas. Old Sturbridge Village, a recreated Colonial community, is a living museum of the early 18th century. Its 30 dwellings, inn, mill, church and other buildings house unusual collections and skilled artisans demonstrate many of the handcrafts.

Strongly interwoven throughout the design will be found the finest of hospitality in the widest possible range of hotels, inns, guest homes, modern motels and tourist courts. Prices start at $2 per person at guest homes and tourist courts to $10 per day American plan or $5 European plan in other lodging establishments. Scores of new cottage colonies have sprung up within the past few years to meet an ever increasing demand, most of these being comfortably furnished and with housekeeping facilities. These cottages start at $45 to $50 per week with accommodations for a single couple, for families or parties.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Boston Business
BOSTON, Mass.
Monthly . Ch. of Com.
Circ. 6,000
JUN 1957

[52]

The Berkshires

THE Berkshires and Boston are a study in scenic contrast. You can leave the harbor, the ships and the beaches of the coast and in two and a half hours by car be in the cool, pine-scented air of steep hills. The Berkshires have practically been moved to Boston's backyard by the advent of the new East-West Highway.

One thing, however, remains constant: the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Here in famous Tanglewood, the summer camping grounds of the orchestra, Charles Munch conducts weekend concerts amid swaying trees and cool lawns.

You can savor chamber music or orchestra, aria or solo violin. You can get seats in a covered amphitheatre or lounge on the grass as you listen. A word of caution, tickets should be bought in advance if you want a seat because the concert months of July and August are very popular.

If, you want entertainment, but not symphony music, you can go to Lenox to look at an exhibition by local artists, or up to Jacob's Pillow to see the girls in modern dances, or out to the Berkshire Garden Center, or up to Music Mountain for the string quartets. If you want drama, try the Stockbridge Playhouse.

The arts are strong in this area. If you don't believe it go to Hagyard's drugstore, in the center of Lenox. You will probably find a young enthusiast playing Mozart on a Juke box and everyone will be listening while polishing off a second soda.

For the "great outdoors" there are over 73,000 acres of state forests, 13 rivers, 59 lakes, 23 camping areas and 14 golf courses.

You can fish in the streams or lakes, ride horseback—or just picnic. If you like to climb and hike [illegible], the highest [illegible]usetts stand- [illegible]he middle of [illegible]n miles from [illegible] trails lacing [illegible] the top of a [illegible]ke to climb, [illegible]s. You can go to the top and picnic, see for miles into New York and Vermont, get back in the car and coast down.

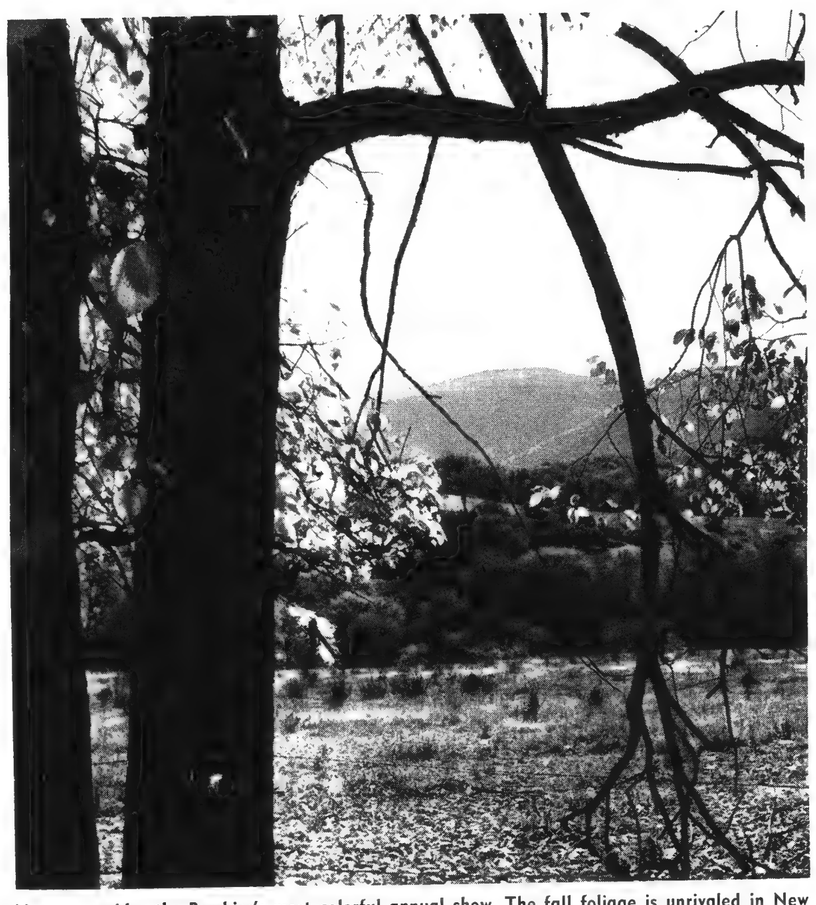
If you have a car you will enjoy the scenic wonder of the Mohawk Trail. Winding, soaring, falling, this trail follows a path first used by the Mohawk indians. With its clear rushing streams and lush stands of pine, birch, oak and maple, it compresses great visual grandeur and historical allusion into its thirty-eight paved miles.

In the Fall people travel from all over the East, drive to one of the summits, and gasp at the unbelievable carpet of Autumn golds, oranges and scarlets stretched before them.

There are accommodations during both summer and ski seasons. Over 40 hotels and inns, 35 guest houses and motels (most of the latter equipped with TV and several near swimming pools and ponds) can be found here.

The Berkshires also boast the most famous country fair in the nation: the Great Barrington Fair. Here, in the middle of September, you will find horse racing and corn husking plus all the other events and competitions that go to make Fall exciting in the country.

In Williamstown you can see one of the truly lovely college campuses in the nation. Here also you will find the Clark Art Institute, open free to the public six days a week (closed Mondays) the year around. In it you can see paintings by Degas, Renoir, Sargent, Winslow, Homer and many others. This museum is one of many rare gems set by nature and man in the Berkshires.



Nature provides the Bershire's most colorful annual show. The fall foliage is unrivaled in New England. In the background in this photo is Mount Greylock, highest peak in Massachusetts.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUN 9 1957

Berkshires Have Varied Attractions

LENOX, Mass.

One may be active or lazy, as whim dictates, in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts. Throughout the region there is swimming, sailing, fishing, riding, golfing, tennis, hiking, picnicking in the beautiful state forests, and other sports, as well as many activities for the spectator.

Outstanding among the cultural offerings is the Berkshire Symphonic Festival at Tanglewood under the direction of Charles Munch. Mr. Munch and guest conductors will present a series of concerts of the great masters each week end. During the week instrumental, choral and operatic performances are presented daily in the Music Center.

BALTIMORE, MD.
AMERICAN
Circ. S. 322,925
JUN 23 1957

Symphony Is Travel Lure

Believe it or not, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, considered one of the nation's top music groups, is a big tourist attraction in the summer in Massachusetts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

This will be the twentieth summer season, of six successive week ends of concerts, the first two by a chamber orchestra in a 1,200-seat hall, and the final four weeks with the full orchestra in a 6,000 seat "music shed."

While we in Baltimore struggle to keep our Symphony alive, it is interesting to see what a big attraction Boston's orchestra is not only to New England people, but to the whole traveling public, who are being circularized to attend these week end concerts.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
MIRROR
Circ. D. 897,711 - S. 1,559,216
JUN 9 1957

Mass. Opens Info Office Here

A New York office of the Massachusetts Department of Commerce has been opened in Rockefeller Center. It is now possible to obtain complete information regarding points of interest in Massachusetts.

Included are such places as historic Boston with its narrow cobble-stone streets, picturesque shops and restaurants, its concerts, and its art galleries.

There is Salem, with its House of Seven Gables and Old Witch Jail; Gloucester, from whose port ships have gone to sea for more than 300 years; Marblehead, widely-known yachting center; Rockport, mecca and haven for artists; Newburyport, Ipswich and the pilgrim ports of Quincy, Weymouth and Plymouth.

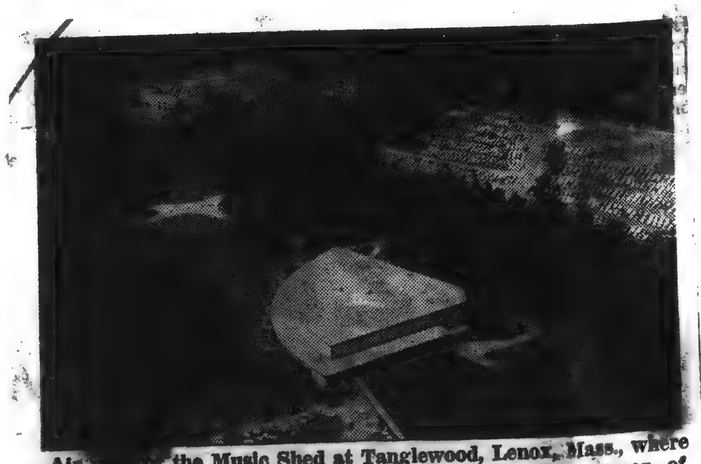
Massachusett's renowned Cape Cod and its two neighboring islands, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, are well represented among the literature available in the new office.

CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS offers the visitor other welcome surprises including Sturbridge Village and Storrowtown, Pioneer Valley, Old Deerfield and famous Mohawk Trail.

Massachusetts also boasts the Berkshires region and its world-famous music festival. The Berkshires contain 73,098 acres of state forests, 13 rivers, 59 lakes, 23 camping areas, 14 golf courses, and 16 Winter sports areas.

At the Tanglewood estate, a superb natural setting, music-lovers share the music of the world's greatest composers played by the Boston Symphony.

For information and pamphlets on where to go and see in Massachusetts, write or call Massachusetts State Development Commission, 630 Fifth Ave.



Air [illegible] the Music Shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., where the [illegible]ton Symphony Orchestra presents its 20th season of music for six weeks from July 8 to August 11.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Boston Business
BOSTON, Mass.
Monthly . Ch. of Com.
Circ. 6,000
JUN 1957

[52]

The Berkshires

THE Berkshires and Boston are a study in scenic contrast. You can leave the harbor, the ships and the beaches of the coast and in two and a half hours by car be in the cool, pine-scented air of steep hills. The Berkshires have practically been moved to Boston's backyard by the advent of the new East-West Highway.

One thing, however, remains constant: the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Here in famous Tanglewood, the summer camping grounds of the orchestra, Charles Munch conducts weekend concerts amid swaying trees and cool lawns.

You can savor chamber music or orchestra, aria or solo violin. You can get seats in a covered amphitheatre or lounge on the grass as you listen. A word of caution, tickets should be bought in advance if you want a seat because the concert months of July and August are very popular.

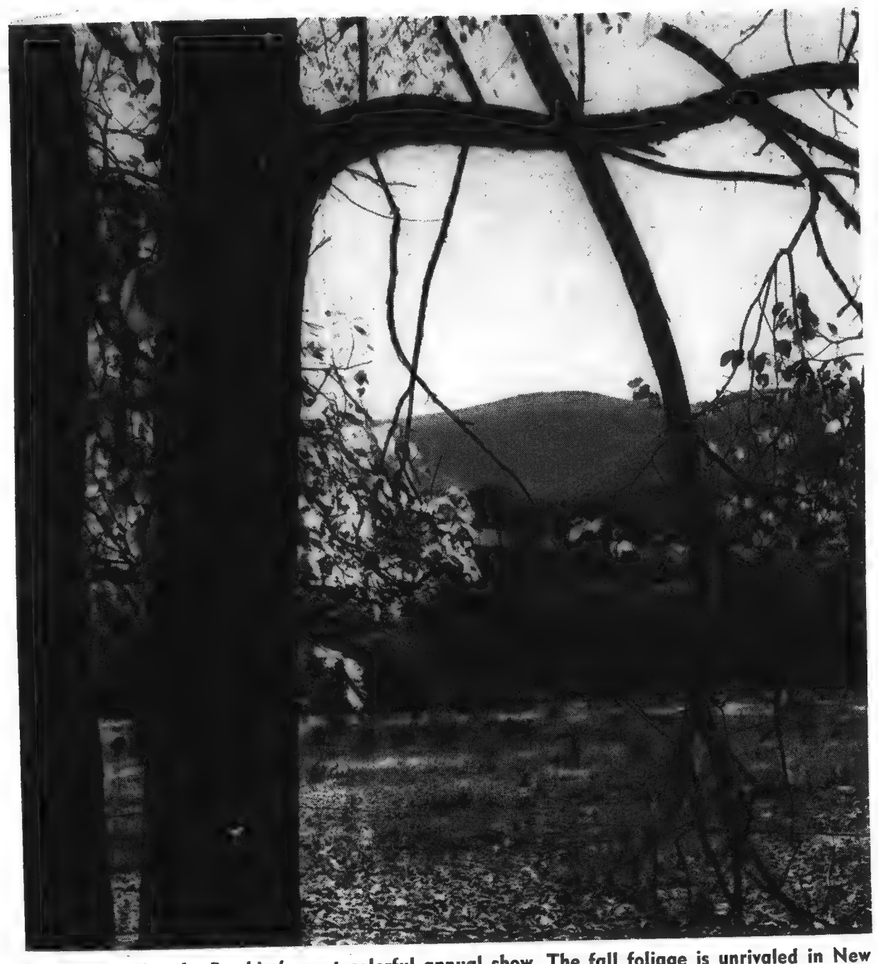
If, you want entertainment, but not symphony music, you can go to Lenox to look at an exhibition by local artists, or up to Jacob's Pillow to see the girls in modern dances, or out to the Berkshire Garden Center, or up to Music Mountain for the string quartets. If you want drama, try the Stockbridge Playhouse.

The arts are strong in this area. If you don't believe it go to Hagyard's drugstore, in the center of Lenox. You will probably find a young enthusiast playing Mozart on a Juke box and everyone will be listening while polishing off a second soda.

For the "great outdoors" there are over 73,000 acres of state forests, 13 rivers, 59 lakes, 23 camping areas and 14 golf courses.

You can fish in the streams or lakes, ride horseback—or just picnic. If you like to climb and hike there is Mt. Greylock, the highest mountain in Massachusetts standing 3,491 feet high in the middle of a great state forest seven miles from Pittsfield. There are trails lacing this mountain.

If you like to get to the top of a mountain, and don't like to climb, there is a road for cars. You can go to the top and picnic, see for miles into New York and Vermont, get back in the car and coast down.



Nature provides the Bershire's most colorful annual show. The fall foliage is unrivaled in New England. In the background in this photo is Mount Greylock, highest peak in Massachusetts.

If you have a car you will enjoy the scenic wonder of the Mohawk Trail. Winding, soaring, falling, this trail follows a path first used by the Mohawk indians. With its clear rushing streams and lush stands of pine, birch, oak and maple, it compresses great visual grandeur and historical allusion into its thirty-eight paved miles.

In the Fall people travel from all over the East, drive to one of the summits, and gasp at the unbelievable carpet of Autumn golds, oranges and scarlets stretched before them.

There are accommodations during both summer and ski seasons. Over 40 hotels and inns, 35 guest houses and motels (most of the latter equipped with TV and several near swimming pools and ponds) can be found here.

The Berkshires also boast the most famous country fair in the nation: the Great Barrington Fair. Here, in the middle of September, you will find horse racing and corn husking plus all the other events and competitions that go to make Fall exciting in the country.

In Williamstown you can see one of the truly lovely college campuses in the nation. Here also you will find the Clark Art Institute, open free to the public six days a week (closed Mondays) the year around. In it you can see paintings by Degas, Renoir, Sargent, Winslow, Homer and many others. This museum is one of many rare gems set by nature and man in the Berkshires.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUN 9 1957

Berkshires Have Varied Attractions

LENOX, Mass.

One may be active or lazy, as whim dictates, in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts. Throughout the region there is swimming, sailing, fishing, riding, golfing, tennis, hiking, picnicking in the beautiful state forests, and other sports, as well as many activities for the spectator.

Outstanding among the cultural offerings is the Berkshire Symphonic Festival at Tanglewood under the direction of Charles Munch. Mr. Munch and guest conductors will present a series of concerts of the great masters each week end. During the week instrumental, choral and operatic performances are presented daily in the Music Center.

BALTIMORE, MD.
AMERICAN
Circ. S. 322,925
JUN 23 1957

Symphony Is Travel Lure

Believe it or not, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, considered one of the nation's top music groups, is a big tourist attraction in the summer in Massachusetts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

This will be the twentieth summer season, of six successive week ends of concerts, the first two by a chamber orchestra in a 200-seat hall, and the final four weeks with the full orchestra in a 6,000 seat "music shed."

While we in Baltimore struggle to keep our Symphony alive, it is interesting to see what a big attraction Boston's orchestra is not only to New England people, but to the whole traveling public, who are being circularized to attend these week end concerts.

pens ice Here

Massachusetts Department of Rockefeller Center. It is now ormation regarding points of as historic Boston with its picturesque shops and restaugalleries.

There is Salem, with its House of Seven Gables and Old Witch Jail; Gloucester, from whose port ships have gone to sea for more than 300 years; Marblehead, widely-known yachting center; Rockport, mecca and haven for artists; Newburyport, Ipswich and the pilgrim ports of Quincy, Weymouth and Plymouth.

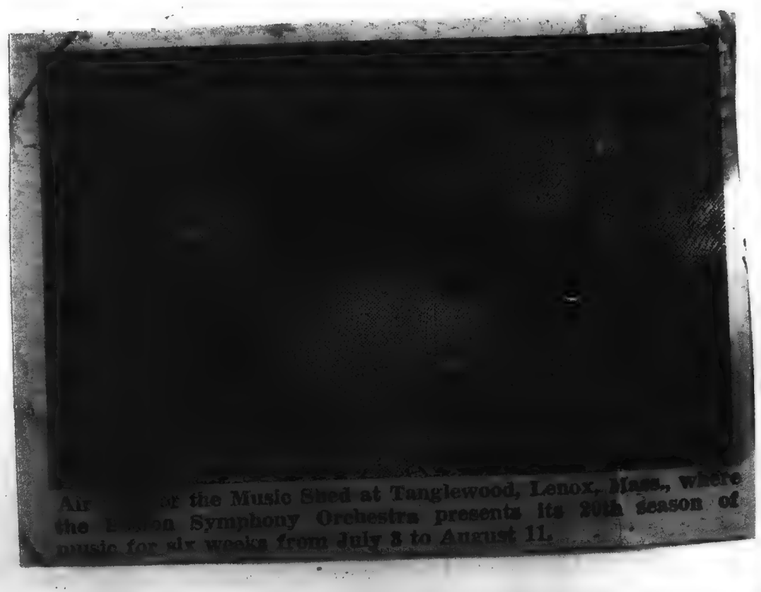
Massachusett's renowned Cape Cod and its two neighboring islands, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, are well represented among the literature available in the new office.

CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS offers the visitor other welcome surprises including Sturbridge Village and Storrowtown, Pioneer Valley, Old Deerfield and famous Mohawk Trail.

Massachusetts also boasts the Berkshires region and its world-famous music festival. The Berkshires contain 73,098 acres of state forests, 13 rivers, 59 lakes, 23 camping areas, 14 golf courses, and 16 Winter sports areas.

At the Tanglewood estate, a superb natural setting, music-lovers share the music of the world's greatest composers played by the Boston Symphony.

For information and pamphlets on where to go and see in Massachusetts, write or call Massachusetts State Development Commission, 630 Fifth Ave.



Air ... or the Music Shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., where the ... Symphony Orchestra presents its 20th season of music for six weeks from July 3 to August 11.

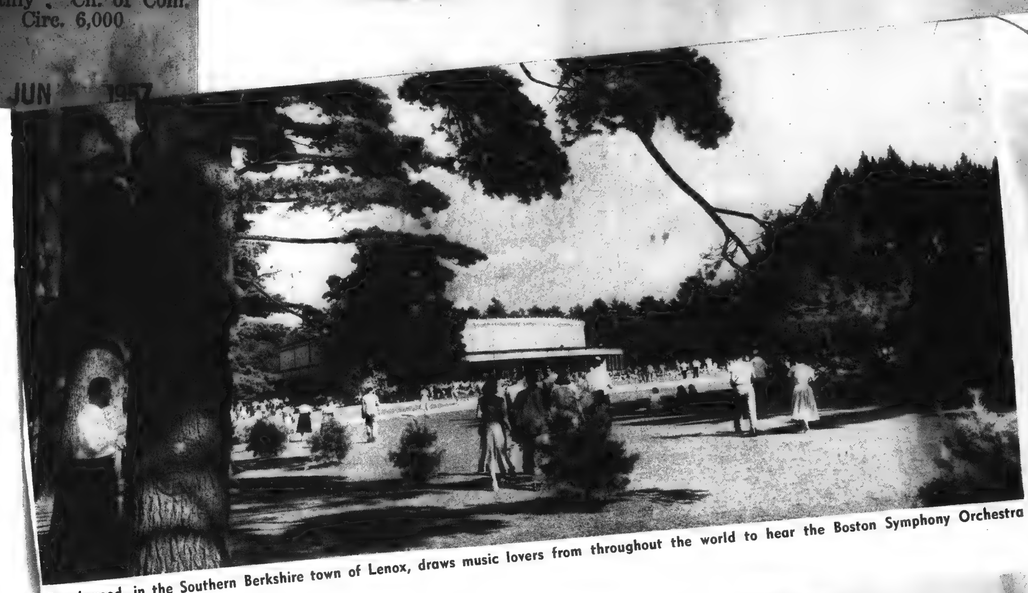
New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Boston Business
BOSTON, Mass.
Monthly . Ch. of Com.
Circ. 6,000
JUN 1957

Pioneer Valley

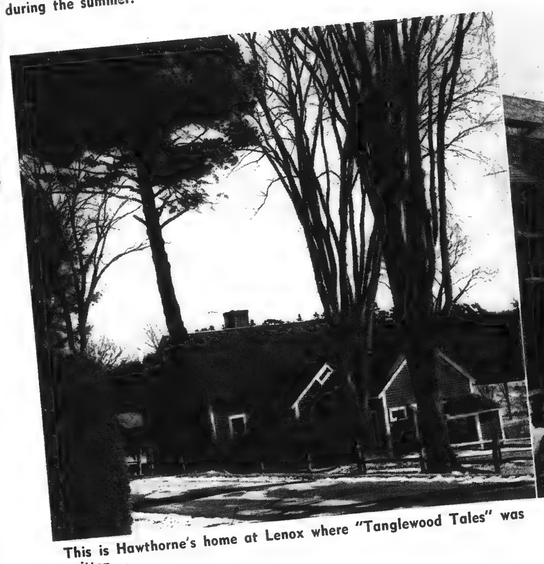
Built in 1689, the Frary House in Old Deerfield Village was one of the very few houses to escape burning in the disastrous Indian raids of the French-American War.

Rolling hills provide a beautiful background for a favorite summer pastime in the Pioneer Valley.

The covered bridge has been decreasing in numbers for several years. This is the Burkville Bridge across South River in Conway.



Tanglewood, in the Southern Berkshire town of Lenox, draws music lovers from throughout the world to hear the Boston Symphony Orchestra during the summer.



This is Hawthorne's home at Lenox where "Tanglewood Tales" was written.

Ted Shawn lectures to a class at Jacob's Pillow University of the Dance.

The Clark Institute in Williamstown contains one of the best private collections of old masterpieces in New England.

pens
ce Here

Massachusetts Department of Rockefeller Center. It is now ormation regarding points of as historic Boston with its picturesque shops and restaugalleries.

There is Salem, with its House of Seven Gables and Old Witch Jail; Gloucester, from whose port ships have gone to sea for more than 300 years; Marblehead, widely-known yachting center; Rockport, mecca and haven for artists; Newburyport, Ipswich and the pilgrim ports of Quincy, Weymouth and Plymouth.

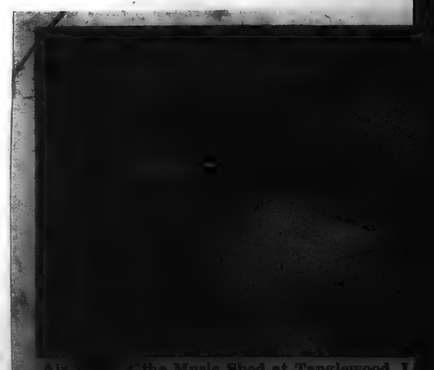
Massachusett's renowned Cape Cod and its two neighboring islands, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, are well represented among the literature available in the new office.

CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS offers the visitor other welcome surprises including Sturbridge Village and Storrowtown, Pioneer Valley, Old Deerfield and famous Mohawk Trail.

Massachusetts also boasts the Berkshires region and its world-famous music festival. The Berkshires contain 73,098 acres of state forests, 13 rivers, 59 lakes, 23 camping areas, 14 golf courses, and 16 Winter sports areas.

At the Tanglewood estate, a superb natural setting, music-lovers share the music of the world's greatest composers played by the Boston Symphony.

For information and pamphlets on where to go and see in Massachusetts, write or call Massachusetts State Development Commission, 630 Fifth Ave.



Air ... the Music Shed at Tanglewood, L... the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents ... music for six weeks from July 3 to August 11

Bu...
PRESS CL...
165 Church

NEW HERA...
Circ. D. 3...

JUN

Ber...
Have...
Attr...

One may ... whim dictat... Hills of Mass... out the reg... ming, sailin... golfing, tenn... ing in the be... and other sp... activities for...
Outstandin... tural offerin... Symphonic ... week under... Charles Mu... and guest c... sent a series ... great master... During the ... choral and ... ances are pre... Music Center...

BAL...
A...
C...

JUN

Symph...
Travel...

Believe... ton Sym... considere... top musi... tourist at... mer in ... Tanglewo...
This w... summer ... cessive w... the first ... orchestra... and the f... the full ... eat "mu...
While ... struggle ... phony al... o see w... Boston's ... New ... the w... e, who ... attend... erts.

Pittsfield, Massachusetts, Monday, July 1, 1957.

Banner Summer Seen For Berkshire Area

On the basis of reports from a [illegible] of elements in the [illegible] vacation-travel [illegible] summer 1957 season [illegible] predicted today by [illegible] Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference.

He said that despite complaints from South Berkshire that the [illegible]state thruway has stolen [illegible] the Mohawk-Taconic [illegible] indications are that the [illegible] and an already expanded [illegible]tional program will bring [illegible] fresh travelers to more than [illegible]ence the scales.

Although no exact figures are available yet, Mr. Downing said box office representatives at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Music Barn and the two summer theatres report advance sales up this year.

Festival Opens Wednesday

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open its annual six-week stand in Lenox Wednesday and, as usual, will be the area's major summer attraction. Mr. Downing said that even a couple of North Berkshire motel operators report solid bookings for the Tanglewood weekends. He said Business Manager William Martin of the Williamstown Theater predicts a "terrific year."

The Berkshire Hills Conference executive said both Tanglewood and Berkshire Playhouse officials say the effect of the new thruway is especially evident through increased advanced bookings from the Springfield-Worcester - Boston area.

Mr. Downing said scattered reports from hotels, motels and inns lead him to believe that at least some of those short-haul tourists will be staying overnight in the Berkshires.

He said the Red Lion at Stockbridge reports the thruway a big help in June and gives management of the inn reason to look forward to a better-than-average season. The Curtis Hotel in Lenox also is looking for a record year, with help from the thruway.

Inquiries Up 20 Per Cent

Mr. Downing said a 20 per cent increase in inquiries from the conference advertising-promotion program this year is another reason for the bullish forecast for the summer season.

He said the optimistic reports include word from four operators of county resorts—Eastover, Oak 'n Spruce, Avaloch, Jug End—that they expect capacity houses all summer. Capacity at such places as Eastover means that a good portion of the rooms available in private homes in that area will be taken up by the resort overflow.

In the Southern Berkshire region, Mr. Downing said Sheffield's Blue Belton Inn and the Egremont Tavern also are anticipating a peak year.

Taking notice of the recent distress signals from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail Assn., Mr. Downing said the Berkshire Hills Conference is making efforts to try and get the tourist dollar within reach of all facets of the county vacation-travel industry.

"It appears," said Mr. Downing, "that we are going to be successful in getting the tourists here in larger than usual numbers this year for at least one day.

"The job now," he continued, "is to try and get them to stay longer than that one day."

Circle Tours Promoted

Mr. Downing said the conference is making increased use this year of a circle-tour folder designed to get the motorized vacationist to see all of Berkshire County.

The conference executive said such comparatively new attractions as the Williamstown Theater and Music Barn, both in their third seasons, have done a lot for the Berkshire County area as a whole in making it a more desirable vacation spot.

"The more things we have to do here the better everyone will make out," said Mr. Downing.

He suggested that additional attractions in the North Berkshire region might be one answer to the thruway traffic competition.

In addition to Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow and the Williamstown Theater will open this week. Ted Shawn will open the Pillow silver anniversary season tomorrow evening; the Williamstown Theater curtain will go up Friday. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge tonight opens the second week of its 10-week season, and Music Barn kicked off with Ella Fitzgerald last night.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEWARK, N. J.
LEDGER
JUN 2 1957

Your 1957 vacation season is now officially under way

By MEL ELFIN

In case you got lost in Thursday's traffic shuffle—that was Memorial Day that whizzed by last week—the summer vacation season is officially here.

For our good friends, Vern and Lou Walter, it means the day is drawing closer when their Cimarron Dude Ranch (Putnam Valley, N.Y.) will be the center of a new network TV show. Vern will be the MC and many guests will participate in parts of the weekly programs.

• • •

THE TANGLEWOOD Music Festival gets under way in a few weeks and if you're a music lover who likes to rough it on the side, try the White Stallion Ranch in Hillsdale, N.Y., just a short distance from the lovely Tanglewood shed.

"Levis are your formals" is the slogan of the White Stallion's managers, Joy and George Kastner. It's just 120 miles from Long Island and has just about everything a Queens or Nassau dude could want.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING-BUREAU
[illegible] Street - New York
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO
VINDICATOR
JUN 4 1957

AT THE THEATRES

Plans Are Under Way for Summer Shows: Signs Point to an Outstanding Season

By Jane Lamb

There's every indication that this will be an outstanding year for summer show business. Wherever vacationers may wander in these United States from the end of June until long past Labor Day they will find playhouse groups, musical tents and open air entertainment. Professionals have caught a sense of excitement from plans which promise to add quality, quantity and variety to the business this season.

Part of the mounting mood comes from the fact that a number of recent Broadway shows have been released for stock productions for the first time. Among them are "The Pajama Game," "The Boy Friend," "Can-Can," "Silk Stockings" and "Fanny" along with a "New Faces" combination with material from 1952 and 1956 editions.

Among the straight plays released are "The Loud Red Patrick," "Speaking of Murder," "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," "Janus," "Girls of Summer" and "The Desk Set."

Belief in summer theatre possibilities has inspired one operator to offer as much as $10,000 weekly for stars, which is a spectacular amount even for Broadway. A number of notables will make the "silo circuit," including old-timers such as Edward Everett Horton, and newcomers as Lillian Roth and Gloria Vanderbilt.

The tent theatre continues to expand, one of the most important recent additions to the straw-hat theatre. There are 19 now operating and which may draw 2[illegible] million persons this summer.

The Shakespearean classics will begin with the Antioch's Shakespeare - Under - the - Stars Festival at Yellow Springs and Toledo, Ohio. Four of the dramas will rotate along with music dramas which are being added this year.

At Stratford, Ont., the festival will include three Shakespearean plays with Siobhan McKenna as a leading performer. Katharine Hepburn, Alfred Drake and Earl Hyman will add glamour to the American Shakespeare festival at Stratford, Conn. Other Shakespeare festivals will be held in Ashland, Ore., and San Diego, Calif.

Among the musical attractions will be Cleveland's Musicarnival with an English version of the opera "Tosca." Several of the musical arenas will alternate drama with tune shows. There will be ice carnivals by St. John Terrell in the bigtops at Lambertville and Neptune, N.J., Olson and Johnson will perform at Brandywine, Pa., and Oakdale, Conn. The Sacramento, Calif., Music Circus is planning to do "Peter Pan," complete with flying equipment.

Dallas State Fair will climax its season in October with a two-week run of the national company of "My Fair Lady."

At Wellesley, Mass., the Group 20 Players will present classics, and old American plays will be the attraction at Sharon, Conn.

Music lovers will find themselves drawn to the famous Berkshire Festival, at Tanglewood, Mass. The Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee, nearby, offers music and dance. At Aspen, Colo., there will be an assortment of opera chamber music and orchestral music.

Boston will have its Summer Arts Festival of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet and art. Newport, L.I., will attract its jazz enthusiasts. Central City, Colo., plans an opera fiesta and Ellenville, N.Y., an Empire State Music Festival with opera and ballet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
JUN 30 1957

IN THE BERKSHIRE HILLS

Summer Festival of Music, Drama and Dancing

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—Whether you are a blues fan, a Bach lover or a fire buff, you will find your answer in the Berkshires this week. The blues will be dished out at Music Barn in Lenox this evening by Ella Fitzgerald at the opening program of the Music Barn's two-month season.

The Music Barn season will run to Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be presented every Sunday evening; folk concerts every Saturday afternoon and ethnic groups during the week, illustrating music from other parts of the world.

On July 6, Ethel Waters and Reginald Bean will be featured and on July 7, the Dave Brubeck Quartet will hold forth.

The 20th season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood, in Lenox, will open Wednesday evening in the smaller theater with a chamber music concert by the Paganini Quartet. The annual all-Bach concerts will be presented at the theater by the small orchestra Friday through Sunday.

★ ★ ★

This central Berkshire city will be Mecca for volunteer firemen the entire week. The Pittsfield Permanent Firemen's Assn. starts its annual week-long firemen's muster tomorrow. The highlight will come Thursday, July 4, with a parade which will include volunteer fire departments, bands and marching units from at least 30 communities throughout New England and New York.

Each department brings its old hand-drawn hose carts and other vintage equipment, which are spruced up for this one day each year. The morning parade lasts about two hours. One of the major afternoon attractions on the Fourth of July is the competition by the volunteer departments in hose cart, pumping and ladder races. The affair ends with a gigantic firework display the night of the Fourth.

Preprint from PARENTS' MAGAZINE

MASSACHUSETTS

Lenox

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL at Tanglewood takes place July 3 through August 11 and features the Boston Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Munch. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors. Prices for three concerts in any one of the Music Shed series range from $6 to $15. A series is held each weekend on Friday and Saturday eves. at 8:30 and Sun. at 2:30 P.M. Subscription for three Chamber Orchestra Concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall is $10 or $12. Single admission, $4 or $5. Subscription for six Wed. eve. Chamber Music Concerts in the Hall is $8 or $10. Single admission, $2 or $3. For lodgings for more than one night write to the Berkshire Hills Conference, Pittsfield 26, Mass., or call Pittsfield 2-7437. Write to the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. for further information.

July 5-7—[illegible]
July 12-[illegible]
July 19-21 [illegible] with Isaac Stern, Shed.
July 26-28—[illegible] Shed.

hony Orchestra

rs Invitational Concert

Dr. Eric Oldberg's financial report and it was interesting to note that the subscribers to date had reached 1546 and that the Women's organization had gone $3,000 over its $55,000 goal. One less happy note was that corporations have not been as generous with their gifts as last year and Dr. Oldberg said large business should feel the necessity of supporting culture as it does education and hospitals. The 1957-58 season of concerts will be presented in Orchestra Hall.

* * *

Rudolf Serkin's performance of Brahms Second Concerto can only be described in superlatives. It was, in essence, an achievement unique in the annals of concertgoers. Always a dependable artist, Mr. Serkin's playing, March 28, in inspiring collaboration with Fritz Reiner and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, transcended mere performance and dwelt in the realm of re-creation. The audience knew it had been priv-

(Continued on page 14)

r, 1957 20 CENTS A COPY

Pittsfield, Massachusetts, Monday, July 1, 1957.

Banner Summer Seen For Berkshire Area

On the basis of reports from a cross-section of elements in the Berkshire County vacation-travel business, a banner 1957 summer season was predicted today by John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference.

He said that despite complaints from North Berkshire that the new cross-state thruway has stolen traffic from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail area, indications are that the thruway and an already expanded promotional program will bring enough fresh travelers to more than balance the scales.

Although no exact figures are available yet, Mr. Downing said box office representatives at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Music Barn and the two summer theaters report advance sales up this year.

Festival Opens Wednesday

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open its annual six-week stand in Lenox Wednesday and, as usual, will be the area's major summer attraction. Mr. Downing said that even a couple of North Berkshire motel operators report solid bookings for the Tanglewood weekends. He said Business Manager William Martin of the Williamstown Theater predicts a "terrific year."

The Berkshire Hills Conference executive said both Tanglewood and Berkshire Playhouse officials say the effect of the new thruway is especially evident through increased advanced bookings from the Springfield-Worcester-Boston area.

Mr. Downing said scattered reports from hotels, motels and inns lead him to believe that at least some of those short-haul tourists will be staying overnight in the Berkshires.

He said the Red Lion at Stockbridge reports the thruway a big help in June and gives management of the inn reason to look forward to a better-than-average season. The Curtis Hotel in Lenox also is looking for a record year, with help from the thruway.

Inquiries Up 20 Per Cent

Mr. Downing said a 20 per cent increase in inquiries from the conference advertising-promotion program this year is another reason for the optimistic forecast for the summer season.

He said the optimistic reports include word from four operators of county resorts—Eastover, Oak 'n Spruce, Avaloch, Jug End—that they expect capacity houses all summer. Capacity at such places as Eastover means that a good portion of the rooms available in private homes in that area will be taken up by the resort overflow.

In the Southern Berkshire region, Mr. Downing said Sheffield's Blue Bellon Inn and the Egremont Tavern also are anticipating a peak year.

Taking notice of the recent distress signals from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail Assn., Mr. Downing said the Berkshire Hills Conference is making efforts to try and get the tourist dollar within reach of all facets of the county vacation-travel industry.

"It appears," said Mr. Downing, "that we are going to be successful in getting the tourists here in larger than usual numbers this year for at least one day.

"The job now," he continued, "is to try and get them to stay longer than that one day."

Circle Tours Promoted

Mr. Downing said the conference is making increased use this year of a circle-tour folder designed to get the motorized vacationist to see all of Berkshire County.

The conference executive said such comparatively new attractions as the Williamstown Theater and Music Barn, both in their third seasons, have done a lot for the Berkshire County area as a whole in making it a more desirable vacation spot.

"The more things we have to do here the better everyone will make out," said Mr. Downing.

He suggested that additional attractions in the North Berkshire region might be one answer to the thruway traffic competition.

In addition to Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow and the Williamstown Theater with [illegible] Ted Shawn will open the Pillow silver anniversary season tomorrow evening; the Williamstown Theater curtain will go up Friday. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge tonight opens the second week of its 10-week season, and Music Barn kicked off with Ella Fitzgerald last night.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEWARK, N. J.
STAR-LEDGER
JUN 2 1957

Your 1957 vacation season is now officially under way

By MEL ELFIN

In case you got lost in Thursday's traffic shuffle—that was Memorial Day that whizzed by last week—the summer vacation season is officially here.

For our good friends, Vern and Lou Walker, it means the day is drawing closer when their Cimarron Dude Ranch (Putnam Valley, N.Y.) will be the center of a new network TV show. Vern will be the MC and many guests will participate in parts of the weekly programs.

• • •

THE TANGLEWOOD Music Festival gets under way in a few weeks and if you're a music lover who likes to rough it on the side, try the White Stallion Ranch in Hillsdale, N.Y., just a short distance from the lovely Tanglewood shed.

"Levis are your formals" is the slogan of the White Stallion's managers, Joy and George Kastner. It's just 120 miles from Long Island and has just about everything a Queens or Nassau dude could want.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO
VINDICATOR
JUN 4 1957

AT THE THEATRE

Plans Are Under Way for Su[mmer] Signs Point to an Outstand[ing]

By Jane Lamb

There's every indication that this ing year for summer show business. W may wander in these United States f until long past Labor Day they will fi musical tents and open air entertain have caught a sense of excitement fro ise to add quality, quantity and var this season.

Part of the mounting mood comes from the fact that a number of recent Broadway shows have been released for stock productions for the first time. Among them are "The Pajama Game," "The Boy Friend," "Can-Can," "Silk Stockings" and "Fanny" along with a "New Faces" combination with material from 1952 and 1956 editions.

Among the straight plays just released are "The Loud Red Patrick," "Speaking of Murder," "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunger," "Janus," "Girls of Summer" and "The Desk Set."

Belief in summer theatre possibilities has inspired one operator to offer as much as $10,000 weekly for stars, which is a spectacular amount even for Broadway. A number of notables will make the "silo circuit," including old-timers such as Edward Everett Horton, and newcomers as Lillian Roth and Gloria Vanderbilt.

The tent theatre continues to expand, one of the most important recent additions to the straw-hat theatre. There are 19 now operating and which may draw 2½ million persons this summer.

The Shakespearean classics will begin with the Antioch's Shakespeare - Under - the - Stars Festival at Yellow Springs and Toledo, Ohio. Four of the dramas will rotate along with music dramas which are being added this year.

At Stratford, Ont., the festival will include three Shakespearan plays with Siobhan McKenna as a leading performer. Katharine Hepburn, Alfred Drake and Earl Hyman will add glamour to the American Shakespeare festival at Stratford, Conn. Other Shakespeare festivals will be held in Ashland, Ore., and San Diego, Calif.

Among the musical attractions will be Cleveland's Musicarnival with an English version of the opera "Tosca." Several of the musical arenas will alternate drama with tune shows. There will be ice carnivals by St. John Terrell in the bigtops at Lambertville and Neptune, N.J., Olson and Johnson will perform at Brandywine, Pa., and Oakdale, Conn. The Sacramento, Calif., Music Circus is planning to do "Peter Pan," complete with flying equipment.

Dallas State Fair will climax its season in October with a two-week run of the national company of "My Fair Lady."

At Wellesley, Mass., the Group 20 Players will present classics, and old American plays will be the attraction at Sharon, Conn.

Music lovers will find themselves drawn to the famous Berkshire Festival, at Tanglewood, Mass. The Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee, nearby, offers music and dance. At Aspen, Colo., there will be an assortment of opera chamber music and orchestral music.

Boston will have its Summer Arts Festival of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet and art. Newport, L.I., will attract its jazz enthusiasts. Central City, Colo., plans an opera fiesta and Ellenville, N.Y., an Empire State Music Festival with opera and ballet.

MUSICAL LEADER
CHICAGO, ILL.
MAY 1957

Musical Notes

by Walter F. Loeb

Theme and Variations

Twenty-one soloists have been announced thus far for the 1957 season of Stadium Concerts, which opens June 24 and continues for six weeks, through Aug. 3, at the Lewisohn Stadium of the City College. Alexander Brailowsky will play on opening night; Jan Kiepura and Marta Eggerth will be featured in the annual "Viennese Night." Harmonica virtuoso John Sebastian; folk-singers Marais and Miranda; Moura Lympany, English pianist; Ruth Slenczynska, pianist; and Stanley Drucker, clarinetist, will be heard. Conductors making their Stadium debuts will be Igor Markevitch, Heitor Villa-Lobos and Albert Fracht.

We have a basket full of notes about artists and their plans. Roberta Peters gave birth to a 6 lb. 14½ oz. baby boy on April 3. The announcement also promises that Miss Peters will resume her professional career in late June when she will fly to Rome to record Lucia opposite Jan Peerce. She will return to the Met this fall . . . Sol Hurok announces several new artists for next season: a Polish pianist, Andre Tchaikowsky; the Royal Ballet (formerly Sadler's Wells), English Singers of London, etc. . . . The first boychoir to be subsidized by the President's Fund, administered by ANTA for the U. S. State Department, will be the famed Columbus Boychoir of Princeton, N. J. They will go to South America . . . Thomas Scherman will feature American music in a two-months' guest conducting tour of Europe, which began in Holland on April 9.

Richard Tucker will make a seven week tour of the Far East ginning in Bangkok on May 9. The tenor will go under the aegis of ANTA . . . Paul Doctor, violinist, will be soloist at the Salzburg Festival . . . George Copeland, pianist, is currently touring Europe . . . The Lyric Quartet, Wilbur Isaacs, director, will tour South America this summer . . . Paul Matthen, bass-baritone, will sing in Augsburg.

There are many summer festivals announced: The Berkshire Festival under the direction of Charles Munch will give a cycle of compositions during each of the six weeks from July 3-Aug. 11. The sequence is Bach, Mozart, Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. It is by far the most elaborate festival in the East . . . Aspen, under Izler Solomon opens its festival on June 26 and will run through Sept. 1 . . . A Fine Arts Festival will be held at Adelphi College, May 1 through 15. Many features are planned by Lawrence Rasmussen. The occasion celebrates the closing of Adelphi's 60th anniversary year . . . The Fourteenth Festival of Contemporary music was held at the Louisiana State University on March 24, April 7, 10, 14, 16 and May 5. Some of America's leading composers were represented alongside compositions of gifted students.

The 29th season of productions of the Chautauqua Opera Association will open at Norton Memorial Hall on July 12 with a performance of Sigmund Romberg's "The Student Prince."

Applications will be accepted for the 1957 Marian Anderson Scholarships until May 31. The competition for the $1000 First Prize and several other awards of lesser amounts is open to all singers between the ages of 16 and 32 . . . The American Symphony Orchestra League presented its first conductor study project in opera repertoire and technique during a two-week (April 10-24, 1957) Opera Institute, sponsored by the League and the Opera Theater of the Juilliard School of Music, N.Y.C. Frederic Cohen, Director of the Juilliard Opera Theater, was director of the Institute. Conductors from 16 college and community orchestras located in 13 states were selected for the Institute.

Quartet. The annual [illegible] concerts will be presented at the theater by the small orchestra Friday through Sunday.

★ ★ ★

This central Berkshire city will [illegible] Fourth of July is the competition by the volunteer departments in hose cart, pumping and ladder races. The affair ends with a gigantic firework display the night of the Fourth.

JULY 1957
Preprint from PARENTS' MAGAZINE

MASSACHUSETTS

Lenox

[illegible] Festival at Tanglewood takes place July 3 through August 11 and features the Boston Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors. Prices for three concerts in any one of the Music Shed series range from $6 to $15. A series is held each weekend on Friday and Saturday eves. at 8:30 and Sun. at 2:30 P.M. Subscription for three Chamber Orchestra Concerts in the Theatre-Concert Hall is $10 or $12. Single admission, $4 or $5. Subscription for six Wed. eve. Chamber Music Concerts in the Hall is $8 or $10. Single admission, $2 or $3. For lodgings for more than one night write to the Berkshire Hills Conference, Pittsfield 20, Mass., or call Pittsfield 2-7437. Write to the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. for further information.

July 5-7—[illegible]
July 12—[illegible]
July 19—[illegible] Isaac Stern.
July 28—[illegible] Shed.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
Barclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUN 9 1957

[54]

Summer Vacation Preview: Far Away Places Beckon

CANADA—The Queen Elizabeth Range in the Rockies behind Lake Maligne.

Some Vacation Tips on the Inside

LAND OF MAKE-BELIEVE now skirts nation's highways, with many villages appealing to children.....Page 3
BROAD NEW HIGHWAYS all across the nation await the 1957 motoring vacationist.....Page 4
THE POCONOS are face-lifting, to the tune of $30 million.....Page 5
ATLANTIC CITY books top entertainment stars for the season.....Page 7
NEW ENGLAND'S museum villages bring alive early history.....Page 10
FOR CAMPING TRAILS, Vermont has the trails and the shelters.....Page 11
HORACE SUTTON reports on Jaime the fishman at S'Agaro, Spain.....Page 24

81,000,000 Summer Travelers to Visit Most of U. S. and Non-Red World in '57

By BARNETT D. LASCHEVER
Resort and Travel Editor

Travel, like the corner drugstore, offers something for everybody these days.

Except for those places where the United States State Department has wagged a disapproving (and official) finger—Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary and sections of the Far East under Communist control—Americans this year are going just about everywhere.

$1,000,000 Travelers

The estimates are now in, and the figures are staggering. At least $1,000,000 of our fellow countrymen will swarm up and down the length and breadth of the land during the summer vacation season.

The family car will carry the bulk of us, with our water coolers, washable clothes, extra diapers, beach balls, bathing suits and road maps.

And the good folks who labor mightily in the travel industry, one of the largest and fastest growing in the country, have laid out a hearty welcome map for us, be it in refurnished and air-conditioned hotels, renovated resorts, new motels, or at the myriad attractions that have sprung up about the country in deference to His Majesty, the child in the house.

These attractions have drawn on two principal sources for their inspiration: fairy tales and frontier or Wild West days. Fact is, it's getting harder and harder these days to take a spin about in the country without running into Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard, or meeting a stage coach coming down the pike with, by gum, the injuns right behind.

Americans in 1957 will be in hot pursuit of cool pleasure, relaxation and fun in all forty-eight states. Oklahoma this year celebrates its fiftieth year as a state and a number of celebrations and special events are planned.

Reservations already are pouring into the great resort areas of Cape Cod, the Poconos, Catskills, and the resorts of New England. The Miami boom in travel continues its dizzy pace into the summer as prices fall to what can only be described as ridiculous. Where else can you get an air-conditioned room in a new hotel for eight dollars or so, with two meals thrown in to boot?

600,000 to Europe

Despite the Suez crisis, which threw a scare into the less adventurous, American Express estimates that 600,000 United States citizens will trample about Europe taking in the conventional sights, and striving to find a quaint little street or shop or restaurant "which hasn't been discovered by the average tourist." A vain search we say. You can be assured that some one American has strayed off the path and been there before.

The Express company also reports that crowds will continue to descend on the Caribbean and South America, and before the year is out 40,000 will have visited Mexico.

If you're still in a statistical frame of mind, let us add that Bermuda expects a total of 111,000 visitors this year 42,000 will explore Alaska, 145,000 will make their way to lovely Hawaii and a whopping 130,000 indicate they'll visit Japan. Far off India claims it will entertain 13,000 Americans, a sizable figure considering distance and expense.

Four New Liners

Four new ships—the Gripsholm, Matsonia, Arosa Sky and Statendam—are making ocean travel even more pleasant this year, and in the air, the latest and fastest piston engine aircraft, the DC-7C, and the new Jetstream Constellation, just put into service by TWA, are a stepping stone to the jets, which are just around the corner.

Air-conditioned buses are becoming the rule, and the trains, particularly the Western roads, are making steady and constant improvements.

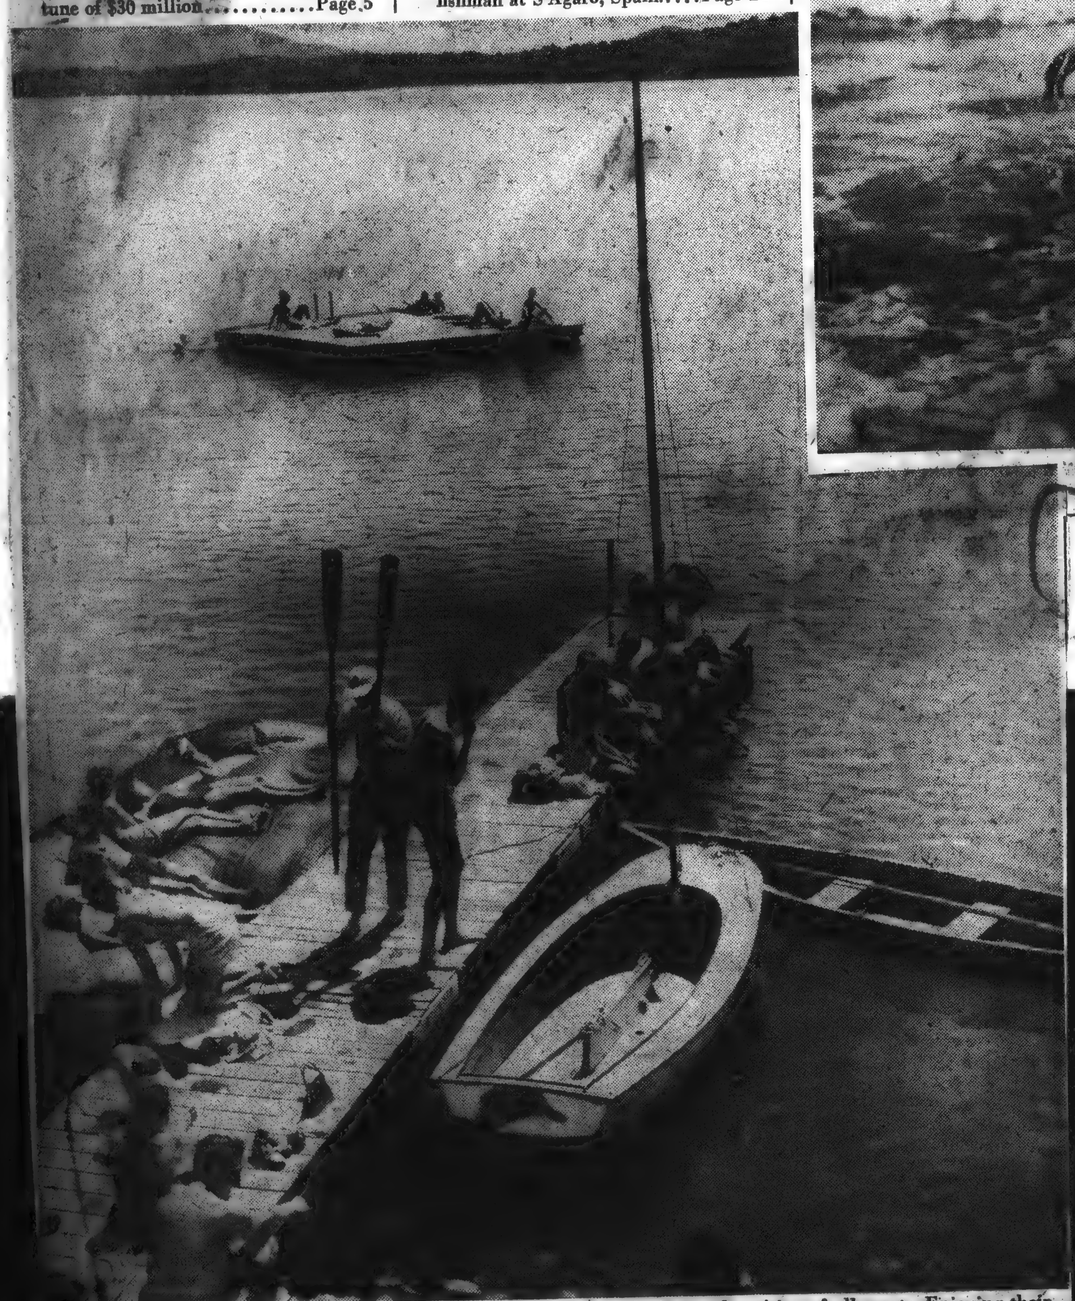
Little has been heard lately of the flying saucers and the men from Mars. We can only offer the improvised theory that they forgot to make their reservations in time, and found that the hotel was full.

A banner season is in the offing. Call your travel agent now. Ours is on the phone now . . .

"Yes, that's right . . . some quiet place . . . you know . . . that hasn't been discovered yet by the tourists . . ."

NYSPIX—Commerce

NEW YORK—It's almost time for a refreshing dunk in the ocean. These two girls are gamboling in the waters of Jones Beach, one of the [illegible] parks on Long Island, and one of the best beaches on the East Coast.



MASSACHUSETTS—Never tried sailing? It's one of the most relaxing, and exciting of all sports. Enjoying their leisure time here are students at the Berkshire Music Center in beautiful Tanglewood.

The Massachusetts Turnpike

NOW OPEN

The safest, fastest route to and from New York, Chicago and the West

123 Miles of Carefree, Happy Motoring through Beautiful Massachusetts Countryside

MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE AUTHORITY
80 Boylston Street, Boston
Write today for your detailed map.

The Scandalous Conduct of AUNT BETSEY BLANEY

OF ESSEX COUNTY, MASS*tts.*

★

Back in 1830, Aunt Betsey set tongues wagging by demanding the outrageous price of $3.00 a week at her seaside boarding house in Essex County, Massachusetts.

But vacationists came then as they do now to enjoy the surf, woodland and history of this pleasant county, lying a few miles north of Boston.

You will find ancient buildings which preserve the heritage of America in weathered clapboard and priceless documents; sandy beaches and secluded coves for sunning and relaxing; rolling countryside for riding and exploring; the flavor of New England in auctions, country fairs, summer theatres, concerts, and art exhibitions for pleasure; land, sea, and spectator sports for diversion.

Toll free roads lead you to Salem, Rockport, Gloucester, Marblehead and a host of other towns and villages you'll wonder why you've never visited before. The Aunt Betsey Blaneys, alas, have disappeared but you will find agreeable accommodations to suit your purse and whim.

For free illustrated folder on Essex County and its three centuries of history write: ESSEX COUNTY TOURIST COUNCIL, Salem, Mass. We are pledged to give our visitors every courtesy.

Name _____

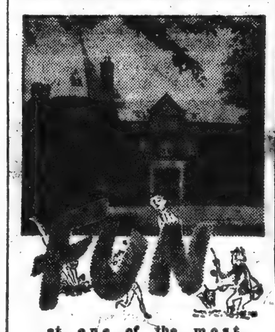
Address _____

Dept. B

B.I.

your key to enjoyment

THE BERKSHIRE INN
Great Barrington, Massachusetts
James J. Joyce, Landlord
NOW OPEN
Less than 3 hours from New York City via Parkways or N. Y. Thruway. Two hours from Boston via Mass. Turnpike, exit at Lee
Accommodations at Moderate AP and EP Rates
Meal Service daily until Midnite
For Information call—
Gt. Barr. 880



at one of the most beautiful resorts in the Berkshires

Marlboro Manor
New Marlboro, Massachusetts
Good Food, Good Horses, Good Fun, Dancing and Cocktail Lounge Rates: $10 up including 3 meals
Make your reservations TODAY
Write Box A3
Phone SHeffield 9-5861

EARLY AMERICAN INNS

Yankee Pedlar
Old-Fashioned Food, Drink and Lodging
Open Every Day
Holyoke, Mass.
U. S. Routes 202 and 5

Yankee Silversmith
Old-Fashioned Food, Drink and Lodging
Open Every Day
Wallingford, Conn.
Exit 66, Wilbur Cross P'kway.

YANKEE DROVER
Old-Fashioned Food, Drink and Lodging
Open Every Day
Newtown, Conn.
U. S. Routes 202 and 6

WRITE US FOR FOLDER "T"

MUSIC INN
Next door to Tanglewood and the Boston Symphony. Adjacent to Berkshire Music Barn and the summer-long Folk and Jazz Festival. (Ella Fitzgerald June 30, Ethel Waters July 4, Dave Brubeck July 7, Marais and Miranda, Dyer-Bennet, Ellington, Mulligan, MJQ, many others). Former estate of countess, bordering on 2 lakes, converted to comfortable inn. Swimming, boating, tennis, bicycling, barwon, delightful food. Golf, horseback riding, dance festival nearby. 108 speaker high fidelity system, 100 acres, 100 guests. Phone Lenox 418 or Write Stephanie Barbey, Lenox, Mass.

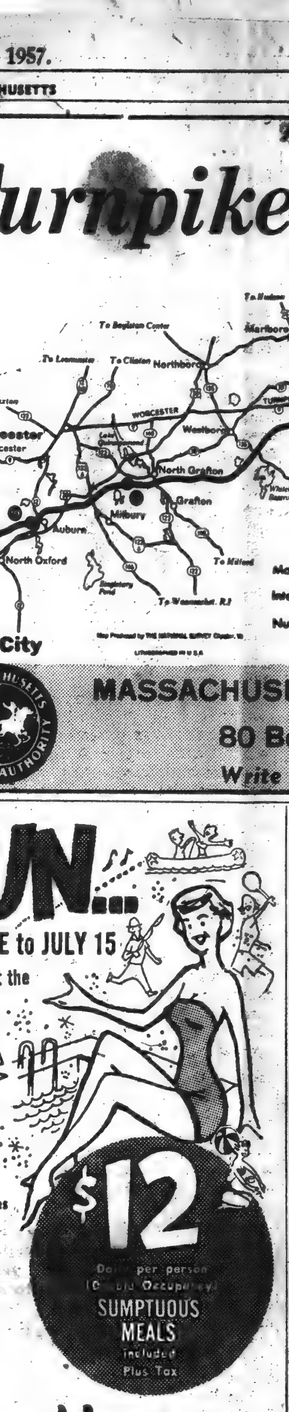
SHADOWOOD
The Roomberg—Lenox, Mass.—Phone 9614
Informal
Good food
Sports
Tanglewood and Jacobs Pillow
So. Mt. Concerts
Theater
Berkshires
N. Y. PHONE: ENGLEWOOD 6-6868

MOORLAND HOTEL
Gloucester, Mass.—on the ocean. Informal living-surf bathing-tennis. American & European Plans. Write for Booklet T.

HARMONY HOUSE
Hinsdale, Mass.—Elev. 2000 ft.
Near Tanglewood. Excel. Viennese-American cuisine. Large, airy rooms. Swimming, boating, fishing, Golf near by. Spec. June rates. Door-to-door limousine service. N. Y. Phone LO 5-0606.

Chanterwood
Box 1, Lee 2, Mass.
THE LAKESIDE "HIDEAWAY" RESORT
(Midway Tanglewood & Jacob's Pillow)
ENCHANTING lakeside setting for an ideal vacation in days gone off the highways—perfect swimming & boating, fine food, good music, tennis, other sports, barbecues, library, plenty to do right here and near by. Informal, congenial, rustic, moderate. Lower rates to June 21. May be the place you have been looking for! Folder T. Res. rec. Tel.: Lee 565.

IT'S FUN...
at this BARGAIN RATE JUNE to JULY 15
and so economical to vacation at the Famous CURTIS HOTEL!



FREE!
- Heated Swimming Pool
- Beach Chairs
- Golf — Tennis
- Guest Shows — Prizes
- Cocktails on the House
- Movies — Dancing — Games
- Moonlight Swim Parties
- Bar-B-Q — Buffet
- Parking

$12 Daily per person (Double Occupancy) SUMPTUOUS MEALS included Plus Tax

2½ hours north of N. Y. City New Parkway
Contact Your Travel Agent or Phone: LENOX 16

The Curtis Hotel
In The Beautiful BERKSHIRE HILLS, LENOX, MASSACHUSETTS

The NORTHFIELD OPEN ALL YEAR
Like Swimming, Golf, Sports, Excellent Meals?
Vacation at this delightful Inn in lovely Pioneer Valley. Swimming pool with sun deck and snack bar—golf, sports to interest every member of the family on our 250 acre estate. Informal social events and entertainment.
Rates $11 - $16 day inc. meals. Color Folder.
A. Gordon Moody, Manager
EAST NORTHFIELD 4, MASS.

TANGLEWOOD • Lenox, Mass. • JULY 3 to AUG. 11
BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL
Boston Symphony Orchestra
CHARLES MUNCH, Music Director
Fri. and Sat. eves., Sun. aft., each week
SINGLE TICKETS NOW!
First 2 week-ends: (July 5-14) "Salle Mozart" concerts
Tickets $4 and $5
Last 4 week-ends: (July 19-Aug. 11) Shed concerts
Tickets $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5.00, (Box Seats $6.50)
6 Wed. Eve. Chamber music concerts
Tickets $2 and $3
Baldwin Piano — RCA Victor Records
For programs and ticket information write:
FESTIVAL OFFICE, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

NOW OPEN
CLOSEST INN TO TANGLEWOOD
Avaloch
We free our guests from the usual resort impositions. They find complete vacation facilities which they may use or ignore in an atmosphere which is neither commercial nor coercive—just across the road from Tanglewood, new swimming pool, tennis, extensive library and record collection, free cocktail parties and dances, modified American plan featuring huge brunch served till 1 P. M. every day, epicure dinners. Post Tanglewood Beaux Arts program, special June rates. Home of the Five Raisons Tavern. A Falstaffian gathering place for arbiters of old wines, fine ales and good company.
WRITE: AVALOCH INN
DEPT. A - LENOX, MASS.
TELEPHONE LENOX 41

MASS. PIKE ... in the BERKSHIRES
The most beautiful blend of a superhighway and superb scenery in the U.S.
WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS ELECTRIC COMPANY

CAREFREE FAMILY FUN at the Blue Belton Inn
Sheffield, Mass., in the Berkshires
Everyone will enjoy the relaxing atmosphere of the Berkshires' most charming inn. Excellent cuisine, entertainment, sports.
$52 weekly, Modified American Plan
$60 weekly, Full American Plan
Low children's rates
Recommended by Duncan Hines

Reserve Early for Summer and Tanglewood Season festival house
- Modified American Plan
- Tennis
- New Filtered Swimming Pool
- Hi-Fi
- Anthony Toney free art classes
- Films
- Folk Dancing
- Diners' Club

N. Y. C. Phone TR 3-5261
Lenox, Mass. tel: lenox 367

Mandalay
LEE, MASS.
Phone: LEE 210
1 mile from Mass. Turnpike. Modern summer resort. delicious food, all facil., swimming pool, tennis on premises, golf. Tanglewood Music Festival. Low Spring Rates. Illus. Folder T.

THE HOMESTEAD
Stockbridge, Mass.
A charming, comfortable inn near TANGLEWOOD. Ill. folder and rates: Box 157, Phone 253.

Pick one for fun!
9 VACATION AREAS IN SCENIC
Massachusetts

Name your vacation pleasure! Sun-washed coast, crystal lakes, verdant countryside, dew-kissed mountains . . . perfect backdrops for swimming, fishing, sailing, golf, summer festivals or historic sightseeing. Pick one for unforgettable fun, in Massachusetts, vacation-valueland.
Write for free color brochures.
Indicate areas in which you are interested, type of accommodations (hotel, motel, guest house, cottage), length of stay.
MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Room 106—334 Boylston St., Boston 16, Mass.

WE'LL HELP YOU PLAN A BERKSHIRE HILLS OF MASSACHUSETTS VACATION

We'll help make your fondest vacation dreams come true in the glorious Berkshire Hills! Scenic splendor, antique shops, excellent fishing and golf, crystal-pure lakes and ponds, summer theater, music, dance and jazz festivals—everything to make your visit perfect! Accommodations priced to fit every purse and taste.

FREE COLOR GUIDE
For free color folder and information, write:
BERKSHIRE HILLS CONFERENCE
30 South St., Pittsfield 2, Massachusetts

ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RATES

The Wendell-Sherwood
Pittsfield, Massachusetts

IN THE HEART of the Beautiful BERKSHIRE HILLS
A completely modern, fireproof, 300-room hotel, with complete facilities including TV and Radio in all rooms. The central point to all children's camps. Tanglewood Music Festival, Jacob's Pillow, and Stock Theatres. Famous Saturday Night Smorgasbord. Write for booklet Y.
W. H. Clifford, Manager
Phone Pittsfield 4511.

Pittsfield, The Convention City of Western Massachusetts

SCRUMPTIOUS FOODS . . . OLD FASHIONED DECOR . . . MOUNTAINSIDE LOCALE MAKE THE LOG CABIN IDEAL FOR LUNCHEONS, DINNER OR COCKTAILS . . . . Only 4 miles beyond Turnpike Exit #4.
Air-Conditioned Dining Rooms
Beautiful outdoor SkyLiteTerrace
THE LOG CABIN
"member of Diners Club"
EASTHAMPTON ROAD (Rte. 141)
HOLYOKE, MASS.

Breezy Knoll Inn
PITTSFIELD 2, MASS.
—heart of Berkshires (4 hrs. from N.Y.C.) on lake, completely mosquito-free, all comforts, conveniences, tempting food (local farm products). All sports, golf nearby. Attractive rooms, good beds, fine roads, wooded trails, sheer beauty. (Open June 15).
RALPH C. GIANNONE, Host.
Tel. 2-7654

BERKSHIRE HILLS
RESORT ASSOCIATION
Exciting things to do at the most accessible, attractive and complete vacation area

HOTELS and RESORTS at LOW JUNE RATES
FREE RESERVATION and information service
Write or call
BERKSHIRE HILLS RESORT ASSOCIATION
225 W. 57th St., N.Y.C. JUdson 2-5853

EGREMONT TAVERN
So. Egremont, Mass. Rts. 41 & 23

A 200-year-old inn of noted hospitality located in the Southern Berkshires.
Fine Bed Board & Beverage
Tel: Gr. Barrington 827

OAK N' SPRUCE
SOUTH LEE, MASS.
COME WHERE THE FUN IS. Congenial guests and informal atmosphere. Swimming pool, tennis, golf, all sports. Dancing and cocktail lounge. Home style cooking. All at sensible rates. AAA and Duncan Hines. Churches within walking distance. For color folder write:
OAK n' SPRUCE
Box 501 South Lee, Mass.
FRIENDLY RESORT
New York Office Call LO 5-1118

---

yes We're right on a LAKE and only 4 miles from Tanglewood.
Extensive Record Library, Excel. Tennis
HOLIDAY INN on Laurel Lake, LEE, MASS.
2 Miles North of Exit 2, Mass. Tpke.

For A Day ... A Week or All Summer
It's The Weldon
Greenfield, Mass.
"More than a hotel—a tradition" in modern, homelike comfort and charming New England hospitality. Excellent dining, pleasing service. Cocktail lounge—solarium. European plan. Turnpike Exit 4. For booklet or reservations write or wire Jesse Hurney, Manager.

The Red Lion Inn
The Distinguished
RED LION INN
Stockbridge 1, Mass.
Now in its 185th hospitable season. Noted for charming accommodations and outstanding table. Low mod. AP rates and exciting "package" plans. Write or phone 46 for details. 4 miles Exit 2, Mass. Turnpike.
BYRNE BAUER, mag. dir.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD
Large double rooms with running water, 1 minute from beaches, 5 minutes from shopping center, amusement activities, churches, etc.
Rooms with Board
THE MARION HOUSE
30 PENNACOOK AVE. OAK BLUFFS
Telephone Vineyard 1268

MONUMENT INN
Lenox, Mass.
CENTER OF BERKSHIRE ATTRACTIONS
Delightful Colonial Inn just one mile from Tanglewood offering superb accommodations and Breakfast 'til Noon. Swimming Pool privileges. For low rates, write Jack and Nick Wallen, your hosts.

Pontoosuc Lodge
IN HEART OF BERKSHIRES
Directly on Pontoosuc Lake
JULY 4th—4 DAY WEEKEND
$48, $52, $60 per person
SPECIAL PACKAGE
JUNE 28-JULY 7
Stay 9 days—Pay for 1 week
Tennis, boating, canoeing, new swimming pool, pvt. beach; golf & riding nearby; ideal for married couples, free cocktail parties, nitely entertainment. Excellent Cuisine. Free separate day camp expertly managed. Close to Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Playhouses
Mr. and Mrs. Moe Silver
Barbara & Milton Kaledkin
BOX 1019, PITTSFIELD 1, MASS. Tel. 2-7148

SEVEN HILLS
INFORMAL ADULT RESORT
Enjoy delicious food (including 10c and bagel evening snacks); all sports (NEW OLYMPIC POOL), pvt. beach, fishing, boating, clay tennis courts, golf nearby; entertainment, hi-fi, folk singing, dancing, cocktail lounge, free art lessons. Acc. 100. Write, wire, call. Minutes fr. Tanglewood & Jacob's Pillow
Reduced June Rates
SEVEN HILLS, LENOX 1, MASS.
Call Lenox 8677

The Sea Surrounds Us
STRAITSMOUTH INN
Quiet comfort. Modest or deluxe accommodations. $35 & $75 pp a week with all meals. Churches near by.
ROCKPORT 9, MASS.

ROCKPORT CAPE ANN MASS.
TURK'S HEAD INN
INFORMAL — RESTFUL — SANDY BEACH
$77 to $98 wkly. with meals. 'ARTIST COLONY'

[56]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Indep. Republican
Circ. 305,271

JUN 16 1957

Mass. Turnpike Brings the Berkshires to Boston's Back

It's Only Two-Hour Trip From Hub to Area Exits

PITTSFIELD — The beauty and culture of the Berkshires have been brought to Boston's back yard by the new cross-state thruway.

This area, according to John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference is already feeling the influx of one-day motorists from the Boston metropolitan area. He said many of the one - day vistitors have liked their first taste of the Berkshires and are now planning longer stays in the future.

The fact that it is only a two-hour thruway trip from Boston to the two Berkshire exits makes it possible for residents of the metropolitan area to leave their homes late in the afternoon, drive the 100-odd miles to the Berkshires, dine at one of the area's many attractive eating spots, take in a performance at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow or a playhouse and return to the Hub by a reasonable hour.

Tanglewood, of course, will be the featured attraction on the Berkshires' cultural menu this summer season. The Boston Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Charles Munch will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in the town of Lenox July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

Concerts by the full BSO in the 6,000-seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms (Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9-11).

At Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival off Route 20 in Becket, also a hoot and a holler from the MTA exit, this will be the silver jubilee year. The Pillow will open its 25th season July and run through Aug. 31 for a total of 54 performances.

In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, eight soloists from the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. For the opening week, Shawn has signed the Mary Anthony Dance Theater in the group work "Threnody," seen in New York this past season.

Modern music will be played at the Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox, just down the road from Tangleood and a few minutes from the thruway exit.

NATURAL DISPLAYS

The Music Barn season will run from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be held every Sunday evening at 8:30; folk music concerts, every Saturday afternoon at 4. Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Dave Brubeck and Ella Fitzgerald are among the stars already signed for the Music Barn 1957 season.

The Berkshires also have two summer theaters. The Berkshire Playhouse will open its 26th 10-week season in Stockbridge June 24. The Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Right now one of New England's most colorful natural displays is in progress at Pittsfield State Forest on the outskirts of Central Berkshire city. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in the state forest atop a 2,000-foot peak in the Taconic Range. The area may be reached by car over a hard-surfaced road.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South St., Pittsfield, will provide free on request a circle tour map which outlines six suggested half-day motor trips through the Berkshires. The map gives detailed driving directions and descriptions of items of natural and historic interest.

If it's early American history you are interested in, a stop at the Mission House in Stockbridge is a must on any Berkshire tour. It was built in 1739 by the Rev. John Sergeant, first missionary to the Stockbridge Indians, and is open from May through November.

ROLLING berkshire Hills form a pleasant backdrop for this quiet pastoral scene. Center is Mt. Greylock, rising 3,491 feet. It is highest mountain in Massachusetts.

---

105 Church Street - New York

CUE
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MAY 25 1957

travel notes

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL

FOR THE 1957 Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood, (July 3 - August 11) Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will emphasize three things: the music of one great composer each weekend; music of contemporary importance on the programs of each of the last four weekends; and performances with Isaac Stern of the three classics of the violin literature—the concertos of Beethoven, Tchaikovsky and Brahms.

The first two weekends of concerts will be all-Bach and all-Mozart respectively. The four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will be devoted principally to music of Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven, in addition to other standard works. Charles Munch will conduct the concerts of the Bach-Mozart series and two concerts in each of the last four weeks. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will conduct the other musical events.

Here is the rundown of major events, as scheduled at this time. The names of the principal artists are given at the end of each grouping.

July 3, 10, 17, 24, 31 & August 7—Six Bach-Mozart Chamber Music Concerts in the Theatre Concert Hall, the program of which will be announced later.

July 5, 6, 7—All Bach concerts, including the six Brandenburg Concertos and Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Charles Munch.

July 12, 13, 14—All Mozart concerts, with four symphonies (including the last three), serenades, concertos and a choral work. Charles Munch. (Choral work conducted by Hugh Ross.)

July 19, 20, 21—Tchaikovsky, two symphonies and the Violin Concerto. Charles Munch, Pierre Monteux, Isaac Stern.

July 26, 27, 28—Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" with chorus and soloists; "Harold in Italy" and "Fantastic Symphony". Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux.

August 2, 3, 4—Brahms, two symphonies, Tragic Overture, and Haydn Variations, and Violin Concerto. Charles Munch, Carl Schuricht, Isaac Stern.

August 9, 10, 11—Beethoven, two symphonies, including Symphony No. 9 with chorus and soloists, Violin Concerto. Charles Munch, Carl Schuricht, Isaac Stern.

The Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. will sell you tickets: $1.10 for a box seating six, and single admissions good for three concerts each, from $6 to $15. Evening concerts start at 8:30, Sunday afternoons at 2:30. Advance reservations are suggested.

For stays of more than one night, you should contact the Berkshire Hills Conference, Pittsfield 16, Mass. (Pittsfield 2-7437 or 6406). Shorter stays can be arranged on arrival through the local information bureaus of Pittsfield, Lenox, Stockbridge, Great Barrington, North Adams and Williamstown.

—ERIC MANN

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5374
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

FORT WORTH, TEX.
STAR-TELEGRAM
Circ. D. 116,351 - S. 228,437

MAY 26 1957

Ancient, Modern Blend In Historic New England

Historic old New England offers the tourist a colorful blend of antiquity with the present.

Along this sprawling, rugged coastline the heart of American history rests, stretching from Provincetown, where the pilgrims first landed, to the quaint harbors where Yankee clipper ships and whalers established American mercantile power.

Many consider this land—a unique paradox—the country's most desirable vacation spot.

A tourist can stand in one spot and watch a slow-moving, moss-covered water wheel of a picturesque stone mill churning beside New England's mighty, modern industrial plants. This mixture of old with new always amazes tourists.

This is also the land of sea food. The lobster reigns supreme. Steamed clams, clam chowder, Indian pudding desserts, brown bread and beans in molasses—all are a part of the menu.

Variety of Transportation.

Vacationers can choose from a variety of transportation into and through New England. Many prefer to take their car or rent one. Others like to fly to New York City and take one of many tours through the northern states. Some of the most beautiful landscape in the world stretches along Rhode Island Highway 138 and down the rugged Maine coastline.

In New England a vacationer can visit America's oldest school house, a one-room red hut built in 1748 in Woodstock, Conn. In Brownington, Vt., stands the Old Stone House, chief font of learning in early American history.

A stone monument at Provincetown, on the extreme seaward tip of Cape Cod, marks the spot where the pilgrims first landed (not on the much publicized rock at Plymouth).

Old Churches, Too.

A student of ecclesiastical architecture can have a field day studying the meeting houses and churches in southern New England. The structures include Old Trinity at Brooklyn, Conn., best example of the earliest type churches in America.

Music and art are centered in the New England states during the vacation season. Tourists travel hundreds of miles each summer to attend such events as the Berkshire Festival in Lenox, Mass. (from July 3 to Aug. 11).

THE GLOBE AND MAIL, SATURDAY, JUNE 22, 1957.

Boston Group Featured At Festival

The Boston Symphony Orchestra presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Charles Munch, music director, and Pierre Monteux, July 20-28, and Carl Schuricht, Aug. 2-10.

Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer; July 5-7 will be all Bach, July 12-14 all Mozart. The last four weekends will be devoted to Tschaikovsky, July 19-21; Berlioz, July 26-28; Brahms, Aug. 2-4, and Beethoven, Aug. 9-11.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings, the series including music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be obtained from the Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. 206,408 - S. 279,780

MAY 5 1957

TIPS TO TRAVELERS

SCHOOL FOR TRAVELERS

FOUR-DAY COURSES will be held at the American Summer School at Oxford during August. The courses will be held in St. Edmund Hall, and are especially designed for American visitors who wish to learn about the historical and cultural background of favorite places of interest. For further information write: Oxford American School, 59 Five Mile Dr., Oxford, England.

★ ★ ★

TANGLEWOOD PROGRAM

CHARLES MUNCH, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced the program for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood. Some highlights:

The first two weekends of the festival in the Theater-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, respectively. The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will feature works of Tchaikovsky and Igor Stravinsky.

Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor. The final weekend of the festival will feature emphasis on the works of Beethoven. For complete details write Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

SUNDAY, JUNE 9, 1957 NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Berkshires Have Varied Attractions

LENOX, Mass.

One may be active or lazy, as whim dictates, in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts. Throughout the region there is swimming, sailing, fishing, riding, golfing, tennis, hiking, picnicking in the beautiful state forests, and other sports, as well as many activities for the spectator.

Outstanding among the cultural offerings is the Berkshire Symphonic Festival at Tanglewood under the direction of Charles Munch. Mr. Munch and guest conductors will present a series of concerts of the great masters each week end. During the week instrumental, choral and operatic performances are presented daily in the Music Center.

Dance students may attend the famous Ted Shawn's School of the Dance at Jacob's Pillow, Becket. Interpretive dance programs are presented afternoons and evenings, each Friday and Saturday from the first of July through Labor Day.

Stockbridge Playhouse starts its season in mid-June, with productions extending to the first of September. The drama school operates concurrently. Well-known stage and screen stars appear regularly.

The nature lover will find plenty of interest. There is Pleasant Valley Bird and Wildflower Sanctuary, Lenox, one of the finest anywhere. Bartholomew's Cobble, Ashley Falls, is of unusual geologic formation and contains a great variety of wild flowers, shrubs and trees.

Trout fishing extends through July 31. All other fishing may be enjoyed throughout the season, including black bass, which becomes legal July 1.

In Sheffield there is a big trout hatchery where the visitor may catch his own dinner for a nominal fee.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970

JUN 9 1957

THE BERKSHIRES—MUSIC, DANCE AND NATURE

New Turnpike Is Bringing Bostonians To the State's Westernmost County

By MARGERY DOUGLAS

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—Berkshire County, the westernmost of the fourteen that make up the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, has suddenly been "discovered" by daring motorists from the eastern part of the state.

For years, of course, it has been known as a vacation Shangri-la for New Yorkers and New Jerseyites, who have accounted for 85 per cent of the tourist business. But Bay Staters living east of the Connecticut River seldom have ventured that far.

Now, with the opening of the $239,000,000 cross-state toll road, the mysterious Berkshires lie only two and a half hours' distance from provincial Boston. This eventually may result in mutual benefit to both of these sections.

Some Bostonians have visited the Berkshires to continue their associations with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which has an annual six-week festival of music at Tanglewood in Lenox. Now, their neighbors have joined in the westward trek, weekends so far, to learn more about this picturesque hill country and its cultural attractions.

Still others have been bold enough, in the fall, to take occasional trips along Massachusetts Route 2, to see the autumn foliage on the Mohawk trail between Greenfield and Williamstown. Their friends this spring have been learning about Bartholomew's Cobble, Bash Bish Falls and Jacob's Pillow, three of the natural wonders of the county.

Berkshire extends across the entire western end of Massachusetts, being bounded north, west and south by Vermont, New York and Connecticut. It has drawn something of the beauty and graciousness of each. Its people live at a quieter pace, even though such industrial concerns as the General Electric Company have plants in the region.

In such a setting, culture plays an important part in the summer vacation season. Yet, there are wide varieties of offerings for sports, camping and relaxation.

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open July 3, this year. Under the baton of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony will give performances each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

Not far from Tanglewood, also in Lenox, the Berkshire Music Barn will resound with jazz from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be given Sunday evenings and folk music concerts on Saturday afternoons.

This year the Music Inn has a new 300-seat restaurant and bar, the Potting Shed, which will serve food and drinks to travelers as well as inn guests and will provide an after-concert meeting place with both indoor and outdoor dancing. New, too, is the School of Jazz, a professional music school staffed by some of the leading jazz musicians of the day. The school opens Aug. 12 for a three-week course.

Dance Festival

At Jacob's Pillow, off Route 20, in Becket, Ted Shawn's dance festival will have fifty-four performances between July 1 and Aug. 31. In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and André Eglevsky, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. The Mary Anthony Dance Theatre will present the group work "Threnody" for opening week.

The New England region abounds in summer theatres. There are two in the Berkshires. The Berkshire Playhouse at Stockbridge will open a ten-week season June 24. The Williamstown Summer Theatre will open an eight-week season July 5 in the college town to the north. Williamstown also is the site of the new Sterling and Francine Clark Art Museum.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, at 50 South Street in this city, can furnish detailed information on the county. One of its promotions is a map, outlining six circle tours of different parts of the county.

The section is served from the south by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, from the west by the New York Central System and from both directions, as well as the east, by Greyhound Bus Lines.

Outdoor Activities

The Berkshires embrace ninety woodland lakes and ponds, 274 trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves. These afford opportunities for camping, fishing, swimming, boating and other outdoor activities. And there are numerous golf courses, tennis courts and other athletic facilities.

This month, the Pittsfield state forest is ablaze with natural azaleas covering 100 acres surrounding Berry pond. Bartholomew's Cobble, in Ashley Falls, is a jagged limestone outcropping that forms a natural rock garden of ferns and shrubs.

Bash Bish Falls are in the town of Mount Washington, on the New York state line. There also is a natural marble bridge in the town of Clarksburg. The highest peak in Massachusetts, Mount Greylock is in New Ashford. Its 3,491-foot height is tiny in comparison with even minor Rockies. But the Berkshires emphasize the quality of their natural wonders, rather than the quantity.

This is the Second Part of
THE SUMMER VACATION SECTION
Because of its size, this feature is published in two parts. See first part (Section 10) for additional resort and travel news, pictures and advertising.

ONLY 2 HOURS FROM BOSTON
Acres of Pink Azaleas Now Abloom in the Berkshires

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—The new cross-state throughway has brought the beauties of the Berkshires two hours closer to the Boston metropolitan area. It is now only a two-hour motor trip over the new toll-road from Boston to the heart of the Berkshire Hills. And already residents of the Boston area are beginning to find out that there is more than just Indian territory west of the Hub.

★ ★ ★

Right now a trip to this Central Berkshire city, just 20 minutes from the Lee exit of the thruway, will bring you to a display unmatched in New England—the azalea fields at Pittsfield State Forest, largest natural azalea fields in the six-state region.

The fields are located just eight miles from the center of Pittsfield and may be reached over a hard-surfaced road which for three miles follows the brink of heavily forested Lulu Cascade.

The pink flowering trees cover 100 acres surrounding Berry Pond. The 11-acre pond, highest natural body of water in Massachusetts, is atop Berry Mountain, a 200-foot peak in the Taconic Range.

★ ★ ★

All of the many natural, cultural and historic attractions in Berkshire County's 32 communities are within a half hour drive from either the Lee or West Stockbridge exits from the thruway.

Especially for the motorist, the Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South st., Pittsfield, provides free on request a circle tour map designed specifically for half-day automobile tours of the Berkshires. The six tours cover all major attractions in the areas.

One of the must stops for the nature lover is the Pleasant Valley Sanctuary off Routes 20 and 7 in Lenox, just 10 minutes off the thruway. The sanctuary covers one square mile of Berkshire woodland and includes a natural history museum, eight miles of trials and a beaver colony. A restaurant at the sanctuary is open during July and August.

The convenience of the thruway, according to John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference, is expected to acquaint many more Eastern seaboard residents with the many cultural attractions in the Berkshires.

Best known, of course, is the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox. This year's Tanglewood season runs from July 3 to Aug. 11 with concerts Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons under the direction of Charles Munch.

★ ★ ★

A new favorite in the Berkshire's musical menu is the Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox which will run from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be presented every Sunday evening; folk concerts every Saturday afternoon, and ethnic groups during the week illustrating music from other parts of the world.

Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Becket also is one of the area's major Summer cultural offerings.

Actually, the new east-west super highway has brought the Berkshires within communting distance for the man who wants his family to spend a Summer at a cottage on one of the county's 90 woodland lakes and ponds.

It also has brought the Berkshires within an afternoon's picnic of backdoor Boston. Roads throughout the Berkshires are dotted with neat picnicing spots maintained by the State Department of Public Works. For more elaborate picnicing facilities, a trip to one of the area's many state parks is the answer.

And, if it rains on your picnic, you can just bundle the family off to one of the many museums. A special favorite is the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield, covering art, science and local history. Many parents have found that the Berkshire Museum's extensive display of birds, reptiles and animals are better than a built-in baby sitter when it comes to entertaining the children.

For those whose taste runs to richer things, there is the Clark Art Institute in Williamstown. The diet there includes 17th and 19th century American and European paintings and a French Impressionist collection, including 33 Renoirs. And, like the Berkshire Museum, there's no charge.

ground, with its fascinating devises and facilities for the little folks.

A constant stream of anglers literally pours into the resort daily from Spring until late Fall in quest of bonita, tuna, flounder, croakers, weak, king, sea bass and a score of other species, depending upon what is running at the time. They expect good catches—and usually get them.

On duty daily to safeguard bathers in the event of emergency is a large and efficient beach patrol.

Wildwood's pure drinking water, pumped from 36 wells, is a refreshment treat to Wildwood visitors.

Visitors to the resort may, regardless of creed or denomination, worship in the church of their choice.

★ ★ ★

In accordance with years of custom a lengthy list of special events and programs have been arranged for the pleasure and entertainment of vacationists.

At the top is the 47th annual baby parade, which will be held on the boardwalk under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, Aug. 15.

The annual spectacular boat parade and fireworks display will be staged by the Kiwanis Club on Aug. 9. A unique event for children will be the annual kiddies' fishing rodeo, with many prizes for winners, on Aug. 17.

The resort's five annual tennis tournaments will get under way the week of July 8 with the boys' singles and doubles. Scheduled for the week of July 15 are the men's singles and doubles; for the week of July 22, the women's tournaments and mixed doubles, and the week of July 29, the girls' tournaments.

Set to open Aug. 3 is the annual shuffleboard doubles tourna-

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293

MAY 19 1957

New York

New York City
June 19-Aug. 16—Guggenheim Memorial Concerts by Goldman Band at Central and Prospect Parks.
June 24-Aug. 3—Lewisohn Stadium orchestral concerts.

Chautauqua
July 5-Aug. 21—Operas and symphonic concerts.

Ellenville
July 4-Aug. 4—Empire State Music Festival. Symphonic concerts, opera and ballet.

Katonah
June 15, 22, 29—Chamber and early music programs at Caramoor.

Rochester
July 4, 6—"Hansel and Gretel."
July 24, 27—"Die Fledermaus."
Aug. 14, 16—"Aida."

Stony Brook, L. I.
June 29, July 13, Aug. 3—Symphonic concerts at Dogwood Hollow.

Woodstock
July 5-Sept. 1—Performances by Turnau Opera Company; chamber music.

New Jersey

Millburn
June 16, 30, July 14—Orchestral concerts at Paper Mill Playhouse.

Ventnor
Aug. 6, 13, 20, 27—Recitals at Ventnor Pier.

Connecticut

Falls Village
June 30-Sept. 1—Sunday chamber music concerts at Music Mountain by Berkshire String Quartet.

New Haven
June 25, July 9, 23, Aug. 6—Chamber music at Yale Art Gallery.

Norfolk
June 20-July 31—Chamber music at Norfolk Music School of Yale University.

Stratford
June 30; Aug. 5, 12, 19—Chamber music concerts at the Shakespeare Festival.

Andover
July 15-Aug. organ recitals

Boston
June 14-29—lic Garden.

Ipswich
June 28-Aug certs. Symph music progra

Lenox
July 3-Aug. Tanglewood. chestra.
June 30-Se Barn. Jazz

Pittsfield
July 19-Oct South Moun

Waltham
June 1-8— University.

Newport
July 4-6—

Bennington
Aug. 11-2 certs at Bennington College.

Burlington
July 16-Aug. 6—Four concerts at University of Vermont.

Marlboro
June 29-Aug. 26—Chamber music at Marlboro College.

Maine

Blue Hill
July 8-Sept. 1—Chamber music concerts at Kneisel Hall.

Camden
June 10-Sept. —Concerts at the Summer Harp Colony.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
POST
Circ. D. 389,0 S. 258,545

JUN 26 1957

There's Music All Over Town—Opera to Jazz

By HARRIETT JOHNSON

Though summertime finds the Metropolitan Opera House, Carnegie Hall and Town Hall just about out of business, this doesn't mean that the music lover must languish in silence!

Whoever yearns for the sound of strings, winds and percussion or for bursts of song can find it under the stars and moon or in air-conditioned theaters without leaving New York City. And for those on vacation or tinged by the wanderlust, they can, within a four-hour radius by car or train, hear Bach or Beethoven or the hottest jazz.

* * *

The Berkshire Festival with the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood, and the Empire State Music Festival with the Symphony of the Air at Ellenville, N. Y., are the more expressive of these, while on a smaller scale the New Jersey Symphony at Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, plus concerts at Stratford, Conn., at Caramoor, Katonah, N. Y., and at Stony Brook, L. I., have events which vary from chamber music through light opera to programs for full orchestra.

* * *

events connected with Jamestown Festival.

West Virginia

Wheeling
June 30-Sept. 2—Choral and pop concerts, recitals and opera at Oglebay Park.

rly American Moraival.

5—Robin Hood Dell

lphia Orchestra.
e-Poconos
ve chamber music

Ohio

—Opera at Cincinnati

—Cleveland Pop Con-

rginia

lov.—Various musical

TIME
Aug 9 1957

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970

JUN 9 1957

ONLY 2 HOURS FROM BOSTON

Acres of Pink Azaleas Now Abloom in the Berkshires

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—The new cross-state throughway has brought the beauties of the Berkshires two hours closer to the Boston metropolitan area. It is now only a two-hour motor trip over the new toll-road from Boston to the heart of the Berkshire Hills. And already residents of the Boston area are beginning to find out that there is more than just Indian territory west of the Hub.

★ ★ ★

Right now a trip to this Central Berkshire city, just 20 minutes from the Lee exit of the thruway, will bring you to a display unmatched in New England—the azalea fields at Pittsfield State Forest, largest natural azalea fields in the six-state region.

The fields are located just eight miles from the center of Pittsfield and may be reached over a hard-surfaced road which for three miles follows the brink of heavily forested Lulu Cascade.

The pink flowering trees cover 100 acres surrounding Berry Pond. The 11-acre pond, highest natural body of water in Massachusetts, is atop Berry Mountain, a 200-foot peak in the Taconic Range.

★ ★ ★

All of the many natural, cultural and historic attractions in Berkshire County's 32 communities are within a half hour drive from either the Lee or West Stockbridge exits from the thruway.

Especially for the motorist, the Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South st., Pittsfield, provides free on request a circle tour map designed specifically for half-day automobile tours of the Berkshires. The six tours cover all major attractions in the areas.

One of the must stops for the nature lover is the Pleasant Valley Sanctuary off Routes 20 and 7 in Lenox, just 10 minutes off the thruway. The sanctuary covers one square mile of Berkshire woodland and includes a natural history museum, eight miles of trials and a beaver colony. A restaurant at the sanctuary is open during July and August.

The convenience of the thruway, according to John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference, is expected to acquaint many more Eastern seaboard residents with the many cultural attractions in the Berkshires.

Best known, of course, is the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox. This year's Tanglewood season runs from July 3 to Aug. 11 with concerts Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons under the direction of Charles Munch.

★ ★ ★

A new favorite in the Berkshire's musical menu is the Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox which will run from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be presented every Sunday evening; folk concerts every Saturday afternoon, and ethnic groups during the week illustrating music from other parts of the world.

Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Becket also is one of the area's major Summer cultural offerings.

Actually, the new east-west super highway has brought the Berkshires within commuting distance for the man who wants his family to spend a Summer at a cottage on one of the county's 90 woodland lakes and ponds.

It also has brought the Berkshires within an afternoon's picnic of backdoor Boston. Roads throughout the Berkshires are dotted with neat picnicing spots maintained by the State Department of Public Works. For more elaborate picnicing facilities, a trip to one of the area's many state parks is the answer.

And, if it rains on your picnic, you can just bundle the family off to one of the many museums. A special favorite is the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield, covering art, science and local history. Many parents have found that the Berkshire Museum's extensive display of birds, reptiles and animals are better than a built-in baby sitter when it comes to entertaining the children.

For those whose taste runs to richer things, there is the Clark Art Institute in Williamstown. The diet there includes 17th and 19th century American and European paintings and a French Impressionist collection, including 33 Renoirs. And, like the Berkshire Museum, there's no charge.

ground, with its fascinating devises and facilities for the little folks.

A constant stream of anglers literally pours into the resort daily from Spring until late Fall in quest of bonita, tuna, flounder, croakers, weak, king, sea bass and a score of other species, depending upon what is running at the time. They expect good catches—and usually get them.

On duty daily to safeguard bathers in the event of emergency is a large and efficient beach patrol.

Wildwood's pure drinking water, pumped from 36 wells, is a refreshment treat to Wildwood visitors.

Visitors to the resort may, regardless of creed or denomination, worship in the church of their choice.

★ ★ ★

In accordance with years of custom a lengthy list of special events and programs have been arranged for the pleasure and entertainment of vacationists.

At the top is the 47th annual baby parade, which will be held on the boardwalk under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, Aug. 15.

The annual spectacular boat parade and fireworks display will be staged by the Kiwanis Club on Aug. 9. A unique event for children will be the annual kiddies' fishing rodeo, with many prizes for winners, on Aug. 17.

The resort's five annual tennis tournaments will get under way the week of July 8 with the boys' singles and doubles. Scheduled for the week of July 15 are the men's singles and doubles; for the week of July 22, the women's tournaments and mixed doubles, and the week of July 29, the girls' tournaments.

Set to open Aug. 3 is the annual shuffleboard doubles tournaments. The singles tournament will start Aug. 31.

The Greater Wildwood Inter-City Junior Moth Regatta will be sailed on July 13 and 14 on Sunset Lake, and the annual Greater Wildwood Yacht Club Sailing Regatta on July 27 and 28.

THE BERKSHIRES—MUSIC, DANCE AND NATURE

New Turnpike Is Bringing Bostonians To the State's Westernmost County

By MARGERY DOUGLAS

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—Berkshire County, the westernmost of the fourteen that make up the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, has suddenly been "discovered" by daring motorists from the eastern part of the state.

For years, of course, it has been known as a vacation Shangri-la for New Yorkers and New Jerseyites, who have accounted for 85 per cent of the tourist business. But Bay Staters living east of the Connecticut River seldom have ventured that far.

Now, with the opening of the $239,000,000 cross-state toll road, the mysterious Berkshires lie only two and a half hours' distance from provincial Boston. This eventually may result in mutual benefit to both of these sections.

Some Bostonians have visited the Berkshires to continue their associations with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which has an annual six-week festival of music at Tanglewood in Lenox. Now, their neighbors have joined in the westward trek, weekends so far, to learn more about this picturesque hill country and its cultural attractions.

Still others have been bold enough, in the fall, to take occasional trips along Massachusetts Route 2, to see the autumn foliage on the Mohawk trail between Greenfield and Williamstown. Their friends this spring have been learning about Bartholomew's Cobble, Bash Bish Falls and Jacob's Pillow, three of the natural wonders of the county.

Berkshire extends across the entire western end of Massachusetts, being bounded north, west and south by Vermont, New York and Connecticut. It has drawn something of the beauty and graciousness of each. Its people live at a quieter pace, even though such industrial concerns as the General Electric Company have plants in the region.

In such a setting, culture plays an important part in the summer vacation season. Yet, there are wide varieties of offerings for sports, camping and relaxation.

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open [illegible] this year. Under the [illegible] Charles Munch, the Bos[illegible]phony will give perf[illegible] each Friday and Satur[illegible]ning and Sunday after[illegible]

Not far from Tangle[illegible] in Lenox, the Berkshi[illegible] Barn will resound with jazz from June 30 through Sept. 1. Jazz concerts will be given Sunday evenings and folk music concerts on Saturday afternoons.

This year the Music Inn has a new 300-seat restaurant and bar, the Potting Shed, which will serve food and drinks to travelers as well as inn guests and will provide an after-concert meeting place with both indoor and outdoor dancing. New, too, is the School of Jazz, a professional music school staffed by some of the leading jazz musicians of the day. The school opens Aug. 12 for a three-week course.

Dance Festival

At Jacob's Pillow, off Route 20, in Becket, Ted Shawn's dance festival will have fifty-four performances between July 1 and Aug. 31. In the ballet field this season will be Maria [illegible]sky, Jan[illegible] Na[illegible]lony [illegible] the [illegible] for [illegible]gion [illegible]tres. [illegible]ires. at [illegible] week [illegible]ams- [illegible] open [illegible] 5 in [illegible]orth. [illegible]te of the new Sterling and Francine Clark Art Museum.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, at 50 South Street in this city, can furnish detailed information on the county. One of its promotions is a map, outlining six circle tours of different parts of the county.

The section is served from the south by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, from the west by the New York Central System and from both directions, as well as the east, by Greyhound Bus Lines.

Outdoor Activities

The Berkshires embrace ninety woodland lakes and ponds, 274 trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves. These afford opportunities for camping, fishing, swimming, boating and other outdoor activities. And there are numerous golf courses, tennis courts and other athletic facilities.

This month, the Pittsfield state forest is ablaze with natural azaleas covering 100 acres surrounding Berry pond. Bartholomew's Cobble, in Ashley Falls, is a jagged limestone outcropping that forms a natural rock garden of ferns and shrubs.

Bash Bish Falls are in the town of Mount Washington, on the New York state line. There also is a natural marble bridge in the town of Clarksburg. The highest peak in Massachusetts, Mount Greylock is in New Ashford. Its 3,491-foot height is tiny in comparison with even minor Rockies. But the Berkshires emphasize the quality of their natural wonders, rather than the quantity.

This is the Second Part of
THE SUMMER VACATION SECTION
Because of its size, this feature is published in [illegible] parts. See first part (Section 10) for addi[illegible] resort and travel news, pictures and adverti[illegible]

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293

MAY 19 1957

New York

New York City
June 19-Aug. 16—Guggenheim Memorial Concerts by Goldman Band at Central and Prospect Parks.

June 24-Aug. 3—Lewisohn Stadium orchestral concerts.

Chautauqua
July 5-Aug. 21—Operas and symphonic concerts.

Ellenville
July 4-Aug. 4—Empire State Music Festival. Symphonic concerts, opera and ballet.

Katonah
June 15, 22, 29—Chamber and early music programs at Caramoor.

Rochester
July 4, 6—"Hansel and Gretel."
July 24, 27—"Die Fledermaus."
Aug. 14, 16—"Aida."

Stony Brook, L. I.
June 29, July 13, Aug. 3—Symphonic concerts at Dogwood Hollow.

Woodstock
July 5-Sept. 1—Performances by Turnau Opera Company; chamber music.

New Jersey

Millburn
June 16, 30, July 14—Orchestral concerts at Paper Mill Playhouse.

Ventnor
Aug. 6, 13, 20, 27—Recitals at Ventnor Pier.

Connecticut

Falls Village
June 30-Sept. 1—Sunday chamber music concerts at Music Mountain by Berkshire String Quartet.

New Haven
June 28, July 9, 23, Aug. 6—Chamber music at Yale Art Gallery.

Norfolk
June 20-July 31—Chamber music at Norfolk Music School of Yale University.

Stratford
June 30; Aug. 5, 12, 19—Chamber music concerts at the Shakespeare Festival.

Massachusetts

Andover
July 15-Aug. 24—Concerts and daily organ recitals at Organ Institute.

Boston
June 14-29—Arts Festival at the Public Garden.

Ipswich
June 28-Aug. 17—Castle Hill Concerts. Symphonic, jazz and chamber music programs.

Lenox
July 3-Aug. 11—Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood. Boston Symphony Orchestra.
June 30-Sept. 1—Berkshire Music Barn. Jazz and folk song concerts.

Pittsfield
July 19-Oct. 6—Chamber music at South Mountain.

Waltham
June 1-8—Arts Festival at Brandeis University.

Rhode Island

Newport
July 4-6—Newport Jazz Festival.

Vermont

Bennington
Aug. 11-25—Chamber orchestra concerts at Bennington College.

Burlington
July 16-Aug. 6—Four concerts at University of Vermont.

Marlboro
June 29-Aug. 26—Chamber music at Marlboro College.

Maine

Blue Hill
July 8-Sept. 1—Chamber music concerts at Kneisel Hall.

Camden [illegible]
June 10-Sept. [illegible]—Concerts at the Summer Harp Colony.

Hancock
August—Orchestral concerts at the Domain School of Pierre Monteux.

North Bridgton
July 8-Aug. 18—Concerts at Berkley Summer Music School.

Pennsylvania

Bethlehem
June 25-30—Early American Moravian Music Festival.

Philadelphia
June 17-July 25—Robin Hood Dell Concerts. Philadelphia Orchestra.

Tamiment-in-the-Poconos
June 20-23—Five chamber music concerts.

Ohio

Cincinnati
June 29-July 27—Opera at Cincinnati Zoo Park.

Cleveland
July 6-Aug. 24—Cleveland Pop Concerts.

Virginia

Jamestown
Now through Nov.—Various musical events connected with Jamestown Festival.

West Virginia

Wheeling
June 30-Sept. 2—Choral and pop concerts, recitals and opera at Oglebay Park.

Music Mag - Summer 1957

TIMES June 9, 1957

LC5 C593

New York State Motorist
NEW YORK, N. Y.

JUL 1957

New England Ideal For Two-Week Trip

This is the year for re-discovering New England. With the arrival of the "Mayflower II" to these shores, thousands of latter-day "pilgrims" are finding the stimulus for revisiting the tidy attractive states to the northeast. They will be joined, of course, by a host of first-time visitors eager to see what all the fuss is about.

Although New England has long been tailor-made for a two-week motoring vacation, the completion of the new Massachusetts Turnpike brings once remote areas within even easier reach of New Yorkers.

The two-week, 1,150-mile tour outlined here is notable for its variety of scenic and historic attractions and because it provides for stop-overs at some of the finest resorts in the country.

Northeast from New York via the Merritt and Wilbur Cross Parkways, the route passes through Sturbridge, Mass., for a visit to a bit of early Americana in the form of reconstructed Old Sturbridge Village. This is an authentic 18th century town complete with village green, chapel, pre-Revolutionary homes, general store, tavern, covered bridges, grist mill, and a variety of shops where arts and crafts of the period are practiced. A fine restaurant and good accommodations are nearby.

Boston's Freedom Trail Leads to Many Landmarks

It is only a short run via the Massachusetts Turnpike to the historic city of Boston. Since driving is something less than pleasant in this congested metropolis, wise tourists will do well to park their cars and take the famous walking tour along the "Freedom Trail." The Trail begins in front of the Old State House and leads to such landmarks as the Granary Burying Grounds, Fanueil Hall, Old North Church and Paul Revere's House.

By-passing Cape Cod, which is well worth a separate visit, the tour heads to the delightful Cape Ann peninsula northeast of Boston. Closely tied to early seafaring traditions, Cape Ann has a personality all its own. Gloucester, at the tip of the Cape, is a summer resort noted for its rocky coast, fine beaches and active art colony.

At Salem the tourist can visit the site of the famous witchcraft trials, as well as the "House of Seven Gables," featured in Nathaniel Hawthorne's classic tale.

Northward, the tour follows the New Hampshire-Maine Turnpike into Augusta and then via Maine 3 to Acadia National Park.

Preserved as a public recreation area by reason of its spectacular mountain and seacoast scenery, the park is dominated by Cadillac Mountain, highest point on the Eastern seaboard. The important resort town of Bar Harbor fronts on a beautiful bay and has fine accommodations for a short stay.

Maine Lake District Provides Change of Pace

Having absorbed much of the maritime background of New England, the tour provides a change of pace by heading into the timber and lake district of central Maine. Here the emphasis is on bathing, fishing or just plain relaxing amid the lush forest surroundings. Fine summer stock is available, with one of the better theaters being located at Lakewood.

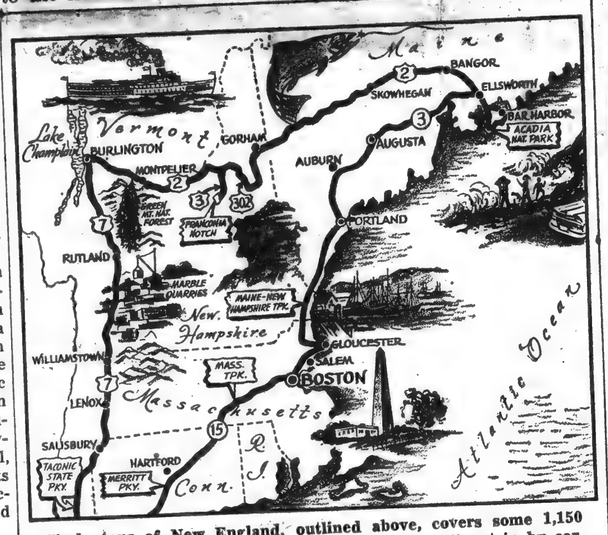
Next stop is the White Mountain area of New Hampshire. From Gorham, a scenic loop leads through the notches and valleys of the great Presidential Range. For a top-of-the-world view, a cog railway leads to the summit of Mt. Washington, while the peak of Cannon Mountain is reached via aerial tramway.

At the end of the loop is Twin Mountain, a favored spot for stop-overs, from which short trips can be made to Franconia Notch and such attractions as the Flume and the "Old Man of the Mountain."

Crossing into the state of Vermont, a stop should be planned in Barre, sometimes called the "Granite Capital of the U. S." Visitors may watch the blasting of huge blocks of granite from a solid mountain and then observe their conversion into beautiful monuments.

At Burlington, and adjacent Lake Champlain, there are opportunities for swimming and a sightseeing boat ride before continuing homeward on U.S. 7. This scenic route leads through some of the more interesting resort country of the Green Mountains.

Final highlight of the tour comes in the Berkshires of Massachusetts where the amazingly popular Berkshire Music Festival holds forth at Tanglewood (Lenox) until mid-August. Here you may enjoy the finest of music while lolling on the spacious lawns near the Music Shed. Be sure to have a place to spend the night, however, for all nearby accommodations are booked far in advance.



Circle tour of New England, outlined above, covers some 1,150 miles. It is ideal for a two-week or longer vacation trip by car.

Capturing New England by brush and camera. At left, Rockport on Cape Ann. Above, quiet scene at Pinkham Notch in the White Mountains.

Tourists watch giant blocks of granite being quarried at Barre, Vt., the largest granite producing area in the country. Tour of New England also leads through Vermont's beautiful Green Mountains.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,994 - S. 855,847
JUN 30 1957

Our Critic Rates the Summer Music Offerings

By MILES KASTENDIECK

WHAT with the Stadium Concerts a week old, the Empire State Music Festival opening on Thursday, and the Berkshire Festival beginning its orchestral concerts on Friday, Summer music activity will be well set up.

Of these only Stadium Concerts provide "music under the stars." In its 40th season New York City's Summer music festival adheres closely to its original policy. While never a "pop" series, time has so conditioned the public that the programs have on the whole become much more popular in nature than they were 40 years ago. Though the shell has changed, Lewisohn Stadium has become a familiar spot to countless music lovers.

Ellenville's Fresh

At Ellenville, N. Y., everything is still new. In its third season, the Empire State Festival retains its pristine freshness. This it may hold for years if its program policy sustains the novelty it has had from the start.

Of the three festivals, the one at Ellenville offers the most provocative events. Interestingly, it opens with a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony; the Berkshire Festival will close with this work.

At Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., tradition has established the Bach-Mozart weekends at the start of the six-week Berkshire Festival. These will be followed literally this year. The three Bach concerts this coming weekend will be followed by three Mozart programs next weekend. For a while Charles Munch had varied these by bringing in other 18th century composers and even contemporary works.

It's Conservative

The "Great Composers Series" in the Music Shed shows a conservatism characteristic of this festival, now in its 20th season for the Boston Symphony. Fortunately, and perhaps painlessly, contemporary music has not been entirely squeezed out.

For the Tchaikovsky weekend, there will be some Stravinsky. For the Berlioz weekend two works by Hindemith have been scheduled. For the Brahms weekend Egk, Barber, and Piston are represented. For the Beethoven weekend Honegger, Blacher, and Copland have been included.

Generally the older festivals play safe. Do they do so from choice or because of necessity? How responsible is the public for this conservatism?

to the works of one of the great composers: Bach (July 5, 6, 7); Mozart (July 12, 13, 14); Tschaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21); Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28); Brahms (August 2, 3, 4); Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

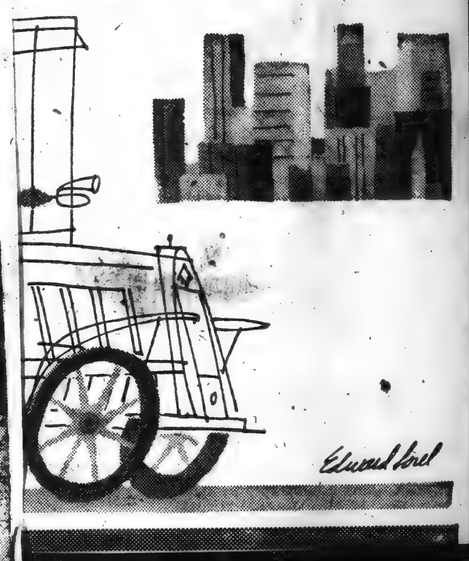
Pierre Monteux will wield the baton during the Tschaikovsky and Berlioz programs and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor for the last two weekends. Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will make an extended visit to Tanglewood this summer to perform the violin concertos of Tschaikovsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

Bu
PRESS CL
165 Church
NEW
Circ. D. 557
MAY

THE NORTHEAST

CONNEC
Dogwood Festival, 12-24.
House, Garden T May 14-15. Da Litchfield, July 1
Military Show, Sto University of Con
Tennis, Hartford, N New England Int
Horse Shows: Fa 17-19. Middleto Westport, June 2 field, June 30. Litchfield, Aug. 1 Sept. 7-8. Bethl Durham, Sept. 28.
Track Meet, Storrs, May 10. Yankee Conference competition.
Dance Festival, New Canaan, May 25. Second annual.
Auto Races, Thompson, May 26; June 29; Sept. 1-2.
Art Show, New Canaan, June 7-July 10. Oils, water-colors.
Regatta, New London, June 14. Yale-Harvard meet on Thames River.
Golf: State Qualifying Tournament, Wethersfield, June 18. State Amateur Championship, New Haven, June 24-27. Avon, July 21-23. $20,000 Insurance City Open, Wethersfield, Aug. 29-Sept. 2.
Shakespeare Festival, Stratford, June 22-Aug. 24.
Barnum Festival, Bridgeport, June 27-July 6.
American Dance Festival, New London, Aug. 15-18.
Antiques Show, New Haven, Sept. 28-Oct. 1. The twentieth annual.
Striped Bass Derby June 15-July 15.
Laurel Week, Westfie
Blessing the Port Gloucester, June at 3 P. M.
Strawberry Festiva June 22.
St. Peter Fiesta, Gl 27-30.
Blessing the Fleet, June 30.
Berkshire Music Barn 30-Sept. 1. Jazz P. M. Sundays. F P. M. Saturdays.
Berkshire Music Fes
Antique Show, Chatham, Aug. 12-16.
Indian Ceremony, Popponesset, Aug. 17-18.
Tuna Tournament, Barnstable, Aug. 25-28.

5 Events



Edward Lord

also are restoration projects that bring back the past faithfully. One of these is the Saugus Iron Works, just a few miles north of Boston, off U. S. 1. This has been officially declared to be the birthplace of the iron and steel industry in this country by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The institute operates it as a nonprofit enterprise.

Then, Sturbridge Village, near the junction of State Routes 15 and 20, is a recreated New England town of 150 years ago. There are shops, homes, a general store, tavern, mansion house and church meeting house.

In Massachusetts, as in most of New England, not the least of the attractions are summer stock theatres.

Then, too, there are art centers, such as those at Gloucester and Rockport on the North Shore, and Provincetown at the tip of Cape Cod. There is a music center at Lenox, in the Berkshires, where the Boston Symphony Orchestra summers while its players teach.

Pioneer Valley is the link between central Massachusetts and the Berkshire hills. Springfield is its largest community. In the than 200 inns, guest ms that will ght guests. roted vaca- chusetts is 00 miles of rly 00 miles vered picket shing dories growing in d white sand lavor of the miles at sea, er and plane, Vine- ol and ndent enough fferent flavor

[58]

PRESS CL
165 Church
NEW
Circ. D. 55
MAY

late fall cruises to the Caribbean.

On August 25, the Maasdam will leave New York for 11 days including Labor Day. The minimum rate is $235.

The Nieuw Amsterdam will sail on November 1 for 13 days to southern waters, with rates starting at $350. Another 13-day cruise, aboard the Ryndam is scheduled for November 27. The minimum rate is $265.

The last of the newly announced series will be the Statendam's sailing on December 10. Rates begin at $235 for this 9½ day voyage.

MEDITERRANEAN SAILING

Cunard's Britannic is again scheduled for its popular all-Mediterranean cruise. The liner will sail from New York on January 24 for 66 days. Its log includes stops at 22 ports in 18 countries and minimum rates begin at $1,275.

ZIM CARIBBEAN SCHEDULE

The Zim Line's newest and fastest luxury liner, the Theodor Herzl, has been scheduled for its first series of Caribbean cruises

Popular Statendam Ideal for Tourists

In recent years there have been many new additions to the sparkling fleets of trans-Atlantic ships, and it is obvious that the trend is toward improving the lot of the budget-minded

Replicas of the three ships that brought first English settlers to the New World lie in their basin at Jamestown Festival Park.

with emphasis on the off-season

City festival

New Yorkers who plan late summer vacations need not fret about "being stuck in the city" until August or early September.

As part of the city's Summer Festival, a number of gala special events have been planned to make New York a summer haven.

Visits to the Mayflower II in its Hudson River berth, museum exhibits, outdoor musicals and dramas—these are only a few of the events that bid fair to making New York more exciting than ever.

Although a remarkable series of programs has already been presented, the Jamestown Festival is expected to reach its peak during the remainder of the summer travel season as thousands of visitors arrive to see the restored col-brought Captain John Smith and the 103 first settlers to these shores. Visitors may board the flagship, the 100-ton Susan Constant, and later see Virginia Indians in the reconstructed Lodge of Chief Powhattan. They may explore at random the quaint, crude Fort

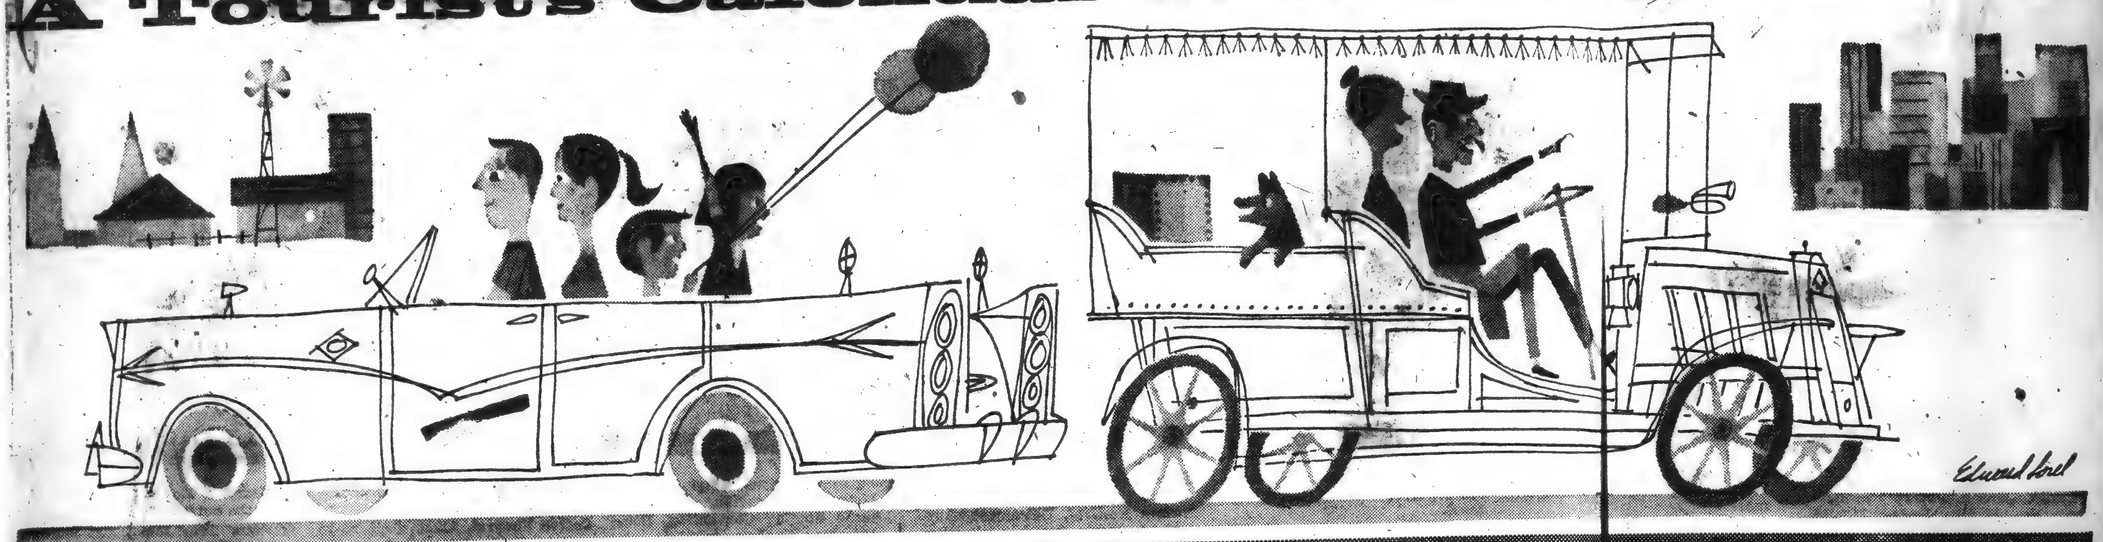
A Tourist's Calendar of Coming Events



THE NORTHEAST

CONNECTICUT

Dogwood Festival, Fairfield, May 12-24.

House, Garden Tours: Hartford, May 14-15. Darien, May 16. Litchfield, July 13.

Military Show, Storrs, May 16. At University of Connecticut.

Tennis, Hartford, May 17-18. All New England Intercollegiate.

Horse Shows: Farmington, May 17-19. Middletown, June 16. Westport, June 20-23. Wethersfield, June 30. Lyme, Aug. 3. Litchfield, Aug. 10. West Avon, Sept. 7-8. Bethlehem, Sept. 8. Durham, Sept. 28.

Track Meet, Storrs, May 18. Yankee Conference competition.

Dance Festival, New Canaan, May 25. Second annual.

Auto Races, Thompson, May 26; June 29; Sept. 1-2.

Art Show, New Canaan, June 7-July 10. Oils, water-colors.

Regatta, New London, June 14. Yale-Harvard meet on Thames River.

Golf: State Qualifying Tournament, Wethersfield, June 18. State Amateur Championship, New Haven, June 24-27. Avon, July 21-23. $20,000 Insurance City Open, Wethersfield, Aug. 29-Sept. 2.

Shakespeare Festival, Stratford, June 22-Aug. 24.

Barnum Festival, Bridgeport, June 27-July 6.

American Dance Festival, New London, Aug. 15-18.

Antiques Show, New Haven, Sept. 28-Oct. 1. The twentieth annual.

MAINE

Broiler Festival, Belfast, July 12-13.

Open House, Garden Tour, Camden, July 18.

Maine Lobster, Seafood Festival, Rockland, Aug. 2-4.

Do-Nut Festival, Camden, Aug. 17.

Indian Get-together, Popponesset, Aug. 17-18.

MASSACHUSETTS

Golf, Coonamessett, June 4-6. Massachusetts open.

Dairy Festival, Boston, June 8-17.

Boston Arts Festival, Boston, June 14-29. Exhibitions, stage shows.

Striped Bass Derby, Barnstable, June 15-July 15.

Laurel Week, Westfield, June 16-22.

Blessing the Portuguese Fleet, Gloucester, June 23. Ceremony at 3 P. M.

Strawberry Festival, Falmouth, June 22.

St. Peter Fiesta, Gloucester, June 27-30.

Blessing the Fleet, Provincetown, June 30.

Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, June 30-Sept. 1. Jazz concerts 8:30 P. M. Sundays. Folk concerts 4 P. M. Saturdays.

Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood, Boston, July-August 11.

Antique Show, Chatham, Aug. 12-16.

Indian Ceremony, Popponesset, Aug. 17-18.

Tuna Tournament, Barnstable, Aug. 25-28.

CHARM MAGAZINE
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MAY 1957

THE BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL at Tanglewood needs no introduction to music lovers. A lovely wooded estate located between Lenox and Stockbridge, Massachusetts, it is the scene of the most famous summer festival in the United States—the Berkshire Festival, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch.

This year, the concerts will take place during the six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with performances on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon. Each weekend, special emphasis will be given to the works of one of the great composers: Bach (July 5, 6, 7); Mozart (July 12, 13, 14); Tschaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21); Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28); Brahms (August 2, 3, 4); Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Pierre Monteux will wield the baton during the Tschaikovsky and Berlioz programs and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductor for the last two weekends. Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will make an extended visit to Tanglewood this summer to perform the violin concertos of Tschaikovsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

If you'd like to combine a weekend at Tanglewood with a week's vacation in the Berkshires, the Oak n' Spruce Inn and the New Haven Railroad have come up with a "culture package" that costs $85.48, complete. This includes round trip rail fare from New York, tickets to a Tanglewood concert as well as other cultural attractions, transportation to all events plus a week's room and board at Oak n' Spruce.

One of the loveliest resorts in the area, Oak n' Spruce boasts among its complete sports facilities the largest swimming pool in the Berkshires, two tennis courts, and a nine-hole full-iron golf course. There's fishing too for trout and pickerel, and hiking over cool mountain trails. The atmosphere is decidedly informal, the accommodations rustic and comfortable. For more information, check the coupon at the end of "Travel Notes."

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293

MAY 12 1957

MASSACHUSETTS

The Bay State, which lies athwart the tier of New England states, offers the culture and charm of historic Boston, the long, sandy beaches of Cape Cod, the meadowlands of Pioneer Valley and the cool, green hills of the Berkshires.

Many of the historic shrines in and around Boston still stand for the tourist to visit. But there also are restoration projects that bring back the past faithfully. One of these is the Saugus Iron Works, just a few miles north of Boston, off U. S. 1. This has been officially declared to be the birthplace of the iron and steel industry in this country by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The institute operates it as a nonprofit enterprise.

Then, Sturbridge Village, near the junction of State Routes 15 and 20, is a recreated New England town of 150 years ago. There are shops, homes, a general store, tavern, mansion house and church meeting house.

In Massachusetts, as in most of New England, not the least of the attractions are summer stock theatres.

Then, too, there are art centers, such as those at Gloucester and Rockport on the North Shore, and Provincetown at the tip of Cape Cod. There is a music center at Lenox, in the Berkshires, where the Boston Symphony Orchestra summers while its players teach.

Pioneer Valley is the link between central Massachusetts and the Berkshire hills. Springfield is its largest community. In the countryside are more than 200 modern hotels and inns, guest houses, motels and farms that will accommodate overnight guests.

Perhaps the most noted vacation area of Massachusetts is Cape Cod, with its 300 miles of shoreline jutting nearly 100 miles out to sea. Rose-covered picket fences, beached fishing dories with potted plants growing in them, scrub pine and white sand are part of the flavor of the Cape. And a few miles at sea, reachable by steamer and plane, are the islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket, historical and just frostily independent enough to give them a different flavor from the mainland.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,994 - S. 856,847

JUN 30 1957

"The Town's Top Ticket!" Coleman, Mir.
ETHEL MERMAN in HAPPY HUNTING
FERNANDO LAMAS
Evgs. Orch. $8.05; Mezz. $6.90; Balc. $5.20; 3.60, 3.00, 2.50. Mats. Wed. & Sat. Orch. $4.80; Mezz. $4.30; Balc. $3.60, 3.00, 2.50. Encl. stamped, self-add. env. and suggest many alt. dates.
Air-Cond. MAJESTIC W. 44th St. Cir. 6-0730

"WILDLY FUNNY!"—Atkinson, Times
BERT LAHR
ANGELA LANSBURY JOHN EMERY
DOUGLAS BYNG CARLETON CARPENTER
HOTEL PARADISO
Adapted & Dir. by PETER GLENVILLE
Mon. thru Sat. Evgs.: Orch. $6.90; Mezz. $6.90, 5.75, 4.60, 4.05, 3.45; Balc. $2.90, 2.30. Mats. Thurs. & Sat.: Orch. $4.60; Mezz. $4.60, 4.05, 3.45; Balc. 2.90, 2.30. Specify alternate dates and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.
Air-Cond. HENRY MILLER'S, 43 St. E. of B'y

... CENTURY." — Atkinson, Times
REX JULIE
HARRISON ANDREWS
IN CRITICS' PRIZE MUSICAL
MY FAIR LADY
Mail Orders Filled. Evgs. 8:30: $8.05, 7.50, 6.90, 5.75, 4.60, 3.45, 2.30. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30: $4.60, 4.05, 3.45, 2.90, 2.30. Tax Incl. List alternate dates.
Air-Cond. MARK HELLINGER, 51st W. of B'y

THE TOWN'S MOST EXCITING MUSICAL!
GWEN VERDON
THELMA RITTER in
NEW GIRL IN TOWN
PRICES: Evgs.: Mon. thru Thurs. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $8.60; Orch. $8.05; Mezz. $6.90, 6.00; Balc. $5.00, 4.60, 3.50, 3.00. Fri. & Sat. Evgs. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $9.20; Orch. $8.60; Mezz. $6.90, 6.00; Balc. $5.00, 4.60, 3.50, 3.00. Wed. Mat. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $4.80, Orch. $4.60; Mezz. $4.00, 3.50; Balc. $3.00, 2.50. Sat. Mat. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $5.00; Orch. $4.60; Mezz. $4.00, 3.50; Balc. $3.00, 2.50. (Tax Incl.) Enclose self-addressed, stamped env. with mail order & suggest 3 alt. dates.
Air-Cond. 46 ST. THEA., W. 46 St. Cl 6-4271

... by TERENCE RATTIGA
Evgs. Orch. $5.75; Balc. $4.60, 4.05, 2.30. Mats. this wk.: Thurs. & Sat. O... Balc. $3.45, 2.90, 2.30, 1.75. Enclose self-addressed envelopes. Specify 3 alte...
Air-Cd. MUSIC BOX, W. 45 St. C...
Special Holiday Matinee this Th...

Holiday Matinee T...
"RIOTOUSLY FUNNY!" — Cole...
WALTER PIDGE...
THE HAPPIEST MILLIO...
Evs. Orch $5.75; Balc. $4.60, 3.45... Bal 2.30, 1.75. Mts this wk: Thur&Sa... Bal 3.45, 2.90, 2.30; 2d Bal. 1.75...
Air-Cd. LYCEUM, 45 St. E. of B'y...

CRITICS' PRIZE MUSICAL
THE MOST HAPPY F...
Starring ROBERT WEE...
Mail Orders: Evs. at 8:30: $7.50, 6.25, 3.60, 3.00, 2.50. Mats. this wk: Thu... $4.80, 4.30, 3.60, 3.00, 2.50, 2.00. List ...
Air-Cond. IMPERIAL, West 45 St. ...
Special Holiday Matinee this Th...

'SIDE-SPLITTING HOWLS'—Cole...
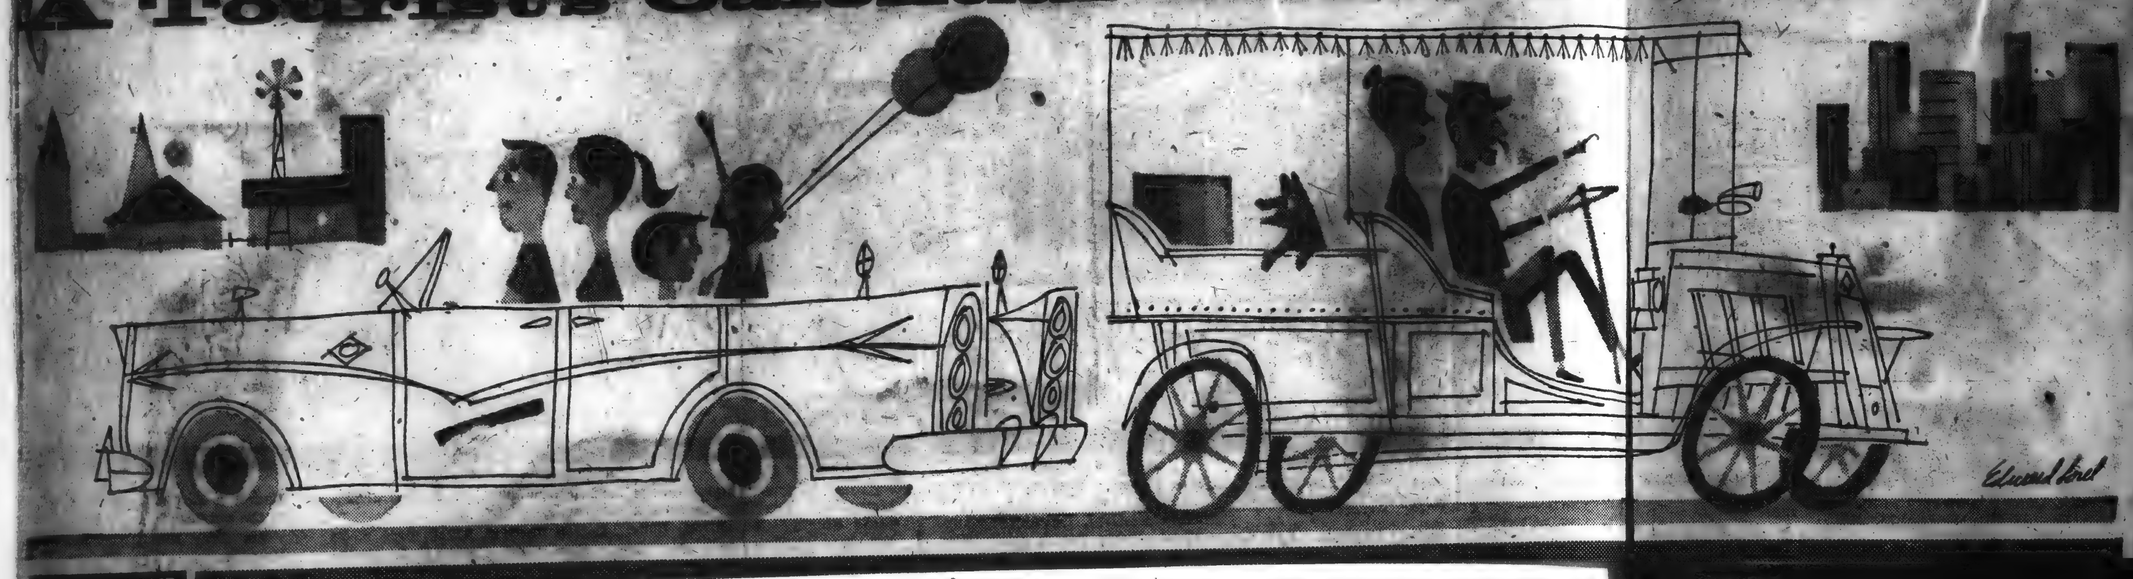
TOM EWEL...
THE TUNNEL OF ...
PRICES: Mon. thru Sat. Evgs. Or... Mezz. $4.80; Balc. $4.05, 3.60, 3... Wed. & Sat. Mats.: Orch. $4.30; M... Balc. $3.60, 2.50, 2.00. Tax Include...
Air-Cd. Royale, W. 45th St., Cr...

, June 30, 1957

A Tourist's Calendar of Coming Events



THE NORTHEAST

CONNECTICUT

Dogwood Festival, Fairfield, May 12-24.

House, Garden Tours: Hartford, May 14-15. Darien, May 16. Litchfield, July 13.

Military Show, Storrs, May 16. At University of Connecticut.

Tennis, Hartford, May 17-18. All New England Intercollegiate.

Horse Shows: Farmington, May 17-19. Middletown, June 16. Westport, June 20-23. Wethersfield, June 30. Lyme, Aug. 3. Litchfield, Aug. 10. West Avon, Sept. 7-8. Bethlehem, Sept. 8. Durham, Sept. 28.

Track Meet, Storrs, May 18. Yankee Conference competition.

Dance Festival, New Canaan, May 25. Second annual.

Auto Races, Thompson, May 26; June 29; Sept. 1-2.

Art Show, New Canaan, June 7-July 10. Oils, water-colors.

Regatta, New London, June 14. Yale-Harvard meet on Thames River.

Golf: State Qualifying Tournament, Wethersfield, June 18. State Amateur Championship, New Haven, June 24-27. Avon, July 21-23. $20,000 Insurance City Open, Wethersfield, Aug. 29-Sept. 2.

Shakespeare Festival, Stratford, June 22-Aug. 24.

Barnum Festival, Bridgeport, June 27-July 6.

American Dance Festival, New London, Aug. 15-18.

Antiques Show, New Haven, Sept. 28-Oct. 1. The twentieth annual.

MAINE

Broiler Festival, Belfast, July 12-13.

Open House, Garden Tour, Camden, July 18.

Maine Lobster, Seafood Festival, Rockland, Aug. 2-4.

Do-Nut Festival, Camden, Aug. 17.

Indian Get-together, Popponesset, Aug. 17-18.

MASSACHUSETTS

Golf, Coonamessett, June 4-8. Massachusetts open.

Dairy Festival, Boston, June 8-17.

Boston Arts Festival, Boston, June 14-29. Exhibitions, stage shows.

Striped Bass Derby, Barnstable, June 15-July 15.

Laurel Week, Westfield, June 16-22.

Blessing the Portuguese Fleet, Gloucester, June 23. Ceremony at 3 P. M.

Strawberry Festival, Falmouth, June 22.

St. Peter Fiesta, Gloucester, June 27-30.

Blessing the Fleet, Provincetown, June 30.

Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, June 30-Sept. 1. Jazz concerts 8:30 P. M. Sundays. Folk concerts 4 P. M. Saturdays.

Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood, [illegible]

Antique Show, Chatham, Aug. 12-16.

Indian Ceremony, Popponesset, Aug. 17-18.

Tuna Tournament, Barnstable, Aug. 25-28.

CHARM MAGAZINE
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MAY 1957

THE BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL [illegible] wood needs no introduction to music [illegible] A lovely wooded estate located [illegible] and Stockbridge, Massachusetts, [illegible] the scene of the most famous [illegible] the United States—the Berkshire Festival, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Charles Munch.

This year, the concerts will take [illegible] during the six weeks between July 3 and August 11, with performances on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon. Each weekend, special emphasis will be given to the works of one of the [illegible] composers: Bach (July 5, 6, 7); Mozart (July 12, 13, 14); Tschaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21); Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28); Brahms (August 2, 3, 4); Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Pierre Monteux will wield the baton during the Tschaikovsky and [illegible] programs and Carl Schuricht will [illegible] conductor for the last two weekends. Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will make [illegible] visit to Tanglewood this summer to perform the violin concertos of Tschaikovsky, Brahms, and Beethoven. Ticket information for all concerts of the Berkshire Festival is available from the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

If you'd like to combine a weekend at Tanglewood with a week's vacation in the Berkshires, the Oak n' Spruce Inn and the New Haven Railroad have come up with a "culture package" that costs $35.48, complete. This includes round trip rail fare from New York, tickets to a Tanglewood concert as well as other cultural attractions, transportation to all events plus a week's room and board at Oak n' Spruce.

One of the loveliest resorts in the area, Oak n' Spruce boasts among its complete sports facilities the largest swimming pool in the Berkshires, two tennis courts, and a nine-hole full-iron golf course. There's fishing too for trout and pickerel, and hiking over cool mountain trails. The atmosphere is decidedly informal, the accommodations rustic and comfortable. For more information, check the coupon at the end of "Travel Notes."

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293

MAY 12 1957

MASSACHUSETTS

The Bay State, which lies athwart the tier of New England states, offers the culture and charm of historic Boston, the long, sandy beaches of Cape Cod, the meadowlands of Pioneer Valley and the cool, green hills of the Berkshires.

Many of the historic shrines in and around Boston still stand for the tourist to visit. But there also are restoration projects that bring back the past faithfully. One of these is the Saugus Iron Works, just a few miles north of Boston, off Rte. S. 1. This has been officially declared to be the birthplace of the iron and steel industry in this country by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The institute operates it as a nonprofit enterprise.

Then, Sturbridge Village, near the junction of State Routes 15 and 20, is a recreated New England town of 150 years ago. There are shops, homes, a general store, tavern, mansion house and church meeting house.

In Massachusetts, as in most of New England, not the least of the attractions are summer stock theaters.

Then, too, there are art centers, such as those at Gloucester and Rockport on the North Shore, and Provincetown at the tip of Cape Cod. There is a music center at Lenox in the Berkshires, where the Boston Symphony Orchestra summers while its players teach.

Pioneer Valley is the link between central Massachusetts and the Berkshire hills. Springfield is its largest community. In the countryside are more than 200 modern hotels and inns, guest houses, motels and farms that will accommodate overnight guests.

Perhaps the most noted vacation area of Massachusetts is Cape Cod, with its 300 miles of shoreline jutting nearly 100 miles out to sea. Rose-covered picket fences, beached fishing dories with potted plants growing in them, scrub pine and white sand are part of the flavor of the Cape. And a few miles at sea, reachable by steamer and plane, are the islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket, aloof and just frostily independent enough to give them a different flavor from the mainland.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 - S. 855,847

JUN 30 1957

"The Town's Top Ticket!" Coleman, Mir.
ETHEL MERMAN in HAPPY HUNTING
FERNANDO LAMAS
Evgs. Orch. $8.05; Mezz. $6.90; Bale. $5.20; 3.60, 3.00, 2.50. Mats. Wed. & Sat. Orch. $4.80; Mezz. $4.30; Bale. $3.60, 3.00, 2.50. Encl. stamped, self-add. env. and suggest many alt. dates. Air-Cond. MAJESTIC W. 44th St. Cir. 5-6790

"WILDLY FUNNY!"—Atkinson, Times
BERT LAHR
ANGELA LANSBURY JOHN EMERY
DOUGLASS DYNG CARLETON CARPENTER
HOTEL PARADISO
Adapted & Dir. by PETER GLENVILLE
Mon. thru Sat. Evgs.: Orch. $6.90; Mezz. $6.90, 5.75, 4.60, 4.05, 3.45; Bale. $2.90, 2.30. Mats. Thurs. & Sat.: Orch. $4.60; Mezz. $4.60, 4.05, 3.45; Bale. 2.90, 2.30. Specify alternate dates and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. Air-Cond. HENRY MILLER'S, 43 St. E. of B'y

REX HARRISON JULIE ANDREWS
IN CRITICS' PRIZE MUSICAL
MY FAIR LADY
Mail Orders Filled. Evgs. 8:30; $6.05, 7.50, 6.00, 5.75, 4.60, 3.45, 2.30. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2:30; $4.60, 4.05, 3.45, 2.90, 2.30. Tax Incl. List alternate dates. Air-Cond. MARK HELLINGER, 51st W. of B'y

THE TOWN'S MOST EXCITING MUSICAL!
GWEN VERDON
THELMA RITTER in
NEW GIRL IN TOWN
PRICES: Evgs. Mon. thru Thurs. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $8.80; Orch. $8.05; Mezz. $6.90, 6.00; Bale. $5.00, 4.60, 3.50, 3.00. Fri. & Sat. Evgs. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $9.20; Orch. $8.60; Mezz. $6.90, 5.00; Bale. $5.00, 4.60, 3.50, 3.00. Wed. Mat. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $4.80, Orch. $4.60, Mezz. $4.00, 3.50, Bale. $3.00, 2.50. Sat. Mat. Orch. Divans (First 9 Rows) $5.00; Orch. $4.60; Mezz. $4.00, 3.50; Bale. $3.00, 2.50. (Tax Incl.) Enclose self-addressed, stamped env. with mail order & suggest 2 alt. dates. Air-Cond. 46 ST. THEA., W. of B'way. CI 6-4271

by TERENCE RATTIGAN
Evgs. Orch. $5.75; Bale. $4.60, 4.05, 2.30. Mats. this wk.: Thurs. & Sat. Bale. $3.45, 2.90, 2.30, 1.75. Enclose self-addressed envelopes. Specify 3 alternate dates. Air-Cd. MUSIC BOX, W. 45 St. C
Special Holiday Matinee this Holiday Matinee T
"RIOTOUSLY FUNNY!" — Cole
WALTER PIDGE
THE HAPPIEST MILLIO
Evs. Orch $5.75; Bale. $4.60, 3.45, Sat 2.30, 1.75. Mts this wk: Thurs & Sat Bal 3.45, 2.90, 2.30; 2d Bal. 1.75 Air-Cd. LYCEUM, 45 St. E. of B'y
CRITICS' PRIZE MUSICAL
THE MOST HAPPY F
Starring ROBERT WEE
Mail Orders: Evs. at 8:30: $7.50, 6.25, 5.00, 3.75, 2.50, 3.00, 2.50. Mats. this wk: Thurs. $4.60, 4.00, 3.50, 3.00, 2.50, 2.00. List Air-Cond. IMPERIAL, W. of 8th St.
Special Holiday Matinee this Th
"SIDE-SPLITTING HOWLS!"—Cole
TOM EWEL
THE TUNNEL OF
PRICES: Mon. thru Sat. Eves. Or Mezz. $4.60; Bale. $4.05, 3.00, Wed. & Sat. Mats.: Orch. $4.30; Me Bale. $3.00, 2.50, 2.00. Tax Include Air-Cd. Royale, W. 45th St., Co

June 30, 1957

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Item (e)
WAKEFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 5,975
MAY 29 1957

Pamphlets Spread Fame of Bay State

With the opening of the New York office of the Massachusetts Department of Commerce, another forward step has been made in the attempt to acquaint the rest of the United States with the vistas of beauty and the exciting pleasures awaiting them when they visit the year-round vacationland, Massachusetts. The new office in Rockefeller Center has numerous splendid pamphlets describing the majestic hills, fertile valleys and rocky coastline of the Bay State but unfortunately, no pamphlet—regardless of how well written or illustrated—can do justice to a state so richly endowed with natural beauty, historic lore and impressive centers of medicine, education and culture.

The pamphlets will tell you of historic Boston but until you have actually walked through Boston's narrow, cobblestone streets lined with unusual, picturesque shops and restaurants, driven along its wide, soaring aerial highways with breathtaking views of the city on all sides and attended its world-famous symphony and "Pops" concerts, its splendid art galleries and its numerous theaters with their pre-Broadway offerings, Boston will remain just another American city to you. It is only when you have strolled through its cool and lovely Common, sampled its delicious, distinctive food, taken an excursion boat down the beautiful Charles River out into the scenic, island-filled harbor, walked down its delightful Esplanade and visited its nearby beaches, amusement centers, lakes and verdant woods that the realization comes to you there is something "different" about this famous city... that it has a charm and a character uniquely its own.

Massachusetts' North and South Shore will be well described in the pamphlets but this also cannot be fully appreciated until seen. There is an atmosphere and a feeling about these places which just cannot be described in words and pictures. Salem, with its House of Seven Gables and Old Witch Jail; Gloucester, from whose port ships have gone to sea for more than 300 years; Marblehead, widely-known yachting center; Rockport, mecca and haven for artists; Newburyport, Ipswich and pilgrim ports of Quincy, Weymouth and Plymouth are all places of indefinable charm and fascination.

Of course, Massachusetts' renowned and beautiful Cape Cod and its two neighboring islands, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, will be well represented among the literature available in the new office, but there again, until you have attended a Cape Cod clambake with its succulent fare, wandered through its forests of pine or along its miles of white beaches and cavorted in its sheltered warm blue waters, you'll never know how enchantingly delightful and excitingly different this area is.

Central Massachusetts will offer the visitor another welcome surprise for although the pamphlets will describe its quaint and interesting Sturbridge Village and Storrowtown, its wonderful state parks, lakes and forests, its Pioneer Valley, Old Deerfield and famous Mohawk Trail, still the visitor will not be quite prepared for the magnificence and the overwhelming beauty of this part of the Bay State.

Naturally, no array of travel literature on Massachusetts would be complete without several folders on The Berkshires and its world-famous Music Festival. The pamphlets will tell you The Berkshires contain 73,098 acres of state forests, 13 rivers, 59 lakes, 23 camping areas, 14 golf courses, 16 winter sports areas and through the magic of radio many people will have heard the incomparable music which is offered annually at the festival. But what the visitor won't know until he actually goes to The Berkshires is the grandeur of the magnificent Tanglewood estate, its superb natural setting and the sublimity which comes from sitting under the stars with thousands of other music-lovers sharing the music of the world's greatest composers played by the Boston Symphony, one of the world's finest symphony orchestras.

The New York office will be staffed by very competent people who will make every effort to help the inquiring tourist but even if they had the eloquence and descriptive powers of an Emerson, Whitman or Thoreau, they could not begin to describe the wonders, the charm and the interest of this scenic and historic state, for words could never really do justice to Massachusetts. To know and appreciate her you must "Behold her and judge her for yourself!"

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
MAY 19 1957

Accent on Culture

But the Berkshires Have Natural Beauty to Offer, Too

PITTSFIELD, Mass. — There's more than music in the Berkshires, but the accent will be on culture here again during this area's 1957 Summer vacation-travel season. The Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Charles Munch, will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11, 1957.

Concerts by the full B.S.O. in the 6000-seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (August 9-11).

Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will be the soloist at three performances.

This will be the silver jubilee year for Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, off Route 20 in Becket. The Pillow will open its 25th season July 1 and run through August 31, for a total of 54 performances.

In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and Andre Englevsky, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. For the opening week, Mr. Shawn has signed the Mary Anthony Dance Theatre in the group work "Threnody," seen in New York this past season.

★ ★ ★

In the southern Berkshire Town of Lenox, not far away from the Tanglewood grounds, music of another nature will be featured at the Berkshire Music Barn. The Music Barn season will run from June 30 to Sept. 1 and will star national headliners in the fields of jazz and folk music.

Jazz concerts will be held every Sunday evening; folk concerts, every Saturday afternoon, Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Dave Brubeck and Ella Fitzgerald are among the stars already signed.

Also out of the cultural tap will come performances at the Berkshire Hills' two summer theatres. In Stockbridge, the Berkshire Playhouse will open its 26th 10-week season June 24. And the Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Thanks to a generous Dame Nature, there is more than culture available for the vacationer in the Berkshires. And thanks to the new cross-state thruway the Berkshires' natural and cultural attractions are closer than ever for the motorized vacationer.

The thruway has brought the Berkshires within 33 miles of the Springfield area and has reduced the travel time from the Boston metropolitan area to 2½ hours.

The Berkshires' 90 woodland lakes and ponds, 274 trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves provide excellent opportunities for camping, fishing, swimming, boating and other outdoor Summer activities.

And, main and secondary highways are dotted with state maintained picnicking spots ideal for a family outing.

Right now nature is putting on one of the New England region's most colorful shows here. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in Pittsfield State Forest. The pink flowering trees annually reach their peak beauty at this time and continue in bloom throughout most of June. The trees cover 100 acres surrounding Berry Pond an 11-acre body of water atop a 3000-foot peak in the Taconic Range. The are may be reached over a hard-surfaced road.

★ ★ ★

Another favorite nature spot is the Pleasant Valley Wildlife Sanctuary off Routes 20 and 7 about seven miles south of Pittsfield in the town of Lenox. It includes a natural history and wildlife museum and a beaver colony.

In the Northern Berkshire town of Clarksburg, off Rte. 8, is the only water-eroded natural marble bridge in North America. Another favorite summer spot in the Berkshires is Mount Greylock, the state's highest peak. It can be reached by car off Rte. 7 in Lanesboro and New Ashford and Route 2 in North Adams.

A comparative newcomer in the culture field is the three-year-old Clark Art Museum in Williamstown, already rated as one of the top small museums in the world. Thirty-three Renoirs are included. It is open daily, except Mondays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., free of charge.

Berkshire's growing year-round resorts are looking for another banner Summer season. Such resorts as Eastover in Lenox and Oak 'n Spruce in East Lee, Avaloch in Lenox and Jug End Barn in Egremont—all in the Southern Berkshire region—give a diversified program which has found general approval from the younger one—or two-week vacationer.

The older hotels and inns still find their drawing power strong with the older groups which comes for the pleasant scenery, front-porch rocking and Tanglewood culture. However, many of those older establishments have added swimming pools and other facilities to keep with the times.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South st., Pittsfield, will provide further information on request. One of the most popular pieces put out by the Conference is a circle tour map which outlines six suggested tours of the county. The map contains detailed driving directions and descriptions of natural and historic interest.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Herald News (e)
FALL RIVER, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 39,974
MAY 20 1957

This State Covers Full Range of American Life

Now that vacation time is approaching, most families are beginning to plan and wonder what to do with the two or three weeks off they'll be enjoying soon.

And nowadays more families all the time are discovering that one way everyone can enjoy a vacation and still profit by it is by exploring America's past. Here in New England especially it's possible to cover the full range of American life from the Pilgrim settlements to the Atomic Age.

In a few weeks now the Mayflower II will be anchored off Plymouth, giving us all an opportunity to see for ourselves how the first settlers of this region voyaged to these shores.

And just outside Boston one of the most advanced scientific settlements in the world is located at M.I.T. Within the boundaries of this State one can find ancient salt-box cottages and the most modern architectural triumphs of Gropius and Saarinen.

On the East coast of Massachusetts you can visit Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables. In the western section you can hear many of the world's greatest musicians at the Tanglewood Festival.

Concord affords priceless historic memories, whether one is thinking of wars and politics, or of literature. The earth we tread is saturated with the variegated memories of America in all its changing moods.

And the echoes of America's past as well as the reality of its present are available to us all in this vacation season. Here, nearby, lies the perfect answer to the vacation problem for those who have been regretting they couldn't go abroad.

TIGHT BINDING

[60]

THE BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE—MAY 26, 1957

THE BERKSHIRE HILLS

Music from Bach to Bop Highlights Festive Season

A diversified program of Spring-Summer activities will highlight the Berkshire Hills' 1957 vacation-travel offerings. The Berkshires' steady growth in tourist popularity shows every sign of continuing this year, according to John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference.

As usual, music will be a feature attraction, covering the range from Bach to bop. The former is a regular at the annual Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox. The latter is part of the bill of fare at Music Inn's Berkshire Music Barn in the same town.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Charles Munch and world-famous guest conductors, will open its annual six-week Summer season at Tanglewood the second week in July.

Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox offers a weekly series of jazz and folk music concert which in past seasons have featured such headliners as Dave Bruback, Duke Ellington and Dizzy Gillespie. The Music Barn season opens early in July and runs through Labor Day.

Another Berkshire Hills regular, the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, will open its 16th season early in July under the direction of Ted Shawn, world-famed dancer, choreographer, educator, lecturer and writer. The season at Jacob's Pillow in Becket ran 10 weeks in 1956 and probably will run the same length this year.

Two Summer theaters will provide ample entertainment for those who like to mix a bit of the legitimate theater in with their music and dance. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge will be in its 26th season this year and will operate for at least 10 weeks. In the college town of Williamstown, the Williamstown Summer Theater will have an eight-week season. Both playhouses will open late in June. Nikos Pasacharopoulos, a member of the Yale School of Drama faculty, will be managing director of the Williamstown Theater.

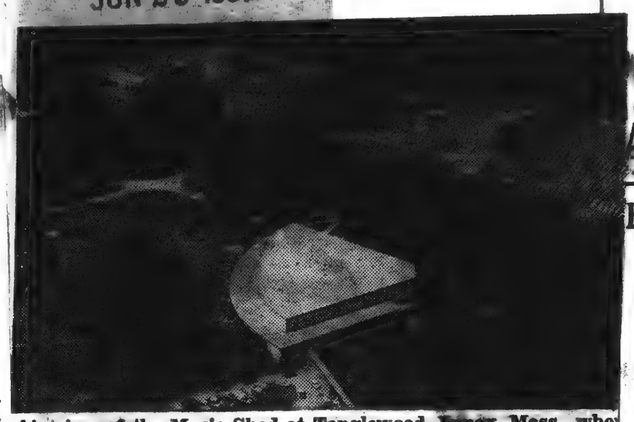
The college town also has another attraction that is drawing crowds on a year round basis. It is the Clark Art Museum, built two years ago by Robert Sterling Clark, New York financier who died last year. The museum is already rated in the top brackets of the nation's art show places It is open, free of charge, six days a week (closed Mondays) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Nature, of course, always provides plenty of attractions for the Berkshire visitor. She is especially cooperative in providing the proper floral settings for the June honeymooners or tourists.

The Berkshire Hills are located in the westernmost part of Massachusetts about 150 road-miles from both Boston and New York. Trains, buses and airlines make daily runs in and out of Pittsfield in the center of the Berkshires.

CLEVELAND, OHIO
NEWS
Cir. D. 137,553
APR 24 1957

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
POST
Circ. D. 389,011 - S. 258,545
JUN 25 1957



Air view of the Music Shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., where the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents its 20th season of music for six weeks from July 5 to August 11.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 374,544
TRAVEL SECTION
APR 7 - 1957

BERKSHIRE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Boston Symphony Announces Plans for Tanglewood Session

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this Summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

★ ★ ★

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department, presenting this Summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority on the chamber music field and a founder of the Kroll Quartet.

★ ★ ★

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a specially small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances including Berloiz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the orchestra concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes will be awarded in the course of the Summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center will be invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

—The Berkshire Eagle, Wednesday, April 3, 1957

Tri-State Music Festival To Be Held at Tanglewood

LENOX — Permission to use Tanglewood facilities for the Tri-State Music Festival scheduled here in May has been granted on behalf of the Boston Symphony Orchestra by J. J. Brosnahan, assistant treasurer, in a letter to Joseph J. Carroll, cochairman of the festival.

In his letter Mr. Brosnahan stated that the BSO would be pleased to have the Tri-State Festival use Tanglewood facilities.

Choral and band concerts involving an estimated 1,400 high school students from about 20 schools in Western Massachusetts, Vermont and Eastern New York will be given in the Tanglewood Theatre Hall on Friday and Saturday nights, May 17 and 18. So far about 16 schools have accepted invitations to take part in the program. More are expected, Mr. Carroll said.

Use of Tanglewood facilities was made possible through George E. Mole of Lenox, a member of the Tanglewood advisory committee, Mr. Carroll stated. Ward J. Gaston, resident supervisor at Tanglewood, said the Tanglewood staff will give "all cooperation to the Tri-State Festival."

A meeting of the music supervisors of participating schools is scheduled tonight in Bennington, Vt., to discuss further organizational plans for the two-day festival.

Travel . . . . Variety Offered By Bay State

By CORNELIA CURTISS
News Travel Writer

The man said, "If we drive to Massachusetts what should be seen?"

Of course, that's a state that fairly drips with history, full of picturesque vacation areas. The summer's outstanding musical festival takes place at Tanglewood in the Berkshires.

THE BAY STATE appears to have something for everybody.

Consider the Cape. They say it was the playground of Indian chiefs in faraway times before the Pilgrims landed. Falmouth on Coonamessett Lake is an Indian word which translates into "place of long fish."

A short drive leads to Wood Hole with three major scientific projects: the U.S. Bureau of Fisheries, the Oceanographic Institute which studies tides, currents and the ocean floor, and the Marine Biological Laboratory.

Cape Cod is filled with interesting towns, Yarmouth, Dennis, Chatham, Wellfleet, Hyannis and, of course, that mecca of artists, Provincetown.

Each has its own keynote, some being resorts in the upper-bracket category and others being less pretentious places for outdoor living, swimming and fishing.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD and Nantucket are reached by ferries from Woods Hole. At Edgartown on Martha's Vineyard many fine old homes of whaling captains still stand. Emily Post's summer home is there too.

Of course, Boston is a sightseeing "must" with its historic Common, Old North Church, relics of bygone years and luxurious new structures.

Salem, just north of the capital was made famous by Nathaniel Hawthorne and also by a celebrated architect, Samuel McIntire. This being the bicentenniel of his birth, many of the McIntire designed houses will be open to the public.

Saugus Ironworks, birthplace of the nation's iron and steel industry is a diverting spot in Saugus, 10 miles north of Boston on U.S. 1. Original buildings have been restored and reproduced and are operating as they did 300 years ago.

Going Places THE GLOBE AND MAIL, SATURDAY, APRIL 6, 1957.

Flying Tour for 140 Toronto Families

The largest overseas groups to go by chartered aircraft take off for Prestwick and London this month, announces Picard and Stafford Travel Ltd.. Leaving for a 28-day tour April 14 and 16 will be 140 employees and their families from the Gray Coach division of the Toronto Transit Commission. They will travel by Pan American World Airways aboard DC-6-B's.

* * *

Canada's most colorful spectacle, the Musical Ride of the Mounties, left Halifax Thursday in the Cunard liner Saxonia for a five-month tour of England and Scotland. The team of 28 RCMP officers and constables, under Inspector J. G. C. Downey, opens its tour at the Royal Windsor Horse Show, May 9, following a civic reception by the Lord Mayor of London, May 7. Its last performance will be at the Edinburgh Tattoo Sept. 7. The troop's 36 horses sailed from Saint John in the Donaldson liner Corinaldo.

* * *

Available free from Pan American World Airways is a compact folder which enables the world traveller to convert foreign currencies into dollars and cents at a glance. On other pages concise information is tabulated on customs regulations regarding import and export of currency. The pocket-size folders are available at Pan American's Toronto office, 25 Adelaide St. W.

* * *

Gasoline allowance for tourists in France is to be increased after April 13 to six gallons a day, plus a surplus allowance on leaving the country up to 60 gallons on the basis of 1 gallon for 12 miles. This regulation applies to tourists not residing in France driving a car with non-French license plates or a new French car bought with foreign currency. For tourists crossing French territory in less than three days a limited allowance will be granted once only up to 60 gallons on the basis of a gallon for 12 miles.

Holland offers a variety of interests to visitors. The eighth annual open air flower exhibition, biggest in the world, opened Thursday in Lisse. At the end of April the annual flower procession will be held through the bulb growing district's municipalities of Sassenheim, Lisse and Hillegem. In September the Old Art and Antiques fair will be held at Delft, where the famous Delft Blue factory is open to the public until November. June 10 will be International Air Show at Rijswijk airfield between The Hague and Delft. The Netherlands tourist offices advises visitors to book hotel rooms early.

* * *

Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for its 15th summer Berkshire Music Centre session from July 1 to August 11 at Tanglewood. Founded under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky the school is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director Charles Munch and composer Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty. It provides special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur. Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Centre Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. The school runs concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

* * *

John J. Kerr of Toronto has been appointed district manager of the Bahamas Development Board's district sales office here. He will be responsible for sales, information, travel agency cooperation and promotion of the Bahamas in Canada, stated Stafford L. Sands, board chairman. A native of Toronto, Mr. Kerr served overseas with the RCAF during the Second World War. Since the war he has worked for American Airlines and Pan American World Airways.

* * *

France is offering dollar paying tourists a 15 per cent reduction at 1,500 selected hotels this year, except during July and August. In addition an extra 15 per cent reduction can be granted by hotel managers during the offseason.

HERALD

Ber

They Outd

Swimm
But Musi

PITTSFI

Thanks to a gen
Nature, there is mo
ture available for in the Berkshire
Massachusetts.

The area's nine lakes and ponds, streams and 80,0 state forest preser excellent opportuni
ing, fishing, swimm and other outdoor a

As a late spring best show is provid field State Forest skirts of this centra city. New England's ural azalea fields ar the forest. The pin trees usually reach color in late May June. They cover 10
rounding Berry Pond acre body of water a foot peak in the Ta

Berkshire people increase this sum number of visitor
Boston area. Massa east-west thru to open about M
Boston to within t motor hours o

All-Yea

Berkshire's year-round looking for ano son. Such resort in Lenox, Oak
Lee, Avaloch End Barn in the southern B offer a diversi which keeps the tioners happy stretch.

The older strong for the which comes for scenery, front chairs and the T ture. But many establishments al swimming pools cilities to keep
times.

A one-week va resorts in Berkshire be had for from American plan. and inn rates ran $12 per day.

The Berkshire
ence, 50 South S

North Berkshir

July 0

WILLIAMSTOWN
tal balls along the M may be cloudy, but shrined in the box office of the Williamstown Summer Theater gleams with a bright glow of optimism.

The theater opened its eight-week season last night, and Business Manager William J. Martin believes that the ou initely bullish. Tick the opening produc
house of the Augu good, and subscri regular patrons ar
according to Mr.
residents who ma share of the audie cially interested
your-play" series,
the subscriber eig use in any combinat including eight seats play the same night handy for area may be planning to where and hence regular weekly se

C62

HERALD TRIBUNE, SUNDAY, APRIL 28, 1957

Berkshires Strong f ture

BALTIMORE, MD.
NEWS-POST
Circ. D. 227,679

JUN 25 1957

They Also Provide Outdoor Activities

Swimming and Fishing Abundant, But Music and Dance Come First

PITTSFIELD, Mass.

Thanks to a generous Dame Nature, there is more than culture available for the vacationer in the Berkshire Mountains of Massachusetts.

The area's ninety woodland lakes and ponds, 274 trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves provide excellent opportunities for camping, fishing, swimming, boating and other outdoor activities.

As a late spring entre, the best show is provided at Pittsfield State Forest on the outskirts of this central Berkshire city. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in the forest. The pink flowering trees usually reach the peak of color in late May and early June. They cover 100 acres surrounding Berry Pond—an eleven-acre body of water atop a 2,000-foot peak in the Taconic Range.

Berkshire people expect an increase this summer in the number of visitors from the Boston area. Massachusetts' new east-west thruway, scheduled to open about May 1, will bring Boston to within two and a half motor hours of these hills.

All-Year Resorts

Berkshire's growing group of year-round resorts also are looking for another banner season. Such resorts as Eastover in Lenox, Oak 'n Spruce in East Lee, Avaloch in Lenox and Jug End Barn in Egremont—all in the southern Berkshire region—offer a diversified program which keeps the younger vacationers happy for weeks at a stretch.

The older hotels still go strong for the older group, which comes for the pleasant scenery, front porch rocking chairs and the Tanglewood culture. But many of those older establishments also have added swimming pools and other facilities to keep up with the times.

A one-week vacation at the resorts in Berkshire County can be had for from $70 to $90, American plan. Hotel, motel and inn rates range from $7 to $12 per day.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South St., Pittsfield, will provide further information on request.

The accent in the Berkshires again will be heavy on culture this summer as symphony music and the dance continue to hold the spotlight in the region's 1957 vacation-travel program.

Boston Symphony

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Charles Munch, will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through August 11.

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts in the Bach-Mozart series on the first two weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors.

Concerts by the full orchestra in the 6,500-seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms (Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9-11).

Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will be the soloist at three performances. Ticket information is available at the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

This will be the silver jubilee year for Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival. The Pillow will open its twenty-fifth season July 1 and run through Aug. 31 for a total of fifty-four performances.

Ballet Scheduled

In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. For the opening week, Mr. Shawn has signed the Mary Anthony Dance Theater in the group work "Threnody," seen in New York this season.

Barton Mumaw, who as leading dancer of Shawn's company of men dancers performed on every program for the first seven years at Jacob's Pillow in Becket, and who now is dancing in "My Fair Lady," will present some of his best-known solos.

In the southern Berkshire town of Lenox music of another nature will be featured. The Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox will again offer a weekly series of jazz and folk music concerts with national headliners in both fields on tap. The Music Barn season runs from June 30 through Labor Day.

Also out of the cultural tap will come performances from the area's two summer theaters. In the southern Berkshire town of Stockbridge the Berkshire Playhouse will open its twenty-sixth ten-week season on June 24. And in the northern Berkshire college town, the Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Photo by Ruth Orkin

MASSACHUSETTS—Music under the sky is the treat offered visitors to the world-famous Berkshire Festival every summer at Tanglewood.

CHARMING COUNTRYSIDE, TOO

Music Festival Offers Top Program

By HELEN A. F. PENNIMAN

Believe it or not, there are those who yearn to fill their holidays with a positive orgy of "the Arts." And for such as these, there is possibly no region on this side of the ocean which offer so great a variety combined with a good climate, and charming countryside, as the Berkshires.

First and foremost comes, of course, the famous Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, which will open on July 3 and run till Sunday, August 11, the pet project of the Boston Symphony, in conjunction with its school of music, the Berkshire Music Centre.

The initial concerts will be by chamber ensembles, starting with the Paganini Quartet, with the second program given by the orchestra, but reverting to the smaller type for the three nights of the weekend. All these will be led by Charles Munch, the Boston's conductor, presenting Bach programs.

The following weekend, Mr. Munch will give all-Mozart programs. The Thursday concerts are all to be by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and so will the Friday concerts, guest conductors after first two weeks including Pierre Monteux, and Carl Schuricht.

SOLOISTS announced are Joseph di Pasquale, Isaac Stern, Samuel Mayes, and Rudolf Serkin, aside from solo singers for the ninth Symphony, the Berlioz Cantata, and a Bach Mass.

Or if preferred, the Melodic start can be made at the Newport Jazz Festival, running from July 4, through the 11th.

Reversing the process, one may run over into Canada for the Jazz concerts at the arts festival at Stratford, when Count Basie and his men will be on hand for the August 2 and 3 concerts. There, too, can be savored the Shakespeare favorites, beginning with "Hamlet" on July 1, and ending with "Twelfth Night" on September 7.

If your patriotic souls keep you to the U. S., you can see the American Festival Company in their new theatre at Stratford, Conn. And ballet-omanes can slip over to Lee, Mass., almost any time, and observe the Ted Shawn dancers, at Jacob's Pillow.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

North Berkshire Weekly

Optimism in Grease Paint

By Bernard R. Carman

WILLIAMSTOWN—Other crystal balls along the Mohawk Trail may be cloudy, but the one enshrined in the box office of the Williamstown Summer Theater gleams with a bright glow of optimism.

The theater opened its eight-week season last night, and Business Manager William J. Martin believes that the outlook is definitely bullish. Ticket sales for the opening production of "Teahouse of the August Moon" are good, and subscription sales to regular patrons are holding firm, according to Mr. Martin. Local residents, who make up a goodly share of the audience, are especially interested in the "pick-your-play" series, which allows the subscriber eight tickets for use in any combination up to and including eight seats for the same play the same night. The plan is handy for area residents who may be planning to vacation elsewhere and hence can't use the regular weekly series.

OTHER ENCOURAGING factors this year include a good response to the theater's appeal for new operating capital to help in the changeover to an Equity company, a switch which will give the theater full professional status. The fund drive appears to be within reach of its $4,500 goal, a healthy sign that people are interested in seeing the group continue on the most advantageous possible terms.

Another source of confidence is last season's final tabulation. Off to a rather shaky start in 1955, the theater had hoped to pare its deficit last year and break even this season. The operation did considerably better than that last year, missing a solvent season by a financial gnat's whisker. Mr. Martin, noting that the 1956 run was two week's longer and included a disastrous week with an untried turkey, believes that the 1957 season will go [illegible] quite nicely.

* * *

THE THEATER'S status as a non-profit, educational foundation will help, for the program is not designed to make anybody rich. A successful season is a must, of course, for the best plays in the world are worthless if they play to empty houses. And the theater must be able to pay its way. But there is small if under no compulsion to show low to turn in a whopping profit.

The foundation arrangement is an excellent one for the actors and directors of the company, if only because it eliminates any need to present Jayne Mansfield as Corliss Archer in "Kiss and Tell." Some plays might go well in a converted barn, where the odor wouldn't be quite so noticeable, but it would be rather foolish to present them in Williams College's lavish Adams Memorial Theater.

The company last year received a handsome vindication of its conviction that there is a summer market for better plays of the type that the Adams Memorial Theater is so handsomely fitted to present. The 1956 production of Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" was a box-office blockbuster, missing the maximum possible week's gross by only $600. The company will try to prove it wasn't a fluke by presenting Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra" as the final show this year.

* * *

A NEW FACTOR in the summer picture this year is the cross-state Turnpike, and superficially it might seem a threat to the rather distant Williamstown theater. Mr. Martin doesn't think so. He's rather inclined to regard it as a potential asset if properly used.

About 30 to 35 per cent of the theater's patrons are in the transient category, Mr. Martin points out, and a good many of them are drawn from the hordes pulled into the central-southern Berkshire area by such proven magnets as Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow and the Berkshire Playhouse. Williamstown has always depended heavily on that reservoir, and so a toll road bringing more people to the southern marches will help the area northerly reaches as well.

In line with that view, Mr. Martin is stepping up the promotional efforts in South Berkshire this year. Westward this annual [illegible] an extension of the poster route around Pittsfield, Lenox and Stockbridge; more advertising in theater and concert programs there; radio spots; ads in the metropolitan papers, where most of the tourists come from; and a broadened program of direct-mail promotion. If any tourist gets through the county without hearing of the Williamstown Theater, he'll pass by at 2 a.m. in the dark of the moon.

* * *

BARRING some unexpected disaster, the season should prove that the theater's growing pains are over. The trial runs of the past two seasons have demonstrated that the program can be financially feasible without violating the basic educational purpose of the Adams Memorial plant. Perhaps more important, they also proved that a solid company of young and able actors need not depend on the drawing power of a name star to find an audience; there's already evidence that the Williamstown Theater, closely tied to Yale's excellent drama school, will be a pool of youthful talent for the New York theater. And from a purely local point of view, the coming seasons should demonstrate [illegible] always room for another [illegible] the county's summer [illegible]

PASTE OVER

C62

HERALD TRIBUNE, SUNDAY, APRIL 28, 1957

Berkshires Strong for Culture

They Also Provide Outdoor Activities

Swimming and Fishing Abundant, But Music and Dance Come First

PITTSFIELD, Mass.

Thanks to a generous Dame Nature, there is more than culture available for the vacationer in the Berkshire Mountains of Massachusetts.

The area's ninety woodland lakes and ponds, 274 trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves provide excellent opportunities for camping, fishing, swimming, boating and other outdoor activities.

As a late spring entre, the best show is provided at Pittsfield State Forest on the outskirts of this central Berkshire city. New England's largest natural azalea fields are located in the forest. The pink flowering trees usually reach the peak of color in late May and early June. They cover 100 acres surrounding Berry Pond—an eleven-acre body of water atop a 2,000-foot peak in the Taconic Range.

Berkshire people expect an increase this summer in the number of visitors from the Boston area. Massachusetts' new east-west thruway, scheduled to open about May 1, will bring Boston to within two and a half motor hours of these hills.

All-Year Resorts

Berkshire's growing group of year-round resorts also are looking for another banner season. Such resorts as Eastover in Lenox, Oak 'n Spruce in East Lee, Avaloch in Lenox and Jug End Barn in Egremont—all in the southern Berkshire region—offer a diversified program which keeps the younger vacationers happy for weeks at a stretch.

The older hotels still go strong for the older group, which comes for the pleasant scenery, front porch rocking chairs and the Tanglewood culture. But many of those older establishments also have added swimming pools and other facilities to keep up with the times.

A one-week vacation at the resorts in Berkshire County can be had for from $70 to $90, American plan. Hotel, motel and inn rates range from $7 to $12 per day.

The Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South St., Pittsfield, will provide further information on request."

The accent in the Berkshires again will be heavy on culture this summer as symphony music and the dance continue to hold the spotlight in the region's 1957 vacation-travel program.

Boston Symphony

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Charles Munch, will open its annual six-week stand at the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood July 3. Performances will be given each Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon through August 11.

Dr. Munch will conduct all the concerts in the Bach-Mozart series on the first two weekends. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors.

Concerts by the full orchestra in the 6,500-seat Music Shed will feature works by Tchaikovsky (July 19-21), Berlioz (July 26-28), Brahms (Aug. 2-4) and Beethoven (Aug. 9-11).

Isaac Stern, the American violinist, will be the soloist at three performances. Ticket information is available at the Festival Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

This will be the silver jubilee year for Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival. The Pillow will open its twenty-fifth season July 1 and run through Aug. 31 for a total of fifty-four performances.

Ballet Scheduled

In the ballet field this season will be Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet and the Canadian National Ballet. For the opening week, Mr. Shawn has signed the Mary Anthony Dance Theater in the group work "Threnody," seen in New York this season.

Barton Mumaw, who as leading dancer of Shawn's company of men dancers performed on every program for the first seven years at Jacob's Pillow in Becket, and who now is dancing in "My Fair Lady," will present some of his best-known solos.

In the southern Berkshire town of Lenox music of another nature will be featured. The Berkshire Music Barn in Lenox will again offer a weekly series of jazz and folk music concerts with national headliners in both fields on tap. The Music Barn season runs from June 30 through Labor Day.

Also out of the cultural tap will come performances from the area's two summer theaters. In the southern Berkshire town of Stockbridge the Berkshire Playhouse will open its twenty-sixth ten-week season on June 24. And in the northern Berkshire college town, the Williamstown Summer Theater will open an eight-week season July 5.

Photo by Ruth Orkin

MASSACHUSETTS—Music under the sky is the treat offered visitors to the world-famous Berkshire Festival every summer at Tanglewood.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

North Berkshire Weekly

Optimism in Grease Paint

By Bernard R. Carman

WILLIAMSTOWN—Other crystal balls along the Mohawk Trail may be cloudy, but the one enshrined in the box office of the Williamstown Summer Theater gleams with a bright glow of optimism.

The theater opened its eight-week season last night, and Business Manager William J. Martin believes that the outlook is definitely bullish. Ticket sales for the opening production of "Teahouse of the August Moon" are good, and subscription sales to regular patrons are holding firm, according to Mr. Martin. Local residents, who make up a goodly share of the audience, are especially interested in the "pick-your-play" series, which allows the subscriber eight tickets for use in any combination up to and including eight seats for the same play the same night. The plan is handy for area residents who may be planning to vacation elsewhere and hence can't use the regular weekly series.

THE THEATER'S status as a non-profit educational foundation will help, for the program is not designed to make anybody rich. A successful season is a must, of course, for the best plays in the world are worthless if they play to empty houses. And the theater must be able to pay its way. But the operation is under no compulsion to turn in a whopping profit.

The foundation arrangement is an excellent one for the actors and directors of the company, if only because it eliminates any need to present Jayne Mansfield as Corliss Archer in "Kiss and Tell." Some plays might go well in a converted barn, where the odor wouldn't be quite so noticeable, but it would be rather foolish to present them in Williams College's lavish Adams Memorial Theater.

The company last year received a handsome vindication of its conviction that there is a summer market for better plays of the type that the Adams Memorial Theater is so admirably fitted to present. The 1956 production of Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" was a box-office blockbuster, missing the maximum possible week's gross by only $600. The company will try to prove it wasn't a fluke by presenting Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra" as the final show this year.

* * *

A NEW FACTOR in the summer picture this year is the cross-state Turnpike, and superficially it might seem a threat to the rather distant Williamstown theater. Mr. Martin doesn't think so. He's rather inclined to regard it as a potential asset if properly used.

About 30 to 35 per cent of the theater's patrons are in the transient category, Mr. Martin points out, and a good many of them are drawn from the hordes pulled into the central-southern Berkshire area by such proven magnets as Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow and the Berkshire Playhouse. Williamstown has always depended heavily on that reservoir, and so a toll road bringing more people to the southern marches will help the theater northerly reaches as well.

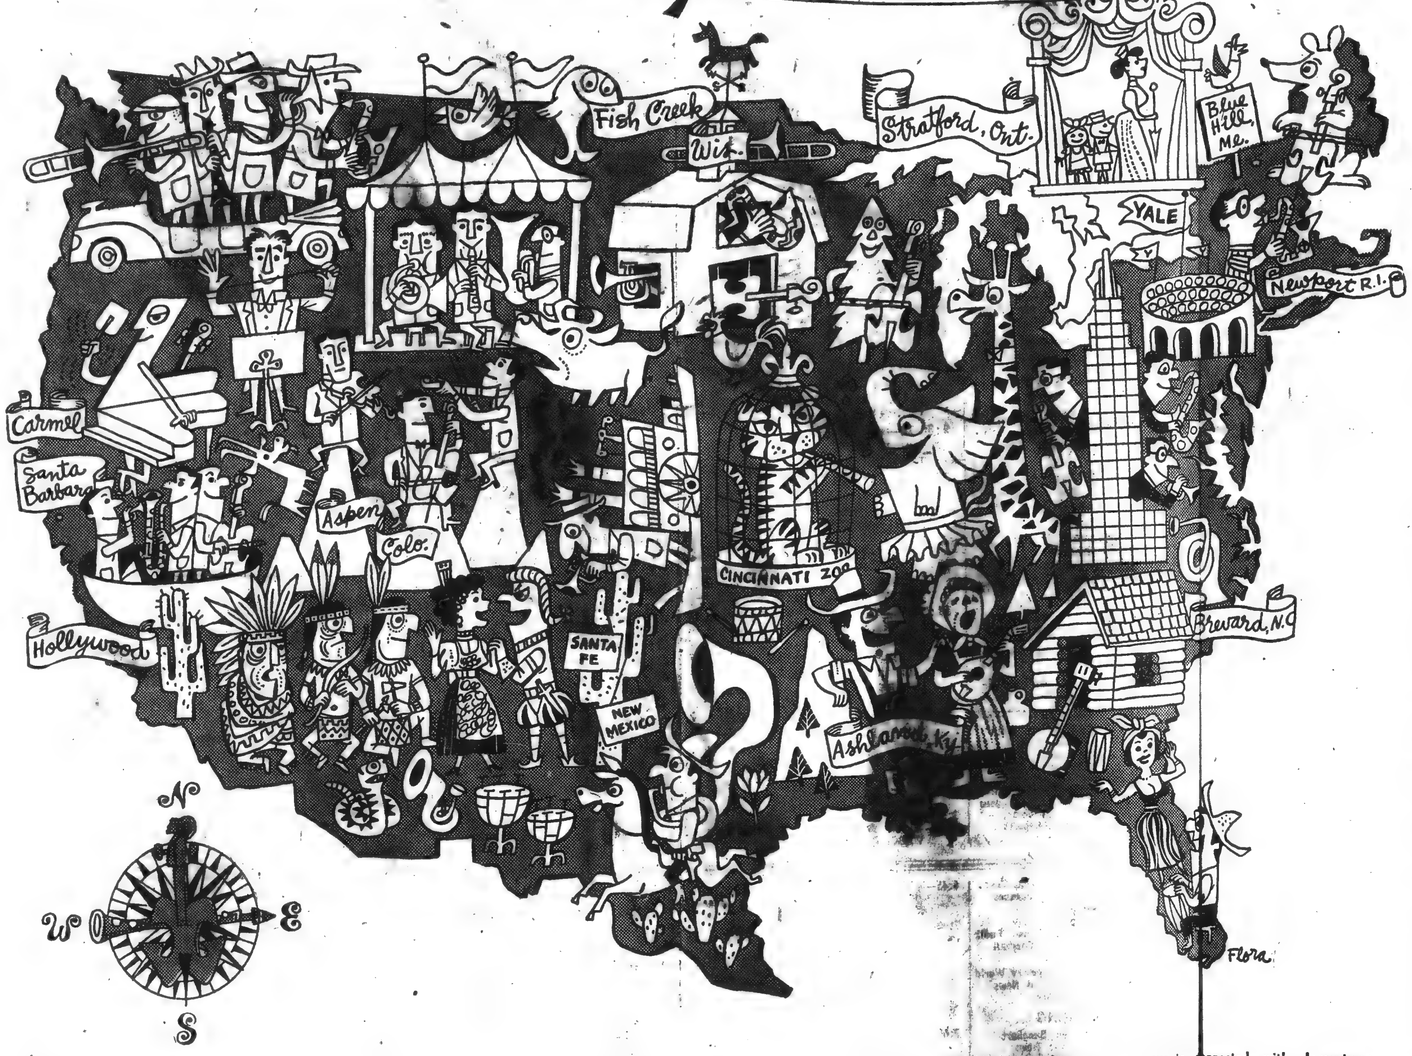
In line with that view, Mr. Martin is stepping up the promotional efforts in South Berkshire this year. We suggest his channel include an extension of the Boston route around Pittsfield, Lenox and Stockbridge; more advertising in theater and concert programs there; radio spots; ads in the metropolitan papers where most of the tourists come from; and a broadened program of direct-mail promotion. If any tourist gets into the county without hearing of the Williamstown Theater, he'll pass by at 2 a.m. in the dark of the moon.

* * *

BARRING some unexpected disaster, the season should prove that the theater's growing pains are over. The trial runs of the past two seasons have demonstrated that the program can be financially feasible without violating the basic educational purpose of the Adams Memorial plant. Perhaps more important, they also proved that a solid company of young and able actors need not depend on the drawing power of a name star to find an audience; there's already evidence that the Williamstown Theater, closely tied to Yale's excellent drama school, will be a pool of youthful talent for the New York theater. And from a purely local point of view, the coming season should demonstrate that there's always room for another [illegible] for the county's summer b[illegible]

E 1 [62]

A Musical Map Summer 1957



New York

New York City
June 19-Aug. 16—Guggenheim Memorial Concerts by Goldman Band at Central and Prospect Parks.
June 24-Aug. 3—Lewisohn Stadium orchestral concerts.

Chautauqua
July 5-Aug. 31—Operas and symphonic concerts.

Ellenville
July 4-Aug. 4—Empire State Music Festival. Symphonic concerts, opera and ballet.

Katonah
June 15, 22, 29—Chamber and early music programs at Caramoor.

Rochester
July 4, 6—"Hansel and Gretel."
July 24, 27—"Die Fledermaus."
Aug. 14, 16—"Aida."

Stony Brook, L. I.
June 29, July 13, Aug. 3—Symphonic concerts at Dogwood Hollow.

Woodstock
July 5-Sept. 1—Performances by Turnau Opera Company; chamber music.

New Jersey

Millburn
June 16, 30, July 14—Orchestral concerts at Paper Mill Playhouse.

Ventnor
Aug. 6, 13, 20, 27—Recitals at Ventnor Pier.

Connecticut

Falls Village
June 30-Sept. 1—Sunday chamber music concerts at Music Mountain by Berkshire String Quartet.

New Haven
June 25, July 9, 23, Aug. 6—Chamber music at Yale Art Gallery.

Norfolk
June 20-July 31—Chamber music at Norfolk Music School of Yale University.

Stratford
June 30; Aug. 5, 12, 19—Chamber music concerts at the Shakespeare Festival.

Massachusetts

Andover
July 15-Aug. 24—Concerts and daily organ recitals at Organ Institute.

Boston
June 14-29—Arts Festival at the Public Garden.

Ipswich
June 28-Aug. 17—Castle Hill Concerts. Symphonic, jazz and chamber music programs.

Lenox
July 3-Aug. 17—Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood. Boston Symphony Orchestra.
June 30-Sept. 1—Berkshire Music Barn. Jazz and folk song concerts.

Pittsfield
July 19-Oct. 6—Chamber music at South Mountain.

Waltham
June 1-8—Arts Festival at Brandeis University.

Rhode Island

Newport
July 4-6—Newport Jazz Festival.

Vermont

Bennington
Aug. 11-25—Chamber orchestra concerts at Bennington College.

Burlington
July 16-Aug. 6—Four concerts at University of Vermont.

Marlboro
June 29-Aug. 26—Chamber music at Marlboro College.

Maine

Blue Hill
July 8-Sept. 1—Chamber music concerts at Kneisel Hall.

Camden
June 10-Sept. 1—Concerts at the Summer Harp Colony.

Hancock
August—Orchestral concerts at the Domain School of Pierre Monteux.

North Bridgton
July 8-Aug. 18—Concerts at Berkley Summer Music School.

Pennsylvania

Bethlehem
June 25-30—Early American Moravian Music Festival.

Philadelphia
June 17-July 25—Robin Hood Dell Concerts. Philadelphia Orchestra.

Tamiment-in-the-Poconos
June 20-23—Five [illegible] music concerts.

Ohio

Cincinnati
June 29-July 27—Opera at Cincinnati Zoo Park.

Cleveland
July 6-Aug. 24—Cleveland Pop Concerts.

Virginia

Jamestown
Now through Nov.—Various musical events connected with Jamestown Festival.

West Virginia

Wheelin
June 30-Sept. 2—Choral and pop concerts, recitals and opera at Ogleb[illegible] Park.

North Carolina

Brevard
Aug. 9-[illegible]—Symphonic concerts at Transylva[illegible] Music Camp.

Greenvil[illegible]
June 10-July 5—Grass Roots Opera.

Kentucky

Ashland
June 9—American Folk Song Festival at Traipsin' Woman's cabin.

Tennessee

Sewanee
June 16-July 21—Symphonic concerts at Summer Music Center.

Michigan

Interlochen
June 23-Aug. 19—National Music Camp. Concerts, recitals, opera.

Illinois

Chicago
June 17-Aug. 18—Symphonic, jazz and ballet programs at Ravinia Park.
June 26-Aug. 18—Orchestral and folk song concerts and opera ("Rigoletto") at Grant Park.

Wisconsin

Fish Creek
Aug. 10-25—Peninsula Music Festival. Symphonic concerts conducted by Thor Johnson. Three world premieres.

Colorado

Aspen
June 26-Sept. 1—Instrumental programs in Big Tent.

Central City
June 29-July 27—"Rigoletto" and "The Gypsy Baron" in Opera House.

Denver
July 2-27—Concerts and opera ("Die Walkuere") in Red Rocks Amphitheatre.

New Mexico

Santa Fe
July 3-Aug. 29—Opera repertory sung in English by Santa Fe Opera Association.

California

Carmel
July 15-21—Bach Festival.

Hollywood
July 9-Aug. 31—Hollywood Bowl symphonic concerts.

La Jolla
June 9-Aug. 4—Symphonic concerts by Musical Arts Society.

Los Angeles
June 7-17—Los Angeles Music Festival.

Redlands
July 2-Aug. 30—Redlands Bowl Concerts. Eighteen programs of symphonic music, opera and ballet.

Santa Barbara
July 8-Aug. 31—Music Academy of the West. Six concerts.

Canada

Stratford, Ont.
July 31-Sept. 6—Symphonic and jazz concerts and Benjamin Britten's "Turn of the Screw."

Montreal
July 22-Aug. 31—Chamber music, "Don Giovanni," Verdi's "Requiem."

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

Summer Festivals Bidding More Widely For Visits From Touring Americans

By ROSS PARMENTER

THERE are many more names around this summer's musical map than bordered the similar map last year. In part the increase mirrors the continuing expansion of summer music. Yet not all the new names represent new festivals. Many of the events have been recurring quietly in their own corners for a number of summers. The new element in the situation is that more and more local festivals are now making a play for national attention.

Each summer, it seems, American vacationists grow increasingly mobile. Those giving festivals have realized that year after year more and more tourists are on the road, eager for entertainment. As automobiles and good highways have made distances less important, summer impresarios have been making an increasing play for tourists from all parts of the country. One sees this particularly this summer. Never before have plans been drawn up so far in advance, nor have prospectuses been so widely circulated. The old days of schedules arranged at the last moment with notices sent out too late to reach any one except those in the neighborhood, it seems, are over.

NEWCOMERS: Three of this year's festivals that are new to the map are also new to the country. One is the Jamestown Festival, a series of musical events interspersed among the other festival activities being held in Virginia to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the establishment of the first permanent English settlement in the New World. Significantly enough, the other two new festivals are operatic, for one of the major post-war developments in American summer music is the spread of summer opera. The larger of the two new events is that of the Santa Fe Opera Association which will present operas at Santa Fe, N. M., from July 3 to Aug. 29. The other is the first summer opera colony to be run by the National Grass Roots Opera at East Carolina College in Greenville, N. C., from June 10 to July 5.

MAN OF THE HOUR: Stravinsky will be widely honored in the summer festivals. His seventy-fifth birthday falls on June 17, and the San Francisco Waxman's Los Angeles Music Festival will round up its activities with a gala all-Stravinsky program. It will consist of the "Symphony of Psalms," the American première of "Canticum Sacrum," and "Agon," a new ballet commissioned by Lincoln Kirstein. The Aspen Festival, which opens in Colorado on June 26, will perform Stravinsky works all through its ten-week season. The Berkshire Festival at Lenox, Mass., will present his "Jeu de Cartes," "Sacre du Printemps" and "Canticum Sacrum." And his major opera, "The Rake's Progress," will be one of the works given in Santa Fe.

TUCSON, ARIZ.
STAR
Circ. D. 28,960 - S. 37,561

JUN 16 1957

Farmers Welcome City Dwellers For Vacations And Holidays

Booklet Lists Farms Looking For Guests

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 15—The 1957 edition of Farm Vacations and Holidays, a booklet listing 236 farms and ranches that welcome vacationers as paying guests, is just off the press.

This year the 48-page booklet gives complete descriptions and pictures of participating farms and ranches located in 31 states and Ontario, Canada, according to Robert P. Wolfe, director of Farm Vacations and Holidays, Inc., 500 5th Ave., New York 36, N. Y.

City youngsters who like to exchange asphalt pavements for country greenery and the fun of petting farm animals are enthusiastic guests of the vacation farms. So are their parents and the many people in all walks of life who have found an antidote for city tensions in the informality and good fellowship on farm and ranch.

The special care taken in selecting farms for inclusion in the booklet is reflected in the variety of farms the vacationer can choose from. In size they may range from a 7-acre blueberry farm in Connecticut to a 12,000-acre working ranch in Montana that runs a top grade of Hereford cattle; in type they may be a Minnesota pony farm that expects 30 baby ponies soon, a Christmas tree and maple syrup farm high in Massachusett's Berkshires near Old Deerfield, Tanglewood and Jacobs Pillow Festivals, a grain and stock farm in Indiana's lake country right in "Fisherman's Paradise," or even a "gentleman's" farm in San Francisco, Calif.

EXAMINER
Circ. D. 233,928 - S. 510,389
APR 21 1957

Travel

American Music Festivals

EUROPE ISN'T the only region that will draw travelers to its famous music festivals this summer. The festival schedule in the United States itself, and adjacent regions on this side of the Atlantic, has been growing in size and glamor with the years.

Tomorrow, for instance, will be the opening day for the Pablo Casals festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Despite the recent illness that will prevent the revered 80 year old cellist and conductor from appearing, the festival nevertheless boasts an impressive list of celebrated performers.

Old Master Music

These will include pianists Rudolf Serkin and Eugene Istomin, violinists Isaac Stern, Joseph Szigeti and Alexander Schneider, singers Maria Stader and Gerard Souzay and the Budapest String Quartet. In four chamber concerts and four orchestra concerts, they will concentrate on old master music of Bach, Mozart and Schubert.

The festival, prior to Casals' illness, was expected to bring to San Juan the same rich musical atmosphere that blesses his annual festivals in Prades, southern France. According to all accounts, the San Juan festival has been sold out for weeks. It will last until May 8.

Next in the festival schedule comes the long jump to charming Ojai, inland from Santa Barbara, in California. It will have its 11th annual musical splurge with five concerts from May 24 to 26.

The Tender Land

Aaron Copland, American composer, will conduct at Ojai a concert version of his opera, "The Tender Land."

Important southern California singers and instrumental artists will range over a repertory from pre-Bach "Biblical Songs" of Schuetz to Grieg, Faure and modern David Diamond, Hindemith and Benjamin Britten.

Celebration of the 75th birthday of Composer Igor Stravinsky will be a major business in the Los Angeles Music Festival of four concerts, mainly directed by Franz Waxman, on the UCLA campus over a two week period starting June 19. An important Stravinsky selection will be his new 12 tone choral "Canticum Sacrum," never before performed in this country.

The name of Stravinsky looms large also in the Aspen Music Festival in Colorado, spaced busily between June 26 and September 1. Concerts will offer a whole cycle of Stravinsky's works, early and late, and also will stress the compositions of Haydn.

Concert Performances

Chief Aspen Conductor will be Izler Solomon. Faculty members of the Aspen Summer Music School will be concert performers. Among them will be Singers Jennie Tourel and Mack Harrell, the Juilliard String Quartet, Composer Darius Milhaud, Pianist Rosina Lhevinne, etc., etc.

Carmel, in California, has picked July 15 to 21 as its Bach Festival dates. The week of programs, probably culminating with the "St. Matthew Passion," will pay considerable attention to other Baroque and early classic composers as well as Bach. Although Stratford, in Ontario, Canada, will open its activities July 1 with a Shakespeare drama festival, and also a film schedule, it will move into a musical phase of its attractions July 31 to September 6.

Jazz Cycle on Tap

The English Opera Group, conducted by Benjamin Britten, himself, will stage his opera, "The Turn of the Screw." The Canadian Broadcasting Company Orchestra will give concerts with Conductors Walter Susskind, Heinz Unger, Geoffrey Wadding and Thomas Mayer. Also on tap will be a jazz cycle, starring such experts as Count Basie.

Central attraction in the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will once again be the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Conductor Charles Munch, from July 3 to August 11.

Weekend concerts in the

In San Juan, a n

NEWSWEEK
NEW YORK, N. Y.
JUN 17 1957

lies Un-llywood
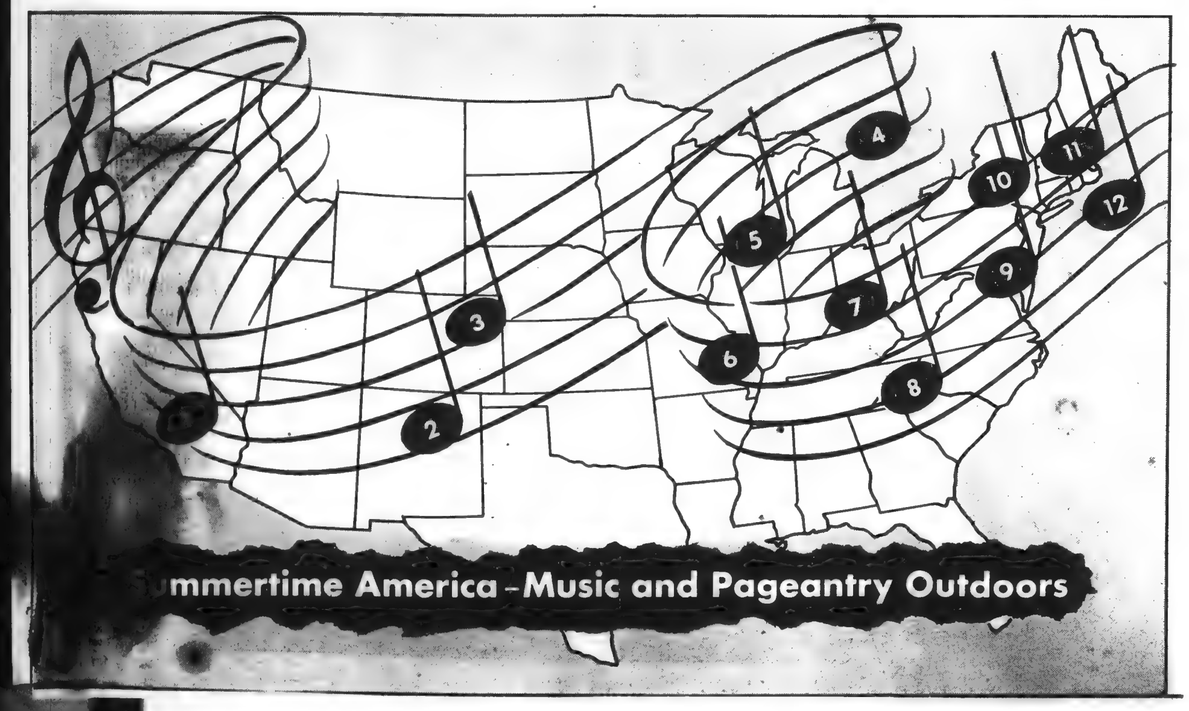
Aug. 31.

Newsweek—Brennan

5 CHICAGO—Ravinia, a suburban park, specializes in big-name conductors and soloists in symphonic

9 WASHINGTON AND PHILADELPHIA—Rock Creek Park in Washington features opera and



NEW YORK, N. Y.
World-Telegram & Sun
Circ. D. 518,809 - S. 172,502
JUN 29 1957

[63]

Music Will Fill Summer Air

Festivals Offer Big Variety Next Week

By WILLIAM PEPER.

Next week the summer air for miles around will be drenched with music. Festivals boasting symphony orchestras, ballet dancers, jazz musicians, and opera singers are opening in Newport, R. I., Ellenville, N. Y., Millburn, N. Y., Lee and Lenox, Mass., not to mention our own uptown festival at Lewisohn Stadium.

All will be gemuetlich at the stadium tonight and the sale of beer undoubtedly will increase because Viennese music—the waltz and operetta favorites we've all been drinking and crying over for years—will be the order of the evening. Marta Eggerth and Jan Kiepura will be in charge of the singing.

Satchmo's Birthday.

Louis Armstrong will be having a big week on the summer festival circuit. On Thursday he will open the Newport Jazz Festival, which will celebrate Satchmo's birthday on the occasion. Ella Fitzgerald, Sidney Bechet, Jack Teagarden and a host of hard-stomping Dixieland musicians will be on hand, too.

The Newport event will run through Sunday with different stars at each concert. Just about every jazz musician worth mentioning will be there including Sarah Vaughn, Count Basie, Billie Holliday, Teddy Wilson, Erroll Garner, George Shearing, Bobby Hackett, Dizzy Gillespie and Dave Brubeck.

Next Saturday night Louis Armstrong will be leading the Jazz Jamboree at Lewisohn Stadium while the symphony orchestra takes a night off. Garner and Shearing will be there too.

Gershwin Night.

The annual Gershwin night, one of Lewisohn Stadium's most popular events, takes place on Thursday for the 27th consecutive year. Eugene List will be the piano soloist, Camilla Williams and Lawrence will sing the "Porgy and Bess" selections and, as usual, Alexander Smallens will conduct.

Monday will be Rachmaninoff night at the stadium with former child prodigy Ruth Slenczynska as soloist in the piano concerto. Brahms will be featured Wednesday night with Albert Fracht conducting and Martha Lipton as soprano soloist in the "Alto Rhapsody."

The Empire State Music Festival opens Thursday in Ellenville, with Igor Markevitch conducting the Symphony of the Air in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. On the next three nights eight members of the Royal Danish Ballet will offer varied dance programs.

Berkshire Festival.

The Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox will begin its 20th season Wednesday with the Paganini String Quartet. Charles Munch will conduct the Boston Symphony in the weekend concerts. The festival will run through Aug. 11.

The New Jersey Summer Music Festival, with Samuel Antek conducting the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, offers tomorrow the second in its series of Sunday afternoon concerts at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn. Jerome Hines of the Metropolitan Opera will be the featured soloist.

The Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival is having its silver jubilee season this summer at Lee. The opening week, beginning Tuesday, will feature Maria Tallchief and Anatole Eglevsky, the Mary Anthony Dance Theater and Bruce McClure and his Celtic Ballet of Scotland.

al Europe's

ix concerts in more inmate surrounding will ture chamber music. ac Stern will be guest linist, in three of the Old ster concerts, in contos of Tchaikovsky, thoven and Brahms. est conductors, with ich, will be Pierre Mont and the veteran Vienе, Carl Schuricht.

A. F.

PEORIA, ILL.
Journal-Star (Morn.)
Circ. D. 34,785
JUN 7 1957

PARADE OF THE ARTS

By EVABETH MILLER

Summer Festivals Beckon

Summer festivals in every direction will soon be claiming the attention and attendance of Peoria area followers of music and theater.

Besides our own local series of Corn Stock Theater plays at the tented arena in Bradley Park (starting June 18 with "Blithe Spirit"), and the Chicago area summer theaters, there are the nine-weeks Ravina Festival of music, drama, ballet, movies, monologues and art exhibit, up on the Chicago North Shore; and the all-summer-long series of musicals and operettas given by the St. Louis Municipal Opera in Forest Park, where "South Pacific" opened last evening.

But that's not all. Some Peorians will be going, as usual, to the Berkshire Festival concerts July 3-Aug. 11 at historic "Tanglewood" in the hills of western Massachusetts. Some will head westward to Aspen, Colo., for the great variety of festival events at the ghost town that has come alive again at the foot of mountains that attract skiers in wintertime.

PEORIA, ILL.
Journal-Star (Morn.)
Circ. D. 34,785
JUN 11 1957

Assorted arts are provided, as previously mentioned here, at Aspen, Colo., at the famous Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., and the nearby Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee, emphasizing dance and music. Illinois has its Ravina festival near Chicago, besides the summer theaters in the area.

San Francisco, Calif.
EXAMINER
Circ. D. 233,928 - S. 510,389
APR 21 1957

Travel

American Music Festivals

EUROPE ISN'T the only region that will draw travelers to its famous music festivals this summer. The festival schedule in the United States itself, and adjacent regions on this side of the Atlantic, has been growing in size and glamor with the years.

Tomorrow, for instance, will be the opening day for the Pablo Casals festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Despite the recent illness that will prevent the revered 80 year old cellist and conductor from appearing, the festival nevertheless boasts an impressive list of celebrated performers.

Old Master Music

These will include pianists Rudolf Serkin and Eugene Istomin, violinists Isaac Stern, Joseph Szigeti and Alexander Schneider, singers Maria Stader and Gerard Souzay and the Budapest String Quartet. In four chamber concerts and four orchestra concerts, they will concentrate on old master music of Bach, Mozart and Schubert.

The festival, prior to Casals' illness, was expected to bring to San Juan the same rich musical atmosphere that blesses his annual festivals in Prades, southern France. According to all accounts, the San Juan festival has been sold out for weeks. It will last until May 8.

Next in the festival schedule comes the long jump to charming Ojai, inland from Santa Barbara, in California. It will have its 11th annual musical splurge with five concerts from May 24 to 26.

The Tender Land

Aaron Copland, American composer, will conduct at Ojai a concert version of his opera, "The Tender Land."

Important southern California singers and instrumental artists will range over a repertory from pre-Bach "Biblical Songs" of Schuetz to Grieg, Faure and modern David Diamond, Hindemith and Benjamin Britten.

Celebration of the 75th birthday of Composer Igor Stravinsky will be a major business in the Los Angeles Music Festival of four concerts, mainly directed by Franz Waxman, on the UCLA campus over a two week period starting June 19. An important Stravinsky selection will be his new 12 tone choral "Canticum Sacrum," never before performed in this country.

The name of Stravinsky looms large also in the Aspen Music Festival in Colorado, spaced busily between June 26 and September 1. Concerts will offer a whole cycle of Stravinsky's works, early and late, and also will stress the compositions of Haydn.

Concert Performances

Chief Aspen Conductor will be Izler Solomon. Faculty members of the Aspen Summer Music School will be concert performers. Among them will be Singers Jennie Tourel and Mack Harrell, the Juillard String Quartet, Composer Darius Milhaud, Pianist Rosina Lhevinne, etc., etc.

Carmel, in California, has picked July 15 to 21 as its Bach Festival dates. The week of programs, probably culminating with the "St. Matthew Passion," will pay considerable attention to other Baroque and early classic composers as well as Bach. Although Stratford, in Ontario, Canada, will open its activities July 1 with a Shakespeare drama festival, and also a film schedule, it will move into a musical phase of its attractions July 31 to September 6.

Jazz Cycle on Tap

The English Opera Group, conducted by Benjamin Britten, himself, will stage his opera, "The Turn of the Screw." The Canadian Broadcasting Company Orchestra will give concerts with Conductors Walter Susskind, Heinz Unger, Geoffrey Wadding and Thomas Mayer. Also on tap will be a jazz cycle, starring such experts as Count Basie.

Central attraction in the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will once again be the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Conductor Charles Munch, from July 3 to August 11.

Weekend concerts in the semioutdoor Music Shed will specialize successively in Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. Four later weekend programs will pay attention to important modern music, not only by Stravinsky, Honegger and Hindemith, but also by the less known German composers, Werner Egk and Boris Blacher, and the Americans, Barber, Copland and Piston.

Six concerts in more intimate surrounding will feature chamber music. Isaac Stern will be guest violinist, in three of the Old Master concerts, in concertos of Tchaikovsky, Beethoven and Brahms. Guest conductors, with Munch, will be Pierre Monteux and the veteran Viennese, Carl Schuricht.

A. F.

In San Juan, a new music festival to rival Europe's

- NEWSWEEK
NEW YORK, N. Y.
JUN 17 1957

...ies Un-
...llywood
...Aug. 31.

5 CHICAGO—Ravinia, a suburban park, specializes in big-name conductors and soloists in symphonic

9 WASHINGTON AND PHILADELPHIA—Rock Creek Park in Washington features opera and mmertime America—Music and Pageantry Outdoors

PEORIA, ILL.
Journal-Star (Morn.)
Circ. D. 34,785
JUN 7 1957

PARADE OF THE ARTS

By EVABETH MILLER

Summer Festivals Beckon

Summer festivals in every direction will soon be claiming the attention and attendance of Peoria area followers of music and theater.

Besides our own local series of Corn Stock Theater plays at the tented arena in Bradley Park (starting June 18 with "Blithe Spirit"), and the Chicago area summer theaters, there are the nine-weeks Ravina Festival of music, drama, ballet, movies, monologues and art exhibit, up on the Chicago North Shore; and the all-summer-long series of musicals and operettas given by the St. Louis Municipal Opera in Forest Park, where "South Pacific" opened last evening.

But that's not all. Some Peorians will be going, as usual, to the Berkshire Festival concerts July 3-Aug. 11 at historic "Tanglewood" in the hills of western Massachusetts. Some will head westward to Aspen, Colo., for the great variety of festival events at the ghost town that has come alive again at the foot of mountains that attract skiers in wintertime.

PEORIA, ILL.
Journal-Star (Morn.)
Circ. D. 34,785
JUN 11 1957

Assorted arts are provided, as previously mentioned here, at Aspen, Colo., at the famous Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., and the nearby Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee, emphasizing dance and music. Illinois has its Ravina festival near Chicago, besides the summer theaters in the area.

INFORMATION OBSCURED

[63]

San Francisco, Calif.
EXAMINER
Circ. D. 233,928 - S. 510,389

APR 21 1957

Travel

American Music Festivals

EUROPE ISN'T the only region that will draw travelers to its famous music festivals this summer. The festival schedule in the United States itself, and adjacent regions on this side of the Atlantic, has been growing in size and glamor with the years.

Tomorrow, for instance, will be the opening day for the Pablo Casals festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Despite the recent illness that will prevent the revered 80 year old cellist and conductor from appearing, the festival nevertheless boasts an impressive list of celebrated performers.

Old Master Music

These will include pianists Rudolf Serkin and Eugene Istomin, violinists Isaac Stern, Joseph Szigeti and Alexander Schneider, singers Maria Stader and Gerard Souzay and the Budapest String Quartet. In four chamber concerts and four orchestra concerts, they will concentrate on old master music of Bach, Mozart and Schubert.

The festival, prior to Casals' illness, was expected to bring to San Juan the same rich musical atmosphere that blesses his annual festivals in Prades, southern France. According to all accounts, the San Juan festival has been sold out for weeks. It will last until May 8.

Next in the festival schedule comes the long jump to charming Ojai, inland from Santa Barbara, in California. It will have its 11th annual musical splurge with five concerts from May 24 to 26.

The Tender Land

Aaron Copland, American composer, will conduct at Ojai a concert version of his opera, "The Tender Land."

Important southern California singers and instrumental artists will range over a repertory from pre-Bach "Biblical Songs" of Schuetz to Grieg, Faure and modern David Diamond, Hindemith and Benjamin Britten.

Celebration of the 75th birthday of Composer Igor Stravinsky will be a major business in the Los Angeles Music Festival of four concerts, mainly directed by Franz Waxman, on the UCLA campus over a two week period starting June 19. An important Stravinsky selection will be his new 12 tone choral "Canticum Sacrum," never before performed in this country.

The name of Stravinsky looms large also in the Aspen Music Festival in Colorado, spaced busily between June 26 and September 1. Concerts will offer a whole cycle of Stravinsky's works, early and late, and also will stress the compositions of Haydn.

Concert Performances

Chief Aspen Conductor will be Izler Solomon. Faculty members of the Aspen Summer Music School will be concert performers. Among them will be Singers Jennie Tourel and Mack Harrell, the Juillard String Quartet, Composer Darius Milhaud, Pianist Rosina Lhevinne, etc., etc.

Carmel, in California, has picked July 15 to 21 as its Bach Festival dates. The week of programs, probably culminating with the "St. Matthew Passion," will pay considerable attention to other Baroque and early classic composers as well as Bach. Although Stratford, in Ontario, Canada, will open its activities July 1 with a Shakespeare drama festival, and also a film schedule, it will move into a musical phase of its attractions July 31 to September 6.

Jazz Cycle on Tap

The English Opera Group, conducted by Benjamin Britten, himself, will stage his opera, "The Turn of the Screw." The Canadian Broadcasting Company Orchestra will give concerts with Conductors Walter Susskind, Heinz Unger, Geoffrey Wadding and Thomas Mayer. Also on tap will be a jazz cycle, starring such experts as Count Basie.

Central attraction in the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will once again be the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Conductor Charles Munch, from July 3 to August 11.

Weekend concerts in the

In San Juan, a n

NEW YORK, N. Y.
World-Telegram & Sun
Circ. D. 518,809 - S. 172,502

JUN 29 1957

Music Will Fill Summer Air

Festivals Offer Big Variety Next Week

By WILLIAM PEPER.

Next week the summer air for miles around will be drenched with music. Festivals boasting symphony orchestras, ballet dancers, jazz musicians, and opera singers are opening in Newport, R. I., Ellenville, N. Y., Millburn, N. Y., Lee and Lenox, Mass., not to mention our own uptown festival at Lewisohn Stadium.

All will be gemuetlich at the stadium tonight and the sale of beer undoubtedly will increase because Viennese music—the waltz and operetta favorites we've all been drinking and crying over for years—will be the order of the evening. Marta Eggerth and Jan Kiepura will be in charge of the singing.

Satchmo's Birthday.

Louis Armstrong will be having a big week on the summer festival circuit. On Thursday he will open the Newport Jazz Festival, which will celebrate Satchmo's birthday on the occasion. Ella Fitzgerald, Sidney Bechet, Jack Teagarden and a host of hard-stomping Dixieland musicians will be on hand, too.

The Newport event will run through Sunday with different stars at each concert. Just about every jazz musician worth mentioning will be there including Sarah Vaughn, Count Basie, Billie Holliday, Teddy Wilson, Erroll Garner, George Shearing, Bobby Hackett, Dizzy Gillespie and Dave Brubeck.

Next Saturday night Louis Armstrong will be leading the Jazz Jamboree at Lewisohn Stadium while the symphony orchestra takes a night off. Garner and Shearing will be there too.

Gershwin Night.

The annual Gershwin night, one of Lewisohn Stadium's most popular events, takes place on Thursday for the 27th consecutive year. Eugene List will be the piano soloist, Camilla Williams and Lawrence will sing the "Porgy and Bess" selections and, as usual, Alexander Smallens will conduct.

Monday will be Rachmaninoff night at the stadium with former child prodigy Ruth Slenczynska as soloist in the piano concerto. Brahms will be featured Wednesday night with Albert Fracht conducting and Martha Lipton as soprano soloist in the "Alto Rhapsody."

The Empire State Music Festival opens Thursday in Ellenville, with Igor Markevitch conducting the Symphony of the Air in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. On the next three nights eight members of the Royal Danish Ballet will offer varied dance programs.

Berkshire Festival.

The Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox will begin its 20th season Wednesday with the Paganini String Quartet. Charles Munch will conduct the Boston Symphony in the weekend concerts. The festival will run through Aug. 11.

The New Jersey Summer Music Festival, with Samuel Antek conducting the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, offers tomorrow the second in its series of Sunday afternoon concerts at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn. Jerome Hines of the Metropolitan Opera will be the featured soloist.

The Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival is having its silver jubilee season this summer at Lee. The opening week, beginning Tuesday, will fe[a]t[u]re Maria Tallchief and Ar[t]hur Eglevsky, the Mary Anthony Dance Theater and Bruce McClure and his Celtic Ballet of Scotland.

al Europe's

Six concerts in more inmate surrounding will ture chamber music.
ac Stern will be guest linist, in three of the Old ster concerts, in con-
tos of Tchaikovsky, thoven and Brahms.
est conductors, with ach, will be Pierre Mon-x and the veteran Vien-e, Carl Schuricht.

A. F.

PEORIA, ILL.
Journal-Star (Morn.)
Circ. D. 34,785

JUN 7 1957

—PARADE OF THE ARTS

BY EVABETH MILLER

Summer Festivals Beckon

Summer festivals in every direction will soon be claiming the attention and attendance of Peoria area followers of music and theater.

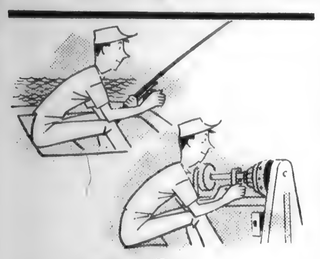
Besides our own local series of Corn Stock Theater plays at the tented arena in Bradley Park (starting June 18 with "Blithe Spirit"), and the Chicago area summer theaters, there are the nine-weeks Ravina Festival of music, drama, ballet movies, monologues and art exhibit, up on the Chicago North Shore; and the all-summer-long series of musicals and operettas given by the St. Louis Municipal Opera in Forest Park, where "South Pacific" opened last evening.

But that's not all. Some Peorians will be going, as usual, to the Berkshire Festival concerts July 3-Aug. 11 at historic "Tanglewood" in the hills of western Massachusetts. Some will head westward to Aspen, Colo., for the great variety of festival events at the ghost town that has come alive again at the foot of mountains that attract skiers in wintertime.

PEORIA, ILL.
Journal-Star (Morn.)
Circ. D. 34,785

JUN 11 1957

Assorted arts are provided, as previously mentioned here, at Aspen, Colo., at the famous Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., and the nearby Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee, emphasizing dance and music. Illinois has its Ravina festival near Chicago, besides the summer theaters in the area.



SATISFIED EMPLOYEES

ABOUND IN GREATER MIAMI

"1st in the Nation for Personnel Recruitment"

You boost your production efficiency when you produce in Greater Miami. Select your employees from a large local labor pool, and from the thousands who want to live here. Assure yourself of a higher quality of production with fewer rejects ... greater profits.

That's why we say, "There's a Hard Dollar Reason for locating Your Plant in Greater Miami."

Send on letterhead for Fact File

GREATER MIAMI INDUSTRIAL

BOOKS

Hecht and MacArt

▶On the Chicago of 1915: "We were all fools to have left Chicago. It was a town to play in; a town where you could stay yourself, and where the hoots of the critics couldn't frighten your style or drain your soul . . . the world would turn up nothing better for us than the frowsy streets and hooligan towers of Chicago."

▶On the New York of the '20s: "It was a time when a man was judged by his own wits, and not by the editorials he espoused. And the women, I bow again. They needed more than a bowling-ball bosom and overmembranous lips to fetch attention."

▶On the theater: "Success in the theater is difficult to describe. It is chiefly an absence of pain. The thousand devils of disaster are on leave. Present are only a few smiling friends, and the box-office statement."

▶On Hollywood head men: "The boss was, rather often, a dreary fellow, incapable of criticizing a waffle."

▶On John Barrymore: "[MacArthur] found Barrymore in an unlikely saloon, knowi[n]g spots. Let's get out of h[e]re. 'My soul is an old sock ... gas jet,' Barrymore replie[d] barefooted, then, said ...

▶On Scott Fitzgerald: "Sc[ott] on a movie script for four studio. He handed it in boss. Like many of his who had never written, an[d] even sold a he-and-she j[oke] paper, fancied himself a ... dictated the Fitzgerald days, using four steno[s] changed all the dialogue ... to this man read, in part, ... do this to me? If there's a ... it's the sound of how my ... spoken. I've listened to ... twenty years. I've done ... my life than listen to it ... you throw me away in ...

—From "Cha[rles] probable L[ie] of Charles M[acArthur] to Ben Hecht WOOD—"Symphonies Un-Ste[r]" at the Hollywood ... July 9 through Aug. 31. ...door music in Southern ... includes the admission-...dlands Summer Festival ...Aug. 30) and the San ...ymphony Summer Series ...a Park (July 9-Aug. 27).

Newsweek—Brenson

...E, N.M.—A new operatic ...n an amphitheatre and ...avilion using the Jemez ...ns as a natural backdrop ...Aug. 29). Operas sched-...lude "Madame Butterfly," ...Barber of Seville," and ...ky's "The Rake's Progress."

...R—Red Rocks, the amphi-...near Denver, will offer a ...variety ranging from "South ... to "Die Walküre" (July ...Other Colorado attractions ...concerts at Aspen (June ...1) and indoors, opera at ... City (June 29-July 27).

...FORD, ONT.—In addition ...espeare, this festival pre-...pera, symphony, and jazz ...-Sept. 6). A musical high-...he North American pre-... Benjamin Britten's latest ..."The Turn of the Screw."

5 CHICAGO—Ravinia, a suburban park, specializes in big-name conductors and soloists in symphonic fare (June 27-Aug. 18). Ravinia charges admission, but Grant Park, with its lake-front band shell and music ranging from opera to "pops" concerts, is free (June 25-Aug. 18).

6 ST. LOUIS—The Municipal Opera presents a wide variety of musical comedy and operetta in Forest Park from June 6 to Aug. 22.

7 CINCINNATI—Standard repertory opera at the Zoo Pavilion, which runs from June 29 through July 27.

8 THE "PAGEANT" CIRCUIT—"Wilderness Road," Berea, Ky., June 29-Aug. 31. "Chucky Jack," Gatlinburg, Tenn., June 21-Sept. 1. "Unto These Hills," Cherokee, N.C., June 25-Sept. 1. "Horn in the West," Boone, N.C., June 25-Sept. 2. "The Lost Colony," Manteo, N.C., June 29-Sept. 1. "Thy Kingdom Come," Salem, Va., June 21-Sept. 1. "The Common Glory," Williamsburg, Va. (evenings), and "The Founders" (matinees), May 13-Oct. 19. For the purely musical-minded, North Carolina also has the Brevard Music Center Summer Festival (June 23-Aug. 25).

9 WASHINGTON AND PHILADELPHIA—Rock Creek Park in Washington features opera and ballet, jazz, and Jimmy Durante (June 13-Aug. 31). In Philadelphia, Robin Hood Dell in Fairmount Park presents free programs with the Philadelphia Orchestra and soloists (June 17-July 25).

10 NEW YORK—Lewisohn Stadium in Manhattan is the New York Philharmonic's outdoor home (June 24-Aug. 3). To the north are the chamber-music concerts at Caramoor (Katonah, N.Y., June 15-29), and the Empire State Music Festival at Ellenville (July 4-28). Upstate to the west is 84-year-old Chautauqua (July 1-Aug. 25).

11 THE BERKSHIRES—The Boston Symphony holds forth at the Berkshire Music Festival (Tanglewood) in Lenox, Mass. (July 3-Aug. 11). Other lures include the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival near Lee, Mass. (July 2-Aug. 31), and chamber music at South Mountain, outside of Pittsfield (July 19-Oct. 6).

12 NEWPORT—Everybody and his horn and piano will be on hand for the fourth Newport Jazz Festival at Freebody Park (July 4-7).

TOLEDO, OHIO
BLADE
Circ. D. 193,863 - S. 178,068
JUN 2 1957

Orchestras

Philadelphians Due In Havana

Special to The Blade

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 The Philadelphia Orchestra will make its first visit to Havana and its first tour of the Florida Peninsula next season. The tour will begin Sunday, Jan. 12, when Eugene Ormandy and the 110 musicians fly to Cuba, where they will play two concerts, Jan. 13 and 14, in the auditorium of the Havana Philharmonic Orchestra.

The Philadelphians will fly to Miami, Wednesday, Jan. 15, where they play in the Dinner Key Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Miami Lions Club. The performance is a benefit to aid the Lighthouse for the Blind. Other Florida concerts will be in Miami Beach, Jan. 16; Daytona Beach, Jan. 17 and Orlando, Jan. 18.

★ ★ ★

MORE THAN 20 applications have been filed by young Chicago musicians for auditions as soloists in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's 39th season of Young People's Concerts. Samuel Antek, who will direct these concerts, will hear players and singers May 27 and 28 in Orchestra Hall to select six for the two series of programs next season.

★ ★ ★

A MEETING place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this summer at Tanglewood in a Seminar in Contemporary Music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago. This opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's composition department under the direction of Aaron Copland. The program will benefit the 13 participating players as well as composition students.

Music Calendar

ON THE AIR

Today at 2:35 (WJR): "World Music Festivals"; James Fassett, commentator. Amsterdam Concertgebouw, Ormandy conducting. William Schuman, "Article of Faith"; Dvorak, Symphony No. 5 in E minor ("From the New World"); Stravinsky, suite from the ballet, "The Fire-Bird."

Today at 5:05 (WJR): "Sunday Symphony"; Valter Poole, commentator. A recorded program of orchestral music.

Tomorrow at 9 (WSPD): "Telephone Hour." Michael Rabin, violinist.

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION,
, TUESDAY, JULY 2, 1957

Seminar in Contemporary Music Set at Tanglewood

Lenox, Jluy 1 — Dean Ralph Berkowitz of the Berkshire Music Center, the summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, has announced the titles for the illustrated lecture series which is part of the Seminar in Contemporary Music.

To Start Friday

The seminar, which will meet for the first time on Friday afternoon at 3.15 in the Chamber Music Hall at Tanglewood, is sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation and is open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

The lectures, which occur each Wednesday and Friday afternoon at 3.15, will be given by distinguished composers who are members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty and will be illustrated by eleven Fromm Fellowship players—young professional musicians who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music and who will spend the summer at Tanglewood through the generosity of the Fromm Foundation.

The seminar programs are as follows: Friday, July 5; Aaron Copland: "General outline and backgrounds" Busoni, Scriabine, Strauss, Debussy, Ravel, early Stravinsky and early Schoenberg; Wednesday, July 10; Irving Fine: "Music of the Twenties: the neoclassic phase." Stravinsky, Hindemith, Roussel, De Falla; Friday, July 12; Aaron Copland: "Music of the Twenties: the new Shibboleths." Satie and les Six; Jazz influence, polytonality, Gebrauchsmusik; Wednesday, July 17; Milton Babbitt: "The Viennese school." Schoenberg, Berg, Websen.

Friday, July 19; Milton Babbitt: "Dodecaphonism developed." Krenek, Dallapiccola, Martin, Riegger; Wednesday, July 24; Karl Kohn: "Nationalist trends—European phase." Bartok, Britten, the Russians, the Monsigny. It will be ...

Berkshire Seminar On Contemporaries

SYRACUSE HERALD-AMERICAN June 23, 1957

A Seminar in Contemporary Music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, president, is announced for Berkshire Music Center during the summer season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass. The Fromm Fellowship players, equivalent of teaching fellows in the Academic world, are 13 young professional musicians, who have demonstrated special interest in contemporary music.

They will be attached to the Berkshire Center Composition department as the nucleus of the Seminar. In addition to receiving instruction from the Berkshire Music Center faculty, under Aaron Copeland, they will assist composition students by reading their works and will perform in the "aspects of Music" lecture series. They also will perform at the Sunday Night Composers' Forums. The Fromm Foundation again will sponsor two concerts of modern chamber music to be performed by Boston Symphony Orchestra members, following the successful pattern of last season. These concerts, open to all Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, will take place July 23 and Aug. 6.

This date in music: 1887, John Finley Williamson born. He became known as a pianist and composer and founded Westminster Choir School in 1926.

Director Charles Munch of the Boston Symphony announces programs for the series of Chamber Music concerts as part of the Music Festival in Tanglewood on six Wednesday nights between July 3 and Aug. 7 in the Theater Concert hall. Net proceeds of these events go to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to aid students at the Orhoestra's summer school—Berkshire Music Center. Among guest artists during the series: Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin, pianists; Saramae Endich, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, Donald Gramm, bass; the Beaux Arts Trio, the Kroll String Quartet; George Souzay, baritone; and the Zimbler Sinfonietta.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047
JUN 2 1957

Music

Contemporary Musicians Will Teach Each Other

By RAYMOND MORIN,
Telegram Music Critic

It should be a satisfaction to those who don't enjoy some contemporary music that composers and performers are holding a seminar at Tanglewood this summer during which they will attempt to understand each other.

This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of modern music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's composition department under the direction of Aaron Copland. The program will benefit 13 participating players as well as the composition students of the school through study of instruments and performance problems.

The porject is sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, president.

These Fromm Fellowship players, who will be the equivalent of teaching fellows in the academic world, will be 13 young professional musicians who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music.

The Foundation will sponsor two concerts of modern chamber music performed by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and others. They are open to all Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, and will be held on July 23 and August 6.

Christian Science
Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675
MAY 10 1957

N.Y. TIMES JUNE 2, 1957

THE WORLD OF MUSIC: DISAPPEARING SERIES

By ROSS PARMENTER

MANY American instrumentalists have a special gift for chamber music. They love to play it, too, and this leads them to organize concerts, which they finance from their own pockets. Because

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Musicians' Guild and Knickerbocker Group Suspending Local Concerts

old Shapero are the "long-hair" composers who have complied. The six works will be played together next Thursday night. The theme of the program will be amplified by the inclusion of two earlier jazz works from the two fields: Duke Ellington's "Reminiscing in Tempo" and André Hodeir's "Eronel." The next morning the six commissioned composers will discuss their works at a symposium moderated by Nat Hentoff. Then the program will be played over again.

FELLOWSHIP: The Fromm Foundation will widen its efforts on behalf of contemporary music during this summer's Berkshire Festival. Besides sponsoring programs of contemporary music, as it did last year, it will sponsor thirteen young professional musicians who will be attached to the Berkshire Music Center's composition department to play the works of the student composers and to give the young composers tips on instrumental problems. The musicians will be selected from instrumentalists who have shown a special interest in contemporary music and they will be called the Fromm Fellowship Players.

Plans for Brandeis Festival

Brandeis University's fourth Creative Arts Festival will open June 1, and will be dedicated to the stimulation and appraisal of six art forms, including chamber music, dance, jazz, poetry, orchestral music, and fine arts.

The Julliard String Quartet of New York City will open the festival with an evening concert in the new Slosberg Music Center, and will give two other concerts during the festival. There will be a dance-drama presentation by Pearl Lang and her dance group of 14; six jazz works composed for the festival; a poetry symposium which will honor William Carlos Williams, 1957 Brandeis University Creative Arts Award medalist; a concert of Aaron Copland's works; and an art exhibit to be held on the campus. The University, in conjunction with the festival, presented four gold medals this spring for outstanding artistic achievement and four $1,500 grants-in-aid to young artists.

★ ★ ★

Seminar at Tanglewood

There will be a seminar in contemporary music at Tanglewood this summer, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, the president of which is Paul Fromm. Thirteen Fromm Fellowship players will be the equivalent of academic teaching fellows and will receive instruction from members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty, as well as forming the nucleus of the seminar. They will give the musical illustrations in the "Aspects of Music" lecture series, and will perform at the Sunday night Composers' Forums.

The Fromm Foundation will also sponsor two concerts of contemporary chamber music, to be given by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra on July 23 and Aug. 6.

★ ★ ★

American Jewish Society.
Herald 5/12/57

Contemporary Seminar At Berkshire Festival

A meeting place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this summer at Tanglewood in a Seminar in Contemporary Music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, President. This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's Composition Department under the direction of Aaron Copeland. This program will benefit the 13 participating players as well as the composition students of the School through study of instruments and performance problems.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4206
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
MAY 29 1957

FROMM FOUNDATION TO SPONSOR SEMINAR

Enables Composers, Performers to Study Together At Tanglewood

A meeting place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this summer at Tanglewood, Lenox, in a Seminar in contemporary music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, President.

This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's composition department under the direction of Aaron Copland. This program will benefit the 13 participating players as well as the composition students of the school through study of instruments and performance problems.

The Fromm Fellowship players, who will be the equivalent of teaching fellows in the academic world, will be 13 young professional musicians, more advanced and experienced than the usual instrumental students, who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music. They will be attached to the composition department as the nucleus of the Seminar in Contemporary Music and, in addition to receiving instruction from members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty with special knowledge to impart to them, will also assist composition students by reading their works. They will perform the musical illustrations in the "Aspects of Music" lecture series, which will be devoted this year to contemporary music, and will perform at the Sunday night Composers' Forums.

The Fromm Foundation will this season again sponsor two concerts of modern chamber music to be performed by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and others, following the successful pattern initiated at Tanglewood last season. The concerts, which are open to all Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, will be held on July 23 and August 6.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Register
NEW HAVEN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 99,506
MAY 12 1957

Seminar In Music Being Sponsored By Fromm Foundation

A meeting place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this summer at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., in a Seminar in Contemporary Music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, president. This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's Composition Department under the direction of Aaron Copland. This program will benefit the thirteen participating players as well as the composition students of the School through study of instruments and performance problems.

The Fromm Fellowship players, who will be the equivalent of teaching fellows in the academic world, will be 13 young professional musicians, more advanced and experienced than the usual instrumental students, who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music. They will be attached to the composition department as the nucleus of the Seminar in Contemporary Music and, in addition to receiving instruction from members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty with special knowledge to impart to them, will also assist composition students by reading their works. They will perform the musical illustrations in the "Aspects of Music" lecture series, which will be devoted this year to contemporary music, and will perform at the Sunday night Composers' Forums.

The Fromm Foundation will this season again sponsor two concerts of modern chamber music to be performed by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and others, following the successful pattern initiated at Tanglewood last season. The concerts, which are open to all Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, will be held on July 23rd and August 6th.

The Fromm Foundation has been active for several years in the support and encouragement of creative musicians by facilitating dissemination of their works. It sponsors publication and recordings, awards prizes and commissions, and undertakes whatever it finds most needed to keep composers composing and to make their music heard. It has sponsored concerts in New York and Chicago and this year joined with the University of Illinois in presenting the eight Festival of Contemporary Arts at the University.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
MAY 12 1957

STUDENT SEMINAR TO BE SPONSORED AT TANGLEWOOD

Fromm Foundation Aids Study of Contemporary Music

Boston, May 11 — A meeting place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this summer t Tanglewood in a Seminar in Contemporary Music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, president. This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's Composition Department under the direction of Aaron Copland.

This program will benefit the 13 participating players as well as the composition students of the school through study of instruments and performance problems. The Fromm Fellowship players, who will be the equivalent of teaching fellows in the academic world, will be 13 young professional musicians, more advanced and experienced than the usual instrumental students, who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music.

Aid for Students

They will be attached to the composition department as the nucleus of the Seminar in Contemporary Music and, in addition to receiving instruction from members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty with special knowledge to impart to them, will also assist composition students by reading their works. They will perform the musical illustrations in the "Aspects of Music" lecture series, which will be devoted this year to contemporary music, and will perform at the Sunday night composers' forums.

The Fromm Foundation will this season again sponsor two concerts of modern chamber music to be performed by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and others, following the successful pattern initiated at Tanglewood last season. The concerts, which are open to all Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, will be held on July 23 and Aug. 6.

The Fromm Foundation has been active for several years in the support and encouragement of creative musicians by facilitating diesemination of their works.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
MAY 11 1957

Tanglewood Offers Contemporary, Music Seminar

A meeting place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this summer at Tanglewood in a seminar in contemporary music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, President. This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's composition department under the direction of Aaron Copland. This program will benefit the thirteen participating players as well as the composition students of the school through study of instruments and performance problems.

The Fromm Fellowship players, who will be the equivalent of teaching fellows in the academic world, will be thirteen young professional musicians, more advanced and experienced than the usual instrumental students, who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music.

The Fromm Foundation will this season again sponsor two concerts of modern chamber music to be performed by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and others, following the successful pattern initiated at Tanglewood last season. The concerts, which are open to all Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, will be held on July 23rd and August 6th.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,366
JUL 2 1957

Seminar in Contemporary Music Set at Tanglewood

Lenox, Jluy 1 — Dean Ralph Berkowitz of the Berkshire Music Center, the summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, has announced the titles for the illustrated lecture series which is part of the Seminar in Contemporary Music.

To Start Friday

The seminar, which will meet for the first time on Friday afternoon at 3.15 in the Chamber Music Hall at Tanglewood, is sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation and is open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

The lectures, which occur each Wednesday and Friday afternoon at 3.15, will be given by distinguished composers who are members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty and will be illustrated by eleven Fromm Fellowship players—young professional musicians who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music and who will spend the summer at Tanglewood through the generosity of the Fromm Foundation.

The seminar programs are as follows: Friday, July 5; Aaron Copland: "General outline and backgrounds" Busoni, Scriabine, Strauss, Debussy, Ravel, early Stravinsky and early Schoenberg; Wednesday, July 10; Irving Fine: "Music of the Twenties: the neoclassic phase." Stravinsky, Hindemith, Roussel, De Falla; Friday, July 12; Aaron Copland: "Music of the Twenties: the new Shibboleths." Satie and les Six; Jazz influence, polytonality, Gebrauchsmusik; Wednesday, July 17; Milton Babbitt: "The Viennese school." Schoenberg, Berg, Websen.

Friday, July 19; Milton Babbitt: "Dodecaphonism developed." Krenek, Dallapiccola, Martin, Riegger; Wednesday, July 24; Karl Kohn: "Nationalist trends—European phase." Bartok, Britten, the Russians, the Scandinavians; Friday, July 26; Aaron Copland: "Nationalist trends—American phase." Ives, Harris, Thomson, Villa-Lobos, Chavez, Revueltas; Wednesday, July 31; Milton Babbitt: "Innovators—American style." Varese, Brant, Partch, progressive jazz; Friday, August 2; Milton Babbitt: "Innovators — European style." Boulez, Stockhausen, Nono; Wednesday, August 7; Irving Fine: "Contemporary Americans— older generation." Sessions, Piston, Schuman, Barber, Copland; and Friday, August 9; Aaron Copland: "Contemporary Americans—younger generation."

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUL 2 1957

11 Lectures To Be Given at Tanglewood

Special to the Herald Tribune

LENOX, Mass., July 1.—As a part of its seminar on contemporary music, the Berkshire Music Center will offer eleven illustrated lectures at 3:15 p. m. Wednesdays and Fridays in the Chamber Music Hall at Tanglewood. Aaron Copland will give the opening lecture Friday, July 5, and will also speak on July 12, 26 and Aug. 9. The other lecturers and dates are Irving Fine, July 10 and Aug. 7; Milton Babbitt, July 17, 19, 31 and Aug. 2, and Karl Kohn, July 24. They are sponsored by the Fromm Foundation, which is presenting concerts of modern chamber music on Tuesday nights, July 23 and Aug. 6. Both the lectures and concerts are open to contributing members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, who sing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" Sunday afternoon, July 7, will also give a special concert at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in Tanglewood's Theater-Concert Hall under their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth. The program includes both early and modern music.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
MAY 12 1957

Fromm Foundation Sponsors Tanglewood Seminar, Concerts

A meeting place for the composer and performer of contemporary music will be provided this Summer at Tanglewood in a seminar in contemporary music to be sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, Paul Fromm, president.

This unprecedented opportunity for study and performance of contemporary music will be supervised by the staff of the Berkshire Music Center's composition department under the direction of Aaron Copland. This program will benefit the 13 participating players as well as the composition students of the school through study of instruments and performance problems.

The Fromm Fellowship players, who will be the equivalent of teaching fellows in the academic world, will be 13 young professional musicians, more advanced and experienced than the usual instrumental students, who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music.

They will be attached to the composition department as the nucleus of the seminar in contemporary music and, in addition to receiving instruction from members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty with special knowledge to impart to them, will also assist composition students by reading their works. They will perform the musical illustrations in the "Aspects of Music" lecture series, which will be devoted this year to contemporary music, and will perform at the Sunday night Composers' Forum.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
JUL 7 1957

LECTURE SERIES AT TANGLEWOOD IS SEMIWEEKLY

Illustrated Seminar Will Continue Through August 9

Lenox, July 6—Dean Ralph Berkowitz of the Berkshire Music Center, the summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, has announced the titles for the illustrated lecture series which is part of the Seminar in Contemporary Music. The seminar, which met for the first time Friday afternoon with Aaron Copland lecturing, in the Chamber Music Hall at Tanglewood, is sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation and is open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

The lectures, which occur each Wednesday and Friday afternoon at 3.15, will be given by distinguished composers who are members of the Berkshire Music Center faculty and will be illustrated by 11 Fromm Fellowship players, young professional musicians who have demonstrated a special interest in contemporary music and who will spend the summer at Tanglewood through the generosity of the Fromm Foundation. The programs:

Wednesday, July 10—Irving Fine: "Music of the Twenties: the Neo-Classic Phase." Stravinsky, Hindemith, Roussel, De Falla.
Friday, July 12—Aaron Copland: "Music of the Twenties: the New Shibboleths". Satie and les Six; Jazz influence, polytonality, Gebrauchsmusik.
Wednesday, July 17—Milton Babbitt: "The Viennese School." Schoenberg, Berg, Webern.
Friday, July 19—Milton Babbitt: "Dodecaphonism developed." Krenek, Dallapiccola, Martin, Riegger.
Wednesday, July 24—Karl Kohn: "Nationalist Trends—European Phase." Britten, the Russians, the Scandinavians.
Friday, July 26—Aaron Copland: "Nationalist Trends—American Phase." Ives, Harris, Thomas, Villa-Lobos, Chavez, Revueltas.
Wednesday, July 31—Milton Babbitt: "Innovators—American Style." Varese, Brant, Partch, Progressive Jazz.
Friday, Aug. 2—Milton Babbitt: "Innovators—European Style." Boulez, Stockhausen, Nono.
Wednesday, Aug. 7—Irving Fine: "Contemporary Americans—Older Generation." Sessions, Piston, Schuman, Barber, Copland.
Friday, Aug. 9—Aaron Copland: "Contemporary Americans—Younger Generation."

[C 66]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUN 3 1957

Tanglewood Offers Scholarships To County Residents

The Boston Symphony orchestra has announced a plan to offer scholarships at its summer school, the Berkshire Music center, at Tanglewood, Lenox, to persons who are expecially active or in positions of leadership in the musical life of Berkshire county.

The scholarships will be in the form of grants from the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund for study at the Music center in any division of the departments of instrumental music, choral music, or the Tanglewood study group. Recipients of the scholarships will have the opportunity to attend rehearsals of the Boston Symphony orchestra and concerts of the Berkshire festival and sing in the festival chorus in performances of Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth symphony with the Boston Symphony orchestra under its music director, Charles Munch. They will also be able to attend classes and rehearsals of the Berkshire Music center student orchestra and chorus, and lectures by noted musicians on the faculty of the school.

Qualified applicants for Berkshire county scholarships include school choral and instrumental music supervisors, private music teachers and instrumental and vocal soloists. Applications will be received by the admissions committee of the Berkshire Music center and scholarships will be granted if the applicant qualifies for the department applied for. Information on the plan is available from Miss Mildred Buttrey, St. Stephen's Church, Pittsfield, and Nathan Rudnick, Williamstown.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443

JUN 13 1957

ANNOUNCES COUNTY MUSIC SCHOLARSHIPS

Boston Symphony Offers Opportunities to Study At Tanglewood

The Boston Symphony Orchestra recently announced a plan to offer scholarships at its summer school at Tanglewood, the Berkshire Music Center, to those who are especially active or in positions of leadership in the musical life of Berkshire county. These scholarships will be in the form of grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund for study at the Music Center in any division of the departments of instrumental music, choral music, or the Tanglewood Study Group.

Recipients of the scholarships will have the opportunity to attend rehearsals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and concerts of the Berkshire Festival and sing in the Festival Chorus in performances of Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under its music director, Charles Munch. They will also be able to attend classes and rehearsals of the Berkshire Music Center student orchestra and chorus, and lectures by noted musicians on the faculty of the school.

Qualified applicants for Berkshire county scholarships include school choral and instrumental music supervisors, private music teachers and instrumental and vocal soloists. Applications should be submitted to the Admissions Committee of the Berkshire Music Center and scholarships will be granted if the applicant qualifies for the department applied for. Further information on the plan may be had from Miss Mildred Buttrey, St. Stephen's church, Pittsfield; Fernand Barrette, Great Barrington; or Mrs. Mac Morgan, Stockbridge.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 19 1957

BSO Offers County Scholarships To Tanglewood Summer School

LENOX—The Boston Symphony Orchestra recently announced a plan to offer scholarships at its summer school at Tanglewood, the Berkshire Music Center, to those who are especially active or in positions of leadership in the musical life of Berkshire County.

These scholarships will be in the form of grants from the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund for study at the Music Center in any division of the departments of instrumental music, choral music, or the Tanglewood study group. Recipients of the scholarships may attend rehearsals of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and concerts of the Berkshire Festival and sing in the Festival Chorus in performances of Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under its music director, Charles Munch.

They will also be able to attend classes and rehearsals of the Berkshire Music Center student orchestra and chorus, and lectures by noted musicians on the faculty of the school.

Qualified applicants for Berkshire County scholarships include school choral and instrumental music supervisors, private music teachers and instrumental and vocal soloists. Applications should be submitted to the admissions committee of the Berkshire Music Center and scholarships will be granted if the applicant qualifies for the department applied for. Further information on the plan may be had locally from Miss Mildred Buttrey, St. Stephen's Church, Pittsfield; Fernand Barrette, Great Barrington; Mrs. Mac Morgan, Stockbridge; and Nathan Rudnick, Williamstown.

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUL 14 1957

Has Tanglewood Scholarship

Mrs. Donald H. Abbott of Prospect St., Lee, has been awarded a scholarship for furthering her piano teaching ability and is studying at Tanglewood this summer. The award to Mrs. Abbott was made through the Tanglewood's Scholarship Revolving Fund. Mrs. Abbott will also sing alto with the Festival chorus, which will be heard three times this season with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Abbott is organist at St. Mary's Church, Lee, and maintains a piano studio in her home. She conducted a studio in Holyoke before moving to Lee three years ago. She is also pianist for the Cantarella School of Dance, Pittsfield. She studied privately for several years with William Harry of Holyoke.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

MAY 2 1957

Awards Announced For Music Center

Charles Munch, Director of the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, announces a number of scholarships and prizes available to its students.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, the income from a fund established at Tanglewood by Mr. Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music Center violin student. This year's prize, to be awarded to a deserving candidate at the end of the school's session, will be approximately $1,000, a sum in the range of many of the famous international competitions. Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit. Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the school in the name of her late husband.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5,000 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting. The scholarship will be named for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the original founders of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in 1934, and long a friend of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Also active in supporting young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood is the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra from 1924-49 and the school's first Director, which for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkshire County established the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship for a conducting student.

Samuel Wechsler of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Also interested in young Tanglewood composers are Margaret Lee Crofts, who contributes two scholarships, and the Sagalyn family, which offers the Raphael Sagalyn award for the best orchestral work by a composition student.

A scholarship award is offered by High Fidelity magazine which is published in the Berkshire area. The National Federation of Music Clubs, some single clubs, the Fromm Music Foundation, the Portland Oregon Junior Symphony Orchestra and the Saint Louis Symphony Society Women's Association are also helping students attend the Berkshire Music Center. Other Scholarships bear the names of Carlotta M. Dreyfus, Selly A. Eisemann, and Jenny Fels.

The Berkshire Music Center's fifteenth session will be held at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts this summer between July 1 and August 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are now being received by the Registrar at the School office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4206

Back Bay Ledger &
Beacon Hill Times
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 10,000 Free

APR 11 1957

Symphony Prizes For Summer Music Students

Dr. Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, this week announced that a number of scholarships and prizes have been made available to students at the Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, the income from a fund established at Tanglewood by Mr. Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music Center violin student. This year's prize, to be awarded to a deserving candidate at the end of the school's session, will be approximately $1,000, a sum in the range of many of the famous international competitions.

Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit. Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the school in the name of her late husband.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5,000 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting. The scholarship will be named for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the original founders of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in 1934 and long a friend of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Also active in supporting young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood is the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra from 1924-49 and the school's first Director, which for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkshire County established the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship for a conducting student.

Samuel Wechsler of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Also interested in young Tanglewood composers are Margaret Lee Crofts, who contributes two scholarships, and the Sagalyn family, which offers the Raphael Sagalyn award for the best orchestral work by a composition student.

A scholarship award is offered by High Fidelity magazine which is published in the Berkshire area. The National Federal of Music clubs, some single clubs, the Fromm Music foundation, the Portland Oregon Junior Symphony orchestra and the Saint Louis Symphony Society Women's association are also helping students attend the Berkshire Music center. Other scholarships bear the names of Carlotta M. Dreyfus, Selly A. Eisemann, and Jenny Fels.

The Berkshire Music center's 15th session will be held at Tanglewood this summer between July 1 and August 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are now being received by the Registrar at the school office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

SPARTANBURG, S. C.
HERALD-JOURNAL
S. 31,912

Scholarships To Berkshire Center Offered

Scholarships and prizes available to students at the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, for this summer were announced Saturday by Charles Munch, director.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, which this year will be approximately $1,000 and will be awarded at the end of the summer session to the violin student judged to be outstanding.

A student cellist of exceptional merit will receive an award by Gregor Piatigorsky, and a promising instrumentalist will receive the Albert Spalding award established this year by Mrs. Spalding.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5,000 will provide a scholarship in conducting, as will the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship. Other scholarships are offered by music clubs, associations and individuals.

A composition prize is offered by the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, and Samuel Wechsler, of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Other scholarships or awards are also earmarked for young composers.

The Berkshire Music Center's 15th session will be held at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., July 1-August 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are available from the Registrar, Symphony Hall,

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 15 1957

Scholarships, Prizes For Summer School At Tanglewood Listed

Charles Munch, director of the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, announced yesterday a number of scholarships and prizes available to its students.

Largest Prize

Largest is the Heifetz prize, the income from a fund established at Tanglewood by Jascha Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music center violin student. This year's prize, to be awarded to a deserving candidate at the end of the school's session, will be approximately $1,000, a sum in the range of many of the famous international competitions. Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student 'cellist of exceptional merit. Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the school in the name of her late husband.

The Berkshire Symphonic festival scholarship fund of $5,00 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting. The scholarship will be named for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the original founders of the Berkshire Symphonic festival in 1934, a long a friend of the Boston Symphony orchestra. Also active in supporting young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood is the Koussevitzky Music foundation, established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra from 1924 to 1949 and the school's first director, which for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkshire county established the Koussevitzky Memorial scholarship for a conducting student.

Composition Students

Samuel Wechsler of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Also interested in young Tanglewood composers are Margaret Lee Crofts, who contributes two scholarships, and the Sagalyn family, which offers the Raphael Sagalyn award for the best orchestral work by a composition student.

A scholarship award is offered by High Fidelity magazine which is published in the Berkshire area. The National Federal of Music clubs, some single clubs, the Fromm Music foundation, the Portland Oregon Junior Symphony orchestra and the Saint Louis Symphony Society Women's association are also helping students attend the Berkshire Music center. Other scholarships bear the names of Carlotta M. Dreyfus, Selly A. Eisemann, and Jenny Fels.

The Berkshire Music center's 15th session will be held at Tanglewood this summer between July 1 and August 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are now being received by the Registrar at the school office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Evening Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 154,300

APR 18 1957

Tanglewood Scholarships Offered

Charles Munch, director of the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Summer school at Tanglewood, announces a number of scholarships and prizes available to its students.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, income from a fund establishd at Tanglewood by Mr. Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music Center violin student. This year's prize, to be awarded to a deserving candidate at the end of the school's session, will be approximately $1000.

Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit. Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the school in the name of her late husband.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5000 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting. The scholarship will be named for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the original founders of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in 1934, and long a friend of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Also active in supporting young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood is the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra from 1924-49 and the school's first director, which for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkshire County established the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship for a conducting student.

Samuel Wechsler of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Margaret Lee Crofts, who contributes two composition scholarships, and the Sagalyn family, which offers the Raphael Sagalyn award for the best orchestral work by a composition student.

A scholarship award is offered by High Fidelity magazine which is published in the Berkshire area. The National Federation of Music Clubs, some single clubs, the Fromm Music Foundation, the Portland, Or., Junior Symphony Orchestra and the St. Louis Symphony Society Women's Association are also helping students attend the Berkshire Music Center. Other scholarships bear the names of Carlotta M. Dreyfus, Selly A. Eisemann, and Jenny Fels.

The Berkshire Music Center's fifteenth session will be held at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this summer between July 1 and Aug. 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are now being received by the Registrar at the school office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

C67]

New Albert Spalding Award To Go to Tanglewood Pupil

LENOX — An award derived from a fund established this year by Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished violinist, is among the score of scholarships available this year to students at the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood.

Mrs. Spalding established the fund in the name of her late husband to provide an award to a promising instrumentalist at the Music Center.

$1,000 Heifetz Prize

Also to be awarded this season is the Heifetz Prize, the income from a fund established by violinist Jascha Heifetz at Tanglewood in 1949. The $1,000 award will go to an outstanding violin student at the Music Center, which is the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school in Lenox. The award will be made at the end of the school's session.

Other awards announced by Charles Munch, director of the Music Center, include one by cellist Gregor Piatigorsky for a student cellist of exceptional merit; and one in the name of Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, an original founder of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival. The latter, a scholarship for conductors, is provided by the Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5,000.

Also aiding young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood is the Koussevitzky Music Foundation established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra from 1924-49 and the school's first director, which for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkshire County established the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship for a conducting student.

Composers' Award

Samuel Wechsler of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Also interested in young Tanglewood composers are Margaret Lee Crofts, who contributes two scholarships, and the Sagalyn family, which offers the Raphael Sagalyn award for the best orchestral work by a composition student.

A scholarship award is offered by High Fidelity magazine, which is published in Great Barrington. The National Federation of Music Clubs, some single clubs, the Fromm Music Foundation, the Portland Oregon Junior Symphony Orchestra and the Saint Louis Symphony Society Women's Assn. are also helping students attend the Berkshire Music Center. Other scholarships bear the names of Carlotta M. Dreyfus, Sally A. Eisemann, and Jenny Fels.

The Berkshire Music Center's 15th session will be held at Tanglewood, this summer between July 1 and Aug. 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are now being received by the Registrar at the school office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

BERKSHIRE EAGLE Saturday, April 13, 1957

BEAUMONT TEX.
JOURNAL

APR 12 1957

Berkshire Music Scholarships Are Announced

Charles Munch, Director of the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, has announced a number of scholarships and prizes available to its students.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, the income from a fund established at Tanglewood by Mr. Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music Center violin student. This year's prize, to be awarded to a deserving candidate at the end of the school's session, will be approximately $1,000, a sum in the range of many of the famous international competitions.

Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit.

Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the school in the name of her late husband.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5,000 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5,000 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting. The scholarship will be named for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the original founders of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in 1934, and long a friend of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Also active in supporting young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood is the Koussevitzky Music Foundation, established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra from 1924-49 and the school's first director, which for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkshire County established the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship for a conducting student.

Samuel Wechsler of New York offers a commission each year to a present or former composition student. Margaret Lee Crofts, who contributes two composition scholarships, and the Sagalyn family, which offers the Raphael Sagalyn award for the best orchestral work by a composition student.

A scholarship award is offered by High Fidelity magazine which is published in the Berkshire area. The National Federation of Music Clubs, some single clubs, the Fromm Music Foundation, the Portland, Or., Junior Symphony Orchestra and the St. Louis Symphony Society Women's Association are also helping students attend the Berkshire Music Center. Other scholarships bear the names of Carlotta M. Dreyfus, Selly A. Eisemann, and Jenny Fels.

The Berkshire Music Center's fifteenth session will be held at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this summer between July 1 and Aug. 11. Applications for admission and for scholarships are now being received by the Registrar at the school office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

[087]

Prize-Primed Tanglewood; All Sorts of Rewards To Deserving Newcomers

Lenox, Mass., April 16.

Heifetz Prize, worth approximately $1,000 and to be awarded the outstanding violin student at the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, tops a large number of awards at the 15th session. This is to be held here from July 1 to August 11. Jascha Heifetz established the annual scholarship in 1949.

Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising Center instrumentalist—in the name of her husband.

Gregory Piatigorsky is donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festivla Scholarship Fund of $5,000 has been set up to provide a scholarship in conducting. The award is to be named for Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the founders of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in 1934, and long a friend of the Boston Symphony.

The Koussevitsky Music Foundation, established by Serge Koussevitsky, conductor of the Boston Symphony from 1924 to 1949 and the Center's first director, will again play its part in supporting young musicians pursuing advanced study at Tanglewood. The Foundation for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students, and also offers a composition prize. In 1956, residents of Berkhire County (which includes Tanglewood) established the Koussevitsky Memorial Scholarship for a conducting neophyte.

The National Federation of Music Clubs, the Portland, Oregon, Junior Symphony Orchestra and the St. Louis Symphony Society Women's Association are among others helping students attend the Center. Charles Munch is director of the Berkshire music school.

VARIETY
4/17/57

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
APR 18 1957

MUSIC AWARD NAMED FOR ALBERT SPALDING

Widow Sets Up Fund for Award to Promising Instrumentalists

Mrs. Albert Spalding, Aston Magna, Berkshire Heights, Great Barrington, widow of the distinguished violinist, has established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox.

Mrs. Spalding established the fund in the name of her late husband. It is one of a score of scholarships and awards available to students at the Berkshire Music Center.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, the income from a fund established at Tanglewood by Mr. Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music Center violin student. This year's prize will be approximately $1000, a sum in the range of many of the famous international competitions. Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit.

The Berkshire Symphonic Festival Scholarship Fund of $5000 has been established to provide a scholarship in conducting. The scholarship will be named for Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, one of the founders of the Berkshire Symphonic Festival in 1934. The Koussevitzky Music Foundation, established by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony from 1924-49 and the school's first director, for five years has contributed to the maintenance of scholarship students and also offers a composition prize. Residents of Berkshire county established the Koussevitzky Memorial Scholarship in 1956, for a conducting student.

The Berkshire Eagle, Tuesday, July 9, 1957—19

Mrs. D. H. Abbott Has Scholarship At Tanglewood

LEE — Mrs. Donald H. Abbott of Prospect Street is studying at Tanglewood this summer.

She has been awarded a scholarship to further her piano teaching ability and is in a study group of about 25 taking a six-week course. The award was made through Tanglewood's Scholarship Revolving Fund.

Mrs. Abbott will also sing alto with the Festival chorus, which will perform three times this season with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Abbott, organist at St. Mary's Church, teaches piano at her home and had a studio at Holyoke before moving to Lee three years ago. She is also a pianist for the Cantarella School of Dance. She studied privately for several years with William Harry of Holyoke. Mr. and Mrs. Abbott have two young daughters.

Recently Mrs. Abbott gave a piano recital at her home with all students in duets. Solos were given by Ann Marie Avigo, David Blache, Paul Cantarella, Margaret Ford, George Fulginiti, Rosemary Robinson and Carol Thomson. Luncheon was served to 49 persons.

SPRINGFIELD UNION,
MONDAY, JULY 15, 1957

Music Scholarship Awarded Teacher

Great [illegible], July 14 — John H. Nichols, instructor at the Brookside School, has been given a scholarship for study at Tanglewood, Lenox, at the Berkshire Music Center conducted during the summer months.

Nichols is a tenor, a member of St. James' Episcopal Church Choir. He will appear three times with the Festival Choirs in public appearances. He formerly studied voice in New York City, and for the past five years has been on the staff at Brookside School.

LANSING, MICH.
STATE JOURNAL

APR 21 1957

Details Released On Scholarships

Announcement of attractive scholarships and prizes for the Boston Symphony orchestra's summer school at the Berkshire Music center at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., is made by Charles Munch, Boston symphony director. The center's 15th season is set for July 1-Aug. 11. Applications for admission and scholarships are being handled at the Symphony hall, office, Boston, 15.

Largest is the Heifetz prize, the income from a fund established at Tanglewood by Mr. Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding Berkshire Music center violin student. This year's prize, to be awarded to a deserving candidate at the end of the school's session, will be approximately $1,000.

Gregor Piatigorsky is the donor of an award for a student cellist of exceptional merit. Mrs. Albert Spalding, widow of the distinguished American violinist, has this year established a fund for an award to a promising instrumentalist in the school in the name of her late husband.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Record (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 405,628
APR 10 1957

Munch Reveals Scholarships

Charles Munch, Director of the Berkshire Music Center, announces a number of scholarships.

Largest is the Heifetz Prize, eestablished by Heifetz in 1949 for an outstanding violin student. This year's prize will be approximately $1000.

MUSIC PRIZES OFFERED

Scholarships, Awards Listed for Berkshire Students

A number of scholarships and prizes will be available to students of the Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. They range from the Heifetz Prize of about $1,000 for an outstanding violin student to smaller prizes for composition, conducting and other activities pursued by the students.

Applications for scholarships and admission to the Berkshire Music Center are being received by the registrar at the school's office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

Sunday, April 14

OCEAN CITY, N. J.
SENTINEL-LEDGER
Circ. W. 5,172

JUN 21 1957

Deborah Reeder Wins Scholarship in Music

Deborah Reeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrsfi Robert K. Reeder, of Swarthmore, Pa., and 223 Wesley av., this city, has been awarded a full scholarship to the Berkshire Music Center in Tanglewood, Mass. Miss Reeder will leave next week for the course, which runs from July 1 through August 11.

The 17-year-old cellist was one of the 8 to 10 cellists chosen for auditions held throughout the entire United States. She auditioned in New York in March.

Miss Reeder, who has been studying the celló for six years, was graduated from Swarthmore High School in 1956 and has been attending the Philadelphia Musical Academy on a full scholarship. She has been studying with Lorne Munroe, first cellist in the Philadelphia orchestra. She also attended Music Camp in Interlochen, Mich., on a full scholarship for two years.

HACKENSACK, N. J.
BERGEN RECORD
Circ. D. 67,604

APR 20 1957

Tanglewood Awards

Without too much fanfare, the Berkshire Center (Tanglewood) has been building up some substantial inducements for talented musicians to attend its summer sessions. This year the Jascha Heifetz Award to a deserving candidate will be $1,000, and there will also be awards in the name of Gregor Piatigorsky and the late Albert Spalding. Appropriately, a conducting scholarship has been designated the Gertrude Robinson Smith Award in honor of the founders of the Tanglewood Festival and a longtime friend of the late Serge Koussevitzky. The fifteenth season of the Berkshire Music Center will begin on July and end on August 11. Queries regarding admission and scholarships should be addressed to the Registrar, Symphony Hall, Boston, Mass.

NASHVILLE, TENN.
TENNESSEAN
Circ. D. 111,750 - S. 191,340

JUN 16 1957

Claude O'Donnell, concertmaster of the Nashville Youth orchestra, a member of the first violin section of the Nashville Symphony, and a junior at Peabody, has been granted a scholarship to the Berkshire Music school at Tanglewood (near Lenox, Mass.) this summer where he will register for the six-week term on June 29. The entire Boston Symphony under Charles Munch and noted guests will participate in the festival, and all the principal players act as instructors in the school of which famed composer Aaron Copland is dean.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 198,749

APR 11 1957

BERKSHIRE AUDITIONS

The Boston Symphony's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, will hold its fifteenth session from July 1st to August 11th, concurrently with the Berkshire Festival of the Orchestra.

The Boston Symphony's thirteen principals form the audition committee and the instrumental faculty of the Berkshire Music Center includes twenty-three Orchestra members. Dr. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is also Director of the Berkshire Music Center.

Applicants for the Berkshire Music Center should be 18 years of age or older. Students accepted in the school orchestra are eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Herald (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 134,866

APR 2 1957

Auditions April 12 For Summer School

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, April 12, from 10 A.M. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, will hold its fifteenth session from July 1st to August 11th, concurrently with the Berkshire Festival of the Orchestra.

The Boston Symphony's thirteen principals form the audition committee and the instrumental faculty of the Berkshire Music Center includes twenty-three Orchestra members. Dr. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is also Director of the Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 184,973

APR 2 1957

Berkshire Auditions

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, Apr. 12, from 10 a. m. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center.

The Boston Symphony Orchestras summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, will hold its 15th session from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the orchestra's Berkshire Festival.

The Boston Symhpony's 13 principals from the audition committee and the instrumental faculty of the Berkshire Music Center includes 23 orchestra members. Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is also director of the Berkshire Music Center.

Applicants for the Berkshire Music Center should be 18 years of age or older. Students accepted in the school orchestra are eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund.

Those planning to attend the audition should, if possible, notify the Registrar of the Berkshire Music Center, Symphony Hall, Boston (CO 6-1492).

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253

MAR 7 1957

Tanglewood Plans Auditions Here

The Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will hold its fifteenth session from July 1 through Aug. 11. Auditions for instrumentalists, who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music, will be held during the Boston Symphony's next visit to New York. Those for tympanists, percussionists, harpists and pianists will be at 1 p. m. Saturday, Mar. 23, backstage at Carnegie Hall, and those for other instrumentalists are scheduled for 2 to 5 p. m. Friday, March 22, in the Carnegie Recital Hall.

The audition committee consists of the Boston Symphony's thirteen principal musicians. Applicants should notify, if possible, the Berkshire Music Center's registrar, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. Accepted applicants for the center's student orchestra will be eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 5 • RIchmond 2-4200

Evening Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 154,800

APR 2 1957

Berkshire Center Auditions April 12

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, Apr. 12, from 10 a.m. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's Summer school at Tanglewood in Lenox, will hold its 15th session July 1 to Aug. 11.

Applicants should be 18 years of age or older. Students accepted in the school orchestra are eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund. Those planning to attend the auditions should, if possible, notify the registrar of the Berkshire Music Center at Symphony Hall (CO 6-1492).

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 534,376 - S. 1,149,467

APR 18 1957

Bizet's "Carmen" will be presented at the Metropolitan Opera tonight at 8 o'clock.

Final New York auditions for instrumentalists wishing to attend the Berkshire Music Center will be held in the Chapter Room of Carnegie Hall on Wednesday, May 1, from 1 to 4 P. M. Information about the auditions can be obtained from the Registrar of the Berkshire Music Center, Symphony Hall, Boston.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
MIRROR
Circ. D. 897,711 - S. 1,559,216

APR 21 1957

Boston Symphony Concerts, Too

Music School For Berkshire Festival

The annual Summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitszky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and composer Aaron Copland, who is Chairman of the Faculty.

* * *

IT OFFERS AN opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amature.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the School. Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

MUSICAL AMERICA
NEW YORK, N. Y.

APR 1957

Berkley Summer Music School, Bridgton Academy, North Bridgton, on Long Lake, Me. Six-week session, July 8 to Aug. 17, for string players and pianists from age 13. Individual lessons, chamber music, orchestras, chorus, chamber music forums, together with recreational activities. Directors, Harold and Marion Berkley. Information address: 315 W. 98th Street, New York 25, N. Y.

Berkshire Music Center, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Charles Munch and Aaron Copland, directors. July 1 to Aug. 11. Maintained by the Boston Symphony in conjunction with the Tanglewood Music Festival. Classes in orchestra (by audition), with chamber music and conducting, opera, chorus, composition, and Tanglewood study group. Applications should be addressed to Berkshire Music Center, Registrar, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

Boston Conservatory of Music, 26 The Fenway, Boston, Mass. Albert Alphin, director. Six-week session, June 17 to July 28. Music courses include voice, organ, piano, strings, wind, percussion, conducting, ensemble, theory and solfege, and music education. Courses in dance. Six credit hours toward the Bachelor of Music degree and six toward the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in dance may be earned during the session. Information address: 26 The Fenway, Boston, Mass.

MUSICAL COURIER
(NEW YORK CITY)

APR 1957

Fifteenth Season of Berkshire Music Center

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 (15th) session at Tanglewood to be held from July 1-August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and the composer Aaron Copland, who is Chairman of the Faculty.

Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will present this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors, and stage directors. The department of composition, under Aaron Copland, will include a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation. The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the School's Director, Charles Munch.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded during the summer. Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

WALLA WALLA, WASH.
UNION-BULLETIN
Circ. D. 10,966 - S. 16,056

MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music Center Program Listed for '57

The Boston Symphony Orchestra this weekend announce plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of music performance will be held during the six weeks from July to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The School, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitsky, is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is Chairman of the Faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

Faculty members will include Doris Goldovsky, head of the opera department; Aaron Copland, composition; Charles Munch, instrumental department; Hugh Ross, choral section; Ludwig Zirner, Tanglewood Study Group.

Last summer, Walla Wallan Miss Chita Cousins, a student at Mills College in California, attended the Berkshire Center. Further information about the activities of the Center may be obtained by writing the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

The Berkshire Eagle, Monday, March 4, 1957—15

In Brief

The big plans disclosed by Boris Goldovsky for the opera group at Tanglewood this summer sound like a valuable and imaginative move toward meeting the situation created by the spread of opera to brand new areas of the nation in recent years through the medium of television and road companies . . . The state Labor Department's report that average weekly industrial earnings took a whopping five-dollar drop in Northern Berkshire during the period ending in mid-January is another incontrovertible answer to the question of where the county's industrial development efforts are most urgently needed . . .

That rate increase requested by the telephone company looks legitimate enough—but when you figure that it will add an average of six dollars per year to the average citizen's phone bill, it is interesting to contemplate the yowl that a comparable addition to the tax rate would produce . . . It's to be hoped that some local wheels will be set in motion by columnist Philip C. Ahern's reminder Saturday that Pittsfield's 200th birthday is almost around the corner. If the celebration is to be worthy of the subject, it's none too early to start planning for it.

THE NEW YORK TIMES,
MARCH 7, 1957.

TANGLEWOOD AUDITIONS

Instrumentalists Will Be Heard Here on March 22

Auditions will be held in Carnegie Recital Hall on March 22, from 2 to 5 P. M., for instrumentalists wishing to apply for summer instructions in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center.

The center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will hold its fifteenth session from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the orchestra's Berkshire Music Festival.

Those planning to attend the auditions should notify the registrar of the Berkshire Music Center, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. D. 206,408 - S. 279,780

APR 7 1957

Music Season Set

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copeland, who is chairman of the faculty.

WASHINGTON D. C.
STAR

APR 7 1957

Plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 15th season at Tanglewood have been announced by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The "school of musical performance" will be held for six weeks, July 1 to August 11. Running concurrently will be the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony. The school, founded in 1940, is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch. Aaron Copland, the composer, is chairman of the faculty.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 198,749

APR 11 1957

BERKSHIRE AUDITIONS

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, April 12, from 10 A.M. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, will hold its 15th session from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the Berkshire Festival of the orchestra. The Boston Symphony's 13 principals form the audition committee and the instrumental faculty of the Berkshire Music Center includes 23 orchestra members.

Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, is also director of the Berkshire Music Center.

Applicants for the Berkshire Music Center should be 18 years of age or older. Students accepted in the school orchestra are eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253

MAR 7 1957

Tanglewood Plans Auditions Here

The Berkshire Music Center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will hold its fifteenth session from July 1 through Aug. 11. Auditions for instrumentalists, who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music, will be held during the Boston Symphony's next visit to New York. Those for tympanists, percussionists, harpists and pianists will be at 1 p. m. Saturday, Mar. 23, backstage at Carnegie Hall, and those for other instrumentalists are scheduled for 2 to 5 p. m. Friday, March 22, in the Carnegie Recital Hall.

The audition committee consists of the Boston Symphony's thirteen principal musicians. Applicants should notify, if possible, the Berkshire Music Center's registrar, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass. Accepted applicants for the center's student orchestra will be eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
MIRROR
Circ. D. 897,711 - S. 1,559,216

APR 21 1957

Boston Symphony Concerts, Too

Music School For Berkshire Festival

The annual Summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and composer Aaron Copland, who is Chairman of the Faculty.

IT OFFERS AN opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the School. Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

MUSICAL AMERICA
NEW YORK, N. Y.

APR 1957

Berkley Summer Music School, Bridgton Academy, North Bridgton, on Long Lake, Me. Six-week session, July 8 to Aug. 17, for string players and pianists from age 13. Individual lessons, chamber music, orchestras, chorus, chamber music forums, together with recreational activities. Directors, Harold and Marion Berkley. Information address: 315 W. 98th Street, New York 25, N. Y.

Berkshire Music Center, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Charles Munch and Aaron Copland, directors. July 1 to Aug. 11. Maintained by the Boston Symphony in conjunction with the Tanglewood Music Festival. Classes in orchestra (by audition), with chamber music and conducting, opera, chorus, composition, and Tanglewood study group. Applications should be addressed to Berkshire Music Center, Registrar, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

SOME SCHOOL LISTING

Boston Conservatory of Music, 26 The Fenway, Boston, Mass. Albert Alphin, director. Six-week session, June 17 to July 28. Music courses include voice, organ, piano, strings, wind, percussion, conducting, ensemble, theory and solfege, and music education. Courses in dance. Six credit hours toward the Bachelor of Music degree and six toward the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in dance may be earned during the session. Information address: 26 The Fenway, Boston, Mass.

Fifteenth Season of Berkshire Music Center

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 (15th) session at Tanglewood to be held from July 1-August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and the composer Aaron Copland, who is Chairman of the Faculty.

Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will present this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors, and stage directors. The department of composition, under Aaron Copland, will include a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation. The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the School's Director, Charles Munch.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded during the summer. Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Herald (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 134,866

APR 2 1957

Auditions April 12 For Summer School

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, April 12, from 10 A.M. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, will hold its fifteenth session from July 1st to August 11th, concurrently with the Berkshire Festival of the Orchestra.

The Boston Symphony's thirteen principals form the audition committee and the instrumental faculty of the Berkshire Music Center includes twenty-three Orchestra members. Dr. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is also Director of the Berkshire Music Center.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Evening Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 154,800

APR 2 1957

Berkshire Center Auditions April 12

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, Apr. 12, from 10 a.m. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's Summer school at Tanglewood in Lenox, will hold its 15th session July 1 to Aug. 11.

Applicants should be 18 years of age or older. Students accepted in the school orchestra are eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund. Those planning to attend the auditions should, if possible, notify the registrar of the Berkshire Music Center at Symphony Hall CO 6-1492).

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 534,376 - S. 1,149,467

APR 18 1957

Bizet's "Carmen" will be presented at the Metropolitan Opera tonight at 8 o'clock.

Final New York auditions for instrumentalists wishing to attend the Berkshire Music Center will be held in the Chapter Room of Carnegie Hall on Wednesday, May 1, from 1 to 4 P. M. Information about the auditions can be obtained from the Registrar of the Berkshire Music Center, Symphony Hall, Boston.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 184,978

APR 2 1957

Berkshire Auditions

Auditions will be held at Symphony Hall on Friday, Apr. 12, from 10 a. m. to noon for instrumentalists who wish to apply for instruction in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center.

The Boston Symphony Orchestras summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, will hold its 15th session from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the orchestra's Berkshire Festival.

The Boston Symhpony's 13 principals from the audition committee and the instrumental faculty of the Berkshire Music Center includes 23 orchestra members. Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is also director of the Berkshire Music Center.

Applicants for the Berkshire Music Center should be 18 years of age or older. Students accepted in the school orchestra are eligible for tuition grants from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund.

Those planning to attend the audition should, if possible, notify the Registrar of the Berkshire Music Center, Symphony Hall, Boston (CO 6-1492).

The Berkshire Eagle, Monday, March 4 1957—15

In Br...

The big plans disclosed by Boris Goldovsky for the opera group at Tanglewood this summer sound like a valuable and imaginative move toward meeting the situation created by the spread of opera to brand new areas of the nation in recent years through the medium of television and road companies . . . The state Labor Department's report that average weekly industrial earnings took a whopping five-dollar drop in Northern Berkshire during the period ending in mid-January is another incontrovertible answer to the question of where the county's industrial development efforts are most urgently needed . . .

That rate increase requested by the telephone company looks legitimate enough—but when you figure that it will add an average of six dollars per year to the average citizen's phone bill, it is interesting to contemplate the yowl that a comparable addition to the tax rate would produce . . . It's to be hoped that some local wheels will be set in motion by columnist Philip C. Ahern's reminder Saturday that Pittsfield's 200th birthday is almost around the corner. If the celebration is to be worthy of the subject, it's none too early to start planning for it.

THE NEW YORK TIMES
MARCH 7, 1957

TANGLEWOOD AUDITIONS

Instrumentalists Will Be Heard Here on March 22

Auditions will be held in Carnegie Recital Hall on March 22, from 2 to 5 P. M., for instrumentalists wishing to apply for summer instructions in orchestral and chamber music performance at the Berkshire Music Center.

The center, the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will hold its fifteenth session from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the orchestra's Berkshire Music Festival.

Those planning to attend the auditions should notify the registrar of the Berkshire Music Center, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. D. 206,408 - S. 279,780

APR 7 1957

Music Season Set

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copeland, who is chairman of the faculty.

WALLA WALLA, WASH.
UNION-BULLETIN
Circ. D. 10,966 - S. 16,056

MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music Center Program Listed for '57

The Boston Symphony Orchestra this weekend announce plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of music performance will be held during the six weeks from July to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The School, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is Chairman of the Faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

Faculty members will include Doris Goldovsky, head of the opera department; Aaron Copland, composition; Charles Munch, instrumental department; Hugh Ross, choral section; Ludwig Zirner, Tanglewood Study Group.

Last summer, Walla Wallan Miss Chita Cousins, a student at Mills College in California, attended the Berkshire Center. Further information about the activities of the Center may be obtained by writing the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

WASHINGTON D. C.
STAR

APR 7 1957

Plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 15th season at Tanglewood have been announced by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The "school of musical performance" will be held for six weeks, July 1 to August 11. Running concurrently will be the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony. The school, founded in 1940, is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, Aaron Copland, the composer, is chairman of the faculty.

SYRACUSE HERALD-AMERICAN, Sunday, March 17, 19 [70]

Tanglewood to Open July 1 Under Munch

The Boston Symphony Orchestra announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be conducted during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, now is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur. New developments will be stressed in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, again will head the opera department, presenting four weeks course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
POST
Circ. D. 389,011 S. 258,545
MAY 1 1957

Summer School of Music

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.
TIMES
Circ. D. 68,623 - S. 78,467
APR 14 1957

CLASSES AND CONCERTS AT TANGLEWOOD

Berkshire Music Center Season Set

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood.

The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and composer Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty.

It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

THE BERKSHIRE Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The Department of Composition, under the supervision of Mr. Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The Department of Instrumental Music will be under the general leadership of Mr. Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. It is headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

HUGH ROSS WILL HEAD the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the Music Department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students who may also observe the activities of other departments of the School, sing in the performances with the Boston Orchestra and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 43,857
MAR 3 1957

Plans Listed For Berkshire Music Center

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department. The department of composition, under the supervision of Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Italian News
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 13,362
MAR 1 1957

Berkshire Center announces plan for 1957 season

The Boston Symphony Orchestra this week announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood.

The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1st to August 11th, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The School, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the Faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicans.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sun (e)
ATTLEBORO, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 9,986
MAR 2 1957

1957 Tanglewood Plans Announced

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The fifteenth session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1st to August 11th, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is Chairman of the Faculty.

SYRACUSE HERALD-AMERICAN April 14, 1957

Music

Anna Russell Booked For Central H.S. Hall

ANNA RUSSELL

By E. V. W.

Famous Artists Series announces appearance of the internationally known comedienne Anna Russell in concert in Central High School auditorium Friday night, April 26. This will mark Miss Russell's first Syracuse engagement. Miss Russell, who gives annual concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall and Town Hall, plays New York City every year on Nov. 27. She is superstitious about the date.

Her recent New York season, with standing room only at each performance, included three recitals, assisted by Anti Antiqua Miserable Musici. Educated in London, Paris and Brussels, Belgium, Miss Russell has starred in her own show since 1953. She has appeared as guest star of several TV shows and has done a number of recordings for Columbia Masterworks, and for RCA Victor, did the recording from the sound track of Miss Russell's movie, "Hansel and Gretel" in which she starred.

She has been soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra; the Rochester, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Cleveland and National Symphony orchestras. Among her engagements in other countries are those in Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania, where she broke all attendance records and was immediately re-engaged for a 1958 tour. She played a second London season of six weeks in a West End Theater in 1956, then toured the provinces and European capitals.

Miss Russell went to Johannesburg, South Africa, for six performances in the Music Festival. She says that her most dubious honor was being chosen the National Hay Fever Queen. Her voice is described as one of "formidable range from a piccolo soprano to a rusty bass." Her face is said to "as flexible as a collapsible camp chair."

This date in music: 1759, Handel dies in London; 1888, world premiere, in Paris, of the Delibes opera "Lakme."

George R. Hoerner, associate professor in Ithaca College Drama Department, will be scenic designer of the Finger Lakes Lyric Circus, to open June 18 in the Tent, near Skaneateles. Prof. Hoerner has taught scene design and stagecraft in Ithaca College for two decades. He has designed and executed scenes for all the college productions in Ithaca College, and has been credited also with scenic productions in New England, on Long Island and in Erie, Pa.

Virginia Franke Davis, business manager for the Lyric Circus, says that the Davis family welcomes Prof. Hoerner back in their "theater family." When the Davises sent "The Late George Apley" and "Kiss and Tell" on tour some seasons ago, Prof. Hoerner designed and executed settings.

"Tanglewood," summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Berkshire Music Center, will open July 1 under direction of Charles Munch, music director and conductor of the orchestra. As usual in the summer schedule which extends into August, there will be concerts in the Theater Concert Hall and in The Shed, there will be variety of programs.

The department of composition under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation. The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center (which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed) and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire. The faculty includes 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 2,443
MAR 14 1957

Music Center Plans for Season Outlined

Program for 15th Season to Start on July 1

New Developments Will Be Stressed This Year In Departments of Opera and Composition.— Boris Godolvsky and Aaron Copland Are Instructors.—Hugh Ross to Teach.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra this week announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The fifteeenth session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department. He will present this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Mr. Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Mr. Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including twenty-three members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Mr. Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the Orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 104,780
MAR 10 1957

Music

Ex-Worcester Musician Wins Two Prizes in Texas

By RAYMOND MORIN, Telegram Music Critic

Two first prizes have been won by Samuel Adler in the annual contest held by the Texas Composer's Guild.

The former Worcester musician captured first places for his "Two Songs from the Portuguese" in the vocal category, and "Two Sketches for Violin and Piano" in the instrumental division.

Mr. Adler is the son of the alte Cantor Hugo C. Adler of Temple Emanuel in Worcester, and Mrs. Adler. He is music director of Temple Emanu-El and director of the Lyric Theater in Dallas.

Last November his Concertino for String Orchestra made a favorable impression when it was played at the Worcester Art Museum by the Worcester Orchestra String Ensemble, Harry Levenson conducting.

The Composer's Guild is a division of the Texas Federation of Music Cubs. Mr. Adler's winning compositions will be performed during the state convention March 20 to 23 in San Antonio.

Monte Carlo Ballet

Four ballets new to Boston will be presented by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo during its appearance at the Boston Opera House, Monday through Saturday evenings, April 1-6, and on Saturday afternoon.

These are "The Mikado" with choreography by Antonio Cobos and music from the Sullivan score; Boris Romanoff's "Harlequinade"; Leon Danielian's first ballet, "Sombreros," and Jean Cocteau's "The Unicorn Lady."

Featured artists will include Alicia Alonso, Nina Novak and Igor Youskevitch. All three are well known to Worcester audiences.

The programs follow:

Monday: Swan Lake; Harlequinade; and Le Beau Danube.

Tuesday: Les Sylphides; Pas de Deux; The Unicorn Lady; and Gaite Parisienne.

Wednesday: Coppelia; Pas de Deux; and Scheherazade.

Thursday: Giselle; Pas de Deux; and The Mikado.

Friday: Swan Lake; Sombreros; and The Nutcracker.

Saturday matinee: Les Sylphides; Sombreros; and The Nutcracker.

Saturday evening: Harlequinade; Pas de Deux; and Gaite Parisienne.

Berkshire Center

The Boston Symphony Orchestra announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of the school will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts.

Five major departments are incorporated in the Center's curriculum, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera, and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

Boris Goldovsky will again head the opera department, presenting a four-weeks' course in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. It will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers.

The department of composition will again be under the supervision of Aaron Copland. Instrumental music will be under the general direction of Charles Munch, including classes in orchestral conducting.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir.

The Tanglewood Study Group, with Ludwig Zirner of the University of Illinois in charge, will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students. They will have an opportunity to observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing with the large Festival chorus and the Boston Symphony, and attend concerts and rehearsals.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

Fifty Years Ago

What was happening 50 years ago in the world of music?

Perhaps the greatest musical murore centered around a new opera by Richard Strauss, called "Salome." It was performed exactly 50 years ago at the Metropolitan. In spite of being protested, barred, and denounced — it lived.

In 1907, Rachmaninoff com- Edvard Grieg, the "Chopin of pleted his first piano sonata. the North," died in his native Norway. Rimsky - Korsakoff completed the score of his last opera, "The Golden Cockerel." It didn't live.

The William Tell Overture was transmitted by wireless from the Telharmonic Hall in New York City to the Navy Yard, the first time a musical composition was ever broadcast.

Schenectady, N. Y.
Gazette
MAR 5 1957

SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, TUESDAY, MARCH 5, 195

Music Notes

By D. E. RITZ

The Berkshire Music Center will open its 15th season at Tanglewood, near Lenox, Mass., July 1 and conclude on Aug. 11. Charles Munch heads the school with Aaron Copland as chairman of the faculty.

* * *

THE SCHOOL, which consists of five major departments, offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty including members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

Special study is offered in instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and in the Tanglewood Study Group, the latter designed for the musical amateur.

Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department at the music center. He will present a four weeks' course of special training in operative leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. Copland will supervise the department of composition which this year will also include a program for composition and performance of contemporary music sponsored by the Fromm

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,357
MAR 2 1957

Berkshire Music Center Plans for 1957 Announced

The Boston Symphony orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music center's 1957 session at Tanglewood.

15th Summer Session

The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

Thhe school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music center in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

Composition Department

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large festival chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth symphony for Berkshire festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Study Group

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood study group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large festival chorus with the Boston Symphony orchestra and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood revolving scholarship fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Express (e)
NEWPORT, Vt.
Republican
Circ. 4,207
FEB 28 1957

Berkshire Music Center To Have 15th Season

The fifteenth session of the Berkshire Music Center at Lenox, Mass., has announced plans for the 1957 season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's School at Tanglewood. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the direction of the orchestra's new director, Charles Munch and the composer, Aaron Copland.

Northern Vermonters are listed among those who visit the music center every summer and there are also local contributors.

The school is held six weeks from July first to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded during the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 113,081
MAR 9 1957

Opera Producers To Have More Aid

BORIS GOLDOVSKY, chairman of the Central Opera Service, sponsored by the National Council of the Metropolitan Opera, says the Service is playing an increasingly important role in coordinating technical information and making known new methods of production for opera groups throughout the country, particularly through the annual conferences for producers.

At the third Central Opera Service Conference in New York Mar. 29 and 30, six opera groups will present demonstrations and over 20 prominent operatic leaders will speak.

Mr. Goldovsky, who is also director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department at the New England Conservatory of Music, will conduct a four-week course this Summer for opera producers, conductors and stage directors at the Berkshire Music Center, the Summer school conducted by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4206
Back Bay Ledger &
Beacon Hill Times
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 10,000 Free
MAR 7 1957

[72]

BOSTON SYMPHONY PLANS 15th SUMMER SESSION OF BERKSHIRE MUSIC CENTER

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The fifteenth session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and composer Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, Concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the Music Department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large Festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the Orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Christian Science
Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,675
APR 24 1957

Berkshire Music Center

The fifteenth session of the Berkshire Music Center will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts. This school, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony under Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of Charles Munch and Aaron Copland, chairman of the faculty.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments — instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera, and the Tanglewood study group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed this summer in the opera and composition departments. Boris Goldovsky will again head the opera department, presenting a four-week course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors, and stage directors. This program developed by Mr. Goldovsky will give a new direction to the work of the department.

* * *

The department of composition, under the supervision of Mr. Copland, will include (in addition to individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students) a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of Dr. Munch. Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood study group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students.

* * *

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

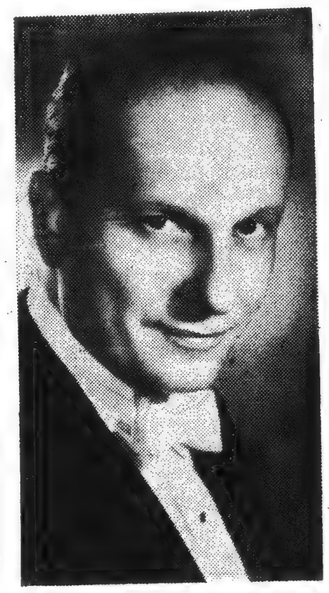
New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
MAR 2 1957

Tanglewood Opera Group To Stress Scene Designing

Leadership Training Program Explained By Boris Goldovsky—Emphasis Turned From Training Singers This Year

TANGLEWOOD — Among the new developments to be stressed at the Berkshire Music Center this summer will be the establishment of a leadership training program in association with the opera department.

Boris Goldovsky, head of the opera department at Tanglewood, explained today that the new program will be administered by the New England Opera Theater, which is sponsored by a group in Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Goldovsky is also director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music.



Boris Goldovsky

Light Metals, Fiberglas

"Our new plans will be devoted to the training of brilliant leadership and the development of more advanced production methods," he said, pointing out that he will be joined at the Music Center by "some well-known leaders in the theater," who will experiment in making scenery of light metals and Fiberglas.

The main purpose of the leadership training program, he added, is to train stage directors, conductors and scene designers. Next summer the major project of the opera department will be directed toward developing new types of theatrical properties.

To Run Four Weeks

While the program will be a cooperative part of the Berkshire Music Center operation, it is being subsidized by another source this season, Mr. Goldovsky said. The program will open July 15 for four weeks and will turn from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The other departments at the Music Center will open on July 1 for six weeks, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Another new development at the Music Center will be in the composition department, which is headed by Aaron Copland. In addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performances of contemporary music, will be sponsored next summer by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center, which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty, including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Zirner Coming

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large Festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

WALLINGFORD POST
July 11, 1957

CHARLES MUNCH, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Director of the Berkshire Music Center, summer music school maintained by the Boston Symphony, shares direction of the orchestra at the 1957 Berkshire Festival with conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. This summer, the Berkshire Festival runs from July 3 through August 11.

AUGUSTA, GA.
Chronicle-Herald
S.
MAR 17 1957

Words and Music

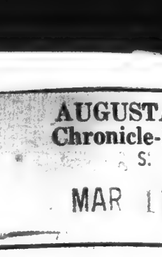
By C. M. McINTOSH
(Fine Arts Editor)

It's almost as easy to predict what season is coming up by glancing at current promotional literature sent out by innumerable firms as it is by looking at the calendar.

In the late summer it's notices of upcoming plays on Broadway and the publishers' fall lists. In the fall it's the suddenly expanding catalogs of record manufacturers taking advantage of Christmas shopping.



McINTOSH

With spring only a matter of days away now, the emphasis is on music festivals and camps, with some relative newcomers giving promise of unusually productive activity this year.

For those who want to travel with the sun, the 11th annual summer session of the Music Academy of the West offers some attractive features from its home in Santa Barbara, Calif. (season lasts July 8-Aug. 31).

An impressive faculty has been gathered, including Maurice Abravanel as musical director and conductor; Davis Schumann, trombone virtuoso and instructor at Juilliard; Lotte Lehmann, director of the vocal department; pianists Gyorgy Sandor and Emanuel Bay; Mitchell Lurie, clarinet, and a long list of others.

Another Choice

If you prefer the cool Northeast, you might like the 12th annual Composers' Conference and Chamber Music Center to be held Aug. 11-25 at Bennington, Vt. Among the big names in attendance will be Robert Bloom, Max Pollikoff, Henry Brant, Roger Goeb and others.

The Berkshire Music Center will be held as usual, this year from July 1 to Aug. 11. Among the greats returning for the season will be Boston Symphony conductor Charles Munch (presumably accompanied by a large number of the orchestra), Aaron Copland and William Kroll.

Hour (e)
NORWALK, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 16,281
MAR 2 1957

BOSTON SYMPHONY OFFERS MUSIC SCHOOL

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 1957 session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

CAIRO, N. Y.
HERALD
Circ. W. 415
JUN 20 1957

Tanglewood Lists Season's Programs

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced the complete program for the Orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two weekends of the Festival July 5th and 12th in the Theatre-Concert Hall by a chamber orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch and devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart respectively.

On Saturday evening, July 20, Pierre Monteux will be guest conductor in a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring". Dr. Munch will conduct the Sunday afternoon concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, and "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed on Friday evening, July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair" "Harold in Italy" with Joseph de Pasquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony.

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the noted German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony. On Saturday, August 3rd, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as sololist.

The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival will feature special emphasis on the works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of Friday evening, August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Times-Picayune-States
Circ. S. 278,886
JUN 23 1957

LENOX, Mass. — The 20th season of the annual Berkshire Music Festival, will be launched here July 3 with Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the participating musicial group, in charge.

Conductors for the six weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven each will have one weekend devoted entirely to their music, and a special salute to Igor Stravinsky on the occasion of his 75th birthday anniversary will be presented in mid-July. Isaac Stern, violinist, and Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will be the principal soloists for the festival.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.,
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
FEB 28 1957

Tanglewood Plans Are Announced For Summer Season

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The fifteenth session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1st to August 11th, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is Chairman of the Faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Musc Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the School's Director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including twenty-three members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, Concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the School.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,372
MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music Center Will Offer New Courses

Boris Goldovsky Plans Training for Producers, Conductors and Stage Directors at Tanglewood; Ludwig Zirner to Head Study Group

Boston, March 2—The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the orchestra.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the orchestra and other experienced musicians.

New Developments

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department. This summer a four-week course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors will be offered, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

Leaders Named

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large festival chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's ninth symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Mr. Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large festival chorus with the Boston Symphony and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer. Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 534,376 - S. 1,149,467
MAR 3 1957

MUSIC UNIT'S 15TH YEAR

Berkshire Center Will Hold Classes July 1 to Aug. 11

The Berkshire Music Center this year again will run concurrently with the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass. It will mark the fifteenth summer session for the Center, the music school created in 1940 by Serge Koussevitzky.

Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston Symphony, will head the school, and Aaron Copland will again head the faculty. Classes will be held from July 1 through Aug. 11.

Heading the five departments will be Mr. Copland (composition), Boris Goldovsky (opera), Mr. Munch (instrumental music), Hugh Ross (choral) and Ludwig Zirner (Tanglewood Study Group).

Students of advanced attainments are eligible for scholarships. Prizes and scholarships also will be awarded during the session.

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,485
MAR 4 - 1957

Tanglewood Concerts In July, August

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department. The department of composition, under the supervision of Gopland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 194,784

the RIALTO

By FRED H. RUSSELL

The Boston Symphony orchestra, which will be one of the major attractions at the concert series to play the Klein Memorial auditorium next season, has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 season at Tanglewood...Tanglewood, located in Lenox, Mass., attracts hosts of Fairfield county residents during the summer season....The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will take place during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony orchestra....The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and Aaron Copland, the composer, who is chairman of the faculty....It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony and other experienced musicians.

CLEVELAND, OHIO
PLAIN DEALER
Circ. D. 302,579 - S. 520,850
JUN 23 1957

Lenox Festival Off Wednesday

July 1957

Remaining tickets for the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office, open daily from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, starts Wednesday night at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet, making its first Tanglewood appearance.

Lukas Foss will be piano soloist and will perform with Seymour Lipkin on two pianos for the Friday and Saturday night concerts, at which Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the music of Bach.

Music Notes

The 20th season of the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., extends from July 3 to August 11, under the sponsorship of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Charles Munch, music director, with Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux, guest conductors, and Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, . . .

CAIRO, N. Y.
HERALD
Circ. W. 415

JUN 20 1957

lewood Lists n's Programs

s Munch, Music Director of o Symphony Orchestra has d the complete program for stra's 1957 Berkshire Fest-lewood, Lenox, Mass.
ts: two weekends of the Fes-
y 5th and 12th in the Thea-ert Hall by a chamber or-will be conducted by Charles and devoted to the works of d Mozart respectively.
aturday evening, July 20, Pi-cteux will be guest conduc-a program consisting of the 's Cave" Overture by Mendel-Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony ravinsky's "Rite of Spring". will conduct the Sunday annual vacation from July 13-28 cluding Kingston, will receive Employees of all I B M plants

IBM Plants To Close

ready voted by their cooperat socialtions.
Even though some co
are expected to vote for th
bers, every dairy farmer pears at a polling place at to vote will be permitted t
This means some duplicat course, but this will be rect the tabulation by not coun votes of individuals who w

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Times-Picayune-States
Circ. S. 278,886

JUN 23 1957

LENOX, Mass. — The 20th season of the annual Berkshire Music Festival, will be launched here July 3 with Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the participating musicial group, in charge.

Conductors for the six weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven each will have one weekend devoted entirely to their music, and a special salute to Igor Stravinsky on the occasion of his 75th birthday anniversary will be presented in mid-July. Isaac Stern, violinist, and Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will be the principal soloists for the festival.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Post
BRIDGEPORT, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 63,829

MAR 3 1957

GOSSIP of the RIALTO

By FRED H. RUSSELL

The Boston Symphony orchestra, which will be one of the major attractions at the concert series to play the Klein Memorial auditorum next season, has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood...Tanglewood, located in Lenox, Mass., attracts hosts of Fairfield county residents during the summer season....The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will take place during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony orchestra....The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and Aaron Copland, the composer, who is chairman of the faculty....It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony and other experienced musicians.

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 194,784

Lenox Festival Off Wednesday

Remaining tickets for the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office, open daily from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, starts Wednesday night at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet, making its first Tanglewood appearance.

Lukas Foss will be piano soloist and will perform with Seymour Lipkin on two pianos for the Friday and Saturday night concerts, at which Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the music of Bach.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Times-Picayune-States
Circ. S. 278,886

JUN 23 1957

LENOX, Mass. — The 20th season of the annual Berkshire Music Festival, will be launched here July 3 with Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the participating musicial group, in charge.

Conductors for the six weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven each will have one weekend devoted entirely to their music, and a special salute to Igor Stravinsky on the occasion of his 75th birthday anniversary will be presented in mid-July. Isaac Stern, violinist, and Rudolf Serkin, pianist, will be the principal soloists for the festival.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,485

MAR 4- 1957

Tanglewood Concerts In July, August

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department. The department of composition, under the supervision of Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

CLEVELAND, OHIO
PLAIN DEALER
Circ. D. 302,579 - S. 520,850

JUN 23 1957

Music Notes

The 20th season of the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., extends from July 3 to August 11, under the sponsorship of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Charles Munch, music director, with Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux, guest conductors, and Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra,...

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

FEB 28 1957

Tanglewood Plans Are Announced For Summer Season

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The fifteenth session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1st to August 11th, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is Chairman of the Faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition. opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Musc Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the School's Director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including twenty-three members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, Concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The fifteenth session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1st to August 11th, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The School, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky is now under the leadership of the Orchestra's Music Director Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is Chairman of the Faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition. opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Musc Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the School's Director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including twenty-three members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, Concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,372

MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music Center Will Offer New Courses

Boris Goldovsky Plans Training for Producers, Conductors and Stage Directors at Tanglewood; Ludwig Zirner to Head Study Group

Boston, March 2—The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the orchestra.

The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland, who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the orchestra and other experienced musicians.

New Developments

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department. This summer a four-week course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors will be offered, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

Leaders Named

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large festival chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's ninth symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Mr. Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large festival chorus with the Boston Symphony and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer. Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 534,376 - S. 1,149,467

MAR 3 1957

MUSIC UNIT'S 15TH YEAR

Berkshire Center Will Hold Classes July 1 to Aug. 11

The Berkshire Music Center this year again will run concurrently with the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass. It will mark the fifteenth summer session for the Center, the music school created in 1940 by Serge Koussevitzky.

Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston Symphony, will head the school, and Aaron Copland will again head the faculty. Classes will be held from July 1 through Aug. 11.

Heading the five departments will be Mr. Copland (composition), Boris Goldovsky (opera), Mr. Munch (instrumental music), Hugh Ross (choral) and Ludwig Zirner (Tanglewood Study Group).

Students of advanced attainments are eligible for scholarships. Prizes and scholarships also will be awarded during the session.

[74]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Evening Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 154,300
MAR 5 1957

Berkshire Music Center—15th Season

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this Summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitsky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

OPERA TRAINING

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this Summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

STUDY GROUP

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large Festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the Summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 253,604
MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music Center To Mark Its 15th Season

By RUDOLPH ELIE

This is the day the Boston Symphony has chosen for its annual announcement of its plans for the Berkshire Music Center's activities for the forthcoming summer, and it is clear that the school has expanded its activities very widely since it was founded in 1940 by Serge Koussevitzky. The dates for the school's sessions coincide with the Berkshire Festival itself, that is from July 1 to Aug. 11, and it certainly offers a remarkable opportunity for students to gain experience in musical performance under the tutelage of a faculty of musicians from the personnel of the orchestra itself, as well as other experienced musicians and teachers.

All in all, the Berkshire Music Center, which can accommodate some 400 young men and women annually (though its applicants number 4000 or more), consists now of five major departments. These provide special study in the fields of instrumental music, composition and opera, with a special group known as the Tanglewood Study Group for those not preparing for a career as a performing musician.

GOLDOVSKY TO RETURN

According to the announcement, new developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. This program was developed by Mr. Goldovsky to give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Aaron Copland, will include individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students in addition to a program for composition and performance of contemprary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

MANY SCHOLARSHIPS

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the School's Director, Charles Munch. This includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The department headed by Richard Burgin, Concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances of Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the Music Department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the School, sing in the performances of the large Festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the Orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are awarded in the course of the summer.

Contributors to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center are invited to many of the performances by the various departments of the school.

Further information may be obtained from the Berkshire Music Center Office, Symphony Hall, Boston 15.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.
HERALD-AMERICAN
Circ. S. 221,954
MAR 17 1957

Tanglewood to Open July 1 Under Munch

The Boston Symphony Orchestra announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be conducted during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, now is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur. New developments will be stressed in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, again will head the opera department, presenting four weeks course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
MAR 1 1957

it runs broad and deep."

Music Center Plans For 1957 Announced

Tanglewood Sessions Start At Lenox, July 1

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, founded in 1940 under the late Dr Serge Koussevitsky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department. Aaron Copland, contemporary American composer, will supervise the composition department, while Dr Munch will lead the instrumental music department, assisted by Richard Burgim, concertmaster of the orchestra, and William Kroll, founder of the Kroll String Quartet.

The choral department will be led by Hugh Ross, who will also direct the Festival Chorus for performances, including "L'Enfance du Christe," of Berlioz and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Dr Munch.

Special courses for amateurs and general music students will be led by Ludwig Zirner of the Music Department of the University of Illinois in the Tanglewood Study Group.

News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,535
JUN 29 1957

TANGLEWOOD SCHOOL STARTS TOMORROW

Lenox, June 29—The Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open its 15th season tomorrow afternoon, when the students will be welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch. Music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Munch is also director of the summer music school; Composer Aaron Copland is assistant director; Ralph Berkowitz is dean; and Leonard Burkat is the recently appointed administrator.

To date, students have enrolled at Tanglewood from 35 states, Canada, and 17 foreign countries. They come to the Berkshire Music Center to study orchestra playing and conducting under Eleazar de Carvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony Orchestra of Rio de Janeiro; choral singing and choral conducting under Hugh Ross; composition from Mr. Copland and guest composer Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University; opera under Boris Goldovsky; or they are enrolled in the Tanglewood Study Group under Ludwig Zirner. Since musicians may enroll in the study group for the full six weeks or for periods of four weeks or two weeks, applications are still being accepted. Study group students, professional and amateur musicians, have an opportunity to spend their vacations in chamber orchestra reading and to sing in the Festival Chorus with the Boston Symphony in Berkshire Festival concerts.

Free Press
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Weekly Democrat
Circ. 7,100
JUL 13 1957

The Berkshire Festival

Located in the hills of western Massachusetts the festival is in its twentieth season, running now through August 11. Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall and in the huge Music Shed on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, and on Sunday afternoons at 2:30 Chamber music concerts are given on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall.

Located in the hills of western Massachusetts the festival is in its twentieth season, running now through August 11. Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall and in the huge Music Shed on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, and on Sunday afternoons at 2:30 Chamber music concerts are given on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall.

News (e)
FRAMINGHAM, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 11,543
JUL 5 1957

Neighborly News

Framingham music lovers are interested in two summer features now easily accessible because of the new toll road. The 20th season of the Berkshire Music festival, by the Boston Symphony orchestra, opened at Tanglewood, in Lenox, Wednesday, and will run until Aug. 14. . . . The first section of the Esplanade Concerts, at the Hatch Memorial shell, Boston, started Tuesday and will run through July 14, omitting next Monday. The second group of concerts will run from Aug. 12 to 17. Children's programs are scheduled for July 10, 13 and 14, at 10:30 a. m. This is the 29th season for these concerts.

Herald News (e)
FALL RIVER, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 39,974
JUN 29 1957

Berkshire Music Center Opens Tomorrow

The 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center in Lenox commences Sunday afternoon when students from some 35 states and 18 foreign countries gather in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood for the opening exercises. Speakers include William J. Cox, Chairman of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center; Dr. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony and Director of the Music Center; and Aaron Copland, Assistant Director of the School. Ralph Berkowitz, Dean of the Music Center, will introduce members of the faculty to the audience.

[74]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Evening Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 154,300
MAR 5 1957

Berkshire Music Center—15th Season

The Boston Symphony Orchestra today announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this Summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, which was founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitsky is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers an opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur.

OPERA TRAINING

New developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this Summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors, a program developed by Mr. Goldovsky which will give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of the American composer, Aaron Copland, will include in addition to the individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students, a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and headed by Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

STUDY GROUP

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances, including Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the music department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the school, sing in the performances of the large Festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students [illegible] sweep away sand [illegible] from [illegible] well-shaped broom in accepted [illegible] Schola[illegible] and sidewalks. In the [illegible] scholar[illegible] concrete and brick pattern pockets award[illegible] since it gets into the [illegible] of Summ[illegible] mer cleaning implement outdoors. Con[illegible] effort. The broom is a good sum[illegible] the B[illegible] lient broom, like the one on [illegible] invite[illegible] right, will sweep clean with little [illegible] mance[illegible] you sweep. Only [illegible] ments[illegible] Fur[illegible] times harder than [illegible] tained[illegible] you are working [illegible] Cente[illegible] looks like the broom [illegible] Boston[illegible] those pictured above. [illegible] as, compare your [illegible]

With the outdoor [illegible]

Herald
CHICOPEE, Mass.
Weekly. Independent
Circ. 1,662
JUL 11 1957

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Herald
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 253,604
MAR 3 1957

Berkshire Music Center To Mark Its 15th Season

By RUDOLPH ELIE

This is the day the Boston Symphony has chosen for its annual announcement of its plans for the Berkshire Music Center's activities for the forthcoming summer, and it is clear that the school has expanded its activities very widely since it was founded in 1940 by Serge Koussevitzky. The dates for the school's sessions coincide with the Berkshire Festival itself, that is from July 1 to Aug. 11, and it certainly offers a remarkable opportunity for students to gain experience in musical performance under the tutelage of a faculty of musicians from the personnel of the orchestra itself, as well as other experienced musicians and teachers.

All in all, the Berkshire Music Center, which can accommodate some 400 young men and women annually (though its applicants number 4000 or more), consists now of five major departments. These provide special study in the fields of instrumental music, composition and opera, with a special group known as the Tanglewood Study Group for those not preparing for a career as a performing musician.

GOLDOVSKY TO RETURN

According to the announcement, new developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. This program was developed by Mr. Goldovsky to give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Aaron Copland, will include individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students in addition to a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the dates for the school's sessions coincide with the Berkshire Festival itself, that is from July 1 to Aug. 11, and it certainly offers a remarkable opportunity for students to gain experience in musical performance under the tutelage of a faculty of musicians from the personnel of the orchestra itself, as well as other experienced musicians and teachers.

All in all, the Berkshire Music Center, which can accommodate some 400 young men and women annually (though its applicants number 4000 or more), consists now of five major departments. These provide special study in the fields of instrumental music, composition and opera, with a special group known as the Tanglewood Study Group for those not preparing for a career as a performing musician.

GOLDOVSKY TO RETURN

According to the announcement, new developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. This program was developed by Mr. Goldovsky to give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Aaron Copland, will include individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students in addition to a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the dates for the school's sessions coincide with the Berkshire Festival itself, that is from July 1 to Aug. 11, and it certainly offers a remarkable opportunity for students to gain experience in musical performance under the tutelage of a faculty of musicians from the personnel of the orchestra itself, as well as other experienced musicians and teachers.

All in all, the Berkshire Music Center, which can accommodate some 400 young men and women annually (though its applicants number 4000 or more), consists now of five major departments. These provide special study in the fields of instrumental music, composition and opera, with a special group known as the Tanglewood Study Group for those not preparing for a career as a performing musician.

GOLDOVSKY TO RETURN

According to the announcement, new developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. This program was developed by Mr. Goldovsky to give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Aaron Copland, will include individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students in addition to a program for composition and performance of contemporary music, sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation.

The department of instrumental music will be under the general leadership of the school's director, Charles Munch, and includes classes in orchestral conducting, membership in the advanced orchestra of the Berkshire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the dates for the school's sessions coincide with the Berkshire Festival itself, that is from July 1 to Aug. 11, and it certainly offers a remarkable opportunity for students to gain experience in musical performance under the tutelage of a faculty of musicians from the personnel of the orchestra itself, as well as other experienced musicians and teachers.

All in all, the Berkshire Music Center, which can accommodate some 400 young men and women annually (though its applicants number 4000 or more), consists now of five major departments. These provide special study in the fields of instrumental music, composition and opera, with a special group known as the Tanglewood Study Group for those not preparing for a career as a performing musician.

GOLDOVSKY TO RETURN

According to the announcement, new developments will be stressed in this year's session of the Berkshire Music Center in the departments of Opera and Composition. Boris Goldovsky, Director of the New England Opera Theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the Opera Department, presenting this summer a four weeks' course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors. This program was developed by Mr. Goldovsky to give a new direction to the work of the department, turning from the emphasis in previous years on the training of singers for the stage.

The department of composition, under the supervision of Aaron Copland, will include individual instruction for a limited number of advanced composition students in addition to a program for com-shire Music Center which gives a weekly concert in the Tanglewood Music Shed, and instruction in chamber music performance and repertoire by a faculty including 23 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The department headed by Richard Burgin, Concertmaster of the Orchestra, assisted by William Kroll, an authority in the chamber music field and founder of the Kroll Quartet.

Hugh Ross will head the choral department and will conduct performances by a special small choir. Mr. Ross will prepare the large Festival Chorus for performances of Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Charles Munch.

Ludwig Zirner of the Music Department of the University of Illinois will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group and will offer special courses for amateurs and general music students, who may also observe the activities of other departments of the School, sing in the performances of the large Festival chorus with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and attend the Orchestra's concerts and rehearsals.

In addition to scholarships for students of advanced attainment from the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund, many special scholarships and prizes are in the course of the sum-utors to the Friends of rshire Music Center are o many of the performs the various departments hool.

r information may be ob- om the Berkshire Music Office, Symphony Hall, 5.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.
HERALD-AMERICAN
Circ. S. 221,954
MAR 17 1957

Tanglewood to Open July 1 Under Munch

The Boston Symphony Orchestra announces plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood. The 15th session of this summer school of musical performance will be conducted during the six weeks from July 1 to Aug. 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The school, founded in 1940 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, now is under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch, and the composer, Aaron Copland who is chairman of the faculty. It offers opportunity for students to increase their experience in musical performance under the guidance of a musical faculty of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and other experienced musicians.

The Berkshire Music Center consists of five major departments, providing special study in the fields of instrumental music, choral music, composition, opera and the Tanglewood Study Group designed for the musical amateur. New developments will be stressed in the departments of opera and composition. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera Theater and head of the opera department of the New England Conservatory of Music, again will head the opera department, presenting four weeks course of special training in operatic leadership for producers, conductors and stage directors.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
MAR 1 1957

it runs broad and deep."

Music Center Plans For 1957 Announced

Tanglewood Sessions Start At Lenox, July 1

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans for the Berkshire Music Center's 1957 session at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The 15th season of this summer school of musical performance will be held during the six weeks from July 1 to August 11, running concurrently with the Berkshire Festival concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The school, founded in 1940 under the late Dr Serge Koussevitsky, is now under the leadership of the orchestra's music director, Charles Munch. Boris Goldovsky, director of the New England Opera theatre and head of the Opera Department of the New England Conservatory of Music, will again head the opera department. Aaron Copland, contemporary American composer, will supervise the composition department, while Dr Munch will lead the instrumental music department, assisted by Richard Burgim, concertmaster of the orchestra, and William Kroll, founder of the Kroll String Quartet.

The choral department will be led by Hugh Ross, who will also direct the Festival Chorus for performances, including "L'Enfance du Christe," of Berlioz and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony for Berkshire Festival concerts under the direction of Dr Munch.

Special courses for amateurs and general music students will be led by Ludwig Zirner of the Music Department of the University of Illinois in the Tanglewood Study Group.

News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,535
JUN 29 1957

TANGLEWOOD SCHOOL STARTS TOMORROW

Lenox, June 29—The Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open its 15th season tomorrow afternoon, when the students will be welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch. Music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Munch is also director of the summer music school; Composer Aaron Copland is assistant director; Ralph Berkowitz is dean; and Leonard Burkat is the recently appointed administrator.

To date, students have enrolled at Tanglewood from 35 states, Canada, and 17 foreign countries. They come to the Berkshire Music Center to study orchestra playing and conducting under Eleazar de Carvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony Orchestra of Rio de Janeiro; choral singing and choral conducting under Hugh Ross; composition from Mr. Copland and guest composer Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University; opera under Boris Goldovsky; or they are enrolled in the Tanglewood Study Group under Ludwig Zirner. Since musicians may enroll in the study group for the full six weeks or for periods of four weeks or two weeks, applications are still being accepted. Study group students, professional and amateur musicians, have an opportunity to spend their vacations in chamber orchestra reading and to sling in the Festival Chorus with the Boston Symphony in Berkshire Festival concerts.

Herald News (e)
FALL RIVER, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 39,974
JUN 29 1957

Berkshire Music Center Opens Tomorrow

The 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center in Lenox commences Sunday afternoon when students from some 35 states and 18 foreign countries gather in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood for the opening exercises. Speakers include William J. Cox, Chairman of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center; Dr. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony and Director of the Music Center; and Aaron Copland, Assistant Director of the School. Ralph Berkowitz, Dean of the Music Center, will introduce members of the faculty to the audience.

News (e)
FRAMINGHAM, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 11,543
JUL 5 1957

Neighborly News

Framingham music lovers are interested in two summer features now easily accessible because of the new toll road. The 29th season of the Berkshire Music festival, by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, opened at Tanglewood, in Lenox, Wednesday, and will run until Aug. 11. . . . The first section of the Esplanade Concerts, at the Hatch Memorial shell, Boston, started Tuesday and will run through July 14, omitting next Monday. The second group of concerts will run from Aug. 12 to 17. Children's programs are scheduled for July 10, 13 and 14, at 10:30 a. m. This is the 29th season for these concerts.

The Berkshire Festival

Located in the hills of western Massachusetts the festival is in its twentieth season, running now through August 11. Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall and in the Tanglewood Music Shed on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, and on Sunday afternoons at 2:30. Chamber music concerts are given on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Enterprise (e)
MARLBORO, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 5,435
JUN 13 1957

Commerce Briefs

THE STATE WE'RE IN

Norton Company's Grinding Division has won two top industrial safety awards for the second time in two years . . . Dr. Davis R. Dewey II has been elected president of Baird-Atomic, Inc. . . . and three Baird-Atomic staff members were among a select group of 90 scientists responsible for preparation of the "American Institute of Physics Handbook" . . . John P. Danahy of Winthrop, a test man in the Meter Maintenance Division of the Boston Edison Company, has never missed a day on the job in his 32 years with the company . . A record total of 1,980,113 scheduled air travelers used Logan International Airport during 1956, a gain of 157,955 over 1955. . . Boston Symphony's Summer School of Music will hold its 15th annual session from July 1 to August 11, at Tanglewood . . . Visitors from 46 states, four U. S. territories and regions, and 22 foreign lands viewed the restored birthplace of the Nation's iron and steel industry in Saugus last year . . . The Massachusetts Business Development Corporation has approved more financial assistance than any other development credit corporation in the Nation, says its fourth annual report . . . Navy WAVES, present and former, will convene in Boston July 26-28 for their 15th annual conference . . . Essex County Tourist Council's new 18-panel travel folder features three centuries of history in Essex County and may be obtained through the Council's office, 132 Essex Street, Salem. . .

Even Dozen

When Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Co., of Boston, officially opened the Massachusetts Industrial Park in Chicopee last month, it was the firm's 12th industrial center in New England. Cabot, Cabot & Forbes obtained 128 acres of land at the northwest intersection of the Massachusetts Turnpike and its Springfield connection (Exit 6) for its park, which will have more than 2300 feet of frontage on both the north and south sides of the Turnpike. C. C. & F. points out that the Park will be in an exceptionally advantageous position to draw from the skilled labor forces of Springfield, Chicopee, Ludlow, Holyoke, Westfield and Palmer areas.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
C... D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUN 30 1957

In July

A list of coming events, anniversaries and other notable dates next month.

Inebriate of air am I,
And debauchee of dew,
Reeling, through endless summer days,
From inns of molten blue.

—EMILY DICKINSON.

1 International Geophysical Year to begin. . . . Shakespearean Festival to open in Stratford, Ont. . . . The Eisenhowers to celebrate their forty-first wedding anniversary. . . . Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival opens. . . . 1859: First intercollegiate baseball game played by Amherst and Williams, the former winning by a score of 66 to 32. . . . 1863: The Battle of Gettysburg opened. . . . 1898: Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt led his "Rough Riders" up San Juan Hill in Cuba.

2 1932: Franklin D. Roosevelt flew to Chicago to accept his nomination as the Democratic Presidential candidate. ("I pledge you, I pledge myself, to a new deal for the American people.")

3 The Berkshire Music Festival opens at Tanglewood, Stockbridge, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sun (e)
LOWELL, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 42,535
MAY 4 1957

Music

By Alfred W. Burke

LOWELL—The Berkshire music center, which is the setting for the Tanglewood Revolving scholarship, has become one of the most active and famous seats of music learning anywhere in the world. The scholarships whose coverage extends into every known form of music have done much in influencing the success of many world famous artists of today.

The foundation of this found now rests in an organization known as the Friends of the music center. Today the membership, which is definitely informal, numbers several thousand. This group of people from everywhere have taken up the torch so brilliantly lighted in 1949 by a gift of $50,000 from RCA Victor.

It has been designated that the fund shall be perpetual, and that additions from any possible source shall also be used. One of the important factors was the idea of interesting scholarship winners in meeting a share in this work at any time in their life in which they have attained a place of merit in the art.

Assured Future

One of the developments recently in regards to financial expansion was the announcement by the Rockefeller Foundation that it would equal the amounts made by private contributors. This should assure the music center's future for years to come.

The summer school which is in the academic medium maintained by the Boston Symphony orchestra, is under the direction of Charles Munch. It is regarded as in truthe bods of ive all as up tuder dis tinguished faculty shows notable progress in the few short weeks in which the center and festival is in session.

14th Year

This season will mark the 14th year of the center's student sessions. The ambition of the late Serge Koussevitzky to found such a center has long since become an educational tradition.

Over the years approximately 5000 aspiring young musicians have passed through the portals of musical inspiration and educational strength. Many of the so called "alumni" have taken their place with the great names of our time in musical history.

Every field in music is dotted by the presence and contribution of these enlightened people. Their growth, though not yet completely appreciated, shall assure the musical future of their respective countries.

Thus, not too far from our own community there is a musical center whose purpose has made this part of the world an everlasting name in the field of creative art.

12.

v England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
x 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
MAY 2 1957

Dartmouth's Approach to Creativity

The seven-million-dollar center of the arts proposed for Dartmouth College sounds like an imaginative approach to one of the main tasks of liberal education: kindling an interest in the creative arts. The aim, as explained by Dartmouth President John Sloan Dickey, is to bring workers in art, drama, music and crafts together in one complex of buildings that will also serve as a center of campus social activity. The hope is that there will be a "cross-fertilization" of artistic ideas and that undergraduates will become interested and perhaps involved.

Such an objective is particularly noteworthy at a time when public attention is centered upon the technical side of higher education. Because of the technological race between this country and the Soviet Union, there has been a tendency of late to over-emphasize the importance of the scientific disciplines at the expense of the humanities. But as thoughtful citizens realize, this cannot be an "either-or" matter. Both practical and liberal arts should be taught intensively in our colleges, just as both should be given recognition in any civilization.

The idea that good working and viewing conditions favor the development of the arts also strikes us as sound. Genius will have its way and much good has come from garrets, but it is also true that the arts flourish best in fertile soil and against a background of intelligent appreciation. This notion, advanced persistently and vigorously by the late Serge Koussevitzky, is of course one of the guiding principles of our own Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood.

The fact that the new arts center is proposed for Dartmouth College, which has a reputation as an outdoorsy sort of school, may help dispel a mistaken idea that the creative arts are somehow not the concern of redblooded American boys. It should help bring home to thousands of Dartmouth undergraduates and through them to perhaps millions of others, that the arts are part of education and properly part of human life.

[75]

SARASOTA, FLORIDA NEWS, March, 1957

Music IN THE KEY of JEAN SHARP

Last week this column featured the Berkshire Festival with special emphasis on student opportunities at the Music Center. This week we are more concerned with Tanglewood concerts and some overall picture of allied artistic activities in the vicinity.

To many a New Yorker, Philadelphian and Bostonian, Tanglewood is a weekend mecca and every train coming into the area spills out thousands of city dwellers for a weekend in the Berkshires. Thousands more ride the high-speed thru-ways and end riding bumper-to-bumper in a slow, cortege-pace to the concerts. Accommodations are hard to come by, eating places are bursting at the seams, much like Sarasota during pageant week.

★ ★ ★

So habit forming is attendance at Tanglewood that you hear people greeting each other, saying, "It's like coming home, isn't it?" Stranger though we were to Tanglewood, it was homey to us as we chatted with the Alexander Blochs who have an entrancing 200-year-old farmhouse in nearby Hinsdale, N.Y. and attend many Tanglewood concerts. Other homefolks were the Clayton McMichaels, Dorothy Stone and Lawrence Dame.

We might have been in Sarasota, too, when Blanche Bloch took us to a meeting of Madame Koussevitzky's committee to raise funds for "Tanglewood on Parade." It might have been a meeting of Lota Mundy's bazaar committee to raise funds for the West Coast Symphony Rehearsal Hall, so similar were the problems, so typical was what was said, only the women up there were trying to raise about 99 times as much money!

★ ★ ★

Regular concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra during the six weeks festival are on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, while Wednesday nights are devoted to chamber music presented by members of the orchestra or guest artists. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday are given over largely to student concerts both orchestral and choral or to operas presented by the opera department of the Music Center under the direction of Boris Goldovsky. Saturday mornings one may attend a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Meantime, within a radius of a few miles from Tanglewood there are other concerts galore, a number of summer stock theaters to choose from and, at Jacob's Pillow, Ted Shawn maintains his ballet school and a ballet festival which has been called "The Salzburg of the Dance," runs concurrently with the Berkshire Music Festival. Shawn presents famous dance troupes so even this incomplete listing of Berkshire attractions makes it obvious that anyone in search of culture can be kept as busy as the proverbial flea on a hot griddle.

★ ★ ★

The great music shed where concerts by the full orchestra are held is roofed, has one closed end — the stage end — and three open sides. It seats 6,000 and often an equal number gather on the lawns around the three open sides to listen to music under the twinkling blanket of the night sky. Standard equipment for open-air listeners is blankets, picnic kits, folding chairs and cots, camp being established hours before concert time in order to get preferential position. Women crochet or knit, embroider or read, men dole out food from huge hampers, set up plastic cots and often catch a nap before a concert. Babies wail or sleep in their carriages.

Inside the shed, famous folk and run-of-the-mill music lovers rub elbows to hear one of the greatest musical organizations in the world, the Boston Symphony Orchestra and its famous and esteemed conductor, Charles Munch. It is a virtuoso orchestra that sends forth gorgeous patterns of sound which can be, in turn, exquisite, exciting, dreamy, dramatic or lush. Perhaps the orchestra's greatest attribute is that 102 artists can sound like a single voice; that they seem to play with a singleness of purpose, all for one and one for all.

★ ★ ★

This is not to say that everything is always perfection. For example, there was one memorable program when Munch and the orchestra played Berlioz' "Roman Carnival Overture" and made of it a real carnival with dramatic excitement and fire with contrasts of color and dynamics that became a miracle of teeming orchestral sound. There followed Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" played with sensuous, languid, sultry effects and then Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe," the most inspired playing of Ravel we've ever heard with unbelievable orchestral effects — exquisitely right, exquisitely breath-taking. Yet the final portion of the program, Brahms' "Symphony No. 2" was given a routine reading sounding lifeless and drab. Part of the trouble, we felt, was bad programming. Had the Brahms been performed first, one would have walked out of the shed on cloud 13 with the ravishing sounds of the orchestra's playing of Berlioz, DeBussy and Ravel still ringing in one's ears. As it was the Brahms was anticlimactic!

We chatted with an orchestra member at one concert at intermission time when we were enthusing over a performance and this player said, "And of course, Munch is so wonderful. For him we play for love. The music, when he conducts, is not always the same each time but it is always good. He doesn't play for the applause — always it is the music!" And so it is at Tanglewood — always it is the music!

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Enterprise (e)
MARLBORO, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 5,435

JUN 13 1957

Commerce Briefs

THE STATE WE'RE IN

Norton Company's Grinding Division has won two top industrial safety awards for the second time in two years . . . Dr. Davis R. Dewey II has been elected president of Baird-Atomic, Inc. . . . and three Baird-Atomic staff members were among a select group of 90 scientists responsible for preparation of the "American Institute of Physics Handbook" . . . John P. Danahy of Winthrop, a test man in the Meter Maintenance Division of the Boston Edison Company, has never missed a day on the job in his 32 years with the company . . A record total of 1,980,113 scheduled air travelers used Logan International Airport during 1956, a gain of 157,955 over 1955. . . Boston Symphony's Summer School of Music will hold its 15th annual session from July 1 to August 11, at Tanglewood . . . Visitors from 46 states, four U. S. territories and regions, and 22 foreign lands viewed the restored birthplace of the Nation's iron and steel industry in Saugus last year . . . The Massachusetts Business Development Corporation has approved more financial assistance than any other development credit corporation in the Nation, says its fourth annual report . . . Navy WAVES, present and former, will convene in Boston July 26-28 for their 15th annual conference . . . Essex County Tourist Council's new 18-panel travel folder features three centuries of history in Essex County and may be obtained through the Council's office, 132 Essex Street, Salem. . .

Even Dozen

When Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Co., of Boston, officially opened the Massachusetts Industrial Park in Chicopee last month, it was the firm's 12th industrial center in New England. Cabot, Cabot & Forbes obtained 128 acres of land at the northwest intersection of the Massachusetts Turnpike and its Springfield connection (Exit 6) for its park, which will have more than 2800 feet of frontage on both the north and south sides of the Turnpike. C. C. & F. points out that the Park will be in an exceptionally advantageous position to draw from the skilled labor forces of Springfield, Chicopee, Ludlow, Holyoke, Westfield and Palmer areas.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
C... D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293

JUN 30 1957

In FF

A lis and 12

If you join

day by day

1 International Geophysical Year to begin. . . . Shakespearean Festival to open in Stratford, Ont. . . . The Eisenhowers to celebrate their forty-first wedding anniversary. . . . Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival opens. . . . 1859: First intercollegiate baseball game played by Amherst and Williams, the former winning by a score of 66 to 32. . . . 1863: The Battle of Gettysburg opened. . . . 1898: Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt led his "Rough Riders" up San Juan Hill in Cuba.

2 1932: Franklin D. Roosevelt flew to Chicago to accept his nomination as the Democratic Presidential candidate. ("I pledge you, I pledge myself, to a new deal for the American people.")

3 The Berkshire Music Festival opens at Tanglewood, Stockbridge, Mass.

ew England Newsclip Agency, Inc ox 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sun (e)
LOWELL, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 42,535

MAY 4 1957

Music

By Alfred W. Burke

LOWELL—The Berkshire music center, which is the setting for the Tanglewood Revolving scholarship, has become one of the most active and famous seats of music learning anywhere in the world. The scholarships whose coverage extends into every known form of music have done much in influencing the success of many world famous artists of today.

The foundation of this found now rests in an organization known as the Friends of the music center. Today the membership, which is definitely informal, numbers several thousand. This group of people from everywhere have taken up the torch so brilliantly lighted in 1949 by a gift of $50,000 from RCA Victor.

It has been designated that the fund shall be perpetual, and that additions from any possible source shall also be used. One of the important factors was the idea of interesting scholarship winners in meeting a share in this work at any time in their life in which they have attained a place of merit in the art.

Assured Future

One of the developments recently in regards to financial expansion was the announcement by the Rockefeller Foundation that it would equal the amounts made by private contributors. This should assure the music center's future for years to come.

The summer school which is in the academic medium maintained by the Boston Symphony orchestra, is under the direction of Charles Munch. It is regarded as a school of performance.

Each day there are classes in the several subjects and instruments. Added to these are the classes and rehearsal periods dealing with the department of ...ice.

Young musicians of creative ...d performing skill from all ...arts of the country as well as other parts of the world make up the large and hard working student body. Their work under the supervision of such a distinguished faculty shows notable progress in the few short weeks in which the center and festival is in session.

14th Year

This season will mark the 14th year of the center's student sessions. The ambition of the late Serge Koussevitzky to found such a center has long since become an educational tradition.

Over the years approximately 5000 aspiring young musicians have passed through the portals of musical inspiration and educational strength. Many of the so called "alumni" have taken their place with the great names of our time in musical history.

Every field in music is dotted by the presence and contribution of these enlightened people. Their growth, though not yet completely appreciated, shall assure the musical future of their respective countries.

Thus, not too far from our own community there is a musical center whose purpose has made this part of the world an everlasting name in the field of creative art.

12.

v England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
x 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

MAY 2 1957

Dartmouth's Approach to Creativity

The seven-million-dollar center of the arts proposed for Dartmouth College sounds like an imaginative approach to one of the main tasks of liberal education: kindling an interest in the creative arts. The aim, as explained by Dartmouth President John Sloan Dickey, is to bring workers in art, drama, music and crafts together in one complex of buildings that will also serve as a center of campus social activity. The hope is that there will be a "cross-fertilization" of artistic ideas and that undergraduates will become interested and perhaps involved.

Such an objective is particularly noteworthy at a time when public attention is centered upon the technical side of higher education. Because of the technological race between this country and the Soviet Union, there has been a tendency of late to over-emphasize the importance of the scientific disciplines at the expense of the humanities. But as thoughtful citizens realize, this cannot be an "either-or" matter. Both practical and liberal arts should be taught intensively in our colleges, just as both should be given recognition in any civilization.

The idea that good working and viewing conditions favor the development of the arts also strikes us as sound. Genius will have its way and much good has come from garrets, but it is also true that the arts flourish best in fertile soil and against a background of intelligent appreciation. This notion, advanced persistently and vigorously by the late Serge Koussevitzky, is of course one of the guiding principles of our own Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood.

The fact that the new arts center is proposed for Dartmouth College, which has a reputation as an outdoorsy sort of school, may help dispel a mistaken idea that the creative arts are somehow not the concern of redblooded American boys. It should help bring home to thousands of Dartmouth undergraduates and through them to perhaps millions of others, that the arts are part of education and properly part of human life.

[75]

— SARASOTA, FLORIDA NEWS, March, 1957

Music IN THE KEY of JEAN SHARP

Last week this column featured the Berkshire Festival with special emphasis on student opportunities at the Music Center. This week we are more concerned with Tanglewood concerts and some overall picture of allied artistic activities in the vicinity.

To many a New Yorker, Philadelphian and Bostonian, Tanglewood is a weekend mecca and every train coming into the area spills out thousands of city dwellers for a weekend in the Berkshires. Thousands more ride the high-speed thru-ways and end riding bumper-to-bumper in a slow, cortege-pace to the concerts. Accommodations are hard to come by, eating places are bursting at the seams, much like Sarasota during pageant week.

★ ★ ★

So habit forming is attendance at Tanglewood that you hear people greeting each other, saying, "It's like coming home, isn't it?" Stranger though we were to Tanglewood, it was homey to us as we chatted with the Alexander Blochs who have an entrancing 200-year-old farmhouse in nearby Hinsdale, N.Y. and attend many Tanglewood concerts. Other homefolks were the Clayton McMichaels, Dorothy Stone and Lawrence Dame.

We might have been in Sarasota, too, when Blanche Bloch took us to a meeting of Madame Koussevitzky's committee to raise funds for "Tanglewood on Parade." It might have been a meeting of Lota Mundy's bazaar committee to raise funds for the West Coast Symphony Rehearsal Hall, so similar were the problems, so typical was what was said, only the women up there were trying to raise about 99 times as much money!

★ ★ ★

Regular concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra during the six weeks festival are on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, while Wednesday nights are devoted to chamber music presented by members of the orchestra or guest artists. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday are given over largely to student concerts both orchestral and choral or to operas presented by the opera department of the Music Center under the direction of Boris Goldovsky. Saturday mornings one may attend a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Meantime, within a radius of a few miles from Tanglewood there are other concerts galore, a number of summer stock theaters to choose from and, at Jacob's Pillow, Ted Shawn maintains his ballet school and a ballet festival which has been called "The Salzburg of the Dance," runs concurrently with the Berkshire Music Festival. Shawn presents famous dance troupes so even this incomplete listing of Berkshire attractions makes it obvious that anyone in search of culture can be kept as busy as the proverbial flea on a hot griddle.

★ ★ ★

The great music shed where concerts by the full orchestra are held is roofed, has one closed end — the stage end — and three open sides. It seats 6,000 and often an equal number gather on the lawns around the three open sides to listen to music under the twinkling blanket of the night sky. Standard equipment for open-air listeners is blankets, picnic kits, folding chairs and cots, camp being established hours before concert time in order to get preferential position. Women crochet or knit, embroider or read, men dole out food from huge hampers, set up plastic cots and often catch a nap before a concert. Babies wail or sleep in their carriages.

Inside the shed, famous folk and run-of-the-mill music lovers rub elbows to hear one of the greatest musical organizations in the world, the Boston Symphony Orchestra and its famous and esteemed conductor, Charles Munch. It is a virtuoso orchestra that sends forth gorgeous patterns of sound which can be, in turn, exquisite, exciting, dreamy, dramatic or lush. Perhaps the orchestra's greatest attribute is that 102 artists can sound like a single voice; that they seem to play with a singleness of purpose, all for one and one for all.

★ ★ ★

This is not to say that everything is always perfection. For example, there was one memorable program when Munch and the orchestra played Berlioz' "Roman Carnival Overture" and made of it a real carnival with dramatic excitement and fire with contrasts of color and dynamics that became a miracle of teeming orchestral sound. There followed Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" played with sensuous, languid, sultry effects and then Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe," the most inspired playing of Ravel we've ever heard with unbelievable orchestral effects — exquisitely right, exquisitely breath-taking. Yet the final portion of the program, Brahms' "Symphony No. 2" was given a routine reading sounding lifeless and drab. Part of the trouble, we felt, was bad programming. Had the Brahms been performed first, one would have walked out of the shed on cloud 13 with the ravishing sounds of the orchestra's playing of Berlioz, DeBussy and Ravel still ringing in one's ears. As it was the Brahms was anticlimactic!

We chatted with an orchestra member at one concert at intermission time when we were enthusing over a performance and this player said, "And of course, Munch is so wonderful. For him we play for love. The music, when he conducts, is not always the same each time but it is always good. He doesn't play for the applause — always it is the music!" And so it is at Tanglewood — always it is the music!

[76]

BERKSHIRE EAGLE April 12, 1957

de la Haba

FANNED BY A STIFF BREEZE from Stockbridge Bowl flames consumed this cottage and boathouse yesterday afternoon. Used by Tanglewood students and faculty, the building was built in the 1920s by the Lenox Brotherhood Club and given to the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1937. Destroyed in the fire were 11 boats, a piano and furniture in the building.

Tanglewood Boathouse Leveled; Police Charge Boy Responsible

LENOX — A warrant will be issued today for the arrest of a youth said to have started the fire which raged through the Tanglewood boathouse here yesterday, according to Chief William J. Collins of the Stockbridge police.

Although he would not reveal the name, Chief Collins said he is trying to arrange trial for tomorrow. He said the youth was older than the juvenile age of 17.

Discovered by Gaston

The fire was discovered at about 2:45 yesterday afternoon by Ward Gaston, superintendent of grounds at Tanglewood while he was working in the Music Shed. Mr. Gaston said he drove toward the Hawthorne Cottage on Hawthorne Road and discovered a youth leaving the entrance to the Tanglewood shore property. He spoke to the youth and was later able to furnish a description to Stockbridge police.

The fire destroyed the cottage, formerly the Lenox Brotherhood Club boathouse, which consisted of one 60 by 24 foot room, bedroom, kitchen and two smaller rooms. In the building were 11 boats, a piano, a stove, kitchenware and a refrigerator. Mr. Gaston said he would not attempt to estimate the value of the property but said $15,000 would "only begin to replace it."

Two fire engines from Stockbridge, one from Lenox and one from Interlaken, responded to the alarm. The Lenox Department, first on the scene, reached the fire too late to save the building. Besides the building, a short pier and a float were consumed by the flames.

Only Chimney Remains

Only the brick chimney and some charred timbers remain of the cottage which had been used by Tanglewood music students and faculty for picnics, swimming and boating.

The building was originally built in the 1920s by the Brotherhood Club on property owned by the late Miss Mary Aspinwall Tappan, who owned the Tanglewood site. The club obtained permission to use the property after being located for many years on the De Heredia shore front to the south.

When the Boston Symphony Orchestra acquired Tanglewood in 1937 as a gift from Mrs. Gorham Brooks and Miss Tappan, the Brotherhood directors thought of moving the building to another location on the lake but the expense proved too great and the idea was abandoned. The building then went to the BSO along with the property.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844
FEB 27 1957

1,400 High School Musicians Coming to Lenox This Week

Berkshire Eagle 4/5/57

Three States To Be Represented in Festival at Tanglewood Friday and Saturday—Parade Saturday Afternoon

More than 1,400 young high school musicians from New York, Vermont and Massachusetts will participate in the ninth annual Tri-State Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox Friday and Saturday. Seventeen schools will participate with choral groups or bands.

The festival, conceived by Walter C. Wood, former principal at Bennington, Vt., will be sponsored by the Lenox School Department. Joseph Carroll, principal of Lenox High and Roger Hall, music supervisor are cochairmen.

The choral program will be opened at 7 p.m. Friday by the tri-state massed chorus. This group, consisting of 160 selected voices from the participating schools, will sing a selection of five numbers ranging from "Dry Bones" by Gearhart to "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" by Mozart. Dr. Clement J. Schuler, director of instrumental music at Amherst College and the Amherst public schools, will be the conductor.

11 Choruses

Following the performance by the tri-state chorus, each school will present three numbers. Since the festival is noncompetitive, the ratings of the adjudicator, Dr. Schuler, will be given only to the music conductor of each school. Participating schools will be Hartford Central, Cambridge Central, and Berlin Central all of New York State; Bennington, North Bennington, Wilmington, Whitingham and Arlington Memorial, all of Vermont; and Agawam, Lee, and Lenox.

Saturday afternoon at 3:30, the bands of 14 schools will parade through the streets of Lenox. James O. Sweeney is chairman of parade facilities. The reviewing stand will be on Main Street near the Lenox Library.

Reviewing the parade will be school officials of the participating schools, the Lenox Board of Selectmen and School Committee and Miss Adeline O. Johnson, retired music supervisor of the Lenox school system.

13 Bands

Saturday at 7 p.m. at Tanglewood the same bands will present a concert. Dr. Schuler will lead the 175-piece massed tri-state band in five numbers. Afterwards each school band, led by its conductor, will present two numbers. Participating schools will be New York, Wilsboro Central, Hartford Central, Cambridge Central and Berlin; Vermont, Wilmington, Manchester, Whitingham, North Bennington and Bennington; Massachusetts, Agawam, Chester, Searles, and Lenox.

Supper will be served to the participants Friday and Saturday evenings in the Lenox High School gymnasium under the supervision of Mrs. Mae Brown, home economics teacher. Edward Gilligan will be in charge of seating arrangements. He will be assisted by Miss May Hogan, Miss Anna Martin, Miss Ruth Morrison and Mrs. Francis Stannard, all Lenox teachers.

Miss Anna Mitchell of the high school faculty will serve as official hostess.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
MAY 21 1957

Notes and Footnotes

MADE TRACKS last Saturday night to Tanglewood and found the ordinarily staid environs abounce with young people. The Tri-State Music Festival was in the midst of its ninth annual big do, and the high school bands were giving a concert in the small theater. Fourteen different schools took part, and such a far cry from the summertime Tanglewood fare you could scarce imagine. No polished performers, these teen-agers, but they radiated enthusiasm and vitality, two qualities sometimes lacking in finished artists who have performed there. And the audience of young people was a bright change from the often blasé and even disinterested adults who crowd Tanglewood in season. Wish some would come back for the big concerts. It's the sort of yeast the crowds need.

Walter Prichard Eaton

In the death of Walter Prichard Eaton Berkshire County has lost an old and valued friend, its most distinguished man of letters, and a resident who has been for 45 years a leader in preserving and protecting its natural assets.

The lure of the Berkshires for Walter Eaton was immediate and permanent. While still a young man who had already made his mark as a critic of the drama he left New York shortly after his marriage to settle in Stockbridge to devote himself to writing. Finding the life of Stockbridge too social for their tastes, he and Mrs. Eaton soon retreated to Sheffield, which except for time out in the winter for his teaching at Yale and the University of North Carolina, and his vacations of recent years, was their home for 40 years.

His contributions to the region which he made his home began shortly after his arrival in Stockbridge and continued throughout his life. He was a charter member of the Three Arts Society, which founded the Stockbridge Playhouse, one of the nation's pioneer summer theaters. He was a member of the Mt. Everett Reservation Commission for nearly 30 years. He celebrated the beauties of the county in a number of books. And he continued, year by year, in his weekly column in The Eagle and out of it, to wage unceasing war against all those who sought to commercialize, to cheapen, or to despoil the Berkshires by promoting popular amusements which he believed would lower its tone. Even Tanglewood had only his qualified approval. While admiring the Boston Symphony Orchestra, he deplored the crowds it attracted—their size, their behavior, their manners and their dress—and in recent years confined his attendance to concerts in the small auditorium.

Perhaps Mr. Eaton's outstanding characteristic was his individualism. He had none of the affectations to which artistic critics are prone; never was there a man who conformed less to type. Politically he began by being a Socialist; socially he was a democrat; in his attitude toward many trends that are considered "progress" he was intensely conservative.

Finally, being an accomplished raconteur, with a dry sense of humor, he was, in company with Mrs. Eaton, a hospitable host, a welcome guest and a beloved companion of those whom he admitted to his friendship. It is only sober truth to say that he is irreplaceable and that "he was a man, take him for all in all, we shall not look upon his like again."

Two Watercolors By Decker Sold To BSO Director

Charles Munch, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has bought two watercolors by Paul Decker of Canaan, Conn., from an exhibition hanging at Symphony Hall in Boston under sponsorship of the Tyringham Galleries.

The sale was announced today by Donald R. Davis of Tyringham, director of the galleries. He said the Decker watercolors, priced at $300 each, are among 40 paintings by Berkshire-area artists in the Boston show.

Mr. Decker has exhibited often in this area and has won many prizes. The works sold to Mr. Munch are "Hilltop Barn" and "Boy on Beach," the latter of which took an honorable mention in the 1956 Great Barrington Art Show.

Also announced by Mr. Davis was acquisition for the permanent collection of the Tyringham Galleries of "Barns in the Hills," an oil painting by Charles Harsanyi of Stephentown, N.Y.

In addition to Mr. Harsanyi and Mr. Decker, the artists exhibiting at Symphony Hall include W. Lester Stevens of Conway, Harry Lane of State Line, Stanley Bate of Craryville, N.Y., M. E. Nicholls and William Schultz of Pittsfield, John D. Maziarz of Adams, Thomas Blagden of Lakeville, Conn., and Anders Johansen of Chatham, N.Y.

The show runs through Sunday.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUN 17 1957

Russians To See Tanglewood Via Magazine

The latest issue of "America Illustrated," United States Information Agency magazine printed for distribution in the Soviet Union, features a three-page picture story on the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood.

Leland S. Briggs, a former resident of Lenox and the director of Press Services for the U.S.I.A., is the publisher of the magazine, which is printed in Russian. Briggs is a former vice president of the McCann - Erickson advertising agency in New York. He joined the U.S.I.A. in 1954 after retiring from the advertising business and setting up his permanent home in Lenox.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 S. 855,847
JUN 9 1957

Teens to Tour Tanglewood

NEW YORK teen-agers and those in nearby communities will have an opportunity to enjoy the Tanglewood Berkshire Music Festival near Lenox, Mass., for week-ends this Summer, through a series of six all-expense student tours sponsored by the Bronx House Music School at 990 Pelham Parkway South, Bronx, N. Y. Andrew McKinley, [illegible] serving as executive director of the music school said that registration is now open.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUN 19 1957

Two—SUNDAY NEWS, JUNE 9, 19

Music Festival Tours Arranged

A series of six weekend student tours to the Tanglewood Berkshire Music Festival near Lenox, Mass., this summer are being sponsored by the Bronx House Music School, 990 Pelham Parkway South Bronx, Andrew McKinley, executive director, announces. Registration is held Monday through Friday from 3 to 9 P. M. and on Saturdays from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. The tours are open to students 12 to 19 years old and cost $35. The first trip will take place the weekend of July 5.

Festival Story Goes To Russia

LENOX — The latest issue of "America Illustrated," United States Information agency magazine printed for distribution in the Soviet Union, features a three-page picture story on the Berkshire Music festival at Tanglewood.

TIGHT BINDING

[77]

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 5 1957

Tri-State Festival at Tanglewood

LENOX—Permission to use Tanglewood facilities for the Tri-State Music festival scheduled here in May has been granted on behalf of the Boston Symphony orchestra by J. J. Brosnahan, assistant treasurer, in a letter to Joseph J. Carroll, co-chairman of the festival.

Choral and band concerts involving an estimated 1,400 high school students from about 20 schools in Western Massachusetts, Vermont and Eastern New York will be given in the Tanglewood theater hall on Friday and Saturday nights, May 17 and 18.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 18 1957

In Brief

Tanglewood deserves a large measure of credit for putting the Berkshires on the map, and now, with the three-page picture story in America Illustrated, it may perform the notable feat of putting us on the Russian map . . . Quiet Arthur

FLUSHING, N. Y.
Long Island Herald
Circ. W. 12,000

JUN 6 1957

Tour Offered To Teen-agers

New York teenagers will have an opportunity to enjoy the Tanglewood Berkshire Music Festival near Lenox, Mass., for weekends this summer, through a series of six all-expense student tours sponsored by the Bronx House Music School, according to a recent announcement. Andrew McKinley, noted tenor serving as executive director of the Music School, said that registration opened Monday, June 3, at the school.

Early registration is urged inasmuch as only thirty teenagers can be accommodated on each tour. Registration is being held on Mondays through Fridays from 3 to 9 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The tours are open to young persons from 12 to 19 years old. The first trip will take place the weekend of July 5. Subsequent three-day excursions are scheduled for weekend of July 5. Subsequent three-day excursions are scheduled for weekends through August 11.

Room and board will be provided for tour members at the Windsor Mountain School, one mile from Tanglewood, where the Festival is being held. The groups will travel in air-conditioned buses, with faculty members of outstanding music schools accompanying each group as companion supervisors, McKinley noted.

Those teen-agers interested in the tours are advised to call the tour secretary at the school SY 2-1800.

JUNE 9, 19[illegible]

NEW YORK, N. Y.
BRONX PRESS-REVIEW
Circ. W. 18,031

2 1957

Music Festival Tours Planned

The Bronx House Music School, 990 Pelham Pkwy. S., is arranging conducted week-end tours of the Tanglewood Music Festival in Massachusetts this summer for teen-agers. Further information can be obtained by calling SY 2-1800

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 27 1957

Elm Court Opens Tenth Season; Wood Is Manager

LENOX — Elm Court will open for its 10th season tonight, Manager David H. Wood has announced.

Mr. Wood, who was assistant manager for the past four years, has been named manager this year.

The Elm Court dining rooms will be open to the public as in the past. Reservations this year are well in advance of last season, Mr. Wood reports.

Among guests who will be staying at Elm Court during the summer are Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who is returning to the hotel for the sixth year; Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux, guest conductors at Tanglewood; Isaac Stern, who will be one of the soloists with the BSO, and Alicia Markova, who will be at Jacob's Pillow this season.

On the hotel staff will be Mrs. Dorothy Crawford of Lee, who is returning for her 10th year as housekeeper. John F. Nesbit of Pittsfield will again be headwaiter and Stanton Roberts of the Lenox School for Boys will return as chef.

Special parties and wedding receptions have already been held at Elm Court prior to the official opening. The season will run to Aug. 20, but special parties will be booked after the concert series at Tanglewood.

The Berkshire Eagle, Tuesday, July 2, 1957

Notes and Footnotes

UPON HIS arrival here, Eleazar de Carvalho, who heads the Rio de Janeiro Symphony Orchestra, said he hopes to sign a woman musician for his orchestra. There's a catch, though. "We're still old fashioned in Brazil," said he. "It's the custom that no woman musician play a brass or percussion instrument in a symphony orchestra." Mr. de Carvalho will head the department of orchestral conducting at the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood. No one there objects to women in brass or percussions, if they're good.

RICHARD V. HAPPEL

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

FEB 5 - 1957

N.Y. Philharmonic To Present Foss' Stockbridge Bowl Work

The New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra has announced it will premiere this spring a work by Lukas Foss, noted pianist-composer-conductor, which was commissioned in 1954 by the Stockbridge Bowl Assn.

The piece, "Psalms for Chorus and Orchestra," to be published by Carl Fischer in March, will be presented at Carnegie Hall May 9, 10 and 12 under the direction of Dmitri Mitropoulos with Hugh Ross and the Schola Cantorum. The Stockbridge Bowl Assn., of which Nathan G. Horwitt was president at the time, commissioned the work to emphasize the close relationship between the musical traditions and the beauty of the Stockbridge Bowl area.

The work, in three parts, begins with the 121st Psalm "I will l[illegible] up mine eyes unto the hills." The second section is Psalm 98, "O sing unto the Lord a new song," and the third, the 23rd Psalm, "The Lord is my shepherd."

Mr. Foss began work on the psalms in 1954 and completed it in May of last year. Orchestration was completed last fall. It had been hoped by Mr. Horwitt and the members of the Stockbridge Bowl Assn. that the work would be premiered at Tanglewood, thus giving meaning to the association's intent of encouraging the creation of good music and symbolizing the musical atmosphere of the Berkshire Hills.

It is planned to set aside a block of seats at Carnegie Hall for the night of the premiere, May 9, for members of the association and all others interested in attending. Those desiring further information may contact Mr. Horwitt in Lenox.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

FEB 6 1957

In Brief . . .

While it's good to know that the Lukas Foss "Psalms" commissioned by the Stockbridge Bowl Association will be performed under the excellent auspices of New York Philharmonic, it is not mere local pride that makes us regret the abandonment of the original hopes for having the premiere here at its point of origin. The conception of the commission as a symbol of the bonds between the Boston Symphony and the Berkshires deserved a more sympathetic reception than it received . . . The news that the former GE Columbus Avenue plant is two-thirds filled less than a year after being turned over to the Pittsfield Industrial Development Co. is in good measure a tribute to PID President William A. Whittlesey, who has devoted long hours to the task of converting it from a potential white elephant to an economic asset.

President Al Hall's report last night on the renaissance of the Pittsfield Chamber during the past year was a notable exception to the general rule that chamber of commerce annual reports are about as stimulating as a tax statement. Happily, Mr. Hall's report is good assurance that the Chamber's new willingness to stick its neck out in local affairs will be continued and strengthened . . . Those placid, businesslike sessions in Peru and Windsor Monday night were a far cry from the relatively rough-and-ready town meetings that once upon a time were traditional in the hill towns of the Berkshires' eastern tier . . .

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Ridgefield Press
RIDGEFIELD, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,988

JUL 2 1957

Tanglewood Tickets On Sale in Lenox

Tickets for the 1957 Berkshire Festival Season of 24 concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office which open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Tickets at $5 and $4 are still available for the Bach-Mozart concerts of Sunday, July 7 (Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion with the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm and James Joyce) and Saturday evening, July 13 (Mozart's last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor and C major "Jupiter"), both in the Music Shed. General admission to all concerts in the series is $2. Charles Munch will conduct all the concerts of the Bach-Mozart series; for which a few $5 tickets are still available.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Shed concerts are: boxes (seating six) $6.50; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear section, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50. Six Wednesday evening chamber music concerts will be held during the Festival Season, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3.00 and $2.00.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc. and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return to tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Detailed programs and a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Express
THOMASTON, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 1,830

JUL 4 1957

Berkshire Hills Offer Limitless Fun, Activities

For limitless fun and activities, the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts have no equal winter or summer, spring or fall. Whether you prefer peaceful relaxation or a constant round of things to do and places to go, you'll find the Berkshires ideal.

There are 13 magnificent golf courses, mountains to climb, tennis courts, horseback riding, swimming, sailing, or fishing in sparkling brooks and streams. Ample picnic and barbeque facilities await those who love the outdoor life. Whatever your sporting pleasure, the Berkshires have it, and of course in season there's plenty of skating and skiing, too.

The Berkshires are noted as the Eastern center of summer musical and cultural events. In Tanglewood's setting of natural splendor, you'll thrill to the music of the masters as performed by the world-famous Boston Symphony Orchestra. Whether it be jazz, folk music, or modern dance, you'll find a musical beat in tune to your taste all season long.

If it's the theatre that captures your fancy, the Berkshires abound in excellent summer stock. There's scenic pleasure at every turn along lovely drives and fascination in a multitude of historic shrines and museums. For real Yankee flavor, take in an old-fashioned country fair or browse through any of the numerous antique shops. And of course, you'll delight in famed New England cooking at quaint inns, modern motels, and friendly guest houses. Remembrance of heart-warming New England hospitality will mingle with your fondest vacation memories of the beautiful Berkshire Hills.

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047

JUL 7 1957

Berkshire Prices

We have received numerous inquiries about ticket prices for the four weekend series of Music Shed concerts by the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood beginning July 19.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon events are:

Boxes (seating six) $6.50 each ticket; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear sections, $3.50, $3 and $2.50. General admission to all concerts is $2.

Wednesday evening concerts of chamber music are being held simultaneously, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3 and $2.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt. Checks and moneys orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc., and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return of tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Detailed programs and a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293

JUN 20 1957

BERKSHIRE TRIP OFFERED

Bronx House Music School to Sponsor 3-Day Student Tour

The Bronx House Music School, 990 Pelham Parkway South, will sponsor six all-expense student tours to the Berkshire Music Festival in Lenox, Mass., beginning on the weekend of July 5.

The tours are open to young persons 12 to 19 years old from New York and near-by communities. Registration will take place at the School Mondays through Fridays from 3 to 9 P. M., and on Saturdays from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

The fee for each three-day tour, covering room and board, travel expenses and admission to the Tanglewood concerts, is $36 a person. Faculty members will accompany each group, limited to approximately thirty students

TIGHT BINDING

[47]

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

APR 5 1957

Tri-State Festival at Tanglewood

LENOX—Permission to use Tanglewood facilities for the Tri-State Music festival scheduled here in May has been granted on behalf of the Boston Symphony orchestra by J. J. Brosnahan, assistant treasurer, in a letter to Joseph J. Carroll, co-chairman of the festival.

Choral and band concerts involving an estimated 1,400 high school students from about 20 schools in Western Massachusetts, Vermont and Eastern New York will be given in the Tanglewood theater hall on Friday and Saturday nights, May 17 and 18.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

FEB 5 - 1957

N.Y. Philharmonic To Present Foss' Stockbridge Bowl Work

The New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra has announced it will premiere this spring a work by Lukas Foss, noted pianist-composer-conductor, which was commissioned in 1954 by the Stockbridge Bowl Assn.

The piece, "Psalms for Chorus and Orchestra," to be published by Carl Fischer in March, will be presented at Carnegie Hall May 9, 10 and 12 under the direction of Dmitri Mitropoulos with Hugh Ross and the Schola Cantorum. The Stockbridge Bowl Assn., of which Nathan G. Horwitt was president at the time, commissioned the work to emphasize the close relationship between the musical traditions and the beauty of the Stockbridge Bowl area.

The work, in three parts, begins with the 121st Psalm "I will l[illegible] up mine eyes unto the hills." The second section is Psalm 98, "O sing unto the Lord a new song," and the third, the 23rd Psalm, "The Lord is my shepherd."

Mr. Foss began work on the psalms in 1954 and completed it in May of last year. Orchestration was completed last fall. It had been hoped by Mr. Horwitt and the members of the Stockbridge Bowl Assn. that the work would be premiered at Tanglewood, thus giving meaning to the association's intent of encouraging the creation of good music and symbolizing the musical atmosphere of the Berkshire Hills.

It is planned to set aside a block of seats at Carnegie Hall for the night of the premiere, May 9, for members of the association and all others interested in attending. Those desiring further information may contact Mr. Horwitt in Lenox.

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047

JUL 7 1957

Berkshire Prices

We have received numerous inquiries about ticket prices for the four weekend series of Music Shed concerts by the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood beginning July 19.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon events are:

Boxes (seating six) $6.50 each; ticket; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear sections, $3.50, $3 and $2.50. General admission to all concerts is $2.

Wednesday evening concerts of chamber music are being held simultaneously, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3 and $2.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt. Checks and moneys orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc., and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return of tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Detailed programs and a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

FLUSHING, N. Y.
Long Island Herald
Circ. W. 12,000

JUN [illegible] 1957

Tour Offered To Teen-agers

New York teenagers will have an opportunity to enjoy the Tanglewood Berkshire Music Festival near Lenox, Mass., for weekends this summer, through a series of six all-expense student tours sponsored by the Bronx House Music School, according to recent announcement. Andrew McKinley, noted tenor serving as executive director of the Music School, said that registration opened Monday, June 3, at the school.

Early registration is urged inasmuch as only thirty teenagers can be accommodated on each tour. Registration is being held on Mondays through Fridays from 3 to 9 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The tours are open to young persons from 12 to 19 years old. The first trip will take place the weekend of July 5. Subsequent three-day excursions are scheduled for weekend of July 5. Subsequent three-day excursions are scheduled for weekends through August 11.

Room and board will be provided for tour members at the Windsor Mountain School, one mile from Tanglewood, where the Festival is being held. The groups will travel in air-conditioned buses, with faculty members of outstanding music schools accompanying each group as companion supervisors, McKinley noted.

Those teen-agers interested in the tours are advised to call the tour secretary at the school SY 2-1800.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 27 1957

Elm Court Opens Tenth Season; Wood Is Manager

LENOX — Elm Court will open for its 10th season tonight, Manager David H. Wood has announced.

Mr. Wood, who was assistant manager for the past four years, has been named manager this year.

The Elm Court dining rooms will be open to the public as in the past. Reservations this year are well in advance of last season, Mr. Wood reports.

Among guests who will be staying at Elm Court during the summer are Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who is returning to the hotel for the sixth year; Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux, guest conductors at Tanglewood; Isaac Stern, who will be one of the soloists with the BSO, and Alicia Markova, who will be at Jacob's Pillow this season.

On the hotel staff will be Mrs. Dorothy Crawford of Lee, who is returning for her 10th year as housekeeper; John F. Nesbit of Pittsfield will again be headwaiter and Stanton Roberts of the Lenox School for Boys will return as chef.

Special parties and wedding receptions have already been held at Elm Court prior to the official opening. The season will run to Aug. 20, but special parties will be booked after the concert series at Tanglewood.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 27,844

FEB 6 1957

In Brief . . .

While it's good to know that the Lukas Foss "Psalms" commissioned by the Stockbridge Bowl Association will be performed under the excellent auspices of New York Philharmonic, it is not mere local pride that makes us regret the abandonment of the original hopes for having the premiere here at its point of origin. The conception of the commission as a symbol of the bonds between the Boston Symphony and the Berkshires deserved a more sympathetic reception than it received . . . The news that the former GE Columbus Avenue plant is two-thirds filled less than a year after being turned over to the Pittsfield Industrial Development Co. is in good measure a tribute to PID President William A. Whittlesey, who has devoted long hours to the task of converting it from a potential white elephant to an economic asset.

President Al Hall's report last night on the renaissance of the Pittsfield Chamber during the past year was a notable exception to the general rule that chamber of commerce annual reports are about as stimulating as a bank statement. Happily, Mr. Hall's re-election is good assurance that the Chamber's new willingness to stick its neck out in local affairs will be continued and strengthened . . . Those placid and businesslike sessions in Peru and Windsor Monday night were a far cry from the relatively rough-and-ready town meetings that once upon a time were traditional in the hill towns of the Berkshires' eastern tier . . .

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Ridgefield Press
RIDGEFIELD, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,988

JUL 2 1957

Tanglewood Tickets On Sale in Lenox

Tickets for the 1957 Berkshire Festival Season of 24 concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office which is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Tickets at $5 and $4 are still available for the Bach-Mozart concerts of Sunday, July 7 (Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion with the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society and soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm and James Joyce) and Saturday evening, July 13 (Mozart's last three symphonies in E-flat, G minor and C major "Jupiter"), both in the Music Shed. General admission to all concerts in the series is $2. Charles Munch will conduct all the concerts of the Bach-Mozart series; for which a few $5 tickets are still available.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Shed concerts are: boxes (seating six) $6.50; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear section, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50. Six Wednesday evening chamber music concerts will be held during the Festival Season, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3.00 and $2.00.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc. and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return to tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Detailed programs and a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Express
THOMASTON, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 1,830

JUL 4 1957

Berkshire Hills Offer Limitless Fun, Activities

For limitless fun and activities, the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts have no equal, winter or summer, spring or fall. Whether you prefer peaceful relaxation or a constant round of things to do and places to go, you'll find the Berkshires ideal.

There are 13 magnificent golf courses, mountains to climb, tennis courts, horseback riding, swimming, sailing, or fishing in sparkling brooks and streams. Ample picnic and barbeque facilities await those who love the outdoor life. Whatever your sporting pleasure, the Berkshires have it, and of course in season there's plenty of skating and skiing, too.

The Berkshires are noted as the Eastern center of summer musical and cultural events. In Tanglewood's setting of natural splendor, you'll thrill to the music of the masters as performed by the world-famous Boston Symphony Orchestra. Whether it be jazz, folk music, or modern dance, you'll find a musical beat in tune to your taste all season long.

If it's the theatre that captures your fancy, the Berkshires abound in excellent summer stock. There's scenic pleasure at every turn along lovely drives and fascination in a multitude of historic shrines and museums. For real Yankee flavor, take in an old-fashioned country fair or browse through any of the numerous antique shops. And of course, you'll delight in famed New England cooking at quaint inns, modern motels, and friendly guest houses. Remembrance of heart-warming New England hospitality will mingle with your fondest vacation memories of the beautiful Berkshire Hills.

The Berkshire Eagle, Tuesday,

Notes and Footnotes

UPON HIS arrival here, Eleazar de Carvalho, who heads the Rio de Janeiro Symphony Orchestra, said he hopes to sign a woman musician for his orchestra. There's a catch, though. "We're still old fashioned in Brazil," said he. "It's the custom that no woman musician play a brass or percussion instrument in a symphony orchestra." Mr. de Carvalho will head the department of orchestral conducting at the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood. No one there objects to women in brass or percussions, if they're good.

RICHARD V. HAPPEL.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
BRONX PRESS-REVIEW
Circ. W. 15,031

2 1957

Music Festival Tours Planned

The Bronx House Music School, 990 Pelham Pkwy. S., is arranging conducted week-end tours of the Tanglewood Music Festival in Massachusetts this summer for teen-agers. Further information can be obtained by calling SY 2-1800

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 18 1957

In Brie

Tanglewood deserves a large measure of credit for putting the Berkshires on the map, and now, with the three-page picture story in America Illustrated, it may perform the notable feat of putting us on the Russian map . . . Quiet Arthur [28]

Vol. XXXVII. évf., No. 34. szám

This newspaper is owned, managed and produced in

JERSEY HERALD

HUNGARIAN-AMERICA

Megjelenik minden csütörtökön
Szerkesztő: GERENDAY MIKLOS

OFFICIAL ORGAN of the Hungarian S

Előfizetési ára egy évre $1.50, Canadában és Európában $3.00. — Telephone: 3-49

Trenton, N. J., 1955 szept. 22.

ced in our own printing plant in Trenton, New Jersey

JERSEY HERALD HÍRADÓ

CAN WEEKLY

ngarian Societies of Trenton and Vicinity

Subscription $1.50 per year
Published every Thursday
N. D. GERENDAY, Editor
Editorial and Publishing Office

one: 3-4910. Szerkesztőség és kiadóhivatal: 27 Hancock Ave., Trenton, N

Berkshire Music Festival TANGLEWOOD-ban.

Az esős időjárás miatt sajnos ezidén csak egyszer látogathattam el Tanglewood-ba, a záró koncertre. A világ első zenekara, élén Charles Munch conductorral — mint mindig — ezuttal is szinte hihetetlen szépet produkált. A nagy távolság ellenére, ezrével láttam a 48 állam mindenféle kocsiját, amelyekkel a sokezres tömeg idevándorolt, hogy olyan élményben lehessen része, ami még ebben a csodálatos országban is ritkaság. A záró-program első része Beethoven "EROICA"-ja volt, amit a 110 tagu zenekar menyországba való művészettel adott elő. A müsor második része pedig Wagner: Mesterdalnokok III. felvonásának finaléja volt, óriási kórussal, Willauer, Da-Costa, Pease, Hupp Róbert Nagy (nyilván magyar?) és McCurdy szólistákkal. Csodálatos volt, nem találok kifejezést rá, hogy olvasóim előtt kellően érzékeltessem. Aki valóban szereti a zenét és jelen beszámolóm után elképzeli, milyen igazi élvezetben lehetett részem, az jövőre menjen el egyszer Tanglewoodba és szerezze meg magának azt az örömet, amelyre emlékezni fog, amig él.

Lukács Ernő.

TANGLEWOODI MUSIC FESTIVAL

Lapunk legujabb new yorki munkatársa Székely Imre kedves barátom jóvoltából ebben az évben is három csodás koncertben gyönyörködhettem. — Őszékelysége remek vadonatuj Buick kocsiján másfél óra alatt remek utakon értük el Tanglewoodot, ahol a Boston Symphony Orchestra nyári zenei ünnepségeit szokta tartani.

Szakértők megállapitása szerint ez a világ legjobb zenekara mely Sergej Koussevitzky dr. halála óta Charles Munch a párizsi Opera ház volt karmestere igazgatása alatt müködik és minden nyáron a Berkshire hegység vadregényes festő szép platóján épült Music Center területén Music Festivalokat tart, minden képzeletet felülmuló érdeklődés mellett.

Julius 15-én a Chamber Orchestra Mozart a nagy génius Don Giovani operájából adott elő részleteket, mely alkalommal a hires Jennie Tourel müvésznő énekszámaiban is gyönyörködhettünk.

Ennek a koncertnek egy vendég karmestere volt Leonard Bernstein személyében, aki egyideüleg a zongora szólójával valósággal elbüvölte a tizezreket meghaladó hallgatóságot.

Julius 22-én Beethoven Coriolan overturéja volt müsoron. Egyideüleg Isaac Stern a világhirü hegedümüvész Beethoven hetedik Symphoniáját játszotta el utólérhetetlen és bámulatos virtuozitással.

Julius 24-én ismét a nagy és halhatatlan Beethoven volt müsoron, az első, a negyedik és a hatodik Symhoniájával, melyek mindegyike a minden idők legkiválóbb zenei alkotásai. Számomra ez a három hangverseny tökéletes és felejtheteten élményt jelentett és hálás vagyok a Sorsnak, hogy minden nyáron ott lehetek én is a száz és százezer zenerajongók között, akik az ország legtávolabbi vidékéről is elzarándokolnak Tanglewoodra, hogy lelküket a legcsodásabb muzsikában felfrissitsék.

Charles Munch

A Music Festival vezetősége elküldte nekem Charles Munch igazgató arcképét, hogy igy mutassam be Őt lapunk olvasóinak.

Lukács Ernő.

DAYTON, OHIO
JOURNAL-HERALD
Circ. D. 88,500
FEB 8 1957

Pianist Excels As Storytel

BY MERAB EBERLE
Journal Herald Music, Art Editor

"Once upon a time," said Boris Godolvsky, skilled raconteur, yesterday morning at the Victory theater where he appeared as the final attraction of the Town Hall Series, sponsored by the Dayton Junior league. "Once upon a time," he said . . . and his capacity audience listened raptly.

For Mr. Godolvsky, in presenting a program of piano music, preceded each number with comment about the composer or telling a story which kept his audience alert and delighted.

He played a charming bit by Scarlatti, after he had informed his audience that the composer, writing many such pieces had named each composition, other than a cantata, a sonata. And said, too, that Scarlatti had counselled performers of his music to play it merely for their pleasure and "to live happily."

Bach and Busoni

Mr. Godolvsky spoke of the pieces composed by John Sebastian Bach for practice on the pre-piano; a repertory, this, for the training of his five sons, and one used by piano teachers of today. Then the pianist played "Two Part Invention in F Major." He played, too, a Busoni transcription for piano of a Bach number for organ and told a story. There was a Mozart movement and a story.

He played a piece by Mendelssohn "who knows how to say the right thing at the right time" and told a story about Mendelssohn's grandfather, famous author of his day and, unfortunately, a hunchback. But, because he knew how to say the right thing at the right time, he won the hand of the girl he loved.

BORIS GODOLVSKY, raconteur and pianist, delights an audience of three. Standing, left to right, are Mrs. Floyd J. Cummings; Mrs. Nathaniel French, chairman of the Town Hall series, a Dayton Junior League project, which brought Mr. Godolvsky here, and Miss Eleanor McCann who entertained in his honor Wednesday evening at her home, 315 North Robert boulevard. The pianist appeared in recital yesterday morning at the Victory theater. (Staff photo by Al Wilson)

There was a story about Robert Schumann, who injured a index finger through zeal a young pianist and so neve could perform, and a Schuman piece.

The story which preceded Chopin nocturne had to do, no with the composer, but with very young Boris Godolvsky who was to play the same Chopin number for Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. This privilege was to be his since his mother, Lea Luboshutz, famous violinist, had been invited to play for the queen.

The violinist had shopped Paris and purchased a "monstrous dress," of an off-pink color which glittered with sequins and brilliants, had a hip waistline and was extremely decollette, according to her son. It happened that the queen appeared in a like gown and Godolvsky's mother was so shaken she could not play. And her son went home with her, his Chopin nocturne unperformed.

Honored Guest

Fog almost interfered with Mr. Godolvsky's arrival here on an early evening plane, Wednesday. But he was here in time to be guest at a buffet supper arranged in his honor by Miss Eleanor McCann, 315 North Robert boulevard.

Miss McCann is pianist and organist with no pretensions as a singer; but she had the privilege of taking an opera course under Mr. Godolvsky's instruction at Berkshire Center, Tanglewood. She directed her major study, when an opera was worked on, to officiating at the lights.

It was at the buffet supper that Mr. Godolvsky said he would be in Cleveland in mid-March to direct school children in a concert performance of "Carmen." Soloists will include two young Metropolitan Opera singers.

He told of what is to constitute a laboratory experiment at Berkshire Center this summer. There, study will be directed toward the evolving of easily handled and transported stage settings from light metals and plastics.

Mr. Godolvsky spoke of the growing interest in the best of music in this country and, too, of the fact that it looks as though some of our greatest musical institutions were to collapse through lack of funds.

While this would result in immediate catastrophe the end result might be the evolvement of new methods for supporting opera and orchestra companies, he said. Government support of the arts will be the solution, Mr. Godolvsky believes.

[78]

Vol. XXXVII. évf., No. 34. szám

This newspaper is owned, managed and produced in t

JERSEY HERALD

HUNGARIAN-AMERICA

Megjelenik minden csütörtök
Szerkesztő: GERENDAY MIKLOS
OFFICIAL ORGAN of the Hungarian S
Előfizetési ára egy évre $1.50, Canadába és Európába $3.00. — Telephone: 3-49

Berkshire Music Festival TANGLEWOOD-ban.

Az esős időjárás miatt sajnos ezidén csak egyszer látogathattam el Tanglewood-ba, a záró koncentre. A világ első zenekara, élén Charles Munch conductorral — mint mindig — ezuttal is szinte hihetetlen szépet produkált. A nagy távolság ellenére, ezrével láttam a 48 állam mindenféle kocsiját, amelyekkel a sokezres tömeg idevándorolt, hogy olyan élményben lehessen része, ami még ebben a csodálatos országban is ritkaság. A záró-program első része Beethoven "EROICA"-ja volt, amit a 110 tagu zenekar menyországba való művészettel adott elő. A müsor második része pedig Wagner: Mesterdalnokok III. felvonásának finálója volt, óriási kórussal, Willauer, Da-Costa, Pease, Hupp Róbert Nagy (nyilván magyar?) és McCurdy szólistákkal. Csodálatos volt, nem találok kifejezést rá, hogy olvasóim előtt kellően érzékeltessem. Aki valóban szereti a zenét és jelen beszámolóm után elképzeli, milyen igazi élvezetben lehetett részem, az jövőre menjen el egyszer Tanglewoodba és szerezze meg magának azt az örömet, amelyre emlékezni fog, amig él.

Lukács Ernő.

Trenton, N. J., 1955 szept. 22.

ced in our own printing plant in Trenton, New Jersey

RSEY RALD HÍRADÓ

CAN WEEKLY

Subscription $1.50 per yea
Published every Thursda

ngarian Societies of Trenton and Vicinity

N. D. GERENDAY, Edito
Editorial and Publishing Offic

one: 3-4910. Szerkesztőség és kiadóhivatal: 27 Hancock Ave., Trenton, N

TANGLEWOODI MUSIC FESTIVAL

Lapunk legujabb new yorki munkatársa Székely Imre kedves barátom jóvoltából ebben az évben is három csodás koncertben gyönyörködhettem. — Őszékelysége remek vadonatuj Buick kocsiján másfél óra alatt remek utakon értük el Tanglewoodot, ahol a Boston Symphony Orchestra nyári zenei ünnepségeit szokta tartani.

Szakértők megállapitása szerint ez a világ legjobb zenekara mely Sergej Koussevitzky dr. halála óta Charles Munch a párizsi Opera ház volt karmestere igazgatása alatt müködik és minden nyáron a Berkshire hegység vadregényes festő szép platóján épült Music Center területén Music Festivalokat tart, minden képzeletet felülmuló érdeklődés mellett.

Julius 15-én a Chamber Or- szotta el utólérhetetlen és bámulatos virtuozitással.

Julius 24-én ismét a nagy és halhatatlan Beethoven volt müsoron, az első, a negyedik és a hatodik Symhóniájával, melyek mindegyike a minden

Charles Munch

GYERMEKEK
vallás-erkölcsi oktatása:
Minden héfőn délután 3 órakor a public elemi iskolások Minden pénteken délután 3 órakor a junior high school csoknak részére.
Az oktatások október 1-től, május 31-ig vannak.

SZERDÁN ESTE
8 órakor héfőnkénti imaóra és bibliai tanulmányozása Összejövetelekre szeretettel hívunk és várunk mindenkit!

illusági órán

DAYTON, OHIO
JOURNAL-HERALD
Circ. D. 88,500
FEB 8 1957

Pianist Excels As Storyteller, Too

BY MERAB EBERLE
Journal Herald Music, Art Editor

"Once upon a time," said Boris Godolvsky, skilled raconteur, yesterday morning at the Victory theater where he appeared as the final attraction of the Town Hall Series, sponsored by the Dayton Junior league. "Once upon a time," he said . . . and his capacity audience listened raptly.

For Mr. Godolvsky, in presenting a program of piano music, preceded each number with comment about the composer or telling a story which kept his audience alert and delighted.

He played a charming bit by Scarlatti, after he had informed his audience that the composer, writing many such pieces had named each composition, other than a cantata, a sonata. And said, too, that Scarlatti had counselled performers of his music to play it merely for their pleasure and "to live happily."

Bach and Busoni

Mr. Godolvsky spoke of the pieces composed by John Sebastian Bach for practice on the pre-piano; a repertory, this, for the training of his five sons, and one used by piano teachers of today. Then the pianist played "Two Part Invention in F Major." He played, too, a Busoni transcription for piano of a Bach number for organ and told a story. There was a Mozart movement and a story.

He played a piece by Mendelssohn "who knows how to say the right thing at the right time" and told a story about Mendelssohn's grandfather, famous author of his day and, unfortunately, a hunchback. But, because he knew how to say the right thing at the right time, he won the hand of the girl he loved.

BORIS GODOLVSKY, raconteur and pianist, delights an audience of three. Standing, left to right, are Mrs. Floyd J. Cummings; Mrs. Nathaniel French, chairman of the Town Hall series, a Dayton Junior League project, which brought Mr. Godolvsky here, and Miss Eleanor McCann who entertained in his honor Wednesday evening at her home, 315 North Robert boulevard. The pianist appeared in recital yesterday morning at the Victory theater. (Staff photo by Al Wilson)

There was a story about Robert Schumann, who injured an index finger through zeal as young pianist and so never could perform, and a Schumann piece.

The story which preceded a Chopin nocturne had to do, not with the composer, but with a very young Boris Godolvsky who was to play the same Chopin number for Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. This privilege was to be his since his mother, Lea Luboshutz, famous violinist, had been invited to play for the queen.

The violinist had shopped Paris and purchased a "monstrous dress," of an off-pink color which glittered with sequins and brilliants, had a hip waistline and was extremely decollette, according to her son. It happened that the queen appeared in a like gown and Godolvsky's mother was so shaken she could not play. And her son went home with her, his Chopin nocturne unperformed.

Honored Guest

Fog almost interfered with Mr. Godolvsky's arrival here on an early evening plane Wednesday. But he was here in time to be guest at a buffet supper arranged in his honor by Miss Eleanor McCann, 315 North Robert boulevard.

McCann is pianist and t with no pretensions as r; but she had the privi-
taking an opera course
Mr. Godolvsky's instruct Berkshire Center, wood. She directed her study, when an opera orked on, to officiating at hts.

It was at the buffet supper that Mr. Godolvsky said he would be in Cleveland in mid-March to direct school children in a concert performance of "Carmen." Soloists will include two young Metropolitan Opera singers.

He told of what is to constitute a laboratory experiment at Berkshire Center this summer. There, study will be directed toward the evolving of easily handled and transported stage settings from light metals and plastics.

Mr. Godolvsky spoke of the growing interest in the best of music in this country and, too, of the fact that it looks as though some of our greatest musical institutions were to collapse through lack of funds.

While this would result in immediate catastrophe the end result might be the evolvement of new methods for supporting opera and orchestra companies, he said. Government support of the arts will be the solution, Mr. Godolvsky believes.

[79]

Goldovsky Discusses Opera

Goldovsky's Opera Leadership Training at Berkshire Center

By CYRUS DURGIN

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
eekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

JUL 11 1957

...Sunday Boris Goldov- ...related in these columns ...ideas for radical im- ...ement in stage design, and consequent lowering of operating costs, by the use of two new materials, aluminum and fiberglas, for scenery and properties. Today he ...ils about his Summer ...ject for experimenting ...h these materials at the ...rkshire Music Center in ...nglewood, in association ...h his plan to train leaders ...operatic production and ...performance.

...ecently the pulpit is relinquished to the highly talented and ...aginative director of the New ...ngland Opera Theater:

"Some years ago I realized," ...ys Mr. Goldovsky, "that if we ever are to have widespread operatic production in this country on lines attractive to the general public—that is, with the singing done in English, and the acting prepared as carefully as the singing, with staging in American theater style—we must have leaders trained in this style.

"When I had formulated my idea, some friends of mine in Cleveland, O., agreed to give me—yes, I mean give me—$25,000 per year to start what I call my 'Leadership Training Program.' Their money was matched by gifts from other sources. It may not be a great deal of money, but it is enough.

"The program works this way: I choose, very carefully, a certain number of people who have had some experience in opera production, people with the ability to develop in three directions simultaneously, as conductors of the music, as directors of the stage productions and who can also be singers. You will note that I do not take beginners.

"These people whom I have chosen, I pay during the period of their training. When the program is completed, by arrangements with various colleges and universities in the United States I have obtained positions in which they can apply these ideas as faculty members. You can see what a widespread result this training will have in operatic entertainment in the course of a few years.

"This Summer I am going to direct the leadership training program at the Berkshire Music Center in Tanglewood. Last Fall, the Boston Symphony trustees, because of heavy expense in running the Berkshire Music Center, voted to abolish the Center's opera department. But they were glad to let us use the Center's facilities—the Theater-Concert Hall and studios—for the training program.

"In connection with the training, we are going to make many concrete experiments in using aluminum and Fiberglas for stage settings. We shall build sets for various opera scenes in a large variety of styles, just to show ourselves what we can do.

BACK FROM EUROPE

"If everything goes well, and fast, we'll very likely give a performance of those scenes as a practical demonstration. If not, then we'll be satisfied to have undertaken the experimentation this Summer, and we'll resume in 1958. In any event, it's going to be exciting!"

Mr. Goldovsky was looking tanned and relaxed, as he spoke, for he was then less than a week back from the first vacation he's had in 15 years.

"My wife and I took off six weeks ago," he continued. "We flew from Logan Airport to Paris, stayed there a week, then rented a small car and drove to Italy. The object was to hear as little music as possible, but I must confess we took in two operas and I did browse in music stores and buy books and scores.

"The opera we heard in Italy, by a Yugoslav company from Belgrade, was Leos Janacek's "Kat'a Kabanova." It impressed me deeply, so much that I'd like to do it in Boston with the New England Opera Theater, if I can find a soprano for the title role of Kate Kabanova. I think Phyllis Curtin could sing it, or Patricia Neway. The part demands a powerful soprano voice and a singer who is a good actress.

"The opera is based on a story by the Russian Ostrovsky, 'The Storm.' About a young man who is mother-dominated and too weak to assert himself when he marries and his mother makes life miserable for his wife. When he is away, his wife has a love affair with a stronger man, then makes a public confession and commits suicide. It's an extremely powerful work. The music is by no means in a modern style, and it makes an immediate effect. I have an idea the American public would like it."

...am is pianist and ...h no pretensions as ...t she had the privi- ...g an opera course ...Goldovsky's instruc- ...kshire Center, ...d. She directed her ...dy, when an opera ...d on, to officiating at ...

...t the buffet supper ...Goldovsky said he ...n Cleveland in mid- ...dent school children ...cert performance of ...Soloists will include ...Metropolitan Opera ...

...what is to consti- ...s experiment at ...this summer. ...will be directed ...lving of easily ...ansported stage ...ght metals and ...

...sky spoke of the ...est in the best of ...this country and, too, ...that it looks as ...of our greatest ...ions were to col- ...lack of funds. ...would result in im- ...strophe the end ...be the evolvement ...ds for supporting ...heatre companies. ...rnment support of ...be the solution, ...y believes.

Berkshire Bistro: Sculpture And Crepes Suzette

While driving through Monterey, Mass., a quiet, sleepy town which rests in the foothills of the Berkshires, a hungry traveler who is looking for that luncheon or dinner which is just a bit different or unusual will do well to stop at Sun-Inside, a quaint and cozy little restaurant which sits on the crest of a hill on Route 23.

Piquant Specialties

Here he will find delicious French cuisine served from the kitchen of Fred and Lucie Lancome. Perhaps their specialty of steak chasseur, a flat T-bone served with marinade of mushrooms and Bordeaux wine, will be his choice. If so, this diner is in for a treat, for Fred learned his cooking in the Parisian kitchen of his grandmother, and he learned well, which accounts for his often being referred to as the "Oscar of the Berkshires." This meal might be augumented with a dessert of French pastry and a cup of strong, black coffee. Gateau Trianon, a six-layer cake soaked in rum, another of grandmere's recipes, comes highly recommended by those who dine there regularly.

And Sun-Inside has quite an impressive list of regular guests. Thornton Wilder, Larry Adler, Zazu Pitts, and Charles Munch being only a few of the hungry cosmopolitans who are frequent visitors to Fred and Lucie's dining room. When all these and other famous people gather together for an evening of dining and friendly conversation, Sun-Inside assumes an atmosphere which would do justice to any of the restaurants on the "left bank." And the traveler who stops and finds himself in this distinguished company is made to feel more than welcome by his gracious hosts.

Another Talent

Being a wonderful chef is not the only talent for which Fred is famous. He is also a sculptor of note, his works having been exhibited throughout the Berkshire area ever since his arrival here in 1948. The Albany Museum, Silvermine Guild of Artists in New Canaan, and Tyringham Art Gallery are frequent exhibitors of his work. The Tyringham Gallery is currently featuring as part of their new art show one of his creations, an imaginative sculpture of a woman and child.

When asked where and why he learned the delicate art of cooking, he tells a rather interesting story of when he was a child only six-years-old. It seems his aged grandmother was ill and refused all food. She had taught him how to make crepes suzette before she became ill, and as the story goes, the only thing she would eat during her illness were the tiny ones that Fred would make for her in his little doll dishes. From this experience he developed his love for cooking and has gone on to become an expert chef, much to the delight of visitors to Sun-Inside.

Landscape with listeners: Sunday afternoon at Tanglewood.

The twentieth series of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, again presents the Boston Symphony Orchestra and guest artists from July 3 through August 11. Special attention will be given to the music of a single composer on each weekend — Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms, Beethoven — and works of contemporary interest will be offered on the last four weekends. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will be the regular conductor, with guests Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Tanglewood: A Sunday Afternoon

Say: blankets and packed lunches,
sunbathers by the bunches,
and a beach is understood.
But add to these the tide of music
and the waves of song,
and, lo, a matinee at Tanglewood.

Munching their edible cargo
to the strains of a largo,
the whisperers philosophize:
Pizzicati are little pizza pies.
Then their eyelids flutter and horizontal critics mutter and yawn
on this classical lawn.
Thus the Bach-yard bacchanal.

Yes, napping on a grassy bed
to a lengthy Passion is quite the fashion
on the harmonic picnic, blanket spread.

And only when the revelers are all asleep
do you finally feel
the piano an icicle melting in the deep
and the flute a bird of erudite steel.

CURT LEVIANT

The Muse in Summer Dress

HIGH FIDELITY MAGAZINE
JULY 1957

THE BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE—JUNE 30, 1957

Goldovsky Discusses Opera

Goldovsky's Opera Leadership Training at Berkshire Center

By CYRUS DURGIN

Last Sunday Boris Goldovsky related in these columns his ideas for radical improvement in stage design, and consequent lowering of operating costs, by the use of two new materials, aluminum and fiberglas, for scenery and properties. Today he tells about his Summer project for experimenting with these materials at the Berkshire Music Center in Tanglewood, in association with his plan to train leaders in operatic production and performance.

Herewith the pulpit is relinquished to the highly talented and imaginative director of the New England Opera Theater:

"Some years ago I realized," says Mr. Goldovsky, "that if we ever are to have widespread operatic production in this country on lines attractive to the general public—that is, with the singing done in English, and the acting prepared as carefully as the singing, with staging in American theater style—we must have leaders trained in this style.

"When I had formulated my idea, some friends of mine in Cleveland, O., agreed to give me—yes, I mean give me—$25,000 per year to start what I call my 'Leadership Training Program.' Their money was matched by gifts from other sources. It may not be a great deal of money, but it is enough.

"The program works this way: I choose, very carefully, a certain number of people who have had some experience in opera production, people with the ability to develop in three directions simultaneously, as conductors of the music, as directors of the stage productions and who can also train singers. You will note that I do not take beginners.

"These people whom I have chosen, I pay during the period of their training. When the program is completed, by arrangements with various colleges and universities in the United States I have obtained positions in which they can apply these ideas as faculty members. You can see what a widespread result this training will have in operatic entertainment in the course of a few years.

"This Summer I am going to direct the leadership training program at the Berkshire Music Center in Tanglewood. Last Fall, the Boston Symphony trustees, because of heavy expense in running the Berkshire Music Center, voted to abolish the Center's opera department. But they were glad to let us use the Center's facilities—the Theater-Concert Hall and studios—for the training program.

"In connection with the training we are going to make many concrete experiments in using aluminum and Fiberglas for stage settings. We shall build sets for various opera scenes in a large variety of styles, just to show ourselves what we can do.

BACK FROM EUROPE

"If everything goes well, and fast, we'll very likely give a performance of those scenes as a practical demonstration. If not, then we'll be satisfied to have undertaken the experimentation this Summer, and we'll resume in 1958. In any event, it's going to be exciting!"

Mr. Goldovsky was looking tanned and relaxed, as he spoke, for he was then less than a week back from the first vacation he's had in 15 years.

"My wife and I took off six weeks ago," he continued. "We flew from Logan Airport to Paris, stayed there a week, then rented a small car and drove to Italy. The object was to hear as little music as possible, but I must confess we took in two operas and I did browse in music stores and buy books and scores.

"The opera we heard in Italy, by a Yugoslav company from Belgrade, was Leos Janacek's "Kat'a Kabanova." It impressed me deeply, so much that I'd like to do it in Boston with the New England Opera Theater, if I can find a soprano for the title role of Kata Kabanova. I think Phyllis Curtin could sing it, or Patricia Neway. The part demands a powerful soprano voice and a singer who is a good actress.

"The opera is based on a story by the Russian, Ostrovsky, 'The Storm.' About a young man who is mother-dominated and too weak to assert himself when he marries and his mother makes life miserable for his wife. When he is away, his wife has a love affair with a stronger man, then makes a public confession and commits suicide. It's an extremely powerful work. The music is by no means in a modern style, and it makes an immediate effect. I have an idea the American public would like it."

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
JUL 11 1957

Berkshire Bistro: Sculpture And Crepes Suzette

While driving through Monterey, Mass., a quiet, sleepy town which rests in the foothills of the Berkshires, a hungry traveler who is looking for that luncheon or dinner which is just a bit different or unusual will do well to stop at Sun-Inside, a quaint and cozy little restaurant which sits on the crest of a hill on Route 23.

Piquant Specialties

Here he will find delicious French cuisine served from the kitchen of Fred and Lucie Lancome. Perhaps their specialty of steak chasseur, a flat T-bone served with marinade of mushrooms and Bordeaux wine, will be his choice. If so, this diner is in for a treat, for Fred learned his cooking in the Parisian kitchen of his grandmother, and he learned well, which accounts for his often being referred to as the "Oscar of the Berkshires." This meal might be augumented with a dessert of French pastry and a cup of strong, black coffee. Gateau Trianon, a six-layer cake soaked in rum, another of grandmere's recipes, comes highly recommended by those who dine there regularly.

And Sun-Inside has quite an impressive list of regular guests. Thornton Wilder, Larry Adler, Zazu Pitts, and Charles Munch being only a few of the hungry cosmopolitans who are frequent visitors to Fred and Lucie's dining room. When all these and other famous people gather together for an evening of dining and friendly conversation, Sun-Inside assumes an atmosphere which would do justice to any of the restaurants on the "left bank." And the traveler who stops and finds himself in this distinguished company is made to feel more than welcome by his gracious hosts.

Another Talent

Being a wonderful chef is not the only talent for which Fred is famous. He is also a sculptor of note, his works having been exhibited throughout the Berkshire area ever since his arrival here in 1948. The Albany Museum, Silvermine Guild of Artists in New Canaan, and Tyringham Art Gallery are frequent exhibitors of his work. The Tyringham Gallery is currently featuring as part of their new art show one of his creations, an imaginative sculpture of a woman and child.

When asked where and why he learned the delicate art of cooking, he tells a rather interesting story of when he was a child only six-years-old. It seems his aged grandmother was ill and refused all food. She had taught him how to make crepes suzette before she became ill, and as the story goes, the only thing she would eat during her illness were the tiny ones that Fred would make for her in his little doll dishes. From this experience he developed his love for cooking and has gone on to become an expert chef, much to the delight of visitors to Sun-Inside.

Landscape with listeners: Sunday afternoon at Tanglewood.

The twentieth series of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, again presents the Boston Symphony Orchestra and guest artists from July 3 through August 11. Special attention will be given to the music of a single composer on each weekend — Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms, Beethoven — and works of contemporary interest will be offered on the last four weekends. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will be the regular conductor, with guests Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht.

Tanglewood: A Sunday Afternoon

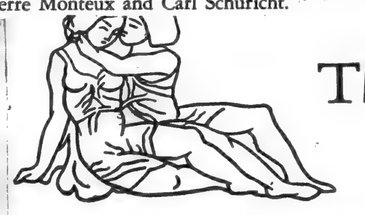
Say: blankets and packed lunches,
sunbathers by the bunches,
and a beach is understood.
But add to these the tide of music
and the waves of song,
and, lo, a matinee at Tanglewood.

Munching their edible cargo
to the strains of a largo,
the whisperers philosophize:
Pizzicati are little pizza pies.
Then their eyelids flutter
and horizontal critics mutter and yawn
on this classical lawn.
Thus the Bach-yard bacchanal.

Yes, napping on a grassy bed
to a lengthy Passion
is quite the fashion
on the harmonic picnic, blanket spread.

And only when the revelers are all asleep
do you finally feel
the piano an icicle melting in the deep
and the flute a bird of erudite steel.

CURT LEVIANT



The Muse in Summer Dress

HIGH FIDELITY MAGAZINE
JULY 1957

[80]

Berkshire Eagle, July 5, 1957

Foss, Lipkin Soloists Tonight In First Orchestral Concert

TANGLEWOOD—The first orchestral concert of the 1957 Berkshire Festival will take place tonight at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of symphony players in an all-Bach program. Soloists will be Seymour Lipkin and Lukas Foss, pianists. The program will open with the Suite No. 3 and the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 with Lukas Foss performing the piano solo, Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the orchestra, will be soloist in the Suite No. 2, and the program will close with the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor with Lipkin and Foss, soloists.

Both Mr. Lipkin and Mr. Foss have been closely associated with Tanglewood for many years, having been both students and members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center, and appearing at a number of Berkshire Festival concerts. Mr. Foss' opera "Griffelkin" was the principal production of the Berkshire Music Center's Opera Department last season. This summer, Mr. Foss visits Tanglewood only for this concert and will devote the rest of his summer to composition. Mr. Lipkin is on the faculty of the conducting department, assisting Richard deCarvalho. Mrs. Dwyer has been principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1952, and has appeared several times as soloist at the Bach-Mozart concerts at Tanglewood, as well as with the orchestra in Boston and on tour.

The six concerts of the Bach-Mozart series will be given during the first two weekends of the Festival, the remaining concerts of the present weekend, tomorrow and Sunday, devoted to the music of Bach, and the second weekend, July 12-13-14, to the music of July 12-13-14, to Mozart.
of the concerts. In response to the increased interest in these concerts, two will be given for the first time in the Music Shed.

The Bach concert Sunday afternoon will be devoted to the second part of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. The soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses, with the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth conductor. At the concert on Saturday evening, July 13, Dr. Munch will conduct three great symphonies of Mozart in E flat, G minor, and C major ("Jupiter").

Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,866

JUL 6 1957

Second All-Bach Concert Tonight At Tanglewood

Lenox, July 5 — The second chamber orchestra concert in the 1957 Berkshire Festival will be held Saturday night in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood at 8.30 p. m. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct members of the orchestra in a concert of Brandenburg Concertos by Bach.

Sunday afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music Shed at 2.30. The increased capacity of the Shed will allow a far greater number of people to attend this concert of the "St. Matthew Passion," including the Opening Chorus and Part II of this great monument of choral music. The solo singers are well known to Tanglewood audiences, having appeared many times at Berkshire Festival concerts—Adele Addison, soprano (a native of Springfield); Florence Kopleff, alto (from New York City); John McCollum, tenor (from Ossining, N. Y.); Donald Gramm, bass (also from New York City); and James Joyce, bass (a native of Boston).

The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society will make a special trip from Boston with their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, to appear in this concert. While at Tanglewood, the choruses will present a special a capella concert, conducted by Mr. Woodworth, in the Chamber Music Hall at 2.30 on Saturday afternoon. The concert will be open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center. The program will include works of Palestrina, Byrd, Arne, and contemporary works by Thomas Beveridge (a Harvard undergraduate), Russell Woollen, and Randall Thomson.

Tickets are available at the Tanglewood Box Office for the concert of Sunday and for succeeding concerts of the Berkshire Festival. Telephone reservations are accepted at Lenox 600. The grounds will be open to concert-goers at noon on Sunday afternoon for those who wish to picnic on the lawns before the concert.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Journal Record
AMHERST, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 1,574

JUL 4 1957

Choruses To Sing At Tanglewood

The Harvard glee slub and Radcliffe Choral society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30 in the theater-concert hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood this season for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon, July 7, with the Boston Symphony orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first weekend of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season. The two choruses appeared first at the Berkshire Festival in 1954 in a performance of "The Damnation of Faust" and again in 1955 in Bach's B Minor Mass.

The program will open with Palestrina's Stabat Mater for two choirs. A group by the Radcliffe chorus alone includes the madrigal "On the Plains, Fairy Trains" by Weelkes, the Benedictus from Palestrina's Mass, "O Admirable Commercium" and two madrigals by Thomas Beveridge, a Harvard student of the class of 1959. The Harvard glee club will present "Justorum Animae" by Byrd, Elegy by Arne and "The Windhover" by Russell Woollen, which was written for the glee club in 1955. The concert will close with two works by Randall Thompson, choruses from "Mass of the Holy Spirit," and the Alleluia, a work written for the opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center in 1940 and performed annually by the school's student body, who will again perform it at this year's opening on Sunday, June 30.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 1 1957

Berkshire Festival's 20th Season to Open Wednesday

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open Wednesday evening at Tanglewood, Lenox.

24 Concerts

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, at 8.30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Revel.

Concerts Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8.30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

Sunday Concert

The concert of Sunday afternoon at 2.30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 5 1957

Lukas Foss, who will be soloist at tonight's Berkshire Festival concert, is spending three days at the Curtis Hotel, Lenox. He will fly tomorrow to conduct this weekend at Ravinia, and return to Tanglewood Tuesday for a recording session. Mr. Foss will leave Wednesday for his home in Beverly Hills. Mr. and Mrs. Foss are expecting the arrival of their first child next month.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 8 1957

Three Bach Concerts Draw 10,725 to Music Festival

The three Bach concerts opening the Berkshire Music Festival this year drew a total of 10,725 persons to Tanglewood in Lenox over the weekend.

Munch Conducts

Saturday night's program by the Boston Symphony's Chamber Orchestra was devoted to performances of five of Bach's Brandeburg Concertos. Charles Munch conducted and the soloists were Roger Voisin, trumpet; Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist; Ralph Gomberg, oboe; concertmaster, Richard Burgin and string bass virtuoso James Pappoutsakis.

The Saturday concert in the theater-concert hall was attended by 4,500 persons, more than half of whom were on the lawns outside.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Munch conducted the chamber orchestra, the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society in parts of the "St. Matthew Passion." Vocal soloists were Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. Daniel Pinkham was harpsichordist; Alfred Nash Patterson, the organist, and Alfred Zighera played the viola da gamba.

Sunday Program

The Sunday program, held in the big shed, was attended by 3,470 persons.

Next weekend's concerts will be devoted to music by Mozart. On Friday evening Mr. Munch and Hugh Ross will share the podium in a program including "Divertimento K. 136," "Serenade K. 361," "Haffner Symphony" and "Litanies for Chorus and Orchestra K. 243." Saturday evening will be devoted to the "Symphony in E-flat," "Symphony in G Minor" and "Symphony in C Major."

On Sunday afternoon works to be heard include "Adagio and Fugue in C Minor," "Bassoon Concerto," with Sherman Walt as soloist; "Horn Concerto K. 495," with James Stagliano as soloist, and "Sinfonia Concertante, K. 297B. Mr. Munch will conduct the Saturday and Sunday programs.

Wednesday Concert

The Wednesday night chamber music concert will feature Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith.

All the evening programs are at 8.30 o'clock; the Sunday afternoon concert is scheduled at 2:30.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

News
WEST HARTFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000

JUL 4 1957

Goings On

FRIDAY, JULY 5

Play. Champagne Complex, comedy at Oval in the Grove, Route 4, Farmington. With Barbara Hart, Bill Brown, Dennis Hardcastle. Directed by William McCurdy. 8:40 p.m. through July 13 each night except Sunday. Tickets $2, Mon.-Thurs.; $2.50 Fri.-Sat. Phone OR 7-9179.

Play. Oklahoma! at Oakdale Musical Theater, Wallingford. Mon.-Fri., 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 5 p.m., 9:30 p.m. Tickets $3.60 to $1.80 Mon.-Fri.; $4.20 to $1.80 Sat. night; $3 to $1.80 and 60c children Sat. matinee. Phone JA 2-2111.

Music. Berkshire Festival (Tanglewood). All Bach program: Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, other works. Charles Munch and Boston Symphony, 8:30 p.m. Tickets $5, $4, or $12, $10 for series of Fri. Sat. Sun. performances.

Jazz. Newport Festival. 8:30 p.m. Roy Eldridge, Erroll Garner, Stan Getz, Bobby Hacket, Coleman Hawkins, Stan Kenton, Carmen McRae, George Shearing, Tony Scott. Tickets $3 to $5.

Herald News (e)
FALL RIVER, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 39,974

JUL 6 - 1957

by the pastor. All are welcome.

Berkshire Fete Concert Takes Place Tonight

The second Chamber Orchestra concert in the 1957 Berkshire Festival will be held tonight in the Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, at 8:30.

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct members of the Orchestra in a concert of Brandenburg Concertos by Bach.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music Shed at 2:30. The increased capacity of the Shed will allow a far greater number of people to attend this concert of the "St. Matthew Passion," including the Opening Chorus and Part II of this great monument of choral music.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-42

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017

JUL 3 1957

Tanglewood Series Opener Tonight

(Special to The American)

Lenox, Mass., July 3—The annual Berkshire Festival of Music ta Tanglewood begins its six-week program tonight with the Boston Symphony Orchestra performing chamber music in the theater on the grounds. Tonight's concert at 8:30 will presentt he Paganini string quartet.

Before the series has come to a close in mid-August there will be performances on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons with Charles Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht conducting with such soloists as Isaac Stern, Seymour Lipkin, Ralph Berkowitz and Menahem Pressler.

Programs will include music of Beethoven, Brahms, Mozart, Bach, Piston, Copeland, Honegger, Schubert, Haydn and Liszt.

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017

JUL 1 1957

Week-End Concerts Set At Tanglewood

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30, in the Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood this season for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon, July 7, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first week end of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season.

[81]

Hotel & Rest. News
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly

JUL 6 1957

What's Cookin'?

Our good friend George M. Brakey, who was owner-operator of the Pemigewasset House, Plymouth, N. H., up until [illegible] down at Vero Beach, Fla., where he is giving the citrus fruit [illegible] a whirl and is quite happy [illegible]. At least, George, you'll never without the start of a good [illegible] and we shall all be rooting [illegible] ccess in your new venture . . . Kurt Smith, general manager [illegible] Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D. C., never misses a trick [illegible] Father's Day, any father accompanied by wife or kiddies had the rare privilege of eating the "regular dinner" 2 cents" exactly as priced and listed on a Delmonico's menu of 1855 [illegible] rst restaurant menu printed in America. Dad was the only favored character, the rest of the family paying the regular prices, of course . . . We saw Margaret and Tom Epps [illegible] ne other night, who have operated the Gray Gables Inn at Bourne, Mass. for the past several years. They gave an opening cocktail party for their many friends and guests, last Friday night. Tom, busy as a beaver [illegible] ek days with his "archie-teching" business (mostly for the industry) [illegible] normally there only weekends, but Margaret does a fine job of operating the former summer White House of President Grover Cleveland. Chef Richard Rubacka is back for his third season and, with William Shoeun, makes two graduates of the Culinary Institute of America on the staff. E. Stevens is clerk this year, formerly being at the Colonial Inn in Concord, Mass., with Loring Grimes . . . Sure, we knew better, but our trusty Royal was typing behind the times, with the humidity and all. Ernie Goldschmidt is not at the Somerset Hotel now, that is where he used to be, prior to his Army service. He is now with Boston Showcase Company, operated by the Starr boys, well known builder of many top displays, kitchen and dining room installations in New England and country-wide. Cheer up, Ernie, at least it got you a mention two weeks in a row and we'll make it even better, by wishing you and your bride-to-be a very, very blissful marital life, starting this fall . . . Walter Mayo, who used to be head of the ice cream department at H. P. Hood & Sons before retirement, is now getting his NEWS down in Buzzard's Bay, where we understand he does his best to be a good ice cream customer of the Hood outlets in that area . . . Geraldine Hawker, manager of the popular Cafe Rouge in the Boston Statler, was official greeter for the Dairy Princess, Shari Lewis of Nebraska, when she appeared in Boston in connection with June Dairy Month. The 22 year old beauty was runner-up in this year's Miss United States of America contest . . . Kenneth E. Anderson has been named sales manager of the Sheraton-Blackstone in Chicago, according to Foster H. Gurney, general manager of the hotel . . . We've just heard Al Goodwin, of the Hotel Manger and member of the Hotel Sales Management Association, was hospitalized back in June, but the cards and messages from his fellow association members took his mind off the pretty nurses at Harley Hospital . . . Phil Eisenmenger, whose promotion to vice-president in cnarge of institutional sales for Standard Brands recently was featured in the NEWS, has just reached another step-up in his company. He has just finished his 25th anniversary with the organization and will celebrate joining the Quarter Century Club this fall, when the annual dinner meeting of the club members for the Metropolitan New York area will be highlighted by the presentation of an engraved gold watch and certificate to the newest candidate . . . Concluding performance of a three-day all-Bach series by the Boston Symphony at the Berkshire Festival on July 7, will find the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, with featured soloists, joining the orchestra under conductor Charles Munch. The six-week season opened last Wednesday with chamber music by the Paganini Quartet . . . Did you recognize those ladies in the June 29th Saturday Evening Post cover by Norman Rockwell? We have it from no better authority than Bill Clifford, general manager of the Wendell-Sherwood Hotel in Pittsfield, Mass., that while Rockwell admits taking liberties with their actual appearance, they are really Mrs. Nora Zilch (taller) and Mrs. Adelina Gamba (the shorter model), capable members of Bill's staff. Even the housekeeping cart, hall carpet and style of room are likewise patterned after the well known Pittsfield hotel and Bill says the two girls get just as sentimental as the gals in the Rockwell cover, when a couple of newlyweds hit their floor . . . Maine was well represented at the recent Governors' Conference at Williamsburg, Va. when Governor Edmund S. Muskie and his lady (as well as every Governor and his lady from the 48 states, Guam, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico) were sporting matching Hathaway Shirts. The goodwill gesture from the State of Maine was worked out with the cooperation of Ronald W. Brown, president of Dunham's of Waterville, Maine's Hathaway Shirt store. Promotion was coordinated by Bernard M. Johnstone, executive manager of the Maine Publicity Bureau, and John Kennedy, Hathaway VP in charge of production. An official [illegible] and a copy of "Maine Invites You" was enclosed with each Governor's gift of two correct size matching shirts. That's the way they do it Down East!

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292

JUL 3 1957

'57 Berkshire Music Festival Opens

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, opens this week at Tanglewood, in Lenox.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings, July 5 - 6, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Herald (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 201,107

JUL 5 1957

Harvard Choruses At Berkshire Fete

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012

JUN 28 1957

Berkshire Festival Opening Next Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will open Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet in the theater-concert hall.

* * *

THE QUARTET in its first Tanglewood appearance will present Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F major of Maurice Ravel.

Concerts Friday and Saturday evenings (5-6) in the theater-concert hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach. Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players.

Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. Saturday evening (July 6) Brandenburg Concertos Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4 will be performed.

* * *

THE CONCERT Sunday, July 7, at 2:30 p.m. in the Music Shed will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion.

Soloists include Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto, John McCollum, tenor, Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

The choruses are the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society.

Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,988

JUL 2 1957

Berkshire Festival Set

LENOX, MASS. — The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, opens tomorrow at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

HE SPRINGFIELD UNION,
. JUNE 29, 1957

Tanglewood Music Center Opens Sunday

Lenox, June 28—The season at Tanglewood is ready to roll.

The Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music, opens its 15th annual session on Sunday when students from 35 states and 18 foreign countries are welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and director of the school.

The box office personnel has moved into Tanglewood and is filling reservation requests by mail and telephone for the 20th season of the Music Festival which begins July 3 at 8.30 p. m. with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet in the Theater-Concert Hall. Beethoven's string quartet Op. 18, No. 2, and Ravel's string quartet in F major will be played.

Thereafter, concerts will be given on each Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 5, 6, 7, all-Bach programs will be given, including the six Brandenburg Concertos and, on Sunday, July 7, the St. Matthew Passion with Adele Addison as one of the soloists.

The second week's programs will be chamber music on Wednesday, July 10, including Hindemith and Schubert piano duets and Brahms' Liebeslieder Waltzes; and all-Mozart concerts on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 14.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,366

JUL 5 1957

First Orchestra Concert Tonight At Tanglewood

LENOX, July 5—The first orchestra concert of the 1957 Berkshire Festival will take place tomorrow night at 8.30 in the Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox.

Munch to Conduct

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of symphony players in an all-Bach program. Soloists will be the pianists Seymour Lipkin and Lukas Foss. The program will open with the Suite No. 3 and the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 with Lukas Foss performing the piano solo. Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the orchestra, will be soloist in the Suite No. 2, and the program will close with the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor with Seymour Lipkin and Lukas Foss, soloists.

Both Lipkin and Foss have been closely associated with Tanglewood for many years, having been both students and members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center and appearing at a number of Berkshire Festival concerts. Foss' opera "Griffelkin" was the principal production of the Berkshire Music Center's opera department last season. This summer Foss visits Tanglewood only for this concert and will devote the rest of his summer to composition. Lipkin is on the faculty of the conducting department, assisting Eleazar de Carvalho. Mrs. Dwyer has been principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1952, and has appeared several times as soloist at the "Bach-Mozart" concerts at Tanglewood, as well as with the orchestra in Boston and on tour.

The six concerts of the "Bach-Mozart" series will be given during the first two week ends of the festival, the remaining concerts of the present week end (Saturday, July 6, and Sunday, July 7) devoted to the music of Bach, and the second week end (July 12-13-14) to the music of Mozart. Charles Munch will conduct all six of the concerts. In response to the increased interest in these concerts, two will be given for the first time in the 6000 seat Music Shed instead of the Theater-Concert Hall seating 1200. The Bach concert Sunday afternoon will be devoted to the second part of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. The soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses, with the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth conductor. At the concert of Saturday evening, July 13, Dr. Munch will conduct three great symphonies of Mozart in E flat, G minor, and C major ("Jupiter"). Tickets are available for these two shed concerts at the Tanglewood box office.

Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,566

JUL 5 1957

Doriot Anthony Dwyer, first flutist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will appear as soloist in Bach's Suite No. 2 at Tanglewood tonight.

Hotel & Rest. News
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly
JUL 6 1957

What's Cookin'?

Our good friend, George M. Brakey, who was owner-operator of the Pemigewasset House, at Plymouth, N. H., up until this season, is now down at Vero Beach, Fla., where he is giving the citrus fruit business a whirl and is quite happy with it. At least, George, you'll never be without the start of a good breakfast and we shall all be rooting for success in your new venture . . . Kurt Smith, general manager of the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D. C., never misses a trick. On Father's Day, any father accompanied by wife or kiddies had the rare privilege of eating the "regular dinner 2 cents" exactly as priced and listed on Delmonico's menu of 1834, first restaurant menu printed in America. Dad was the only favored character, the rest of the family paying the regular prices, of course . . . We saw Margaret and Tom Epps the other night, who have operated the Gray Gables Inn at Bourne, Mass., for the past several years. They gave an opening cocktail party for their many friends and guests, last Friday night. Tom, busy as a beaver week days with his "archie-teching" business (mostly for the industry) is normally there only weekends, but Margaret does a fine job of operating the former summer White House of President Grover Cleveland. Chef Richard Rubacka is back for his third season and, with William Shoeun, makes two graduates of the Culinary Institute of America on the staff. E. Stevens is clerk this year, formerly being at the Colonial Inn in Concord, Mass., with Loring Grimes . . . Sure, we knew better, but our trusty Royal was typing behind the times, with the humidity and all. Ernie Goldschmidt is not at the Somerset Hotel now, that is where he used to be, prior to his Army service. He is now with Boston Showcase Company, operated by the Starr boys, well known builder of many top displays, kitchen and dining room installations in New England and country-wide. Cheer up, Ernie, at least it got you a mention two weeks in a row and we'll make it even better, by wishing you and your bride-to-be a very, very blissful marital life, starting this fall . . . Walter Mayo, who used to be head of the ice cream department at H. P. Hood & Sons before retirement, is now getting his NEWS down in Buzzard's Bay, where we understand he does his best to be a good ice cream customer of the Hood outlets in that area . . . Geraldine Hawker, manager of the popular Cafe Rouge in the Boston Statler, was official greeter for the Dairy Princess, Shari Lewis of Nebraska, when she appeared in Boston in connection with June Dairy Month. The 22 year old beauty was runner-up in this year's Miss United States of America contest . . . Kenneth E. Anderson has been named sales manager of the Sheraton Blackstone in Chicago, according to Foster H. Gurney, general manager of the hotel . . . We've just heard Al Goodwin, of the Hotel Manger and member of the Hotel Sales Management Association, was hospitalized back in June, but the cards and messages from fellow association members took his mind off his pretty nurses at Harley Hospital . . . Phil Eisenmenger, whose promotion to vice-president in charge of institutional sales for Standard Brands recently was featured in the NEWS, has just reached another step-up in his company. He has just finished his 25th anniversary with the organization and will celebrate joining the Quarter Century Club this fall, when the annual dinner meeting of the club members for the Metropolitan New York area will be highlighted by the presentation of an engraved gold watch and certificate to the newest candidate . . . Concluding performance of a three-day all-Bach series by the Boston Symphony at the Berkshire Festival on July 7, will find the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, with featured soloists, joining the orchestra under conductor Charles Munch. The six-week season opened last Wednesday with chamber music by the Paganini Quartet . . . Did you recognize those ladies in the June 29th Saturday Evening Post cover by Norman Rockwell? We have it from no lesser authority than Bill Cosgrove, general manager of the Wendell-Sherwood Hotel in Pittsfield, Mass., that while Rockwell admits taking liberties with their actual appearance, they are really Mrs. Nora Zilch (taller) and Mrs. Adelina Gamba (the shorter model), capable members of Bill's staff. Even the housekeeping cart, hall carpet and style of room are likewise patterned after the well known Pittsfield hotel and Bill says the two girls get just as sentimental as the gals in the Rockwell cover, when a couple of newlyweds hit their floor . . . Maine was well represented at the recent Governors' Conference at Williamsburg, Va. when Governor Edmund S. Muskie and his lady (as well as every Governor and his lady from the 48 states, Guam, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico) were sporting matching Hathaway Shirts. The goodwill gesture from the State of Maine was worked out with the co-operation of Ronald W. Brann, president of Dunham's of Waterville, Maine's Hathaway Shirt store. Promotion was coordinated by Bernard M. Johnstone, executive manager of the Maine Publicity Bureau, and Kennedy, Hathaway VP in charge of production. An official [illegible] and a copy of "Maine, Down East" was enclosed with each [illegible] gift of two correct [illegible] shirts. That's [illegible] Down East!

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
JUL 3 1957

'57 Berkshire Music Festival Opens

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, opens this week at Tanglewood, in Lenox.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings, July 5 - 6, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Herald (m)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 201,107
JUL 5 1957

Harvard Choruses At Berkshire Fete

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox. The concert will include music from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012
JUN 28 1957

Berkshire Festival Opening Next Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will open Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet in the theater-concert hall.

• • •

THE QUARTET in its first Tanglewood appearance will present Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F major of Maurice Ravel.

Concerts Friday and Saturday evenings (5-6) in the theater-concert hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach. Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players.

Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. Saturday evening (July 6) Brandenburg Concertos Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4 will be performed.

THE CONCERT Sunday, July 7, at 2:30 p.m. in the Music Shed will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion.

Soloists include Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto, John McCollum, tenor, Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

The choruses are the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society.

Banner (e)
BENNINGTON, Vt.
Independent
Circ. 4,988
JUL 2 1957

Berkshire Festival Set

LENOX, MASS. — The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, opens tomorrow at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,866
JUL 5 1957

First Orchestra Concert Tonight At Tanglewood

Lenox, July 4—The first orchestral concert of the 1957 Berkshire Festival will take place tomorrow night at 8.30 in the Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox.

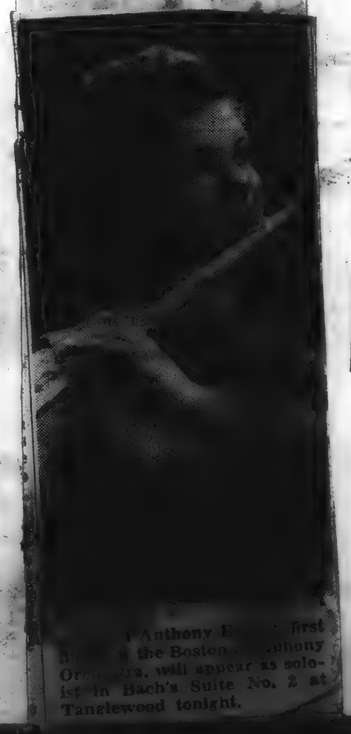
Munch to Conduct

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a [illegible] orchestra of symphony players in an all-Bach program. Soloists will be the pianists Seymour Lipkin and Lukas Foss. The program will open with the Suite No. 3 and the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 with Lukas Foss performing the piano solo. Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the orchestra, will be soloist in the Suite No. 2, and the program will close with the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor with Seymour Lipkin and Lukas Foss, soloists.

Both Lipkin and Foss have been closely associated with Tanglewood for many years, having been both students and members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center and appearing at a number of Berkshire Festival concerts. Foss' opera "Griffelkin" was the principal production of the Berkshire Music Center's opera department last season. This summer Foss visits Tanglewood only for this concert and will devote the rest of his summer to composition. Lipkin is on the faculty of the conducting department, assisting Eleazar de Carvalho. Mrs. Dwyer has been principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1952, and has appeared several times as soloist at the "Bach-Mozart" concerts at Tanglewood as well as with the orchestra in Boston [illegible] tour.

The [illegible] concerts of the "Bach-Mozart" series will be given during the first two week ends of the festival, the remaining concerts of the present week end (Saturday, July 6, and Sunday, July 7) devoted to the music of Bach, and the second week end (July 12-13-14) to the music of Mozart. Charles Munch will conduct all six of the concerts. In response to the increased interest in these concerts, two will be given for the first time in the 6000 seat Music Shed instead of the Theater-Concert Hall seating 1200. The Bach concert Sunday afternoon will be devoted to the second part of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. The soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses, with the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth conductor. At the concert of Saturday evening, July 13, Dr. Munch will conduct three great symphonies of Mozart—in E flat, G minor, and C major ("Jupiter"). Tickets are available for these two shed concerts at the Tanglewood box office.

Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,566
JUL 5 1957



Doriot Anthony Dwyer, first flutist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will appear as soloist in Bach's Suite No. 2 at Tanglewood tonight.

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION
JUNE 29, 1957

Tanglewood Music Center Opens Sunday

Lenox, June 28.—The season at Tanglewood is ready to roll.

The Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music, opens its 15th annual session on Sunday when students from 35 states and 18 foreign countries are welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and director of the school.

The box office personnel has moved into Tanglewood, and is filling reservation requests by mail and telephone for the 20th season of the Music Festival, which begins July 3 at 8:30 p. m. with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet in the Theater-Concert Hall. Beethoven's string quartet Op. 18, No. 2, and Ravel's string quartet in F major will be played.

Thereafter, concerts will be given on each Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 5, 6, 7, all-Bach programs will be given, including the six Brandenburg Concertos and, on Sunday, July 7, the St. Matthew Passion with Adele Addison as one of the soloists.

The second week's programs will be chamber music on Wednesday, July 10, including Hindemith and Schubert piano duets and Brahms' Liebeslieder Waltzes; and all-Mozart concerts on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 14.

[82]

Post
WALLINGFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 3,408
JUL 2 1957

SEYMOUR LIPKIN, pianist, will be soloist with pianist Lukas Foss at the Berkshire Festival concert of Friday evening, July 5, in a performance of Bach's Concerto for two pianos in C minor, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theatre - Concert Hall. Charles Munch directs the Boston Symphony Orchestra in an all-Bach program.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News
WEST HARTFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000
JUN 27 1957

(Daily see above)

WEDNESDAY, JULY 3

Music. Opening of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood. 8:30 p.m. Chamber Music Concert, featuring Paganini Quartet. Tickets $3, $2. For full season schedule or for tickets, write or phone Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Phone Lenox 600.

Carillon Concert. Trinity College, 7:15 p.m. Free to public.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ.. 28,235
JUL 6 1957

Berkshire Week in Review

The Curtain Is Up

POPPING OPEN, one after another, like so many Chines firecrackers, the county's tourist attractions started off with a bang this week on what promises to be the busiest season yet. Advance sales and informal pollings indicated that opening of the cross-state turnpike and stepped-up recreational promotion were having a bullish effect on the tourist trade.

From Tanglewood, kingpin of the summer recreation economy, car encouraging reports of increas— bookings this year, especially fro— the eastern half of the state. The big musical complex on the Lenox-Stockbridge line got under way Sunday with the private opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center and launched its six weeks of public concerts Wednesday night with a Paganini String Quartet program that was a pronounced box-office and critical success.

Similarly optimistic evaluations came from the three summer theaters in the area, with the Williamstown Theater going so far as to foresee a "terrific year." The crowds at this week's openings of Jacob's Pillow in Becket and the jazz concerts at Lenox's Music Barn were an augury of even better things to come as the season progresses. Summer camp directors, too—though pointing out that school overcrowding is not paralleled in camps, primarily for economic reasons—said business was bustling in the backwoods.

Altogether, the outlook was rosy for the thousands of Berkshire folk who enjoy the county's summer entertainment and are directly or indirectly dependent on the tourist business. With good weather, it was felt, this week's spectacular firecracker-like openings could be extended into a summer-long boom lasting at least until Labor Day.

Selectmen Name Special Policemen For Tanglewood Duty

STOCKBRIDGE—The Selectmen last night appointed three special police officers for duty on the Tanglewood grounds and another for traffic duty during the Festival season.

Herbert Tenney, George W. Schneyer and Cornelius J. Obanhein were appointed for duty on the grounds. Charles E. Tenney was appointed for traffic duty.

The board issued the Boston Symphony Orchestra a permit to operate a cafeteria at Tanglewood.

Edward J. Johnston was issued a permit to erect a milk house at his property on Hill Road. John Edwards was issued a permit to sell soft drinks at his Gulf Service Station on South Street.

Guest house permits were issued to Mrs. James H. Dietrich of Main Street; Mrs. Robert K. Vincent, Church Street; Mrs. Emil Burling, Goodrich Street; Mrs. Bartlett A. Pitney Sr., Shamrock Street, and Richard Wells, East Main Street.

JOHN ... turns to Tanglewood as one of the soloists in a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, in the Music Shed at Tanglewood on Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30 p.m. Other soloists are Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, Donald Gramm and James Joyce. Charles Munch directs the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society.

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 194,784
JUL 6 1957

Bach Works at the Berkshire Festival

The second Chamber Orchestra concert in the 1957 Berkshire Festival will be held tonight in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., at 8:30 p.m. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct members of the Orchestra in a concert of Brandenburg Concertos by Bach.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music Shed at 2:30.

Berkshire Festival Starts This Week Until August 11th

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, bases. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Gazette
EAST HARTFORD
Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 4,725
JUL 3 1957

Goings On

FRIDAY, JULY 5

Play. Champagne Complex, comedy at Oval in the Grove, Route 4, Farmington. With Barbara Hart, Bill Brown, Dennis Hardcastle. Directed by William McCurdy. 8:40 p.m. through July 13 each night except Sunday. Tickets $2, Mon.-Thurs.; $2.20, Fri.-Sat. Phone OR 7-9119.

Play. Oklahoma! at Oakdale Musical Theater, Wallingford. Mon.-Fri., 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 5 p.m., 9:30 p.m. Tickets $3.60 to $1.80 Mon.-Fri.; $4.20 to $1.80, Sat. night; $3 to $1.80 and 60c children Sat. matinee. Phone JA 2-2111.

Music. Berkshire Festival (Tanglewood). All Bach program. Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, other works. Charles Munch and Boston Symphony, 8:30 p.m. Tickets $5, $4, or $12, $10 for series of Fri. Sat. Sun. performances.

Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
JUL 5 1957

The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, under the direction of conductor G. Wallace Woodworth will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Centre, at the Theatre-Concert Hall, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30 o'clock. Included on the program are works by Palestrina, madrigals by Weelkes and Beveridge, as well as compositions by Byrd, Arne and Randall Thompson. On Sunday afternoon, the groups will be heard in Bach's St Matthew Passion, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Charles Munch, in the Music Shed.

Holiday Weekend Best Ever

LENOX — Resort and hotel owners here concur that the July 4th weekend business has exceeded the holiday business of previous years.

George A. Turain, owner-manager of the Curtis Hotel, summed it up for the innkeepers when he said it was the best holiday weekend he has seen in his nine years in business in Lenox.

The Massachusetts Turnpike got credit from Mr. Turain for bringing a fair amount of business from the Springfield, Worcester and Boston areas.

"A lot of people from Worcester and Springfield came in to use our pool and dining facilities and then returned home on the Turnpike," Mr. Turain said.

Henry de B. Mendes, proprietor of Blantyre, also claimed a high proportion of Eastern Massachusetts business.

Reporting full houses over the four-day period were Festival House and Avaloch, both of which claimed the best business in many years. Eastover reported a full house of 480 guests, with many reservations turned down for lack of space. During the festival season, Eastover is limited in the number of private homes to which guests can be "farmed out." The home owners are accepting guests independently.

The Kiwanis information booth at the Community Center reported renting about 150 rooms, with the majority of guests coming from the New York City area. "This was way ahead of last year's holiday," Mrs. John M. O'Brien, attendant at the booth, said.

Another factor bringing more people to the Berkshires is the New York Thruway. Mr. Turain said the Curtis had a large number of guests from the Buffalo, N.Y., area.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 5 1957

Social Briefs

Here for the Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Judd of Cannonsville, N.Y., who are staying with Mr. Judd's son, William M. Judd, at his summer home in Glendale. George Judd is retired manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

BSO Percussionist Teaching at Camp

Charles Smith, percussionist of the orchestra, will head the percussion department of the Ted Mack Camp in Great Barrington this summer. Mr. Smith teaches percussion at Boston University and at the New England Conservatory of Music.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival opens the week of July 3 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet, Wednesday, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theatre-Concert Hall. Making its first appearance at Tanglewood, the quartet will present a program which includes Beethoven's Quartet Opus 18 No. 2 and Ravel's String Quartet in F Major. On Friday and Saturday evenings in the concert hall, Charles Munch will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the music of Bach, which will include the Brandenberg concertos. Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St Matthew Passion, with the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society singing the choruses. Adele Addison will be soprano soloist.

HERALD-TR
6/27/57

Tanglewood Box Office Is Opened

The box office at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., has opened for the twenty-four Berkshire Festival concerts to be given there by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Tickets at $5 and general admission tickets at $2 are available for the six chamber orchestra programs in the Theater-Concert Hall on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, July 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14. Tickets at $4 are also available for the concerts of July 7 and 13.

Tickets for the twelve concerts by the full orchestra in the Music Shed on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons from July 19 to Aug. 11 range from $2.50 to $6.50; those for the six Wednesday night chamber music concerts, beginning July 3, cost $2 and $3.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 8 - 1957

Notes and Footnotes

. . . During concert last week, Boston Orchestra Director Charles Munch moved back while a soloist performed, and sat on piano, causing Albany Times Union columnist Edgar S. Van Olinda to observe, "He did a Helen Morgan." . . . Former

NEW YORK, N. Y.
World-Telegram & Sun
Circ. D. 518,809 - S. 172,502
JUN 15 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven, and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" July 19 and "Sacre du Printemps" July 20.

[82]

Post
WALLINGFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 3,408
JUL 2 1957

SEYMOUR LIPKIN, pianist, will be soloist with pianist Lukas Foss at the Berkshire Festival concert of Friday evening, July 5, in a performance of Bach's Concerto for two pianos in C minor, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theatre - Concert Hall. Charles Munch directs the Boston Symphony Orchestra in an all-Bach program.

JOHN ... turns to Tanglewood as on of the soloists in a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, in the Music Shed at Tanglewood on Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30 p.m. Other soloists are Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, Donald Gramm and James Joyce. Charles Munch directs the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News
WEST HARTFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000
JUN 27 1957

Traveler (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 194,784
JUL 6 1957

Berkshire Festival Starts This Week Until August 11th

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, bases. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Gazette
EAST HARTFORD
Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 4,725
JUL 3 1957

Goings On

FRIDAY, JULY 5

Play. Champagne Complex, comedy at Oval in the Grove, Route 4, Farmington. With Barbara Hart, Bill Brown, Dennis Hardcastle. Directed by William McCurdy. 8:40 p.m. through July 13 each night except Sunday. Tickets $2, Mon.-Thurs.; $2.20, Fri.-Sat. Phone OR 7-9119.

Play. Oklahoma! at Oakdale Musical Theater, Wallingford. Mon.-Fri., 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 5 p.m., 9:30 p.m. Tickets $3.60 to $1.80 Mon.-Fri.; $4.20 to $1.80, Sat. night; $3 to $1.80 and 60c children Sat. matinee. Phone JA 2-2111.

Music. Berkshire Festival (Tanglewood). All Bach program. Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, other works. Charles Munch and Boston Symphony, 8:30 p.m. Tickets $5, $4, or $12, $10 for series of Fri. Sat. Sun. performances.

Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
JUL 5 1957

The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, under the direction of conductor G. Wallace Woodworth will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Centre, at the Theatre-Concert Hall, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30 o'clock. Included on the program are works by Palestrina, madrigals by Weelkes and Beveridge, as well as compositions by Byrd, Arne and Randall Thompson. On Sunday afternoon, the groups will be heard in Bach's St Matthew Passion, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Charles Munch, in the Music Shed.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival opens the week of July 3 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet, Wednesday, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theatre-Concert Hall. Making its first appearance at Tanglewood, the quartet will present a program which includes Beethoven's Quartet Opus 18 No. 2 and Ravel's String Quartet in F Major. On Friday and Saturday evenings in the concert hall, Charles Munch will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the music of Bach, which will include the Brandenberg concertos. Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St Matthew Passion, with the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society singing the choruses. Adele Addison will be soprano soloist.

HERALD-T...
6/27/57

Tanglewood Box Office Is Opened

The box office at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., has opened for the twenty-four Berkshire Festival concerts to be given there by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Tickets at $5 and general admission tickets at $2 are available for the six chamber orchestra programs in the Theater-Concert Hall on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, July 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14. Tickets at $4 are also available for the concerts of July 7 and 13.

Tickets for the twelve concerts by the full orchestra in the Music Shed on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons from July 19 to Aug. 11 range from $2.50 to $6.50; those for the six Wednesday night chamber music concerts, beginning July 3, cost $2 and $3.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 3

Music. Opening of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, 8:30 p.m. Chamber Music Concert, featuring Paganini Quartet. Tickets $3, $2. For full season schedule or for tickets, write or phone Festival Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Phone Lenox 600.

Carillon Concert. Trinity College, 7:15 p.m. Free to public.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 6 1957

Bach Works at the Berkshire Festival

The second Chamber Orchestra concert in the 1957 Berkshire Festival will be held tonight in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., at 8:30 p.m. Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct members of the Orchestra in a concert of Brandenburg Concertos by Bach.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music Shed at 2:30.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUN 8 - 1957

Notes and Footnotes

... During concert last week, Boston Orchestra Director Charles Munch moved back while a soloist performed, and sat on piano, causing Albany Times Union columnist Edgar S. Van Olinda to observe, "He did a Helen Morgan." . . . Former WPRO ...

Berkshire Week in Review

The Curtain Is Up

POPPING OPEN, one after another, like so many Chinese firecrackers, the county's tourist attractions started off with a bang this week on what promises to be their busiest season yet. Advance sales and informal pollings indicated that opening of the cross-state turnpike and stepped-up recreational promotion were having a bullish effect on the tourist trade.

From Tanglewood, kingpin of the summer recreation economy, came encouraging reports of increased bookings this year, especially from the eastern half of the state. The big musical complex on the Lenox-Stockbridge line got under way Sunday with the private opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center and launched its six weeks of public concerts Wednesday night with a Paganini String Quartet program that was a pronounced box-office and critical success.

Similarly optimistic evaluations came from the three summer theaters in the area, with the Williamstown Theater going so far as to foresee a "terrific year." The crowds at this week's openings of Jacob's Pillow in Becket and the jazz concerts at Lenox's Music Barn were an augury of even better things to come as the season progresses. Summer camp directors, too—though pointing out that school overcrowding is not paralleled in camps, primarily for economic reasons—said business was bustling in the backwoods.

Altogether, the outlook was rosy for the thousands of Berkshire folk who enjoy the county's summer entertainment and are directly or indirectly dependent on the tourist business. With good weather, it was felt, this week's spectacular firecracker-like openings could be extended into a summer-long boom lasting at least until Labor Day.

The Berkshire Eagle, Tuesday, 1957

Selectmen Name Special Policemen For Tanglewood Duty

STOCKBRIDGE—The Selectmen last night appointed three special police officers for duty on the Tanglewood grounds and another for traffic duty during the Festival season.

Herbert Tenney, George W. Schneyer and Cornelius J. Obanhein were appointed for duty on the grounds. Chester D. Tenney was appointed for traffic duty.

The board issued the Boston Symphony Orchestra a permit to operate a cafeteria at Tanglewood.

Edward J. Johnston was issued a permit to erect a milk house at his property on Hill Road. John Edwards was issued a permit to sell soft drinks at his Gulf Service Station on South Street.

Guest house permits were issued to Mrs. James Dietrich of Main Street; Mrs. Robert K. Vincent, Church Street; Mrs. Emil Burling, Goodrich Street; Mrs. Bartlett A. Pitney Sr., Shamrock Street, and Richard Wells, East Main Street.

The Berkshire Eagle, Monday, July 8, 1957—21

Holiday Weekend Best Ever

LENOX — Resort and hotel owners here concur that the July 4th weekend business has exceeded the holiday business of previous years.

George A. Turain, owner-manager of the Curtis Hotel, summed it up for the innkeepers when he said it was the best holiday weekend he has seen in his nine years of business in Lenox.

The Massachusetts Turnpike got credit from Mr. Turain for bringing a fair amount of business from the Springfield, Worcester and Boston areas.

"A lot of people from Worcester and Springfield came in to use our pool and dining facilities and then returned home on the Turnpike," Mr. Turain said.

Henry de S. Mendes, proprietor of Blantyre, also claimed a high proportion of Eastern Massachusetts business.

Reporting full houses over the four-day period were Festival House and Avaloch, both of which claimed the best business in many years. Eastover reported a full house of 480 guests, with many reservations turned down for lack of space. During the festival season, Eastover is limited in the number of private homes to which guests can be "farmed out." The home owners are accepting guests independently.

The Kiwanis information booth at the Community Center reported renting about 150 rooms, with the majority of guests coming from the New York City area. "This was way ahead of last year's holiday," Mrs. John M. O'Brien, attendant at the booth, said.

Another factor bringing more people to the Berkshires is the New York Thruway. Mr. Turain said the Curtis had a large number of guests from the Buffalo, N.Y., area.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 5 1957

Social Briefs

Here for the Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Judd of Cannonsville, N.Y., who are staying with Mr. Judd's son, William M. Judd, at his summer home in Glendale. George Judd is retired manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The Berkshire Eagle, Tuesday, The Be...

BSO Percussionist Teaching at Camp

Charles Smith, percussionist of the orchestra, will head the percussion department of the Ted Mack Camp in Great Barrington this summer. Mr. Smith teaches percussion at Boston University and at the New England Conservatory of Music.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
World-Telegram & Sun
Circ. D. 518,809 - S. 172,502
JUN 15 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" July 21, "Jeu de Cartes" July 19 and "Sacre du Printemps" July 20.

TIGHT BINDING

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
JUL 3 1957

Tanglewood Opens 1957 Season Tonight

Paganini String Quartet Will Make Berkshire Debut

Friday and Saturday Evening Concerts Will Feature Music of Bach By Chamber Orchestra of Boston Symphony With Charles Munch Conducting.

The twentieth season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, of which Charles Munich is music director, will open this week at Tanglewood in Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from today to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet this evening at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2, and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first weekend of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season. The two choruses appeared first at the Berkshire Festival in 1954 in a performance of "The Damnation of Faust" and again in 1955 in Bach's B Minor Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUL 3 1957

Festival Opens 20th Year; Paganini Quartet in Debut

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open tonight with the first appearance at Tanglewood of the Paganini String Quartet in the Theater-Concert Hall.

Beethoven Quartet

The Quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; the String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentinian composer, Alberto Ginastera, a former student at the Berkshire Music Center; and will close the program with Ravel's Quartet in F minor. Members of the Paganini Quartet are: Henri Teminaka, Violin; Gustave Rosseels, Violin; Charles Foidart, Viola; Lucien Laporte, Cello.

The net proceeds of the concerts benefit the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. The amounts received for this Scholarship Fund are doubled by the Rockefeller Foundation under a five-year grant, now in its third year, to the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school of music, maintained in conjunction with the Berkshire Festival.

The Paganini String Quartet was founded in 1946 and gave a series of concerts at the Library of Congress in Washington that year, followed by a New York debut, and hundreds of appearances in the major cities of Europe, Canada and the United States. The Quartet play on four famous instruments, all Stradivari, which once belonged to Paganini. These "Paganini" instruments were reassembled after a century of dispersal following the death of the great violinist.

Other Artists

Other artists to appear in the series of Wednesday evening concerts include Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith, followed by a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes with Saramae Endich, Florence Koploff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm, and Messr. Lipkin and Berkowitz on July 10; the Beaux Arts Trio on July 17; the Kroll String Quartet on July 24; a Song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone and Ralph Berkowitz, piano, July 31; and the Zimbler Sinfonietta, Aug. 7.

Friday evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the opening weekend of Berkshire Festival concerts devoted entirely to the music of Bach. The concert of Sunday afternoon, a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, with chorus and soloists, will be in the Music Shed.

Remaining tickets for tonight's concert and for the concert of Sunday, July 7 are available at the box office at Tanglewood. General admission, entitling holders to hear the concert from the lawn outside the theater, are sold a few hours before each performance.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUL 3 1957

Berkshire Music Starts Tonight With Quartet

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open tonight with the first appearance at Tanglewood of the Paganini String Quartet in the Theatre-Concert hall.

The quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; the String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentinian composer, Alberto Ginastera (a former student at the Berkshire Music Center); and will close the program with Ravel's Quartet in F minor. Members of the Paganini Quartet are: Henri Teminaka, violin; Gustave Rosseels, violin; Charles Foidart, viola; Lucien Laporte, cello.

Other artists to appear in the series of Wednesday evening concerts include Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith, followed by a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes with Saramae Endich, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. and Messrs. Lipkin and Berkowitz (July 10); The Beaux Arts Trio (July 17); The Kroll String Quaret (July 24); a Song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone and Ralph Berkowitz, piano (July 31); and the Zimbler Sinfonietta (August 7).

On Friday evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the opening weekend of Berkshire Festival concerts devoted entirely to the music of Bach. The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, with chorus and soloists, will be in the music shed.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 3 1957

Concert Tonight

Paganini String Quartet To Make Tanglewood Debut

TANGLEWOOD—The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival will open tonight with the first appearance at Tanglewood of the Paganini String Quartet in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

The Quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; the String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentinian composer, Alberto Ginastera (a former student at the Berkshire Music Center); and will close the program with Ravel's Quartet in F minor. Members of the Paganini Quartet are: Henri Teminaka, violin; Gustave Rosseels, violin; Charles Foidart, viola; Lucien Laporte, cello.

The net proceeds of the chamber music concerts benefit the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. The amounts received for this Scholarship Fund are doubled by the Rockefeller Foundation under a five-year grant, now in its third year, to the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school of music, maintained in conjunction with the Berkshire Festival.

Founded in 1946

The Paganini String Quartet was founded in 1946. The Quartet play on four famous instruments, all Stradivari, which once belonged to Paganini. These "Paganini" instruments were reassembled after a century of dispersal following the death of the great violinist.

Other artists to appear in the series of Wednesday evening concerts include Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith and a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes with Saramae Endich, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm, and Messrs. Lipkin and Berkowitz on July 10; the Beaux Arts Trio on July 17; the Kroll String Quartet on July 24; a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone and Ralph Berkowitz, piano, on July 31 and the Zimbler Sinfonietta on August 7.

On Friday evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the opening weekend of Berkshire Festival concerts devoted entirely to the music of Bach. The Sunday concert, a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, with chorus and soloists, will be in the Music Shed.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUL 6 1957

Tanglewood's First Chamber Concert Attended by 2,755

The first chamber orchestra concert of the 1957 Berkshire Music Festival was held at the theater-concert hall at Tanglewood last night, with 2,755 persons attending.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, led the reduced orchestra in a program of music by Bach. The program opened with his "Suite No. 3 in D Major for Orchestra." Also heard were the "Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D Major," the "Concerto in C Minor for two pianos, No. 1," and the "Suite No. 2 in B Minor."

Soloists included pianist Lucas Foss, Doriot Anthony Dwyer, first flutist of the orchestra, and concert master Richard Burgin.

The second chamber orchestra concert will be given at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the theater-concert hall. Dr. Munch will conduct members of the orchestra in a concert of Bach's Brandenburg Concertos.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music shed at 2:30 o'clock. The increased capacity there will allow a larger number of persons to attend the program, which will be devoted to the "St. Matthew Passion." In addition to vocal soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, Donald Gramm and James Joyce, the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society will be heard.

PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
C. 206,408 - S. 279,780
JUN 10 1957

VACATIONISTS who enjoy Beethoven, Ginastera, and assortment of the Arts, Colo., will provide opera, Ravel.

Members of the Paganini music and orchestral Quartet, who performed on the renowned Berkshire set of Stradivarius instruments., Tanglewood, Mass., included Henri Temianka, violin; by Jacob's Pillow Fes- Gustave Fosseels, violin; Charles Lee will respectively Foidart, viola, and Lucien La- music and dance. porte, cello.

has a Summer Arts Festival of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet and art exhibits. Central City, Colo., lists an Opera Fiesta.

Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
JUN 28 1957

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival opens the week of July 3 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet, Wednesday, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theatre-Concert Hall. Making its first appearance at Tanglewood, the quartet will present a program which includes Beethoven's Quartet Opus 18 No. 2 and Ravel's String Quartet in F Major. On Friday and Saturday evenings in the concert hall, Charles Munch will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the music of Bach, which will include the Brandenberg concertos. Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St Matthew Passion, with the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society singing the choruses. Adele Addison will be soprano soloist.

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION
SSU JULY 3, 1957 ...AS
NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE
...S. 528,253
JUL 5 1957

Paganini String ...ches ...tival

...n season ...stival at aganini Quartet Concert pens Tanglewood Season

...d to the Herald Tribune
...X, Mass., July 4.—The ...kshire Festival season ...ast night with a con- ...hamber music by the ...d Quartet in the theater- ...ital: Tanglewood. The ...ssage the hall, and ...on the lawn outside

(Flute solo: Doriot Anthony Dwyer)
...Concerto in C minor for two ...pianos, No. 1
(Soloists: Lukas Foss, Seymour Lipkin)
Saturday, July 6 8:30 p. m., in the Theater-Concert Hall:
BACH Brandenburg Concerto No. 1, in F major
Brandenburg Concerto No. 2, in F major, for trumpet, flute, oboe, violin, and strings (Trumpet, Roger Voisin; flute,

Paganini Quartet in Debut At Tanglewood Wednesday

6/29
Berkshire Eagle

TANGLEWOOD — The Paganini String Quartet launches the Berkshire Festival season Wednesday evening with a program of Beethoven and Ravel at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. This will be the quartet's first appearance at Tanglewood.

Concerts Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall will be devoted to the music of Bach. Director Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players. Friday soloists will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 and, with Seymour Lipkin, will also play the concerto for two pianos in C minor. Both men are on the Berkshire Music Center faculty.

Friday's program also will include Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. Saturday's concert will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4. Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30 the season's first performance in the Shed will be given over to Part 2 of the "St. Matthew Passion." Soloists will be Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm and James Joyce. Choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth conducting.

Tomorrow the 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center will open with exercises in the Theater-Concert Hall at 3:30 p.m., followed by tea in the garden.

New guest conductor at Tanglewood this year for the first time will be Carl Schuricht, to lead the Boston Symphony Friday, Aug. 2, and Saturday, Aug. 10. Mr. Schuricht is known widely throughout Europe where he has conducted for many years. He also has been conductor at several European festivals and has made many recordings.

TIGHT BINDING

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
JUL 3 1957

Tanglewood Opens 1957 Season Tonight

Paganini String Quartet Will Make Berkshire Debut

Friday and Saturday Evening Concerts Will Feature Music of Bach By Chamber Orchestra of Boston Symphony With Charles Munch Conducting.

The twentieth season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, of which Charles Munch is music director, will open this week at Tanglewood in Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from today to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet this evening at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2, and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first weekend of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season. The two choruses appeared first at the Berkshire Festival in 1954 in a performance of "The Damnation of Faust" and again in 1955 in Bach's B Minor Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUL 3 1957

Festival Opens 20th Year; Paganini Quartet in Debut

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open tonight with the first appearance at Tanglewood of the Paganini String Quartet in the Theater-Concert Hall.

Beethoven Quartet

The Quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; the String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentinian composer, Alberto Ginastera, a former student at the Berkshire Music Center; and will close the program with Ravel's Quartet in F minor. Members of the Paganini Quartet are: Henri Teminaka, Violin; Gustave Rosseels, Violin; Charles Foidart Viola; Lucien Laporte, Cello.

The net proceeds of the concerts benefit the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. The amounts received for this Scholarship Fund are doubled by the Rockefeller Foundation under a five-year grant, now in its third year, to the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school of music, maintained in conjunction with the Berkshire Festival.

The Paganini String Quartet was founded in 1946 and gave a series of concerts at the Library of Congress in Washington that year, followed by a New York debut, and hundreds of appearances in the major cities of Europe, Canada and the United States. The Quartet play on four famous instruments, all Stradivari, which once belonged to Paganini. These "Paganini" instruments were reassembled after a century of dispersal following the death of the great violinist.

Other Artists

Other artists to appear in the series of Wednesday evening concerts include Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith, followed by a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes with Saramae Endich, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm, and Messr. Lipkin and Berkowitz on July 10; the Beaux Arts Trio on July 17; the Kroll String Quartet on July 24; a Song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone and Ralph Berkowitz, piano, July 31; and the Zimbler Sinfonietta, Aug. 7.

Friday evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the opening weekend of Berkshire Festival concerts devoted entirely to the music of Bach. The concert of Sunday afternoon, a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, with chorus and soloists, will be in the Music Shed.

Remaining tickets for tonight's concert and for the concert of Sunday, July 7 are available at the box office at Tanglewood. General admission, entitling holders to hear the concert from the lawn outside the theater, are sold a few hours before each performance.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUL 3 1957

Berkshire Music Starts Tonight With Quartet

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open tonight with the first appearance at Tanglewood of the Paganini String Quartet in the Theatre-Concert hall.

The quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; the String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentinian composer, Alberto Ginastera (a former student at the Berkshire Music Center); and will close the program with Ravel's Quartet in F minor. Members of the Paganini Quartet are: Henri Teminaka, violin; Gustave Rosseels, violin; Charles Foidart, viola; Lucien Laporte, cello.

Other artists to appear in the series of Wednesday evening concerts include Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith, followed by a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes with Saramae Endich, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm, and Messrs. Lipkin and Berkowitz (July 10); The Beaux Arts Trio (July 17); The Kroll String Quaret (July 24); a Song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone and Ralph Berkowitz, piano (July 31); and the Zimbler Sinfonietta (August 7).

On Friday evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, will conduct a chamber or chestra of Boston Symphony players in the opening weekend of Berkshire Festival concerts devoted entirely to the music of Bach. The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, with chorus and soloists, will be in the music shed.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 3 1957

Concert Tonight

Paganini String Quartet To Make Tanglewood Debut

TANGLEWOOD—The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival will open tonight with the first appearance at Tanglewood of the Paganini String Quartet in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

The Quartet will perform the Beethoven Quartet Op. 18, No. 2; the String Quartet No. 1 by the Argentinian composer, Alberto Ginastera (a former student at the Berkshire Music Center); and will close the program with Ravel's Quartet in F minor. Members of the Paganini Quartet are: Henri Teminaka, violin; Gustave Rosseels, violin; Charles Foidart, viola; Lucien Laporte, cello.

The net proceeds of the chamber music concerts benefit the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. The amounts received for this Scholarship Fund are doubled by the Rockefeller Foundation under a five-year grant, now in its third year, to the Boston Symphony Orchestra's summer school of music, maintained in conjunction with the Berkshire Festival.

Founded in 1946

The Paganini String Quartet was founded in 1946. The Quartet play on four famous instruments, all Stradivari, which once belonged to Paganini. These "Paganini" instruments were reassembled after a century of dispersal following the death of the great violinist.

Other artists to appear in the series of Wednesday evening concerts include Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in piano duets by Schubert and Hindemith and a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes with Saramae Endich, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm, and Messrs. Lipkin and Berkowitz on July 10; the Beaux Arts Trio on July 17; the Kroll String Quartet on July 24; a song recital by Gerard Souzay, baritone and Ralph Berkowitz, piano, on July 31 and the Zimbler Sinfonietta on August 7.

On Friday evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon, Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the opening weekend of Berkshire Festival concerts devoted entirely to the music of Bach. The Sunday concert, a performance of Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, with chorus and soloists, will be in the Music Shed.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUL 6 1957

anglewood's First Chamber Concert Attended by 2,755

The first chamber orchestra concert of the 1957 Berkshire Music Festival was held at the theater-concert hall at Tanglewood last night, with 2,755 persons attending.

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony, led the reduced orchestra in a program of music by Bach. The program opened with his "Suite No. 3 in D Major for Orchestra." Also heard were the "Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D Major," the "Concerto in C Minor for two pianos, No. 1," and the "Suite No. 2 in B Minor."

Soloists included pianist Lucas Foss, Doriot Anthony Dwyer, first flutist of the orchestra, and concert master Richard Burgin.

The second chamber orchestra concert will be given at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the theater-concert hall. Dr. Munch will conduct members of the orchestra in a concert of Bach's Brandenburg Concertos.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the music shed at 2:30 o'clock. The increased capacity there will allow a larger number of persons to attend the program, which will be devoted to the "St. Matthew Passion." In addition to vocal soloists Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, Donald Gramm and James Joyce, the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society will be heard.

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION
SSII JULY 3, 1957 LAS

Paganini String Quartet Launches Music Festival

Lenox, July 3 The 20th season the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, launched tonight by a program by the Paganini String Quartet, continues this week end with three concerts by the festival chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players conducte by Charles Munch.

The programs will be as fo- lows:

Friday, July 5 at 8:30 p. m. in the Theater-Concert Hall:

BACH Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D major, for orchestra with piano, violin and flute; Lukas Foss, violin; Richard Burgin, flute; Doriot Anthony Dwyer

Suite No. 2 in B minor, for flute and strings (Flute solo: Doriot Anthony Dwyer)

Concerto in C minor for two pianos, No. 1 (Soloists: Lukas Foss, Seymour Lipkin)

Saturday, July 6 8:30 p. m., in the Theater-Concert Hall:

BACH Brandenburg Concerto No. 1, in F major

Brandenburg Concerto No. 2, in F major, for trumpet, flute, oboe, violin, and strings (Trumpet, Roger Voisin; flute,

PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York
CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. 206,408 - S. 279,780
JUN 10 1957

FOR VACATIONISTS who like an assortment of the Arts, Aspen, Colo., will provide opera, chamber music and orchestral music; the renowned Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Mass., and nearby Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee will respectively provide music and dance.

Boston has a Summer Arts Festival of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet and art exhibits. Central City, Colo., lists an Opera Fiesta.

Bee
NEWTOWN, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,047
JUN 28 1957

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival opens the week of July 3 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet, Wednesday, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theatre-Concert Hall. Making its first appearance at Tanglewood, the quartet will present a program which includes Beethoven's Quartet Opus 18 No. 2 and Ravel's String Quartet in F Major. On Friday and Saturday evenings in the concert hall, Charles Munch will conduct a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players in the music of Bach, which will include the Brandenberg concertos. Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, the concert will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St Matthew Passion, with the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society singing the choruses. Adele Addison will be soprano soloist.

Paganini Quartet in Debut At Tanglewood Wednesday

TANGLEWOOD — The Paganini String Quartet launches the Berkshire Festival season Wednesday evening with a program of Beethoven and Ravel at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. This will be the quartet's first appearance at Tanglewood.

Concerts Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall will be devoted to the music of Bach. Director Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony players. Friday soloists will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 and, with Seymour Lipkin, will also play the concerto for two pianos in C minor. Both men are on the Berkshire Music Center faculty.

Friday's program also will include Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. Saturday's concert will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4. Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30 the season's first performance in the Shed will be given over to Part 2 of the "St. Matthew Passion." Soloists will be Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum, Donald Gramm and James Joyce. Choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Chorol Society, G. Wallace Woodworth conducting.

Tomorrow the 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center will open with exercises in the Theater-Concert Hall at 3:30 p.m., followed by tea in the garden.

New guest conductor at Tanglewood this year for the first time will be Carl Schuricht, to lead the Boston Symphony Friday, Aug. 2, and Saturday, Aug. 10. Mr. Schuricht is known widely throughout Europe where he has conducted for many years. He also has been conductor at several European festivals and has made many recordings.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 1 1957

[84]

OPENING PITCH of the 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood is delivered by Boston Symphony Orchestra Maestro Charles Munch. Exercises were held yesterday afternoon at the Tanglewood Theater-Concert Hall. The Berkshire Festival, county's major summer attraction, will open its annual six-week stand at Tanglewood Wednesday night.

Music Center Exercises Open Season

By JAY C. ROSENFELD

The new student body of the Berkshire Music Center was welcomed to Tanglewood yesterday afternoon by the school faculty and Charles Munch, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and an invited audience of Friends of the Center, whose president, William J. Cox, presided.

The traditional exercises were held in the Tanglewood theater-concert hall. The brief addresses of welcome and speeches departed from the conventional routine by references of vistas of the future by Aaron Copland, associate director of the school, and references by Mr. Munch to the orchestra's magnificent reception last year in Europe.

Mr. Munch emphasized the function of music in international relations and quoted Goethe's aphorism to the effect that "There is no patriotic art and no patriotic science. Both, like everything high and good, belong to the whole world."

Faculty on Stage

The school faculty was seated on the stage and each one was presented to the students by Ralph Berkowitz, dean of the school. Changes in the various departments include the return to the conducting classes of Eleazar de Carvalho after an absence of several seasons, and the addition of Milton Babbitt of Princeton University to the composition department.

Boris Goldovsky, introduced by Mr. Berkowitz as "Mr. Opera," will devote the last four weeks of his stay in Tanglewood to a new departure in the preparation of stage direction for opera. Ludwig Zirner has been transferred from the opera department to the Tanglewood Study Group. Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra will be assisted in the chamber music department, as in years past, by William Kroll, eminent chamber musician.

Chorus Continues Tradition

The ceremonies in the hall closed with the singing by the new student group of the Randall Thompson "Hallelujah" composed in 1940 for the Berkshire Music Center's initial year and which Hugh Ross, head of the choral department, again conducted as he has for the school's 14 seasons.

Banner Summer Seen For Berkshire Area

On the basis of reports from a cross-section of elements in the Berkshire County vacation-travel business, a banner 1957 summer season was predicted today by John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference.

He said that despite complaints from North Berkshire that the new cross-state thruway has stolen traffic from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail area, indications are that the thruway and an already expanded promotional program will bring enough fresh travelers to more than balance the scales.

Although no exact figures are available yet, Mr. Downing said box office representatives at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Music Barn and the two summer theaters report advance sales up this year.

Festival Opens Wednesday

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open its annual six-week stand in Lenox Wednesday and, as usual, will be the area's major summer attraction. Mr. Downing said that even a couple of North Berkshire motel operators report solid bookings for the Tanglewood weekends. He said Business Manager William Martin of the Williamstown Theater predicts a "terrific year."

The Berkshire Hills Conference executive said both Tanglewood and Berkshire Playhouse officials say the effect of the new thruway is especially evident through increased advanced bookings from the Springfield-Worcester-Boston area.

Mr. Downing said scattered reports from hotels, motels and inns lead him to believe that at least some of those short-haul tourists will be staying overnight in the Berkshires.

He said the Red Lion at Stockbridge reports the thruway a big help in June and gives management of the inn reason to look forward to a better-than-average season. The Curtis Hotel in Lenox also is looking for a record year, with help from the thruway.

Inquiries Up 20 Per Cent

Mr. Downing said a 20 per cent increase in inquiries from the conference advertising-promotion program this year is another reason for the bullish forecast for the summer season.

He said the optimistic reports include word from four operators of county resorts—Eastover, Oak 'n Spruce, Avaloch, Jug End—that they expect capacity houses all summer. Capacity at such places as Eastover means that a good portion of the rooms available in private homes in that area will be taken up by the resort overflow.

In the Southern Berkshire region, Mr. Downing said Sheffield's Blue Belton Inn and the Egremont Tavern also are anticipating a peak year.

Taking notice of the recent distress signals from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail Assn., Mr. Downing said the Berkshire Hills Conference is making efforts to try and get the tourist dollar within reach of all facets of the county vacation-travel industry.

"It appears," said Mr. Downing, "that we are going to be successful in getting the tourists here in larger than usual numbers this year for at least one day.

"The job now," he continued, "is to try and get them to stay longer than that one day."

Circle Tours Promoted

Mr. Downing said the conference is making increased use this year of a circle-tour folder designed to get the motorized vacationist to see all of Berkshire County.

The conference executive said such comparatively new attractions as the Williamstown Theater and Music Barn, both in their third seasons, have done a lot for the Berkshire County area as a whole in making it a more desirable vacation spot.

"The more things we have to do here the better everyone will make out," said Mr. Downing.

He suggested that additional attractions in the North Berkshire region might be one answer to the thruway traffic competition.

In addition to Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow and the Williamstown Theater will open this week. Ted Shawn will open the Pillow's silver anniversary season tomorrow evening; the Williamstown Theater curtain will go up Friday. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge tonight opens the second week of its 10-week season, and Music Barn kicked off with Ella Fitzgerald last night.

7-4-57

MILLBROOK ROUND TABLE

Munch Lauds Exchange of Artists Between Nations

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, spoke on Sunday, June 30, at the opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center, the Orchestra's summer school of music at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. In a welcoming address to students and guests, Dr. Munch spoke of the duty of artist-musicians to further cultural exchange between nations and peoples, saying "American orchestras go everywhere and European orchestras come here, surely signifying great progress in the relations of people and in the development of good will and mutual respect." He stressed the experience of the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its European tour last summer covering 12 countries including the Soviet Union, and stated that his recent visit to conduct the Czech Philharmonic in Prague and Brno had strengthened his feeling of the importance of cultural exchanges.

Dr. Munch also spoke of the responsibility of an orchestra to perform contemporary music in addition to familiar classics. He said: "In defending the present, we are preparing the future without neglecting the past."

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,366
JUL 1 1957

TANGLEWOOD'S MUSIC CENTER OPENS SEASON

Dr. Munch Discusses New Festival Program at Exercises

Tanglewood, June 30—Opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, were held here today in the theater concert hall.

Students Present

Students representing 35 states and 18 foreign countries joined with friends of this world renowned center of music to welcome Dr. Charles Munch of the Boston Symphony and his faculty associates. The occasion marked the beginning of the 15th season of the school, originated by the late Serge Koussevitzky.

William J. Cox introduced the internationally famous conductor as the man who "picked the lock of the Iron Curtain with the tip of his baton." He was referring to the triumphant tour of Russia by the orchestra following last year's festival here at Tanglewood.

Just returned from appearances in Prague and Strasbourg festivals, Dr. Munch was refreshingly frank in discussing the festival's proramming of much new music. "Is not this our duty?" he asked. "In defending a nation or such and such a school."

See TANGLEWOOD'S Page Seven

Touching on criticism sometimes aimed at the Boston Symphony for playing so much contemporary music during the course of the festival season, he said, "It is obvious that for both the orchestra and the public it would be easier to play and replay the "Picture at an Exhibition" than to prepare a symphony of David Diamond. What we could be reproached for is that the work we offer is not to be taken seriously or is badly made. But even this is difficult to know. When the "Seventh Symphony" of Beethoven was played for the first time, the public manifested its hostility. We know that after the first performance of "Carmen," Bizet wanted to commit suicide, and that at the first performance of "Le Sacre du Printemps" the police had to intervene.

Difficult to Judge

"Nothing is more difficult than to pass definite judgment on the epoch in which we live. It is history, the future, that takes care of this. It is always the future that knows what is good and what is bad music."

The exercies were closed with the traditional singing of Randall Thompson's "Alleluia," originally written for the dedication ceremonies of the Berkshire Music Center, by the festival chorus under the direction of Hugh Ross.

In the gathering today were Gertrude Robinson Smith who originated the Berkshire symphonic festivals and Mrs. Serge Koussevitzky, wife of the late conductor who started Tanglewood on its way to international fame.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 1 1957

[84]

OPENING PITCH of the 15th season of the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood is delivered by Boston Symphony Orchestra Maestro Charles Munch. Exercises were held yesterday afternoon at the Tanglewood Theater-Concert Hall. The Berkshire Festival, county's major summer attraction, will open its annual six-week stand at Tanglewood Wednesday night.

Music Center Exercises Open Season

By JAY C. ROSENFELD

The new student body of the Berkshire Music Center was welcomed to Tanglewood yesterday afternoon by the school faculty and Charles Munch, director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and an invited audience of Friends of the Center, whose president, William J. Cox, presided.

The traditional exercises were held in the Tanglewood theater-concert hall. The brief addresses of welcome and speeches departed from the conventional routine by references of vistas of the future by Aaron Copland, associate director of the school, and references by Mr. Munch to the orchestra's magnificent reception last year in Europe.

Mr. Munch emphasized the function of music in international relations and quoted Goethe's aphorism to the effect that "There is no patriotic art and no patriotic science. Both, like everything high and good, belong to the whole world."

Faculty on Stage

The school faculty was seated on the stage and each one was presented to the students by Ralph Berkowitz, dean of the school. Changes in the various departments include the return to the conducting classes of Eleazar de Carvalho after an absence of several seasons, and the addition of Milton Babbitt of Princeton University to the composition department.

Boris Goldovsky, introduced by Mr. Berkowitz as "Mr. Opera," will devote the last four weeks of his stay in Tanglewood to a new departure in the preparation of stage direction for opera; Ludwig Zirner has been transferred from the opera department to the Tanglewood Study Group. Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the orchestra will be assisted in the chamber music department, as in years past, by William Kroll, eminent chamber musician.

Chorus Continues Tradition

The ceremonies in the hall closed with the singing by the new student group of the Randall Thompson "Hallelujah" composed in 1940 for the Berkshire Music Center's initial year and which Hugh Ross, head of the choral department, again conducted as he has for the school's 14 seasons.

Banner Summer Seen For Berkshire Area

On the basis of reports from a cross-section of elements in the Berkshire County vacation-travel business, a banner 1957 summer season was predicted today by John F. Downing, executive director of the Berkshire Hills Conference.

He said that despite complaints from North Berkshire that the new cross-state thruway has stolen traffic from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail area, indications are that the thruway and an already expanded promotional program will bring enough fresh travelers to more than balance the scales.

Although no exact figures are available yet, Mr. Downing said box office representatives at Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow, Music Barn and the two summer theaters report advance sales up this year.

Festival Opens Wednesday

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open its annual six-week stand in Lenox Wednesday and, as usual, will be the area's major summer attraction. Mr. Downing said that even a couple of North Berkshire motel operators report solid bookings for the Tanglewood weekends. He said Business Manager William Martin of the Williamstown Theater predicts a "terrific year."

The Berkshire Hills Conference executive said both Tanglewood and Berkshire Playhouse officials say the effect of the new thruway is especially evident through increased advanced bookings from the Springfield-Worcester-Boston area.

Mr. Downing said scattered reports from hotels, motels and inns lead him to believe that at least some of those short-haul tourists will be staying overnight in the Berkshires.

He said the Red Lion at Stockbridge reports the thruway a big help in June and gives management of the inn reason to look forward to a better-than-average season. The Curtis Hotel in Lenox also is looking for a record year, with help from the thruway.

Inquiries Up 20 Per Cent

Mr. Downing said a 20 per cent increase in inquiries from the conference advertising-promotion program this year is another reason for the bullish forecast for the summer season.

He said the optimistic reports include word from four operators of county resorts—Eastover, Oak 'n Spruce, Avaloch, Jug End—that they expect capacity houses all summer. Capacity at such places as Eastover means that a good portion of the rooms available in private homes in that area will be taken up by the resort overflow.

In the Southern Berkshire region, Mr. Downing said Sheffield's Blue Belton Inn and the Egremont Tavern also are anticipating a peak year.

Taking notice of the recent distress signals from the Mohawk-Taconic Trail Assn., Mr. Downing said the Berkshire Hills Conference is making efforts to try and get the tourist dollar within reach of all facets of the county vacation-travel industry.

"It appears," said Mr. Downing, "that we are going to be successful in getting the tourists here in larger than usual numbers this year for at least one day.

"The job now," he continued, "is to try and get them to stay longer than that one day."

Circle Tours Promoted

Mr. Downing said the conference is making increased use this year of a circle-tour folder designed to get the motorized vacationist to see all of Berkshire County.

The conference executive said such comparatively new attractions as the Williamstown Theater and Music Barn, both in their third seasons, have done a lot for the Berkshire County area as a whole in making it a more desirable vacation spot.

"The more things we have to do here the better everyone will make out," said Mr. Downing.

He suggested that additional attractions in the North Berkshire region might be one answer to the thruway traffic competition.

In addition to Tanglewood, Jacob's Pillow and the Williamstown Theater will open this week. Ted Shawn will open the Pillow's silver anniversary season tomorrow evening; the Williamstown Theater curtain will go up Friday. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge tonight opens the second week of its 10-week season, and Music Barn kicked off with Ella Fitzgerald last night.

7-4-57

MILLBROOK ROUND TABLE

Munch Lauds Exchange of Artists Between Nations

Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, spoke on Sunday, June 30, at the opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center, the Orchestra's summer school of music at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. In a welcoming address to students and guests, Dr. Munch spoke of the duty of artist-musicians to further cultural exchange between nations and peoples, saying "American orchestras go everywhere and European orchestras come here, a sure sign signifying great progress in the relations of people and in the development of good will and mutual respect." He stressed the experience of the Boston Symphony Orchestra on its European tour last summer covering 12 countries including the Soviet Union, and stated that his recent visit to conduct the Czech Philharmonic in Prague and Brno had strengthened his feeling of the importance of cultural exchanges.

Dr. Munch also spoke of the responsibility of an orchestra to perform contemporary music in addition to familiar classics. He said: "In defending the present, we are preparing the future without neglecting the past."

Continued From Page 1

"the present, we are preparing the future without neglecting the past."

He said that everywhere the Boston Symphony Orchestra appeared during its triumphal 12-country tour from Ireland to the Soviet Union it found a burning curiosity to know American music. In Moscow the orchestra played an extra concert because the Russian people wanted to hear all the American music that director Munch and the Boston Symphony had with them.

Discussing this year's Berkshire Festival programs, he said "You will see the formula is a little different from that of the past, for each week is dedicated to one of the great masters of the past with a contemporary work on each program in the shed.

"The first week is devoted to Tschaikowsky with three works of Stravinsky, played in honor of his 75th anniversary. The second week is devoted to Berlioz and Hindemith, the third to Brahms with Barber, Piston, and Egk, and the fourth to Beethoven and works of Hanegger, Blacher and Copland," he said.

No Great Importance

"No doubt there is a certain interest in seeing what country, what school, what style these works belong to. But I have always found that this sort of preoccupation had no great importance. No great work that has found an important place in the history of art has done so because of its style alone, or because it belongs to such and such a nation or such and such a school."

Touching on criticism sometimes aimed at the Boston Symphony for playing so much contemporary music during the course of the festival season, he said, "It is obvious that for both the orchestra and the public it would be easier to play and replay the "Picture at an Exhibition" than to prepare a symphony of David Diamond. What we could be reproached for is that the work we offer is not to be taken seriously or is badly made. But even this is difficult to know. When the "Seventh Symphony" of Beethoven was played for the first time, the public manifested its hostility. We know that atfer the first performance of "Carmen," Bizet wanted to commit suicide, and that at the first performance of "Le Sacre du Printemps" the police had to intervene.

Difficult to Judge

"Nothing is more difficult than to pass definite judgment on the epoch in which we live. It is history, the future, that takes care of this. It is always the future that knows what is good and what is bad music."

The exercies were closed with the traditional singing of Randall Thompson's "Alleluia," originally written for the dedication ceremonies of the Berkshire Music Center, by the festival chorus under the direction of Hugh Ross.

In the gathering today were Gertrude Robinson Smith who originated the Berkshire symphonic festivals and Mrs. Serge Koussevitzky, wife of the late conductor who started Tanglewood on its way to international fame.

TIGHT BINDING

[85]

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 1 1957

TANGLEWOOD OPENING Mrs. Thomas D. Perry Jr., wife of the Boston Symphony Orchestra manager, chats with Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the BSO and head of the chamber music department of the Berkshire Music Center. Fifteenth annual opening exercises of center were held yesterday.

STOCKBRIDGE RESIDENTS at event are Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Dwight and granddaughter, Margaret, with Miss Eleanor Wilson and William Miles, codirectors of the Berkshire Playhouse. Mr. Dwight, one of the original trustees of the Berkshire Festival, is on the Tanglewood Advisory Committee.

MRS. SERGE KOUSSEVITZKY, widow of the Boston Symphony Orchestra conductor, greets eminent American composer Aaron Copland at exercises, which were held outside of the Theater-Concert Hall on Tanglewood grounds. Mr. Copland is chairman of the faculty of the summer music school.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUL 1 1957

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 1 1957

Berkshire Music Center at 15

A Song for Open Ears

(Excerpted from the remarks of William J. Cox, president of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, at the 15th opening exercises of the Center June 30. Mr. Cox is secretary of Phillips Exeter Academy.)

Fifteen seasons of the Berkshire Music Center—by some standards, perhaps not a very lengthy span. But merchants of America tell us that this is significant enough to be marked only by gifts of crystal. Then silver, the gold and the diamond anniversaries come later. These things are crystal-clear to me, however, as the Berkshire Music Center, and the great festival at Tanglewood grow older. The first is the phenomenal growth in our population; the second is the phenomenal advance in what could be called man's material aspirations.

As the turn of the new century, the new millenium, the Berkshire Music Center will be scarcely as old as the Boston Symphony is today. And perhaps I should warn those of you who have entered New England for the first time, as you would enter a foreign country, that there is an overpowering temptation to measure worth in terms of years. And it almost follows that in the new century, the Berkshire Music Center will be 43 years older.

But by that time, the nation's population will have come perilously close to doubling. We may well wonder what kind of a country will absorb hordes of new citizens find? What will be the material aspirations of the 300 million people of the 21st century? The hallmarks of our material gains are everywhere about us: The astonishing new highways over which many of us drove to get here; the two-car garage of every split-level house; the power behind cars; and next, perhaps, the planes behind boats.

But are we not developing the split-level mind and the split-level culture alongside this mountain of material progress? Do we drive too fast to see the beauty of the country? Has our active leisure become so active that we no longer sit still to read, to listen, to think—and to nourish the human spirit? I submit that Tanglewood, and the Berkshire Music Center, is a place of nourishment. And we must nourish those who listen as well as those who perform, for if we do not, the spokesman of the new century may well repeat those words of James Stephens's from "The Crock of Gold":

> "I sing to the ears that are stopped, the eyes that are sealed, and the minds that do not labour."

Music, said Walt Whitman, "is what wakens in you when you are reminded by the instruments." But if we continue to be dazzled by speed and steel and the other symbols of our material aspiration, music for the man of the next millenium will indeed be a hollow sound, for there will be nothing within himself to be awakened.

Today, the noblemen of our society are too often identified as the princes of industry, the marvelous merchants who produce more oil, generate more kilowatts, or manufacture more horsepower than ever before. I submit that we need a new and higher order of noblemen, the people whom that great New Hampshireman, John Winant, meant when he spoke of "the aristocracy of those who care."

Tanglewood is more than a place where music is taught and studied and performed. Tanglewood is free expression of art within our people. And helping to keep it so are the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center who care enough to be a giving as well as living part of the institution.

Music Center Opens Its 15th Season At Tanglewood, Lenox

The Berkshire Music Center, the summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, opened its 15th season at Tanglewood in Lenox yesterday. The students come this year from 35 states and 18 foreign countries.

The orchestra's conductor, Charles Munch, just returned from appearances in Prague and Strasbourg, and members of the school faculty were introduced at the ceremonies, held in the theater-concert hall. Dr. Munch discussed the programming for the Berkshire Music Festival, which gets underway on Wednesday.

The program was closed with the traditional singing of Randall Thompson's "Alleluia," originally written for the dedication ceremonies at the center. Hugh Ross directed the festival chorus.

Editorials

Twenty Years of Tanglewood

There was scattered rain yesterday afternoon at Tanglewood's opening exercises. The traditional sherbet punch and cakes had to be consumed on the covered hard-top apron of the Theater-Music Hall instead of in the formal gardens whose hemlock hedges are bursting with new greenery. And it was a pity, for it was no ordinary tea party. Tanglewood openings never are. But yesterday's affair had reason to be more important than most. It marked the 15th year of the Berkshire Music Center, the teaching arm of Tanglewood, but also a more embracing and somewhat more ample date. It signalized the 20th year of Tanglewood concerts, certainly an event to hail and to ponder.

As a round-numbered anniversary is an occasion to savor recollections of the past, it is also a time to speculate on the future. However crystal clear the prodigious success of 20 years of music-making within ear-shot of the Hawthorne pines, the future is considerably less apparent. Population growth, a rising standard of living, a constantly expanding and improved national highway system, more vacation time, an incomparable musical feast in an incomparable natural setting for summer music—all can be counted on to sustain widespread interest in Tanglewood. But there are also at work other forces in other directions.

As such summer events go, Tanglewood is no longer the ravishing vision of a girl in her teens. Assuredly, she is no matron. And while age can never wither her artistically it can raise furrows in the brows of the box office. The audience for serious music, as for all high artistic endeavor, is a limited one, however much it may be growing relatively and absolutely because of the growing numbers of youth exposed to higher education and the high fidelity craze.

So Tanglewood is competing for this limited audience against a number of artistic attractions which did not prevail in her burgeoning years and which, ironically, her very success brought into [illegible] being. The two Stratfords, one in Ontario and the other in Connecticut, are two exciting cases in point. While the more recent Ellenville venture in symphonic music in the Catskills is a [illegible] of Tanglewood certainly in its [illegible] setting and probably in artistic excellence, nonetheless, it has its appeal in its diversification of program. Most assuredly it draws from the same audience in the general driving area. Other smaller efforts such as Marlboro in Southern Vermont and Castle Hill at Ipswich on the North Shore could be cited as events which, while not strictly competitive, do satisfy in some measure the artistic appetite of those living nearby who might otherwise drive to Tanglewood.

So on its 20th anniversary Tanglewood has no reason for complacency, especially with the marked decline in attendance at Music Shed concerts last year. Artistic integrity assumed, success or failure in the arts is governed by much the same factors as success in other less exalted endeavors. There must be new ideas, new faces, new approaches, new packaging—an urgent willingness to maintain preeminence. Some rain must fall, of course, but it must be the rain to nourish and to fructify; not the rain to make sodden the spirit, but to restimulate us from the weariness of well doing.

TIGHT BINDING

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 1 1957

[A5]

ANGLEWOOD OPENING Mrs. Thomas D. Perry Jr., wife of the Bos-mphony Orchestra manager, chats with Richard Burgin, concertmaster of O and head of the chamber music department of the Berkshire Music
r. Fifteenth annual opening exercises of center were held yesterday.

Editorials

Twenty Years of Tanglewood

There was scattered rain yesterday afternoon at Tanglewood's opening exercises. The traditional sherbet punch and cakes had to be consumed on the covered hard-top apron of the Theater-Music Hall instead of in the formal gardens whose hemlock hedges are bursting with new greenery. And it was a pity, for it was no ordinary tea party. Tanglewood openings never are. But yesterday's affair had reason to be more important than most. It marked the 15th year of the Berkshire Music Center, the teaching arm of Tanglewood, but also a more embracing and somewhat more ample date. It signalized the 20th year of Tanglewood concerts, certainly an event to hail and to ponder.

As a round-numbered anniversary is an occasion to savor recollections of the past, it is also a time to speculate on the future. However crystal clear the prodigious success of 20 years of music-making within ear-shot of the Hawthorne pines, the future is considerably less apparent. Population growth, a rising standard of living, a constantly expanding and improved national highway system, more vacation time, an incomparable musical feast in an incomparable natural setting for summer music—all can be counted on to sustain widespread interest in Tanglewood. But there are also at work other forces in other directions.

As such summer events go, Tanglewood is no longer the ravishing vision of a girl in her teens. Assuredly, she is no matron. And while age can never wither her artistically it can raise furrows in the brows of the box office. The audience for serious music, as for all high artistic endeavor, is a limited one, however much it may be growing relatively and absolutely because of the growing numbers of youth exposed to higher education and the high fidelity craze.

So Tanglewood is competing for this limited audience against a number of artistic attractions which did not prevail in her burgeoning years and which, ironically, her very success brought into emulative being. The two Stratfords, one in Ontario and the other in Connecticut, are two exciting cases in point. While the more recent Ellenville venture in symphonic music in the Catskills is a pale image of Tanglewood certainly in natural setting and probably in artistic excellence, nonetheless, it has its appeal through its diversification of program. Most assuredly it draws from the same audience in the general driving area. Other smaller efforts such as Marlboro in Southern Vermont and Castle Hill at Ipswich on the North Shore could be cited as events which, while not strictly competitive, do satisfy in some measure the artistic appetite of those living nearby who might otherwise drive to Tanglewood.

So on its 20th anniversary Tanglewood has no reason for complacency, especially with the marked decline in attendance at Music Shed concerts last year. Artistic integrity assumed, success or failure in the arts is governed by much the same factors as success in other less exalted endeavors. There must be new ideas, new faces, new approaches, new packaging—an urgent willingness to maintain preeminence. Some rain must fall, of course, but it must be the rain to nourish and to fructify; not the rain to make sodden the spirit, but to restimulate us from the weariness of well doing.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 2 1957

Berkshire Music Center at 15

A Song for Open Ears

Excerpted from the remarks William J. Cox, president of Friends of the Berkshire Mu- Center, at the 15th opening ises of the Center June 30. Cox is secretary of Phillips er Academy.)

en seasons of the Berkshire Center—by some standards, s not a very lengthy span. erchants of America tell us his is significant enough to rked only by gifts of crystal. ilver, the gold and the dia- anniversaries come later. ings are crystal-clear to me, er, as the Berkshire Music , and the great festival at wood grow older. The first phenomenal growth in our ion; the second is the phe- al advance in what could led man's material aspira-he turn of the new century, w millenium, the Berkshire Center will be scarcely as the Boston Symphony is to- And perhaps I should warn you who have entered New d for the first time, as you enter a foreign country, that is an overpowering tempta- e to measure worth in terms . And it almost follows that new century, the Berkshire Center will be 43 years er.

by that time, the nation's ion will have come perilous- e to doubling. We may well hat kind of a country will hordes of new citizens find? will be the material aspira- of 300 million people of the ntury? The hallmarks of our l gains are everywhere : The astonishing new high- er which many of us drove here; the two-car garage very split-level house; the behind cars; and next, per- the planes behind boats.

But are we not developing the split-level mind and the split-level culture alongside this mountain of material progress? Do we drive too fast to see the beauty of the country? Has our active leisure become so active that we no longer sit still to read, to listen, to think—and to nourish the human spirit? I submit that Tanglewood, and the Berkshire Music Center, is a place of nourishment. And we must nourish those who listen as well as those who perform, for if we do not, the spokesman of the new century may well repeat those words of James Stephens's from "The Crock of Gold":

> "I sing to the ears that are stopped, the eyes that are sealed, and the minds that do not labour."

Music, said Walt Whitman, "is what wakens in you when you are reminded by the instruments." But if we continue to be dazzled by speed and steel and the other symbols of our material aspiration, music for the man of the next millenium will indeed be a hollow sound, for there will be nothing within himself to be awakened.

Today, the noblemen of our society are too often identified as the princes of industry, the marvelous merchants who produce more oil, generate more kilowatts, or manufacture more horsepower than ever before. I submit that we need a new and higher order of noblemen, the people whom that great New Hampshireman, John Winant, meant when he spoke of "the aristocracy of those who care."

Tanglewood is more than a place where music is taught and studied and performed. Tanglewood is free expression of art within our people. And helping to keep it so are the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center who care enough to be a giving as well as living part of the institution.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541
JUL 1 1957

Music Center Opens Its 15th Season At Tanglewood, Lenox

The Berkshire Music Center, the summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, opened its 15th season at Tanglewood in Lenox yesterday. The students come this year from 35 states and 18 foreign countries.

The orchestra's conductor, Charles Munch, just returned from appearances in Prague and Strasbourg, and members of the school faculty were introduced at the ceremonies, held in the theater-concert hall. Dr. Munch discussed the programming for the Berkshire Music Festival, which gets underway on Wednesday.

The program was closed with the traditional singing of Randall Thompson's "Alleluia," originally written for the dedication ceremonies at the center. Hugh Ross directed the festival chorus.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 1 1957

Editorials

Twenty Years of Tanglewood

There was scattered rain yesterday afternoon at Tanglewood's opening exercises. The traditional sherbet punch and cakes had to be consumed on the covered hard-top apron of the Theater-Music Hall instead of in the formal gardens whose hemlock hedges are bursting with new greenery. And it was a pity, for it was no ordinary tea party. Tanglewood openings never are. But yesterday's affair had reason to be more important than most. It marked the 15th year of the Berkshire Music Center, the teaching arm of Tanglewood, but also a more embracing and somewhat more ample date. It signalized the 20th year of Tanglewood concerts, certainly an event to hail and to ponder.

As a round-numbered anniversary is an occasion to savor recollections of the past, it is also a time to speculate on the future. However crystal clear the prodigious success of 20 years of music-making within ear-shot of the Hawthorne pines, the future is considerably less apparent. Population growth, a rising standard of living, a constantly expanding and improved national highway system, more vacation time, an incomparable musical feast in an incomparable natural setting for summer music—all can be counted on to sustain widespread interest in Tanglewood. But there are also at work other forces in other directions.

As such summer events go, Tanglewood is no longer the ravishing vision of a girl in her teens. Assuredly, she is no matron. And while age can never wither her artistically it can raise furrows in the brows of the box office. The audience for serious music, as for all high artistic endeavor, is a limited one, however much it may be growing relatively and absolutely because of the growing numbers of youth exposed to higher education and the high fidelity craze.

So Tanglewood is competing for this limited audience against a number of artistic attractions which did not prevail in her burgeoning years and which, ironically, her very success brought into emulative being. The two Stratfords, one in Ontario and the other in Connecticut, are two exciting cases in point. While the more recent Ellenville venture in symphonic music in the Catskills is a pale image of Tanglewood certainly in natural setting and probably in artistic excellence, nonetheless, it has its appeal through its diversification of program. Most assuredly it draws from the same audience in the general driving area. Other smaller efforts such as Marlboro in Southern Vermont and Castle Hill at Ipswich on the North Shore could be cited as events which, while not strictly competitive, do satisfy in some measure the artistic appetite of those living nearby who might otherwise drive to Tanglewood.

So on its 20th anniversary Tanglewood has no reason for complacency, especially with the marked decline in attendance at Music Shed concerts last year. Artistic integrity assumed, success or failure in the arts is governed by much the same factors as success in other less exalted endeavors. There must be new ideas, new faces, new approaches, new packaging—an urgent willingness to maintain preeminence. Some rain must fall, of course, but it must be the rain to nourish and to fructify; not the rain to make sodden the spirit, but to restimulate us from the weariness of well doing.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUN 26 1957

De Carvalho Returns To Head Conducting at Music Center

TANGLEWOOD — Eleazar de Carvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony Orchestra of Rio de Janeiro, will head the department of orchestral conducting at the Berkshire Music Center this season. Mr. de Carvalho, who has appeared here with the Boston Symphony Orchestra as a guest conductor with Dr. Charles Munch, is a former pupil of the late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky at the Music Center.

The center will open its 15th season Sunday afternoon at 3:30 when the students from 35 states, Canada and 17 other foreign countries, will be welcomed by Dr. Munch.

Copland To Assist

Dr. Munch, director of the summusic school, will have as top aides Aaron Copland as assistant director, Ralph Berkowitz as dean, and Leonard Burkat, who recently was appointed administrator.

Hugh Ross will return to head of the choral singing and choral conducting class. The composition class will be handled by Mr. Copland. The guest composer this season will be Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University. The opera department will be headed by Boris Goldovsky and Ludwig Zirner will be in charge of the Tanglewood Study Group.

Since musicians may enroll in the study group for the full six weeks or for periods of two or four weeks, applications are still being accepted here.

Lipkin Named

Assisting Mr. de Carvalho in the orchestral conducting department this season will be Seymour Lipkin. Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony, and William Kroll are heads of the chamber music department. In the choral music department, Mr. Ross is assisted by Lorna Cooke de Varon of the New England Conservatory and Alfred Nash Patterson, conductor and director of the Chorus Pro Musica.

Mr. Copland and Mr. Babbitt will be joined by Irving Fine in the department of composition. Mr. Goldovsky is assisted in the opera department by Robert Gay, Ruth Glass and Arthur Schoep. Ludwig Zirner, head of the Tanglewood Study Group, will again be joined this summer by Karl Kohn of Pomona College, Claremont, Calif., and by Florence Dunn.

On leave of absence this year are Leonard Bernstein, head of the department of orchestral conducting, composer Lukas Foss, and James Aliferis of the choral department.

Many Scholarships

Berkshire Music Center scholarship grants have been awarded this year to more than 60 per cent of the student body, including many of the 100 musicians who comprise the student symphony orchestra, which gives weekly full-scale symphonic concerts open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, whose contributions help to support the school. In addition to the large enrollment from the United States, the Music Center has accepted musicians from Norway, Sweden, Hungary, Great Britain, Switzerland, Uruguay, Argentina, Peru, Venezuela, Cuba, Puerto Rico,

Eleazar de Carvalho

Israel, India, Japan, Korea and Netherlands Antilles.

A calendar listing the 40-odd concerts and performances to be given by Tanglewood students during the course of the Berkshire Festival may be obtained by writing to the Friends Office, Tanglewood, Lenox.

Sun (e)
LOWELL, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 42,535

JUN 29 1957

Music

By Alfred W. Burke

LOWELL—Sunday afternoon will mark the opening of the Berkshire music center. This will be the fifteenth season. Students from 35 states and 18 foreign countries will gather in the Theatre-Concert hall at Tanglewood for the opening exercises.

The students will be addressed by William J. Cox, chairman of the Friends of the Berkshire Music center; by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony orchestra and director of the music center and by Aaron Copland, assistant director of the school. Introduction of the faculty members will be made by Ralph Berkowitz, dean of the Music center.

Teachers at the Music center for this season have been active in music centers throughout the world during the winter and spring season. They have been active in several fields of musical art.

Aaron Copland attended an Inter-American festival in Venezuela last spring where he conducted performaces of his own works. Early in June he appeared at the Ojai festival in California, also in the role of conductor.

Dean Berkowitz was soloist in a series of six concerts at the Albuquerque, N. M., Chamber Music festival. The pianist recently returned from there.

Elzear De Carvalho, conductor of the Rio de Janeiro Symphony orchestra, appeared as guest conductor throughout Europe during the winter months. This season at the Music center as guest conductor throughout Europe during the winter months. This season at the Music center he will head the orchestral conducting department. He will be assisted by Seymour Lipkin who during the past season made 26 appearances with the National Symphony orchestra during the winter tour.

Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music of Princeton university will be composer-in-residence at the music center. A specialist in twelve-tone technique, Mr. Babbitt has written a considerable amount of chamber music, music for piano and vocal music. Some of his music will be heard during the program of August 6, at which time there will be a concert of modern chamber music sponsored by the Frohm Music foundation, and more of his music will be heard on other occasions. Mr. Babbitt, who occupies the post held by German composer Boris Blacher and Italian composer, Goffredo Petrassi during the past two summers, will also teach composition classes at the center.

The Tanglewood study group, this year under the direction of Ludwig Zirner of the University of Illinois music department, will also be instructed by Karl Kohn of Pomona college in Claremont, Calif. Mr. Kohn, winner of a Fulbright award for study in Finland, was on leave of absence from the Music center last summer.

Evening Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 154,300

JUN 29 1957

Berkshire Music Center Opens Sunday

The Berkshire Music Center, Summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood in Lenox, will open its 15th session tomorrow afternoon, when the students will be welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch. Music director of the Boston Symphony. Dr. Munch is also director of the Summer music school; composer Aaron Copland is assistant director; Ralph Berkowitz. Dean, and Leonard Burkat the recently appointed administrator.

To date, students have enrolled at Tanglewood from 35 states, Canada, and 17 foreign countries. They come to the Berkshire Music Center to study orchestra playing and conducting under Eleazar de Carvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony Orchestra of Rio de Janeiro; choral singing and choral conducting under Hugh Ross; composition from Copland and guest composer Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University; opera under Boris Goldovsky; or they are enrolled in the Tanglewood Study Group under Ludwig Zirner.

Since musicians may enroll in the Study Group for the full six weeks or for periods of four or two weeks, applications are still being accepted. Study group students, professional and amateur musicians, have an opportunity to spend their vacations in chamber orchestra reading and to sing in the Festival Chorus with the Boston Symphony in Berkshire Festival concerts.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.
GAZETTE
Circ. D. 44,806

JUN 11 1957

Concerts at Tanglewood to Benefit Boston Symphony Summer Students

The Wednesday evening chamber music concerts to be held between July 3 and Aug. 7 at the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will benefit the revolving scholarship fund to aid students at the Boston Symphony's summer school of music, the Berkshire Music Center.

* * *

THE PAGANINI String Quartet will present the July 3 program which will include the Beethoven Quartet, Opus 18, number 2; String Quartet number 1 by the Argentine composer, Alberto Ginastera; and Ravel's Quartet in F major.

The July 10 program will feature piano duets by Ralph Berkowitz and Seymour Lipkin and include Schubert's Variations on an original Theme in A-flat major and Fantasie in F minor; and Hindemith's Sonata for Piano Four Hands. The second half of the program will be given over to a performance of the Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes and the closing waltz from the Neue Liebeslieder. The quartet of soloists includes Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor; and Donald Gramm bass.

* * *

The Beaux Arts Trio will present the first of the Trio number 2, opus 53, by Robert Casadesus on July 17. Their program will open with Haydn's Trio in C major, number 3; and close with the "Archduke" trio of Beethoven.

The Kroll String Quartet will play on July 24 in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, opus 77, number 1; the String Quartet number 2 by Leo Janacek; and Schubert Quartet, "Death and the Maiden."

A song recital by Gerald Souzay baritone, with Berkowitz at the piano will be presented on July 31. It will feature several early French songs, groups by Schubert, Liszt, Brahms and Ravel.

* * *

THE ZIMBLER Sinfonietta will present the closing program on Aug. 7. It will include the Symphony number 1 by William Boyce; Triptych, Alexandre Tansman; Boccherini's Flute Concerto with James Pappoutsakis as soloist; Mozart's Serenata Notturna for two String Orchestras and Shostakovitch's Concerto for Piano and Strings, with Trompet Obliggato. Soloists will be Menahem Pressler, piano; and Roger Voisin, trumpet.

Union (m)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 81,366

JUN 29 1957

Tanglewood Music Center Opens Sunday

Lenox, June 28—The season at Tanglewood is ready to roll.

The Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music, opens its 15th annual session on Sunday when students from 35 states and 18 foreign countries are welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and director of the school.

The box office personnel has moved into Tanglewood and is filling reservation requests by mail and telephone for the 20th season of the Music Festival which begins July 3 at 8.30 p. m. with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet in the Theater-Concert Hall. Beethoven's string quartet Op. 18, No. 2, and Ravel's string quartet in F major will be played.

Thereafter, concerts will be given on each Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon through Aug. 11.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 5, 6, 7, all-Bach programs will be given, including the six Brandenburg Concertos and, on Sunday, July 7, the St. Matthew Passion with Adele Addison as one of the soloists.

The second week's programs will be chamber music on Wednesday, July 10, including Hindemith and Schubert piano duets and Brahms' Liebeslieder Waltzes; and all-Mozart concerts on Friday, Saturday and Sunday July 14.

RICHMOND, VA.
TIMES-DISPATCH
Circ. D. 127,209 - S. 178,348

JUN 23 1957

Music Center

LENOX, MASS.—This will be a major music center from July 3 to September 1, when the classical Berkshire Festival is in season from July 3 to August 11, and the Berkshire Music Barn puts the spotlight on jazz and folk music, July 6-September 1. Programs are arranged to avoid conflict.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Music Center to Open

The Berkshire Music Center will begin its fifteenth season at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this afternoon, when students from thirty-[illegible] and eighteen foreign [illegible] will attend the opening [illegible] Speakers will be William [illegible] chairman of the Friends [illegible] Berkshire Music Center; Charles Munch, director of the center and music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Aaron Copland, the center's assistant director.

Eleazar de Carvalho, conductor of the [illegible] Symphony Orchestra, again will head the center's conducting department this summer.

Globe
Mass.
lent
,800

1957 ire Center

Sunday

ire Music Center,
l of music main-
Boston Symphony
Tanglewood in n its 15th session
rnoon, when the welcomed by Dr.
Music director of aphony, Dr. Munch r of the Summer composer Aaron assistant director;
witz, Dean, and the recently ap-trator.
ents have enrolled
from 35 states,
foreign countries.
the Berkshire Mustudy orchestra conducting under valho, conductor of phony Orchestra of choral singing and ting under Hugn ion from Copland
poser Milton Babrofessor of music
University; opera oldovsky; or they the Tanglewood
nder Ludwig Zir-

may enroll in for the full six iods of four or ations are still udy group stu-
and amateur opportunity to ns in chamber nd to sing in with the Boserkshire Festi-

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, SUNDAY, JUNE 30, 1957

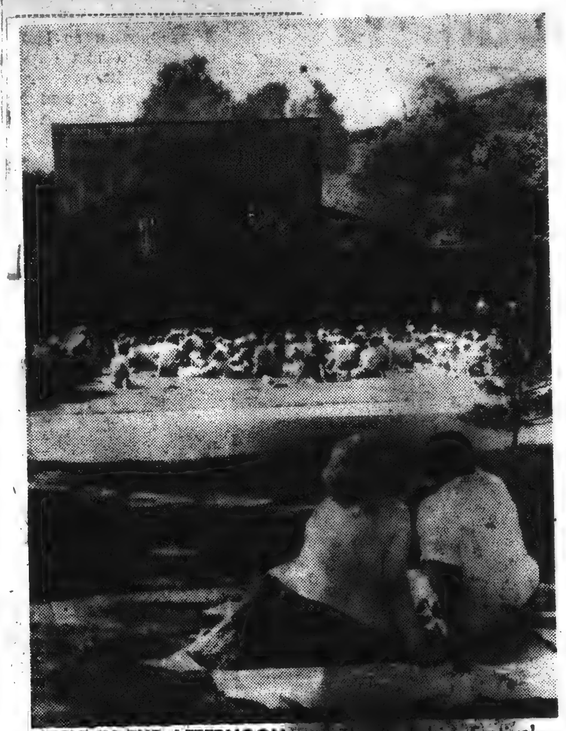
's Festival Time in the East super-capacity audience at Tanglewood's Theater-Concert Hall, which is the scene of the Berk-hire Music Festival's first fortnight. Later concerts will take place in the 6,000 seat Music Shed.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 - S. 855,847
JUN 16 1957

CP 71



MUSIC IN THE AFTERNOON ... The ...shire Festival at Lenox, Mass., draws music lovers ... all over the Eastern area. This year the Boston Symphony Orchestra will once again play a 24-season concert beginning July 3. Fans may either sit and hear the music inside the concert hall or out on the huge lawn.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, JUNE 30, 1957.

Howard S. Babbitt Jr.

MECCA FOR MUSIC LOVERS—At Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., on Wednesday the Berkshire Festival opens its annual six-week season with a concert by the Paganini Quartet. Next Sunday Charles Munch leads the first performance in the large Music Shed (shown above).

lusic Will eFeatured On 3 Bills

By FRANCIS D. PERKINS

The American summer music season enters its most intensive stage this week, which brings the opening of three major festivals in this state and New England.

The twentieth Berkshire Festival begins Wednesday night at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., with the first of six weekly chamber music concerts. Members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will give six Bach-Mozart concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall on the next two Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, and the full orchestra will play in the Music Shed on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from July 19 through Aug. 11. The Berkshire Music Center, which starts its fifteenth session today, will give its usual quota of programs during the festival period, beginning with a student orchestra concert Thursday night.

For its third season, the Empire State Music Festival offers seventeen performances during the next four weeks in the music tent at Ellenville, N. Y. The coming week end includes two concerts by the Symphony of the Air under Igor Markevich, and three different programs danced by soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet. The second week will be shared by Strauss' opera, "Elektra," Thursday and Saturday nights, July 11 and 13, and Jose Limon's choreographic version of "The Emperor Jones" with Heitor Villa-Lobos conducting his own score on Friday and Sunday nights, July 12 and 14.

Full information about the Empire State Festival can be obtained by telephoning OXford 7-0450; the telephonic source of Tanglewood information is Lenox (Mass.) 600.

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUN 30 1957

JULY MUSIC SEASON HAS BACH TO BOOGIE

Choice of music lovers at the sound-off of New England's July music season is Bach or boogie, according to the New England Council.

The hot trumpet of Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong opens the four-day Newport Jazz Festival Thursday. Some 40,000 jazz fans from all over the country are expected to descent on the Rhode Island resort for the series. Among the 125 top performers are such names as Jack Teagarden, Count Basie, Dave Brubeck, Pee Wee Russell, Stan Kenton, Dizzy Gillespie, Ella Fitzgerald and Sara Vaughn. Three afternoon performances have been added to this year's series, including a Sunday appearance of gospel-singing Mahalia Jackson and Clara Ward.

First performances of the Boston Symphony's Berkshire Festival concerts at Lenox will be a trio of all-Bach programs. To conclude the three-day series on Sunday, July 7, the Harvard Glee Club, Radcliffe Choral Society and featured soloists join the orchestra under Charles Munch.

The Berkshire Festival opens a six-week season Wednesday with chamber music by the Paganini Quartet.

Sunday Post
BRIDGEPORT, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 65,580

JUN 30 1957

Concerts Begin At Tanglewood

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C Minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Tanglewood's 20th Year Opens Wednesday

Principals in Opening Week of Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood

Top left: Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist, in Friday night's program at Theater-Concert Hall. Top center: View of the Music Shed at Tanglewood. Top right: Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Director of the Berkshire Festival. Lower left: Lukas Foss, pianist, in Theater-Concert Hall program Friday night. Lower center: The Paganini String Quartet which opens the Festival Wednesday night. Henri Temianka, first violin; Gustav Rossells, second violin; Charles Foidart, viola, and Luicien Laporte, cello. Lower right: Seymour Lipkin, pianist, in Friday's Concert-Hall program. The first program in the big Music Shed takes place one week from this afternoon when the concert will be devoted to Part II of Bach's Passion According to St. Matthew.

BERKSHIRE MUSIC CENTER SESSIONS WILL OPEN TODAY

Dr. Munch to Welcome Summer School Students

Lenox, June 29—The Berkshire Music Center, summer school of music maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, will open its 15th session tomorrow afternoon, June 30, when the students will be welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Dr. Munch is also director of the summer music school; composer Aaron Copland is assistant director; Ralph Berkowitz is dean; and Leonard Burkat is the recently appointed administrator.

From 35 States

To date, students have enrolled at Tanglewood from 35 states, Canada, and 17 foreign countries. They come to the Berkshire Music Center to study orchestra playing and conducting under Eleazar de Carvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony Orchestra of Rio de Janeiro; choral singing and choral conducting under Hugh Ross; composition from Mr. Copland and guest composer Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University; opera under Boris Goldovsky; or they are enrolled in the Tanglewood Study Group under Ludwig Zirner.

Since musicians may enroll in the Study Group for the full six weeks or for periods of four weeks or two weeks, applications are still being accepted. Study Group students, professional and amateur musicians, have an opportunity to spend their vacations in chamber orchestra reading and to sing in the Festival Chorus with the Boston Symphony in Berkshire Festival concerts.

[illegible], Uruguay, Argentina, Peru, Venezuela, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Israel, India, Japan, Korea, and Netherlands Antilles.

A calendar listing the 40-odd concerts and performances to be given by Tanglewood students during the course of the Berkshire Festival may be obtained by writing to the Friends Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

PAGANINI STRING QUARTET STARTS MUSIC FESTIVAL

Tanglewood's Six-Weeks Season Will Open Wednesday

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8.30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

Music of Bach

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8.30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6 [illegible]

Bach Passion According to St. Matthew (Opening Chorus and Part II)
(Soloists: Adele Addison, soprano; Florance Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald [illegible], bass; Harry Lane Joyce, harpsichord; Harvard Glee Club; Radcliffe Choral Society; [illegible])

Berkshire Music Festival

Schon [illegible] hat es zu einer Tradition gemacht, dieses Musikfestival mit Bach beginnen zu lassen. Er hatte sich zumeist auf die Suiten konzentriert und die unvergesslichste Seite ihrer Darbietung war die Zartheit ihrer Empfindung und die Fülle ihres Gefühls. Charles Munch nimmt Bach ganz anders. In persönlicher Unterhaltung spricht er davon, wie unendlich nahe er Bach, vor allem unter dem Einfluss von Albert Schweitzer und Karl Straube, stand und wie seine Leipziger Jahre, während derer er u. a. die meisten Kantaten dirigierte, zu seinen schönsten Erinnerungen zählen.

Wenn man dann z.B. die sechs Brandenburgischen Konzerte unter Munch hört, spürt man eine tiefe Verbundenheit mit Bach, so herb, streng und stark. Hier [illegible] erlaubt, dass der Elsässer Charles Munch nicht nur früher einmal zu einem [illegible] Teil Karl Munch war, sondern [illegible] geblieben ist, und dass in [illegible] dieses Spezialisten französischer [illegible] zwei Seelen leben. Selbstverständlich kommt hinzu, dass Munch, der Boston Symphony Orchester eine Gruppe von Musikern findet, wie sie heute nur selten existiert, und dass diese Künstler jetzt nach jahrelanger Zusammenarbeit völlig auf ihn eingestellt sind. Auch die Solisten, die unübertreffliche Doriot Anthony Dwyer (Flöte), Lukas Foss (Piano), Richard Burgin (Violine) und [illegible] Votsin (Trompete), trugen zum Erfolge der Bach-Konzerte bei.

Die Eröffnungsfeier wurde abgeschlossen mit einer hervorragenden Darbietung des Eröffnungschores und des 2. Teiles der Matthäuspassion.

Auch hier war Munch wieder weit entfernt von Sentimentalität, die sich in guten und weniger guten Darbietungen so oft in dieses Werk einschleicht. An vereinzelten Stellen im Ton vielleicht zu scharf, war der Gesamteindruck überwältigend. Eine männliche Gestaltung, getragen von echtem Gefühl, ohne jedoch darin unterzugehen. Neben dem Harvard Glee Club und der Radcliffe Choral Society bewährte sich unter den Solisten besonders John McCollum als Evangelist. Die Begeisterung des hier überwiegend aus Jugendlichen bestehenden Zuhörerschaft nach den Konzerten war gross und echt.

Second Thoughts On Music

Tanglewood Bach Series Will Start Friday Night

Berkshire Festival to Open Wednesday With Concert by Paganini String Quartet

By WILLARD M. CLARK

The Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood opens Wednesday night with a concert of chamber music. From then until Aug. 11, Tanglewood will resound to the sounds of concerts practically every night. While the programs are little different than in other years, one has the experience of hearing the regular repertoire played just about as well as one has any reason to expect. Charles Munch and the members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra always put on a good performance, even though it may not be particularly imaginative or exciting.

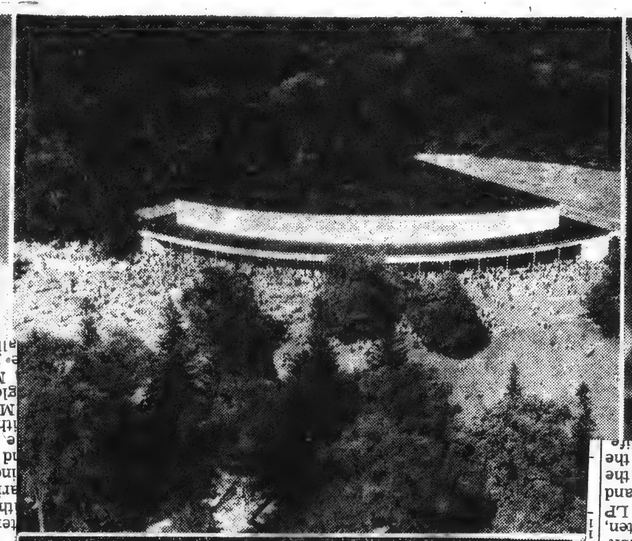
Over the years, the relatively youthful chamber music series has brought audience of steadily increasing numbers to the theater-shed. Thus it seems appropriate that one of the finest chamber music ensembles, the Paganini String Quartet, should open the season Wednesday night. They will play a program consisting of Quartet Op. 18, No. 2 by Beethoven; String Quartet No. 1 by Ginaster, and Ravel's String Quartet in F major.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday the programs will be devoted to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach. Friday night Charles Munch will conduct and the program will include the Bach Suite No. 1, Brandenberg Concerto No. 2, with Lukas Foss at the piano and Suite No. 2 and the Concerto for Two Pianos with Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

[illegible] son after an absence of more than 20 years, plays these works charmingly. Her approach to them is simple, direct and filled with imagination. The piano tone is good.

Tanglewood's 20th Year Opens Wednesday

Principals in Opening Week of Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood



Top left: Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist, in Friday night's program at Theater-Concert Hall. Top center: View of the Music Shed at Tanglewood. Top right: Charles Munch, Boston Symphony conductor and Director of the Berkshire Festival. Lower left: Lukas Foss, pianist, in Theater-Concert Hall program Friday night. Lower center: The Paganini String Quartet which opens the Festival Wednesday night. Henri Temianka, first violin; Gustav Rossells, second violin; Charles Foidart, viola, and Luicien Laporte, cello. Lower right: Seymour Lipkin, pianist, in Friday's Concert-Hall program. The first program in the big Music Shed takes place one week from this afternoon when the concert will be devoted to Part II of Bach's Passion According to St. Matthew.

RECORD ROUNDUP

Classical

"Evening at the Chicago Lyric," Renata Tebaldi, Giuseppe Simionato and Ettore Bastianini collaborate in a concert of operatic excerpts for the benefit of the Chicago Lyric Opera. Georg Solti conducts the program, which includes a trio from "Gioconda." Available only by mail from London.)

Serenade No. 10 in B Flat (Mozart). Beautiful performance by an ensemble from the Berlin Philharmonic of Mozart's great work for 12 wind instruments plus string bass. Fritz Lehmann conducts, and the recording is particularly fine. (Decca.)

"Waltzes by Waldteufel." Finely prepared, elegantly phrased performances by the Philharmonia Orchestra under Fritz Lehmann of "Espana," "Les Patineurs" ("Skaters") and four other choice waltzes. Admirable sound. (Angel.)

Sonata for Piano and Violin (Busoni). One of the most ambitious works of the kind ever written, covering both sides of the LP record. Max Rostal, violin, and Noel Mewton-Wood, piano, are the well-mated team, though the work never quite come to life

Music

ach Series Friday Night

Wednesday With Con- String Quartet

Saturday night, Mr. Munch will present all the Brandenberg concertos except the fifth. The week end of Bach will culminate Sunday afternoon at 2.30 with a performance of the second part of "The Passion According to St. Matthew" sung by the Radcliffe Chorale Society and the Harvard Glee Club. The soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm, bass.

Some Recent Recordings

"Finlandia," "The Swan of Tuonela" by Sibelius; "Peer Gynt Suite No. 1" by Grieg and "Swedish Rhapsody" by Alfven may all be heard on Columbia record ML 5158 played with sumptuous tones by the Philadelphia Orchestra under the direction of Eugene Ormandy. It is good listening from first to last.

Quite the finest performance on records of DeFalla's lovely "Nights in the Gardens of Spain" has been made possible by pianist Robert Casadesus and the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, Mitropoulos conducting. The French pianist has made this impressionistic work quite his own and he plays it with true imagination and wonderful display of colorations. On the reverse side of ML 5172, he is heard, with orchestra, in dances from "The Three Cornered Hat" and the "Interlude" and Dance" from "La Vida Breve." This is exciting music played with real brilliance.

From Epic come two charming works by Robert Schumann played with incomparable art by pianist Clara Haskil. They are, of course, "Waldscenen" and "Kinderscenen." Miss Haskil, who visited this country last season after an absence of more than 20 years, plays these works charmingly. Her approach to them is simple, direct and filled with imagination. The piano tone is good.

Berkshire Music Festival

Schon [illegible] hat es zu einer Tradition gemacht, dieses Musikfest mit Bach beginnen zu lassen. Es hatte sich zumeist auf die Suiten konzentriert und die unvergesslichste Seite ihrer Darbietung war die Zartheit ihrer Empfindung und die Fülle ihres Gefühls. Charles Munch nimmt Bach ganz anders. In persönlicher Unterhaltung spricht er davon, wie unendlich nahe er Bach, vor allem unter dem Einfluss von Albert Schweitzer und Karl Straube, stand und wie seine Leipziger Jahre, während derer er u. a. die meisten Kantaten dirigierte, zu seinen schönsten Erinnerungen zählen.

Wenn man dann z.B. die sechs Brandenburgischen Konzerte unter Munch hört, spürt man eine tiefe Verbundenheit, eine Bejahung, hart, streng und stark. Hier zeigt es sich, dass der Elsässer Charles Munch nicht nur früher einmal zu einem guten Teil Karl Munch war, sondern [illegible] geblieben ist, und dass in [illegible] dieses Spezialisten französischer und [illegible] zwei Seelen leben. Selbstverständlich kommt hinzu, dass Munch mit Boston Symphony Orchester eine Gruppe von Musikern sandet, wie sie heute nur selten existiert, und dass diese Künstler jetzt nach jahrelanger Zusammenarbeit völlig auf ihn eingestellt sind. Auch die Solisten, die unübertreffliche Doriot Anthony Dwyer (Flöte), Lukas Foss (Piano), Richard Burgin (Violine) und Roger Voisin (Trompete), trugen zum Erfolge der Bach-Konzerte bei.

Die Eröffnungswoche wurde abgeschlossen mit einer hervorragenden Darbietung des Eröffnungschores und des 2. Teiles der Matthäuspassion.

Auch hier war Munch wieder weit entfernt von Sentimentalität, die sich in guten und weniger guten Darbietungen so oft in dieses Werk einschleicht. An vereinzelten Stellen im Ton vielleicht zu scharfe, war der Gesamteindruck überwältigend. Eine männliche Gestaltung, getragen von echtem Gefühl, ohne jedoch darin unterzugehen. Neben dem Harvard Glee Club und der Radcliffe Choral Society bewährte sich unter den Solisten besonders John McCollum als Evangelist. Die Begeisterung der hier überwiegend aus Jugendlichen bestehenden Zuhörerschaft nach [illegible] war gross und echt.

COUNTRY DANCE FESTIVAL AT UM

Friday, July 12, Is Date For 12th Annual Event

Amherst, June 29—The traditional at the University of Massachusetts will continue with the 20th annual event to be held Friday, July 12, on the university's athletic field.

Friends and associates of the late Lawrence V. Loy, who started the festival in 1946 as an Extension Service project, will conduct the event under the leadership of a committee from the Western Massachusetts Callers' and Leaders' Association.

Proceeds of the festival will be contributed to the Lawrence V. Loy Memorial Fund, the Pioneer Valley Association, and folk and square dance leaders throughout the area are all cooperating with this committee for a gala occasion in which dancers and spectators from the whole of New England annually join.

The Memorial Fund is dedicated to encouraging and assisting persons in acquiring training and education for leadership in the field of recreation. Prof. Loy, who died in 1955, was an Extension specialist for 19 years, first in recreation

MR. LEINSDORF, head of the department of orchestral conducting, will be assisted by Seymour Lipkin. Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony, and William Kroll are heads of the chamber music department. In the choral music department, Mr. Ross is assisted by Lorna Cooke deVaron of the New England Conservatory and Alfred Nash Patterson, conductor and director of the Chorus Pro Musica. Aaron Copland and Milton Babbitt will be joined by Irving Fine in the Department of Composition. Mr. Gudewsky is assisted in the latter department by Robert Gay, Ruth Glass and Arthur Schoep. Ludwig Zirner, head of the Tanglewood Study Group, will again be joined this summer by Karl Kohn of Pomona College in Claremont, Cal., and by Florence Dunn. On leave of absence this year are Leonard Bernstein, head of the department of orchestral conducting, composer Lukas Foss, and James Aliferis of the choral department.

Berkshire Music Center scholarship grants have been awarded this year to over 60 per cent of the study body, including many of the 100 musicians who comprise the student symphony orchestra, which gives weekly full-scale symphonic concerts open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center whose contributions help to support the school. In addition to the large enrollment from the United States, the Music Center has accepted musicians from Norway, Sweden, Hungary, Great Britain, Switzerland, Uruguay, Argentina, Peru, Venezuela, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Israel, India, Japan, Korea, and Netherlands Antilles.

A calendar listing the 40-odd concerts and performances to be given by Tanglewood students during the course of the Berkshire Festival may be obtained by writing to the Friends Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2.30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Complete programs for the week are as follows:

Wednesday, July 3—8.30 p. m.—Theater-Concert Hall—Chamber Music:
Beethoven String Quartet in G major, Op. 18, No. 2
Ginastera String Quartet No. 1
Ravel String Quartet in F major
The Pagnani String Quartet (Henri Temianka and Gustave Rossells, violins; Charles Foidart, viola; Lucien LaPorte, cello)

Friday, July 5—8.30 p. m.—Theater-Concert Hall—Chamber Orchestra of Boston Symphony players:
Bach Suite No. 3 in D major, for Orchestra
Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D major, for Orchestra with Piano, Flute and Violin
(Piano: Lukas Foss; Violin: Richard Burgin; Flute: Doriot Anthony Dwyer)
Suite No. 2 in B minor, for Flute and Strings
(Flute solo: Doriot Anthony Dwyer)
Concerto in C minor for Two Pianos, No. 1
(Soloists: Lukas Foss, Seymour Lipkin)

Saturday, July 6—8.30 p. m.—Theater-Concert Hall—Chamber Orchestra:
Conducted by Charles Munch
Bach: Brandenburg Concerto No. 1, in F major
Brandenburg Concerto No. 2, in F major, for Trumpet, Flute, Oboe, Violin, and strings
(Trumpet, Roger Voisin; Flute, Doriot Anthony Dwyer; Oboe, Ralph Gomberg; Violin, Richard Burgin)
Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 in G major, for Strings
Brandenburg Concerto No. 4 in G major for Violin, Two Flutes and Strings
(Violin, Richard Burgin; Flutes, Doriot Anthony Dwyer, James Pappoutsakis)

Sunday, July 7—2.30 p. m.—Music Shed—Chamber Orchestra: Conducted by Charles Munch
Bach: Passion According to St. Matthew (Oratorio Chorus and Part II)
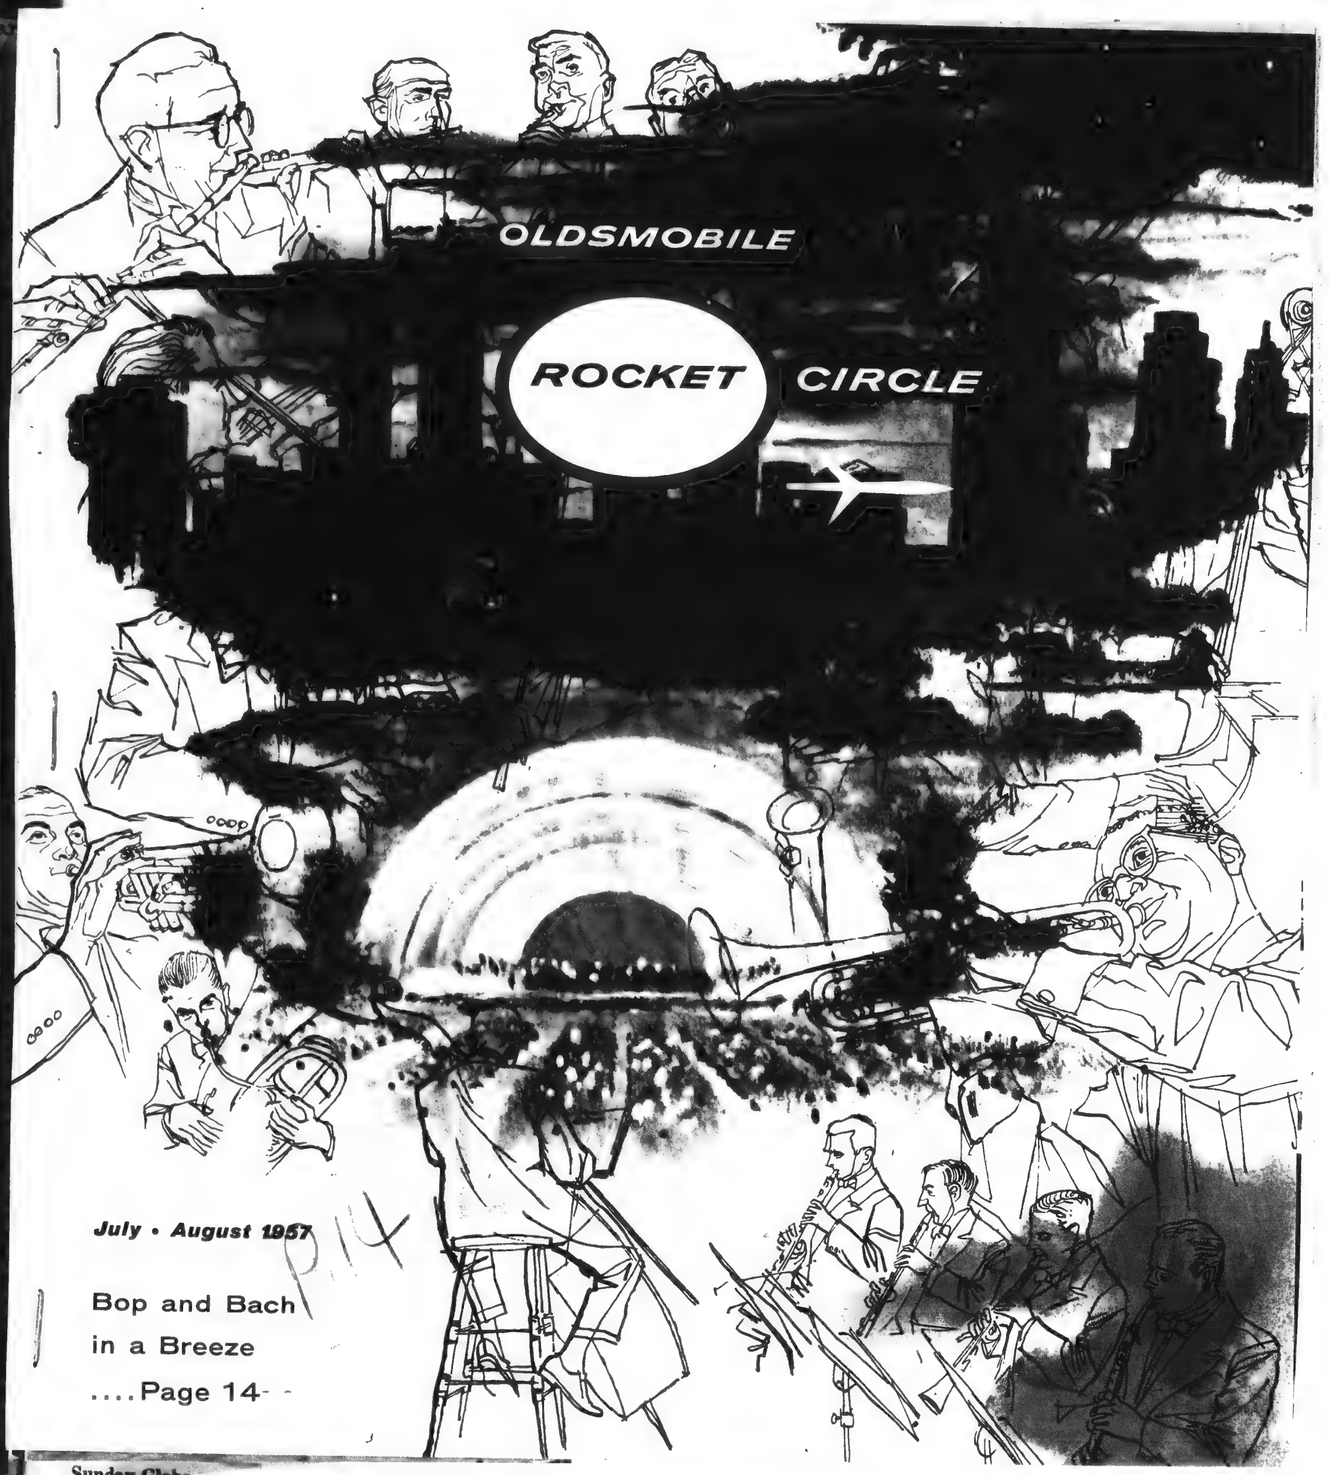
(Soloists: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society)



[89]

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUN 30 1957

Tanglewood Standards

Soon the summer music season will be in full swing. Tanglewood, of course, tops the list as far as serious music in New England is concerned, with the opening series of all-Bach programs scheduled for next week end and a series of all-Mozart programs a week later, preliminary to the major concerts in the great Music Shed featuring the full Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Throughout the United States there will be more summer music available this season than ever before. Some of these outdoor events have been in operation longer than the one at Lenox, now entering its 20th season. The 40th season at Lewisohn Stadium, New York, already has begun, as has the 40th series by the Goldman Band in Central Park. In Boston, the annual "Pops" concerts are followed by those in Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade.

Philadelphia has its Robin Hood Dell concerts, with similar attractions at Chicago's Ravinia and Grant Park, Washington, D. C.'s Watergate, the Hollywood Bowl and elsewhere. The Aspen, Col., center has grown rapidly, while the third annual Empire State Festival at Ellenville, N. Y., where the Symphony of the Air holds forth, is about to enter its third season. Most of these enterprises, some of which are free, have found it necessary to include popular music on their programs, and some have secured industrial sponsors to help meet expenses.

So far, however, the Berkshire Festival has been able to hoe its own row, offering the broadest scope and heaviest concentration of classical music, and maintaining probably the highest musical standards of America, year after year. The four sets of Music Shed concerts, directed by Charles Munch, will again have the venerable Pierre Monteux as associate conductor, and will present for the first time Carl Schuricht of the Vienna Philharmonic as guest conductor. Each week the music of a single outstanding composer will be featured—Tchaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven in that order, with the eminent violinist Isaac Stern as guest soloist on three occasions.

"Tanglewood on Parade" is scheduled Aug. 8, while the 75th birthday of the composer Igor Stravinsky will be marked by renditions of three of his works, all this in addition to the Wednesday evening chamber music concerts, the performance of scenes from operas, and the various student activities of the Berkshire Music Center.

The effect of the new Massachusetts Turnpike on attendance at Tanglewood will be interesting to note, for the broad and unimpeded highway is expected to relieve traffic congestion for patrons coming from this vicinity as well as from the eastern part of the state. Many have hesitated in the past to make the trip at night or on Sunday because of the fast travel and crowded conditions on the old narrow and winding route. Tanglewood has so much to offer those who crave and appreciate the best in music that the more means of access are available the better.

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Festival

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will start with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet, Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertas, Nos, 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

43 NEW YORK POST, MONDAY, JULY 1, 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end beginning July 19.

Sunday Standard-Times
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 52,155

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Concerts to Open W

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts [illegible] turday evening Concert Hall a[illegible] voted to the m[illegible] Charles Munch ber orchestra [illegible] phony Orchestr[illegible] on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

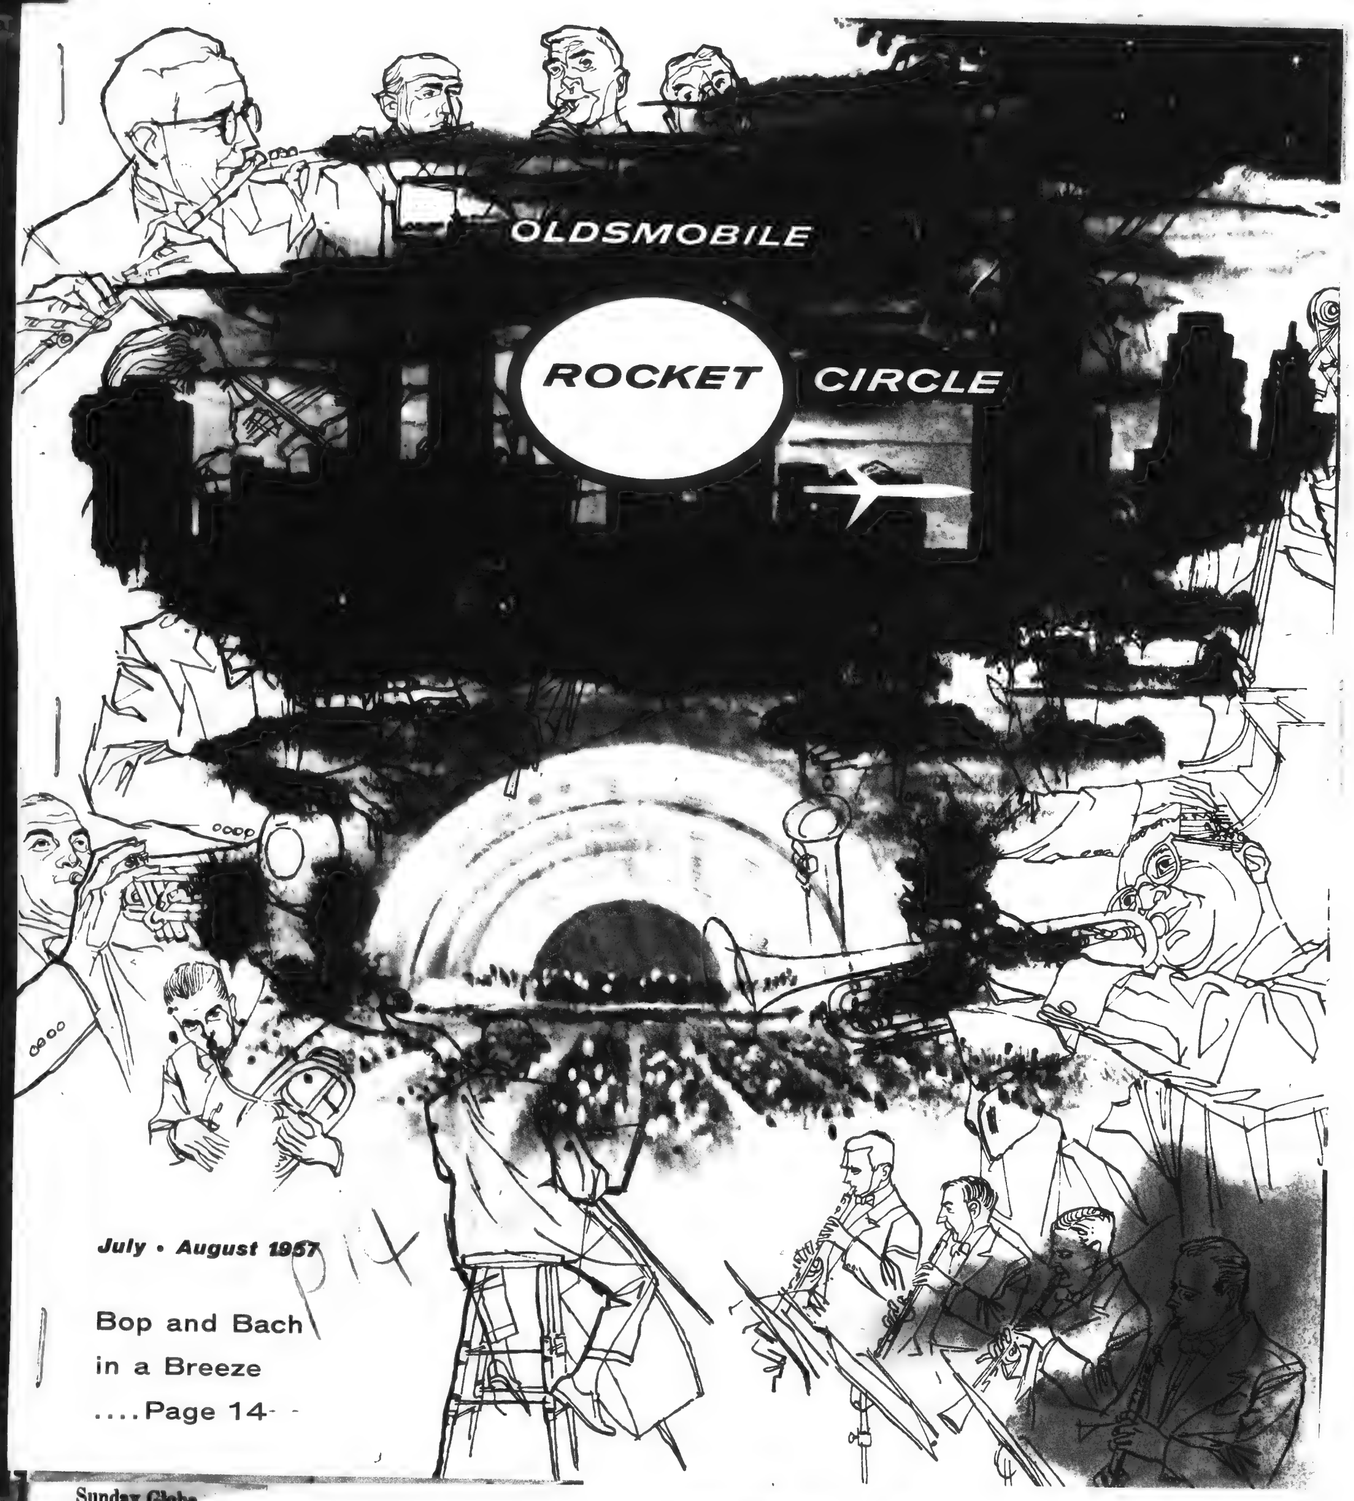
American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325

Tanglewood Opens Tomorrow

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open tomorrow at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from tomorrow to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3.



[89]

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUN 30 1957

Tanglewood Standards

Soon the summer music season will be in full swing. Tanglewood, of course, tops the list as far as serious music in New England is concerned, with the opening series of all-Bach programs scheduled for next week end and a series of all-Mozart programs a week later, preliminary to the major concerts in the great Music Shed featuring the full Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Throughout the United States there will be more summer music available this season than ever before. Some of these outdoor events have been in operation longer than the one at Lenox, now entering its 20th season. The 40th season at Lewisohn Stadium, New York, already has begun, as has the 40th series by the Goldman Band in Central Park. In Boston, the annual "Pops" concerts are followed by those in Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade.

Philadelphia has its Robin Hood Dell concerts, with similar attractions at Chicago's Ravinia and Grant Park, Washington, D. C.'s Watergate, the Hollywood Bowl and elsewhere. The Aspen, Col., center has grown rapidly, while the third annual

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Festival

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will start with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet, Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertas, Nos, 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of Bach's St. Matthew' Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

43 NEW YORK POST, MONDAY, JULY 1, 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week-end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end beginning July 19.

Sunday Standard-Times
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 52,155

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Concerts to Open Wednesday

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

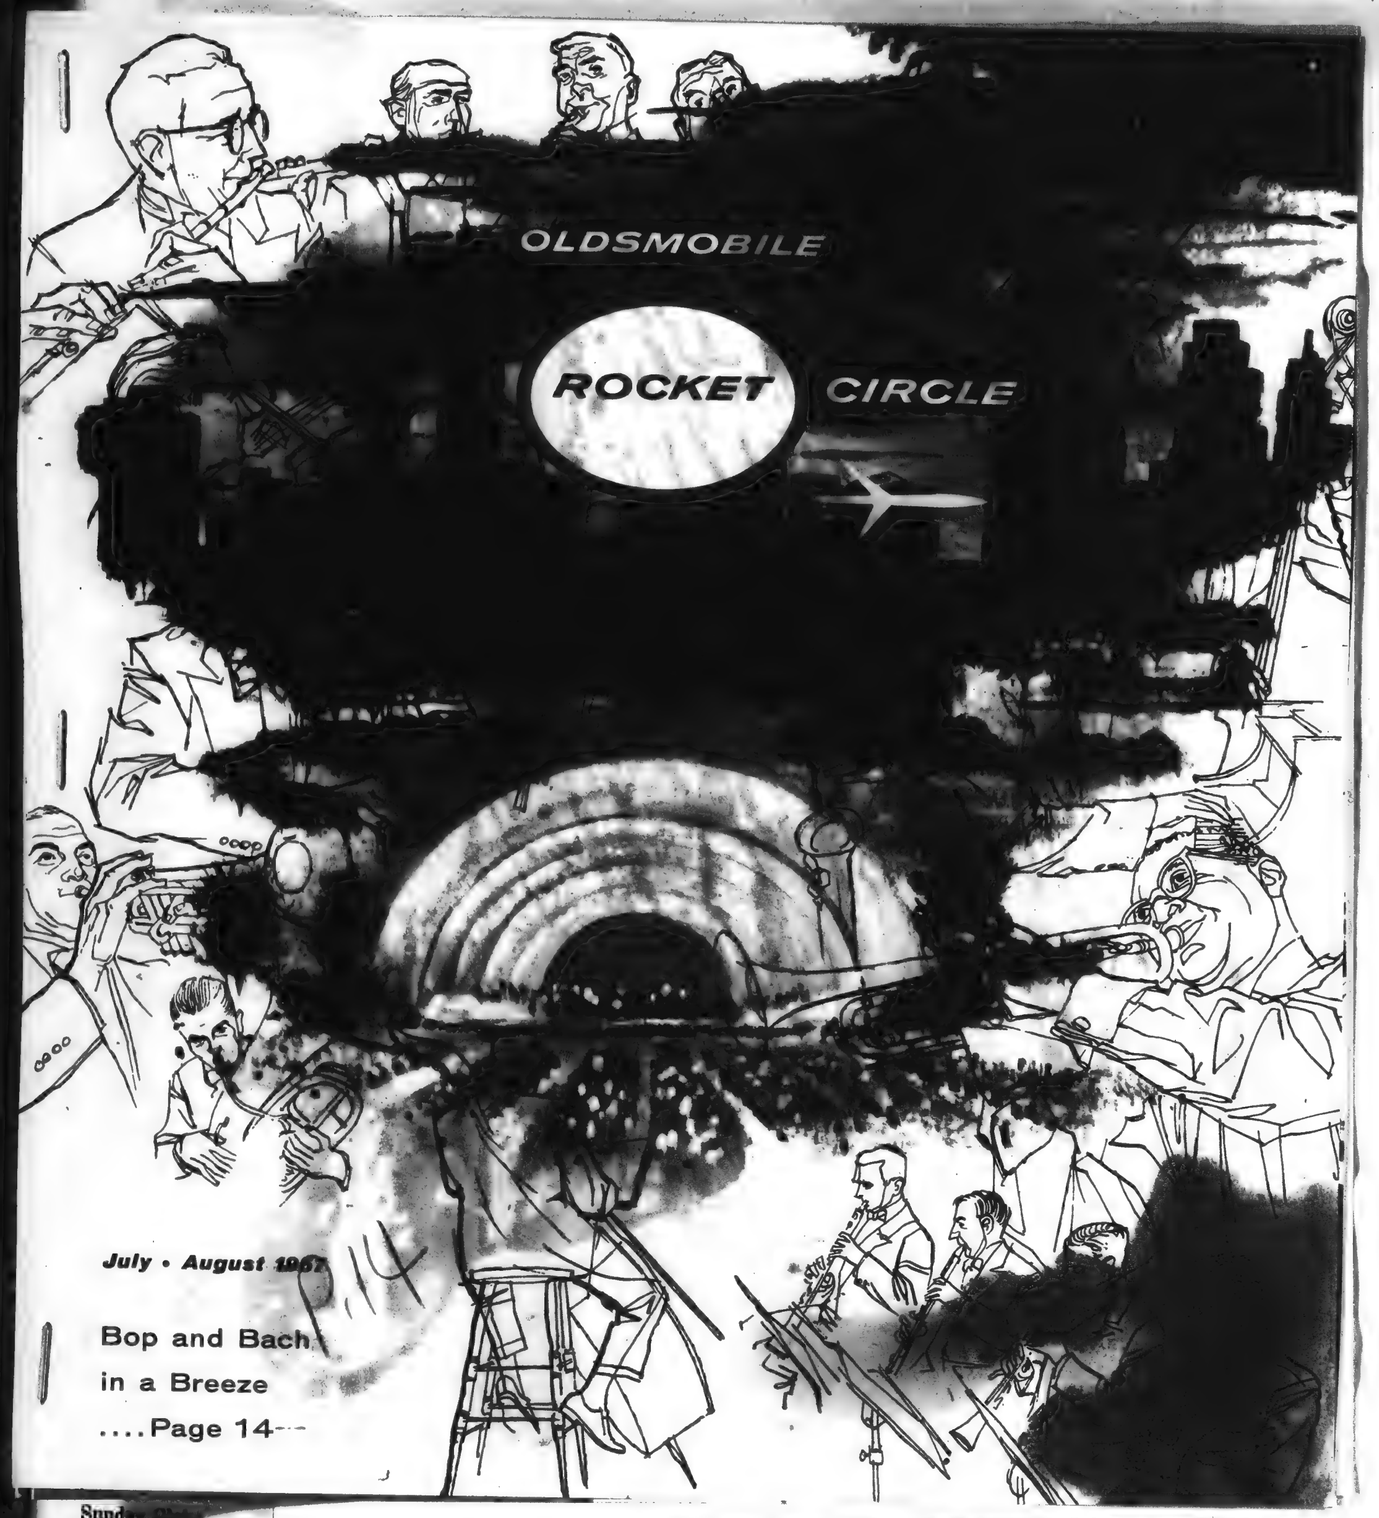
American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325

Tanglewood Opens Tomorrow

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open tomorrow at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from tomorrow to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3.



Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUN 30 1957

Tanglewood Standards

Soon the summer music season will be in full swing. Tanglewood, of course, tops the list as far as serious music in New England is concerned, with the opening series of all-Bach programs scheduled for next week end and a series of all-Mozart programs a week later, preliminary to the major concerts in the great Music Shed featuring the full Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Throughout the United States there will be more summer music available this season than ever before. Some of these outdoor events have been in operation longer than the one at Lenox, now entering its 20th season. The 40th season at Lewisohn Stadium, New York, already has begun, as has the 40th series by the Goldman Band in Central Park. In Boston, the annual "Pops" concerts are followed by those in Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade.

Philadelphia has its Robin Hood Dell concerts, with similar attractions at Chicago's Ravinia and Grant Park, Washington, D. C.'s Watergate, the Hollywood Bowl and elsewhere. The Aspen, Col., center has grown rapidly, while the third annual

Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Festival

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will start with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet, Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertas, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

13 NEW YORK POST, MONDAY, JULY 1, 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week-end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end beginning July 19.

Sunday Standard-Times
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 52,155

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Concerts to Open Wednesday

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

American (e) 7/6
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325

Tanglew[illegible] Tomorrow

The 20th season of the Berk[illegible]shire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open tomorrow at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six [illegible] and 24 concerts, running [illegible] tomorrow to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice [illegible]

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for [illegible] Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. [illegible] are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony [illegible] flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

BOP ... and BACH in a Breeze

Americans are taking their counterpoint with a dash of ozone this summer; a survey of the musical rush outdoors

MUSIC IN NATURAL SETTINGS . . . the rich curling notes of an oboe rustling through the trees . . . the splintering crash of a Turkish cymbal shimmering through the clear night . . . the lush concert throb of two-score violins, rushing through the bright summer air like a thousand thrushes . . .

It used to be, if you liked your pizzicato al fresco, you had to seek it out in the town square on Saturday night, when the Volunteer Firemen's Silver Cornet Band held forth from a hayrack. Then you could go to the county seat, and sip the schmaltzy semi-classics that wafted from the permanent circular bandstand. The big city offered a mammoth frenzy of a dozen bands booming across a stadium through loudspeakers ordinarily reserved for announcing football substitutions. That's the way it used to be . . . but, times have changed.

Americans, says composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein, have become closer to music, have a deeper appreciation, have become qualitative music lovers. And the outdoor music festival has had much to do with this. Somehow, the winter

(Continued on next page)

APOLLO Musical Club plays at Chicago's Grant Park bandshell. Park district music is free to public.

NEWPORT's afternoon jazz concert ensemble, above right, with Sonny Truit, trombone, and Bob Wilber, sax.

nday Globe
STON, Mass.
Independent
irc. 442,970

30 1957

rkshire Festival

th season of the Berkshire presented by the B... Orchestra, Charles ...usic director, will open ...k at Tanglewood, Lenox.

...7 season of six weeks and ...ts, running from July 3 to ... will start with a concert ...aganini String Quartet on ...ay evening, July 3, at 8:30 ...heater-Concert Hall. The ... which makes its first Tan... appearance at this con... present a program in... Beethoven's Quartet, Op. ...and the String Quartet in ...urice Ravel.

...certs of Friday and Sat... ...evenings in the Theater-... Hall at 8:30 will be devot... ...he music of Bach, and ...Munch will lead a chamber ... of Boston Symphony Or... ...players. Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertas, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, will be in the Music Shed, and will be devoted to Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

merican (e) 7/6
STON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325

Tanglew... ...Opens Tomorrow

The 20th season of the Berk... shire Festival presented by the ... Boston Symphony Orchestra, ... Charles Munch, music director, ... will open tomorrow at Tangle... wood, Lenox.

The 1957 sea... ...and 24 concerts, ... tomorrow to Aug. 11, wi... ...mence with a concert by the ...aganini String Quartet on Wed... ...evening at 8:30 in the ... Concert Hall. The Quar... ...let, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major ... devoted to ... and Charles Munch will lead ... chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concer... to No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin ... ...ard in the Concerto for T... ...nos in C ... ...or. Both ... ...and Mr. ... are mem... ...faculty ... ...he Berk... ...Center. ... Friday ... ...will a... ... the S... ...2 w... ... Anthon... ...ning at ... flute of the ... ...mphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3.

93 NEW YORK POST, MONDAY, JULY 1, 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week-end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end, beginning July 19.

Sunday Standard-Times
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 52,155

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Concerts to Open Wednes...

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

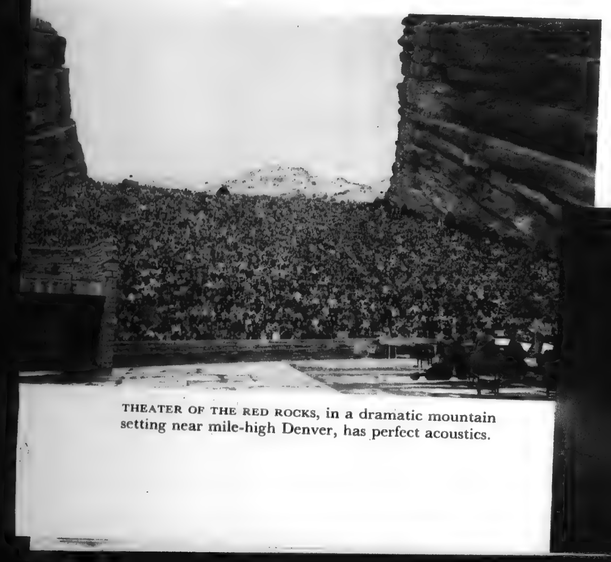
The concerts of Friday a... ...turday evenings in the T... Concert Hall at 8:30 will ... voted to the music of Ba... Charles Munch will lead ... ber orchestra of Boston ... phony Orchestra players. S... on Friday will be Lukas ... the Brandenburg Concerto ... and Mr. Foss with Seymo... kin will be heard in the Co... for Two Pianos in C minor. Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipk... members of the faculty ... Berkshire Music Center. ... Friday program will also i... the Suite No. 2 with Dori... thony Dwyer, principal fl... the Boston Symphony Orc... and the Suite No. 3. The c... of Saturday evening will ... voted to a performance ... Brandenburg Concertos, N... 2, 3, 6, 4.

concert hall set didn't attract the nourishment necessary to a growing American musical audience. The young listeners found some inspiration in recordings and FM, but even that group was small. It took the picnic atmosphere of the outdoor festival to build the exciting new audience for fine music. "Familiarity breeds content," is the way Earle Ludgin, president of the Ravinia Festival, describes it.

Charming settings, a rich varied program with big musical names, and reasonable ticket prices will be irresistible to 10,000,000 Americans this summer. They'll attend one or more of the nearly 100 outdoor music festivals—in quaint spots like Falls Village, Conn., or Fish Creek, Wis., and in big stadiums like New York's vast neo-Grecian Lewisohn, which proudly calls its outdoor music series "the world's largest-scale cultural project."

The most romantic settings, of course, are the mountain festivals, such as Aspen's, high in the Rockies; Denver's Red Rocks, a spectacularly beautiful outdoor auditorium built by nature from red sandstone; the Hollywood Bowl, world's largest natural amphitheater; the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., and the Empire Music Festival, in the Catskills at Ellenville, N.Y. The gentler slopes are endowed with some striking settings, too. The Omaha Symphony plays at Peony Park Royal Grove. Leopold Stokowski conducts classic and modern music in an old Spanish courthouse at Santa Barbara, Calif., and the Chicago

HOLLYWOOD BOWL, open through August 31, this season features such artists as Marian Anderson and William Steinberg.



THEATER OF THE RED ROCKS, in a dramatic mountain setting near mile-high Denver, has perfect acoustics.

LENOX, MASS. is summer music center, with Boston Symphony orchestra playing in the Tanglewood music shed (above), chamber music in the theater-concert hall and jazz concerts at the Berkshire Music Barn.

Symphony spells jazz greats, ballerinas and chamber groups in the wooded Ravinia Park, Highland Park, Ill. Pioneer Festival is at Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell, near the Schuylkill river. Nearly every noted name in classical music has played at "The Dell." Grand opera and operettas are summer fare in St. Louis, Kansas City and Cincinnati's Zoo Pavilion. Watergate in Washington, D. C., and Carmel, California, have active summer symphony programs. The music schools at Interlochen, Mich., Lake Chautauqua, N.Y., Blue Hill, Me., and Brevard, N.C., in the Blue Ridge mountains, all dispense cooling summer music under the skies.

Most of the fresh air festivals are dedicated to classical music. The big symphonies like the Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and New York's Symphony of the Air and its Philharmonic are the featured resident musicians. The modern idiom—in the form of jazz, from Dixie to the cool school—has each year found more space in the schedules. Lewisohn Stadium is as proud of its concerts by Frank Sinatra and Harry Belafonte as it is of the perennial Claremont Heights favorites: Heifetz, Rubinstein, Pons and Marian Anderson. Ravinia can thank a Benny Goodman concert in the late thirties for a fiscal rescue. Hollywood Bowl finds its Pop concerts (with the likes of Nat "King" Cole) perfectly compatible with its celebrated Symphony under the Stars (with the likes of Rise Stevens and Wallenstein). At Newport, R.I., an ancient and honorable resort, smart society was rent by a debate as to whether it would be proper to present the decibels of improvised jazz. Happily, the good sense leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lorillard prevailed. Society survived—and this July's American Jazz Festival celebrates the birthday of Mr. Louis Armstrong. In August, the classicists move in for Newport's Carnival of Music.

Whatever the program, you'll enjoy bop or Bach in the summer breezes. Some like to sit sedately in the music shed, pavilion or tent—others prefer to sprawl on a blanket, looking up at the stars flashing through the swaying trees as the full-throated band shell perfumes the air with inspired renditions. There's something about summer air that imparts a clarity of tone . . . an understanding of the universality of music.

JAZZ FESTIVALS, like this one at Newport, often feature critique sessions by distinguished panelists.

...day Globe
...STON, Mass.
...Independent
...irc. 442,970

...N 30 1957

...rkshire Festival

...th season of the Berkshire ... presented by the Boston ... Orchestra, Charles ... music director, will open ... at Tanglewood, Lenox, ...57 season of six weeks and ...ts, running from July 3 to ... will start with a concert ...aganini String Quartet on ...ay evening, July 3, at 8:30 ...heater-Concert Hall. The ... which makes its first Tan... appearance at this con... present a program in... Beethoven's Quartet, Op. ... and the String Quartet in ...urice Ravel.

...ncerts of Friday and Sat... evenings in the Theater-... Hall at 8:30 will be devot... the music of Bach, and ...unch will lead a chamber ... of Boston Symphony Or... players. Soloists Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Dorio... Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertas, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30, will be in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

...merican (e) 7/6
...OSTON, Mass.
...Independent
...Circ. 181,325

Tanglew... ...-Tipes Tomorrow

...The 20th season of the Berk... shire Festival presented by the ...Boston Symphony Orchestra, ...Charles Munch, music director, ...will open tomorrow at Tangle... ...wood, Lenox.

...The 1957 seas... ...and 24 concerts, runn... ...tomorrow to Aug. 11, will ...mence with a concert by the ...Paganini String Quartet on Wed... ...esday evening at 8:30 in the ...heater-Concert Hall. The Quar... ...tet, which makes its first Tangle... ...wood appearance at this concert, ...will present a program including ...Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 ...and the String Quartet in F ...Maurice ... ...devoted to... ...and Charles Munch will lead a ...chamber orchestra of Boston ...Symphony Orchestra players. So... ...loists on Friday will be Lukas ...Foss in the Brandenburg Concer... ...to No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Sey... ...mour Lipkin w... ...eard in the ...Concerto for ... ...os in C ...nor. Both M... ...nd Mr. ...n are mem... ...e faculty ...he Berk... ...Center. ...Friday ... ...will a ...the ... ...2 with ...Anthon... ...incipal ...flute of the ... ...mphony ...Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3.

...43 NEW YORK POST, MONDAY, JULY 1, 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week-end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end beginning July 19.

Sunday Standard-Times
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 52,155

JUN 3 0 1957

Berkshire Concerts to Open Wednes...

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from Wednesday to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday a... turday evenings in the T... Concert Hall at 8:30 will ... voted to the music of Bac... Charles Munch will lead a ... ber orchestra of Boston ... phony Orchestra players. S... on Friday will be Lukas F... the Brandenburg Concerto ... and Mr. Foss with Seymou... kin will be heard in the Co... for Two Pianos in C minor... Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipki... members of the faculty o... Berkshire Music Center. ... Friday program will also in... the Suite No. 2 with Dorio... thony Dwyer, principal flu... the Boston Symphony Orch... and the Suite No. 3. The co... of Saturday evening will b... voted to a performance o... Brandenburg Concertos, N... 3, 6, 4.

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
JUN 27 1957

[90]

THOUSANDS WILL LISTEN . . . while the baton of Dr. Charles Munch beckons music from the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood. The famous Festival opens on July 3.
Contributed Photo

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY, JULY 4

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Charles Munch, director, officially opens July 3 (Wednesday) with a concert of chamber music. The "small shed" weekends begin July 5. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000 will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part I of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Christian Science
Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,566
JUL 1 - 1957

Tanglewood Opens This Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival, presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2, and the String Quartet in F major of Maurice Ravel.

* * *

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

* * *

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052
JUN 27 1957

Tanglewood Concerts Begin Next Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open next week at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the theatre-concert hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the music shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Sunday Register
NEW HAVEN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 101,553
JUN 30 1957

MUSIC

Berkshire Music Festival Will Open On Wednesday

By GORDON E. ARMSTRONG

The Berkshires will again become one of the most attractive vacation spots for music lovers during the next several weeks. With the opening of the Berkshire Music Festival this week, Tanglewood will become a mecca for music devotees from far and near. They will come to hear one of the world's great orchestras, the Boston Symphony, perform amidst the idyllic and historic surroundings of these western Massachusetts hills.

Though the first concert of the Festival is scheduled for Wednesday, activities at Tanglewood will commence today with the opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center, the summer music school which has become an important part of the Festival during the past 15 years. Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston Symphony who also serves as the director of the school, will welcome this summer's group of students in an address this afternoon. Registrations this year include students from 35 states, Canada, and 17 foreign countries.

Many who plan to attend the Festival this summer will need to be reminded that student concerts, including weekly symphonic programs by a 100 piece student orchestra, are open free of charge to all who make a contribution to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center. These donations help to support the school. Actually student concerts outnumber the Festival programs themselves. Some 40 student events are scheduled this summer, embracing chamber music, symphony, choral, and opera performances.

The Paganini String Quartet will give the first Festival concert on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The program lists the Beethoven G major Quartet (Op. 18, No. 2). Ravel's Quartet in F major, and the Quartet No. 1 by Ginastera.

The Theater-Concert Hall will also be the locale for the concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings by a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony musicians. Mr. Munch will conduct both of these concerts which will be devoted to the music of Bach. Friday's concert will present the following works: Suite No. 3 in D major; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D major; Suite No. 2 in B minor (for flute and strings); Concerto in C minor for Two Pianos. Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, both of whom are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center, are to be the soloists in the latter work. Saturday evening's program lists five of the Brandenburg Concertos—Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6. Both of these concerts will commence at 8:30.

Next Sunday afternoon's concert in the Music Shed at 2:30 will have Mr. Munch on the podium for a performance of the Opening Chorus and Part II of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion." The Harvard Glee Club and the Choral Society of Radcliffe College will assist in the presentation. The soloists are to be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

Incidentally, a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Town Times
OAKVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,140
JUN 27 1957

Berkshire Festival Will Open July 3 At Tanglewood

The famed Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11, 1957.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
JUN 30 1957

Festival Opens

All roads will point to Lenox and Tanglewood in particular this week as the annual music festival gets under way at the famous mecca of music.

The 15th season of the Berkshire Festival gets under way tomorrow at 3.30 with a program in the theater-concert hall. A tea will be held in the garden.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival gets underway Wednesday and continues through Aug. 11. The six-week ends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings, plus the Sunday afternoon programs will be under direction of Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Pierre Monteux, and Carl Schuricht.

Journal
LAKEVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,292
JUN 27 1957

[90]

THOUSANDS WILL LISTEN . . . while the baton of Dr. Charles Munch beckons music from the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood. The famous Festival opens on July 3.
Contributed Photo

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY, JULY 4

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Charles Munch, director, officially opens July 3 (Wednesday) with a concert of chamber music. The "small shed" weekends begin July 5. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000 will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Town Times
OAKVILLE, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,140
JUN 27 1957

Berkshire Festival Will Open July 3 At Tanglewood

The famed Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11, 1957.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Christian Science
Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,566
JUL 1 - 1957

Tanglewood Opens This Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival, presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to Aug. 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2, and the String Quartet in F major of Maurice Ravel.

* * *

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theater-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

* * *

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052
JUN 27 1957

Tanglewood Concerts Begin Next Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open next week at Tanglewood, Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the theatre-concert hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the music shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Sunday Register
NEW HAVEN, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 101,558
JUN 30 1957

MUSIC

Berkshire Music Festival Will Open On Wednesday

By GORDON E. ARMSTRONG

The Berkshires will again become one of the most attractive vacation spots for music lovers during the next several weeks. With the opening of the Berkshire Music Festival this week, Tanglewood will become a mecca for music devotees from far and near. They will come to hear one of the world's great orchestras, the Boston Symphony, perform amidst the idyllic and historic surroundings of these western Massachusetts hills.

Though the first concert of the Festival is scheduled for Wednesday, activities at Tanglewood will commence today with the opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center, the summer music school which has become an important part of the Festival during the past 15 years. Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston Symphony who also serves as the director of the school, will welcome this summer's group of students in an address this afternoon. Registrations this year include students from 36 states, Canada, and 17 foreign countries.

Many who plan to attend the Festival this summer will need to be reminded that student concerts, including weekly symphonic programs by a 100 piece student orchestra, are open free of charge to all who make a contribution to the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center. These donations help to support the school. Actually student concerts outnumber the Festival programs themselves. Some 40 student events are scheduled this summer, embracing chamber music, symphony, choral, and opera performances.

The Paganini String Quartet will give the first Festival concert on Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. The program lists the Beethoven G major Quartet (Op. 18, No. 2). Ravel's Quartet in F major, and the Quartet No. 1 by Ginastera.

The Theater-Concert Hall will also be the locale for the concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings by a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony musicians. Mr. Munch will conduct both of these concerts which will be devoted to the music of Bach. Friday's concert will present the following works: Suite No. 3 in D major; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D major; Suite No. 2 in B minor (for flute and strings); Concerto in C minor for Two Pianos. Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, both of whom are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center, are to be the soloists in the latter work. Saturday evening's program lists five of the Brandenburg Concertos—Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6. Both of these concerts will commence at 8:30.

Next Sunday afternoon's concert in the Music Shed at 2:30 will have Mr. Munch on the podium for a performance of the Opening Chorus and Part II of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion." The Harvard Glee Club and the Choral Society of Radcliffe College will assist in the presentation. The soloists are to be: Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

Incidentally, a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788
JUN 30 1957

Festival Opens

All roads will point to Lenox, and Tanglewood in particular, this week as the annual music festival gets under way at the famous mecca of music.

The 15th season of the Berkshire Festival gets under way tomorrow at 3.30 with a program in the theater-concert hall. A tea will be held in the garden.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival gets underway Wednesday and continues through Aug. 11. The six-week ends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings, plus the Sunday afternoon programs will be under direction of Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Pierre Monteux, and [illegible]

...sclip Agency, Inc.
...• RIchmond 2-4200
...Times
...E, Conn.
...Independent
...2,140
...7. 1957

...e Festival ...n July 3 ...glewood

...Boston Symphony ...Munch, Music ...present the 20th ...Berkshire Festival ...Lenox, Mass. from ...t 11, 1957.

...ends of concerts, ...Saturday evenings ...ternoons, will be ...tion of Dr. Munch, ...x (July 20, 28) and ...(Aug. 2, 10). Each ...mphasize the works ...mposer — the first ...by an orchestra of ...rtions in the 1200- ...Concert Hall will be ...5, 6, 7) and all- ...12, 13, 14). The last ...of concerts by the ...phony in the Mu- ...6,000, will be de- ...vsky (July 19, 20, ...July 26, 27, 28), ...2, 3, 4) and ...9, 10, 11).

...perform the vi- ...of Tchaikovsky, ...thoven and Ru- ...be heard in the ...Piano Concerto. ...features will in- ...the 75th birthday ...with perform- ...anticum Sacrum" ...de Cartes" (July ...du Printemps"

...to be heard at the ...include Part II of ...thew Passion on ...ic Shed, Berliozz ...hrist" on Satur- ...nd at the closing ...afternoon, Au- ...ven's Ninth Sym- ...e concerts will be ...harles Munch. ...ill conduct several ...of Mozart in the ...day, July 12th. ...of chamber music ...rd on Wednesday ...Theatre-Concert ...ceeds of the con- ...the Tanglewood ...holarship Fund to ...ts at the Berkshire ...The series will in- ...s of chamber music ...Beethoven and Schu- ...porary works by Gin- ...Robert Casade- ...kovitch, and sev- ...features including a ...o duets by Sey- ...nd Ralph Berkowitz, ...e of Brahms "Lieb- ...izes" by a vocal ...on July 10, a song ...baritone, Gerard ...31, and a concert ...Sinfonietta just ...thcoming South ...Other groups in ...Paganini String ...eaux Arts Trio, ...String Quartet. ...rograms and ticket ...be had from the ...Tanglewood, Len-

...sclip Agency, Inc. ...6 • RIchmond 2-4200
...Republican ...FIELD, Mass. ...ndent ...111,788
...0 1957

...point to Lenox, ...in particular, ...annual music ...der way at the ...music. ...n of the Berk- ...ets under way ...with a program ...cert hall. A tea ...the garden. ...on of the Berk- ...gets underway ...continues through ...six-week ends of ...day and Saturday ...the Sunday after- ...will be under di- ...es Munch, music ...Boston Symphony ...Monteux, and

News-Times (e)
DANBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 16,330
JUN 27 1957

First Tanglewood Concert Leads Summer Openings

The summer season of music and dance festivals, art exhibitions and outdoor theater which traditionally gets under way around the Fourth of July holiday, is just around the corner with several of the more important perennial attractions in this area scheduled for opening during the coming week.

Next week marks the opening of the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony orchestra, Charles Munsch, director, at Tanglewood, in Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts will be inaugurated with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on July 3 at 8:30 p.m. in the Theater-Concert hall. The program will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major by Maurice Ravel.

Concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings, July 5 and 6, in the concert hall will be devoted to the music of Bach, with Charles Munsch leading a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday evening are announced as Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, pianists, and Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist. On Saturday evening, five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6 will be performed.

The first concert in the Music shed is scheduled for July 7 at 2:30 p.m. and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gram and James Joyce, basses. Choruses will be the Harvard Glee club and the Radcliffe Choral society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Press (e)
BRISTOL, Conn.
Independent Republican
Circ. 12,670
JUN 29 1957

Music Festival At Tanglewood Opens July 3rd

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to August 11. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20,28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2,10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5,6,7) and all-Mozart (July 12,13,14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19,20,21), Berlioz (July 26,27,28) Brahms (August 2,3,4) and Beethoven (August 9,10,11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven. Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 19) and "Jeu de Cartes" (July 21) "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Tanglewood Season Opens This Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director opens this week at Tanglewood in Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet tomorrow evening, July 3 at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

SEYMOUR LIPKIN

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor, Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society.

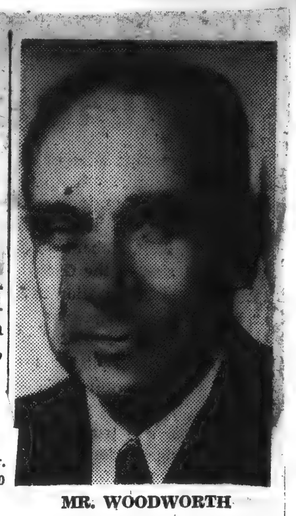
THE ECHO (JULY 2, 1957 • NEW LEBANON, NEW YORK

TALKING IT OVER

Harvard and Radcliffe Singers To Perform in 'Tanglewood'

By Emma Van Wormer

The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, director, will present a special concert for Friends of the Berkshire Music Center in the Theater Concert-Hall in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.



MR. WOODWORTH

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe also will make their third visit to "Tanglewood" for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion next Sunday afternoon, singing in the Music Shed with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under direction of Dr. Charles Munch. This will mark the close of the first weekend of the 1957 season in "Tanglewood," summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

In the July 6 concert, the program will include Palestrina's Stabat Mater sung by the two choirs and groups by each of the choruses. The concert will close with two works by Randall Thompson, choruses from "Mass of the Holy Spirit" and the "Alleluia," written for the opening exercise of the Berkshire Music Center in "Tanglewood" in 1940 and performed annually there by the school's student body.

Director Woodworth is known in this area, not only through his work with students from the two colleges, but through friends in Cazenovia where members of his family lived.

* * *

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052
JUN 28 1957

Harvard Singers At Tanglewood

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood this season for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon, July 7, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first weekend of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season. The two choruses appeared first at the Berkshire Festival in 1954 in a performance of "The Damnation of Faust" and again in 1955 in Bach's B Minor Mass.

The program will open with Palestrina's Stabat Mater for two choirs. A group by the Radcliffe chorus alone includes the madrigal "On the Plains, Fairy Trains" by Weelkes, the Benedictus from Palestrina's Mass "O Admirabile Commercium" and two madrigals by Thomas Beveridge, a Harvard student of the class of 1959. The Harvard Glee Club will present "Justorum Animae" by Byrd, Elegy by Arne, and "The Windhover" by Russell Woolen, which was written for the Glee Club in 1955. The concert will close with two works by Randall Thompson, choruses from "Mass of the Holy Spirit," and the Alleluia, a work written for the opening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center in 1940 and performed annually by the school's student body, who will again perform it at this year's opening on Sunday, June 30.

THE BOSTON HERALD, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1957

Harvard Choruses At Berkshire Fete

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

News-Tribune (e)
WALTHAM, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 14,176
JUL 11 1957

1957 Berkshire Festival Opening July 19 Weekend

The 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox will open its series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, in the 6000-seat Music Shed on the weekend of July 19-20-21. Four weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be enjoyed by thousands, both inside the famous Music Shed, and outside on the lawns of the beautiful Tanglewood Estate. Many people picnic on the grounds prior to the concert. The grounds are open at 6 P.M. for evening concerts and 12 noon on Sundays for those who wish to take advantage of this pleasant custom.

Tanglewood [illegible], approached by route [illegible] Taconic Parkway from New York City and points south. The New York State Thruway and the new Massachusetts Turnpike bring visitors to Tanglewood in a little over two hours from Boston, thus allowing music lovers from the Eastern part of New England to drive to Tanglewood, attend a Berkshire Festival concert, and return to their homes in a single day of easy driving.

Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
JUL 11 1957

-:- HEADS SYMPHONY -:-

CHARLES MUNCH

Mr. Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and director of the Berkshire Music Center, summer music school maintained by the Boston Symphony, shares direction of the orchestra at the 1957 Berkshire Festival with Conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. This summer the Berkshire Festival runs through August 11.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235
JUL 9 - 1957

Selectmen Name Special Policemen Tor Tanglewood Duty

STOCKBRIDGE—The Selectmen last night appointed three special police officers for duty on the Tanglewood grounds and another for traffic duty during the Festival season.

Herbert Tenney, George W. Schneyer and Cornelius J. Obanhein were appointed for duty on the grounds. Charles E. Tenney was appointed for traffic duty.

The board issued the Boston Symphony Orchestra a permit to operate a cafeteria at Tanglewood.

Edward J. Johnston was issued a permit to erect a milk house at his property on Hill Road. John Edwards was issued a permit to sell soft drinks at his Gulf Service Station on South Street.

Guest house permits were issued to Mrs. James H. Dietrich of Main Street; Mrs. Robert K. Vincent, Church Street; Mrs. Emil Burling, Goodrich Street; Mrs. Bartlett A. Pitney Sr., Shamrock Street, and Richard Wells, East Main Street.

News-Times (e)
DANBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 16,330

JUN 27 1957

First Tanglewood Concert Leads Summer Openings

The summer season of music and dance festivals, art exhibitions and outdoor theater which traditionally gets under way around the Fourth of July holiday, is just around the corner with several of the more important perennial attractions in this area scheduled for opening during the coming week.

Next week marks the opening of the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony orchestra, Charles Munsch, director, at Tanglewood, in Lenox, Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts will be inaugurated with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on July 3 at 8:30 p.m. in the Theater-Concert hall. The program will include Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major by Maurice Ravel.

Concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings, July 5 and 6, in the concert hall will be devoted to the music of Bach, with Charles Munsch leading a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday evening are announced as Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, pianists, and Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist. On Saturday evening, five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6 will be performed.

The first concert in the Music shed is scheduled for July 7 at 2:30 p.m. and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gram and James Joyce, basses. Choruses will be the Harvard Glee club and the Radcliffe Choral society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Press (e)
BRISTOL, Conn.
Independent Republican
Circ. 12,670

JUN 29 1957

Music Festival At Tanglewood Opens July 3rd

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to August 11. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20,28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2,10) Each weekend will emphasize the works of a specific composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all Bach (July 5,6,7) and all-Mozart (July 12,13,14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19,20,21), Berlioz (July 26,27,28) Brahms August 2,3,4) and Beethoven August 9,10,11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Cantleum Sacrum" (July 21) "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part III of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Tanglewood Season Opens This Week

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, opens this week at Tanglewood in Lenox.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet tomorrow evening, July 3 at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

SEYMOUR LIPKIN

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor, Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprano, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society.

THE BOSTON ECHO, JULY 2, 1957 - NEW LEBANON, NEW YORK

TALKING IT OVER

Harvard and Radcliffe Singers To Perform in 'Tanglewood'

By Emma Van Wormer

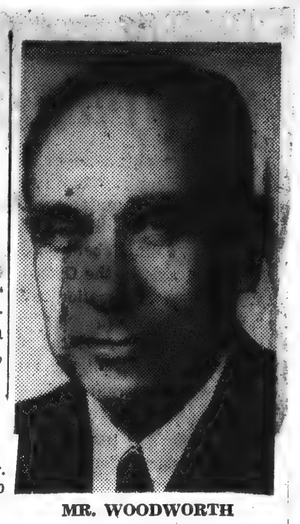
The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, director, will present a special concert for Friends of the Berkshire Music Center in the Theater Concert-Hall in "Tanglewood," Lenox, Mass., Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe also will make their third visit to "Tanglewood" for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion next Sunday afternoon, singing in the Music Shed with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under direction of Dr. Charles Munch. This will mark the close of the first weekend of the 1957 season in "Tanglewood," summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

In the July 6 concert, the program will include Palestrina's Stabat Mater sung by the two choirs and groups by each of the choruses. The concert will close with two works by Randall Thompson, choruses from "Mass of the Holy Spirit" and the "Alleluia," written for the opening exercise of the Berkshire Music Center in "Tanglewood" in 1940 and performed annually there by the school's student body.

Director Woodworth is known in this area, not only through his work with students from the two colleges, but through friends in Cazenovia where members of his family lived.

* * *



MR. WOODWORTH

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Hampshire Gazette (e)
NORTHAMPTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,052

JUN 28 1957

Harvard Singers At Tanglewood

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood this season for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon, July 7, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first weekend of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season. The two choruses appeared first at the Berkshire Festival in 1954 in a performance of "The Damnation of Faust" and again in 1955 in Bach's B Minor Mass.

The program will open with Palestrina's Stabat Mater for two choirs. A group by the Radcliffe chorus alone includes the madrigal "On the Plains, Fairy Trains" by Weelkes, the Benedictus from Palestrina's Mass "O Admirabile Commercium" and two madrigals by Thomas Beveridge, a Harvard student of the class of 1959. The Harvard Glee Club will present "Justorum Animae" by Byrd Elegy by Arne, and "The Windhover" by Russell Woolen, which was written for the Glee Club in 1955. The concert will close with two works by Randall Thompson choruses from "Mass of the Holy Spirit," and the Alleluia, a work written for the opening exercise of the Berkshire Music Center in 1940 and performed annually by the school's student body, who will again perform it at this year's opening on Sunday, June 30.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Sunday Republican
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 44,706

JUN 30 1957

College Choral Groups To Sing At Tanglewood

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to friends of the Berkshire Music Center, on Saturday afternoon, July 6, at 2:30, in the Theater-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

The singers from Harvard and Radcliffe are making their third visit to Tanglewood this season for a performance of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on Sunday afternoon, July 7, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch. This concert, which will take place in the Music Shed, will close the first week end of the 1957 Berkshire Festival season.

NY -:-

CHARLES MUNCH

Mr. Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and director of the Berkshire Music Center, summer music school maintained by the Boston Symphony, shares direction of the orchestra at the 1957 Berkshire Festival with Conductors Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht. This summer the Berkshire Festival runs through August 11.

THE BOSTON HERALD, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1957

Harvard Choruses At Berkshire Fete

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society under the direction of their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, will present a special concert open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30, in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox. The concert will include works from various periods of choral literature and several contemporary works performed by the two choruses together and separately.

News-Tribune (e)
WALTHAM, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 14,176

JUL 11 1957

1957 Berkshire Festival Opening July 19 Weekend

The 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox will open its series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, in the 6000-seat Music Shed on the weekend of July 19-20-21. Four weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be enjoyed by thousands, both inside the famous Music Shed, and outside on the lawns of the beautiful Tanglewood Estate. Many people picnic on the grounds prior to the concert. The grounds are open at 6 P.M. for evening concerts and 12 noon on Sundays for those who wish to take advantage of this pleasant custom.

Tanglewood is easily approached by route the Taconic Parkway from New York City and points south. The New York State Thruway and the new Massachusetts Turnpike bring visitors to Tanglewood in a little over two hours from Boston, thus allowing music lovers from the Eastern part of New England to drive to Tanglewood, attend a Berkshire Festival concert, and return to their homes in a single day of easy driving.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 9 - 1957

Selectmen Name Special Policemen Tor Tanglewood Duty

STOCKBRIDGE—The Selectmen last night appointed three special police officers for duty on the Tanglewood grounds and another for traffic duty during the Festival season.

Herbert Tenney, George W. Schneyer and Cornelius J. Obanhein were appointed for duty on the grounds. Charles E. Tenney was appointed for traffic duty.

The board issued the Boston Symphony Orchestra a permit to operate a cafeteria at Tanglewood.

Edward J. Johnston was issued a permit to erect a milk house at his property on Hill Road. John Edwards was issued a permit to sell soft drinks at his Gulf Service Station on South Street.

Guest house permits were issued to Mrs. James H. Dietrich of Main Street; Mrs. Robert K. Vincent, Church Street; Mrs. Emil Burling, Goodrich Street; Mrs. Bartlett A. Pitney Sr., Shamrock Street, and Richard Wells, East Main Street.

[92]

4—The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, July 6, 1957

First Shed Concert Tomorrow Features St. Matthew Passion

Adele Addison

John McCollum

TANGLEWOOD — The second Chamber Orchestra concert in the 1957 Berkshire Festival will be held tonight in the Theater-Concert Hall, at 8:30. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct members of the orchestra in a concert of Brandenburg Concertos by Bach.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music Shed at 2:30. The increased capacity of the Shed will allow a far greater number of people to attend this concert of the "St. Matthew Passion," including the Opening Chorus and Part II of this great monument of choral music.

Five Soloists

The solo singers are well known to Tanglewood audiences, having appeared many times at Berkshire Festival concerts —Adele Addison, soprano, a native of Springfield; Florence Kopleff, alto, from New York City; John McCollum, tenor, from Ossining, N.Y.; Donald Gramm, bass, also from New York City; and James Joyce, bass, native of Boston.

The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society will make a special trip from Boston with their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, to appear in this concert. The choruses presented a special a cappella concert, conducted by Mr. Woodworth, in the Chamber Music Hall this afternoon for friends of the Berkshire Music Center. The program will include works of Palestrina, Byrd, Arne, and contemporary works by Thomas Beveridge, a Harvard undergraduate, Russell Woollen, and Randall Thomson.

Tickets are available at the Tanglewood Box Office for the concert of Sunday, July 7, and for succeeding concerts of the Berkshire Festival. Telephone reservations are accepted at Lenox 600. The grounds will be open to concert-goers at 12 noon on Sunday afternoon for those who wish to picnic on the lawns before the concert.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

News (e)
SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 4,859

JUL 11 1957

Berkshire Concerts Begin On July 19 at Tanglewood

LENOX, Mass.—The 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will open its series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Charles Munch, in the 6,000-seat Music Shed on the weekend of July 19-21. Four weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be enjoyed by thousands, both inside the famous Music Shed, and outside on the lawns of the beautiful Tanglewood Estate. Many people picnic on the grounds prior to the concert. The grounds are open at 6 p. m. for evening concerts and 12 noon on Sundays for those who wish to take advantage of this pleasant custom.

The new Massachusetts Turnpike brings visitors to Tanglewood in a little over two hours from Boston, thus allowing music lovers from the eastern part of New England to drive to Tanglewood, attend a Berkshire Festival concert, and return to their homes in a single day of easy driving.

The concerts of the first weekend (July 19-20-21) are devoted to music of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, and conducted by Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux. An especially interesting series of Berlioz programs has been chosen by Charles Munch for the weekend of July 26-27-28.

Dr. Munch, who is known as a specialist in the performance of Berlioz, will conduct two of the concerts, and Pierre Monteux the third. A good choice of tickets is still available for this concert, and good accommodations may still be had in the area for this particular weekend.

Programs for the following weekend (August 2-3-4) will emphasize the music of Brahms, and the fourth and final weekend (August 9-10-11) is devoted to Beethoven. Charles Munch will conduct two concerts in each weekend, and the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, one.

Information on tickets and programs, as well as a descriptive circular about other activities in the Berkshire area, may be had by writing the Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

News Advertiser
WESTFIELD, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2700

JUL 11 1957

Tanglewood Concert Series Begin July 19

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch, the Orchestra's Music Director, will open on Friday, July 19, with the first of a series of concerts in the great 6,000 seat Music Shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The concerts on Friday evening and Sunday afternoon (July 19 and 21) under Dr. Munch's direction, and on Saturday evening (July 20) conducted by guest conductor, Pierre Monteux, will be devoted to music of Tchaikovsky and, in celebration of his 75th birthday this year, of Igor Stravinsky. Soloists will be Isaac Stern, violin (July 21), and Samuel Mayes, cello (July 19). The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 21) will be dedicated to the memory of Serge Koussevitzky and will feature a performance of Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus and soloists.

The Orchestra of 106 players will assemble for the first time since the close of the winter season in Symphony Hall, when players who have been appearing in the free concerts on the Charles River Esplanade in Boston under the direction of Arthur Fiedler will come to the Berkshire Hills to join the members, including 36 principals, who have been performing as a chamber orchestra in the Bach-Mozart series, as well as serving as faculty members for students of the Berkshire Music Center.

In addition to the 6,000 accommodated in the Music Shed, additional thousands of music lovers will enjoy the season's twelve weekend concerts from the lawns outside, many of them taking advantage of the opportunity to picnic on the grounds prior to the concert.

The Friday evening concert (July 19) conducted by Charles Munch will include two works of Tchaikovsky, the Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra, with the Orchestra's first cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist, and the Sixth Symphony (Pathetique). Samuel Mayes, solo cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1948, has appeared several times at the Berkshire Festival concerts as soloist and will present the first performance in the United States of the original version of this work. The Variations were first published in 1878 in a version by the cellist, Fitzenhagen, who made certain changes in the order of the Variations. Mr. Mayes now performs them in the order intended by the composer, and is the first exponent in the Western world of this original version newly published in Moscow. Dr. Munch opens the Friday evening program with a performance of Stravinsky's "Card Game" (Ballet in Three Deals) written for the American Ballet in 1937.

The concert of Saturday evening, July 20, will be under the direction of the guest conductor, Pierre Monteux. Regular Conductor of the Boston Symphony from 1919 to 1924, Mr. Monteux has appeared frequently in recent years as guest conductor at Tanglewood and in Boston. He shared with Dr. Munch the concerts of the Orchestra's European tour in 1952, the transcontinental tour in 1952, and the European tour of last summer, conducting concerts in both Leningrad and Moscow, as well as in Edinburgh, London, Paris and Switzerland. Mr. Monteux' program will include Mendelssohn's Overture "The Hebrides" ("Fingal's Cave"), Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and, in tribute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky, "The Rite of Spring" which was introduced to a Paris audience in 1913 with Mr Monteux conducting, causing a near riot in the Theatre des Champs Elysees where the performance took place. Mr. Monteux later introduced the work in Boston and in New York.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 21, to the memory of Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, for 25 years conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the man who turned the Tanglewood idea into a reality. Dr. Koussevitzky not only developed the Berkshire Festival concerts, but also founded the Orchestra's summer school of music at Tanglewood, the Berkshire Music Center. The salute to Stravinsky will continue at this concert when Dr. Munch conducts a performance of his new work, the "Canticum Sacrum" (The Sacred Canticle in Honor of Saint Mark). The soloists will be John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm, baritone; and the Festival Chorus will be prepared by Hugh Ross. The "Canticum Sacrum" was first performed in St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice as part of the Venice Festival in September 1956. The first American performance was on the West Coast as part of a special birthday concert on June 17 conducted by Stravinsky's pupil, Robert Craft. Isaac Stern will be the soloist in the Tchaikovsky violin concerto, the first of three appearances he will make at Tanglewood this summer. He will also play the concertos of Brahms (August 3) and Beethoven (August 9). The program will open with Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture.

The third in the series of Wednesday evening Chamber Music concerts on Wednesday, July 19, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall will mark the third appearance at Tanglewood of the Beaux Arts Trio, which made its official debut in this same hall in the summer of 1955. The members of the trio, Daniel Guilet, violin: Bernard Greenhouse, cello; and Menahem Pressler, Piano, will present a program of trios by Haydn, Robert Casadesus, and Beethoven. The Casadesus trio is performed for the first time at this concert.

Evening concerts at Tanglewood are at 8:30 p.m.; afternoon concerts at 2:30 p.m. The grounds open at 6 p.m. and 12 noon for those who wish to picnic on the lawns or tour the grounds before the concert starts General admission to the grounds is on sale the day of the performance. A Public Rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will be held on Saturday morning, July 20 at 10 o'clock. Admission is $1 for the benefit of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Pension Fund.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Graphic
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 5,000

JUL 6 - 1957

TANGLE WOOD

The 20th season of the Bershire Festival at Tanglewood, opened July 3 and will continue through Aug 11. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schurecht. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer, the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the Theatre Concert Hall with an all-Mozart program July 12, 13 and 14. The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in THE MUSIC Shed will be devoted to Tchaikovsky, July 19, 20 and 21 Berlioz, July 26, 27 and 28; Brahms, Aug. 2, 3, and 4; Beethoven, Aug. 9, 10 and 11.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078. Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Jewish Advocate
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 26,550

JUL 11 1957

WGBH Airs Tanglewood Concerts on Saturdays

For the fourth consecutive year, WGBH-FM is presenting broadcasts of all 18 Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts at Tanglewood during the summer. Charles Munch, the Orchestra's musical director, will conduct many of the concerts. Guest conductors will include Pierre Monteux, Carl Schuricht and Hugh Ross.

In addition, concerts by student ensembles and recitals by chamber groups and soloists will be recorded. The broadcasts will again be under the direction of Jordan M. Whitelaw, the station's music manager.

Concerts from Tanglewood are broadcast in the regular Saturday night Boston Symphony time of 8:30. The program Saturday evening, July 13, includes Bach's Brandenburg Concertos Numbers -, 2, 3, 6 and 4.

The schedule in prospect is similar to that of 1956-57 during which WGBH-FM has presented 52 weeks of music by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 48 concerts from the regular Friday-Saturday Symphony Hall subscription series, 18 from Tanglewood and eight by the Boston Pops Orchestra. In addition, performances by student ensembles, smaller chamber groups and soloists will be presented throughout the coming year.

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Co
Independent Democ
Circ. 116,012
JUL 6 - 1957

Music Co

SUNDAY
2:30 — Boston Orchestra, Harv Club, Radcliffe C ciety and soloist Munch conducting Bach St. Matthe Tanglewood She Mass.
2:30 — Symph Air, Igor Marke ducting, and Ame cert Choir directe garet Hillis, with Beethoven's phony; Empire S Festival, Ellenvill
3:30—In Trance Elizabeth Park,
4:00 — Berksh and gues artis Mountain Falls
8:30 — Royal let soloi Ro conductin Symp Air; Empire S Festival, Ellenvil
8:40—Dave Bru tet; Berkshire Lenox, Mass.

TUESDAY
8:00 — Starli of Chamber Mus Gallery Co tyre ven.
8:30 — Royal let soloists; Ja Dance Festival, Mass.

WEDNESDAY
7:15 — G. Ba Plumb Memori Trinity College
8:30 — Jey

Area Re
Report C
Weekend
LENOX—Reso ported full house even though this be the quietest Tanglewood sea
The Lenox said that busine Saturday morni ants said that p ing in for rooms day and filled room registere
Avaloch, M Curtis Hotel a the weekend Avaloch said staying in as 90 at the Reasons

THE WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS, WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, 1957

the Open Road

By JOHN F. McLEOD

SOME people go to Broadway openings or collect new postage stamps for kicks. Others like to be among the first to travel on the U. S. A.'s ever-increasing number of fabulous new highways.

This is an especially good summer for Americans to auto-adventure (or bus-adventure) on brand new roads.

Massachusetts, for instance, has a spanking new turnpike extending from Boston's suburbs to the New York state line. A lot of Washingtonians going to the Berkshire Music Festival—always a good idea—are expected to go a bit out of their way just to ride that turnpike.

TO POCONOS

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION,
MONDAY, JULY 15, 1957

Sunday Crowds Take to Open

Pittsfield, July 14—Perfect July weather brought thousands of Berkshire and out of state residents to local picnic and bathing areas during the day.

Vincent J. Hebert, superintendent of Dept. of Parks and Recreation, reported that 6500 persons jammed pine grove and beach facilities at Pontoosuc Lake during the morning and afternoon with almost as many Connecticut and New York cars in parking areas as Massachusetts registrations.

Fifty-five hundred were at Onta Lake where the second in the series of band concerts by the Eagles Band was held.

The concerts are provided through the co-operation of the Dept of Parks and Musicians Union Local 109.

Other thousands enjoyed a day in the open in various state forest areas and roadside picnic areas. Almost 1000 were at the music barn in Lenox tonight to hear the Gerry Mulligan Quintet and about 3000 heard the final concert in the Bach Mozart series at Tanglewood this afternoon.

[92]

4—The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, July 6, 1957

First Shed Concert Tomorrow Features St. Matthew Passion

Adele Addison

John McCollum

TANGLEWOOD — The second Chamber Orchestra concert in the 1957 Berkshire Festival will be held tonight in the Theater-Concert Hall, at 8:30. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct members of the orchestra in a concert of Brandenburg Concertos by Bach.

Tomorrow afternoon, the third all-Bach concert will be conducted by Dr. Munch in the Music Shed at 2:30. The increased capacity of the Shed will allow a far greater number of people to attend this concert of the "St. Matthew Passion," including the Opening Chorus and Part II of this great monument of choral music.

Five Soloists

The solo singers are well known to Tanglewood audiences, having appeared many times at Berkshire Festival concerts —Adele Addison, soprano, a native of Springfield; Florence Kopleff, alto, from New York City; John McCollum, tenor, from Ossining, N.Y.; Donald Gramm, bass, also from New York City; and James Joyce, bass, native of Boston.

The Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society will make a special trip from Boston with their conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth, to appear in this concert. The chorus will presented a special a cappella concert, conducted by Mr. Woodworth, in the Chamber Music Hall this afternoon for friends of the Berkshire Music Center. The program will include works of Palestrina, Byrd, Arne, and contemporary works by Thomas Beveridge, a Harvard undergraduate, Russell Woollen, and Randall Thomson.

Tickets are available at the Tanglewood Box Office for the concert of Sunday, July 7, and for succeeding concerts of the Berkshire Festival. Telephone reservations are accepted at Lenox 600. The grounds will be open to concert-goers at 12 noon on Sunday afternoon for those who wish to picnic on the lawns before the concert.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News (e)
SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 4,859
JUL 11 1957

Berkshire Concerts Begin On July 19 at Tanglewood

LENOX, Mass.—The 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will open its series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Charles Munch, in the 6,000-seat Music Shed on the weekend of July 19-21. Four weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be enjoyed by thousands, both inside the famous Music Shed, and outside on the lawns of the beautiful Tanglewood Estate. Many people picnic on the grounds prior to the concert. The grounds are open at 6 p. m. for evening concerts and 12 noon on Sundays for those who wish to take advantage of this pleasant custom.

The new Massachusetts Turnpike brings visitors to Tanglewood in a little over two hours from Boston, thus allowing music lovers from the eastern part of New England to drive to Tanglewood, attend a Berkshire Festival concert, and return to their homes in a single day of easy driving.

The concerts of the first weekend (July 19-20-21) are devoted to music of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, and conducted by Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux. An especially interesting series of Berlioz programs has been chosen by Charles Munch for the weekend of July 26-27-28.

Dr. Munch, who is known as a specialist in the performance of Berlioz, will conduct two of the concerts, and Pierre Monteux the third. A good choice of tickets is still available for this concert, and good accommodations may still be had in the area for this particular weekend.

Programs for the following weekend (August 2-3-4) will emphasize the music of Brahms, and the fourth and final weekend (August 9-10-11) is devoted to Beethoven. Charles Munch will conduct two concerts in each weekend, and the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, one.

Information on tickets and programs, as well as a descriptive circular about other activities in the Berkshire area, may be had by writing the Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
News Advertiser
WESTFIELD, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2700
JUL 11 1957

Tanglewood Concert Series Begin July 19

The first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Munch the Orchestra's Music Director, will open on Friday, July 19, with the first of a series of concerts in the great 6,000 seat Music Shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The concerts on Friday evening and Sunday afternoon (July 19 and 21) under Dr. Munch's direction, and on Saturday evening (July 20) conducted by guest conductor, Pierre Monteux, will be devoted to music of Tchaikovsky and, in celebration of his 75th birthday this year, of Igor Stravinsky. Soloists will be Isaac Stern, violin (July 21), and Samuel Mayes, cello (July 19). The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 21) will be dedicated to the memory of Serge Koussevitzky and will feature a performance of Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus and soloists.

The Orchestra of 106 players will assemble for the first time since the close of the winter season in Symphony Hall, when players who have been appearing in the free concerts on the Charles River Esplanade in Boston under the direction of Arthur Fiedler will come to the Berkshire Hills to join the members, including 36 principals, who have been performing as a chamber orchestra in the Bach-Mozart series, as well as serving as faculty members for students of the Berkshire Music Center.

In addition to the 6,000 accommodated in the Music Shed, additional thousands of music lovers will enjoy the season's twelve weekend concerts from the lawns outside, many of them taking advantage of the opportunity to picnic on the grounds prior to the concert.

The Friday evening concert (July 19) conducted by Charles Munch will include two works of Tchaikovsky, the Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra, with the Orchestra's first cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist, and the Sixth Symphony (Pathetique). Samuel Mayes, solo cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1948, has appeared several times at the Berkshire Festival concerts as soloist and will present the first performance in the United States of the original version of this work. The Variations were first published in 1878 in a version by the cellist, Fitzenhagen, who made certain changes in the order of the Variations. Mr. Mayes now performs them in the order intended by the composer, and is the first exponent in the Western world of this original version newly published in Moscow. Dr. Munch opens the Friday evening program with a performance of Stravinsky's "Card Game" (Ballet in Three Deals) written for the American Ballet in 1937.

The concert of Saturday evening, July 20 will be under the direction of the guest conductor, Pierre Monteux. Regular Conductor of the Boston Symphony from 1919 to 1924, Mr. Monteux has appeared frequently in recent years as guest conductor at Tanglewood and in Boston. He shared with Dr. Munch the concerts of the Orchestra's European tour in 1952, the transcontinental tour in 1952, and the European tour of last summer, conducting concerts in both Leningrad and Moscow, as well as in Edinburgh, London, Paris and Switzerland. Mr. Monteux' program will include Mendelssohn's Overture "The Hebrides" ("Fingal's Cave"), Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and, in tribute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky, "The Rite of Spring" which was introduced to a Paris audience in 1913 with Mr Monteux conducting, causing a near riot in the Theatre des Champs Elysees where the performance took place. Mr. Monteux later introduced the work in Boston and in New York.

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 21, to the memory of Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, for 25 years conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the man who turned the Tanglewood idea into a reality. Dr. Koussevitzky not only developed the Berkshire Festival concerts, but also founded the Orchestra's summer school of music at Tanglewood, the Berkshire Music Center. The salute to Stravinsky will continue at this concert when Dr. Munch conducts a performance of his new work, the "Canticum Sacrum." (The Sacred Canticle in Honor of Saint Mark). The soloists will be John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm, baritone; and the Festival Chorus will be prepared by Hugh Ross. The "Canticum Sacrum" was first performed in St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice as part of the Venice Festival in September 1956. The first American performance was on the West Coast as part of a special birthday concert on June 17 conducted by Stravinsky's pupil, Robert Craft. Isaac Stern will be the soloist in the Tchaikovsky violin concerto, the first of three appearances he will make at Tanglewood this summer. He will also play the concertos of Brahms (August 3) and Beethoven (August 9). The program will open with Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture.

The third in the series of Wednesday evening Chamber Music concerts on Wednesday, July 19, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall will mark the third appearance at Tanglewood of the Beaux Arts Trio, which made its official debut in this same hall in the summer of 1955. The members of the trio, Daniel Guilet, violin; Bernard Greenhouse, cello; and Menahem Pressler, Piano, will present a program of trios by Haydn, Robert Casadesus, and Beethoven. The Casadesus trio is performed for the first time at this concert.

Evening concerts at Tanglewood are at 8:30 p.m.; afternoon concerts at 2:30 p.m. The grounds open at 6 p.m. and 12 noon for those who wish to picnic on the lawns or tour the grounds before the concert starts. General admission to the grounds is on sale the day of the performance. A Public Rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed will be held on Saturday morning, July 20 at 10 o'clock. Admission is $1 for the benefit of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Pension Fund.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Graphic
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 5,000
JUL 6 - 1957

TANGLE WOOD

The 20th season of the Bershire Festival at Tanglewood, opened July 3 and will continue through Aug 11. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Charles Munch, musical director of the Boston Symphony orchestra, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schurecht. Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer, the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the Theatre Concert Hall with an all-Mozart program July 12, 13 and 14. The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in THE MUSIC Shed will be devoted to Tchaikovsky, July 19, 20 and 21 Berlioz, July 26, 27 and 28; Brahms, Aug. 2, 3, and 4; Beethoven, Aug. 9, 10 and 11.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Jewish Advocate
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 26,550
JUL 11 1957

WGBH Airs Tanglewood Concerts on Saturdays

For the fourth consecutive year, WGBH-FM is presenting broadcasts of all 18 Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts at Tanglewood during the summer. Charles Munch, the Orchestra's musical director, will conduct many of the concerts. Guest conductors will include Pierre Monteux, Carl Schuricht and Hugh Ross.

In addition, concerts by student ensembles and recitals by chamber groups and soloists will be recorded. The broadcasts will again be under the direction of Jordan M. Whitelaw, the station's music manager.

Concerts from Tanglewood are broadcast in the regular Saturday night Boston Symphony time of 8:30. The program Saturday evening, July 13, includes Bach's Brandenburg Concertos Numbers -, 2, 3, 6 and 4.

The schedule in prospect is similar to that of 1956-57 during which WGBH-FM has presented 52 weeks of music by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 46 concerts from the regular Friday-Saturday Symphony Hall subscription series, 18 from Tanglewood and eight by the Boston Pops Orchestra. In addition, performances by student ensembles, smaller chamber groups and soloists will be presented throughout the coming year.

By JOHN F. McLEOD

SOME people go to Broadway openings or collect new postage stamps for kicks. Others like to be among the first to travel on the U. S. A.'s ever-increasing number of fabulous new highways.

This is an especially good summer for Americans to auto-adventure (or bus-adventure) on brand new roads.

Massachusetts, for instance, has a spanking new turnpike extending from Boston's suburbs to the New York state line. A lot of Washingtonians going to the Berkshire Music Festival—always a good idea—are expected to go a bit out of their way just to ride that turnpike.

TO POCONOS

THE WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS, WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, 1957

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION,
MONDAY, JULY 15, 1957

Sunday Crowds ...ake to Open

Pittsfield, July 14—Perfect July weather brought thousands of Berkshire and out of state residents to local picnic and bathing areas during the day.

Vincent J. Hebert, superintendent of Dept. of Parks and Recreation, reported that 6500 persons jammed pine grove and beach facilities at Pontoosuc Lake during the morning and afternoon with almost as many Connecticut and New York cars in parking areas as Massachusetts registrations.

Fifty-five hundred were at Onota Lake where the second in the series of band concerts by the Eagles Band was held.

The concerts are provided through the co-operation of the Dept of Parks and Musicians Union Local 109.

Other thousands enjoyed a day in the open in various state forest areas and roadside picnic areas. Almost 1000 were at the music barn in Lenox tonight to hear the Gerry Mulligan Quintet and about 3000 heard the final concert in the Bach Mozart series at Tanglewood this afternoon.

THE BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE—JULY 14, 1957

MASSACHUSETTS CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Compiled by the MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION, AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION

Week of July 14-20

Every Friday—Tour of Cranberry Processing Plant, Wareham.
Every Friday—Tour of Cape Cod Light, Truro.
Every Tuesday—Air Force Tour, Otis Air Force Base, Falmouth.
Every Wednesday—Army Tour, South Wellfleet.
Every Thursday — Coast Guard Tour, Nauset Station, Eastham.
Until Sept. 1—Jazz Concerts every Sunday evening, 8:30, Berkshire Music Barn. Folk Concerts every Saturday at 4 p.m., Music Inn, Lenox.
Until July 31—Cape Cod Art Association Jury Show, 373 Main st., Hyannis.
Until Sept. 23 — "Art Schools U.S.A. 1957." Special Summer Exhibit, Weekdays 9-5 p.m., Sunday 2:30-5:00, Addison Gallery of American Art, Andover.
July 14—Cape Ann Yachting Regatta, Sandy Bay, Rockport.
July 14, Sunday Afternoon—Dr. Munch will present Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto, K 495. Program opens with Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and closes with Sinfonia Concertante, K. 297B for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon; $2 outsihe, $4-$5 inside, Tanglewood, Lenox.
Week of July 15—"The Old Maid," with Miriam Hopkins and Sylvia Sidney, The Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Cape Cod.
Week of July 15—"The Reluctant Debutante," with Dennis King, 8:30 p.m., Falmouth Playhouse, Coonamesset.
Week of July 15—"The Great Sebastians," with Mary Wickes, Berkshire Playhouse, Stockbridge.
Week of July 15—"Pipe Dream," South Shore Music Circus, Cohasset.
July 15-20—"Hellzapoppin," North Shore Music Circus, Beverly.
July 15-20 "Witness for the Prosecution," Mountain Park Casino, Holyoke.
July 15-20—"Festival of Happiness," Merry-Go-Round Theater, Sturbridge.
July 16-20—"Doctor Knock" by Jules Romains, Tufts Arena Theater, Medford.
July 16-[illegible]—"Anniversary Waltz," Cross Eight Stage, Inc., Highfield Theater, Falmouth.
July 16-27—"Man and Superman," Bernard Shaw, Theater on the Green, Group 20 Players, Wellesley.
July 16-20—"Anastasia", Williamstown Theater Foundation, Williamstown.
July 13—Tour of Artists' Studios and Gardens. Leave Rockport Art Assn., 8 p.m. Rockport.
July 19, Friday Eve—Series A. "Cast Game" by Stravinsky. Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra by Tchaikovsky and "Pathetique" also by Tchaikovsky. $2 outside, $4-$5 inside, Tanglewood, Lenox.
July 19-20—Castle Hill Concert. 8:30 p.m., William Warfield. $2.50 a person. Castle Hill, Ipswich.
July 19-20—Massachusetts Golf Assn., Amesbury Country Club tournament, Amesbury.
July 20—Outdoor Summer Fair. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Fort Sewall Park, Marblehead Harbor.
July 20-27—Annual Marblehead Race Week, Marblehead Harbor.
July 20, Sat. Eve.—Pierre Monteux, guest conductor, Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" Overture. Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and "Rite of Spring" by Stravinsky. $2 outside, $4-$5 inside, Tanglewood, Lenox.
July 20—Pop Concert, Town Hall 8 p.m. Eastham.
July 20—"My Seeing Eye Dog and I," illustrated lecture—Rockport Art Assn., Rockport.
All Summer—Auctions, Odd Fellows Building, Marblehead.
All Summer—Exhibits of well-known artists, King Hooper Mansion, Hooper st., Marblehead.
July 16-22, Evenings—Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival—Erik Bruhn, an alumnus of the Royal Danish Ballet, will dance with Sonia Arova; Iva Kitchell will contribute more of her zany mimetic dances; and Jeon Leon Destine, Haiti's leading dancer, Lee.

News (e)
MALDEN, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 10,402

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012
JUL 6 - 1957

Music Calendar for Week

SUNDAY

2:30 — Boston Symphony Orchestra, Harvard Glee Club, Radcliffe Choral Society and soloists, Charles Munch conducting Part II of Bach St. Matthew Passion; Tanglewood Shed, Lenox, Mass.

2:30 — Symphony of the Air, Igor Markevitch conducting, and American Concert Choir directed by Margaret Hillis, with soloists in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

3:30—Insurance City Band; Elizabeth Park.

4:00 — Berkshire Quartet and guest artists; Music Mountain, Falls Village.

8:30 — Royal Danish Ballet soloists, Robert Zeller conducting Symphony of the Air; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

8:40—Dave Brubeck Quartet; Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, Mass.

TUESDAY

8:00 — Starlight Festival of Chamber Music; Yale Art Gallery Courtyard, New Haven.

8:30 — Royal Danish Ballet soloists; Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, outside Lee, Mass.

WEDNESDAY

7:15 — G. Safford Torrey, Plumb Memorial Carillon; Trinity College Chapel.

8:30 — Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, duo-pianists, with vocal soloists; Tanglewood Theater, Lenox, Mass.

THURSDAY

8:00 — Ronald Murat, violin; Valentin Pavlovsky, piano; Alfred Zega, baritone, in all Grieg program; Conn. Valley Music Festival, Regional High School, Deep River.

8:30 — "Electra" with Virginia Copeland, Elizabeth Hoengen, Marcello di Giovanni, Michael Bondin, etc.; Laszlo Halasz conducting; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

FRIDAY

8:30 — Boston Symphony Orchestra Charles Munch conducting; chorus and soloists, Hugh Ross conducting; Tanglewood Shed, Lenox, Mass.

8:30 — "Emperor Jones" with Jose Limon and dance company; Heitor Villa-Lobos conducting; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

SATURDAY

4:00 — Tom Lehrer, folk music; Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, Mass.

8:30 — Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch conducting all Mozart program; Tanglewood Shed, Lenox, Mass.

8:30 — "Electra" as Thursday; Empire State Music Festival.

Vacation Music

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals, notably in Lenox and Ipswich. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival which ended Sunday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, which opened July 3, has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra is back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell. This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it's the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

Mercury (e)
MEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 6,933
JUL 10 1957

Vacation Music

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals, notably in Lenox and Ipswich. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival which ended Sunday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, which opened July 3, has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra is back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell. This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it's the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
Circ. D. 38[illegible] S. 258,845
JUL 1 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week-end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end beginning July 19.

Area Resorts Report Good Weekend Crowds

LENOX—Resorts in the area reported full houses for the weekend even though this was considered to be the quietest weekend of the Tanglewood season.

The Lenox information center said that business picked up after Saturday morning's rain. Attendants said that people started coming in for rooms from 1 p.m. Saturday and filled up almost every room registered.

Avaloch, Music Inn and the Curtis Hotel all had full houses for the weekend. Roy A. Rappaport of Avaloch said that he had 90 guests staying in rooms in town as well as 90 at the resort itself. His 5 Reasons Tavern did a good business Saturday night.

Mrs. Stephany Barber said that Music Inn had a good week as well as a full weekend. The Curtis reported that next weekend is expected to be one of the heaviest of the season.

Eastover had 500 guests for the weekend and is keeping 400 for the full week. The resort had 150 guests staying in rooms on the grounds.

Bruno Aron of Festival House characterized his weekend as "not as good as the Fourth." He said that guests were beginning to stay for the full week at his resort.

The Berkshire Eagle, Monday, July 15, 1957

Enterprise & Times (e)
BROCKTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 42,936
JUL 8 - 1957

[93]

Music in the Air

THERE'S MUSIC in the air out at pretty and rambling Tanglewood where the annual Berkshire Festival has opened.

And thousands of people who enjoy good music will make the trip to Tanglewood, in Lenox, to get their fill of the kind of music they find most appealing.

Just to show you how Tanglewood has grown, the first Berkshire Festival drew 15,000; last year more than 136,000 showed up, and this year an even larger over-all attendance is anticipated.

The beloved Boston Symphony Orchestra will give weekend performances through August the 11th; then in an exciting change-of-pace, on August 12 the first session of the School of Jazz will be held at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood.

If you have been at one of the Tanglewood performances you know only too well how delightful they are — the setting blending beautifully with the artistry.

If you haven't taken advantage of the Tanglewood Festival you have a treat in store for yourself.

American (e)
WATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017
JUL 8 - 1957

20th Season Under Way At Tanglewood

(Special to The American)

Lenox, Mass., July 8 — The first week end of concerts of the 20th season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood ended yesterday afternoon after three programs devoted to the music of Bach. Music lovers had the oppurtunity to hear six of the Brandenburg concerti and parts of the "Passion According to St. Matthew" with the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society supplying the voices.

The Saturday night audience which filled the 1200 seat music theater to overflowing heard a program of five of the Bach concert conducted by Charles Munch with a sureness and directness possible only through long association with and a great love for this music. Roger Voisin played an unusual trumpet designed to negotiate the running 16ths up to high D. Scored for chamber orchestras, varying in size from about 16 pieces to over double that number, they have an inexhaustable source of beauty and the symphony under Mr. Munch performed them in just that way.

The program Sunday afternoon provided an opportunity for music listeners to hear the Tanglewood organ which comes into the musical picture only now and then. Alfred Nash Patterson played the instrument in the large music shed which was used to accommodate the Sunday audience. The program presented the opening chorus and part 2 of the "St. Matthew." G. Wallace Woodworth conducted the combined efforts of the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society which on other occasions have joined most effectively with the Boston Symphony orchestra in presenting music infrequently heard.

The second week of the six-week festival will include programs with Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in a piano duet Wednesday evening together with a program of Brahms' "Liebeslieder". The week-end programs Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon will be devoted to a Mozart series which will include the "Mass in C major".

S. M.

THE BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE—JULY 14, 1957

MASSACHUSETTS CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Compiled by the MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION, AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION

Week of July 14-20

Every Friday—Tour of Cranberry Processing Plant, Wareham.
Every Friday—Tour of Cape Cod Light, Truro.
Every Tuesday—Air Force Tour, Otis Air Force Base, Falmouth.
Every Wednesday—Army Tour, South Wellfleet.
Every Thursday — Coast Guard Tour, Nauset Station, Eastham.
Until Sept. 1—Jazz Concerts every Sunday evening, 8:30, Berkshire Music Barn. Folk Concerts every Saturday at 4 p.m., Music Inn, Lenox.
Until July 31—Cape Cod Art Association Jury Show, 373 Main st., Hyannis.
Until Sept. 23 — "Art Schools U.S.A. 1957," Special Summer Exhibit, Weekdays 9-5 p.m., Sunday 2:30-5:00, Addison Gallery of American Art, Andover.
July 14—Cape Ann Yachting Regatta, Sandy Bay, Rockport.
July 14, Sunday Afternoon—Dr. Munch will present Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto, K 495. Program opens with Adagio and Fugue in C minor for strings, and closes with Sinfonia Concertante, K. 297B for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon; $2 outsihe, $4-$5 inside, Tanglewood, Lenox.
Week of July 15—"The Old Maid," with Miriam Hopkins and Sylvia Sidney, The Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Cape Cod.
Week of July 15—"The Reluctant Debutante," with Dennis King, 8:30 p.m., Falmouth Playhouse, Coonamesset.
Week of July 15—"The Great Sebastians," with Mary Wickes, Berkshire Playhouse, Stockbridge.
Week of July 15—"Pipe Dream," South Shore Music Circus, Cohasset.
July 15-20—"Hellzapoppin," North Shore Music Circus, Beverly.
July 15-20 "Witness for the Prosecution," Mountain Park Casino, Holyoke.
July 15-20—"In The Summer House" 8:30 p.m., Provincetown Playhouse on The Wharf.
July 15-20—"Thieves Carnival" Melville Cooper and Marjorie Gateson, nightly except Sun. 8:30 p.m., Boston Summer Theater, 225 Clarendon st.
July 15-20—"Theatre of Happiness," Merry-Go-Round Theater, Sturbridge.
July 16-20—"Doctor Knock" by Jules Roamins, Tufts Arena Theater, Medford.
July 16-..—"Anniversary Waltz," Cross Right Stage, Inc., Highfield Theater, Falmouth.
July 16-27—"Man and Superman," Bernard Shaw, Theater on the Green, Group 20 Players, Wellesley.
July 16-20—"Anastasia", Williamstown Theater Foundation, Williamstown.
July 18—Tour of Artists' Studios and Gardens. Leave Rockport Art Assn., 8 p.m. Rockport.
July 19, Friday Eve—Series A. "Card Game" by Stravinsky. Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra by Tchaikovsky and "Pathetique" also by Tchaikovsky. $2 outside, $4-$5 inside, Tanglewood, Lenox.
July 19-20—Castle Hill Concert. 8:30 p.m., William Warfield. $2.50 a person. Castle Hill, Ipswich.
July 19-20—Massachusetts Golf Assn., Amesbury Country Club tournament, Amesbury.
July 20—Outdoor Summer Fair. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Fort Sewall Park, Marblehead Harbor.
July 20-27—Annual Marblehead Race Week, Marblehead Harbor.
July 20, Sat. Eve.—Pierre Monteux, guest conductor, Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" Overture. Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and "Rite of Spring" by Stravinsky. $2 outside, $4-$5 inside, Tanglewood, Lenox.
July 20—Pop Concert, Town Hall 8 p.m. Eastham.
July 20—"My Seeing Eye Dog and I," illustrated lecture—Rockport Art Assn., Rockport.
All Summer—Auctions, Odd Fellows Building, Marblehead.
All Summer—Exhibits of well-known artists, King Hooper Mansion, Hooper st., Marblehead.
July 16-22, Evenings—Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival—Erik Bruhn, an alumnus of the Royal Danish Ballet, will dance with Sonia Arova; Iva Kitchell will contribute more of her zang mimetic dances; and Jeon Leon Destine, Haiti's leading dancer, Lee.

News (e)
MALDEN, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 10,402

Vacation Music

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals, notably in Lenox and Ipswich. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival which ended Sunday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, which opened July 3, has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra is back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell. This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it's the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

Mercury (e)
MEDFORD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 6,933

JUL 10 1957

Vacation Music

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals, notably in Lenox and Ipswich. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival which ended Sunday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, which opened July 3, has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra is back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell. This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it's the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

Enterprise & Times (e)
BROCKTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 42,936

JUL 8 - 1957

[93]

Music in the Air

THERE'S MUSIC in the air out at pretty and rambling Tanglewood where the annual Berkshire Festival has opened.

And thousands of people who enjoy good music will make the trip to Tanglewood, in Lenox, to get their fill of the kind of music they find most appealing.

Just to show you how Tanglewood has grown, the first Berkshire Festival drew 15,000; last year more than 136,000 showed up, and this year an even larger over-all attendance is anticipated.

The beloved Boston Symphony Orchestra will give weekend performances through August the 11th; then in an exciting change-of-pace on August 12 the first session of the School of Jazz will be held at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood.

If you have been at one of the Tanglewood performances you know only too well how delightful they are — the setting blending beautifully with the artistry.

If you haven't taken advantage of the Tanglewood Festival you have a treat in store for yourself.

American (e)
ATERBURY, Conn.
Independent
Circ. 40,017

JUL 8 - 1957

20th Season Under Way At Tanglewood

(Special to The American)

Lenox, Mass., July 8 — The first week end of concerts of the 20th season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood ended yesterday afternoon after three programs devoted to the music of Bach. Music lovers had the oppurtunity to hear six of the Brandenburg concerti and parts of the "Passion According to St. Matthew" with the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society supplying the voices.

The Saturday night audience which filled the 1200 seat music theater to overflowing heard a program of five of the Bach concert conducted by Charles Munch with a sureness and directness possible only through long association with and a great love for this music. Roger Voisin played an unusual trumpet designed to negotiate the running 16ths up to high D. Scored for chamber orchestras, varying in size from about 16 pieces to over double that number, they have an inexhaustable source of beauty and the symphony under Mr. Munch performed them in just that way.

The program Sunday afternoon provided an opportunity for music listeners to hear the Tanglewood organ which comes into the musical picture only now and then. Alfred Nash Patterson played the instrument in the large music shed which was used to accommodate the Sunday audience. The program presented the opening chorus and part 2 of the "St. Matthew." G. Wallace Woodworth conducted the combined efforts of the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society which on other occasions have joined most effectively with the Boston Symphony orchestra in presenting music infrequently heard.

The second week of the six-week festival will include programs with Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz in a piano duet Wednesday evening together with a program of Brahms' "Liebeslieder". The week-end programs Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon will be devoted to a Mozart series which will include the "Mass in C major".

S. M.

dar for Week

Club, Radcliffe Choral Society and soloists, Charles Munch conducting Part II of Bach St. Matthew Passion; Tanglewood Shed, Lenox, Mass.

2:30 — Symphony of the Air, Igor Markevitch conducting, and American Concert Choir directed by Margaret Hillis, with soloists in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

3:30—Insurance City Band; Elizabeth Park.

4:00 — Berkshire Quartet and guest artists; Music Mountain, Falls Village.

8:30 — Royal Danish Ballet soloists, Robert Zeller conducting Symphony of the Air; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

8:40—Dave Brubeck Quartet; Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, Mass.

TUESDAY

8:00 — Starlight Festival of Chamber Music; Yale Art Gallery Courtyard, New Haven.

8:30 — Royal Danish Ballet soloists; Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, outside Lee, Mass.

WEDNESDAY

7:15 — G. Safford Torrey, Plumb Memorial Carillon; Trinity College Chapel.

8:30 — Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, duo-pianists, with vocal soloists; Tanglewood Theater, Lenox, Mass.

THURSDAY

8:00 — Ronald Murat, violin; Valentin Pavlovsky, piano; Alfred Zega, baritone, in all Grieg program; Conn. Valley Music Festival, Regional High School, Deep River.

8:30 — "Electra" with Virginia Copeland, Elizabeth Hoengen, Marcello di Giovanni, Michael Bondin, etc.; Laszlo Halasz conducting; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

FRIDAY

8:30 — Boston Symphony Orchestra Charles Munch conducting; chorus and soloists, Hugh Ross conducting; Tanglewood Shed, Lenox, Mass.

8:30 — "Emperor Jones" with Jose Limon and dance company; Heitor Villa-Lobos conducting; Empire State Music Festival, Ellenville, N. Y.

SATURDAY

4:00 — Tom Lehrer, folk music; Berkshire Music Barn, Lenox, Mass.

8:30 — Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch conducting all Mozart program; Tanglewood Shed, Lenox, Mass.

8:30 — "Electra" as Thursday; Empire State Music Festival.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
Circ. D. 38[illegible] S. 258,545
JUL 1 1957

Berkshire Festival Opens This Week-End

The Berkshire Festival opens its six weeks' season of orchestral concerts at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., this week-end with three all-Bach concerts. The first two will be in the Theater-Concert Hall Friday and Saturday nights, featuring all six of the Brandenburg Concertos plus two suits and the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, with Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists.

Sunday afternoon's program in the gigantic 6,000-seat Music Shed, will consist of the opening chorus and Part II of The St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be soprano Adele Addison, contralto Florence Kopleff, tenor John McCollum, bass Donald Gramm and bass James Joyce. The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society will collaborate.

A chamber orchestra from the Boston Symphony is to participate in these events and in the following week-end of all-Mozart concerts. The full complement of the Bostonians arrives for the Tchaikovsky-Stravinsky week-end beginning July 19.

Area Resorts Report Good Weekend Crowds

LENOX—Resorts in the area reported full houses for the weekend even though this was considered to be the quietest weekend of the Tanglewood season.

The Lenox information center said that business picked up after Saturday morning's rain. Attendants said that people started coming in for rooms from 1 p.m. Saturday and filled up almost every room registered.

Avaloch, Music Inn and the Curtis Hotel all had full houses for the weekend. Roy A. Rappaport of Avaloch said that he had 90 guests staying in rooms in town as well as 90 at the resort itself. His 5 Reasons Tavern did a good business Saturday night.

Mrs. Stephany Barber said that Music Inn had a good week as well as a full weekend. The Curtis reported that next weekend is expected to be one of the heaviest of the season.

Eastover had 500 guests for the weekend and is keeping 400 for the full week. The resort had 150 guests staying in rooms on the grounds.

Bruno Aron of Festival House characterized his weekend as "not as good as the Fourth." He said that guests were beginning to stay for the full week at his resort.

The Berkshire Eagle, Monday, July 15, 1957

[94]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Back Bay Ledger & Beacon Hill Times
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 10,000 Free

JUL 11 19[illegible]

Tanglewood Festival Opens Its 20th Season

The 20th season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, opened last week and will continue through Aug. 11 with a series of concerts de-

Continued on Page Three

Schurich (Aug. 2-10).

The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000 will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July [illegible], and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NEWS
Circ. D. 166,814
JUN 24 1967

Charles Munch is at the podium, directing the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the 6000-seat, open-side music shed. There's almost always a capacity crowd.

The atmosphere at Tanglewood, as elsewhere in the Berkshires, is relaxed. Outside the big music shed, music lovers sprawl in a variety of attires and revel in the music.

THE NEWS PLANS A MUSICAL VACATION

Berkshire Holiday

FOR Washingtonians who love music, one of the most rewarding of vacations is a stay in Massachusetts' Berkshire Hills during the annual music festival at Tanglewood. You can stay cool and listen to some of the world's finest music.

The Berkshires range up to about 3500 feet. The Appalachian Trail winds along their ridges. Among them are 90 woodland lakes or ponds, 274 streams for fishing, swimming or wading.

The Boston Symphony, one of the world's truly great orchestras, will open its annual six-week Tanglewood stand July 3 under the baton of Charles Munch.

The full orchestra gives concerts on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors; Isaac Stern and Rudolph Serkin, soloists.

Chamber music concerts are presented Wednesday nights by such groups as the Paginini and Kroll String Quartets.

Every day from July 3 thru Aug. 11 there is music at Tanglewood. The Festival is held in conjunction with the Berkshire Music Center school for advanced young musicians.

* * *

THIS year is the 25th for Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival at the central Berkshire town of Becket. Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky will be among soloists. There will be 54 performances from July 1 thru Aug. 31.

At Lenox, in the Berkshire Music Hall, there are jazz concerts every Sunday night; folk concerts Saturday afternoons and music of various ethnic groups during the week. Season: June 30-Sept. 1.

For art lovers, there is the Clark Art Institute in Williamstown. Its collection of French masterpieces includes 33 Renoirs.

* * *

PLACES to stay in the Berkshires range from camping grounds in the 80,000 acres of forest reserves to year-around luxury resorts.

A week's vacation, American plan, at most Berkshire resorts can be had from $70 to $90. Hotel, motel and inn rates range from $7 to $12 a day.

The Berkshire area is 385 road miles—about eight hours—from Washington via the Baltimore Parkway, New Jersey Turnpike and Taconic Parkway. You can arrange air transportation via Northeast Airlines; go by rail, from New York, via the New Haven.

If you drive, you may vary your return route to include a section of the new Massachusetts Turnpike which just opened a few weeks ago.

For Information . . .

News readers may get help in arranging a Berkshire vacation by writing the Berkshire Hills Conference, 30 S. State-st, Pittsfield 38, Mass.

If you're thinking of a vacation in the next week or so, you'd better call. The numbers are Pittsfield 2-7437 or 2-6406.

The Conference office will make housing arrangements for stays of more than one night.

For information about Festival music programs and tickets write: Berkshire Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

You can enjoy your resort swimming pool (left, the Eastover at Lenox) or lake (right, Pontoosuc, Pittsfield).

Travel and Resorts by Marjory Hall

Festival Time!

JULY 1957 YANKEE

ONE OF THE BETTER BLOSSOMS discovered on the vines of the last few decades has been the hardy and exuberant bloom known as the summer theatre. Straw-hat playhouses have been particularly successful and popular in our New England states, dotting the landscape at satisfactory intervals and drawing happy audiences like veritable pied pipers. Here's your chance to see the Broadway hits you missed, watch in the flesh that silver-screen idol, enjoy top entertainment in usually rustic surroundings. Said surroundings range all the way from converted (but not much) barns through school auditoriums on temporary detour to elaborate edifices built for the purpose. Not the least part of the enchantment is the knowledge that summer theatres, now an important training field for future stars, give you an opportunity to see many a budding genius in action, so that some day you can say, "I saw him when . . ." July Fourth to Labor Day you'll find top amusement not far from your vacation spot. Watch local papers, bulletin boards and nearby telephone pole posters for schedules!

Tanglewood and the Berkshire Festival have, as usual, magic tucked away for music lovers this summer. Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Berkshire Music Festival will call on the additional talents of Pierre Monteux, Carl Schuricht and Isaac Stern, to name a few who will carry on the Tanglewood tradition.

[94]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Back Bay Ledger & Hill Times
N, Mass.
Non-Partisan
00 Free

ALL PURPOSE
-lb. Vac. Tin
79c
Quart Jar
1P 55c

glewood Festival

Continued from Page One

signed to bring the best of modern music to the public.

The six weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Charles Munch, conductor of the Symphony, Pierre Monteux (July 20-28) and Carl Schurich (Aug. 2-10).

The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000 will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

SAIL AT LINEKIN BAY CAMPS
BOOTHBAY
HARBOR, ME.
On the Ocean
Front in Maine's Beautiful
BOOTHBAY
REGION

Lodge and Cabins. Sailing, Chris-Craft powe boat, water skiing, boating, fishing, swim ming, tennis, canoeing, shuffleboard, televisior Marvelous Maine meals, lobster cook-outs, a included in rate. No extras. Near golf course summer theater, movies, Protestant and Cath olic Churches. Write for folder.

The Laughing Loon
on SEBAGO LAKE

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NEWS
Circ. D. 166,814
JUN 24 1957

Charles Munch is at the podium, directing the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the 6000-seat, open-side music shed. There's almost always a capacity crowd.

THE NEWS PLANS A MUSICAL VACATION

Berkshire Holiday

FOR Washingtonians who love music, one of the most rewarding of vacations is a stay in Massachusetts' Berkshire Hills during the annual music festival at Tanglewood. You can stay cool and listen to some of the world's finest music.

The Berkshires range up to about 3500 feet. The Appalachian Trail winds along their ridges. Among them are 90 woodland lakes or ponds, 214 streams for fishing, swimming or wading.

The Boston Symphony, one of the world's truly great orchestras, will open its annual six-week Tanglewood stand July 3 under the baton of Charles Munch.

The full orchestra gives concerts on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons. Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht will be guest conductors; Isaac Stern and Rudolph Serkin, soloists.

Chamber music concerts are presented Wednesday nights by such groups as the Paginini and Kroll String Quartets.

Every day from July 3 thru Aug. 11 there is music at Tanglewood. The Festival is held in conjunction with the Berkshire Music Center school for advanced young musicians.

* * *

THIS year is the 25th for Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival at the central Berkshire town of Becket. Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky will be among soloists. There will be 54 performances from July 1 thru Aug. 31.

At Lenox, in the Berkshire Music Hall, there are jazz concerts every Sunday night; folk concerts Saturday afternoons and music of various ethnic groups during the week. Season: June 30-Sept. 1.

For art lovers, there is the Clark Art Institute in Williamstown. Its collection of French masterpieces includes 33 Renoirs.

* * *

PLACES to stay in the Berkshires range from camping grounds in the 80,000 acres of forest reserves to year-around luxury resorts.

A week's vacation, American plan, at most Berkshire resorts can be had from $70 to $90. Hotel, motel and inn rates range from $7 to $12 a day.

The Berkshire area is 385 road miles—about eight hours—from Washington via the Baltimore Parkway, New Jersey Turnpike and Taconic Parkway. You can arrange air transportation via Northeast Airlines; go by rail, from New York, via the New Haven.

If you drive, you may vary your return route to include a section of the new Massachusetts Turnpike which just opened a few weeks ago.

For Information . . .

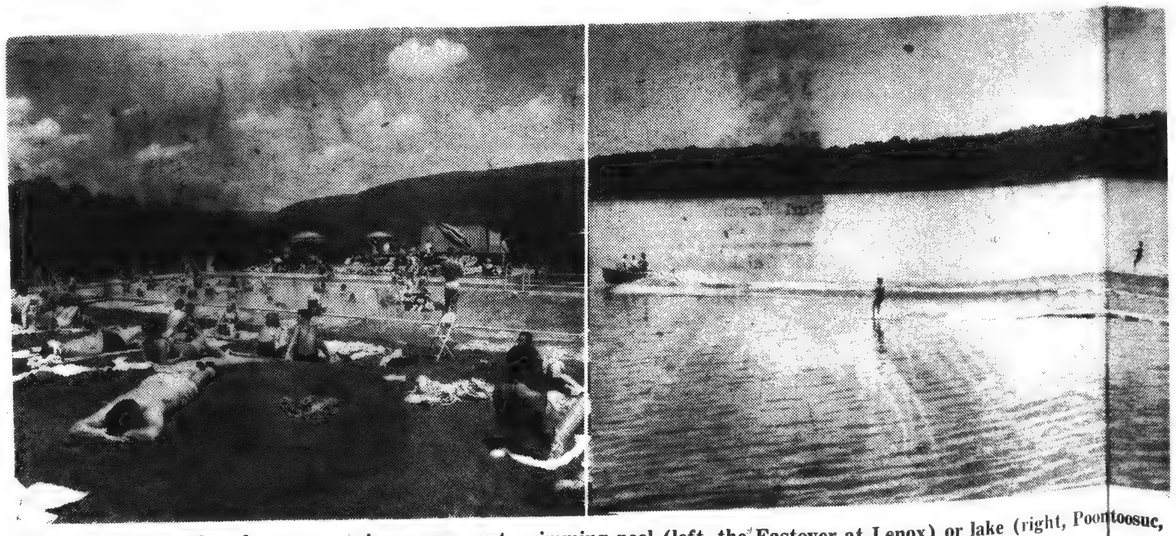
News readers may get help in arranging a Berkshire vacation by writing the Berkshire Hills Conference, 30 S. State-st, Pittsfield 38, Mass.

If you're thinking of a vacation in the next week or so, you'd better call. The numbers are Pittsfield 2-7437 or 2-6406.

The Conference office will make housing arrangements for stays of more than one night.

For information about Festival music programs and tickets write: Berkshire Festival Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The atmosphere at Tanglewood, as elsewhere in the Berkshires, is relaxed. Outside the big music shed, music lovers sprawl in a variety of attires and revel in the music.



When not being cultural, you can enjoy your resort swimming pool (left, the Eastover at Lenox) or lake (right, Pontoosuc, Pittsfield).

TIGHT BINDING

[95]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
day Register
HAVEN, Conn.
ndependent
rc. 101,553
L 14 1957

unch Speaks About Music International Affairs

By GORDON E. ARMSTRONG

Words of wisdom for all lovers of the tonal art were tained in the address made by Charles Munch at the ening exercises of the Berkshire Music Center two weeks . The conductor of the Boston Symphony touched on the portant role of music in promoting international relations l he also defended the orchestra's inclusion of so much dern music in its regular programs.

The Boston Symphony has been criticized by many of its Symphony ll patrons for the performance of "too many" contemporary works. rhaps there has been a similar adverse reaction from some quarters ncerning this year's Berkshire Festival programs. A number of dern works are to be featured in the main Festival concerts by full Boston Orchestra which get under way this week. In any case, recent Munch address concentrated on a defense of the orchestra's minent role as an exponent of the music of our time.

Mr. Munch recalled his experiences during the Boston Orchestra's ropean tour last year and also those connected with his conducting signments in Czechoslovakia last month. He said that the Russians idenced an enormous and burning curiosity about our American usic and that the orchestra was obliged to give an extra concert in oscow "because the Russian public wanted to hear all the Am n usic we had with us." Mr. Munch added that his recent to zechoslovakia proved to him that the people there also have n ming interest in contemporary music. "And I think of the re h med at us because the Boston Symphony Orchestra plays w ew music on its programs," said the conductor ruefully. " t is our duty? In defending the present, we are preparing the future ithout neglecting the past."

The conductor continued, "It is obvious that for the orchestra and e—and for the public—it would be easier to play and to re-play the ictures at an Exhibition than to prepare a symphony of David Di nond. What we could be reproached for is that the work we offer is ot to be taken seriously or is badly made. But even this is difficult o know. When the Seventh Symphony of Beethoven was played for he first time, the public manifested its hostility. We know that after he first performance of Carmen, Bizet wanted to commit suicide and hat at the first performance of Le Sacre du Printemps the police had o intervene. Nothing is more difficult than to pass definitive judg- ment on the epoch in which we live. It is History, the future, that takes care of this. It is always the future that knows what is good and what is bad music."

Mr. Munch and Pierre Monteux will share conducting in the three concerts by the 106 piece Boston Orchestra in the Music Shed this coming weekend. The former will be on the podium for the programs on Friday evening and Sunday afternoon while Monteux will conduct the Saturday evening concert. Two Russian composers—Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky—are to be honored this weekend, the latter in celebration of his 75th birthday this year. The great modern composer's "Jeu de Cartes" will be included in Friday's concert while his "Sacre du Printemps" will be conducted on Saturday by Monteux who directed the tumultuous premiere of the work in Paris in 1913. Sunday afternoon's program, dedicated to the memory of the former conductor of the Boston Orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky, will feature a performance of Stravinsky's new choral work, "Canticum Sacrum." John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm, baritone, assisted by the Festival Chorus, will be heard in this second American performance of the religious work which had its world premiere last year in St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice.

With the exception of Mendelssohn's Fingal's Cave Overture on Saturday's concert, the balance of the programs will be all-Tchaikovsky: Friday—Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra, with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the Sixth Symphony; Saturday—Symphony No. 5; Sunday—"Romeo and Juliet" Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Incidentally, the performance of the cello work will be its first U. S. rendition in the original version.

The third event in the Chamber Music series on Wednesday evening will present the Beaux Arts Trio in a program of works by Haydn, Beethoven, and Robert Casadesus. The trio by the latter will be heard for the first time in this concert.

The Berkshire festival, located at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., draws, in addition to the 6,000 accommodated in the Music Shed, many music lovers who enjoy the season's weekend concerts from the lawns outside. The festival is in its 20th season. Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall and in the Music Shed on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, and on Sunday afternoons at 2:30 through August 11. Chamber music concerts are given on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall. Many Nutmeg music lovers visit Tanglewood during the season.

GLOBE
July 14, 1957

MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE

New Scenic Highway Opens Up Berkshires to Bostonians

By MARY CREMMEN

What a leaning tower did to Pisa, the Massachusetts Turnpike is doing for the Berkshires.

"Bostonians always vacationed north or south—now they're looking west." John Downing, executive secretary of the Berkshire Hills Conference, has a lilt to his voice when he tells how the new 123-mile superhighway has "opened up a whole new market for us. In the past, 68 percent of our business came from the New York area. Now, for the first time, two million people around Metropolitan Boston are looking our way.

"A tremendous number of one-day visitors have already driven the length of the east-west highway—just to see what's at the end of it. They loved the ride. There's not a traffic light the whole route and the speed limit is 60.

★ ★ ★

"We make no bones about it," said Downing, "we'll be the second largest convention center—second only to Boston—in New England."

Five times as many sales meetings and conventions than ever before are scheduled to take place there. When the V.F.W. had its recent convention in Pittsfield 40 percent more attended than came eight years ago.

★ ★ ★

There are ten new motels in the Berkshires, each with 10 to 15 room units.

The famous Red Lion Inn at Stockbridge reported 125 guests from Boston for dinner last Sunday. Said Downing, "More than they've had in ten years."

Inquiries from Bostonians about vacationing in the Berkshires formerly averaged 3000 for a Summer. The figure is now over square miles (three-quarters the area of Rhode Island) has always been full of great things for tourists. It is bordered by Vermont, New York, Connecticut and Hampden County, Mass.

"Appalachian trails run all through. There's Greylock Hill, the highest in Massachusetts at 3491 feet, and Big Balance Boulder in the Pittsfield State Forest. It's a 350-ton boulder balanced on a 3-foot base.

"North Adams has the only water eroded natural bridge in North America. Nathanial Hawthorne's home is on the grounds of Tanglewood and Herman Melville wrote "Moby Dick" in Pittsfield.

Besides the Tanglewood Festival, there's also a Jazz Festival (starting June 30) and the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival (July 2 to August 31).

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Berkshire Courier
GT. BARRINGTON, Mass.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,443
JUL 11 1957

Lots of Things to Do

Sometimes you hear visitors, here for the first time, remark that there's "just nothing to do" to keep them occupied in Southern Berkshire. At first thought, residents may be inclined to agree with them. But, if you think a bit, you realize that there must be some attractions to bring thousands of visitors back, summer after summer. Surely they don't all come here to sit on a hotel porch, or return to their summer homes just to look at the scenery.

True, we don't have a zoo, an aquarium or a Coney Island to help visitors pass the time. But we do have lots of things that are available in the metropolitan areas and many others that the city dweller does not have.

First off is Tanglewood at Lenox, the summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which makes Southern Berkshire the seasonal music capital of the East and perhaps of the entire country. Also at Lenox is the Music Barn which has specialized in popular music for the last several years. South Mountain at Pittsfield and Music Mountain at Falls Village, Conn., both offer fine musical programs. And there is the Theatre of the Dance at Lee.

For the theatre-goer there is the Berkshire Playhouse, one of the oldest and best summer theatres in the East. Summer stock also is offered at Sharon, Conn., and at Malden Bridge in nearby New York state. In addition there are both indoor and outdoor movie houses throughout the area which always have first-run films.

For the outdoor type there are fishing, swimming and boating at numerous lakes and streams; horseback riding along wooded trails; hiking on the Appalachian Trail, on old wood roads and to the tops of Monument Mountain and Mount Everett. Excellent views of the area are obtained from the tops of these two

TIGHT BINDING

England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200
Day Register
HAVEN, Conn.
Independent
irc. 101,553
L 14 1957

unch Speaks About Music International Affairs

By GORDON E. ARMSTRONG

Words of wisdom for all lovers of the tonal art were tained in the address made by Charles Munch at the ning exercises of the Berkshire Music Center two weeks . The conductor of the Boston Symphony touched on the portant role of music in promoting international relations he also defended the orchestra's inclusion of so much dern music in its regular programs.

The Boston Symphony has been criticized by many of its Symphony l patrons for the performance of "too many" contemporary works. haps there has been a similar adverse reaction from some quarters ncerning this year's Berkshire Festival programs. A number of dern works are to be featured in the main Festival concerts by full Boston Orchestra which get under way this week. In any case, recent Munch address concentrated on a defense of the orchestra's ominent role as an exponent of the music of our time.

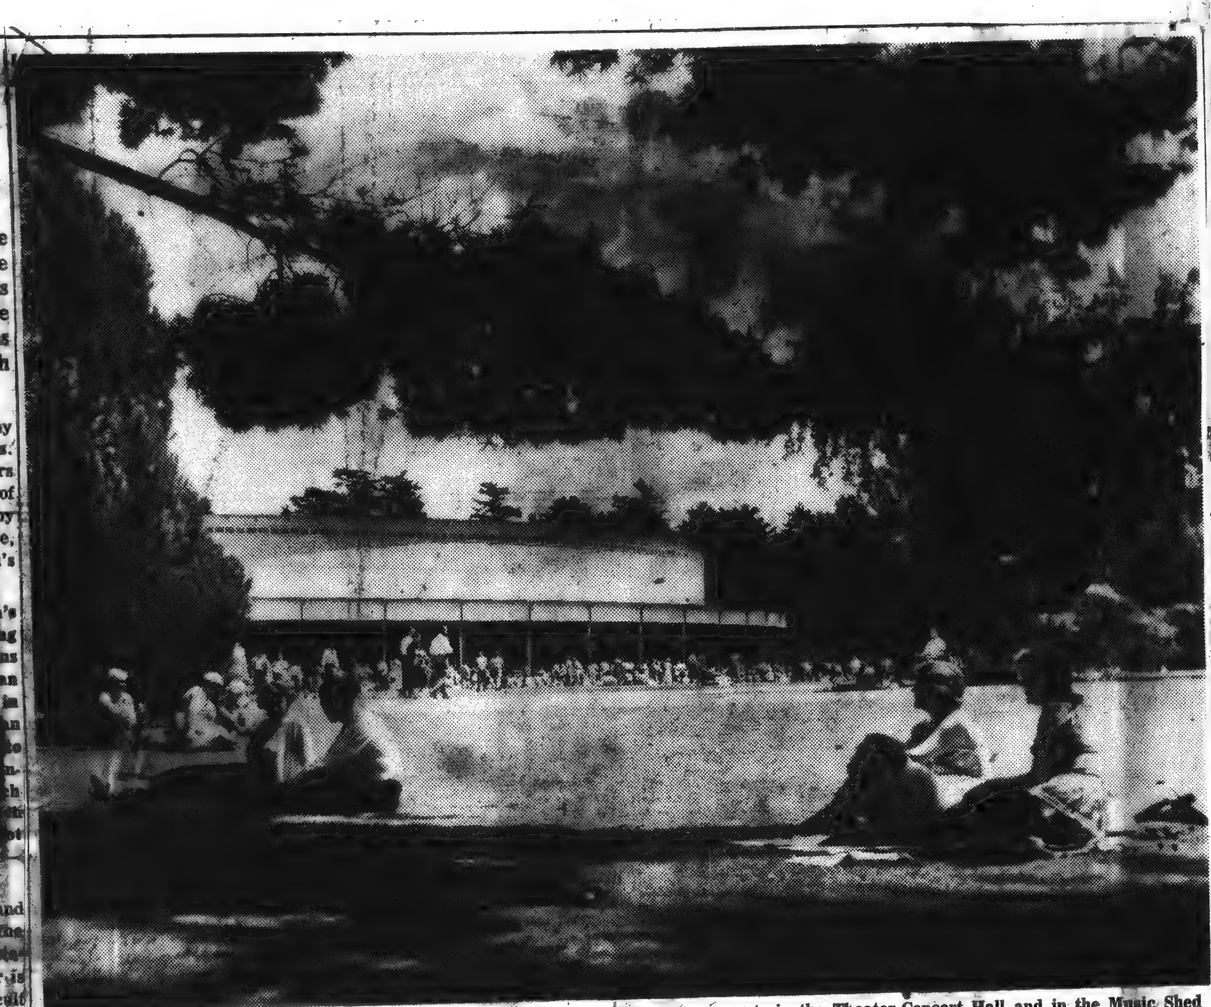
Mr. Munch recalled his experiences during the Boston Orchestra's ropean tour last year and also those connected with his conducting signments in Czechoslovakia last month. He said that the Russians fidenced an enormous and burning curiosity about our American usic and that the orchestra was obliged to give an extra concert in oscow "because the Russian public wanted to hear all the American usic we had with us." Mr. Munch added that his recent visit to zechoslovakia proved to him that the people there also have a burning interest in contemporary music. "And I think of the reproach imed at us because the Boston Symphony Orchestra plays only few music on its programs," said the conductor ruefully. "Is that not his our duty? In defending the present, we are preparing the future without neglecting the past."

The conductor continued, "It is obvious that for the orchestra and e—and for the public—it would be easier to play and to re-play the ictures at an Exhibition than to prepare a symphony of David Diamond. What we could be reproached for is that the work we offer is ot to be taken seriously or is badly made. But even this is difficult o know. When the Seventh Symphony of Beethoven was played for he first time, the public manifested its hostility. We know that after he first performance of Carmen, Bizet wanted to commit suicide and hat at the first performance of Le Sacre du Printemps the police had o intervene. Nothing is more difficult than to pass definitive judgment on the epoch in which we live. It is History, the future, that takes care of this. It is always the future that knows what is good and what is bad music."

Mr. Munch and Pierre Monteux will share conducting in the three concerts by the 106 piece Boston Orchestra in the Music Shed this coming weekend. The former will be on the podium for the programs on Friday evening and Sunday afternoon while Monteux will conduct the Saturday evening concert. Two Russian composers—Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky—are to be honored this weekend, the latter in celebration of his 75th birthday this year. The great modern composer's "Jeu de Cartes" will be included in Friday's concert while his "Sacre du Printemps" will be conducted on Saturday by Monteux who directed the tumultuous premiere of the work in Paris in 1913. Sunday afternoon's program, dedicated to the memory of the former conductor of the Boston Orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky, will feature a performance of Stravinsky's new choral work, "Canticum Sacrum." John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm, baritone, assisted by the Festival Chorus, will be heard in this second American performance of the religious work which had its world premiere last year in St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice.

With the exception of Mendelssohn's Fingal's Cave Overture on Saturday's concert, the balance of the programs will be all-Tchaikovsky: Friday—Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra, with Samuel Mayes as soloist, and the Sixth Symphony; Saturday—Symphony No. 5; Sunday—"Romeo and Juliet" Overture and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. Incidentally, the performance of the cello work will be its first U. S. rendition in the original version.

The third event in the Chamber Music series on Wednesday evening will present the Beaux Arts Trio in a program of works by Haydn, Beethoven, and Robert Casadesus. The trio by the latter will be heard for the first time in this concert.



The Berkshire festival, located at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., draws, in addition to the 6,000 accommodated in the Music Shed, many music lovers who enjoy the season's weekend concerts from the lawns outside. The festival is in its 20th season. Under the direction of Charles Munch, the Boston Symphony Orchestra presents concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall and in the Music Shed on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, and on Sunday afternoons at [illegible]. Many Nu[illegible] concerts are given on [illegible] Concert Hall. the season.

GLOBE
July 14, 1957

MASSACHUSETTS TURNPIKE

New Scenic Highway Opens Up Berkshires to Bostonians

10,000.

Tourism, considered the second biggest industry in the county, was valued at an annual $40 million. This year it is expected to reach $50 million.

The great Tanglewood Music Festival (July 3-August 11) in Lenox has year after year been drawing 90 percent of its audience from New York and a mere 10 percent out of Boston.

"That's all over," predicted Gerry Hern, Public Relations Director of the Turnpike. "From now on Bostonians can take the highway and be in Lenox in 2½ hours. They'll go to an afternoon concert in the Berkshires and be home by dinner."

Hern told how "Symphony Hall has supplied every one of the 14 interchange stations of the Turnpike with Festival programs.

John Downing made it clear that even though most Bostonians might not have realized it "the Berkshire County, covering 941

About the new Sterling and Francine Clarke Art Institute, Downing frankly boasted, "They are tripping over Renoirs. They haven't unpacked even half of the treasures."

★ ★ ★

The next part of the interview ran:

Hotels?

"Fifty."

Motels?

"Twenty-five."

Restaurants?

"Scads."

Vincent Lanzarotto, owner of Vincent's Steak House at the Turnpike's Exit 4 in West Springfield, marveled at the "tremendous flow coming up from Boston early every day. I never open until 4:30 p.m. but there is such a big demand for lunch, I'll have to change.

He sounded like a most happy fella. "Nowadays Boston is just down the road a piece."

mountains on clear days.

Golf is available at two public courses and by introduction at a fine 18-hole course. There is the bird sanctuary in Lenox, a fine museum in Pittsfield, the Mission House in Stockbridge. For those who like an afternoon of reading there are excellent public libraries here and in Stockbridge.

For those who came by automobile there are numerous half-day and all-day drives to historic spots in the county and nearby counties. These visitors also can take in country auctions, church suppers and sales, drive to the numerous fine eating places in the area and perhaps try out a section of the Massachusetts Turnpike, the nation's latest modern expressway. And Bartholomew's Cobble in Ashley Falls should not be forgotten. There is found a collection of ferns not to be seen anywhere else in the world.

These by no means exhause "things to do" in Southern Berkshire. Readers undoubtedly will think of many others. But we believe the above suggestions will help to keep most visitors busy for a good part of their vacation in Southern Berkshire.

SUMMER IN THE BERKSHIRES: To nature has been added man's own creative expression

Living in the Berkshires is an experience few of us would trade with people anywhere, for this area is uniquely qualified to take advantage of the best in every season.

Autumn's colorful foliage and zestful atmosphere is an invitation to participate in outdoor activities. Wintry Berkshire landscapes not only represent a beautiful setting for work or play but also provide a built-in sports arena. The sudden appearance of spring is a stimulant to gardening and home chores and once more awakens our appreciation of our natural environment.

But it is in the summer that the Berkshires really come alive. It is then that man most fully supplements the endowments of nature with his own creative expression. The result of this blending is to make the Berkshires one of the richest cultural and entertainment capitals of the summer season.

Music in the open or theater in a converted barn is not a new concept to the entertainment world. The straw-hat circuit and the summer festival are terms familiar to everyone through long usage. But the natural beauty of the Berkshires makes the area a drawing card in itself for summer visitors.

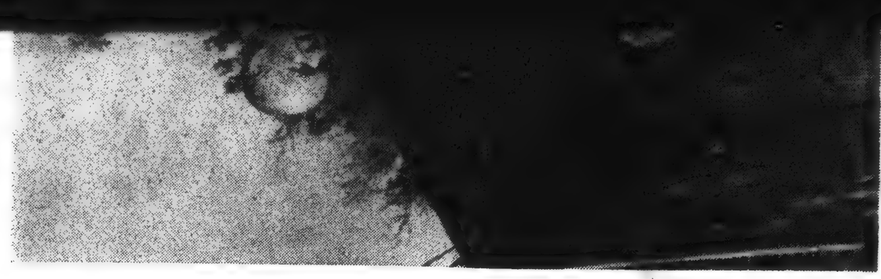
Tanglewood is the biggest and most spectacular of the summer entertainment features in the county. But it is by no means the whole show. In fact, some local attractions can claim beginnings before the Berkshire Festival. Jacob's Pillow and the Berkshire Playhouse both trace their start back before Tanglewood, the first-named celebrating its 25th anniversary this summer.

Perhaps most encouraging, however, is the appearance in recent years of two new attractions, both doing brisk business at the box office. They are the Williamstown Theater and the Music Barn.

Thus the Berkshires now offers almost everything a visitor seeks in summer entertainment. To its natural beauty have been added classical and jazz music, Broadway productions, and the varied forms of the dance.

The beauty of all this for the resident is, of course, that he has hardly to move at all for his entertainment. On the following pages, the GE News shows how some GE people are taking advantage of man's gift to the Berkshires.

GE News, Schenectady, N.Y.
July 20, 1957



MUSIC BARN—One of the Berkshires' newest and most popular summer attractions is the Music Barn, featuring jazz and folk music. Here Warren Maston, first class magnesium oxide operator in the Chemical Materials Department, and Mrs. Maston pause outside the "barn" to study the program. The "barn" is actually a tented area between two buildings with the stage set into what was once a barn. Some of the most outstanding jazz musicians in the country appear here. Already Ella Fitzgerald and Dave Brubeck have appeared with more headliners scheduled. It is located on Stockbridge Road in Lenox.

A ONE-WOMAN SHOW—Mr. and Mrs. Maston meet the star of last Saturday's show, ageless Ethel Waters, whose blues singing and comedy numbers had the audience alternately thoughtful and hilarious. Miss Waters' 41-year career has paralleled the rise of popularity for jazz in this country. Her name is practically synonymous with her most popular recordings, "Stormy Weather" and "Dinah," and she is the author of the best-selling autobiography "His Eye on the Sparrow."

WHAT THEY SAW—The Ok
kini; Lotus Blossom, the geish the American officer delegate the village of Tobiki, are pict play the Higgins' saw. The located on Route 2 in the JACOB'S PILLOW—Energetic Ted Shawn, founder and director of the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, chats with Miss Borden and Miss Bailey before the performance. Shawn, who still dances occasionally, presents a tremendous variety of dancers including classical, modern, and ethnic. The Festival, celebrating its 25th year this season, is located on Route 20 in Becket, near the top of Jacob's Ladder.

IN CENTER RING, TANGLEWOOD—At the heart of Berkshire summer entertainment is the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox. Here each summer the Boston Symphony Orchestra with outstanding guest artists and soloists presents a six-week festival of fine music. Included in the thousands who have already visited Tanglewood this year are Donald Williams of DT lightning arrester cost accounting and Mrs. Williams. In the photos above and to the right, the Williams' study their program inside the enormous Shed and rest on the spacious Tanglewood lawn at intermission. What they saw is shown below. John McCollum, tenor, sings part of "The Passion According to St. Matthew" by Bach as Charles Munch conducts the BSO and Harvard and Radcliffe choral groups. Williams, a baritone in the First Baptist Church choir of Pittsfield, had sung passages from the work.

C973

MILLERTON, N. Y.
NEWS-REPUBLICAN
Circ. W. 3,617

Berkshire Festival At Tanglewood Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to August 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer - the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre- Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikosky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19), and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood Lenox

SYRACUSE, N. Y.
POST-STANDARD
C. . D. 89,399 - S. 101,254

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Music Festival to Open

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival, presented by the Boston Symphony orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The season of six weeks, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will begin with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

The concerts Friday and Saturday evenings will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.
GAZETTE
Circ. D. 40,429

JUN 29 1957

Lenox Music School To Open 15th Session

Th Berkshire Music Center, the summer music school maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will open its 15th session Sunday afternoon when students will be welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch.

Music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Munch is also director of the summer music school.

Composer Aaron Copland is assistant director with Ralph Berkowitz as dean and Leonard Burkat, administrator.

Students have enrolled at the school from 35 states, Canada and 17 foreign countries. They came to the center to study orchestra playing and conducting under Eleazar deCarvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony of Rio de Janeiro; choral singing and choral conducting under Hugh Ross; composition under Mr. Copland and guest composer Milton Babbitt, association professor of music at Princeton University; opera under Boris Goldovsky; or are enrolled in the Tanglewood Study Group under Ludwig Zirner.

Berkshire Music Center scholarship grants have been awarded this year to over 60 per cent of the student body, including many of the 100 musicians who make up the student symphony orchestra.

In addition to the large enrollment from the United States the Music Center has accepted musicians from Norway, Sweden Hungary, Great Britain, Switzerland, Uruguay, Argentina, Peru Venezuela, Cuba, Puerto Rico Israel, India, Japan, Korea and Netherlands Antilles.

WORCESTER, MASS.
GAZETTE
Circ. D. 102,404

JUL 2 1957

NATHANIEL LEVY

Berkshire Festival Opens Today

"Today, July 2, the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood opens its 17th year; this is of special interest to us because since the beginning of the Festival in 1940 Baldwin has been the official piano," points out Nathaniel Levy of the Berkeley Music Co., 278 Main St.

"As has been the custom throughout the years, the Baldwin pianos will be brought in from Tanglewood at the close of the Festival and the Berkeley Music Co. will have its annual Berkshire Music Festival sale. In previous years these pianos were available only in late August . . . at the end of the Festival. This year, however, a new policy enables you to place your order with us for a Baldwin piano in style and finish that you prefer and we'll guarantee its delivery in perfect condition as soon as the pianos arrive from Tanglewood.

"In past years our customers . . . recognizing the superior tonal qualities of the Baldwin piano . . . have shopped early to be sure of obtaining the piano of their choice. We are certain that this year will be no exception.

"Professional musicians, schools and colleges as well as the general public today recognize the Baldwin Acrosonic as a truly superior spinet piano. The fact, too, that more and more people come in and ask us 'What has the Acrosonic got that makes so many people

BERKSHIRE EAGLE, PITTSFIELD, MASS., THURS., JUNE 27, 1957 — PAGE 7

Berkshire Festival Will Open July 3 At Tanglewood

The famed Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11, 1957.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch. Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21). Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berliozz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek ,Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

NEW YORKER
NEW YORK, N. Y.

JUL 6 1957

IN THE COUNTRY

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL—Charles Munch directing a Boston Symphony chamber orchestra in three all-Bach programs. Friday, July 5, at 8:30: With Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, piano. Saturday, July 6, at 8:30: No soloists. Sunday, July 7, at 2:30: Part II of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion," with Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses; the Harvard Glee Club; and the Radcliffe Choral Society. . . . ¶ Wednesday, July 10, at 8:30: A program of chamber music performed by Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, piano. . . . ¶ Charles Munch conducting a Boston Symphony chamber orchestra in three all-Mozart programs. Friday, July 12, at 8:30: Directed, instead, by Hugh Ross, and with a chorus and soloists. Saturday, July 13, at 8:30: No soloists. Sunday, July 14, at 2:30: With Sherman Walt, bassoon, and James Stagliano, horn. (Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Through Sunday, Aug. 11.)

— Jazz and folk concerts —

VALATIE, N. Y.
ROUGH NOTES
Circ. W. 1,000

JUL 5 1957

Tanglewood

FESTIVAL OPENS ITS 20th SEASON

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday, July 5, will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The concert of Saturday evening, July 6, will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3. 6. 4.

Seymour Lipkin

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

SAN JOSE, CALIF.
MERCURY-NEWS
Circ. S. 41,763

JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Festival In 20th Year

Boston Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Munch, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six weekends of concerts, under the batons of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht, will emphasize the works of five different composers: Mozart, Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Violinist Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tschaikowsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in Brahms' Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of composer Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum," "Jeu de Cartes" and "Sacre du Printemps."

Choral works to be heard during the Festival will include Bach's Passion According to St. Matthew, Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Six concertos of chamber music will include scores by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Gianastera, Janacek, Robert Casadeus and Shostakovitch, as well as a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a song recital by baritone Gerard Souzay, and performances by Zimbler Sinfonietta, Paganini String Quartet, Beaux Arts Trio and Kroll String Quartet.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. D. 206,408 - S. 279,780

JUL 7 1957

Treats Offered Music Lovers In New England

PITTSFIELD, Mass.: A full schedule of entertainment will be offered in the Berkshire Hills this week, the second in the 1957 summer season.

At the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood, the regular Wednesday evening chamber music concert will feature piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's annual Mozart concerts will be given at 8:30 p. m. Friday and Saturday and at 2:30 p. m. next Sunday.

Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Lee will feature eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet this week, Tuesday through Saturday, with matinee performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Today at Music Barn in Lenox the Dave Brubeck quartet will take the spotlight. Next Saturday afternoon folk singer Tom Lehrer is scheduled at Music Barn, and next Sunday the Gerry Mulligan Quintet with the Lee Becker Jazz Dancers will be featured.

In the theater, Paula Trueman will star in "Charm," John Kirkpatrick's comedy, at the Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge. "Teahouse Of The August Moon will finish its run at the Williamstown Theatre next Saturday and "Anastasia" will open a five-day stand in the air-conditioned Williams College theater July 16.

A special in the Berkshires this week will be the sixth annual Great Barrington Horse Show at the Barrington Fair Grounds Friday through Sunday. Capt. William Steinkrauss of the 1956 U. S. Olympic team will take part in the benefit.

C97]

MILLERTON, N. Y.
NEWS-REPUBLICAN
Circ. W. 3,617
JUN 27 1957

Berkshire Festival At Tanglewood Opens July 3

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to August 11, 1957. The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer - the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre- Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikosky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19), and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival, presented by the Boston Symphony orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The season of six weeks, from July 3 to Aug. 11, will begin with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Theatre-Concert Hall.

The concerts Friday and Saturday evenings will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.
GAZETTE
Circ. D. 40,429
JUN 29 1957

Lenox Music School To Open 15th Session

Th Berkshire Music Center, the summer music school maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., will open its 15th session Sunday afternoon when students will be welcomed by Dr. Charles Munch.

Music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Munch is also director of the summer music school.

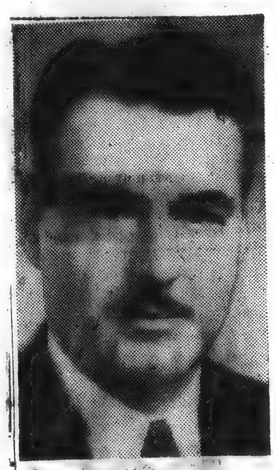
Composer Aaron Copland is assistant director with Ralph Berkowitz as dean and Leonard Burkat, administrator.

Students have enrolled at the school from 35 states, Canada and 17 foreign countries. They came to the center to study orchestra playing and conducting under Eleazar deCarvalho, conductor of the Brazil Symphony of Rio de Janeiro; choral singing and choral conducting under Hugh Ross; composition under Mr. Copland and guest composer Milton Babbitt, association professor of music at Princeton University; opera under Boris Goldovsky; or are enrolled in the Tanglewood Study Group under Ludwig Zirner.

Berkshire Music Center scholarship grants have been awarded this year to over 60 per cent of the student body, including many of the 100 musicians who make up the student symphony orchestra.

In addition to the large enrollment from the United States the Music Center has accepted musicians from Norway, Sweden, Hungary, Great Britain, Switzerland, Uruguay, Argentina, Peru, Venezuela, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Israel, India, Japan, Korea and Netherlands Antilles.

WORCESTER, MASS.
GAZETTE
Circ. D. 102,404
JUL 2 1957



NATHANIEL LEVY

Berkshire Festival Opens Today

"Today, July 2, the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood opens its 17th year; this is of special interest to us because since the beginning of the Festival in 1940 Baldwin has been the official piano," points out Nathaniel Levy of the Berkeley Music Co., 278 Main St.

"As has been the custom throughout the years, the Baldwin pianos will be brought in from Tanglewood at the close of the Festival and the Berkeley Music Co. will have its annual Berkshire Music Festival sale. In previous years these pianos were available only in late August . . . at the end of the Festival. This year, however, a new policy enables you to place your order with us for a Baldwin piano in style and finish that you prefer and we'll guarantee its delivery in perfect condition as soon as the pianos arrive from Tanglewood.

"In past years our customers . . . recognizing the superior tonal qualities of the Baldwin piano . . . have shopped early to be sure of obtaining the piano of their choice. We are certain that this year will be no exception.

"Professional musicians, schools and colleges as well as the general public today recognize the Baldwin Acrosonic as a truly superior spinet piano. The fact, too, that more and more people come in and ask us 'What has the Acrosonic got that makes so many people

---

Berkshire Festival Will Open July 3 At Tanglewood

The famed Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. from July 3 to August 11, 1957.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer — the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berliozz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concerts will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at the Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classics of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek ,Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

Detailed programs and ticket information may be had from the Festival Office Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

NEW YORKER
NEW YORK, N. Y.

JUL 6 1957

IN THE COUNTRY

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL—Charles Munch directing a Boston Symphony chamber orchestra in three all-Bach programs. Friday, July 5, at 8:30: With Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, piano. Saturday, July 6, at 8:30: No soloists. Sunday, July 7, at 2:30: Part II of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion," with Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses; the Harvard Glee Club; and the Radcliffe Choral Society. . . . ¶ Wednesday, July 10, at 8:30: A program of chamber music performed by Saramae Endich, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm, bass; and Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, piano. . . . ¶ Charles Munch conducting a Boston Symphony chamber orchestra in three all-Mozart programs. Friday, July 12, at 8:30: Directed, in part, by Hugh Ross, and with a chorus and soloists. Saturday, July 13, at 8:30: No soloists. Sunday, July 14, at 2:30: With Sherman Walt, bassoon, and James Stagliano, horn. (Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. Through Sunday, Aug. 11.)

VALATIE, N. Y.
ROUGH NOTES
Circ. W. 1,000
JUL 5 1957

Tanglewood

FESTIVAL OPENS ITS 20th SEASON

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. Soloists on Friday, July 5, will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor. The concert of Saturday evening, July 6, will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

Seymour Lipkin

The concert of Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

SAN JOSE, CALIF.
MERCURY-NEWS
Circ. S. 41,763
JUN 30 1957

Berkshire Festival In 20th Year

Boston Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Munch, will present the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to Aug. 11. The six weekends of concerts, under the batons of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux and Carl Schuricht, will emphasize the works of five different composers: Mozart, Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven.

Violinist Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tschaikowsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolf Serkin will be heard in Brahms' Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of composer Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum," "Jeu de Cartes" and "Sacre du Printemps."

Choral works to be heard during the Festival will include Bach's Passion According to St. Matthew, Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Six concertos of chamber music will include scores by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Gianastera, Janacek, Robert Casadeus and Shostakovitch, as well as a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a song recital by baritone Gerard Souzay, and performances by Zimbler Sinfonietta, Paganini String Quartet, Beaux Arts Trio and Kroll String Quartet.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. D. 206,408 - S. 279,780
JUL 7 1957

Treats Offered Music Lovers In New England

PITTSFIELD, Mass.: A full schedule of entertainment will be offered in the Berkshire Hills this week, the second in the 1957 summer season.

At the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood, the regular Wednesday evening chamber music concert will feature piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz. The Boston Symphony Orchestra's annual Mozart concerts will be given at 8:30 p. m. Friday and Saturday and at 2:30 p. m. next Sunday.

Ted Shawn's Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Lee will feature eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet this week, Tuesday through Saturday, with matinee performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Today at Music Barn in Lenox the Dave Brubeck quartet will take the spotlight. Next Saturday afternoon folk singer Tom Lehrer is scheduled at Music Barn, and next Sunday the Gerry Mulligan Quintet with the Lee Becker Jazz Dancers will be featured.

In the theater, Paula Trueman will star in "Charm," John Kirkpatrick's comedy, at the Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge. "Teahouse Of The August Moon will finish its run at the Williamstown Theatre next Saturday and "Anastasia" will open a five-day stand in the air-conditioned Williams College theater July 16.

A special in the Berkshires this week will be the sixth annual Great Barrington Horse Show at the Barrington Fair Grounds Friday through Sunday. Capt. William Steinkrauss of the 1956 U. S. Olympic team will take part in the benefit.

New England Newsclip Agency
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond
Christian Science Monitor (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Non-partisan
Circ. 161,566
JUL 20 1957

Howard S. Babbitt, Jr.

Air view of Tanglewood in the Berkshires of Massachusetts during the Berkshire Music Festival. The Music Shed is to be seen in the center, with various parking areas around it.

ALBANY, N. Y.
Knickerbocker News
Circ. D. 53,178
JUN 29 1957

Ella Fitzgerald Will Open Season, Other Music Centers Join Next Week

Jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald may not realize it, but she has the pleasant and responsible duty of opening the summer music season. She will do so tomorrow night at the Berkshire Music Barn.

Backing the Harlem artist will be guitarist Herb Ellis, bassist Ray Brown, drummer Jo Jones and pianist Don Abney.

In keeping with the Barn's policy of offering folk music on other than the jazzy Sunday nights, Ethel Waters, a deep-throated gal, will give a recital next Saturday afternoon, with Reginald Bean as accompanist.

The season opens on many fronts next week. Joining the Music Barn will be the Berkshire Festival, Empire State Music Festival and Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival.

For the next two weeks, chamber music will reign at Tanglewood's Berkshire Festival. It begins Wednesday night with the Paganini String Quartet (Henri Temianka and Gustave Rossells, violins; Lucien Laporte, cello) in a program of Beethoven, Ginastera and Ravel.

Charles Munch will lead the chamber group of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend concerts devoted to Bach. Chief soloists will be pianists Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin, and the Brandenburg Concerto will comprise most of the fare.

Emprie State opens its third season Thursday night in the Ellenville tent with a two-part program — Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Brahm's Alto Rhapsody. Leopold Stokowski won't be on hand until July 18, so Igor Markevitch will conduct the resident orchestra, the Symphony of the Air. The American Concert Choir will handle the voice parts in the Ninth Symphony.

The following two days at Ellenville will be ballet days, as the eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet dance a variety of numbers. "Swan Lake" will start the program, naturally. Robert Zeller will conduct the Symphony of the Air.

Ted Shawn is celebrating the 25th anniversary of his Jacob's Pillow with a nine-week, 54-performance season. In the Pillow tradition, most of the programs will be divided between classical, modern and ethnic dance.

The doors open Tuesday. Handling the chores the first week will be, in classic dance, Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, stars of the New York City Ballet Company; in modern dance, the Mary Anthony Dance Theater; and, in ethnic dance, Tom Two Arrows, an Iroquois Indian, and Bruce McClure, a Scots laddie.

To help celebrate the Silver Jubilee, Mr. Shawn is offering a dance appreciation series, which will be on the educational side.

John Lindquist, dance photographer, and Mr. Shawn will introduce the series at 4 p. m. tomorrow with a "Pictorial History of Jacob's Pillow."

The series actually starts at 8:30 p. m. the same day, when Walter Terry, dance critic of The Herald Tribune, gives the first of four talks, "The Dance Art of Martha Graham." Illustrating the talk with dancing will be Robert Cohan, principal male dancer of the Martha Graham Company.

The rest of the music events in the Albany area are biding their time and will join the parade shortly.

CINCINNATI, OHIO
ENQUIRER
Circ. D. 206,408 - S. 279,780
JUN 30 1957

Ella Opens Lenox Music

LENOX, Mass., June 29 — Singer Ella Fitzgerald will open the third Music Barn summer concert season with a concert Sunday evening, June 30, at 8:40.

She will be followed by other major jazz musicians each Sunday evening through Labor Day. Saturday afternoons during the Tanglewood concerts of the Boston Symphony and the Saturday before Labor Day will be given over to folk concerts. The first program, on July 6, will feature Ethel Waters.

Among the jazz musicians this summer will be the Dave Brubeck Quartet, the Gerry Mulligan Quintet, the Lionel Hampton band, Duke Ellington and his orchestra, the Woody Herman band, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Oscar Peterson Trio, Dizzy Gillespie, others.

Among the folk artists will be Richard Dyer-Bennet, Ma[illegible] and Miranda and the W[illegible]. Tom Lehrer will give [illegible] performance of his satiric folk songs. Opera will be added to the types of music offered this season. On August 5, 6 and 7, the After Dinner Opera Company will present four.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.
BROOKLYN RECORD
Circ. W. 9,300
JUN 21 1957

MAN ABOUT BROOKLYN

By Charles Richman

THE HEATS ON: When the sun comes striking down with its mighty power, Brooklyn folks start treking to the northern woodlands to keep cool. In our survey we find that borough folks are the most vacation minded of any community.

There is nothing like sitting in a charming musical atmosphere and many of us will be doing just that at the Berkshire Festival which gets under way on June 3rd:

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director, presents the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., from July 3 to August 11, 1957.

The six weekends of concerts, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, will be under the direction of Dr. Munch, Pierre Monteux (July 20, 28) and Carl Schuricht (Aug. 2, 10). Each weekend will emphasize the works of a special composer—the first two weekends by an orchestra of chamber proportions in the 1200-seat Theatre-Concert Hall will be all-Bach (July 5, 6, 7) and all-Mozart (July 12, 13, 14). The last four weekends of concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the Music Shed, holding 6,000, will be devoted to Tchaikovsky (July 19, 20, 21), Berlioz (July 26, 27, 28), Brahms (August 2, 3, 4) and Beethoven (August 9, 10, 11).

Isaac Stern will perform the violin concertos of Tchaikovsky, Brahms and Beethoven and Rudolph Serkin will be heard in the Brahms Second Piano Concerto.

Other special features will include a salute to the 75th birthday of Igor Stravinsky with performances of his "Canticum Sacrum" (July 21), "Jeu de Cartes" (July 19) and "Sacre du Printemps" (July 20).

Choral works to be heard at the Festival will include Part II of Bach's St. Matthew Passion on July 7 in the Music Shed, Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" on Saturday, July 27, and at the closing concert on Sunday afternoon, August 11, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. All these concert will be conducted by Charles Munch.

Hugh Ross will conduct several choral works of Mozart in the concert of Friday, July 12th.

Six concerts of chamber music will be presented on Wednesday evening in the Theatre-Concert Hall, the net proceeds of the concerts going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund to assist students at th Berkshire Music Center. The series will include classica of chamber music by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert, contemporary works by Ginastera, Janacek, Robert Casadesus and Shostakovitch, and several unusual features including a concert of piano duets by Seymour Lipkin and Ralph Berkowitz, a performance of Brahms "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by a vocal quartet, both on July 10, a song recital by the baritone, Gerard Souzay on July 31, and a concert by the Zimbler Sinfonietta just prior to their forthcoming South American tour. Other groups in the series are the Paganini String Quartet, the Beaux Arts Trio, and the Kroll String Quartet.

ALL OF THIS MAKES US FEEL we ought to have a musical festival here at either the Civic Center where there is a delightful lawn in front of the War Memorial Building or in Prospect Park.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302
JUL 7 1957

Berkshire Mountain Music

The Berkshire Mountains form the backdrop for the annual Music Festival held at Tanglewood, in Lenox, Mass. This year, 24 concerts are scheduled for the six-week season, ending Aug. 11. Weekend concerts are held in the Music Shed, and in the Theatre-Concert Hall on Wednesday evenings. A number of all-inclusive bus and rail tours to the festival are scheduled.

BALTIMORE, MD.
SUN (Sunday)
Circ. S. 321,709
JUN 30 1957

Tanglewood Festival Programs

CHARLES MUNCH, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced the programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two week ends of the festival in the Theater-Concert Hall will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, played by a chamber orchestra led by Dr. Munch. Opening the concerts of the Bach week end on July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert on July 6 will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4. On July 7 the concert will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion.

Mozart Week End

On July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart week end with the Divertimento K. 361 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

On July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495.

The first week end of concerts by the full Boston Orchestra will feature works of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky. At the July 19 concert, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

Conducted By Monteux

On July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy," with Joseph de Pacquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Dr. Munch July 27.

Monteux will again be guest conductor on July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

Debut Of Schuricht

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony.

On August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On August 4 Dr. Munch will conduct Brahm's Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahm's Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Works Of Beethoven

The final week end of the Berkshire Festival will feature works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Stern.

Schuricht will be the guest conductor August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
PRESS
Circ. D. 37,128 - S. 27,530
JUL 7 1957

Vacation Music

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in musical festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival that began July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from ~~15,000~~ to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on Aug. 12 for the first session of the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris and Lennie Tristano.

The king of jazz summer festivals, though, is the one at Newport. This year more than 125 instrumentalists and singers will perform in the seven concerts. Louis Armstrong, who played at Newport on his birthday, July 4, then moved on to Lewisohn Stadium, New York City, where Satchmo's fans whopped up a delayed birthday celebration, July 6, to climax what they're calling "Satchmo Festival Week."

TUCSON, ARIZ.
STAR
JUN 23 1957

Broadway Heading For Big 'Straw Hat' Year

Vast Variety Set For Silo Theatres

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Sum-of the ... provide ... and ... sic. ... Festival ... arts fest... ... exhibits ... Central City ... ists and opera ... fiesta, and ... Empire State Music Festival ... will stress ... operas and ballets. Jazz fana... congregate again at New... R. I.

COLUMBIA, S. C.
COLUMBIA RECORD
JUL 5 1957

Americans Enjoying Music Vacations

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati, Lenox, Mass., Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I. rocking in the annual four-day hot music festival which began on July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months and this does not take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through August 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on August 12 for the first session of the school of jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris, Lennie Tristano.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

Massachusetts

THIS year chalks up another milestone for this historic state with the opening of the beautiful Massachusetts Turnpike. The 124 miles of scenic roadway now link the gorgeous Berkshires with urban Boston. Free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights and railroad crossings, the run from the New York state line near West Stockbridge to Weston and Route 128 can be made in two or two and a half hours.

STOCKBRIDGE BOWL is only one of the 90 woodland lakes and ponds to be ... Berkshire County in western Massachusetts, a popular retreat for vacationers f...

Another major event takes place sometime in June with the second landing of the "Mayflower" at Plymouth. Plans are afoot for festivities during its two-week or so stay here (after which, it spends the summer in New York City).

To make things easy for the visitor to New England, the New England Council has a folder of suggested vacation tours which you may obtain by writing to the Council in the Statler Building in Boston. New Yorkers who do not own cars might enjoy the New Haven Railroad all-expense Pilgrim Tours. These tours, of from two to ten days, include train fare, meals and accommodations at good hotels.

The Berkshires

The natural beauty of Berkshire County in Western Massachusetts, with its 90 woodland lakes and ponds, 274 well-stocked trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves, makes it an ideal spot for vacationers. It is easily accessible for New Yorkers via the Taconic Parkway. Diversified resorts and inns nestle in the lovely rolling hills. The summer season offers all sorts of activities, with music from Bach to jazz a feature attraction. Six tours of the county have been planned by the Berkshire Hills Conference at Pittsfield, trips to the North Central, South Central, Mount Greylock, and Taconic-Mohawk Trail areas. Maps and descriptive material may be had by writing to the Berkshire Hills Conference, 50 South Street, Pittsfield. The Conference also stands ready with a directory of places to stay and things to do.

WHAT TO DO AND SEE

The Boston Symphony, under the direction of Charles Munch, opens its six-week summer season at Lenox on July 3rd. Ca... Pierre Monteux will be ... while Rudolf Serkin ... head the list of soloists.

At South Mountain, ... series of recitals and ... concerts by well-known ... with a Young Audience ... 19th at 10 a.m. and 3 ... August 9th), followed ... series beginning July 20...

Ella Fitzgerald will ... folk music season, June ... sic Barn in Lenox.

For dance addicts, Ja... Lee is the answer. Ce... anniversary, the season ... 2 and continue through ... top-flight choreographe...

Art lovers should d... handsome classic-styled ... and Francine Clark Ar... liamstown. It is filled with the Clarks' own collections and includes paintings, rare silver and sculpture, period rooms with furniture and art objects. Open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Closed Monday.

Crane Museum, Dalton, has exhibits showing the steps in making all-rag papers and progress of paper-making from Revolutionary times to the present. Open Monday through Friday 2 to 5 p.m.

Berkshire Trout Farm, Sheffield. Public fishing resort and hatchery. Fishing year-round; no license required. Picnic grounds, 14-acre lake. Rates $4.50 & $8.

Greylock War Memorial atop Mount Greylock near both Williamstown and Adams, is a 90-foot granite tower erected in 1932 as a memorial to Massachusetts war veterans.

Adams Memorial Theatre of Williams College in Williamstown has an Equity company and will start its season July 5th. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge will open June 24.

Firemen's Muster, Pittsfield. On July 4th, the Pittsfield Permanent Firemen's Assn. invite volunteer firemen from six states to participate in an all-day rally ending with an impressive fireworks display.

Barrington Fair, Great Barrington, purported to be the oldest fair in continuous operation, is open September 8th to 14th.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302

For Villa-Lobos

It will be South American Night at Lewisohn tomorrow in honor of Heitor Villa-Lobos' 70th birthday. The Brazilian composer himself will be on the stadium podium for the first time conducting five of his own works and one by Argentine composer Alberto Ginestra. Soloists will be soprano Bidu Sayao, returning after a 12-year absence and 'cellist Aldo Parisot.

* * *

Newport, R. I., winding up its jazz festival tonight, is lining up a Carnival of Music for Aug. 2 and 3. Signed up so far are Met singer Risë Stevens and pop singer singer Vic Damone . . . At the Empire State Music Festival Thursday, Virginia Copeland will undertake the title role in Richard Strauss' "Elektra" being given a full production under the baton of Laszlo Halasz.

* * *

Eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet will dance seven performances at Jacob's Pillow Tuesday through Saturday. On the bill is a ballet first in this country titled "Bergensiana" . . . Three all-Mozart programs played by a chamber music orchestra of Boston Symphony players directed by Charles Munch are listed for next week-end at the Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood.

BALTIMORE, MD.
SUN (Sunday)
Circ. S. 321,709
JUN 30 1957

Tanglewood Festival Programs

CHARLES MUNCH, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced the programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two week ends of the festival in the Theater-Concert Hall will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, played by a chamber orchestra led by Dr. Munch. Opening the concerts of the Bach week end on July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert on July 6 will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4. On July 7 the concert will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion.

Mozart Week End

On July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart week end with the Divertimento K. 361 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

On July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495.

The first week end of concerts by the full Boston Orchestra will feature works of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky. At the July 19 concert, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

Conducted By Monteux

On July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy," with Joseph de Pacquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Dr. Munch July 27.

Monteux will again be guest conductor on July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

Debut Of Schuricht

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony.

On August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On August 4 Dr. Munch will conduct Brahm's Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahm's Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Works Of Beethoven

The final week end of the Berkshire Festival will feature works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Stern.

Schuricht will be the guest conductor August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
PRESS
Circ. D. 37,128 - S. 27,530
JUL 7 1957

Vacation Music

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in musical festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival that began July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on Aug. 12 for the first session of the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris and Lennie Tristano.

The king of jazz summer festivals, though, is the one at Newport. This year more than 125 instrumentalists and singers will perform in the seven concerts. Louis Armstrong, who played at Newport on his birthday, July 4, then moved on to Lewisohn Stadium, New York City, where Satchmo's fans whopped up a delayed birthday celebration, July 6, to climax what they're calling "Satchmo Festival Week."

TUCSON, ARIZ.
STAR
Circ. D. 28,960 - S. 37,561
JUN 23 1957

Broadway Heading For Big 'Straw Hat' Year

Vast Variety Set For Silo Theatres

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Summer vacationists who like an assortment of the arts, Aspen, Colo., will provide opera, chamber music and orchestral music; the renowned Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Mass., and nearby Jacob's Pillow Festival at Lee will respectively provide music and dance.

Boston has a summer arts festival of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet and art exhibits. Central City, Colo., lists an opera fiesta, and the Empire State Music Festival at Ellenville, N.Y., will stress new operas and ballet. Jazz fanatics will congregate again at Newport, R. I.

COLUMBIA, S. C.
COLUMBIA RECORD
JUL 5 1957

Americans Enjoying Music Vacations

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati, Lenox, Mass., Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I. rocking in the annual four-day hot music festival which began on July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months and this does not take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through August 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on August 12 for the first session of the school of jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris, Lennie Tristano.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302
JUL 7

For Villa-Lobos

It will be South American Night at Lewisohn tomorrow in honor of Heitor Villa-Lobos' 70th birthday. The Brazilian composer himself will be on the stadium podium for the first time conducting five of his own works and one by Argentine composer Alberto Ginastra. Soloists will be soprano Bidu Sayao, returning after a 12-year absence and 'cellist Aldo Parisot.

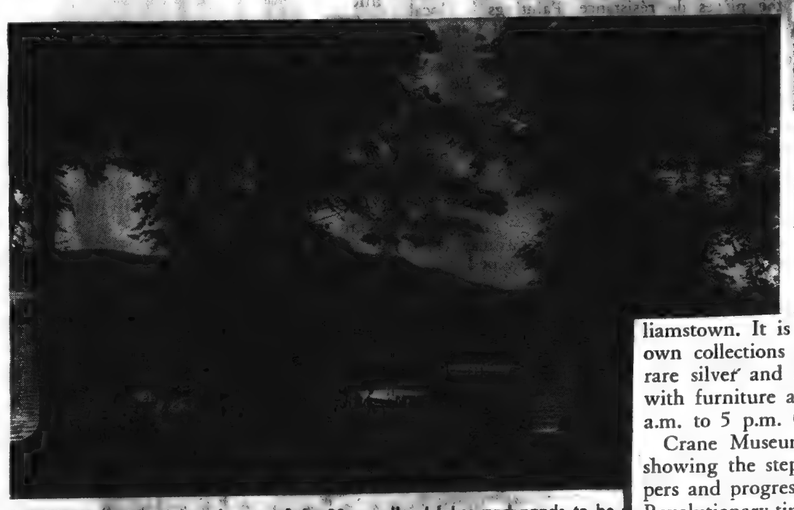
Newport, R. I., winding up its jazz festival tonight, is lining up a Carnival of Music for Aug. 2 and 3. Signed up so far are Met singer Risa Stevens and pop singer singer Vic Damone . . . At the Empire State Music Festival Thursday, Virginia Copeland will undertake the title role in Richard Strauss' "Elektra" being given a full production under the baton of Laszlo Halasz.

Eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet will dance seven performances at Jacob's Pillow Tuesday through Saturday. On the bill is a ballet first in this country titled "Bergensiana" . . . Three all-Mozart programs played by a chamber music orchestra of Boston Symphony players directed by Charles Munch are listed for next week-end at the Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood.

Burrelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

Massachusetts

THIS year chalks up another milestone for this historic state with the opening of the beautiful Massachusetts Turnpike. The 124 miles of scenic roadway now link the gorgeous Berkshires with urban Boston. Free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights and railroad crossings, the run from the New York state line near West Stockbridge to Weston and Route 128 can be made in two or two and a half hours.



STOCKBRIDGE BOWL is only one of the 90 woodland lakes and ponds to be Berkshire County in western Massachusetts, a popular retreat for vacationers f

Another major event takes place sometime in June with the second landing of the "Mayflower" at Plymouth. Plans are afoot for festivities during its two-week or so stay here (after which, it spends the summer in New York City).

To make things easy for the visitor to New England, the New England Council has a folder of suggested vacation tours which you may obtain by writing to the Council in the Statler Building in Boston. New Yorkers who do not own cars might enjoy the New Haven Railroad all-expense Pilgrim Tours. These tours, of from two to ten days, include train fare, meals and accommodations at good hotels.

The Berkshires

The natural beauty of Berkshire County in Western Massachusetts, with its 90 woodland lakes and ponds, 274 well-stocked trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves, makes it an ideal spot for vacationers. It is easily accessible for New Yorkers via the Taconic Parkway. Diversified resorts and inns nestle in the lovely rolling hills. The summer season offers all sorts of activities, with music from Bach to jazz a feature attraction. Six tours of the county have been planned by the Berkshire Hills Conference at Pittsfield, trips to the North Central, South Central, Mount Greylock, and Taconic-Mohawk Trail areas. Maps and descriptive material may be had by writing to the Berkshire Hills Conference, 300 South Street, Pittsfield. The Conference also stands ready with a directory of places to stay and things to do.

WHAT TO DO AND SEE

The Boston Symphony, under the direction of Charles Munch, opens its six-week summer season a Lenox on July 3rd. Ca Pierre Monteux will be while Rudolf Serkin head the list of soloists.

At South Mountain, series of recitals and concerts by well-known with a Young Audienc 19th at 10 a.m. and 3 August 9th), followed series beginning July 20

Ella Fitzgerald will folk music season, June sic Barn in Lenox.

For dance addicts, J Lee is the answer. Ce anniversary, the seaso 2 and continue throug top-flight choreographe

Art lovers should d handsome classic-styled and Francine Clark Ar liamstown. It is filled with the Clarks' own collections and includes paintings, rare silver and sculpture, period rooms with furniture and art objects. Open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Closed Monday.

Crane Museum, Dalton, has exhibits showing the steps in making all-rag papers and progress of paper-making from Revolutionary times to the present. Open Monday through Friday 2 to 5 p.m.

Berkshire Trout Farm, Sheffield. Public fishing resort and hatchery. Fishing year-round; no license required. Picnic grounds, 14-acre lake. Rates $4.50 & $8.

Greylock War Memorial atop Mount Greylock near both Williamstown and Adams, is a 90-foot granite tower erected in 1932 as a memorial to Massachusetts war veterans.

Adams Memorial Theatre of Williams College in Williamstown has an Equity company and will start its season July 5th. The Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge will open June 24.

Firemen's Muster, Pittsfield. On July 4th, the Pittsfield Permanent Firemen's Assn. invite volunteer firemen from six states to participate in an all-day rally ending with an impressive fireworks display.

Barrington Fair, Great Barrington, purported to be the oldest fair in continuous operation, is open September 8th to 14th.

BALTIMORE, MD.
SUN (Sunday)
Circ. S. 321,709
JUN 30 1957

Tanglewood Festival Programs

CHARLES MUNCH, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has announced the programs for the orchestra's 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

The first two week ends of the festival in the Theater-Concert Hall will be devoted to the works of Bach and Mozart, played by a chamber orchestra led by Dr. Munch. Opening the concerts of the Bach week end on July 5, Dr. Munch will present the Suite No. 3; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 (with Lukas Foss as piano soloist); Suite No. 2 (with Doriot Anthony Dwyer solo flute); and the Concerto for Two Pianos in C minor performed by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin.

The concert on July 6 will consist of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, and 4. On July 7 the concert will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion.

Mozart Week End

On July 12, Dr. Munch will commence the Mozart week end with the Divertimento K. 361 for Strings, the Serenade, K. 361 for Wind Instruments and the "Haffner" Symphony. Hugh Ross will conduct the second half of the concert, presenting Mozart's Litanies K. 243 for chorus, soloists and orchestra. The concert of July 13, which will take place in the Music Shed, will consist of the three symphonies of Mozart in E-flat, G minor and C major ("Jupiter").

On July 14 Dr. Munch will present two of his players as soloists—Sherman Walt in the Bassoon Concerto and James Stagliano in the Horn Concerto K. 495.

The first week end of concerts by the full Boston Orchestra will feature works of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky. At the July 19 concert, Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Card Game," Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations for cello and orchestra and the same composer's Symphony No. 6 ("Pathetique").

Conducted By Monteux

On July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct a program consisting of the "Fingal's Cave" Overture by Mendelssohn, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring." Dr. Munch will conduct the concert on July 21, presenting Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture, the "Canticum Sacrum" of Stravinsky, and the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern.

An all-Berlioz program will be performed July 26, including the Overture "The Corsair," "Harold in Italy," with Joseph de Pacquale as soloist, and the Fantastic Symphony. A performance of "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz will be presented by Dr. Munch July 27.

Monteux will again be guest conductor on July 28. His program will be excerpts from Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," Paul Hindemith's "News of the Day" Overture and his Symphony "Mathis der Maler."

Debut Of Schuricht

The first concert of the following week on August 2 will mark the Tanglewood debut of the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, whose program will consist of Brahms Tragic Overture, Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, and Brahms First Symphony.

On August 3, Dr. Munch will continue the emphasis on the works of Brahms with the Variations on a Theme of Haydn and the Violin Concerto with Isaac Stern as soloist. He will also perform "Medea's Meditation and Dance" by Samuel Barber.

On August 4 Dr. Munch will conduct Brahm's Academic Festival Overture, Walter Piston's Symphony No. 5, and will close with Brahm's Second Piano Concerto, Rudolf Serkin as soloist.

Works Of Beethoven

The final week end of the Berkshire Festival will feature works of Beethoven. Dr. Munch will conduct the concert of August 9, performing Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Honegger's Symphony No. 3 ("Liturgique") and the Beethoven Violin Concerto with Stern.

Schuricht will be the guest conductor August 10, presenting Boris Blacher's Konzertante Musik, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica") of Beethoven.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
PRESS
Circ. D. 37,128 - S. 27,530
JUL 7 1957

Vacation Music

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in musical festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival that began July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from ~~15,000~~ to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on Aug. 12 for the first session of the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris and Lennie Tristano.

The king of jazz summer festivals, though, is the one at Newport. This year more than 125 instrumentalists and singers will perform in the seven concerts. Louis Armstrong, who played at Newport on his birthday, July 4, then moved on to Lewisohn Stadium, New York City, where Satchmo's fans whopped up a delayed birthday celebration, July 6, to climax what they're calling "Satchmo Festival Week."

COLUMBIA, S. C.
COLUMBIA RECORD
JUL 5 1957

together add 250 new d photos by Nebbia.)

Sum
American

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati, Lenox, Mass., Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I. rocking in the annual four-day hot music festival which began on July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months and this does not take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through August 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on August 12 for the first session of the school of jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris, Lennie Tristano.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302
JUL 7 1957

Lewisohn Fete For Villa-Lobos

It will be South American Night at Lewisohn tomorrow in honor of Heitor Villa-Lobos' 70th birthday. The Brazilian composer himself will be on the stadium podium for the first time conducting five of his own works and one by Argentine composer Alberto Ginastera. Soloists will be soprano Bidu Sayao, returning after a 12-year absence and 'cellist Aldo Parisot.

* * *

Newport, R. I., winding up its jazz festival tonight, is lining up a Carnival of Music for Aug. 2 and 3. Signed up so far are Metsinger Risa Stevens and pop singer-singer Vic Damone . . . At the Empire State Music Festival Thursday, Virginia Copeland will undertake the title role in Richard Strauss' "Elektra" being given a full production under the baton of Laszlo Halasz.

* * *

Eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet will dance seven performances at Jacob's Pillow Tuesday through Saturday. On the bill is a ballet first in this country titled "Bourgeoisina" . . . Three all-Mozart programs played by a chamber music orchestra of Boston Symphony players directed by Charles Munch are listed for next week-end at the Berkshire Music Festival, Tanglewood.

Buffelle's
ESTABLISHED 1888
BArclay 7-5371
PRESS CLIPPING BUREAU
165 Church Street - New York

Massachusetts

THIS year chalks up another milestone for this historic state with the opening of the beautiful Massachusetts Turnpike. The 124 miles of scenic roadway now link the gorgeous Berkshires with urban Boston. Free from sharp curves, steep grades, traffic lights and railroad crossings, the run from the New York state line near West Stockbridge to Weston and Route 128 can be made in two or two and a half hours.

STOCKBRIDGE BOWL is only one of the 90 woodland lakes and ponds to be found in the hills of Berkshire County in western Massachusetts, a popular retreat for vacationers for a century or more Another major event takes place sometime in June with the second landing of the "Mayflower" at Plymouth. Plans are afoot for festivities during its two-week or so stay here (after which, it spends the summer in New York City).

To make things easy for the visitor to New England, the New England Council has a folder of suggested vacation tours which you may obtain by writing to the Council in the Statler Building in Boston. New Yorkers who do not own cars might enjoy the New Haven Railroad all-expense Pilgrim Tours. These tours, of from two to ten days, include train fare, meals and accommodations at good hotels.

The Berkshires

The natural beauty of Berkshire County in Western Massachusetts, with its 90 woodland lakes and ponds, 274 well-stocked trout streams and 80,000 acres of state forest preserves, makes it an ideal spot for vacationers. It is easily accessible for New Yorkers via the Taconic Parkway. Diversified resorts and inns nestle in the lovely rolling hills. The summer season offers all sorts of activities, with music from Bach to jazz a feature attraction. Six tours of the county have been planned by the Berkshire Hills Conference at Pittsfield, trips to the North Central, South Central, Mount Greylock, and Taconic-Mohawk Trail areas. Maps and descriptive material may be had by writing to the Berkshire Hills Conference, 300 South Street, Pittsfield. The Conference also stands ready with a directory of places to stay and things to do.

WHAT TO DO AND SEE

The Boston Symphony, under the direction of Charles Munch, opens its six-week summer season at Tanglewood in Lenox on July 3rd. Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux will be guest conductors, while Rudolf Serkin and Isaac Stern head the list of soloists.

At South Mountain, near Pittsfield, a series of recitals and chamber music concerts by well-known artists will open with a Young Audience Concert on July 19th at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. (another on August 9th), followed by the Saturday series beginning July 20th.

Ella Fitzgerald will open the jazz and folk music season, June 30th, at the Music Barn in Lenox.

For dance addicts, Jacobs Pillow near Lee is the answer. Celebrating its 25th anniversary, the season will open June 2 and continue through August 31 with top-flight choreographers.

Art lovers should definitely visit the handsome classic-styled marble Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute at Wilhicken or lobster d choice. Service

plete meals $2 to ties at luncheon,
Monterey is "dry," ut you may bring mes will furnish ns advisable.

(Colfax 9-5431). use, high on the l view. The barn-newly appointed s, swimming in a l, and hundreds of
The fourteen rooms ingle, $14 and $16
eekly rates. Towhee tchen, sleeps four $50 a week.

Lee (Lee 795-W).
rts of sports activ-
at this gay resort—
olf course, fishing,
this year is a pack-d August that in-tickets to a concert

Clarks' intings, rooms pen 10 khibits g pa-from Open

Pubshing
Picnic
$8. ount
and cted setts

ms ity ily k-

ily ix ily ks

TUCSON, ARIZ.
STAR
Cir. D. 28,960 - S. 37,5[illegible]
JUN 23 1957

roadway Heading For ig 'Straw Hat' Year

st Variety Set
r Silo Theatres

By WILLIAM GLOVER

EW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Sum-[illegible] vacationist who has an ortment of the arts, Aspen, olo., will provide opera, cham-er music and orchestral music;
e renowned Berkshire Festival, anglewood, Mass., and nearby acob's Pillow Festival at Lee ill respectively provide music nd dance.

Boston has a summer arts festi-al of plays, jazz, poetry, ballet nd art exhibits. Central City, olo., lists an opera fiesta, and he Empire State Music Festival t Ellenville, N.Y., will stress ew operas and ballet. Jazz fanaics will congregate again at Newport, R. I.

[160]

THE EVENING SUN, HANOVER, PA. SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1957

The 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will open its series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director in the 6,000-seat Music Shed on the weekend of July 19-20-21. Four weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be enjoyed by thousands, both inside the famous Music Shed, and outside on the lawns of the beautiful Tanglewood Estate. Many people picnic on the grounds prior to the concerts. The grounds are open at 6 p. m. for evening concerts and 12 noon for Sundays for those who wish to take advantage of this pleasant custom.

Tanglewood is easily approached by road—the Taconic Parkway from New York City and points south. The New York State Thruway and the new Massachusetts Turnpike bring visitors to Tanglewood in a little over two hours from Boston, thus allowing music lovers from the Eastern part of New England to drive to Tanglewood, attend a Berkshire Festival concert, and return to their homes in a single day of easy driving.

The concerts of the first weekend (July 19-20-21) are devoted to music of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, and conducted by Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux. An especially interesting series of Berlioz programs has been chosen by Charles Munch for the weekend of July 26-27-28. Dr. Munch, who is known as a specialist in the performance of Berlioz, will conduct two of the concerts, and Pierre Monteux the third. A good choice of tickets is still available for this concert, and good accommodations may still be had in the area for this particular weekend. Programs for the following weekend (August 2-3-4) will emphasize the music of Brahms, and the fourth and final weekend (August 9-10-11) is devoted to Beethoven. Charles Munch will conduct two concerts in each weekend, and the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, one.

Information on tickets and programs, as well as a descriptive circular about other activities in the Berkshire area, may be had by writing the Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

NEWARK, N. J.
NEWS
Circ. D. 275,829 - S. 321,395
JUL 14 1957

MUSIC LOVERS outside the shed at Tanglew... Mass. listen to the Boston Symphony Orchestra

PIQUA, OHIO
CALL
Circ. D. 9,446
JUL 6 1957

Vacation Days Full Of Music

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS began their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances, extend

SCRANTON, PA.
TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 40,733
JUL 5 1957

Music Al Fresco

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations' this first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival which started yesterday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the Summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will ta... rst session o... Berkshire M... nglewood.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
PRESS
Circ. D. 37,128 - S. 27,530
JUL 7 1957

ANNISTON, ALA.
STAR
JUL 4 1957

Nights Filled With Music

Thousands of Americans are beginning their "musical vacations" this week, which ushers in festivals of good music at Cincinnati, at Ipswich and Lenox, in Massachusetts, and at other locations.

More than 80 festivals of music, many staged out-of-doors, are held in the Summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936.

Vacation Music

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES
JUL 3 1957

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in musical festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival that began July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

...series this summer.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra will be back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell. This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it's the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

Vacation Music

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival beginning July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

PATERSON, N. J.
NEWS
Circ. D. 41,840
JUL 10 1957

Vacation Music

By RICHARD SPONG

Thousands of Americans have begun their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in musical festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned More than 80 festivals of music are held during the Summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass. has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances, extends through Aug. 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on Aug. 12 for the first session of the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris, and Lennie Tristano.

Music Education Journal points out, there are "hosts of others on college and university campuses" giving to "many thousands of American youth" every Summer "opportunities . . ." that are unequaled in the world". And the idea has spread to Canada, where, for example, the Royal Conservatory of Music in Ontario regularly schedules a Summer session.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA
TIMES
Circ. D. 68,623 - S. 78,467
JUL

Music Events Are Attuned To Vacations

Thousands of Americans began their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushered in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival beginning last Thursday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances, extends through Aug. 11.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra will be back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell.

[100]

The 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts, will open its series of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Music Director in the 6,000-seat Music Shed on the weekend of July 19-20-21. Four weekends of concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons will be enjoyed by thousands, both inside the famous Music Shed, and outside on the lawns of the beautiful Tanglewood estate. Many people picnic on the grounds prior to the concerts. The grounds are open at 6 p. m. for evening concerts and 12 noon on Sundays for those who wish to take advantage of this pleasant custom.

Tanglewood is easily approached by road—the Taconic Parkway from New York City and points south. The New York State Thruway and the new Massachusetts Turnpike bring visitors to Tanglewood in a little over two hours from Boston, thus allowing music lovers from the Eastern part of New England to drive to Tanglewood, attend a Berkshire Festival concert, and return to their homes in a single day of easy driving.

The concerts of the first weekend (July 19-20-21) are devoted to music of Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, and conducted by Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux. An especially interesting series of Berlioz programs has been chosen by Charles Munch for the weekend of July 26-27-28. Dr. Munch, who is known as a specialist in the performance of Berlioz, will conduct two of the concerts, and Pierre Monteux the third. A good choice of tickets is still available for this concert, and good accommodations may still be had in the area for this particular weekend. Programs for the following weekend (August 2-3-4) will emphasize the music of Brahms, and the fourth and final weekend (August 9-10-11) is devoted to Beethoven. Charles Munch will conduct two concerts in each weekend, and the German conductor, Carl Schuricht, one.

Information on tickets and programs, as well as a descriptive circular about other activities in the Berkshire area, may be had by writing the Ticket Office, Tanglewood, Lenox, Massachusetts.

THE EVENING SUN, HANOVER, PA. SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1957

NEWARK, N. J.
NEWS
Circ. D. 275,829 - S. 321,395
JUL 14 1957

MUSIC LOVERS outside the shed at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., listen to the Boston Symphony Orchestra in solid comfort.

SCRANTON, PA.
TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 40,733
JUL 5 1957

Music Al Fresco

Thousands of Americans begin their 'musical vacations' this first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival which started yesterday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the Summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on Aug. 12 for the first session of the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood.

ANNISTON, ALA.
STAR
JUL 4 1957

Nights Filled With Music

Thousands of Americans are beginning their "musical vacations" this week, which ushers in festivals of good music at Cincinnati, at Ipswich and Lenox, in Massachusetts, and at other locations.

More than 80 festivals of music, many staged out-of-doors, are held in the Summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936.

Full Of Music

NS began their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. M tivals of music are held mer months, and that d account the municipal o

Attendance at the ann Festival at Lenox, Mass., 15,000 to more than 13 first season in 1936. Th gram featuring the Bosto chestra in weekend perfor

Vacation Music

EL PASO, TEX.
TIMES
JUL 3 1957

"musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in musical festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival that began July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week-end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

series this summer.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra will be back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell. This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it's the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

Vacation Music

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival beginning July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in week end performances, extends through Aug. 11.

100 Registered for Recreation Program; Golf Course Popular

MONTVILLE — Over 100 children registered at Central School on the opening day of the township's Summer recreation program last week, according to the report of Thomas Westling, director. During the first week the youngsters tried out the miniature 6-hole golf course located in the playground's wooded area. Croquet, badminton, horseshoes, basketball, volleyball and baseball also were popular activities. Westling said that all the necessary Little League equipment has been procured to insure maximum participation.

For Berhman, E. Coombs was on the mound and R. Smith behind the plate.

Dudley Calvert of Pine Brook is the manager of the winning team, having served in that capacity for four years.

Kevah Konner's team is the Babe Ruth League champion of the township this year, having won 7 out of 8 games.

The King of the Jazz Summer festivals, though, is the one at Newport. This year more than 125 instrumentalists and singers will perform in the seven concerts. Louis Armstrong, who will be playing at Newport on his birthday, then moves on to Lewissohn Stadium, New York City, where Satchmo's fans are whomping up a delayed birthday celebration to climax what they're calling "Satchmo Festival Week."

Out in Interlochen, Mich., the National Music Camp is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year in a season running from June 23 to Aug. 19. The camp is an outgrowth of a National High School Orchestra assembled in 1927 to play for a School Superintendents' convention in Dallas, Texas.

Over the years its permanent Michigan home has spread over 700 acres, embracing two lakes. The camp now has buildings and equipment valued at $2 million. More than 1200 students will attend this year, forming seven orchestras, five bands and 12 choruses.

In addition to this camp, as the Music Education Journal points out, there are "hosts of others on college and university campuses" giving to "many thousands of American youth" every Summer "opportunities . . . that are unequaled in the world". And the idea has spread to Canada, where, for example, the Royal Conservatory of Music in Ontario regularly schedules a Summer session.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA
TIMES
Circ. D. 68,623 - S. 78,467
JUL 7 [illegible]

Music Events Are Attuned To Vacations

Thousands of Americans began their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushered in music festivals at Cincinnati; Lenox, Mass.; Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados set sedate Newport, R.I., rocking in the annual four-day hot-music festival beginning last Thursday.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months, and that doesn't take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to more than 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances, extends through Aug. 11.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet costs of summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra will be back at the shell on the Charles, and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell.

[101]

ANN ARBOR, MICH. NEWS
JUL 11 1957

National Music Camp Marks 30th Anniversary

THE OUTGROWTH of a National High School Orchestra assembled in 1927 to play for a school superintendents' convention in Dallas, Texas, the National Music Camp at Interlochen this year is celebrating its 30th anniversary.

Interlochen near Traverse City is probably visited during the summer months by more Ann Arbor and Washtenaw county residents than any other place in northern Michigan. While its students come from all over the nation and some from foreign lands, a majority of them are from this area, and the hundreds of visitors to the camp include parents as well as persons who principle interest is music.

Interlochen has grown from the days when most persons arrived by train at the picturesque little station until it now covers some 700 acres of land. The camp embraces two beautiful lakes, and buildings and facilities—steadily expanding—are valued at two million dollars. More than 1,200 students will attend this year, forming seven orchestras, five bands and 12 choruses.

The music camp is fast becoming a branch campus of the University. Latest addition to its program is year-around instruction in the arts and academic subjects. Announced by the camp president, Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, the program will be known as the National Art Academy and is expected to start in the fall of 1958.

* * *

INTERLOCHEN, of course, is only one of scores of summer music programs, including the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., where a six-week program featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances extends through Aug. 11. And for the hot-music fans the first session of the School of Jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood, will open on Aug. 12, with such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris and Lennie Tristano to "lecture."

More than 80 music festivals are held during the summer months, and right in this area the Plymouth Symphony Society has inaugurated a series of Sunday concerts which it hopes to expand later into a six-week festival.

Interlochen has something that makes both students and visitors want to return season after season. Music, art and vacation pleasures are blended nicely. The sound of the wind through the pines is music in itself; what better background for bringing out the talent of musically inclined youngsters.

TOLEDO, OHIO
BLADE
Circ. D. 193,863 - S. 178,068
JUL 14 1957

THE LAWN before The Shed at Tanglewood, where the annual Berkshire Music Festival of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will begin this year July 19 and last for a succession of weekends until Aug. 11. German conductor, Carl Schuricht, makes his debut there Aug. 2.

BURG, FLA
ES
3 - S. 78,467
L 7 1957

ents ned ons nericans began sations" the which ushered at Cincinnati;

wich, Mass.,
not to be out-
haired cousins, sedate New in the annual festival begin-concerts are central events ny vacations han 80 festild during the d that doesn't the municipal annual Tan-

Lenox, Mass., to more first season program,
Symphony perform-h Aug. 11.

ny gets al parks ent to concerts.
strip will on the ts on the sumed at shell.

[102]

Festivals Offer Music, Drama

Summer festivals of music, drama and art will blossom again with new intensity across the nation this year.

The popularity of the warm weather culture events has developed so much in the last 10 years that the festivals can now take their place as a permanent and glorious part of Americana.

This year the programs of the festivals are as impressive as ever while the smaller ones are growing in stature.

Some of the top festivals are a day's drive from Cleveland:

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL: July 3-Aug. 11 at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass. Charles Munch with the Boston Symphony. 510 miles.

STRATFORD SHAKESPEAREAN MUSIC & DRAMA FESTIVAL: Canada's contribution to summer culture across the lake in Stratford, Ontario, July 1-Sept. 7. Besides the Bard, opera, symphony and jazz music. 315 miles.

CINCINNATI SUMMER OPERA: Eleven operas in the Zoo Pavilion for the 36th season, June 29-July 27. 250 miles.

EMPIRE STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL: Igor Markevitch is back conducting the Symphony of the Air July 4-28 for the third season in the Ellenville (N. Y.) music tent in the Catskills. 450 miles.

RAVINIA FESTIVAL: Drama and classical and jazz music June 17-Aug. 18 in Chicago's suburban Highland Park. 350 miles.

SHAKESPEARE-UNDER-THE-STARS FESTIVAL: Lyric music-dramas combined with plays at Antioch Theater, Yellow Springs, and at the Toledo Zoo Amphitheater, July 3-Sept. 6. Antioch 200 miles, Toledo 120 miles.

* * *

BERKSHIRE: Six weeks of great music, one each to Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. First shed concert July 7, features Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" Part 2. Following shed concerts on weekends, smaller concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Guest conductors Pierre Monteux, Carl Schuricht. Soloists are Violinist Issac Stern (three concertos), Pianists Rudolf Serkin, Lukas Foss, Seymour Lipkin and Singers Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Aug. 8.

STRATFORD: Shakespeare's "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night" with Siobhan McKenna and Christopher Plummer. Benjamin Britten conducting his own opera, "The Turn of the Screw" with Peter Pears. The Canadian Broadcasting Co. Symphony with soloists Lois Marshal and Betty-Jean Hagen. Jazz concerts with Count Basie, Billie Holiday, Ron Collier, Gerry Mulligan, Teddy Wilson and Duke Ellington.

CINCINNATI: The Queen City has a popular bill with "Il Trovatore," "Madame Butterfly," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "The Marriage of Figaro," "Tosca," "Faust" "Der Rosenkavalier," "La Traviata," "La Boheme," and "Carmen."

Top singers are Antonietta Stella, Eleanor Steber, Laurel Hurley, Tomiko Kanazawa (as Butterfly, naturally), Nadine Conner, Eugene Conley, Frank Valentino and Giuseppe Campora. James Pease Maria Giovanna and Frances Bible are newcomers.

EMPIRE: Markevitch leads Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Leopold Stokowsky conducts Carl Orffs' "Carmina Burana" and Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum." Other features are the Royal Danish Ballet, Richard Strauss' opera, "Elektra" and Villa-Lobos conducting his "Emperor Jones," with Jose Limon dancing.

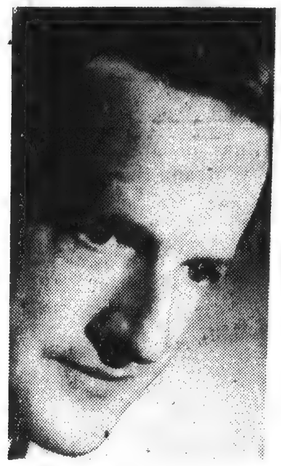
RAVINIA: The Chicago Symphony led by Markevitch, Monteux, Schuricht, George Solti and William Steinberg and composer-conductors Virgil Thomson, Roy Harris, Walter Piston and Lukas Foss.

Soloists include Pianists Eugene Istomen, Alec Templeton, Johana Harris, Gyorgy Cziffra, Menahem Pressler and Byron Janis, Cellist Janos Starker and Soprano Eileen Farrell.

The Royal Danish Ballet, Duke Ellington and Stan Kenton also are programmed.

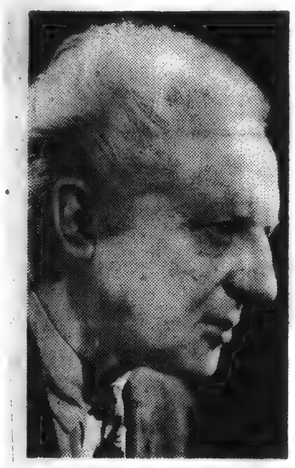
ANTIOCH: Benjamin Britten's "The Rape of Lucretia," Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti," Igor Stravinsky's "The Soldier's Tale," and Kurt Weill's "Lost in the Stars," with casts from Karamu Theater under Benno Frank. Four Shakespeares also.

SIOBHAN McKENNA will play in "Twelfth Night" at Stratford.



PETER PEARS sings in Britten's "The Turn of the Screw" at Stratford.

MARIA GIOVANNA will make her American debut in "Lucia" at Cincinnati.



LEOPOLD STOKOWSKY

ADELE ADDISON is soloist in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at Tanglewood.

DUKE ELLINGTON will bring his jazz band to Ravinia Festival

COLUMBIA, S. C.
RECORD
Circ. D. 29,261

JUL 5 1957

Americans Enjoying Music Vacations

Thousands of Americans begin their "musical vacations" the first week in July, which ushers in music festivals at Cincinnati, Lenox, Mass., Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I. rocking in the annual four-day hot music festival which began on July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months and this does not take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances, extends through August 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on August 12 for the first session of the school of jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris, Lennie Tristano.

The king of the summer jazz festivals, though, is the one at Newport. This year more than 125 instrumentalists and singers will perform in the seven concerts. Louis Armstrong, who played at Newport on his birthday, July 4, then moved on to Lewisohn Stadium, New York City, where Satchmo's fans are whomping up a delayed birthday celebration, July 6, to climax what they are calling "Satchmo Festival Week."

Out in Interlochen, Mich., the National Music Camp is celebrating its thirtieth anniversary this year, in a season running from June 23 to August 19. The camp is an outgrowth of a National High School Orchestra assembled in 1927 to play for a convention of school superintendents in Dallas, Tex.

Over the years its permanent Michigan home has spread over 700 acres, embracing two lakes. The camp now has buildings and equipment valued at $2,000,000. More than 1,200 students will attend this year, forming seven orchestras, five bands and 12 choruses.

In addition to this camp, as the Music Education Journal points out, there are "hosts of others on college and university campuses" giving to "many thousands of American youth" every summer "opportunities . . . that are unequaled in the world." And the idea has spread to Canada, where for example the Royal Conservatory of Music in Ontario regularly schedules a summer session.

The stay-at-homes are not being neglected either, musically speaking. The last week in June ushered in New York City's two major outdoor concert series, the Lewisohn Stadium performances, organized by Mrs. Charles S. (Minnie) Guggenheimer, and the Goldman Band concerts in Central Park Mall. Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell is expanding its series this summer.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet the cost of its summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra will be back at the shell on the Charles and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell.

This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it is the three B's or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

HARRISONBURG, VA.
NEWS-RECORD
Circ. D. 13,223

JUL 5 1957

WINCHESTER, VA.
STAR
Circ. D. 8,295

JUL 9 1957

WASHINGTON, PA.
REPORTER
Circ. D. 8,449

JUL 5 1957

ROANOKE, VA.
WORLD-NEWS
Circ. D. 40,758

JUL 5 1957

Comes Now Season Of Open Air Music For Americans

By Richard Spong
For Editorial Research Reports

Phoenixville, Pa.
Daily Republican

July 8, 1957

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Town Crier & Herald
WESTPORT, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,200

JUL 18 1957

Tanglewood Tips . . .

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrated his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "New of the Day" (Neuss Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathias de Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. This work which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea" "Meditation and Dance of Vengenance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3: "Symphony No. 5" by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4: Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral in Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copeland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

...day Courant
...TFORD, Conn.
...Republican
...Circ. 143,181

...14 1957

...vely Arts...
...Reproac...

...d not been my intent...
...p all over again this...
...ter of the programs now...
...by the Boston Symphony...
...at Tanglewood.
...o so would be to beat...
...and I have already...
...or years at the shed we...
...being purveyed there...
...Munch and (if this be...
...en the late, good, great...
...vitzky.
...matter of fact, when...
...programs were announced...
...down my urge to rise...
...natural impulse of chau...
...ent so far as to say...
...ust have thrice-times...
...composers, it is better...
...n the new Tanglewood p...
...hich features one in...
...week end. The effect...
...odge.

★

...uld have been content...
...at that, even though s...
...might strike the pur...
...as quasi-defeatist. Last...
...r. the press department...
...Symphony sent out a...
...given by Mr. Munch...
...exercises of the Be...
...Center, the school mai...
...glewood. In it, the co...
...Boston Symphony, te...
...periences he and the o...
...joyed in Europe last fo...
...:
...und there (Czechoslova...
...t in the music of the...
...and at the same time s...
...ire to hear as much...
...ary music as possible...
...ery much impressed.
...I think of the reproach...
...(at home) because the...
...ony Orchestra plays so...
...usic on its programs...
...that not our duty? In...
...e present, we are prepar...
...—without neglecting the...
...ually one surmised from...
...followed that Mr. Munch...
...eeling a little touchy o...
...ion given a specific...
...work by home-town...
...ton this winter. "It is...
...r the orchestra and...
...public, it would be...
...and re-play 'Pictures...
...ition,' than to prepare...
...by David Diamond,"...
...remember the Diamond...
...ever, sticking to the ma...
...and answering Mr....
...on, let me reply heartily...
...is "our duty" to ge...
...nporary music perform...
...while. The point is, wi...
...reproachful Boston? W...
...t at Tanglewood, too?

★

...ne examines the sched...
...played up at Lenox, o...
...certs in which about 5...
...eing done by the Bost...
...under Mr. Munch, Pie...
...and Carl Schuricht. P...
...nporary composers nu...
...st this looks like a m...
...able representation, o...
...20 per cent. However...
...fficult to call Stravins...
...rtes" or "Sacre du P...
...material, or H...
...is der Maler." Nor H...

...Review
...ANFORD, Conn.
...ly Independe...
...Circ. 1,689

...L 18 1957

Pot Pourr...
Louise Lee...

...The main diversion...
...oungsters, particularl...
...ys, is Cowboy Village...
...llingworth where the...
...lives again, with...
...do not harm.
...you at the Saturday...
...rehearsal at...
...is only a doll...
...o the Musicians'...
...and take a p...
...et all or most...
...the Saturday...
...rts and the...
...eir shirt sleeves...
...suits. Pot...

[102]

Festivals Offer Music, Drama

Summer festivals of music, drama and art will blossom again with new intensity across the nation this year.

The popularity of the warm weather culture events has developed so much in the last 10 years that the festivals can now take their place as a permanent and glorious part of Americana.

This year the programs of the festivals are as impressive as ever while the smaller ones are growing in stature.

Some of the top festivals are a day's drive from Cleveland:

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL: July 3-Aug. 11 at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass. Charles Munch with the Boston Symphony. 510 miles.

STRATFORD SHAKESPEAREAN MUSIC & DRAMA FESTIVAL: Canada's contribution to summer culture across the lake in Stratford, Ontario, July 1-Sept. 7. Besides the Bard, opera, symphony and jazz music. 315 miles.

CINCINNATI SUMMER OPERA: Eleven operas in the Zoo Pavilion for the 36th season, June 29-July 27. 250 miles.

EMPIRE STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL: Igor Markevitch is back conducting the Symphony of the Air July 4-28 for the third season in the Ellenville (N. Y.) music tent in the Catskills. 450 miles.

RAVINIA FESTIVAL: Drama and classical and jazz music June 17-Aug. 18 in Chicago's suburban Highland Park. 350 miles.

SHAKESPEARE-UNDER-THE-STARS FESTIVAL: Lyric music-dramas combined with plays at Antioch Theater, Yellow Springs, and at the Toledo Zoo Amphitheater, July 3-Sept. 6. Antioch 200 miles, Toledo 120 miles.

* * *

BERKSHIRE: Six weeks of great music, one each to Bach, Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. First shed concert July 7, features Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" Part 2. Following shed concerts on weekends, smaller concerts in the Theater-Concert Hall on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Guest conductors Pierre Monteux, Carl Schuricht. Soloists are Violinist Issac Stern (three concertos), Pianists Rudolf Serkin, Lukas Foss, Seymour Lipkin and Singers Adele Addison, Florence Kopleff, John McCollum and Donald Gramm. Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Aug. 8.

STRATFORD: Shakespeare's "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night" with Siobhan McKenna and Christopher Plummer. Benjamin Britten conducting his own opera, "The Turn of the Screw" with Peter Pears. The Canadian Broadcasting Co. Symphony with soloists Lois Marshal and Betty-Jean Hagen. Jazz concerts with Count Basie, Billie Holiday, Ron Collier, Gerry Mulligan, Teddy Wilson and Duke Ellington.

CINCINNATI: The Queen City has a popular bill with "Il Trovatore," "Madame Butterfly," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "The Marriage of Figaro," "Tosca," "Faust" "Der Rosenkavalier," "La Traviata," "La Boheme," and "Carmen."

Top singers are Antonietta Stella, Eleanor Steber, Laurel Hurley, Tomiko Kanazawa (as Butterfly, naturally), Nadine Conner, Eugene Conley, Frank Valentino and Giuseppe Campora. James Pease Maria Giovanna and Frances Bible are newcomers.

EMPIRE: Markevitch leads Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Leopold Stokowsky conducts Carl Orffs' "Carmina Burana" and Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum." Other features are the Royal Danish Ballet, Richard Strauss' opera, "Elektra" and Villa-Lobos conducting his "Emperor Jones," with Jose Limon dancing.

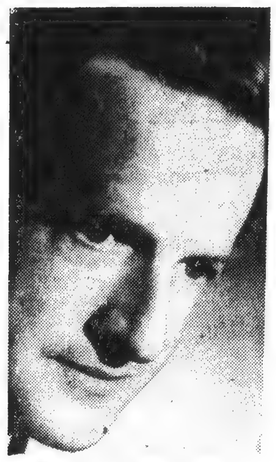
RAVINIA: The Chicago Symphony led by Markevitch, Monteux, Schuricht, George Solti and William Steinberg and composer-conductors Virgil Thomson, Roy Harris, Walter Piston and Lukas Foss.

Soloists include Pianists Eugene Istomen, Alec Templeton, Johana Harris, Gyorgy Cziffra, Menahem Pressler and Byron Janis, Cellist Janos Starker and Soprano Eileen Farrell.

The Royal Danish Ballet, Duke Ellington and Stan Kenton also are programmed.

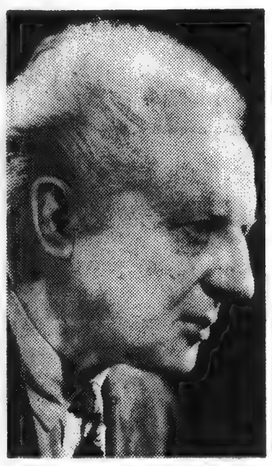
ANTIOCH: Benjamin Britten's "The Rape of Lucretia," Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti," Igor Stravinsky's "The Soldier's Tale," and Kurt Weill's "Lost in the Stars," with casts from Karamu Theater under Benno Frank. Four Shakespeares also.

SIOBHAN McKENNA will play in "Twelfth Night" at Stratford.



PETER PEARS sings in Britten's "The Turn of the Screw" at Stratford.

MARIA GIOVANNA will make her American debut in "Lucia" at Cincinnati.



LEOPOLD STOKOWSKY will conduct at Empire State Music Festival.

ADELE ADDISON is soloist in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at Tanglewood.

DUKE ELLINGTON will bring his jazz band to Ravinia Festival

g Music Vacations

[illegible] their "[illegible] the first week in July [illegible] usners in music festivals at Cincinnati, Lenox, Mass., Ipswich, Mass., and elsewhere. And not to be outdone by their long-haired cousins, jazz aficionados will set sedate Newport, R. I. rocking in the annual four-day hot music festival which began on July 4.

These al fresco concerts are getting to be the central events around which many vacations are planned. More than 80 festivals of music are held during the summer months and this does not take into account the municipal outdoor concerts.

Attendance at the annual Tanglewood Festival at Lenox, Mass., has grown from 15,000 to 136,000 since its first season in 1936. The six-week program, featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra in weekend performances, extends through August 11.

And when the main show closes at Tanglewood this year, the hot men will take over on August 12 for the first session of the school of jazz at the Berkshire Music Barn, adjacent to Tanglewood. Lecturing will be such jazz stars as Duke Ellington, Wilbur de Paris, Lennie Tristano.

The king of the summer jazz festivals, though, is the one at Newport. This year more than 125 instrumentalists and singers will perform in the seven concerts. Louis Armstrong, who played at Newport on his birthday, July 4, then moved on to Lewisohn Stadium, New York City, where Satshmo's fans are whomping up a delayed birthday celebration, July 6, to climax what they are calling "Satchmo Festival Week."

Out in Interlochen, Mich., the National Music Camp is celebrating its thirtieth anniversary this year, in a season running from June 23 [illegible] August 1[illegible] camp is an outgrowth of a National High School Orchestra assembled in 19[illegible] to play for a convention of school superintendents in Dallas, Tex.

Over the years its permanent Michigan home has spread over 700 acres, embracing two lakes. The camp now has buildings and equipment valued at $2,000,000. More than 1,200 students will attend this year, forming seven orchestras, five bands and 12 choruses.

In addition to this camp, as the Music Education Journal points out, there are "hosts of others on college and university campuses" giving to "many thousands of American youth" every summer "opportunities . . . that are unequaled in the world." And the idea has spread to Canada, where for example the Royal Conservatory of Music in Ontario regularly schedules a summer session.

The stay-at-homes are not being neglected either, musically speaking. The last week in June ushered in New York City's two major outdoor concert series, the Lewisohn Stadium performances, organized by Mrs. Charles S. (Minnie) Guggenheimer, and the Goldman Band concerts in Central Park Mall. Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell is expanding its series this summer.

The Detroit Symphony gets $25,000 from the municipal parks and recreation department to meet the cost of its summer concerts. The Boston Pops Orchestra will be back at the shell on the Charles and the concerts on the Potomac have been resumed at Washington's Watergate shell.

This summer's nights most certainly shall be filled with music, whether it is the three Bs or Satch Armstrong blasting out that righteous jazz.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Town Crier & Herald
WESTPORT, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,200

JUL 18 1957

Tanglewood Tips . . .

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the last four weeks of the 1957 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrated his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "New of the Day" (Neuss Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathias de Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. This work which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea" "Meditation and Dance of Vengenance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3: "Symphony No. 5" by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4: Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral in Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copeland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

HARRISONBURG, VA.
NEWS-RECORD
Circ. D. 13,223

JUL 5 1957

WINCHESTER, VA.
STAR
Circ. D. 8,295

JUL 9 1957

WASHINGTON, PA.
REPORTER
Circ. D. 8,449

JUL 5 1957

ROANOKE, VA.
WORLD-NEWS
Circ. D. 40,758

JUL 5 1957

Comes Now Season Of Open Air Music For Americans

By Richard Spong
For Editorial Research Reports

Phoenixville, Pa.
Daily Republican

July 8, 1957

TIGHT BINDING

[105]

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 6 • Richmond 2-4200
...ier & Herald
...ORT, Conn.
Independent
...e. 6,200
...B 1957

...ood Tips . . .

...Munch, Music Direc-
... Boston Symphony
... to feature
...rary import-
... programs of the

... weeks of the 1957
... Festival at Tangle-
...ox, Mass.
...he first weekend of
...y the full Boston
... Orchestra in the
...l, tribute will be paid
...ravinsky who cele-
... 75th birthday on
...this year. Dr. Munch
... Stravinsky's "Can-
...im" for chorus, solo-
...rchestra of wind in-
...low strings and or-
... concert of Sunday,
...Dr. Munch will also
...avinsky's ballet "Jeu
... ("Card Game") on
...y 19, and on Satur-
... 20, Pierre Monteux
...t "La Sacre du Prin-
...he Rite of Spring").
... following weekend
...Pierre Monteux will
...o works of Paul
... the Overture "New
... (Neues Vom Tage")
...n 1930, and the Sym-
...thias de Maler." Mr.
... was visiting com-
...he Berkshire Music
...its first two seasons
...1941.

...y evening Aug. 2,
...richt will conduct
...an premiere of the ...Orchestra by Werner
...rman composer who
...own for his operas
... for the theatre. This
...h was composed in
...red for large orches-
...he first work of this
...o be performed by
... Symphony Orches-
...huricht will present
... of another modern ...mposer on his pro-
...turday, Aug. 10, the
...te Musik" of Boris
...e work has been per-
... this country several
... the Berlin Philhar-
...r Herbert von Kara-
... March, 1956, by Al-
...nstein and the Los
...hilharmonic. Boris
...ceeded Werner Egk
... of the Hochschule
...n Berlin in 1953, and
...ser in residence at
...ire Music Center in

...Munch will also pre-
...following works of
...ry composers:
...Meditation and Dance
...nce" by Samuel Bar-
...poser in residence at
...d in 1947) on Satur-
...ng, Aug. 3: "Sym-
...5" by Walter Piston
... afternoon, Aug. 4:
...negger's Symphony
...urgique" which was
...med by the Boston
... Orchestra in the ...n Chartres during its
... trip in 1956 (Mr.
...was a visiting com-
...anglewood in 1947);
...en the final concert
...val on Sunday after-
... 11, Dr. Munch will
...uiet City" by Aaron
...chairman of the fac-
...kshire Music Center.

Sunday Courant
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 143,181

JUL 14 1957

Lively Arts—

Reproach With Music

By T. H. Parker

...had not been my intention to ... on the programs now being ... by the Boston Symphony Or... at Tanglewood.

To do so would be to beat dead ... and I have already flailed ... years at the shopworn ma... being purveyed there by ... Munch and of this he (rea... even the late, good, great Serge ...ssevitzky.

As a matter of fact, when this ...ar's programs were announced, I ...ught down my urge to rise up. In ... unnatural impulse of charity, I ...en went so far as to say that if ... must have thrice-times-thrice ...ard composers, it is better to get ...em in the new Tanglewood package ...al which features one immortal ...ch week end. The effect is less ...odge-podge.

*

I should have been content to let ... go at that, even though such an ...titude might strike the purist rea... as quasi-defeatist. Last week, ...owever, the press department of the ...oston Symphony sent out a copy of ... talk given by Mr. Munch at the ...pening exercises of the Berkshire ...usic Center, the school maintained ... Tanglewood. In it, the conductor ... the Boston Symphony, telling of ...he experiences he and the orchestra ...ad enjoyed in Europe last fall, said ... part:

"I found there (Czechoslovakia) an ...terest in the music of the entire ...orld and at the same time so great ... desire to hear as much con...emporary music as possible that I ...as very much impressed.

"And this is of the reproach aimed ...s (at home) because the Boston ...ymphony Orchestra plays so much ...ew music on its programs.

"Is that not our duty? In defend... the present, we are preparing the ...ture—without neglecting the past."

Actually one surmised from words ...hich followed that Mr. Munch was ...ill feeling a little touchy over the ...eception given a specific contem...rary work by home-town hearers ... Boston this winter. "It is obvious ...at for the orchestra and me, and ...r the public, it would be easier to ...ay and re-play 'Pictures at an ...xhibition,' than to prepare a sym...hony by David Diamond," he said. ...e all remember the Diamond flurry. ... However, sticking to the main argu...ent and answering Mr. Munch's ...uestion, let me reply heartily that it ...deed is "our duty" to get some ...ontemporary music performed once ... a while. The point is, why limit ... to reproachful Boston? Why not ...ke it at Tanglewood, too?

*

If one examines the schedule now ...eing played up at Lenox, one finds ... concerts in which about 55 works ...re being done by the Boston Sym...hony under Mr. Munch, Pierre Mon...eux and Carl Schuricht. Pieces by ...ontemporary composers number 11. ...t first this looks like a modest but ...easonable representation, one out of ...ve or 20 per cent. However, it would ...e difficult to call Stravinsky's "Jeu ...e Cartes" or "Sacre du Printemps" ...ith material, or Hindemith's ...Mathis der Maler." Nor Honegger's Symphony No. 3 or Copland's "Quiet City." They have all been done many times, happily too because they are patently excellent music.

Nevertheless, they are not new to Tanglewood audiences. They may continue to give satisfaction, but they are not pushing back any new boundaries, lighting any new horizons, giving rise to any new speculations. The days when "The Rite of Spring" kept a police van backed up at the concert hall door are only history now. It is as accepted, and almost as familiar as Brahms' First Symphony. Thus, when the five familiars are scratched from the list above, the number of contemporary works, in any sense approaching new, to be done at Tanglewood this summer drops to six or about one in 10.

This is not much. Surely, there will be no reproaches here for any overly amount of contemporary music set for the Berkshire Music Festival. Nor is the general situation improved by the fact that the other works, drawn from the standard repertoire, include the most hackneyed scores of Tschaikowsky, Brahms, Beethoven and for the most part, of Berlioz.

In the way Mr. Munch summed up the programs in his talk, it all sounded a little different. He said:

"The first week is devoted to Tschaikowsky, with three works of Stravinsky played in honor of his 75th anniversary. The second week is devoted to Berlioz and Hindemith, the third to Brahms with Barber, Piston and Egk, and the fourth to Beethoven and works of Honegger, Blacher and Copland."

Four "old masters" are mentioned, and eight contemporaries. The ring of it is impressive, but, alas, the facts do not bear out anywhere near that wealth of modern composition.

*

This herewith piece is not a plea for modern composition, or for contemporary composers, per se. I hold to no such flubdub that because a man wants to write music, the world owes him a hearing. On the other hand, the ear, mind, spirit of the honest music-fancier need forever to be kept on the alert. Otherwise, taste and perception grow flabby. To this end, we need the challenge of the new on which to hone our musical wits. It is up to the professionals like Mr. Munch to separate the wheat from the chaff at the outset. Audiences must take it from there. For the sake of music as an art, and to the end of having both receptive and discriminating audiences, we cannot soak in the warm bath of familiar symphonies and their familiar sensations, all the time.

It cannot be repeated too often to the keepers of the Boston Symphony Orchestra that if Tanglewood is to be kept alive, in face of growing musical knowledge on the part of the public and in face of competition from other festivals, something new must be added and soon.

Review
BRANFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 1,68[illegible]

JUL 18 1957

Pot Pourri

Louise Lusk Hains

The main diversion for ...ingsters, particularly by ... is Cowboy Village, over ...illingworth where the old ... lives again, with guns, ...ich do not harm.

See you at the Saturday morn... rehearsal at Tanglewood, ... has only a dollar, (which ... to the Musicians' Fund). No ...affle and take a picnic. Here ... get all or most of the mu... of the Saturday and Sunday ...concerts and the musicians are ...n their shirt sleeves instead of ...dress suits.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047

JUL 21 1957

Here Is The Kaleidoscope

TONIGHT AT 7:30 the third ... Industrial Pops Concert will be held in Institute Park. Now in its sixth season, the series of outdoor concerts given by the Worcester Orchestra is an enjoyable summer tradition that give listening pleasure to large audiences from Worcester and suburbs alike. ...nities. A concert will be given each Sunday night through Aug. 11, and will be held Monday evening in case of rain. The series of six concerts is sponsored by a group of local industries.

For music-lovers who can travel farther afield, the world-famous Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in the Berkshire Hills offers programs of classical and modern works given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Tanglewood in Lenox has become within easier reach of us this summer with the opening of the new cross-state expressway. On Friday evening, the second of four weekend concert series in the Music Shed will begin, with concerts by the orchestra on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

For children a weekly story hour is held during the summer on Wednesday mornings at 10:30 in the Main Children's Room of the Free Public Library. A series of children's films is being shown in conjunction with the story hour, offering a variety of carefully-chosen films of special merit. On Wednesday morning the f... ...ll be "Steadfast Tin Soldier" and "Andy and the Lion." For the final program on July 31 the films will be "Stone Soup," "Jenny's Birthday," and "Hello Pirro." The story hours and films are open without charge and are planned particularly for younger children.

Summer classes held at the Worcester Art Museum for children and young people will finish at the end of this week. During the week the work of the young artists will be on exhibition in the children's summer studio at the museum and will include examples of watercolor, block printing, and drawing in pencil and pen and ink. Also shown will be the work of a class in outdoor landscape painting held for students of high school age. Miss Mary Murphy of the museum staff has been supervisor of the summer classes.

BROOKLYN NEWS PICTURE RECORD
RAY ELLIS
Page 8—Phone: TRiangle 5-8800 Brooklyn, Friday, July 19, 1957 20th Year — No. 100
PICTURE RECORD 2¢

MAN ABOUT BROOKLYN

By Charles Richman

TANGLEWOOD FESTIVAL TIME: Nestling in the cool, charming woodlands of another world stands an estate devoted to the love of music. Geographically, the charts call the area Lenox, Mass., but from our observation post, its an independent state, being in its field the equivalent to the United Nations.

From the moment you enter the gates, you are in a utopian atmosphere. The cars which blast you on the highways, suddenly slow to a dreamy pace and the motorists become most polite. Parking is simple and enjoyable and this for a City dweller must certainly be eye-opening.

Once you enter the gates, you are in a well manicured greenland and on either side you have the sheds from where the Boston Symphony Orchestra, often heard in Brooklyn, wafts its melodies to the skies. As the moon climbs over head, the sheds fill to capacity and blanket-laden peoples of all ages and nationalities stretch out on the grass for a delightful evening of moving music.

Even the cafeterias are dreamy. You purchase a very reasonable priced box dinner and sit out on long wooden benches for this snack before concert time and at concert breaks.

Our introduction this year was again pleasant thanks to the efficient Miss Smith of the Tanglewood press department. We sought her out through the "Friends of Music" department and their courteous manner assures a financial success to the program. Donors with this treatment are delighted to help along with their dollars. We didn't get the names of the telephone switchboard operator who was on duty the night we arrived, but in our book she keeps the operation moving as the hub of a well oiled wheel with the spokes extending everywhere.

Only one thing marred the set-up. Just like our Coney Island, when the folks leave some are careless enough to leave newspapers on the lawn. Shame, shame.

Lenox reflects this tempo with its lovely buildings. Even the merchants keep this Brooklyn Heights-like theme.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NEWS
Circ. D. 166,814

JUL 10 1957

By JOHN F. McLEOD

SOME people go to Broadway openings or collect new postage stamps for kicks. Others like to be among the first to travel on the U. S. A.'s ever-increasing number of fabulous new highways.

This is an especially good summer for Americans to auto-adventure (or bus-adventure) on brand new roads.

Massachusetts, for instance, has a spanking new turnpike extending from Boston's suburbs to the New York state line. A lot of Washingtonians going to the Berkshire Music Festival—always a good idea—are expected to go a bit out of their way just to ride that turnpike.

TIGHT BINDING

[103]

Sunday Courant
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 143,181

JUL 14 1957

Lively Arts—

Reproach With Music

By T. H. Parker

It had not been my intention to ring up all over again this season matter of the programs now being yed by the Boston Symphony Orestra at Tanglewood.

To do so would be to beat dead rses and I have already flailed way for years at the shopworn ma-rial being purveyed there by harles Munch and (if this be trea-
n) even the late, good, great Serge ussevitzky.

As a matter of fact, when this ar's programs were announced, I ught down my urge to rise up. In unnatural impulse of charity, I en went so far as to say that if must have thrice-times-thrice eard composers, it is better to get em in the new Tanglewood package eal which features one immortal ch week end. The effect is less odge-podge.

★

I should have been content to let go at that, even though such an titude might strike the purist rea-ner as quasi-defeatist. Last week, wever, the press department of the oston Symphony sent out a copy of talk given by Mr. Munch at the pening exercises of the Berkshire usic Center, the school maintained Tanglewood. In it, the conductor the Boston Symphony, telling of e experiences he and the orchestra d enjoyed in Europe last fall, said part:

"I found there (Czechoslovakia) an terest in the music of the entire orld, and at the same time so great desire to hear as much conmporary music as possible that I as very much impressed.

"And I think of the reproach aimed us (at home) because the Boston mphony Orchestra plays so much w music on its programs.

"Is that not our duty? In defend-the present, we are preparing the ture—without neglecting the past."

Actually one surmised from words hich followed that Mr. Munch was ll feeling a little touchy over the ception given a specific contemrary work by home-town hearers Boston this winter. "It is obvious at, for the orchestra and me, and the public, it would be easier to y and re-play 'Pictures at an hibition,' than to prepare a symony by David Diamond," he said.
e all remember the Diamond flurry.
However, sticking to the main argu-ent and answering Mr. Munch's estion, let me reply heartily that it deed is "our duty" to get some ntemporary music performed once a while. The point is, why limit to reproachful Boston? Why not ay it at Tanglewood, too?

★

If one examines the schedule now ing played up at Lenox, one finds concerts in which about 55 works e being done by the Boston Symony under Mr. Munch, Pierre Mon-ux and Carl Schuricht. Pieces by ntemporary composers number 11.
s first this looks like a modest but asonable representation, one out of ve or 20 per cent. However, it would difficult to call Stravinsky's "Jeu e Cartes" or "Sacre du Printemps" ch material, or Hindemith's
Mathis der Maler." Nor Honegger's
Symphony No. 3 or Copland's "Quiet City." They have all been done many times, happily too because they are patently excellent music.

Nevertheless, they are not new to Tanglewood audiences. They may continue to give satisfaction, but they are not pushing back any new boundaries, lighting any new horizons, giving rise to any new speculations. The days when "The Rite of Spring" kept a police van backed up at the concert hall door are only history now. It is as accepted, and almost as familiar as Brahms' First Symphony. Thus, when the five familiars are scratched from the list above, the number of contemporary works, in any sense approaching new, to be done at Tanglewood this summer drops to six or about one in 10.

This is not much. Surely, there will be no reproaches here for any overly amount of contemporary music set for the Berkshire Music Festival. Nor is the general situation improved by the fact that the other works, drawn from the standard repertoire, include the most hackneyed scores of Tschaikowsky, Brahms, Beethoven and for the most part, of Berlioz.

In the way Mr. Munch summed up the programs in his talk, it all sounded a little different. He said:

"The first week is devoted to Tschaikowsky, with three works of Stravinsky played in honor of his 75th anniversary. The second week is devoted to Berlioz and Hindemith, the third to Brahms with Barber, Piston and Egk, and the fourth to Beethoven and works of Honegger, Blacher and Copland."

Four "old masters" are mentioned, and eight contemporaries. The ring of it is impressive, but, alas, the facts do not bear out anywhere near that wealth of modern composition.

★

This herewith piece is not a plea for modern composition, or for contemporary composers, per se. I hold to no such flubdub that because a man wants to write music, the world owes him a hearing. On the other hand, the ear, mind, spirit of the honest music-fancier need forever to be kept on the alert. Otherwise, taste and perception grow flabby. To this end, we need the challenge of the new on which to hone our musical wits. It is up to the professionals like Mr. Munch to separate the wheat from the chaff at the outset. Audiences must take it from there. For the sake of music as an art, and to the end of having both receptive and discriminating audiences, we cannot soak in the warm bath of familiar symphonies and their familiar sensations, all the time.

It cannot be repeated too often to the keepers of the Boston Symphony Orchestra that if Tanglewood is to be kept alive, in face of growing musical knowledge on the part of the public and in face of competition from other festivals, something new must be added and soon.

Review
BRANFORD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 1,689

JUL 18 1957

Pot Pourri

Louise Link Helps

The main diversion for the youngsters, particularly by the boys, is Cowboy Village, over in Killingworth where the old West lives again, with guns which do not harm.

See you at the Saturday morning rehearsal at Tanglewood, which is only a dollar, (which goes to the Musicians' Fund). No traffic and take a picnic. Here you get all or most of the music of the Saturday and Sunday concerts and the musicians are in their shirt sleeves instead of dress suits. Pot Pourri

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-4200

Sunday Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass.
Republican
Circ. 106,047

JUL 21 1957

Here Is The Kaleidoscope

TONIGHT AT 7:30 the third Industrial Pops Concert will be held in Institute Park. Now in its sixth season, the series of outdoor concerts given by the Worcester Orchestra is an enjoyable summer tradition that give listening pleasure to large audiences from Worcester [illegible] begin, with concerts by the orchestra on Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

For children a weekly story hour is held during the summer on Wednesday mornings at 10:30 in the Main Children's Room of the Free Public Library. A series of children's films is being shown in conjunction with the story hour, offering a variety of carefully-chosen films of special merit. On Wednesday morning the film will be "Steadfast Tin Soldier" and "Andy and the Lion." For the final program on July 31 the films will be "Stone Soup," "Jenny's Birthday," and "Hello Pirro." The story hours and films are open without charge and are planned particularly for younger children.

Summer classes held at the Worcester Art Museum for children and young people will finish at the end of this week. During the week the work of the young artists will be on exhibition in the children's summer studio at the museum and will include examples of watercolor, block printing, and drawing in pencil and pen and ink. Also shown will be the work of a class in outdoor landscape painting held for students of high school age. Miss Mary Murphy of the museum staff has been supervisor of the summer classes.

BROOKLYN RECORD
Brooklyn, Friday, July 19, 1957 — 20th Year — No. 100
Page 8 — Phone: TRiangle 5-8330
5¢ NEWS STORES 2¢
PATERSON RECORD
RAY BU

MAN ABOUT BROOKLYN

By Charles Richman

TANGLEWOOD FESTIVAL TIME: Nestling in the cool, charming woodlands of another world stands an estate devoted to the love of music. Geographically the charts call the area Lenox, Mass., but from our observation post, its an independent state, being in its field the equivalent to the United Nations.

From the moment you enter the gates, you are in a utopian atmosphere. The cars which blast you on the highways, suddenly slow to a dreamy pace and the motorists become most polite. Parking is simple and enjoyable and this for a City dweller must certainly be eye-opening.

Once you enter the gates, you are in a well manicured greenland and on either side you have the sheds from where the Boston Symphony Orchestra, often heard in Brooklyn, wafts its melodies to the skies. As the moon climbs over head, the sheds fill to capacity and blanket-laden peoples of all ages and nationalities stretch out on the grass for a delightful evening of moving music.

Even the cafeterias are dreamy. You purchase a very reasonable priced box dinner and sit out on long wooden benches for this snack before concert time and at concert breaks.

Our introduction this year was again pleasant thanks to the efficient Miss Smith of the Tanglewood press department. We sought her out through the "Friends of Music" department and their courteous manner assures a financial success to the program. Donors with this treatment are delighted to help along with their dollars. We didn't get the names of the telephone switchboard operator who was on duty the night we arrived, but in our book she keeps the operation moving as the hub of a well oiled wheel with the spokes extending everywhere.

Only one thing marred the set-up. Just like our Coney Island, when the folks leave some are careless enough to leave newspapers on the lawn. Shame, shame.

Lenox reflects this tempo with its lovely buildings. Even the merchants keep this Brooklyn Heights-like theme.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NEWS
Circ. D. 166,814

JUL 10 1957

By JOHN F. McLEOD

SOME people go to Broadway openings or collect new postage stamps for kicks. Others like to be among the first to travel on the U. S. A.'s ever-increasing number of fabulous new highways.

This is an especially good summer for Americans to auto-adventure (or bus-adventure) on brand new roads.

Massachusetts, for instance, has a spanking new turnpike extending from Boston's suburbs to the New York state line. A lot of Washingtonians going to the Berkshire Music Festival—always a good idea—are expected to go a bit out of their way just to ride that turnpike.

News
FAIRFIELD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,850
JUL 18 1957

Tanglewood Tips . . .

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the

Thursday, July 18, 1957

Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrated his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "New of the Day" (Neuss Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathias de Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer, who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. This work which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea" "Meditation and Dance of Vengenance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3: "Symphony No. 5" by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4: Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral in Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copeland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY FAIR

Thursday, July 18, 1957

American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325
JUL 26 1957

These Days

Summer Theaters And Tanglewood

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More and more the Summer Festival becomes not only a musical treat but also a fashion. And each year, it increases in number and variety. The Shakespeare Festivals in Stratford, Connecticut and in Canada, are unfolding the virtues of the bard to generations that have not known the great actors of the 19th century up to 1912, whose careers inthe theater reached their glory when Hamlet or Juliet was achieved. Who, who ever heard them, can forget Sothern and Marlowe or Ellen Terry or Richard Mansfield?

Today, there is a resurgence of the live theater, as it is called in contrast with movies and television, and actors and actresses who are accustomed to the fabulous salaries which these commercial media are willing to pay, turn to "off Broadway" or "on Broadway" or even summer stock to be themselves and not the shadow of a director or even a banker who has sunk his money in a tin-can full of film.

So the summer stock companies proliferate all over the United States in out-of-the-way places where it is possible to play without paying so much for stage hands and stand-ins and similar exorbitantly paid personages,

BERKSHIRE MUSIC

The Music Festival is also proliferating, but it involves much more than the theater, for a symphony orchestra consists of at least a hundred persons, not including guest conductors and choruses. It takes considerable organization and housing to move such an army about.

I usually go to the Summer Festival at Tanglewood which is now a hoary institution on the road in Lenox, Mass., where Hawthorne wrote his "Tanglewood Tales" and not far from the Stockbridge of the Sedgwicks and the Pittsfield of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the elder, he who wrote of the breakfast table as his son wrote decisions for the courts.

The Berkshires have long possessed an atmosphere of American culture and Tanglewood sits in the midst of it, quite property not merely an orchestral performance for the cognoscenti, which used to be a New England word for those of great knowledge and taste who could listen to Brahms before recordings made him a household problem but also a school for the young and ambitious, many of whom have already proved their virtues and their virtuosity.

It is a lovely grove where one sits and listens. This year, there is much Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, the former being easy to take even by those whose main musical treat is the radio; the latter still being a bit of a problem to many who wonder why he has to make so much noise to get over the point that when the earth was created it was done by things banging into others

A PROPHET

However, as Stravinsky is the father of all modern music, some of which disguised by vulgarity opens most movies, it is something for the intellect to listen to him and to try to discover why dissonance is as beautiful, if it is, as consonance and harmony.

Stravinsky wrote his "Le Sacre Du Printemps" in 1913, even before World War I brought disasters upon the world. Therefore he must be regarded as a prophet, because so little else has been right since then.

I was talking to a Republican congressman at Tanglewood who enjoys good music when he can get away from the cacophony of the House of Representatives. He, too, listened to Stravinsky; nevertheless, he thought that all was well because the Republicans possessed such virtue. I could not help asking him how he or anyone else can believe that we are safe and secure when the government of the United States has to pay four per cent for short term bonds. Either the bankers have no faith in the credit of the country or we are being robbed.

Therefore, Stravinsky was right, even if he said it on a cymbal.

Copyr., 1957, King Feat. Synd., Inc.

Sentinel (m)
WATERVILLE, Me.
Independent
Circ. 17,542
JUL 26 19

Music Festival Involves More Than Theater

More and more the summer festival becomes not only a musical treat but also a fashion. And each year, it increases in number and variety. The Shakespeare festivals in Stratford, Connecticut and in Canada, are unfolding the virtues of the Bard to generations that have not known the great actors of the 19th century up to 1912, whose careers in the theater reached their glory when Hamlet or Juliet was achieved. Who, who ever heard them can forget Sothern and Marlowe or Ellen Terry or Richard Mansfield?

Today, there is a resurgence of the live theater, as it is called in contrast with movies and television, and actors and actresses who are accustomed to the fabulous salaries which these commercial media are willing to pay, turn to "off Broadway" or "on Broadway" or even summer stock to be themselves and not the shadow of a director or even a banker who has sunk his money in a tin can full of film.

So the summer stock companies proliferate all over the United States in out-of-the-way places where it is possible to play without paying so much for stage hands and stand-ins and similar exorbitantly paid personages, who add little to the show but "on Broadway" can close the theater down and end the career of author and actor.

The music festival is also proliferating, but it involves much more than the theater, for a symphony orchestra consists of at least a hundred persons, not including guest conductors and choruses. It takes considerable organization and housing to move such an army about.

I usually go to the summer festival at Tanglewood which is now a hoary institution on the road in Lenox, Massachusetts where Hawthorne wrote his "Tanglewood Tales" and not far from the Stockbridge of the Sedgwicks and the Pittsfield of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the elder, he who wrote of the breakfast table as his son wrote decisions for the courts.

The Berkshires have long possessed an atmosphere of American culture and Tanglewood sits in the midst of it, quite properly not merely an orchestral performance for the cognoscenti, which used to be a New England word for those of great knowledge and taste who could listen to Brahms before recordings made him a household problem but also a school for the young and ambitious, many of whom have already proved their virtues and their virtuosity.

It is a lovely grove where one sits and listens. This year, there is much Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, the former being easy to take even by those whose main musical treat is the radio; the latter still being a bit of a problem to many who wonder why he has to make so much noise to get over the point that when the earth was created it was done by things banging into others. Atoms can be frightfully noisy, particularly when they explode.

However, as Stravinsky is the father of all modern music, some of which disguised by vulgarity opens most movies, it is something for the intellect to listen to him and to try to discover why dissonance is as beautiful, if it is, as consonance and harmony. Yet, we live in a dissonant world, one of wars, confusion, falsehood and oppression. It is a world of politics instead of philosophy.

Stravinsky wrote his "Le Sacre du Printemps" in 1913, even before World War I brought its disasters upon the world. Therefore he must be regarded as a prophet, because so little has been right since then.

I was talking to a Republican congressman at Tanglewood who enjoys good music when he can get away from the cacophony of the House of Representatives. He, too, listened to Stravinsky; nevertheless, he thought that all was well because the Republicans possessed such virtue. I could not help asking him how he or anyone else can believe that we are safe and secure when the government of the United States has to pay four per cent for short term bonds. Either the bankers have no faith in the credit of the country or we are being robbed. Not since the worst days of the depression, in 1933, has the government of the United States been required to pay such a high rate of interest.

Therefore, Stravinsky was right even if he said it on a cymbal.

WEST[illegible]FORD,
Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000
JUL 25 1957

west hartford news

bill of fare

things to see, hear, do, enjoy

A Trip To Tanglewood

Place To Enjoy Fine Music, But With Hazards As Well

By JOHN ROHRBACH

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is in its 20th season, and once again it is proving to be something more than a spot for music lovers. In fact, if the weekend audience is any guide, it might almost be said to be a spot for lovers of any kind.

The concert series, which generally features the notable Boston Symphony begins in early July and continues through August 11th, a period of about six weeks.

This year the Festival programs week by week stress the works of specific composers. This weekend, for example, Berlioz and Hindemith hold court; next week it is to be Brahms; and the series concludes the following week with Beethoven.

While we should not want to depreciate the very fine music that is being offered, last Saturday night's experience gave us some instruction that had very little to do with the concert itself.

One of the pleasantest parts of a trip to Tanglewood is the trip itself. The drive on the one hand is short enough to be comfortable, and the countryside between Hartford and the Berkshires is something to enjoy even on the warmest day.

But prepare yourself. Those quaint little wayside inns and eateries that seem to blossom so profusely along the road are a serious delusion the closer you get to your Tanglewood goal. If they're any good, they're jammed, and if they aren't crowded, you don't want to make the mistake of stopping.

Next item, time of arrival. If you have seats, you're in good shape, but if you propose to relax on the considerable lawn, you'd better be early, that is if you want to hear much of anything. We discovered that long before concert time, 8:30, the regular patrons had generally found all the right spots.

It is unbelievable to see literally acres of greensward absolutely covered with blankets and bodies. Somehow this is not as unpleasant as it may sound, for in a sense the audience tends to be as fascinating as the music. And in general, once the music gets under way, it proves to be as quiet and appreciative as any music-loving audience can be.

The concert moves along most happily. Good music, and last weekend, a handsome starlit Saturday night. By 10:15 when the last note fades away, you've almost forgotten the last trouble you had.

But if you've waited to savour that last note, you've got real trouble ahead. The knowledgeable lawn tenant has long since disappeared, and that's whom you've felt for the preceding 15 minutes stomping across your ankles or worse.

Where are they going? To their cars, and you'll wish you had joined them unless you picked that lucky parking slot that guarantees you a quick exit.

What we're saying is that Tanglewood is fun; you can indeed hear some mighty fine music. But forewarned is forearmed, and we encourage you to be that way.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302
JUL 14 1957

TRIP TIP

One-day excursion trips by rail to the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., are being offered every Sunday until Aug. 11 for an all-inclusive rate of $7.65.

The price includes all transportation and general admission to the music shed. Picnicking on the grounds surrounding the music shed is permitted, and milk, coffee and ice cream may be purchased there. Trains will leave New York at 8:20 A.M. for the four-hour ride, returning to Grand Central at 11:30 P.M.

Information about the operator of these tours and where tickets may be purchased can be obtained from THE NEWS Travel Bureau, 224 E. 42d St., MUrray Hill 2-1234.

t-Telegram (e)
OKE, Mass.
ent Republican
c. 26,496
3 1957 glewood T to Tanglewood take cts of a pilgrimage tee of music. After rs, however, the ide to take root im

ho don't take to cl particularly, that can be a very spe
e for them too.
he new turnpike bri
lewood closer than e
e, it is again time
whether you have or not, Tanglewood
ing at least once.
ere 27,000 people w
o over this past sz
end. They are not usicians or listeners,
. If there is anythi inguishes the "cro other crowd it is t
f young people in place for small ch
the teenagers and c
le come in droves.
easy hour and a ha
Tanglewood over t
turnpike. We advi
Lee cutoff despi
rging you to go on kbridge. Seats in th are fairly expensiv
n get on the ground
that is where a gre ple prefer to be

land Newsclip Agency, In
, Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-42
Sunday Globe
OSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
L 28 1957

FAMILIAR FACES
phony's concert maste cellist Alfred Zighera quale at right.

TANGLEWOOD PI
MOUTH PICTURES
IPSWICH

News
FAIRFIELD, Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 2,850
JUL 18 1957

Tanglewood Tips . . .

Charles Munch, Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, plans to feature works of contemporary importance on the programs of the

Thursday, July 18, 1957

Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

During the first weekend of concerts by the full Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Music Shed, tribute will be paid to Igor Stravinsky who celebrated his 75th birthday on June 17 of this year. Dr. Munch will conduct Stravinsky's "Canticum Sacrum" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra of wind instruments, low strings and organ at the concert of Sunday, July 21. Dr. Munch will also present Stravinsky's ballet "Jeu de Cartes ("Card Game") on Friday, July 19, and on Saturday, July 20, Pierre Monteux will conduct "La Sacre du Printemps" ("The Rite of Spring").

On the following weekend (July 28) Pierre Monteux will present two works of Paul Hindemith, the Overture "New of the Day" (Neuss Vom Tage") composed in 1930, and the Symphony "Mathias de Maler." Mr. Hindemith was visiting composer at the Berkshire Music Center in its first two seasons of 1940 and 1941.

On Friday evening Aug. 2, Carl Schuricht will conduct the American premiere of the Sonata for Orchestra by Werner Egk, a German composer who is best known for his operas and music for the theatre. This work which was composed in 1948, is scored for large orchestra and is the first work of this composer to be performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Schuricht will present the work of another modern German composer on his program of Saturday, Aug. 10, the "Konzertante Musik" of Boris Blacher. The work has been performed in this country several times by the Berlin Philharmonic under Herbert von Karajan, and in March, 1956, by Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Boris Blacher succeeded Werner Egk as director of the Hochschule fur Music in Berlin in 1953, and was composer in residence at the Berkshire Music Center in 1955.

Charles Munch will also present the following works of contemporary composers: "Medea" "Meditation and Dance of Vengenance" by Samuel Barber (a composer in residence at Tanglewood in 1947) on Saturday evening, Aug. 3: "Symphony No. 5" by Walter Piston on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4: Arthur Honegger's Symphony No. III "Liturgique" which was last performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the Cathedral in Chartres during its European trip in 1956 (Mr. Honegger was a visiting composer at Tanglewood in 1947); and, to open the final concert of the Festival on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, Dr. Munch will perform "Quiet City" by Aaron Copeland, chairman of the faculty of Berkshire Music Center.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY FAIR
Thursday, July 18, 1957

American (e)
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 181,325
JUL 26 1957

These Days

Summer Theaters And Tanglewood

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More and more the Summer Festival becomes not only a musical treat but also a fashion. And each year, it increases in number and variety. The Shakespeare Festivals in Stratford, Connecticut and in Canada, are unfolding the virtues of the bard to generations that have not known the great actors of the 19th century up to 1912, whose careers inthe theater reached their glory when Hamlet or Juliet was achieved. Who, who ever heard them, can forget Sothern and Marlowe or Ellen Terry or Richard Mansfield?

Today, there is a resurgence of the live theater, as it is called in contrast with movies and television, and actors and actresses who are accustomed to the fabulous salaries which these commercial media are willing to pay, turn to "off Broadway" or "on Broadway" or even summer stock to be themselves and not the shadow of a director or even a banker who has sunk his money in a tin-can full of film.

So the summer stock companies proliferate all over the United States in out-of-the-way places where it is possible to play without paying so much for stage hands and stand-ins and similar exorbitantly paid personages,

BERKSHIRE MUSIC

The Music Festival is also proliferating, but it involves much more than the theater, for a symphony orchestra consists of at least a hundred persons, not including guest conductors and choruses. It takes considerable organization and housing to move such an army about.

I usually go to the Summer Festival at Tanglewood which is now a hoary institution on the road in Lenox, Mass., where Hawthorne wrote his "Tanglewood Tales" and not far from the Stockbridge of the Sedgwicks and the Pittsfield of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the elder, he who wrote of the breakfast table as his son wrote decisions for the courts.

The Berkshires have long possessed an atmosphere of American culture and Tanglewood sits in the midst of it, quite property not merely an orchestral performance for the cognoscenti, which used to be a New England word for those of great knowledge and taste who could listen to Brahms before recordings made him a household problem.

It is a lovely grove where one sits and listens. This year, there is much Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, the former being easy to take even by those whose main musical treat is the radio; the latter still being a bit of a problem to many who wonder why he has to make so much noise to get over the point that when the earth was created it was done by things banging into others

A PROPHET

However, as Stravinsky is the father of all modern music, some of which disguised by vulgarity opens most movies, it is something for the intellect to listen to him and to try to discover why dissonance is as beautiful, if it is, as consonance and harmony.

Stravinsky wrote his "Le Sacre Du Printemps" in 1913, even before World War I brought disasters upon the world. Therefore he must be regarded as a prophet, because so little else has been right since then.

I was talking to a Republican congressman at Tanglewood who enjoys good music when he can get away from the cacophony of the House of Representatives. He, too, listened to Stravinsky; nevertheless, he thought that all was well because the Republicans possessed such virtue. I could not help asking him how he or anyone else can believe that we are safe and secure when the government of the United States has to pay four per cent for short term bonds. Either the bankers have no faith in the credit of the country or we are being robbed.

Therefore, Stravinsky was right, even if he said it on a cymbal.

Copyr., 1957, King Feat. Synd., Inc.

A ...volves More Than Theater

More at ...tival beco... ...musical treat but a... ...tion. And each year, it increases in number and variety. The Shakespeare festivals in Stratford, Connecticut and in Canada, are unfolding the virtues of the Bard to generations that have not known the great actors of the 19th century up to 1912, whose careers in the theater reached their glory when Hamlet or Juliet was achieved. Who, who ever heard them can forget Sothern and Marlowe or Ellen Terry or Richard Mansfield?

Today, there is a resurgence of the live theater, as it is called in contrast with movies and television, and actors and actresses who are accustomed to the fabulous salaries which these commercial media are willing to pay, turn to "off Broadway" or "on Broadway" or even summer stock to be themselves and not the shadow of a director or even a banker who has sunk his money in a tin can full of film.

So the summer stock companies proliferate all over the United States in out-of-the-way places where it is possible to play without paying so much for stage hands and stand-ins and similar exorbitantly paid personages, who add little to the show but "on Broadway" can close the theater down and end the career of author and actor.

The music festival is also proliferating, but it involves much more than the theater, for a symphony orchestra consists of at least a hundred persons, not including guest conductors and choruses. It takes considerable organization and housing to move such an army about.

I usually go to the summer festival at Tanglewood which is now a hoary institution on the road in Lenox, Massachusetts where Hawthorne wrote his "Tanglewood Tales" and not far from the Stockbridge of the Sedgwicks and the Pittsfield of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the elder, he who wrote of the breakfast table as his son wrote decisions for the courts.

The Berkshires have long possessed an atmosphere of American culture and Tanglewood sits in the midst of it, quite properly not merely an orchestral performance for the cognoscenti, which used to be a New England word for those of great knowledge and taste who could listen to Brahms before recordings made him a household problem but also a school for the young and ambitious, many of whom have already proved their virtues and their virtuosity.

It is a lovely grove where one sits and listens. This year, there is much Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky, the former being easy to take even by those whose main musical treat is the radio; the latter still being a bit of a problem to many who wonder why he has to make so much noise to get over the point that when the earth was created it was done by things banging into others. Atoms can be frightfully noisy, particularly when they explode.

However, as Stravinsky is the father of all modern music, some of which disguised by vulgarity opens most movies, it is something for the intellect to listen to him and to try to discover why dissonance is as beautiful, if it is, as consonance and harmony. Yet, we live in a dissonant world, one of wars, confusion, falsehood and oppression. It is a world of politics instead of philosophy.

Stravinsky wrote his "Le Sacre du Printemps" in 1913, even before World War I brought its disasters upon the world. Therefore he must be regarded as a prophet, because so little has been right since then.

I was talking to a Republican congressman at Tanglewood who enjoys good music when he can get away from the cacophony of the House of Representatives. He, too, listened to Stravinsky; nevertheless, he thought that all was well because the Republicans possessed such virtue. I could not help asking him how he or anyone else can believe that we are safe and secure when the government of the United States has to pay four per cent for short term bonds. Either the bankers have no faith in the credit of the country or we are being robbed. Not since the worst days of the depression, in 1933, has the government of the United States been required to pay such a high rate of interest.

Therefore, Stravinsky was right, even if he said it on a cymbal.

WEST ...FORD,
Conn.
Weekly Independent
Circ. 6,000
JUL 25 1957

west hartford news

bill of fare

things to see, hear, do, enjoy

A Trip To Tanglewood

Place To Enjoy Fine Music, But With Hazards As Well

By JOHN ROHRBACH

The Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is in its 20th season, and once again it is proving to be something more than a spot for music lovers. In fact, if the weekend audience is any guide, it might almost be said to be a spot for lovers of any kind.

The concert series, which generally features the notable Boston Symphony begins in early July and continues through August 11th, a period of about six weeks.

This year the Festival programs week by week stress the works of specific composers. This weekend, for example, Berlioz and Hindemith hold court; next week it is to be Brahms; and the series concludes the following week with Beethoven.

While we should not want to depreciate the very fine music that is being offered, last Saturday night's experience gave us some instruction that had very little to do with the concert itself.

One of the pleasantest parts of a trip to Tanglewood is the trip itself. The drive on the one hand is short enough to be comfortable, and the countryside between Hartford and the Berkshires is something to enjoy even on the warmest day.

But prepare yourself. Those quaint little wayside inns and eateries that seem to blossom so profusely along the road are a serious delusion the closer you get to your Tanglewood goal. If they're any good, they're jammed, and if they aren't crowded, you don't want to make the mistake of stopping.

Next item, time of arrival. If you have seats, you're in good shape, but if you propose to relax on the considerable lawn, you'd better be early, that is if you want to hear much of anything. We discovered that long before concert time, 8:30, the regular patrons had generally found all the right spots.

It is unbelievable to see literally acres of greensward absolutely covered with blankets and bodies. Somehow this is not as unpleasant as it may sound, for in a sense the audience tends to be as fascinating as the music. And in general, once the music gets under way, it proves to be as quiet and appreciative as any music-loving audience can be.

The concert moves along most happily. Good music, and last weekend, a handsome starlit Saturday night. By 10:15 when the last note fades away, you've almost forgotten the last trouble you had.

But if you've waited to savour that last note, you've got real trouble ahead. The knowledgeable lawn tenant has long since disappeared, and that's whom you've felt for the preceding 15 minutes stomping across your ankles or worse.

Where are they going? To their cars, and you'll wish you had joined them unless you picked that lucky parking slot that guarantees you a quick exit.

What we're saying is that Tanglewood is fun; you can indeed hear some mighty fine music. But forewarned is forearmed, and we encourage you to be that way.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
DAILY NEWS
Circ. D. 2,092,455 - S. 3,652,302
JUL 14 1957

TRIP TIP

One-day excursion trips by rail to the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Mass., are being offered every Sunday until Aug. 11 for an all-inclusive rate of $7.65.

The price includes all transportation and general admission to the music shed. Picnicking on the grounds surrounding the music shed is permitted, and milk, coffee and ice cream may be purchased there. Trains will leave New York at 8:20 A.M. for the four-hour ride, returning to Grand Central at 11:30 P.M.

Information about the operator of these tours and where tickets may be purchased can be obtained from THE NEWS Travel Bureau, 224 E. 42d St., MUrray Hill 2-1234.

...t-Telegram (e)
...OKE, Mass.
...ent Republican
...c. 26,496
3 1957

...glewood ...

...to Tanglewood ta...
...cts of a pilgrimag...
...tee of music. After ...
...rs, however, the ...
...y to take root ...
...ho don't take to cl...
particularly, that ...
can be a very ...spe...
...e for them too.
...he new turnpike bri...
...lewood closer than e...
...e, it is again time ...
whether you have ...
or not, Tanglewood ...
...ing at least once. ...
...were 27,000 people w...
...o over this past si...
...end. They are not ...
...usicians or listeners, ...
...s. If there is anythi...
...inguishes the ...ro...
other crowd it ...s t...
...f young people ...n ...
...place for small ch...
the teenagers and c...
...e come in droves. ...
...easy hour and ...ha...
Tanglewood over t...
turnpike. We advi...
Lee cutoff despi...
...rging you to go on ...
...bridge. Seats in th...
are fairly expensiv...
...n get on the ground ...
that is where a gre...
...le prefer to he...

...land Newsclip Agency, In...
...Boston 6 • RIchmond 2-42...

Sunday Globe
OSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
L 28 1957

FAMILIAR FACES
...phony's concert ...ast...
...cellist Alfred Zigler...
...quale at right.

...TANGLEWOOD PIC...
...MOUTH PICTURES
IPSWICH

TIGHT BINDING

[105]

Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUL 23 1957

Tanglewood Nearer Now

trip to Tanglewood takes on aspects of a pilgrimage for devotee of music. After all years, however, the idea is slow to take root among e who don't take to classi- usic particularly, that Tan- ood can be a very special rience for them too.

h the new turnpike bring- Tanglewood closer than ever olyoke, it is again time to hat whether you have a ear or not, Tanglewood is trying at least once.

re were 27,000 people who t so over this past sizzl- weekend. They are not all musicians or listeners, by eans. If there is anything distinguishes the crowd any other crowd it is the r of young people in it. ot a place for small chil- but the teenagers and col- people come in droves.

an easy hour and a half to Tanglewood over the ful turnpike. We advise the Lee cutoff despite ns urging you to go on to Stockbridge. Seats in the shed are fairly expensive, t can get on the grounds and that is where a great people prefer to be. A

The pleasures of this kind of listening are manifold. Though silence is mandatory, the rest- less listener can move away from the crowd and stroll smoking under the stars while the mag- nificent music flows around him. Some bring folding chairs to sit on the green Tanglewood lawns, though flat on the back is the preferred method of the young people. The world's best music is heard nowhere, live, under such comfortable and beautiful conditions.

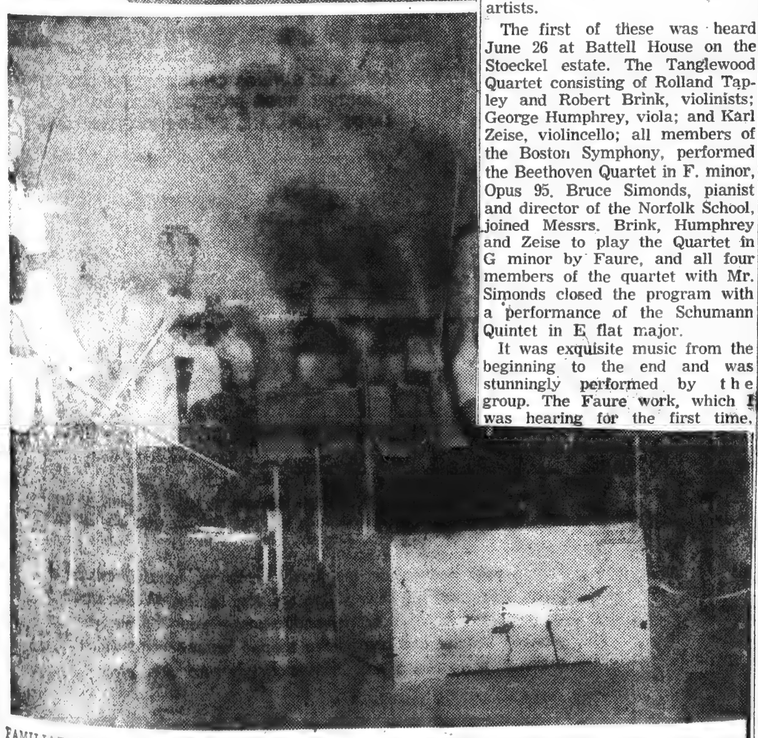
And it is the best music. The Boston Symphony has no super- ior. It plays programs that lean heavily to the great masterpieces of traditional music — Brahms, Beethoven, Schubert, Tschai- kowsky, and this year Berlioz. Though the connoisseurs com- plain that they like more new or seldom heard music, most peo- ple seem to like hearing the great symphonies year after year. Furthermore, outdoors at Lenox, they have a way of cap- turing the interest of people who find them strictly ho-hum on the hard seat of a concert hall.

The Berkshire Festival, at mid- season, offers a dozen concerts before it ends on August 11, and this includes the major part of the big programs. Tanglewood s one of the things this part of he United States is famous for round the world. But a lot of s who live right next to it have ot been there yet.

New England Newsclip Agency, Inc.
Box 2078, Boston 6 • Richmond 2-4200
Sunday Globe
BOSTON, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 442,970
JUL 28 1957

Soci

MARJORIE



FAMILIAR FACES in a far setting—Richard Burgin, Symphony's concert master is at the left, Dr. Munch in the center, with cellist Alfred Zighera just behind, and first violinist Joseph de Pasquale at right.

TANGLEWOOD PICTURES BY WILLIAM TAGUE

FALMOUTH PICTURES BY BOB RUTTER AND JOHN BELL

IPSWICH PICTURE BY ZAHARIS

FORT WAYNE, IND.
NEWS SENTINEL
Circ. D. 76,286
JUL 3 1957

'NOTES FROM THE BERKSHIRES'

Vacation Spot Said to Offer Treasury for Music Lovers

(The following "Notes from the Berkshires" were written by The News-Sentinel's music critic, Mrs. Monica Marshall Agnew, who writes from the Norfolk Music School, Norfolk, Conn., "I am so full of the wonders of this school, the out- standing concerts within short driving distances, the charm of the towns and villages and the beauty of the countryside that I am nearly exploding with the desire to share it with everyone in Fort Wayne—particularly the lovers of fine music." More articles are promised.)

By MONICA MARSHALL AGNEW

NORFOLK, Conn. — For the music-lover there is probably no other vacation spot in America that offers so varied a treasury of musical performances as the Berkshires in Western Massachusetts and Northwestern Connecticut.

Known worldwide are the summer concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, near Lee, Mass. The 15th season begins today.

At South Mountain, near Pittsfield, Mass. recitals and chamber music programs will be given weekly through the summer.

The Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, under the direction of Ted Shawn, will be celebrating its 25th season with a very outstanding series of performances by visiting dancers and companies at its home in Becket, Mass., only a few miles east of Lee. Among the attractions are Maria Tallchief and Andre Eglevsky, eight soloists of the Royal Danish Ballet, Iva Kitchell, the National Ballet of Canada, Alicia Markova and Hugh Laing, the Mary Anthony Dance Company and many others.

Music Mountain at Falls Village, Conn., is the summer home of the Berkshire Quartet. (It's winter home is at Indiana University). Chamber Music concerts will be given every Sunday afternoon by the quartet, which will be assisted throughout the series by invited guest artists.

Recitals Each Wednesday

The town of Norfolk, in the Litchfield hills of Northwestern Connecticut, will play host for the 17th year to the Norfolk Music School, which is the summer session of the Music School of Yale University, and which, at the moment, your correspondent is attending. During its six weeks' session, Chamber Music concerts and recitals are to be presented every Wednesday afternoon by members of the faculty and invited guest artists.

The first of these was heard June 26 at Battell House on the Stoeckel estate. The Tanglewood Quartet consisting of Rolland Tapley and Robert Brink, violinists; George Humphrey, viola; and Karl Zeise, violincello; all members of the Boston Symphony, performed the Beethoven Quartet in F. minor, Opus 95. Bruce Simonds, pianist and director of the Norfolk School, joined Messrs. Brink, Humphrey and Zeise to play the Quartet in G minor by Faure, and all four members of the quartet with Mr. Simonds closed the program with a performance of the Schumann Quintet in E flat major.

It was exquisite music from the beginning to the end and was stunningly performed by the group. The Faure work, which I was hearing for the first time, was particularly impressive as music and as a performance. It is rhythmically complex and quite exciting. The third movement is one of the most tenderly beautiful I have ever heard. It is a little dark in color, decidedly lyric and intensely rich harmonically, with a slightly impressionistic flavor. The audience, which far exceeded the capacity of the Hall and which included students, townspeople and visitors from near and far, gave the artists an ovation that lasted several minutes. (From the violist and cellist I learned that Winifred Winograd is already in her new home outside of Boston and hard at work rehearsing with the Zimbler Sinfonietta with which she will go on tour to South America in August).

The Berkshire Quartet opened the 28th season of Chamber Music concerts at Music Mountain on Sunday June 30. High on top of Canaan Mountain, Jacques Gordon, for many years leader of the Gordon Quartet, established in 1929 a musical tradition which has been carried on since 1948 by the Berkshire Quartet, Urico Rossi and Albert Lazan, Violins; David Dawson, viola; and Fritz Magg, cello. The program on Sunday consisted of three works, the "Sunrise" Quartet by Haydn, the Trio for violin, viola and piano by Ravel, and the Quartet in F. major, Opus 135 by Beethoven. Bruce Simonds was the assisting artist in the Ravel.

Quartet a Delight

The Haydn quartet is a delight and the performance of it was excellent. The third movement was particularly charming and gay, suggesting the style of a German dance. And a robin's persistent call from a nearby treetop, though not included in the score by "Papa" Haydn, didn't seem at all out of place. The second and third movements of the Beethoven work were given uncommonly fine interpretations. The scherzo character of the second movement was heightened by the interruptions in the rhythmic flow where Beethoven givens sudden emphasis to weak beats. At a fast tempo this effect is very exciting. The third movement, quiet and very slow, was a song of great lyric beauty that soared from one lovely phrase to the succeeding one.

The Ravel Trio is music of another cloth, and what music it is! There is no mistaking the composer for it abounds in "Daphnis-like" figures, in broad sweeps and swirls of color in sound, and in the frequent changes in rhythm. Though Ravel was not noted as a pianist, he knew how to write for the instrument. The masses of sound created, at times, by these three instruments was more than amazing. The artists gave the work a performance of such beauty, brilliance and polish that I find it difficult to describe in words. This concert, like the previous one mentioned, was attended by a capacity audience which applauded long and loudly.

BEAUTIFUL TANGLEWOOD, scores of Boston families represented in the great audiences that gather for the summer festival in the Berkshires, founded by the late Serge Koussevitzky. Mrs. Koussevitzky, Mrs. Philip Sherwood, Mrs. William Aldrich, Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield, are among the noted Bostonians who are box-holders for the concert series continuing through August 11.

BOXFUL of distinguished guests at Tanglewood, President James Phinney Baxter of Williams College, Dean Roy Lamson, Prof. Robert Allen, and Joseph Johnson, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and in front, Mrs. Lamson, Mrs. Allen, and Mrs. Johnson.

TIGHT BINDING

[105]

Transcript-Telegram (e)
HOLYOKE, Mass.
Independent Republican
Circ. 26,496
JUL 23 1957

Tanglewood Nearer Now

A trip to Tanglewood takes on the aspects of a pilgrimage for the devotee of music. After all these years, however, the idea is very slow to take root among those who don't take to classical music particularly, that Tanglewood can be a very special experience for them too.

With the new turnpike bringing Tanglewood closer than ever to Holyoke, it is again time to say that whether you have a musical ear or not, Tanglewood is worth trying at least once.

There were 27,000 people who went so over this past sizzling weekend. They are not all of them musicians or listeners, by any means. If there is anything that distinguishes the crowd from any other crowd it is the number of young people in it. It is not a place for small children, but the teenagers and collegiate people come in droves.

It is an easy hour and a half from Holyoke to Tanglewood over the beautiful turnpike. We advise taking the Lee cutoff despite signs urging you to go on to Stockbridge. Seats in the shed are fairly expensive, but you can get on the grounds for free and that is where a great many people prefer to be. All you need to sit on is all you need; the acoustics are superb and the view is breathtaking. Picnicking is very popular before the concerts, brought from home or bought on the grounds.

The pleasures of this kind of listening are manifold. Though silence is mandatory, the restless listener can move away from the crowd and stroll smoking under the stars, while the magnificent music flows around him. Some bring folding chairs to sit on the green Tanglewood lawns, though flat on the back is the preferred method of the young people. The world's best music is heard nowhere, live, under such comfortable and beautiful conditions.

And it is the best music. The Boston Symphony has no superior. It plays programs that lean heavily to the great masterpieces of traditional music — Brahms, Beethoven, Schubert, Tschaikowsky, and this year Berlioz. Though the connoisseurs complain that they like more new or seldom-heard music, most people seem to like hearing the great symphonies year after year. Furthermore, outdoors at Lenox, they have a way of capturing the interest of people who find them strictly ho-hum on the hard seat of a concert hall.

The Berkshire Festival, at midseason, offers a dozen concerts before it ends on August 11, and this includes the major part of the big programs. Tanglewood is one of the things this part of the United States is famous for around the world. But a lot of us who live right next to it have not been there yet.

FORT WAYNE, IND.
NEWS SENTINEL
Circ. D. 76,286
JUL 3 1957

'NOTES FROM THE BERKSHIRES'

Vacation Spot Said to Offer Treasury for Music Lovers

ley and Robert Brink, violinists; George Humphrey, viola; and Karl Zeise, violincello; all members of the Boston Symphony, performed the Beethoven Quartet in F. minor, Opus 95. Bruce Simonds, pianist and director of the Norfolk School, joined Messrs. Brink, Humphrey and Zeise to play the Quartet in G minor by Faure, and all four members of the quartet with Mr. Simonds closed the program with a performance of the Schumann Quintet in E flat major.

It was exquisite music from the beginning to the end and was stunningly performed by the group. The Faure work, which I was hearing for the first time, [illegible] and the performance of it was excellent. The third movement was particularly charming and gay, suggesting the style of a German dance. And a robin's persistent call from a nearby treetop, though not included in the score by "Papa" Haydn, didn't seem at all out of place. The second and third movements of the Beethoven work were given uncommonly fine interpretations. The scherzo character of the second movement was heightened by the interruptions in the rhythmic flow where Beethoven givens sudden emphasis to weak beats. At a fast tempo this effect is very exciting. The third movement, quiet and very slow, was a song of great lyric beauty that soared from one lovely phrase to the succeeding one.

The Ravel Trio is music of another cloth, and what music it is! There is no mistaking the composer for it abounds in "Daphnis-like" figures, in broad sweeps and swirls of color in sound, and in the frequent changes in rhythm. Though Ravel was not noted as a pianist, he knew how to write for the instrument. The masses of

Society

MARJORIE WATTS SHERMAN Editor

FAMILIAR FACES in a far setting—Richard Burgin, Symphony's concert master is at the left, Dr. Munch in the center, with cellist Alfred Zighera just behind, and first violinist Joseph de Pasquale at right.

AT BEAUTIFUL TANGLEWOOD, scores of Boston families are represented in the great audiences that gather for the summer Festival in the Berkshires, founded by the late Serge Koussevitzky. Mrs. Koussevitzky, Mrs. Philip Sherwood, Mrs. William Aldrich, Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield, are among the noted Bostonians who are box-holders for the concert series continuing through August 11.

A BOXFUL of distinguished guests at Tanglewood, President James Rhoades Rhoney Baxter of Williams College, Dean Roy Lamson, Prof. Robert Allen, and Joseph Johnson, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and in front, Mrs. Lamson, Mrs. Allen, and Mrs. Johnson.

TANGLEWOOD PICTURES BY WILLIAM TAGUE

FALMOUTH PICTURES BY BOB RUITER AND JOHN BELL

IPSWICH PICTURE BY ZAHARIS

BLANK PAGE

[106]

BLANK PAGE

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUL 7 1957

[108]

Tanglewood Hall Sold Out For Week End of Bach

By Jay S. Harrison

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL

TANGLEWOOD, LENOX, MASS.

Boston Symphony Chambr Orchestra, Charles Munch, conductor; soloists, Lukas Foss, Seymour Lipkin, pianists; Richard Burgin, violinist; Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flutist. The program: Suite No. 3 in D major, for Orchestra; Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D major, for Orchestra with Piano, Flute and Violin; Supite No. 2 in B minor, for Flute and Strings; Concerto in C minor, for Two Pianos, No. 1...Bach.

LENOX, Mass., July 6.—The interest of Bach fans are usually divided when the chips are down concerning their hero. Some intellectualize about his life and times, others marvel at his inexhaustible genius and technical ingenuity, and a third group, while listening to his music, is content merely to bask in the presence of a great creative mind. But these factors, so far as Bach's continuing reputation is concerned, are essentially unimportant. What really counts is this: he makes money at the box office.

Why else, for example, would the Berkshire Music Festival begin last night its twentieth season at Tanglewood with a week end devoted entirely to the works of the Cantor of Leipzig? Of course, the fact that it has on hand a host of specialists in matters Bachian is not to be likely discounted; but as a profit-making institution Tanglewood is perfectly willing to help fill the public's voracious appetite for the divine Johann, the wisdom of its policy being best indicated by the fact that the Theater-Concert Hall, in which the event took place, was sold out to the doors.

Not a ticket buyer, I suspect, despite a sudden rain that drenched late comers and held the audience on the lawn to a minimum, had cause for disappointment. What the listeners heard was good Bach, lots of it, and played to the hilt.

The Suite No. 3, with which Charles Munch and the Boston Symphony Orchestra opened the [illegible] throughout elegant and notable for its lack of greasy exaggeration in phraseology and dynamics. In addition, the maestro's reading was more exact and regular in rhythm than I recall it from previous performances, though this regularity did not in the least preclude resilience and flexibility. Indeed, the rubbery bounce and energy of it all was as infectious as the laugh of a child. To Mr. Munch's enormous credit, may also be added that he is fully aware that the baroque was an era of unmixed orchestral color, precisely as the Nineteenth Century was an era of color blending. And thus the individual sonority planes of the score each stood out brightly for their own sake and were not submerged in a welter of homogeneous sound.

It was the presence of Lukas Foss that galvanized the Fifth Brandenburg Concerto into the spectacular achievement it quickly became. And it was spectacular, ever though some of the work's implied poetry was scuttled in the process of allowing Mr. Foss to overpower his concertino colleagues, Richard Burgin and Doriot Anthony Dwyer. Nonetheless, his sense of style, his impeccable musicianship and his nimble fingers frequently caused deserved gasps of admiration throughout the hall.

No less marked in its dexterity was Mrs. Dwyer's account of the B Minor Suite for which Mr. Munch supplied an orchestral accompaniment of leaf silver depth and texture. Actually, Mrs. Dwyer is not a flutist of the high-powered school, her tendencies leaning toward gentility of statement and aristocracy of phrase. Her instincts, furthermore, are ever right, as she clearly appreciates that the grand manner is not for her and therefore avoids an artistic pose that would ill suit her temperament. What she gave us, in all, was a gracious, charming, alert suite which, when it was over, brought the audience to its feet.

In response to the applause, Mrs. Dwyer finally took a deep, deep breath and encored the concluding Badinerie.

The evening closed with a superb performance of the Concerto in C Minor for two pianos, played by Mr. Foss and Seymour Lipkin, and it is hard to imagine any two gentlemen not professionally allied as duo-pianists doing as well. The reading had spunk, pace and power. It was vital, too, and rich in keyboard color. More important still—and this was the clew to listening pleasures received—it was at once carefully rehearsed and yet as spontaneous as tomorrow's news.

MILLERTON, N. Y.
NEWS-REPUBLICAN
Circ. W. 3,617
JUL 4 1957

Berkshire Festival Concerts July 3-5-6-7

The 20th season of the Berkshire Festival presented by the Boston Symphony Orchestra Charles Munch, Music Director will open this week at Tanglewood, Lenox Mass.

The 1957 season of six weeks and 24 concerts, running from July 3 to August 11, will commence with a concert by the Paganini String Quartet on Wednesday evening, July 3, at 8:30 in the Theatre-Concert Hall. The Quartet, which makes its first Tanglewood appearance at this concert, will present a program including Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18 No. 2 and the String Quartet in F Major of Maurice Ravel.

The concerts of Friday and Saturday evenings in the Theatre-Concert Hall at 8:30 will be devoted to the music of Bach, and Charles Munch will lead a chamber orchestra of Boston Symphony Orchesrta players. Soloists on Friday (July 5) will be Lukas Foss in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and Mr. Foss with Seymour Lipkin will be heard in the Concerto for Two Pianos in C. Minor. Both Mr. Foss and Mr. Lipkin are members of the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center. The Friday program will also include the Suite No. 2 with Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Suite No. 3. The concert of Saturday evening (July 6) will be devoted to a performance of five Brandenburg Concertos, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 4.

The concert of Sunday afternoon (July 7) at 2:30 will be held in the Music Shed and will be devoted to Part II of the St. Matthew Passion. Soloists will be Adele Addison, soprono, Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor; Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses. The choruses will be the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, G. Wallace Woodworth, conductor.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD-TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUL 8 1957

All-Bach Week End Opens Berkshire Music Festival

By Jay S. Harrison

LENOX, Mass., July 7.—Generally speaking there are only two ways in which it is possible to emerge from ah all-Bach week end — overwhelmed or overtired. The current first-week activities of the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, however, have contrived to induce simultaneously both states, what with a performance yesterday afternoon in the Music Shed of the opening chorus and complete second part of "The Passion According to St. Matthew" and the presentation on Saturday night, in the Theater-Concert Hall, of a Brandenburg Concerto marathon that offered all but one of the composer's six works in this form. As ever, Charles Munch was on hand to conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra, assisted, in response to the requirements of the individual numbers, by a veritable platoon of instrumental and vocal soloists.

Deep Delight

It made the head reel, for listening to Bach's music demands, by and large, such powers of attention not necessary to lavish on most other masters. He does not lull you like Schumann, wash over you like Bruckner or caress you like Debussy. Thus, given no cause for reverie or flights into personal fancy, there is no change but to concentrate and listen hard. And that, precisely is what a combined Saturday-Sunday audience of 8,000 did to their obvious satisfaction and deep delight.

Certainly a large share of that delight derived from yesterday's profoundly stirring account of the "Matthew Passion," a work that may boldly lay claim to being the greatest choral piece in the literature. It is true, of course, that the performance flew in the face of the most resolute purist tradition, but then it almost always does, a situation that seems to bother no one save the purists themselves. At any rate, the joint Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, a group confessedly too large to deal subtly with Bach's contrapuntal amenities, looked to the massed numbers, while a quintet of absolutely superb vocalists were in charge of the solos. They included Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, contralto; John McCollum, tenor, and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, bassos.

All of them, too, it might be said, are Bach singers whose traditions are born of the nineteenth rather than the eighteenth century, for they work on the broadest of all possible scales. I fail to see how they could do otherwise in a hall seating 6,000, nor would I want them to. The point is that the "Matthew Passion," as they read it, jarred the senses and pierced the heart, as did also the thoroughly admirable singing of the chorus. And if there are those who snicker that such an outlay of grandiose forces was unknown to Bach himself, let them be reminded that it is music's immediate effect, not its distant history, that in the final analysis counts for anything.

An Adventure

It would e sheer folly to single out among the singers one or two for a special word of praise—they were all that good. And the orchestra was throughout perfectly handled under Mr. Munch's firm grasp. In consequence, the rendition as an entity was an adventure of the ear and feast for the spirit.

Saturday night's Brandenburg excursion, on the other hand, was disappointing simply because the ensemble was not all one has come to expect of Boston's artistic pride and joy. The first concerto began with all its proper seasoning measured out, and it seemed, as it often has in the last three days, that Mr. Munch is presently of a more sanguine and ebullient disposition that he has been for some time, but then, suddenly, the playing turned rather commonplace and perfunctory. Nor was there any exceptional improvement in the second concerto which, as Bachians well know, is the trumpeter's piece hands down if he is able to get through it without swallowing his mouthpiece.

Lack Thrust

But Roger Voisin, the trumpeter, was far from being at his technical best and the remaining concertino members—Doriot Anthony Dwyer, flute; Ralph Gomberg, oboe, and Richard Burgin, violin—lacked the thrust to carry the number off. As for the third concerto, it can be and has been performed in the worst tradition of choo-choo-train Bach with all rhythmic tugging, chugging and grunting that implies. Fortunately, this condition Mr. Munch assiduously avoided; the notes had air around them and the phrases were plastically bent to suit the whirlwind dramatic patterns that are the warp of the composer's design. Still, the orchestra sounded a bit scratchy, a bit at odds with itself. There was much of vigor but to the exclusion of sonority refinement.

By all the standards, the most substantial playing of the evening was to be heard in the fourth concerto, featuring Mrs. Dwyer and James Pappoutsakis as the solo flutes. In it, Bach's rapid figurations were ever lively and mobile, and the slow movement was especially beautiful in its chiseled intensities. The fact that the work was presented at the close of a concert dedicated to five numbers that were never intended to be given consecutively speaks nobly for both its rendition and its creator. So it is always with Bach. Even when you imagine the saturation point has been reached, he manages to prove that your receptive capacities are not nearly brimful as you think.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUL 8 1957

Music: Bach Week-End

St. Matthew Passion Is Berkshire Feature

By ROSS PARMENTER
Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 7—The first week-end of the Berkshire Festival was like a festival in itself—a Bach festival. And Charles Munch chose the programs so that they led the listeners by deepening stages into the composer at his most profound level.

The concertos and suites of the Friday night program introduced the secular Bach, a high-spirited composer of prodigal gifts who could write for the entertainment of princes and devise passages of brilliant solo display.

With the five Brandenburg Concertos of Saturday night, one heard the same baroque master writing more deeply meditative slow movements and experimenting more radically with differing instrumental combinations.

This afternoon showed that man bending all his gifts to dramatizing and illuminating the trial and death of Christ.

•

The work that closed the week-end was the festival's first presentation of the Passion According to St. Matthew. Because of its dimensions, the Passion was not given in the theatre-concert hall, as were two earlier concerts. Instead, it was given in the Shed. With a golden summer afternoon adding to its appeal, it attracted an audience of 3,470. This brought the total attendance for the week-end to 10,725.

Dr. Munch, however, did not lead the whole of the Passion. In order to keep the program within the accepted Sunday afternoon time span, he led the great opening double chorus and then leaped directly to part two, which was given virtually complete.

The omission of the more meditative part one, of course, was a serious loss. But, because of the familiary of the story and of the work itself, most listeners could supply the missing part either from imagination or memory.

Because the chorus of the newly opened Berkshire Music Center has not yet been sufficiently trained, Dr. Munch recruited his choristers from the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society. The vocal soloists were singers familiar to Tanglewood: Adele Addison soprana; Florence Kopleff, contralato; John McCollum, tenor and Donald Gramm and James Joyce, basses.

The thirty-nine-piece orchestra consisted of members of the Boston Symphony. Daniel Pinkham was at the harpsichord and Alfred Nash Patterson at the organ. Alfred Zichera played the viola da gamba.

•

Dr. Munch's tempos were admirably chosen. He brought excitement to the moments of dramatic intensity, but he also allowed the soloists plenty of time to sing without strain, and the slow chorales were beautifully sustained without ever being dragged.

Florence Kopleff

The chorus attacked the violent and taunting choruses with vigor, but on the whole it was best in the soft ones. Especially lovely was the one just after the crucifixion, which is generally translated "Be near me, Lord, when dying." The chorus, too, sang beautifully in the long closing farewell to Christ.

Mr. McCollum carried the long and exacting part of the evangelist with skill, being at his finest in high soft parts such as the description of Peter's denial of Christ. Miss Kopleff was a notable alto soloist who maintained a pure vocal line at the same time as she infused her tones with the deepest feeling. Miss Addison sang with especially touching sweetness in the aria "Aus Liebe." With the omission of part one, the part of Christ was much reduced but Mr. Gramm sang it compassionately.

•

Having led the Fifth Brandenburg on Friday night, Dr. Munch conducted the First, Second, Third, Sixth and Fourth on Saturday night; the selection of this order meant the program ended with a brilliant finale, which would not have happened if the Sixth, for the three dark-hued string choirs, had been the closing work.

The viola players in the Sixth covered themselves with glory. They provided the most sensitively shaded and expressive playing of the evening. Elsewhere, the emphasis was more on rough-hewn vigor than on extreme tonal refinement. But Dr. Munch's approach was certainly justified and the concertos, with their fine rhythmic allegros and probing slow movements, held the audience enthralled.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUL 7 1957

OF BACH AT LENOX

ucts the First Concert of the mer Season

PARMENTER
New York Times.
ass., July 5—The stival's twentieth glewood has been grees. On Sunday
Music Center be-sions. The first c concert was on d on Friday there
ymphonic concert.
was not one of ts by the full Bos-
y in the big fan-
Following the cus-
ed by the late vitzky in 1945, it rogram by a cham-
in the 1,200-seat
t hall.
he evening gave eing so lovely, the ted an audience of he overflow audilawn had rather a
A brief downpour
e start of the prod the ground. How-rm passed quickly
arkness fell, there tars and a brilliant
the sky.
g week-end is to be Bach. For his first les Munch fittingly Bach's most lightfestal works. They cond and Third Ores, the Fifth "Bran-oncerto and the C
rto for Two Pianos.
n to their intrinsic works gave solo opo four talented in-
ts. Lukas Foss, ooser, and Oriot Anr, the Boston Sym-t flutist, both had es to shine. They spotlight in the rg" with Richard e Boston's concert-

yer was heard again
ond Suite, which is te concerto. And Mr.
eard again when he mour Lipkin in the r Two Pianos.
d Suite opened the d Mr. Munch led it
nance that was virile nically strong, but e heavy in spirit and texture.
ndenburg" that fol-
more buoyancy. Mr.
olo in the first move-especially notable. Ir affettuoso for the sts without accomhe, Mrs. Dwyer and n played so tenderly sively that they held ce in a silence deep one to hear the lea rovided by the rustlin ounding the open side

yer played in the Se with clarity of artic auty of tone, subtlet rasing and, in the closin erie, with so much infe joyousness that the mov had to be repeated.
r. Lipkin and Mr. Foss
d the Double Piano Concer remarkable spirit. The so much mutual confide each could let himself p y and decisively in the t t movements. And in t rvening adagio they play a melting lyricism. In ements, too, their tones we vell matched that they su ed a team that had be ying together a long time.
all the works with soloi
Munch provided reticent paniments, and he beam ernally on the young arti
he audience expressed its t in their playing.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUL 7 1957

PROGRAM OF BACH HEARD AT LENOX

Munch Conducts the First Symphonic Concert of the 20th Summer Season

By ROSS PARMENTER
Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 5—The Berkshire Festival's twentieth season at Tanglewood has been opening by degrees. On Sunday the Berkshire Music Center began its sessions. The first chamber music concert was on Wednesday and on Friday there was the first symphonic concert.

However, it was not one of the big concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the big fan-shaped shed. Following the custom established by the late Serge Koussevitzky in 1945, it was a Bach program by a chamber orchestra in the 1,200-seat theatre-concert hall.

Because the evening gave promise of being so lovely, the concert attracted an audience of 2,755. But the overflow audience on the lawn had rather a damp time. A brief downpour just before the start of the program drenched the ground. However, the storm passed quickly and, after darkness fell, there were bright stars and a brilliant half-moon in the sky.

The opening week-end is to be devoted to Bach. For his first concert Charles Munch fittingly chose four of Bach's most light-hearted and festal works. They were the Second and Third Orchestral Suites, the Fifth "Brandenburg" Concerto and the C Minor Concerto for Two Pianos.

In addition to their intrinsic worth, the works gave solo opportunities to four talented instrumentalists. Lukas Foss, pianist-composer, and Oriot Anthony Dwyer, the Boston Symphony's first flutist, both had two chances to shine. They shared the spotlight in the "Brandenburg" with Richard Burgin, the Boston's concert-master.

Mrs. Dwyer was heard again in the Second Suite, which is almost a flute concerto. And Mr. Foss was heard again when he joined Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos.

The Third Suite opened the program and Mr. Munch led it in a performance that was virile and rhythmically strong, but also a shade heavy in spirit and coarse in texture.

The "Brandenburg" that followed had more buoyancy. Mr. Foss' long solo in the first movement was especially notable. In the adagio affettuoso for the three soloists without accompaniment he, Mrs. Dwyer and Mr. Burgin played so tenderly and expressively that they held the audience in a silence deep enough for one to hear the leaf obligato provided by the rustling trees surrounding the open sides of the hall.

Mrs. Dwyer played in the Second Suite with clarity of articulation, beauty of tone, subtlety of phrasing and, in the closing badinerie, with so much infectious joyousness that the movement had to be repeated.

Mr. Lipkin and Mr. Foss also played the Double Piano Concerto with remarkable spirit. They had so much mutual confidence that each could let himself play freely and decisively in the two swift movements. And in the intervening adagio they played with a melting lyricism. In all movements, too, their tones were so well matched that they suggested a team that had been playing together a long time.

In all the works with soloists Mr. Munch provided reticent accompaniments, and he beamed paternally on the young artists as the audience expressed its delight in their playing.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUL 6 1957

PIANIST: Seymour Lipkin, who was heard last evening at the Berkshire Festival.

PROGRAM OF BACH HEARD AT LENOX

Munch Conducts the First Symphonic Concert of the 20th Summer Season

By ROSS PARMENTER
Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 5—The Berkshire Festival's twentieth season at Tanglewood has been opening by degrees. On Sunday the Berkshire Music Center began its sessions. The first chamber music concert was on Wednesday and tonight there was the first symphonic concert.

However, it was not one of the big concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the big fan-shaped shed. Following the custom established by the late Serge Koussevitzky in 1945, it was a Bach program by a chamber orchestra in the 1,200-seat theatre-concert hall.

Because the evening gave promise of being so lovely, the concert attracted an audience of 2,755. But the overflow audience on the lawn had rather a damp time. A brief downpour just before the start of the program drenched the ground. However, the storm passed quickly and, after darkness fell, there were bright stars and a brilliant half-moon in the sky.

The opening week-end is to be devoted to Bach. For his first concert Charles Munch fittingly chose four of Bach's most light-hearted and festal works. They were the Second and Third Orchestral Suites, the Fifth "Brandenburg" Concerto and the C Minor Concerto for Two Pianos.

In addition to their intrinsic worth, the works gave solo opportunities to four talented instrumentalists. Lukas Foss, pianist-composer, and Oriot Anthony Dwyer, the Boston Symphony's first flutist, both had two chances to shine. They shared the spotlight in the "Brandenburg" with Richard Burgin, the Boston's concert-master.

Mrs. Dwyer was heard again in the Second Suite, which is almost a flute concerto. And Mr. Foss was heard again when he joined Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos.

The Third Suite opened the program and Mr. Munch led it in a performance that was virile and rhythmically strong, but also a shade heavy in spirit and coarse in texture.

The "Brandenburg" that followed had more buoyancy. Mr. Foss' long solo in the first movement was especially notable. In the adagio affettuoso for the three soloists without accompaniment he, Mrs. Dwyer and Mr. Burgin played so tenderly and expressively that they held the audience in a silence deep enough for one to hear the leaf obligato provided by the rustling trees surrounding the open sides of the hall.

Mrs. Dwyer played in the Second Suite with clarity of articulation, beauty of tone, subtlety of phrasing and, in the closing badinerie, with so much infectious joyousness that the movement had to be repeated.

Mr. Lipkin and Mr. Foss also played the Double Piano Concerto with remarkable spirit. They had so much mutual confidence that each could let himself play freely and decisively in the two swift movements. And in the intervening adagio they played with a melting lyricism. In all movements, too, their tones were so well matched that they suggested a team that had been playing together a long time.

In all the works with soloists Mr. Munch provided reticent accompaniments, and he beamed paternally on the young artists as the audience expressed its delight in their playing.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUL 7 1957

Charles Munch, who will conduct this week's Festival concerts at Tanglewood.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 - S. 855,847
JUL 6 1957

Bach-Lovers Hail Festival In Berkshires

By MILES KASTENDIECK

TANGLEWOOD, Lenox, Mass., July 6.—Tradition-set and time-honored, the Berkshire Festival began its 20th season with a Bach program in the theatre-concert hall last night.

An unexpected shower a half-hour before concert time kept many from sitting on the grass as expected. Nevertheless 2,755 people attended and only 1,200 could occupy seats in the hall.

Except for the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, No. 1, the program listed such favorites as the Suite No. 3, the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and the Suite No. 2. These are staples of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's chamber group at Tanglewood.

Charles Munch conducted all in the virile, vigorous fashion which is his definite approach to Bach. The quality of the performances was variable as usual.

If the Suite No. 3 attained an almost impeccable performance, the reason lay in its continuous appearance on BSO programs. Doriot Anthony Dwyer was the featured flute player and an obvious favorite with the audience.

In conceding an encore of the irresistible "Badineric," Munch amused the audience by making no special effort to conduct. Instead, he sat down on the lid of the concert grand in front of the podium and made himself a special audience of one while Mrs. Dwyer and the players went through confidently under their own momentum.

The double concerto is a more functional work than the other more inspired pieces. It enlisted Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists in a creditable performance. Foss repeated his superb playing of the piano part of the Brandenburg No. 5 along with Mrs. Dwyer and Richard Burgin as the trio of soloists.

With them the concert became something of a family affair.

There was no doubt that the audience had come to saturate itself in Bach. It listened intently and applauded most enthusiastically. This characteristic has made these early concerts of the festival somewhat special in nature, a tradition completely sustained on this occasion.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
POST
Circ. D. 398,982 - S. 274,577
JUL 8 1957

C109

WORDS and MUSIC

By Harriett Johnson

Tanglewood Weekend Draws 10,725

Lenox, Mass., July 8—Sunny skies together with Part 2 of The St. Matthew Passion drew approximately 3,500 people here for yesterday's final concert of the all-Bach weekend, which opened the Berkshire Festival. The program took place in the picturesque, if immense, Music Shed offering plenty of seats, but many preferred instead general admission that included the grass as floor and the sky as ceiling.

Altogether, counting the three events, Saturday night's audience of 4,500 was the biggest. Three-fourths of these, however, sat outside under a bright moon reinforced by blankets and camp chairs, whether they liked it or not. The program of five Brandenburg concertos was held in the sold-out 1,200 theater concert hall; as was Friday's concert.

Assisted by the well-trained Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, together with an impressive group of soloists, Charles Munch conducted the Boston Symphony in a moving performance of the opening chorus of the "Passion," followed by the second portion of the work, sung with only minor cuts.

The conductor directed both this work, and the Brandenburgs of the night before, with a dramatic vital approach which purists might disagree with, but which highlighted the forcefulness of Bach, rousing the audiences to high enthusiasm. The sensitive, poignant ensemble singing, in the often sorrowful chorales, was noteworthy.

Though the soloists were generally admirable from a standpoint of interpretation and musicianship, the two who stood out especially were soprano Adele Addison, remarkable in her exquisite lyricism, and tenor John McCollum for his excellent rendition of the difficult part of the Narrating Evangelist. McCollum's voice was stirring and still of beautiful quality in the dramatic portions, in which the extremely high reflective sections were handled with taste and restraint. Florence Kopleff was the contralto. Donald Gramm and James Joyce sang bass.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 - S. 855,847
JUL 8 1957

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL:

Munch and Bach a T

By MILES KASTENDIECK

TANGLEWOOD, LENOX, Mass., July 8.—Some 10,000 people luxuriated in Bach for the first weekend of the Berkshire Festival. They received their most deeply moving experience listening to the St. Matthew Passion performed in the Music Shed yesterday afternoon.

They came in largest numbers to the performance of five Brandenburg concertos in the theatre-concert hall Saturday night.

By the intimate nature of his approach to the Passion, Charles Munch molded the performance into a religious experience. He conducted with that deep-seated feeling and utter humility that can be most communicative. Thus the personal element of Bach fused with his universality into a singularly beautiful interpretation of one of the great masterpieces of all time.

Exalted Singing

He was fortunate in his soloists: Adele Addison, whose pure soprano fits so perfectly into the essence of this music; Florence Kopleff, whose contralto conveyed a vibrant richness to her arias; Donald Gramm, whose bass arias carried the weight and dignity so essential to the majesty of the work; and James Joyce, who fulfilled various bass roles most creditably.

One could ask for no finer evangelist than John McCollum. He told the story together dramatically through his understanding and projection of text. Vocally he gave an impeccable performance.

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society sang the chorales and choruses impressively. The result was an exalted quality of singing quite appropriate to the work. This was the finest work this group has ever done here.

Why Munch used the German text remains disputable. Nothing was gained from either a purist or academic point of view. He allowed his organist to play too loud at times. The harpsichord came through well. The Boston Symphony players, soloists and ensemble appeared most responsive.

Probably the largest crowd ever to attend a first weekend concert turned up for the Saturday concert. The weather beckoned, even though cool.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUL 7 1957

PROGRAM OF BACH HEARD AT LENOX

Munch Conducts the First Symphonic Concert of the 20th Summer Season

By ROSS PARMENTER
Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 5—The Berkshire Festival's twentieth season at Tanglewood has been opening by degrees. On Sunday the Berkshire Music Center began its sessions. The first chamber music concert was on Wednesday and on Friday there was the first symphonic concert.

However, it was not one of the big concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the big fan-shaped shed. Following the custom established by the late Serge Koussevitzky in 1945, it was a Bach program by a chamber orchestra in the 1,200-seat theatre-concert hall.

Because the evening gave promise of being so lovely, the concert attracted an audience of 2,755. But the overflow audience on the lawn had rather a damp time. A brief downpour just before the start of the program drenched the ground. However, the storm passed quickly and, after darkness fell, there were bright stars and a brilliant half-moon in the sky.

The opening week-end is to be devoted to Bach. For his first concert Charles Munch fittingly chose four of Bach's most light-hearted and festal works. They were the Second and Third Orchestral Suites, the Fifth "Brandenburg" Concerto and the C Minor Concerto for Two Pianos.

In addition to their intrinsic worth, the works gave solo opportunities to four talented instrumentalists. Lukas Foss, pianist-composer, and Oriot Anthony Dwyer, the Boston Symphony's first flutist, both had two chances to shine. They shared the spotlight in the "Brandenburg" with Richard Burgin, the Boston's concert-master.

Mrs. Dwyer was heard again in the Second Suite, which is almost a flute concerto. And Mr. Foss was heard again when he joined Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos.

The Third Suite opened the program and Mr. Munch led it in a performance that was virile and rhythmically strong, but also a shade heavy in spirit and coarse in texture.

The "Brandenburg" that followed had more buoyancy. Mr. Foss' long solo in the first movement was especially notable. In the adagio affettuoso for the three soloists without accompaniment he, Mrs. Dwyer and Mr. Burgin played so tenderly and expressively that they held the audience in a silence deep enough for one to hear the leaf obligato provided by the rustling trees surrounding the open sides of the hall.

Mrs. Dwyer played in the Second Suite with clarity of articulation, beauty of tone, subtlety of phrasing and, in the closing badinerie, with so much infectious joyousness that the movement had to be repeated.

Mr. Lipkin and Mr. Foss also played the Double Piano Concerto with remarkable spirit. They had so much mutual confidence that each could let himself play freely and decisively in the two swift movements. And in the intervening adagio they played with a melting lyricism. In all movements, too, their tones were so well matched that they suggested a team that had been playing together a long time.

In all the works with soloists Mr. Munch provided reticent accompaniments, and he beamed paternally on the young artists as the audience expressed its delight in their playing.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
TIMES
Circ. D. 557,244 - S. 1,189,293
JUL 6 1957

PIANIST: Seymour Lipkin, who was heard last evening at the Berkshire Festival.

PROGRAM OF BACH HEARD AT LENOX

Munch Conducts the First Symphonic Concert of the 20th Summer Season

By ROSS PARMENTER
Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 5—The Berkshire Festival's twentieth season at Tanglewood has been opening by degrees. On Sunday the Berkshire Music Center began its sessions. The first chamber music concert was on Wednesday and tonight there was the first symphonic concert.

However, it was not one of the big concerts by the full Boston Symphony in the big fan-shaped shed. Following the custom established by the late Serge Koussevitzky in 1945, it was a Bach program by a chamber orchestra in the 1,200-seat theatre-concert hall.

Because the evening gave promise of being so lovely, the concert attracted an audience of 2,755. But the overflow audience on the lawn had rather a damp time. A brief downpour just before the start of the program drenched the ground. However, the storm passed quickly and, after darkness fell, there were bright stars and a brilliant half-moon in the sky.

The opening week-end is to be devoted to Bach. For his first concert Charles Munch fittingly chose four of Bach's most light-hearted and festal works. They were the Second and Third Orchestral Suites, the Fifth "Brandenburg" Concerto and the C Minor Concerto for Two Pianos.

In addition to their intrinsic worth, the works gave solo opportunities to four talented instrumentalists. Lukas Foss, pianist-composer, and Oriot Anthony Dwyer, the Boston Symphony's first flutist, both had two chances to shine. They shared the spotlight in the "Brandenburg" with Richard Burgin, the Boston's concert-master.

Mrs. Dwyer was heard again in the Second Suite, which is almost a flute concerto. And Mr. Foss was heard again when he joined Seymour Lipkin in the Concerto for Two Pianos.

The Third Suite opened the program and Mr. Munch led it in a performance that was virile and rhythmically strong, but also a shade heavy in spirit and coarse in texture.

The "Brandenburg" that followed had more buoyancy. Mr. Foss' long solo in the first movement was especially notable. In the adagio affettuoso for the three soloists without accompaniment he, Mrs. Dwyer and Mr. Burgin played so tenderly and expressively that they held the audience in a silence deep enough for one to hear the leaf obligato provided by the rustling trees surrounding the open sides of the hall.

Mrs. Dwyer played in the Second Suite with clarity of articulation, beauty of tone, subtlety of phrasing and, in the closing badinerie, with so much infectious joyousness that the movement had to be repeated.

Mr. Lipkin and Mr. Foss also played the Double Piano Concerto with remarkable spirit. They had so much mutual confidence that each could let himself play freely and decisively in the two swift movements. And in the intervening adagio they played with a melting lyricism. In all movements, too, their tones were so well matched that they suggested a team that had been playing together a long time.

In all the works with soloists Mr. Munch provided reticent accompaniments, and he beamed paternally on the young artists as the audience expressed its delight in their playing.

NEW YORK, N. Y.
HERALD TRIBUNE
Circ. D. 336,443 - S. 528,253
JUL 7 1957

Charles Munch, who will conduct this week's Festival concerts at Tanglewood.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
JOURNAL AMERICAN
Circ. D. 653,991 - S. 855,847
JUL 6 1957

Bach-Lovers Hail Festival In Berkshires

By MILES KASTENDIECK

TANGLEWOOD, Lenox, Mass., July 6.—Tradition-set and time-honored, the Berkshire Festival began its 20th season with a Bach program in the theatre-concert hall last night.

An unexpected shower a half-hour before concert time kept many from sitting on the grass as expected. Nevertheless 2,755 people attended and only 1,200 could occupy seats in the hall.

Except for the Concerto in C Minor for Two Pianos, No. 1, the program listed such favorites as the Suite No. 3, the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, and the Suite No. 2. These are staples of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's chamber group at Tanglewood.

Charles Munch conducted all in the virile, vigorous fashion which is his definite approach to Bach. The quality of the performances was variable as usual.

If the Suite No. 3 sustained an almost impeccable performance, the reason lay in its continuous appearance on BSO programs. Doriot Anthony Dwyer was the featured flute player and an obvious favorite with the audience.

In conceding an encore of the irresistible "Badineric," Munch amused the audience by making no special effort to conduct. Instead, he sat down on the lid of the concert grand in front of the podium and made himself a special audience of one while Mrs. Dwyer and the players went through confidently under their own momentum.

The double concerto is a more functional work than the other more inspired pieces. It enlisted Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin as soloists in a creditable performance. Foss repeated his superb playing of the piano part of the Brandenburg No. 5 along with Mrs. Dwyer and Richard Burgin as the trio of soloists.

With them the concert became something of a family affair.

There was no doubt that the audience had come to saturate itself in Bach. It listened intently and applauded most enthusiastically. This characteristic has made these early concerts of the festival somewhat special in nature, a tradition completely sustained on this occasion.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
POST
Circ. D. 398,982 - S. 274,577
JUL 8 1957

C109]

WORDS and MUSIC

By Harriett Johnson

Tanglewood Weekend Draws 10,725

Lenox, Mass., July 8—Sunny skies together with Part 2 of The St. Matthew Passion drew approximately 3,500 people here for yesterday's final concert of the all-Bach weekend, which opened the Berkshire Festival. The program took place in the picturesque, if immense, Music Shed offering plenty of seats, but many preferred instead general admission that included the grass as floor and the sky as ceiling.

Altogether, counting the three events, Saturday night's audience of 4,500 was the biggest. Three-fourths of these, however, sat outside under a bright moon reinforced by blankets and camp chairs, whether they liked it or not. The program of five Brandenburg concertos was held in the sold-out 1,200 theater concert hall, as was Friday's concert.

Assisted by the well-trained Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society, together with an impressive group of soloists, Charles Munch conducted the Boston Symphony in a moving performance of the opening chorus of the "Passion," followed by the second portion of the work, sung with only minor cuts.

The conductor directed both this work, and the Brandenburgs of the night before, with a dramatic vital approach which purists might disagree with, but which highlighted the forcefulness of Bach, rousing the audiences to high enthusiasm. The sensitive, poignant ensemble singing, in the often sorrowful chorales, was noteworthy.

Though the soloists were generally admirable from a standpoint of interpretation and musicianship, the two who stood out especially were soprano Adele Addison, remarkable in her exquisite lyricism, and tenor John McCollum for his excellent rendition of the difficult part of the Narrating Evangelist. McCollum's voice was stirring and still of beautiful quality in the dramatic portions, in which the extremely high reflective sections were handled with taste and restraint. Florence Kopleff was the contralto. Donald Gramm and James Joyce sang bass.

NEW YORK
JOURNAL A
Circ. D. 653,991
JUL 8

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL:

Munch and Bach a Team

By MILES KASTENDIECK

TANGLEWOOD, LENOX, Mass., July 7.—Some 10,000 people luxuriated in Bach for the first weekend of the Berkshire Festival. They received their most deeply moving experience listening to the St. Matthew Passion performed in the Music Shed yesterday afternoon.

They came in largest numbers to the performance of five Brandenburg concertos in the theatre-concert hall Saturday night.

By the intimate nature of his approach to the Passion, Charles Munch molded the performance into a religious experience. He conducted with that deep-seated feeling and utter humility that can be most communicative. Thus the personal element of Bach fused with his universality into a singularly beautiful interpretation of one of the great masterpieces of all time.

Exalted Singing

He was fortunate in his soloists: Adele Addison, whose pure soprano fits so perfectly into the essence of this music; Florence Kopleff, whose contralto conveyed a vibrant richness to her arias; Donald Gramm, whose bass arias carried the weight and dignity so essential to the majesty of the work; and James Joyce, who fulfilled various bass roles most creditably.

One could ask for no finer evangelist than John McCollum. He told the story together dramatically through his understanding and projection of text. Vocally he gave an impeccable performance.

The Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society sang the chorales and choruses impressively. The result was an exalted quality of singing quite appropriate to the work. This was the finest work this group has ever done here.

Why Munch used the German text remains disputable. Nothing was gained from either a purist or academic point of view. He allowed his organist to play too loud at times. The harpsichord came through well. The Boston Symphony players, soloists and ensemble appeared most responsive.

Probably the largest crowd ever to attend a first weekend concert turned up for the Saturday concert. The weather beckoned, even though cool. Since only 1,200 of the 4,500 present could sit in the theatre-concert hall, this attendance testified not only to the magnetic quality of the Brandenburg concertos but also to the desire to hear them performed by Munch, the Boston Symphony chamber group, and their solo players, always a recreative experience.

[110]

Sptfld Rep. 9/14/57

Second Thoughts On Music

Bach Festival Continues To Increase in Popularity

Six Brandenburg Concertos, 'St. Matthew Passion' And Other Works Heard at Tanglewood; Adele Addison Among Soloists Commended

By WILLARD M. CLARK

The first week of performances at the Berkshire Music Festival proved a great success. Some 12,000 persons attende dthe chamber music concert; student orchestra concert and the three performances devoted to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach and directed by Charles Munch.

The Paganini String Quartet opened proceedings with an impressive concert consisting of the String Quartet in G major, Op. 18, No. 2 by Beethoven; the first quartet of Alberto Ginastera, a Brazilian composer, and Ravel's String Quartet in F major. One heard some fine ensemble playing by a group of musicians who have played together since 1946.

There was special interest in the Ginastera quartet, since the young man had been a student of composition at the Berkshire Summer School a few years ago. It proved to be a vivid, rhythmic work which called for extreme skill on the part of the players. It is still slightly derivative but gives promise of things to come. The audience seemed fascinated with it. The Ravel quartet received an ethereal reading and the Beethoven opus was a masterpiece of grace and charm.

The Bach Program

The Bach festival has grown steadily in popularity since it was instituted by Serge Koussevitzky. The largest audience of the week, 4500, was on hand to hear opening program and it was amply repaid. We have never heard a finer performance of the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 for Orchestra with piano, violin and flute. Lukas Foss plays Bach in an exemplary manner and Mr. Burgin and Doriot Anthony Dywer provided violin and flute playing of high caliber.

Dr. Munch and the reduced orchestra he uses for these performances seem to have a special affection for Bach's music, so the sum total of this performance was high. Another superb performance was that of the Suite No. 2 in B minor, for flute and strings. Mr. Dwyer has played this work several times at Tanglewood and always receives a personal ovation. Her fine musicianship, command of the instrument and her personal charm combine to make a performance arresting.

There was also an excellent performance of the Concerto in C minor for two pianos played by Lukas Foss and Seymour Lipkin. The concert opened with a gracious performance of Suite No. 3 in D major for orchestra.

Brandenburg Concertos

The second concert was given over to performances of the remaining five Brandenburg concertos. Because the Boston Symphony has such fine first-desk men, the infinite variety of these concertos was set forth in magnificent fashion. We shall not soon forget the beauty of the Adagio of the first concerto; the charm of the Andante of Concerto No. 2 or the finale of Concerto No. 4.

Richard Burgin was at his most persuasive as soloist and concertmaster and Roger Voisin again provided dazzling virtuosity on the trumpet as did Mrs. Dwyer on the flute. What might have proven, in less expert hands, an uninteresting program, was so vital and varied that it held the attention from beginning to end.

"St. Matthew Passion"

The final program o fthe Bach festival was devoted to Part 2 of the "St. Matthew Passion." The chorus was made up of members of the Radcliffe Chorale and the Harvard Glee Club, all experienced singers of the work. The solo quartet included Adele Addison, soprano; Florence Kopleff, alto; John McCollum, tenor and Donald Gramm, bass. Miss Addison and Mrs. Gramm are known to Springfield and Miss Kopleff and Mrs. McCollum are to be heard with the Springfield Symphony Orchestra next season when Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" will be sung.

Mr. McCollum has a fine voice and his command of it is absolute. He sang the long and taxing role of the Evangelist with remarkable technical fluency and a thorough understanding of text. Mr. Gramm is one of the finest of the young basses and oratorio is a fertile field for him. Miss Kopleff has a large voice and a personal warmth that meets the audience.

Miss Addison again revealed herself as a poised and sensitive artist, who made the most of the one opportunity provided in the second part of the "Passion." A fifth member, James Joyce, basso, held his own with this fine quartet. The chorus sang with vital tones and awareness of text. Mr. Munch appeared pleased with them, and well he might be, for their response to his demands was a tribute to their own conductor, G. Wallace Woodworth.

The music of Mozart will be featured this afternoon, when a program of great interest is scheduled. It will open with the Adagio and Fugue in C minor for string orchestra K. 546. Two concertos will follow, the Concerto for Bassoon, in B flat major, K. 191, and the Concerto for Horn in E flat major, K. 495. Sherman Walt will be solo bassoonist and James Stagliano the horn soloist.

The final work on the program will be the "Sinfonia Concentante" for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon, K. 297b. Soloists will include Messrs Ralph Gomberg, oboe; Gino Cioffi, clarinet, and James Stagliano and Sherman Walt. The concert will begin at 2.30 p. m.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 8 - 1957

Toney Paintings Being Displayed At Tanglewood

TANGLEWOOD — Five recent paintings by Anthony Toney are on exhibition this week in the Glass Reception room at the Tanglewood main gate. The exhibit will run through the second week of Berkshire Festival concerts, until Sunday, July 14.

Mr. Toney, who leads a summer art workshop at Festival House in Lenox, will have his seventh one-man show in New York City next winter. Other paintings of his are currently on show at the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield. He has given a one-man show at Santa Barbara, Calif., and has been represented in shows at Syracuse Museum, Metropolitan Museum, National Academy, University of Illinois, University of New Mexico and Kansas City Art Institute. A graduate of the College of Fine Arts of Syracuse University, Mr. Toney received his M.A. and Ed.D. from Teachers College, Columbia University. He has taught art at the School for Advanced Study in Gloversville, N.Y., at Stevenson School in New York City, and this summer at the art workshop at Festival House.

Prize Winner

In 1950 Mr. Toney was awarded a Purchase Prize by the University of Illinois, and in 1952 he received first prize at the Artists Equity Assn. show. Other awards which he has won are the Grumbacher Award at the 1954 Audubon Annual, the Emily Lowe Award, the Purchase Prize at Staten Island Museum this year, and second prize at the 1957 Berkshire annual.

The five paintings on view at Tanglewood are "Double Portrait" (1955), "The Nixie" (1955), "Interior" (1955), "Skyline" (1957), and "Overlooking the City" (1957).

Future exhibits at Tanglewood will include a collection of photographs by Boston Symphony members taken on tour in Europe last fall, July 15-21; paintings by Maurice Gordon, July 22-28; paintings by Isabel Bishop, July 29-Aug. 4; and prints by Picasso, lent by Robert Appleton of Albany Aug. 5-11.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 9 1957

Five Paintings By Toney Now At Tanglewood

Five recent paintings by Anthony Toney are on exhibition this week in the glass reception room at the Tanglewood Main Gate in Lenox. The exhibit is on view through the second week of Berkshire Festival concerts, until Sunday.

Mr. Toney, who leads a summer art workshop at Festival House in Lenox, will have his seventh one-man show in New York City next winter. Other paintings of his are currently on show at the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield.

The five paintings on view in the Tanglewood Glass Reception Room are "Double Portrait" (1955), "The Nixie" (1955), "Interior" (1955), "Skyline" (1957), and "Overlooking the City" (1957). Future exhibits at Tanglewood will include a collection of photographs by Boston Symphony members taken on tour in Europe last fall (July 15-21); paintings by Maurice Gordon (July 22-28); paintings by Isabel Bishop (July 29-August 4); and prints by Picasso, lent by Robert Appleton of Albany (August 5-11).

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION, JULY 9, 1957

Toney Paintings On Exhibit at Tanglewood

Lenox, July 8—Five recent paintings by Anthony Toney are on exhibition this week in the glass reception room at the Tanglewood main gate. The exhibit is on view until July 14.

Mr. Toney, who leads a summer art workshop at Festival House in Lenox, will have his seventh one-man show in New York City next winter. Other paintings of his are currently on show at the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield.

The five paintings on view at Tanglewood are "Double Portrait" (1955), "The Nixie" (1955), "Interior" (1955), "Skyline" (1957), and "Overlooking the City" (1957).

Future exhibits at Tanglewood will include a collection of photographs by Boston Symphony members taken on tour in Europe last fall (July 15-21); paintings by Maurice Gordon (July 22-28); paintings by Isabel Bishop (July 29-August 4); and prints by Picasso, lent by Robert Appleton of Albany (August 5-11).

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 15 1957

Orchestra Tour Photos Shown At Tanglewood

Photographs taken by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra during its recent tour of Europe will be exhibited in the glass reception room at Tanglewood through July 20. In addition to photographs by Roger Voisin, principal trumpet of the orchestra, Minot Beale, violinist, and Joseph Orosz, trombone, the showing will include pictures taken by J. Edward Fitzgerald, head of the United Press News Bureau of New England and official photographer for the tour.

The Boston Symphony's 1956 tour of Europe opened with a concert in Cork, Ireland on Aug. 24 and concluded with a concert in London on Sept. 24. The intervening month took the musicians with their music director, Charles Munch, and guest conductor Pierre Monteux, to 12 countries, where the orchestra played 28 concerts in 19 cities. The tour was made in co-operation with the International Exchange Program of the American National Theatre and Academy.

The first visit by an American orchestra to Leningrad and Moscow was recorded on film by the photographer, and pictures of these cities are included in the exhibition at Tanglewood, together with views of other stops along the tour, among which were the cities of Cork, Dublin, Edinburgh, Copenhagen, Oslo, Stockholm, Helsinki, Prague, Vienna, Stuttgart, Munich, Zurich, Berne, Pasis, Chartres, Leeds and London. The exhibit has been arranged by Karl Zeise of the Boston Symphony.

News (e)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Democratic
Circ. 95,535

JUL 15 1957

TANGLEWOOD SHOWS PICTURES OF TOUR

Photographs taken by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra during its recent tour of Europe will be exhibited in the Glass Reception Room at Tanglewood through Saturday. In addition to photographs by Roger Voisin, principal trumpet of the orchestra, Minot Beale, violinist, and Joseph Orosz, trombone, the showing will include pictures taken by J. Edward Fitzgerald, head of the United Press News Bureau of New England and official photographer for the tour.

The Boston Symphony's 1956 tour of Europe opened with a concert in Cork, Ire. on Aug. 24 and concluded with a concert in London on Sept. 24. The intervening month took the musicians with their music director, Charles Munch, and guest conductor Pierre Monteux, to 12 countries, where the orchestra played 28 concerts in 19 cities. The tour was made in co-operation with the International Exchange Program of the American National Theatre and Academy.

The first visit by an American orchestra to Leningrad and Moscow has been recorded on film by the photographers, and pictures of these cities will be included in the exhibition at Tanglewood, together with views of other stops along the tour, among which were the cities of Cork, Dublin, Edinburgh, Copenhagen, Oslo, Stockholm, Helsinki, Prague, Vienna, Stuttgart, Munich, Zurich, Berne, Paris, Chartres, Leeds and London. The exhibit has been arranged by Karl Zeise of the Boston Symphony.

It takes approximately seven years for cultured pearls to develop. They are made by introducing an irritant inside the shells of oysters.

, SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1957

SPRINGFIELD UNION, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Gordon Paintings At Tanglewood

Lenox, July 19—A group of paintings by Maurice Gordon are being exhibited in the glass reception room at Tanglewood for one week, starting July 22.

A native of Holyoke, Mr. Gordon studied painting in Italy and Paris and designed illustrations for Paris publications. He has been represented in more than half a dozen one man shows, most recently by an exhibition at the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield last June.

Future exhibitions at Tanglewood will include paintings by Isabel Bishop (week of July 29), and prints by Picasso, lent by Robert Appleton of Albany (week of August 5).

nance District, and Westover Air Force Base was approved by the Defense Department yesterday. The increase, to take effect Aug. 3, does not apply to white collar workers, the Pentagon said. The boost was approved by the Army-Air Force Wage Board. The pay raise is the result of a telephone survey of wages paid by private industries in the Springfield-Hartford labor market area. The survey was conducted by Armory, Westover, and SOD representatives as authorized by the Army-Air Force Wage Board.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 19 1957

Maurice Gordon Paintings Now At Tanglewood

A group of paintings by Maurice Gordon will be exhibited in the Glass Reception Room at Tanglewood for one week, starting Monday.

A native of Holyoke, Mr. Gordon studied painting in Italy and Paris and designed illustrations for Paris publications. He has been represented in more than half a dozen one man shows, most recently by an exhibition at the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield last June.

Future exhibitions at Tanglewood will include paintings by Isabel Bishop the week of July 29, and prints by Picasso, lent by Robert Appleton of Albany the week of Aug. 5.

C1127

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 8 - 1957

Tanglewood Tales

The guest composer-in-residence at Tanglewood this summer is Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University. Mr. Babbitt, a specialist in 12 tone technique, is also knowledgeable on the subject of jazz. He has written a considerable amount of chamber music, music for piano and vocal music. Some of his works will be heard at Tanglewood on August 6, and at a concert of modern chamber music sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation. Mr. Babbitt will also teach composition classes at the Music Center this summer and will participate in the seminar on contemporary music, a lecture series which is sponsored by the Fromm Foundation and which is open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

* * *

Registrar Edith Bossler reports that the first Music Center student to enroll since the opening of the school offices at Tanglewood was, appropriately, a Berkshire County resident, John A. Gouger, of Adams. Mr. Gouger, a tenor in the choral department, has been awarded a Berkshire County Scholarship for study at Tangelwood this summer. A number of such awards have been given to those who are especially active in the musical life of the county.

Tanglewood Tales

Two Berkshire Music Center alumni are appearing this summer as soloists at the premiere summer season of the Santa Fe Opera Company in Santa Fe, N.M. They are Regina Sarfaty '54-'56, mezzo-soprano, and Spelios Constantine '56, bass. Both were students in the opera department while at Tanglewood.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stensager of Montesano, Wash., are spending the summer in Lenox with their uncle, Professor James L. Adams of Cambridge and Lenox. Mr. and Mrs. Stensager are members of the Tanglewood Study Group.

* * *

Five married couples are spending the summer as students at the Music Center. They are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Dash of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marsh of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Meier of Zurich, Switzerland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marcus of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stensager of Montesano, Washington. Among the visiting Fromm Fellowship Players are two other couples, Mr. and Mrs. George Andrix of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Farr of New York City.

The Berkshire Eagle, Friday, July 12, 1957

Tanglewood Tales

Walter Lehmann of Glen Street, Williamstown, has been awarded a Berkshire County Scholarship for study at the Berkshire Music Center this summer. Mr. Lehmann, who studies orchestral conducting at the summer music school, is music director of the Pine Cobble School in Williamstown.

* * *

Harold Farberman, percussionist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has enrolled as a student of composition at the Berkshire Music Center. Mr. Farberman, who is studying with guest teacher Milton Babbitt, is the author of a Double Concerto for Single Trumpet, which was given its first performance recently by the Boston Pops Orchestra, with Armando Ghitalla as soloist.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 12 1957

Tanglewood Tales

Walter Lehmann of Glen Street, Williamstown, has been awarded a Berkshire County Scholarship for study at the Berkshire Music Center this summer. Mr. Lehmann, who studies orchestral conducting at the summer music school, is music director of the Pine Cobble School in Williamstown.

* * *

Harold Farberman, percussionist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has enrolled as a student of composition at the Berkshire Music Center. Mr. Farberman, who is studying with guest teacher Milton Babbitt, is the author of a Double Concerto for Single Trumpet, which was given its first performance recently by the Boston Pops Orchestra, with Armando Ghitalla as soloist.

The Berkshire Eagle, Friday, July 19, 1957

Tanglewood Tales

Students at the Berkshire Music Center have elected the following musicians to the school's student council: F. Robert Cole of Plainfield, N.J.; Alfred E. Troppet of Miami, Fla.; Karen Rask of Duanesburg, N.Y.; Marjorie Campagna-Pinto of Hingham; Gerald Weinburg of West Roxbury; Malcolm Peyton of Princeton, N.J.; Richard Hensel of Mt. Carroll, Ill.; Linda Lockwood of Westport, Conn.; Charles Hofmann of Ormand Beach, Fla.

C1127

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 8 - 1957

Tanglewood Tales

The guest composer-in-residence at Tanglewood this summer is Milton Babbitt, associate professor of music at Princeton University. Mr. Babbitt, a specialist in 12 tone technique, is also knowledgeable on the subject of jazz. He has written a considerable amount of chamber music, music for piano and vocal music. Some of his works will be heard at Tanglewood on August 6, and at a concert of modern chamber music sponsored by the Fromm Music Foundation. Mr. Babbitt will also teach composition classes at the Music Center this summer and will participate in the seminar on contemporary music, a lecture series which is sponsored by the Fromm Foundation and which is open to Friends of the Berkshire Music Center.

* * *

Registrar Edith Bossler reports that the first Music Center student to enroll since the opening of the school offices at Tanglewood was, appropriately, a Berkshire County resident, John A. Gouger, of Adams. Mr. Gouger, a tenor in the choral department, has been awarded a Berkshire County Scholarship for study at Tangelwood this summer. A number of such awards have been given to those who are especially active in the musical life of the county.

The Berkshire Eagle, Friday, [illegible]

Tanglewood Tales

Students at the Berkshire Music Center have elected the following musicians to the school's student council: F. Robert Cole of Plainfield, N.J.; Alfred E. Troppet of Miami, Fla.; Karen Rask of Duanesburg, N.Y.; Marjorie Campagna-Pinto of Hingham; Gerald Weinburg of West Roxbury; Malcolm Peyton of Princeton, N.J.; Richard Hetsel of Mt. Carroll, Ill.; Linda Lockwood of Westport, Conn.; Charles Hofmann of Ormand Beach, Fla.

Tanglewood Tales

Two Berkshire Music Center alumni are appearing this summer as soloists at the premiere summer season of the Santa Fe Opera Company in Santa Fe, N.M. They are Regina Sarfaty '54-'56, mezzo-soprano, and Spelios Constantine '56, bass. Both were students in the opera department while at Tanglewood.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stensager of Montesano, Wash., are spending the summer in Lenox with their uncle, Professor James L. Adams of Cambridge and Lenox. Mr. and Mrs. Stensager are members of the Tanglewood Study Group.

* * *

Five married couples are spending the summer as students at the Music Center. They are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Dash of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marsh of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Meier of Zurich, Switzerland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marcus of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stensager of Montesano, Washington. Among the visiting Fromm Fellowship Players are two other couples, Mr. and Mrs. George Andrix of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Farr of New York City.

Tanglewood Tales

Walter Lehmann of Glen Street, Williamstown, has been awarded a Berkshire County Scholarship for study at the Berkshire Music Center this summer. Mr. Lehmann, who studies orchestral conducting at the summer music school, is music director of the Pine Cobble School in Williamstown.

* * *

Harold Farberman, percussionist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has enrolled as a student of composition at the Berkshire Music Center. Mr. Farberman, who is studying with guest teacher Milton Babbitt, is the author of a Double Concerto for Single Trumpet, which was given its first performance recently by the Boston Pops Orchestra, with Armando Ghitalla as soloist.

—The Berkshire Eagle, Friday, July 12, 1957

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 12 1957

Tanglewood Tales

Walter Lehmann of Glen Street, Williamstown, has been awarded a Berkshire County Scholarship for study at the Berkshire Music Center this summer. Mr. Lehmann, who studies orchestral conducting at the summer music school, is music director of the Pine Cobble School in Williamstown.

* * *

Harold Farberman, percussionist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has enrolled as a student of composition at the Berkshire Music Center. Mr. Farberman, who is studying with guest teacher Milton Babbitt, is the author of a Double Concerto for Single Trumpet, which was given its first performance recently by the Boston Pops Orchestra, with Armando Ghitalla as soloist.

TIGHT BINDING

The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, July 20, 1957—9

...a Boxholders Listed ...r Berkshire Festival

...LEWOOD — Many Berk-...County residents are among ...ers for the Berkshire Festi-...ences this season at Tangle-...

...y boxholders are Alan J. ...and Dean H. Rice of Pittsfield, ...e B. Anderson of Housatonic, ...William Felton Barrett, Fred-...ck Berncke, Mrs. Milton C. ...and Robert K. Wheeler of ...Barrington, James Phinney ...III, Philip Marshall Brown ...Mrs. Julian Sprague of Wil-...town, Miss Mabel Choate ...Charles C. Griswold, Walter ...Mrs. Rodney Procter and ...H. Ryan of Stockbridge, ...Mrs. Bruce Crane and Mrs. ...ump M. Crane Jr. of Dalton, ...Gunn of West Stockbridge, ...Milton J. Heller, George K. ...Moore, Mrs. Bruce W. San-...Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. ...Rhodes and Mrs. Edgar ...of Lenox, Miss Gertrude ...South of Glendale.

...ers include George E. Judd of Cannonsville, N.Y., retired manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; John S. Williams of Old Chatham, N.Y., Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield of Marblehead, Mrs. Lowell Thomas of Pawling, N.Y., S. L. Eisenbergs of Troy, N.Y., Mrs. Alfred G. Kay of Chester, N.J., and Palm Beach, Fla., Frank W. McCabe of Rensselaer, N.Y., and Paul Porzelt of New York and Sharon, Conn.

Here This Weekend

Among those at Tanglewood this weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Kaplan, E. Morton Jennings and Edward A. Taft of Boston, trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Mrs. F. S. Crofts of Stamford, Conn., who will meet with students who have been awarded the composition scholarships given in her name to the Berkshire Music Center; and Nikolai Lopatnikoff, professor of music at Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, who is spending the summer at the MacDowell Colony, Peterborough, N.H.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 22 1957

Three Local Residents Tanglewood Boxholders

Three Williamstown residents are among the Berkshire county boxholders for the 1957 Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood this season. They are James Phinney Baxter III, Philip Marshall Brown and Mrs. Julian K. Sprague.

Eagle, Tuesday, July 16, 1957—

Tanglewood Instructor First Church Soloist

GREAT BARRINGTON — Arthur Schoep, assistant to Boris Goldowsky in the Berkshire Music Center's opera department at Tanglewood, will sing at the 10:30 service Sunday morning at the First Congregational Church.

Appearing for the second year at the church, the tenor will present two of Dvorak's sacred songs.

Wilton Bulletin
WILTON, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,804

JUL 17 1957

Tanglewood Tickets On Sale in Lenox

Tickets for the 1957 Berkshire Festival Season of 24 concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office which is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Shed concerts are: boxes (seating six) $6.50; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear section, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50. Six Wednesday evening chamber music concerts will be held during the Festival Season, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3.00 and $2.00.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt: checks and money orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc. and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return to tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Detailed programs and a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Ridgefield Press
RIDGEFIELD, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,988

JUL 16 1957

Tanglewood Tickets On Sale in Lenox

Tickets for the 1957 Berkshire Festival Season of 24 concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office which is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Shed concerts are: boxes (seating six) $6.50; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear section, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50. Six Wednesday evening chamber music concerts will be held during the Festival Season, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3.00 and $2.00.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt: checks and money orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc. and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return to tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Hotel & Rest. News
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly

JUL 20 1957

[113]

Elm Court Opens For 10th Season; Wood Now Mgr.

Lenox, Mass.—David H. Wood, newly appointed manager of the Elm Court, announced that the hotel has opened for its 10th season. For the past four years, Mr. Wood has been assistant manager.

The dining rooms of the Elm Court will be open to the public again, with John F. Nesbit as head waiter, and Stanton Roberts as chef. Mrs. Dorothy Crawford is returning for her 10th year as housekeeper.

Already many noted guests have made reservations at the hotel for the music festivals that will take place in Western Massachusetts. Among them are Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Carl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux, conductors at Tanglewood; Isaac Stern, a soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra; and Alicia Markova, who will appear at Jacobs Pillow season.

Berkshire Eagle, Thursday, July 11, 1957—

Hugh Rosses Have a Son

A son, David, their first child, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross of New York City Tuesday at Polyclinic Hospital, New York.

Mr. Ross is conductor of the Schola Cantorum of New York and the St. Cecilia Club, head of the choral and music history departments at the Manhattan School of Music, and choral director of the Berkshire Music Center. Tomorrow night, Mr. Ross will conduct members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Festival Chorus and soloists, in the first of three Mozart concerts to be presented at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood.

THE NEW YORK TIMES,
...DAY, JULY 10, ...y 7.

...Hugh Ross H... Son
...son was born ... at ...
...Roosevelt or Polyclini... Hos. ...
...Mr. and Mrs. Hugh ... Ross ...
...child will be named ... Mr. ...
Ross is director of the Schola Cantorum and a faculty member of the Berkshire Music Center and the Manhattan School of Music.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 21 1957
Dalton

Kathryn Rector Church Soloist

DALTON — Kathryn Rector, soprano, will be soloist at the First Congregational Church tomorrow. Mrs. Rector comes to the Berkshires each summer accompanying her husband, Gail W. Rector, assistant manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Their home is in Auburndale. Mrs. Rector sings in the choir of the First Congregational Church of Wellesley Hills.

Her solos will be "How Lovely Are the Dwellings" by Liddle and "Thy Mercy, Oh Lord, Is in the Heavens" by LaForge.

Courant (m)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 97,224

JUL 12 1957

Music Center Will Take Pupils To Tanglewood

The West Hartford Summer Music Center now ending its third week, will go to the Berkshire Music Center of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Saturday, July 20. The caravan of buses and autos will leave Webster Hill School at 7:45 a.m.

The boys and girls at the music center, together with their parents and friends, will attend a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under its conductor, Charles Munch. After a picnic lunch at the grounds, they will return, arriving at Webster Hill School about 4 p.m.

The center is also planning a picnic and recreation program Wednesday afternoon, featuring a faculty-student softball game, races, and a student circus. The program will end at 2 p.m.

Today at 10:45 a.m. the third weekly assembly program will be presented in the Webster Hill Auditorium. The public is invited to attend. There is no admission.

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUL 14 1957

YWCA PLANS TRIP TO TANGLEWOOD

The YWCA will sponsor a trip to Tanglewood, Lenox, on Sunday, July 21. A bus will leave the YWCA, 26 Howard St. at 11 a. m.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch, with Pierre Monteux, guest conductor. An all Tchaikovsky program, with Isaac Stern, violin soloist.

The bus will arrive at Tanglewood in time for lunch and a tour of the grounds.

Reservations may be made by calling the YWCA, by July 17.

Florence Dunn Church Organist

DALTON — Miss Florence A. Dunn will be guest organist at the First Congregational Church for the next two Sundays while Miss Margaret Reade Martin is on vacation. Miss Dunn, a native of Williamstown, is assistant to the head of the study group at Tanglewood, a position she has held for the past six summers.

At the age of 12, Miss Dunn was organist at the Second Congregational Church of Williamstown. She was also a member of the Berkshire Choral Society and for several years was accompanist for that group.

Voice Teacher

She graduated from Larson Junior College in New Haven and from the Boston Conservatory of Music where she is now a voice teacher. She is a member of the Trinity Church professional choir and is accompanist for the Cecilia Society and Appollo Club in Boston. She will play for the prelude, "Vision," by Rheinburger, and the postlude, "Now Thank We All Our God," by Karg-Elert. She also will accompany John Hornor, guest soloist, who will sing "The Lord is my Shepherd" and "I Will Sing New Songs of Gladness" by Dvorak.

Mr. Hornor, baritone, is in the opera department at Tanglewood. He is a graduate of Williams College where he majored in music. He is continuing his studies in Boston. While at Williams Mr. Hornor appeared with the glee club as featured soloist. He has been soloist with the Berkshire Choral Society on several occasions.

The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, July 27, 1957—11

Fernand Gratons Soloists Tomorrow At Notre Dame

Tomorrow morning at Notre Dame Church, Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Graton will be guest soloists at the 10 and 11 o'clock Masses. They will perform works of Bach, Widor, Couperin and personal compositions of Mr. Graton.

Mr. and Mrs. Graton were born in Montreal, Canada. Mrs. Graton was awarded the Prix d'Europe in 1941, which gave her the opportunity to study with Gaston Dethier and Joseph Bonnet at the Juilliard School of Music. Mrs. Graton is organist at the church of St. Joseph de Ville in Mont-Royal, Canada. She is also professor at the College de St. Laurent in Montreal. Mrs. Graton has often been heard at emissions on Radio Canada and has given many concerts in the province of Quebec.

Mr. Graton, apart from being an organist and composer, teaches at the Faculte de Musique at Laval University and at the College de St. Laurent in Montreal. He has appeared in many emissions on radio and television in Canada. In 1945 he instituted the Orchestra Symphonique des Jeunes de Montreal, being its regular conductor. In 1949 and 1950, he studied at the National Orchestra Assn. of New York with Leon Barzin.

Have Two Children

Mr. and Mrs. Graton have two children, a girl, 4, and a boy, 6. The family is spending the summer at Tanglewood, where Mr. Graton is studying conducting under Eleazar de Carvalho. Mr. Graton recently directed a symphonic concert at Tanglewood and will give other performances before the end of the festival. It is his second season at Tanglewood.

The Gratons will be guests of the pastor, the Rev. Albert T. Beaudry, at a dinner in the rectory of Notre Dame, following the 11 o'clock Mass. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Bissaillon will also be guests.

The public is invited to attend either Mass.

Notes and Footnotes

TOP BILLING: You can always spot the person about to have his first cultural experience, like at Jacob's Pillow, Tanglewood, or Mount Mountain. He has a drawn look.... Sheffield Plastics Inc. has a big manufacturing ace in the hole over eighteen high freight rates in New England. Their product so low in weight that shipping costs are a painful part of the overhead

EAGLE
July 19, 1957

Notes and Footnotes

END RESULTS: Folks who shun Tanglewood student orchestra concerts, thinking them "amateur," missing a good bet. Last night's Department I musicians filled Shed with beautiful music which to average listeners measured up well with Boston Orchestra concerts

JULY 30, 1957
SPRINGFIELD UNION.

Berkshire Week End

Twenty-five members of the Quota Club of Springfield spent the past week end in the Berkshires. On Saturday morning they attended a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood; had lunch at the Rose Guest House in Stockbridge at noon, and in the afternoon attended a matinee performance of "Time Limit" starring William Roerick and Tom Coley, at the Berkshire Playhouse. The outing was held in lieu of a regular meeting.

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012

JUL 13 1957

Music Center Pupils To Visit Symphony

West Hartford's Summer Music Center, now ending its third week, is planning a trip to the famous Berkshire Music Center of the Boston Symphony orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

A caravan of busses and autos will leave the Webster Hill School at 7:45 a. m. July 20. Boys and girls of the local music center with their parents will attend a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony under its conductor, Charles Munch.

Eagle, Saturday, July 27, 1957—

Nancy Williams To Sing at First Church

Nancy Lee Williams will be guest soloist at the First Church of Christ Congregational tomorrow. At the morning service, Miss Williams will sing "The Call" by Vaughn Williams and "Prayer" by Guion.

Miss Williams, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., is a second year student in the opera department at Tanglewood. She is also a member of the Pittsburgh Young Friends of Music, a concert group which will tour colleges in the East this coming season.

This past spring Miss Williams had the role of Charlotte in "Werthen," when it was presented in New York. She has been concert soloist with such organizations as the Mendelssohn Choir, the Pittsburgh Concert Choir and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

TIGHT BINDING

[113]

The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, July 20, 1957—9

ea Boxholders Listed r Berkshire Festival

LENOX — Many Berk- County residents are among ders for the Berkshire Festi- certs this season at Tangle-ty boxholders are Alan J. and John H. Rice of Pittsfield, r R. Anderson of Housatonic, William Felton Barrett, Fred- W. Beinecke, Mrs. Milton C. and Robert K. Wheeler of Barrington, James Phinney r III, Philip Marshall Brown Mrs. Julian Sprague of Wil- town. Miss Mabel Choate, Charles C. Griswold, Walter Mrs. Rodney Procter and n H. Ryan of Stockbridge. n, Mrs. Bruce Crane and Mrs. rge M. Crane Jr. of Dalton, er Gunn of West Stockbridge, Milton J. Heller, George K. rmore, Mrs. Bruce W. San- Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. ed Rhoades and Mrs. Edgar ern of Lenox, Miss Gertrude nson Smith of Glendale. bers include George E. Judd of Cannonsville, N.Y., retired manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; John S. Williams of Old Chatham, N.Y., Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield of Marblehead, Mrs. Lowell Thomas of Pawling, N.Y., S. L. Eisenbergs of Troy, N.Y., Mrs. Alfred G. Kay of Chester, N.J., and Palm Beach, Fla., Frank W. McCabe of Rensselaer, N.Y., and Paul Porzelt of New York and Sharon, Conn.

Here This Weekend

Among those at Tanglewood this weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Kaplan, E. Morton Jennings and Edward A. Taft of Boston, trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Mrs. F. S. Crofts of Stamford, Conn., who will meet with students who have been awarded the composition scholarships given in her name to the Berkshire Music Center; and Nikolai Lopatnikoff, professor of music at Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, who is spending the summer at the MacDowell Colony, Peterborough, N.H.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 22 1957

Three Local Residents Tanglewood Boxholders

Three Williamstown residents are among the Berkshire county boxholders for the 1957 Berkshire Festival concerts at Tanglewood this season. They are James Phinney Baxter III, Philip Marshall Brown and Mrs. Julian K. Sprague.

Eagle, Tuesday, July 16, 1957—

Tanglewood Instructor First Church Soloist

GREAT BARRINGTON — Arthur Schoep, assistant to Boris Goldowsky in the Berkshire Music Center's opera department at Tanglewood, will sing at the 10:30 service Sunday morning at the First Congregational Church.

Appearing for the second year at the church, the tenor will present two of Dvorak's sacred songs.

Wilton Bulletin
WILTON, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,804

JUL 17 1957

Tanglewood Tickets On Sale in Lenox

Tickets for the 1957 Berkshire Festival Season of 24 concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office which is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Single tickets for the 11 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Shed concerts are: boxes (seating six) $6.50; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear section, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50. Six Wednesday evening chamber music concerts will be held during the Festival Season, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3.00 and $2.00.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt; checks and money orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc. and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return to tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Detailed programs and a complete list of student concerts open to members of the Friends of the Berkshire Music Center may be obtained by writing to the Berkshire Festival, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Ridgefield Press
RIDGEFIELD, Conn.
Weekly Non-Partisan
Circ. 1,988

JUL 18 1957

Tanglewood Tickets On Sale in Lenox

Tickets for the 1957 Berkshire Festival Season of 24 concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, music director, are now on sale at the box office which is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Main Gate of Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

Single tickets for the 12 Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Shed concerts are: boxes (seating six) $6.50; front sections, center $5.50; front sections, sides $4.00; rear section, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50. Six Wednesday evening chamber music concerts will be held during the Festival Season, the net proceeds going to the Tanglewood Revolving Scholarship Fund of the Berkshire Music Center. Tickets for these concerts are $3.00 and $2.00.

Mail orders for single concerts are filled on receipt; checks and money orders should be made payable to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Inc. and accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope for return to tickets. Telephone orders are accepted at Lenox 600.

Hotel & Rest. News
BOSTON, Mass.
Weekly

JUL 20 1957

Elm Court Opens For 10th Season; Wood Now Mgr.

Lenox, Mass.—David H. Wood, newly appointed manager of the Elm Court, announced that the hotel has opened for its 10th season. For the past four years, Mr. Wood has been assistant manager.

The dining rooms of the Elm Court will be open to the public again, with John F. Nesbit as head waiter, and Stanton Roberts as chef. Mrs. Dorothy Crawford is returning for her 10th year as housekeeper.

Already many [illegible] guests have made reservations [illegible] for the music festivals that will take place in Western Massachusetts. Among them are Dr. Charles Munch, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Karl Schuricht and Pierre Monteux, conductors at Tanglewood; Isaac Stern, a soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra; and Alicia Markova, who will appear at Jacobs Pillow this season.

Berkshire Eagle, Thursday, July 11, 1957—

Hugh Rosses Have a Son

A son, David, their first child, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross of New York City Tuesday at Polyclinic Hospital, New York.

Mr. Ross is conductor of the Schola Cantorum of New York and the St. Cecilia Club, head of the choral and music history departments at the Manhattan School of Music, and choral director of the Berkshire Music Center. Tomorrow night, Mr. Ross will conduct members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Festival Chorus and soloists, in the first of three Mozart concerts to be presented at the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood.

THE NEW YORK TIMES,
[illegible] 10, [illegible] 7.

[illegible] Ross H[illegible] Son

[illegible] born [illegible] ter do[illegible] ... Polyclini[illegible]ital, its ... Mr. and Mrs. Hugh [illegible]ss. The child will be named [illegible]vid. Mr. Ross is director of the Schola Cantorum and a faculty member of the Berkshire Music Center and the Manhattan School of Music.

Berkshire Eagle (e)
PITTSFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 28,235

JUL 21 1957
Dalton

Kathryn Rector Church Soloist

DALTON — Kathryn Rector, soprano, will be soloist at the First Congregational Church tomorrow. Mrs. Rector comes to the Berkshires each summer accompanying her husband, Gail W. Rector, assistant manager of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Their home is in Auburndale. Mrs. Rector sings in the choir of the First Congregational Church of Wellesley Hills.

Her solos will be "How Lovely Are the Dwellings" by Liddle and "Thy Mercy, Oh Lord, Is in the Heavens" by LaForge.

EAGLE
July 19, 1957

Notes and Footnotes

END RESULTS: Folks who shun Tanglewood student orchestra concerts, thinking them "amateur," missing a good bet. Last night's Department I musicians filled Shed with beautiful music which to average listeners measured up well with Boston Orchestra concerts

JULY 30, 1957
SPRINGFIELD UNION.

Berkshire Week End

Twenty-five members of the Quota Club of Springfield spent the past week end in the Berkshires. On Saturday morning they attended a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood; had lunch at the Rose Guest House in Stockbridge at noon, and in the afternoon attended a matinee performance of "Time Limit" starring William Roerick and Tom Coley, at the Berkshire Playhouse. The outing was held in lieu of a regular meeting.

Courant (m)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Republican
Circ. 97,224

JUL 12 1957

Music Center Will Take Pupils To Tanglewood

The West Hartford Summer Music Center now ending its third week, will go to the Berkshire Music Center of the Boston Symphony Orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., Saturday, July 20. The caravan of buses and autos will leave Webster Hill School at 7:45 a.m.

The boys and girls at the music center, together with their parents and friends, will attend a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under its conductor, Charles Munch. After a picnic lunch at the grounds, they will return, arriving at Webster Hill School about 4 p.m.

The center is also planning a picnic and recreation program Wednesday afternoon, featuring a faculty-student softball game, races, and a student circus. The program will end at 2 p.m.

Today at 10:45 a.m. the third weekly assembly program will be presented in the Webster Hill Auditorium. The public is invited to attend. There is no admission.

Times (e)
HARTFORD, Conn.
Independent Democrat
Circ. 116,012

JUL 13 1957

Music Center Pupils To Visit Symphony

West Hartford's Summer Music Center, now ending its third week, is planning a trip to the famous Berkshire Music Center of the Boston Symphony orchestra at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass.

A caravan of busses and autos will leave the Webster Hill School at 7:45 a. m. July 20. Boys and girls of the local music center with their parents will attend a rehearsal of the Boston Symphony under its conductor, Charles Munch.

Sunday Republican
SPRINGFIELD, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 111,788

JUL 14 1957

YWCA PLANS TRIP TO TANGLEWOOD

The YWCA will sponsor a trip to Tanglewood, Lenox, on Sunday, July 21. A bus will leave the YWCA, 26 Howard St. at 11 a. m.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will be conducted by Charles Munch, with Pierre Monteux, guest conductor, in all Tchaikovsky program, with Isaac Stern, violin soloist.

The bus will arrive at Tanglewood in time for lunch and a tour of the grounds.

Reservations may be made by calling the YWCA by July 17.

Florence Dunn Church Organist

DALTON — Miss Florence A. Dunn will be guest organist at the First Congregational Church for the next two Sundays while Miss Margaret Reade Martin is on vacation. Miss Dunn, a native of Williamstown, is assistant to the head of the study group at Tanglewood, a position she has held for the past six summers.

At the age of 12, Miss Dunn was organist at the Second Congregational Church of Williamstown. She was also a member of the Berkshire Choral Society and for several years was accompanist for that group.

Voice Teacher

She graduated from Larson Junior College in New Haven and from the Boston Conservatory of Music where she is now a voice teacher. She is a member of the Trinity Church professional choir and is accompanist for the Cecilia Society and Appollo Club in Boston. She will play for the prelude, "Vision," by Rheinburger, and the postlude, "Now Thank We All Our God," by Karg-Elert. She also will accompany John Hornor, guest soloist, who will sing "The Lord is my Shepherd" and "I Will Sing New Songs of Gladness" by Dvorak.

Mr. Hornor, baritone, is in the opera department at Tanglewood. He is a graduate of Williams College where he majored in music. He is continuing his studies in Boston. While at Williams Mr. Hornor appeared with the glee club as featured soloist. He has been soloist with the Berkshire Choral Society on several occasions.

Fernand Gratons Soloists Tomorrow At Notre Dame

Tomorrow morning at Notre Dame Church, Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Graton will be guest soloists at the 10 and 11 o'clock Masses. They will perform works of Bach, Widor, Couperin and personal compositions of Mr. Graton.

Mr. and Mrs. Graton were born in Montreal, Canada. Mrs. Graton was awarded the Prix d'Europe in 1941, which gave her the opportunity to study with Gaston Dethier and Joseph Bonnet at the Juilliard School of Music. Mrs. Graton is organist at the church of St. Joseph de Ville in Mont-Royal, Canada. She is also professor at the College de St. Laurent in Montreal. Mrs. Graton has often been heard at emissions on Radio Canada and has given many concerts in the province of Quebec.

Mr. Graton, apart from being an organist and composer, teaches at the Faculte de Musique at Laval University and at the College de St. Laurent in Montreal. He has appeared in many emissions on radio and television in Canada. In 1945 he instituted the Orchestra Symphonique des Jeunes de Montreal, being its regular conductor. In 1949 and 1950, he studied at the National Orchestra Assn. of New York with Leon Barzin.

Have Two Children

Mr. and Mrs. Graton have two children, a girl, 4, and a boy, 6. The family is spending the summer at Tanglewood, where Mr. Graton is studying conducting under Eleazar de Carvalho. Mr. Graton recently directed a symphonic concert at Tanglewood and will give other performances before the end of the festival. It is his second season at Tanglewood.

The Gratons will be guests of the pastor, the Rev. Albert T. Beaudry, at a dinner in the rectory of Notre Dame, following the 11 o'clock Mass. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Bissaillon will also be guests.

The public is invited to attend either Mass.

The Berkshire Eagle, Saturday, July 27, 1957—11

Eagle, Saturday, July 27, 1957—

Nancy Williams To Sing at First Church

Nancy Lee Williams will be guest soloist at the First Church of Christ Congregational tomorrow. At the morning service, Miss Williams will sing "The Call" by Vaughn Williams and "Prayer" by Guion.

Miss Williams, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., is a second year student in the opera department at Tanglewood. She is also a member of the Pittsburgh Young Friends of Music, a concert group which will tour colleges in the East this coming season.

This past spring Miss Williams had the role of Charlotte in "Werther," when it was presented in New York. She has been concert soloist with such organizations as the Mendelssohn Choir, the Pittsburgh Concert Choir and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

Notes and Footnotes

TOP BILLING: You can always spot the person about to have his first cultural experience, like at Jacob's Pillow, Tanglewood, or Mount Mountain. He has a drawn look. . . . Sheffield Plastics Inc. has a big manufacturing ace in the hole that [illegible] high freight rates in New England. Their product so light in weight that shipping costs are a painful part of the overhead

E1143

THE KANSAS CITY STAR.

TANGLEWOOD IS A LURE

FIVE KANSAS, MISSOURI STUDENTS THERE.

Knowledge and Inspiration About Music Are Rewards of the Talented Youngsters.

By Joseph Kaye.

Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., July 15.—This is another report on those dedicated young people from the Missouri-Kansas area who come to Tanglewood to prepare themselves further to serve the good cause of music in America. As part of the music festival in the Berkshire hills here, conducted by the Boston Symphony orchestra each summer, there is the Berkshire Music center, a school for the country's outstanding young talents.

Students from 35 states and from 18 foreign countries are enrolled this year. They come from as far off as India, Korea and the Netherlands Antilles. Many of them are on scholarships.

Five From This Area.

Five Missouri-Kansas students are here. A Kansas Citian is Albertine Baumgartner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Baumgartner, 5601 Lydia avenue, an attractive and intense girl who intends to be a concert pianist. At 15 she played with the Kansas City Philharmonic under Hans Schwieger, and lately she has been studying at the David Mannes school in New York. It was this conservatory that recommended her for an audition by Ralph Berkowitz, dean of the Berkshire Music center. She has one more year to go at the Mannes school. The will to master and achieve that is so much a part of Tanglewood is unmistakably expressed in her eyes.

Two States Represented.

The other students are Linda Barrington, 1305 University avenue, Wichita, Kas.; Geraldine Riggs, 1310 North Topeka, El Dorado, Kas.; Sally Berger, 103 Lake Forest, St. Louis, and Eugene Wade, Mayfield, Kas.

Miss Barrington's mother, Mrs. Lester M. Barrington, teaches piano and her father is a high school science teacher. She studied piano in her early years but became enchanted with the violin when she heard an orchestra and pestered her mother into allowing her to change to the instrument of her heart.

Geraldine Riggs is here for a second term. The cello is her instrument but she is also a pianist. Her father, Carl C. Riggs, teaches education at Junior college. All her four sisters play the piano, though not professionally. She is busy here performing with chamber groups and with the big student orchestra. Miss Briggs hopes to be a concert artist but is convinced there

FIVE MUSIC STUDENTS from Missouri and Kansas are studying this summer at the Berkshire Music center, Lenox, Mass., which began its sessions last weekend. Standing, left to right, are Linda Barrington, violinist, Wichita, Kas.; Eugene Wade, French horn, Mayfield, Kas., and Geraldine Riggs, cellist, El Dorado, Kas. Seated are Albertine Baumgartner (left), pianist, Kansas City, and Sally Berger (right), pianist, St. Louis.

Transcript (e)
NORTH ADAMS, Mass.
Independent
Circ. 13,541

JUL 19 1957

Eagle Pittsfield, Massachusetts, Tuesday, July 16, 1957

Clark

STUDENT CONDUCTORS from three foreign nations who will direct the Tanglewood choir at its first concert tonight at 8:30 in the Theater-Concert Hall are, left to right, Arpad Darazs of Budapest, Hungary; Abraham Kaplan of Tel Aviv, Israel; Lajos Toth of Budapest and Eric Ericson of Stockholm, Sweden.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
STAR
Circ. D. 344,297 - S. 361,728

JUN 30 1957

Youths Win Scholarships To Ted Mack Music Camp

Two young Kansas City student musicians, Leslie R. Tucker, 16, and Harry L. Vail, 17, have been awarded DeMolay scholarships to study music at the Ted Mack camp on Lake Buel in Great Barrington, Mass., 125 miles north of New York City. The awards were announced by Frank S. Land, founder and secretary general of the Order of DeMolay. Both boys are DeMolays.

Leslie R. Tucker. Harry L. Vail.

Tucker, who plays trumpet, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Tucker, 1216 East Forty-third terrace, North Kansas City, and Vail, who plays clarinet and saxophone, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Vail, 5432 Locust street.

